Realizing they could do little, the ride operators called the Belleville Fire Department, who rescued the passengers in short order by means of an aerial ladder.

There were no injuries to the passengers although one complained of his "noses knocking together," They were trapped at the top for over an hour.

Rescue on the Way!

Belleville and District Obituaries and Funerals

MRS. PHILIP RICKARD

Wife of the recently-appointed administrator of the Belleville General Hospital, Mrs. Philip (Oonagh) Rickard, died suddenly yesterday at her home, 75 Victoria Avenue.

In her 57th year, she was stricken with a heart attack sometime during the afternoon and died shortly afterwards.

Mrs. Rickard had only been in Belleville three months — her husband was appointed May 1st — and came here from Port Arthur.

She was a member of St Michael's Church.

Mrs. Rickard was born in Belfast, Ireland, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cleary.

Besides her husband, she is immediately survived by two daughters — Mrs. Peter (Averil) Dykeman, of Farnham, England, and Mrs. James (Siobhan) Arnot, of Port Arthur.

Also surviving are a brother, Vincent Cleary, of England, and four sisters in Ireland — Maeve, Rosa, Noella and Lucy.

Resting at the O'Brien-Hall-ledge Funeral Home, with Requiem Mass at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Michael's.

EVERETT H. BLACK

The funeral for Everett H. Black was held from the Grant Funeral Home on Friday afternoon before an assembly of sportsmen, businessmen and community leaders. Archdeacon A. S. McCombe conducted the service.

William Riley, president of the Quinte Curling Club, past presidents, directors and members of the club formed a guard of honor at the Funeral Home and graveside in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Wilbur Fox, John Parrott, Robert Bastable, John Woodcraft, Henry Lafferty and John Black.

HAROLD WILLIAM BARNHARDT
(Deseronto)

The funeral for Harold William Barnhardt, 7, was held Friday. He rested at the White and Morris Funeral Home, Deseronto, thence to the Mohawk Pentecostal Church on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Fred Festers.

Harold was killed on Wednesday evening, August 16th, having been struck by the eastbound C.N.R. train at the overpass of highway No. 2 at Napanee. Harold was born and educated on the Reserve.

His parents were Charles Robert Barnhardt and Marlene Scero of the Airport Road, Deseronto. He is also survived by brothers George 11, Edward 8, Christopher 3, Ralph 2 and a sister Janice 9 years old.

The bearers were Lyon Maracle, Kevin Maracle, Jim Maracle, Karl Maracle.

Honorary pallbearers were Robert Davies, Danny Maracle, Charles Maracle, Peter Scero.

Interment was at the Mohawk Pentecostal Cemetery.

BLANCHE GERTRUDE SCRIVER
(Smithfield)

The funeral of Blanche Gertrude Scriver of Smithfield, fatally injured in an automobile accident near Frankford on August 15, was held Friday afternoon from the Weaver Funeral Home in Trenton where service was conducted by Mr. McClintock. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery at Smithfield.

The bearers were John Breese, George Gillings, George Wilson, David Griffith, Garnet Potter and Gary Pennington.

Miss Scriver was born at Belleville 16 years ago and was the daughter of Mrs. Hattie Scriver. She was a student at East Northumberland High School at Brighton.

SAMUEL EDGAR KELLY
(Bancroft)

Mr. Samuel Edgar Kelly of 43 Chemlauqhon St., in Bancroft was buried last Tuesday from the funeral chapel of the J. S. Hattin Funeral Home. Rev. S. Robbins officiated.

The bearers were Eddie Earle, Tom Tisdale, Lorne Davy, Sam Kerr, Albert Hayworth and Findlay Sutherland.

Mr. Kelly passed away last Wednesday in his 61st year. He was born in Bancroft to the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly and had been living at his last address for four years. He is survived by his wife, the former Ruby Peake.

He was educated in Bancroft and Saskatchewan and was undenominational.

Mr. Kelly is survived by his children, Mrs. Gary (Mavis) Musclow, Mrs. Murray (Joyce) Wilson, Mrs. Edward (Beverly) Palmateer all of Belleville, Mrs. Stead (Jean) Covert of Gilmour, Mrs. Gary (Sharon) Foster of Oshawa and Edgar Samuel Kelly at home.

He is also survived by his sisters, Mrs. Guy Kelly of Kelowna, B.C., Mrs. John (Lena) Mclain of Peterborough, Mrs. Adolph (Luella) Woodall of Canal Flats, B.C., and his brothers, Guy Kelly of Kelowna, Robert Kelly of Bancroft and Elmer Kelly.

MRS. GLADYS RATHBUN

The Beef and the Brawn

Bobby Hull, ace Chicago Hawks left winger and Big Island Hereford cattleman, lugs on junior bull which won him the grand championship at the Belleville Fair Friday.

Hullvue Hereford Winner

Bobby Hull and his Hullvue Farms Herefords of Big Island made an almost clean sweep of the Hereford show at Belleville Fair yesterday.

The Hull Herefords won both the female grand championship and the male counterpart and also won the reserve championship in both classes. Bobby showed but nine of the "apparently 200" Herefords at the Hullvue Farms.

While the Hawks hockey player almost swept the field in the Hereford class, it was strictly amateur competition in the Aberdeen Angus class.

Malcolm Bailey and son Ross of Uxbridge were the only contestants in the Aberdeen Angus class.

Bailey and son Ross swept all prizes.

But it was all old hat for the pettiors in the Angus class and veteran Uxbridge Angus breeder.

Mr. Bailey, who has been showing at Belleville fair since the 1930's has been a consistent winner down through the years.

He came down with his stock from Uxbridge and helped to install the animals in the cattle barns.

Then, when he saw there wasn't any competition in his class, he went back home — not even waiting for the judges.

His son Ross and helpers went through the motions in the show ring and without saying — took home all the prizes.

Shorthorns were also shown yesterday at Belleville Fair. Today the Quinte Beef Improvement Show is scheduled today followed by a steer auction.

Air Patrols Increasing

The Ontario Provincial Police are going to step up their aircraft patrol traffic enforcement program along some highway routes.

This is the story being told at the O.P.P. booth in the commercial building at Belleville Fair.

The booth, manned by local highway traffic officers, features enlarged colored transparencies hailing the story of highway traffic patrol by cruiser, motorcycle and by aircraft.

Officers say that aircraft patrol was doing much to reduce traffic accidents in critical areas and was expected to have a much wider application in the future.

Loyalist Teaching Staff Ready for First Semester

Loyalist College has now obtained almost all the teaching staff needed for its first year of operations.

College officials say while they do not anticipate a large student registration when Loyalist opens in September, the staff will be adequate for a much larger group.

One benefit of this will be "considerably more" individual attention for students attending the first courses offered by the new college of arts and applied technology.

Registrations will be accepted until all courses are filled.

Sections of the curriculum stimulating student interest include business and secretarial sciences, with an increasing number of applicants and the municipal administration course in assessment, filling out students from as far away as London, Ont.

The latest course announced is a one year certificate for industrial technicians leading toward employment in local plant expansion. About 25 students can be accommodated.

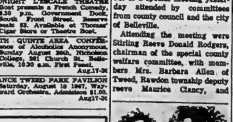
County-City Welfare System Will Be Proposed to Councils

A proposal for the establishment of a joint county - city welfare system will be presented to Hastings county council and to Belleville city council in September.



This was the decision coming out of a special meeting yesterday attended by committees from county council and the city of Belleville.

Attending the meeting were Stirling Reeve Donald Rodgers, chairman of the special county welfare committee, with members Mrs. Barbara Allen of Tweed, Hawkins township deputy reeve Maurice Clancy, and Limerick Reeve Merton Hamm with county clerk treasurer Carl Bateman as secretary.

City representatives included Mayor J. R. Ellis, and Alderman Dr. J. Russell Scott, Donald Williams, Enos David and Jack Deacon.

"I think definite progress toward a joint county - city welfare system was made and the proposal will be placed before the two council bodies in September," stated committee chairman Donald Rodgers.

At the last session of county council the report of the special committee on welfare was adopted with committee members being authorized to continue their investigations with the view of setting up a county or possibly area welfare administrative system.

Color Makes the Scene

People need more color in their lives. Color stimulates mind and spirit. That is why Expo is such a huge success. It is designed by designers of good taste and imagination. Nowhere on earth at the present time is there concentrated so much warm and exciting creativity as at Expo.

In the same vein consider two other examples of the role that color and similar stimuli play in our lives — and particularly in the lives of young people.

The new Thomas A. Stewart secondary school in Peterborough is one. The color scheme there has been described by one observer as "bright and even gaudy and wild in the Yorkville sense."

Principal James McNabb put it this way: "Where else can you come through a blue door and walk up orange stairs? All the doors and all the stairs are different colors in this school and I think it's great — and I think the students will think so too."

Yes, this is a trend that is certain to find favor. Perhaps it will create an element of distraction at first, but the students will quickly adapt to it and the color scheme will be taken more for granted. At the same time the atmosphere of brightness and pleasure created by the color scheme will impinge on the subconscious, to the undoubted benefit of the students. How much more acceptable is such a concept than the drab greys and browns of the schools of earlier generations.

The other example of what light and proper stimuli can mean to a child (and conversely how dangerous is deprivation of these elements) comes from Toronto.

A month ago, The Globe and Mail reports, a Toronto public relations man walked through rundown parts of the Dundas-Parliament area. "I really got a shock," Ben Holdsworth said. "I found some of the kids had never seen a subway, some of them didn't know what a real pig looked like, and others had heard of Centre Island but they didn't know what it was."

As a result Mr. Holdsworth's superior, catering specialist Don Wallery, organized visits to farms and to Centre Island with results that were an immediate success. The visits were supervised by volunteers of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, an organization established two years ago to encourage the 5,000 children of this underprivileged area.

Fresh air, introduction to the rural scene, visits to the ballet and to York University (where one group of youngsters learn photo developing), volleyball, baseball and choral singing. These are some of the excellent pursuits the Youth Corps is carrying out on behalf of these children. And all in the interests of promoting in young lives an appreciation of such essential elements as color.

The Long Hot Summer

For some reason long hot summers in North America are associated with violence. Just as when the moon is full there is a tendency toward untoward happenings at the human level.

Trouble when the moon is at its height is a phenomenon that has been recognized from early times. The word 'lunacy' stems from 'Luna' — the goddess, they say, the moonface of the moon. Only recently the police chief of Kitchener in his report noted that his men are always busy during this season of the year.

Whatever the cause Canada has been witness lately to some major tragedies resulting in violent death. There was the fatal shooting of a University of British Columbia lecturer and his wife in their back garden by a man almost all of whose family had been slain in Vancouver the other day, a prominent businessman was shot dead in his office. His brother has been charged with murder.

And in Saskatchewan, an intruder broke into a farm home and shot a farmer and his wife and nine of their ten children. The only consolation for the four-year-old girl who was untouched is that she has an elder sister, Mrs. Kathleen Hill, 21, living in Chetwynd, B. C. An aunt and uncle also live near the scene of the tragedy at Shell Lake.

In Quebec last week two teenage girls were shot dead while they slept at a cottage. And there have been other tragic deaths — like those of a ten-year-old girl in P--tish Columbia and two 19-year-old girls in Montana. All three died in separate attacks by beans. And there has been racial trouble in the United States, stemming from the frustration and aimlessness of life in Negro ghettos.

All in all it has been a long hot summer of unrest — for reasons that cannot be fully explained and which belong to strange and sinister realms outside the full understanding of mortal man.

Ottawa Offbeat

Once Upon A Time A Man Called de Gaulle...

By GREG CONNOLLEY

OTTAWA (CP) — "Amid the universal pageantry of a full military salute, General Charles de Gaulle, President of the Republic of France, will arrive in Quebec City on Sunday, July 23, to begin a five-day visit to Canada during Centennial Year."

This was the opening paragraph in an official government release from Ottawa prior to the arrival of General de Gaulle a month ago.

Although a lot of infighting had been going on between the Quebec and Ottawa governments, they were preserving a more or less surface amity. And people said it was going to be just a grand visit by the president.

Then the federal statement went on to advise that when de Gaulle arrived at "Historic Wolfe's Cove" — (cove one of the Anglos!) — the president would be officially welcomed by Governor-General Michener.

Mr. Michener of course, did his best. He had a speech of welcome set as he opened his mouth de Gaulle whisked him right over his head and drowned out much of his address — score one for the Quebecois.

"As part of the official welcoming ceremony, General de Gaulle will receive a 19-gun salute, a fly-past from the RCAF and a guard of honor from the Royal 22nd Regiment."

The Grand Charles did indeed get all that but the federals were robbed of a score in the love, demonstrating military might, and incidentally, really mooching the president with the Van Doos all decked up in British type uniforms.

The advance release said de Gaulle would be welcomed by a "distinguished assemblage of officials, both federal and provincial." Well, there was Mr. Michener, External Affairs minister Paul Martin, Premier Daniel Johnson and some others. It would be stretching things to say they glittered — let's say they glowered.

The next items on the program were strictly in the purview of the Quebec government and the Ottawa Advance statement of City Hall by Mayor Jean Drapeau. Following a short ceremony he (de Gaulle) will address the multitude."

There in those few curt sentences was the Anglo-Saxon flip dismissal of what was to be the de Gaulle bombshell. From Mayor Drapeau's balcony, the towering president was to shout out "Vive Quebec Libre."

Then Ottawa the bella rang. Prime Minister Pearson turned off the ball game on his TV set and called for the de Gaulle file. Defence officials took a second look at the French cruiser "Colbert" tied up in Canadian waters. External Affairs department officials toned their heads and shouted "no gracious me" and phrases like that.

By this time, if anyone has still been helping the score in the gamesmanship between Ottawa and Quebec — well the game is blazing with lights that say "tilted" and "out of order" and "foul."

The next few paragraphs of the federal official who produced that advance press release are certainly informative but not inspiring. They say simply that de Gaulle would go to Expo 67, visit the University of Montreal and the Montreal subway. And so he did.

He then — let's go on. The press statement advised that "General de Gaulle will travel to the Nation's Capital by train. On arrival in Ottawa he will go directly to Parliament Hill where he will be received by the Governor-General, Prime Minister Pearson, members of the cabinet and diplomatic corps at 5.45 p.m."

And how lovely it could have been too. Consider a second faithful civil servants drawn up on Parliament Hill. Mr. Pearson and General de Gaulle kissing one another on the cheek. Martial music and more Canadian soldiers in British type uniforms.

And that evening "General de Gaulle will be the guest of the Governor General at Rideau Hall at an official dinner." A magnificent scene no doubt, men an evening dress, beautiful women, champagne, innumerable toasts — what a night.

And so on, triumph after triumph until at last the president, to tumultous cheers and the farewells of official Ottawa, shouts out "Vive John Diefenbaker", and gets on his streetcar and departs.

But of course it couldn't have been that way in Ottawa after the "Quebec Libre" speech and Ottawa's solemn predemantion that de Gaulle's comments were not acceptable.

What would it have been like? "Governor-General Michener, Prime Minister Pearson, 4,000 RCAF and the regimental file Canadian army greeted General de Gaulle on his arrival at Parliament Hill today . . ."

And again — "Governor-General Michener entertained President de Gaulle at dinner last night as a howling mob of angry citizens hurled bottles and debris at Government House . . ."

And finally, perhaps it might have been — "President de Gaulle left Ottawa by aircraft tonight from Uplands Airport, which had been surrounded by police and military. The president's aircraft was being escorted over Canadian territory by RCAF fighters."

It all goes to prove that when those government chaps tackle a press release they ought to do so with care — it could be dynamite.

They Want Something For Nothing

Ottawa Journal

William Watson, writing in the Edinburgh Scotsman, declaims there's something rotten in the state of Scotland. A group of students bound for India in buses was disappointed that Scottish industry contributed only more than $240 towards the venture. Watson asks why industry or anyone else should foot this bill. He wonders how much would be missed if the students didn't go. It's the attitude of the students he finds rotten.

He concludes:

"You can't go around saying you are old enough to look after yourself, and demand a hand in the government of your own affairs, and at the same time ask to have your pocket money put up."

In Canada too we have comfortable young rebels, armchair adventurers who pout when the state they denounce fails to feed and shelter them. Scottish students going to India on foot instead of buses would deserve a cheer from the whole world. So would Canadian youngsters who did something more enterprising than dabbling their feet in the Mall fountains.

Teachers Can Boost Children's IQ

Globe and Mail

A United States researcher has disclosed what may be a very large block that teachers unconsciously throw in the way of their students. A preconceived notion that certain children are dull which, in fact, makes them dull.

Robert Rosenthal, a professor of social psychology at Harvard, started his experiments with researchers and rats. He found that the rats performed far better in tests when the researchers were told that they had been bred for intelligence, and very poorly when the researchers were told that they were dull.

Mr. Rosenthal, with the assistance of the principal of a San Francisco school, moved on to test the theory on children. The school had a three-stream system, for the dulls, the middles and the bright. Mr. Rosenthal conducted an IQ test which, again falsely, he told the teachers what would show which pupils were due to spurt ahead academically. The teachers were then given as the spurters the names of 20 per cent of the student body, randomly selected from all three streams.

A year later the children were tested again. The so-called spurters had indeed spurted, showing an average IQ gain of 12.22 points, compared with 8.42 for a control group representing the rest of the student body.

Quite clearly the teachers had somehow conveyed their expectations of improved performance to the selected children, and the children, like the rats had responded. Sadly, they responded most spectacularly in the first two grades, with gains of 27.4 in Grade 1 and 16.5 in Grade 2; and only slight gains in later grades. It seemed to indicate that when a teacher conveyed to a child the message, you are dull, during the first, formative years, it became so deeply imbedded in the child's own beliefs about himself that every with encouragement he could not later eradicate it.

It is certainly a finding that should throw into question some of the schoolchildren's most cherished ideas about streams of learning, and the segregation of children by apparent IQ in the early years. If a beam of encouragement in the teacher's eye can make a dull child average, or an average child bright, then surely the teacher's eye needs more attention than the IQ.

On Highways Too Many Die Young

Oshawa Times

The free-swinging attitude of youth is proving costly—to them — on the highways. Traffic statistics show that the number of young people being killed or injured in car accidents is increasing at an alarming rate.

More and more young people are reaching driving age each year.

Children Neglect Their Teeth

Hamilton Spectator

"Appalling" dental decay was discovered among 6,000 Hamilton children in a survey conducted by the board of health's preventive dental division. That really means 6,000 children have unfairly neglected their teeth.

The division, under Dr. George Clarke, examined 2,001 children in the three to six year age group and 3,015 students in six elementary schools in the north end. The results came from home homes which cut across income and educational brackets.

"The amount of decay was so high it is appaling," said Dr. Clarke.

Findings like this show that parental neglect is exacting its price upon little boys and girls who don't know any better. If children are not taught to brush their teeth often and properly, and if they are not taken to the dentist regularly and are not given a balanced diet, then they are going to have decayed teeth.

Dr. Clarke feels that fluoridation of water is necessary, and the Hamiltonians who cast the majority votes in favor of just that measure last December are entitled by now to wonder just, where the fluoridies are. The stock explanation of "delayed on order" is wearing a little thin.

Even so, fluoridation is not a universal cure-all. It may even do some harm among borderline families where parents may be tempted to ease up on the nerve jarring job of getting baby teeth brushed twice a day because they feel that the new chemical will look after everything.

But in healthy setting and crankyphine habits come from mothers, fathers, not from tape.

Divorce . . . Birth Control

Free Vote Will Be Used More Often in Next Commons

By JOHN BEST

OTTAWA (CP)—The free vote, a seldom-used part of Parliament's legislative machinery, is scheduled to get a brisk workout after MPs return to work Sept. 25.

Prime Minister Pearson has indicated that the fate of as many as four pieces of legislation will be determined by votes in which the government does not enforce the usual party discipline on its parliamentary supporters.

They concern reform of divorce, birth control and abortion laws, and abolition of capital punishment.

They are among 25 government bills which Mr. Pearson has said he would like to see passed before the fall parliamentary sitting ends late in October.

The Commons voted last June, 143 to 112, to reject an all-party private member's bill to substitute life imprisonment for hanging.

Terms of the new bill have not been announced. There has been some speculation it would abolish the death penalty for a trial period of three to five years.

Criticism has sometimes been levelled at the free vote mechanism on the ground that it represents an abdication of the government's responsibility to provide leadership.

Mr. Pearson, it is said, if the present government believes in the abolition of capital punishment, it should treat the issue as one of confidence.

The usual method of calling a free vote is for the government to announce that it does not regard the question as one of confidence. This means that if it is defeated, the government will not feel compelled to resign.

Some observers question the practical feasibility of introducing another capital punishment bill so soon after the last one was defeated.

Questions have been raised as to the effect which defeat of such a bill would have on the government's position in Parliament, even though its actual survival would be at stake.

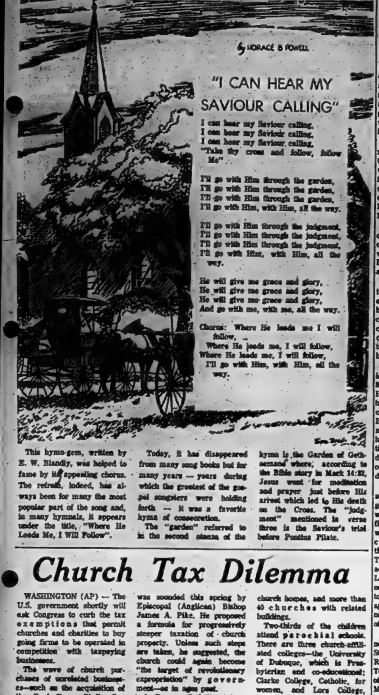
Beyond a possible loss of prestige, the government would suffer little, in the opinion of one expert.

One outstanding advantage of the free vote mechanism is that it provides a way of dealing with sensitive social reform problems without committing the government in a way that could damage its political fortunes.

The would apply especially to the liberalization of divorce, abortion and birth control laws.

The question of the free vote was discussed briefly at a caucus meeting of Conservative parliamentary speakers last September in Ottawa.

Speaker A. B. Dixon of the Alberta legislature said it is open to a government to declare a free vote on any vote in the house. Experts here, however, insist that it would be impossible on major government bills such as financial measures.



Mr. Dixon said that in his legislature he could remember no free vote in 30 years, and it concerned the liquor issue.

John Rickard, speaker of the Australian House of Representatives, said he could recall only one free vote in the Australian House, on Canberra's divorce laws. It carried.

Speaker Leslie Lamoureux of the Canadian Commons said there is no provision for a free vote in the constitution or the standing orders of Parliament. It was purely a political decision.

Stories Of Famous Hymns

BY HORACE B POWELL

This hymn-gem, written by E. W. Blandly, was helped to fame by its appealing chorus. The refrain, indeed, has always been for many the most popular part of the song and, in many hymnals, it appears under the title, "Where He Leads Me, I Will Follow".

Today, it has disappeared from many song books but for many years — years during which the fervour of the gospel songsters were holding forth — it was a favorite hymn of consecration.

The "garden" referred to in the second stanza of the hymn is the Garden of Gethsemane where, according to the Bible story in Matt. 14:32, Jesus went for meditation and prayer just before His arrest which led to His death on the Cross. The "judgment" mentioned in verse three is the Saviour's trial before Pontius Pilate.

Theologo To Draw Crowds

TORONTO (CP)—More than 4,000 Roman Catholic priests and laymen and interested non-Catholics are expected to attend or hear "Theology," a giant theological conference with 64 speakers Aug. 30 to 34 in Toronto.

The theme is the theology of renewal in the Roman Catholic Church, one of the main interests at the second Vatican council in Rome. The Toronto congress is the ecclesiastical project of the Canadian Catholic Bishops, who decided on it in 1964.

Organization was handed over to the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies, at the University of Toronto, whose Rev. Lawrence E. Shook took charge as congress chairman.

"From the beginning we have tried to avoid an 'every tower approach,'" he says, and he hopes the eminent scholars and churchmen, coming from 15 countries and including five cardinals, will be speaking "to the man-in-the-street as never before.

Membership of the congress is already about filled, with 1,- 500 members in Convocation Hall, the university's biggest hall, and 200 more watching closed-circuit television nearby. But there is room for 2,500 more in St. Michael's College high school auditorium to see the same TV broadcasts of addresses and debates, and this is open to the public at a dollar a day.

Because, except for plenary sessions of all registered congress members, five papers will be delivered at a time in five sectionettes the choice of which to put on television indicates which the organizers think are the most important. They range from the opening address of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal through philosophical, theological and pastoral matters to the final speech, by Franz Cardinal Koenig of Vienna, on the theology of communications.

Eight of the speakers are Canadian. They include Rabbi Gunther E. Rosenberg of Toronto, Rev. Bernard J. F. Lonergan of Toronto, Prof. Fernand Dumont of Laval University and Rev. J. M. R. Tillard, president of the Societe Canadienne de Theologie. There are several women speakers, two of them Catholic laywomen—U. S. M. Associate Professor Mary Daly and Christine Mohrmann of Amsterdam.

A congress spokesman suggested most of the speakers would be on the liberal side in Catholic politics but there would be few rebels and radicals. But questions such as birth control and celebacy are on the agenda—and one of the Canadians, Dr. Arthur Closs of St. Michael's College, Toronto, is an expert on the latter.

Church Tax Dilemma

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government shortly will ask Congress to curb the tax exemptions that permit churches and charities to buy going firms to be operated in competition with taxpaying businesses.

The wave of church purchases and unrelated businesses—such as the acquisition of the Real Estate Board of Brooklyn, by the Cathedral of Tomorrow of Akron, Ohio—has raised alarms at the U.S. treasury and among small business organizations.

Simultaneously, many cities and states are moving cautiously to restrict real estate tax exemptions on religious property which, across the country, is valued at an estimated $75,000,000,000.

One authority has estimated that state and local governments are losing about $1,600,000,000 in revenue annually under the property tax exemption—$12 a year for every tax-paying family.

There are stirrings of sentiment among some religious groups in favor of voluntary tax contributions by churches, probably, at lower rates than the regular levy. A few churches have already begun making such payments and the topic is alive in the religious press.

The treasury wants exempt status of churches which chest-thumping and religious orders are not required to report their income.

A similar tax-tightening proposal failed last year.

The treasury's plan is to tax the income which chest-thumping and other exempt organizations derive from property bought or improved with borrowed money, if the income is not related to the purpose on which the tax exemption was based.

The bill would not affect investments made out of a charity's own funds. Nor would it affect any borrowing that was intended to further the exempt purpose; for example, a church's borrowing to build a parish hall.

Other tax privileges could help churches amass formidable economic power, authorities have pointed out. For instance, the accumulation of investment wealth is not interrupted by inheritance taxes, for churches do not die. And real estate taxes are not payable on property used for church purposes; in many places, such purposes are liberally defined.

A warning that churches might be able to control the whole economy of cities lies within the indictable future was sounded this spring by Episcopal (Anglican) Bishop James A. Pike. He proposed a formula for progressively steeper taxation of church property. Unless such steps are taken, he suggested, the church could again become "the largest of revolutionary corporations" by gravitation—as in ages past.

A Roman Catholic priest, Rev. Richard Grider, wrote in a widely-quoted Wall Street Journal article: "The Catholic Church must do the biggest corporation in the United States. Its assets and real estate holdings must exceed those of Standard Oil American Telephone and Telegraph and U.S. Steel combined."

The Baptist Foundation of Texas—according to reports cited by Bishop Pike—increased its assets to $53,- 000,000 from $30,000,000 in 10 years by encouraging its tax-exempt capital to multiply.

Protestant, Orthodox, Mormon and Jewish church groups, like Catholics, can be found as owners of hotels, textile mills, factories, department stores and so on—down to car washes and second-hand stores. In Chicago, one church body has undertook to operate a garbage dump.

Besides its 1965 purchase of Brooklyn's Real Estate Co., the non-denominational Cathedral of Tomorrow in Akron also owns Shopper's Fair, a discount house near the church, and the Unity Electronics Co., Elizabeth, N.J.

The town of Dubuque, Iowa, is an example of why some smaller cities are hungrily eyeing tax-exempt real estate.

Dubuque has a population of 63,000 and a scenic setting on rocky bluffs overlooking the Mississippi. It also has eleven churches, one college and one seminary—and still more churches.

The city's property tax base is squeezed by both tax exemptions and the deterioration of downtown real estate. And for three years in a row the city budget has been battered by Mississippi floods.

For 1968 there's a prospective gap of at least $275,000 between foreseeable income and outgo.

The city assessor finds there is about $1 of exempt property—schools, churches, governmental property and other—for every $3 of taxable property. More than 40 per cent of Dubuque's 63,000 developed acres are in the public or semi-public category.

The exempt buildings include most of the city's finest, newest, and largest structures. There are seminaries, colleges, sodalities, the motherhouses of several religious orders, assorted church homes, and more than 40 churches with related buildings.

Two-thirds of the children attend parochial schools. There are three church-affiliated colleges—the University of Dubuque, which is Presbyterian and co-educational; Clarke College, Catholic, for women, and Lora College, Catholic, for men. There are also Wartburg Seminary, Lutheran; six Catholic convents, two major Catholic hospitals, the Catholic archdiocese offices and the archbishop's manse. More church building is in progress.

The "visible wealth," of real estate, of churches in the U.S. is estimated at $44,- 500,000,000 for the Roman Catholic church, $28,000,000 for Protestant denominations, and $7,000,000,000 for Jewish. That adds up to about three-fifths of all the tax exempt privately-owned real estate in the country.

Life on Midway Not All Excitement

INDOOR - OUTDOOR FASHIONS — These fashions are styled for the active outdoor girl.

Actress Willi Koopman models various styles appropriate for summer wear.

Two months every year home life is a carnival for Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coffing of Brantford and their two children.

Riding assistant-manager with Conklin Shows, Mr. Coffing takes his wife, Tommy 10 and Susan 8 on the road with him in the summer. They park their house trailer for a week at a time at fairs throughout Ontario and keep house close to the midway.

Raising a family on the midway isn't quite the merry-go-round most settled housewives might imagine. Mrs. Coffing's eldest enemy is the old housewife's bugbear — boredom.

"Most of the wives travelling with the show work in their husband's concession, but I stay with the trailer and keep an eye on the children. I sold tickets once, but it lasted exactly two days. I was too nervous about Susan and Tommy running loose."

To keep occupied Mrs. Coffing has taken on the care and feeding of three high school lads from Brantford whom her husband hired for the summer.

Life is anything but boring for the children, who thrive on the excitement of crowds and noise. According to his father, Tommy has worked on every concession on the midway and both he and his sister are unusually friendly and outgoing as the result of meeting hordes of people.

Their bedtime is later than that of most children their age. Because of the noise they go to bed after the shows close at midnight and sleep in until late in the morning.

From Belleville they go to Sherbrooke for a week before their mother takes them home in time to start school. Their father will join them after Thanksgiving, when the show goes into winter quarters in Brantford for storing and repairing.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffing were childhood sweethearts who met in school and attended the same church. Before he went on the road three years ago, Mr. Coffing worked at the Conklin's permanent set - up at Crystal Beach. Their annual summer safari begins the first week in July, enabling the family to be together for most of the year.

"I'd be happy in have Tommy go on the road when he's a teen-ager," his mother said. "It's good experience, learning how the other half lives. Besides they see a fair amount of the country."

Carnival life is a family tradition. Mr. Coffing's father worked on the midway and a three - generation family is with the show this year. Mike Thomas, who runs the bingo booth has his wife, who operates the crazy ball booth, with him. Their four - year - old son Gary has an extra babysitter in Mr. Thomas' mother who keeps an eye on her grandson from her seat in the fun house ticket booth.

Flash, Flair and Flattery In Styles for Outdoor Girl

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

These temperature - controlled fashions are styled with flash, flair and flattery for the active outdoor girl. A circus stripe of red 'n' white canvas cotton is ideal for a lazy summer day. Since the fabric is also water repellent, it doubles as a cover-up for a swimsuit. It stripes are strategically designed, for shaping the figure. The sides feature vertical lines that add to the linear look and slim the silhouette. The front panel, slashed to reveal a hint of knee, gives actress Willi Koopman ample room for walking or sprinting along the shoreline.

Canary yellow eyelet with cotton organdy, teams as a well - ventilated ensemble for those last steaming days of August. Literally "air conditioned," the strained jump suit achieves a feminine look with frilly rows of organdy ruffles circling the legs. Other fringe benefits include its slim turtleneck and sleeveless cut. The tube - like torso provides a relaxed fit for both comfort and action — even to sliding down a haystack!

Look as pretty as a painting in this watercolor fabric that blends the shades of the sea and sunset. Designer Kay Contoniwise stays to the straight and narrow by making the sheath slimmed and buttoning it to one side. Its accompanying triangular scarf has many uses, from stole to belt. Willi, featured in the Universal film, "Don't Just Stand There," uses it as a coiffure cover - up, draping it over the hair and crossing it under the chin. The results are as dramatic as they are practical.

AUGUST ARCHIVES

The sunlight layers air with gold
Crisscrosses shadows on the field
Where rustling blades of young corn hold
Rich promises of abundant yield.
—Cornfield in August by Christie Jeffries.

* * *

The Boston ivy that covers our apartment dwelling has never appeared more verdant, more glossy, than this August, and today, as we were leaving for a drive in the country, we overhear one of two small boys passing by, note and exclaim:

"Look — a house made of grass!"

Summer, it seems, delights borrowing among August's rich riotous of sights, smells, sounds and story, to gaily hang sunny days with skins of amazing blue picturesquely studded with cotton wisps soaked in fires small fry and bumble bees; arrange picnic and beach pastime; place contented fishermen beside quiet, contemplative streams; paint the land with yellow fields of new mown hay; display flower-specked meadows, lazy green apples on the bough; uncoil carpeted fields of tall waving cornfields; prinkem fields of the beautiful Queen Anden lageod of how corn first came to them as youths dressed in bright green with waving silk on plumes.

As a Quinte farmer tells my husband how governments researchers are experimenting with corn crops that need not be tilled, by the use of weed killing chemicals, the words of a research botany teacher comes to mind:

"Of the hundreds of varieties of corn now grown, the Indians knew all the important kinds when the first settlers came to the New World.

"Then, as today, there were six main types: popcorn, soft corn, sweet corn, popcorn, flint and dent corn. The stalks grew as high as 20 feet, ears were from less than a foot to two feet and the grains were red, yellow, white, purple and striped.

"It is thought that for maybe 100,000 years corn was a wild plant with ears less than an inch long, with about 50 kernels. Originating probably in Mexico, the Indians developed it from its wild state and most of the corn's improvement was made by them before 1000 A.D. beyond all recognition. It became the foundation of Indian Civilization."

He said today's corn is grown based mostly on New England's flint corn, while the corn in the Corn Belt is predominately with 85 percent used for fodder. The rest is combined in the making of plastic, nylon, synthetic rubber, textile fibres, phonograph records and live stock feeds.

"When the first Pilgrim bands arrived," he said, "it is little known perhaps, that it was saved from starvation by a 10 - bushel cache of corn and, hidden beneath a sand hill, found by a scouting party, and called an "Act of Providence."

"It was Squanto, the Indian, who taught them how to plant the corn in quarried hillocks, with three herrings in each hill, their noses together with tails fanning outward. And the time for this was when the leaves of the oak tree were as big as squirrel's ears.

"That first Thanksgiving corn appeared parched, roasted, in hoe and ash cakes and in pudding. Most likely the Pilgrim children munched on popcorn balls formed with maple syrup. All were Indian dishes!"

Today, corn is America's largest food crop, and summer's prized treasure is safely kept in the August archives.

Still the Favorite

Despite the attraction of a midway at their front door, Susan and Tommy Coffing remain loyal to their favorite TV shows. Mrs. Ray Coffing adjusts the set in the family's trailer as Snoopy, the children's pet, perks up her ears in anticipation.

Suppertime Kills

REGINA (CP) — Police department figures show that Saturday is the most dangerous day of the week to drive. There were 620 accidents in Regina on Saturdays in 1966, compared with 575 on Fridays and 550 on Tuesdays. Most accidents occurred between 5 and 6 p.m. while the safest period was 9 to 10 a.m.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Why did you take Jimmy's bike?"

Son: "It was left out in the front yard when the Browns went on their vacation. I'm just using it for awhile."

Mother: "The very careful with it and put it back before they return."

Property rights should not be ignored just because the owner of the property is unaware of a transgression.

Mother: "Jimmy forgot to put his bike away. It might be stolen if it's left out here in the yard, so why don't you put it in the Browns' garage. You must not use it without permission even if Jimmy is away."

Her beautiful wedding begins there, with beautiful gowns for the bride and her party.

Universal Malady Is Taking People for Granted

DORIS CLARK

"When I do it, I hear it never;
"When I do well, I hear it never."
I am beginning to think there is a universal malady called "taking people for granted". It strikes all ages. It is fostered by indulgent parents and grows from mild cases in childhood to serious — perhaps lethal — doses in teenage years. May continue in laters and even wreck promising personalities later in life.

I think it may start with a youngster's failure to say, "Thank you"—and the return attitude of a parent who fails to show gratitude for something done industriously by a toddler with the earnest idea of pleasing Mom.

The youngster in a White Russian family I visited got up from the dinner table when he was finished eating, went around to his mother, kissed her and thanked her for the nice meal. She smiled and kissed him lovingly, explaining to me that this was a custom with Russian families. She was a Canadian by birth, married to a White Russian, and she loved it.

Why do we take people for granted? Because it seems to be human nature for us to be so blessed wrapped up in our own concerns that we are prone to forget it when somebody goes out of their way for us. Not when a stranger does it — oh no! If somebody across the street (who is usually grumpy) turns on our hose for us, or shares a bouquet, we gush all over him in our delight and surprise. But do we ever look at what happens every day right around home?

Letters are forever turning up in my mail which read like this:

"Doris, sometimes I wonder if she even knows I am there. All I am, I think, is a meal ticket. I buy her a pair of earrings and she never wears them. Yet she herself wants praise for every last piece of cake she feeds me."

"I guess my nephew my new car for a cross-country tour with his five children, because his was too small to carry everything. When he returned it, he was busy telling me about its faulty shock absorbers, its loose steering, the way it stalled. Only when I asked if it had been useful did he remember to thank me for loaning it to him."

We are prone to make much of our own generous impulses and to minimize it when the person we care most about goes out of his or her way for us. We take it for granted.

But there's another side to this coin. The person with the generous impulse sometimes turns the whole thing sour by making his gesture grudging-ly. It's as if he was making a gift with one hand and taking it back with the other. Which doesn't make anybody feel happy. Couldn't he go just a little further, bestowing the favor with a good grace—which says, "I do this because I love you and want you to be happy; and it makes me happy to do it!"

Don't we really do things for people because we have an inner urge to express ourselves? If you look at it this way, you realize that we are lucky to have people to do things for. Then go a step further and you will see that the actual doing is the greatest reward; not the thank-you we expect. It's best not to count the cost, nor hold out for gratitude.

Yet the receiver pays himself a compliment if he leaves no smallest thought unacknowledged. Don't let it be said that

Ann Landers

3-year-Old's Antics Defeat Stepmother

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hate to admit that a three-year-old child has me over a barrel, but I am completely defeated.

The man I married was left with this youngster. Jim's wife walked out when the boy was six months old. Jim's mother took the boy for a year and then Jim hired a housekeeper. When I married Jim I was thrilled to be a mother to his child. Now I'm a nervous wreck.

The child chews pickles in everything, breaks toys, destroys furniture, refuses to play with other children, won't watch anything but adult TV programs and insists on going everywhere we go.

I have tried to reason with the boy but he acts as if he doesn't hear me when I speak to him. I have explained that his real mother wouldn't cook for him or his daddy, that she didn't love him as I do and that she threw him away and left him.

Jim says the boy realizes I am not his real mother and that is why he refused to accept me. Please tell me how I can be a real mother to this boy. — WABASH BLUES.

* * *

DEAR WABASH: You need outside help and fast. The boy is frightfully insecure, and you haven't helped matters by telling him his real mother didn't love him and that she ran away from him.

Have the child's pediatrician check the child's hearing, his metabolism — the works. Then learn where to take the boy for evaluation. This youngster has emotional problems. You cannot handle him alone.

* * *

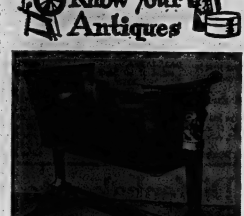
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I come from an average American middle class family. We ate off oilcloth and mismatched dishes. Mom never bought jams. We used jelly and cheese jars. She was a good mother and I am not criticizing her, just stating facts.

When I married, I decided to do things nicer than my mother — not because I wanted to put on the dog but because I believe people uplift themselves if they can. My married sisters are still seeing their table like Mom — jelly glasses and sometimes newspapers instead of oilcloth. I am not criticizing them, either, I say, "To each his own."

Next month two sisters are getting married. Their mother's (my sister with the newspapers) have suggested that I buy a place setting of china or a set of sterling silver for wedding gifts. The china is $30 a place setting. The silver is $62. I am in favor of people bettering themselves, but don't you think this is a lot of nerve? — UNCERTAIN KIN.

* * *

DEAR KIN: It was only a suggestion, and you can ignore it. As for "nerve," as one who believes in "uplifting" you should be happy that the younger generation plans to do things a little nicer than their mothers did.



* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read a letter in your column from a teen-ager. You answered: "I will be happy to listen to you any time you want to unload. That's what I'm here for." Those words touched me so that I cried. How wonderful to know there is somebody in this world a kid can count on. Yes, I know there are psychiatrists and counselors that will help, but you are more real. Thank you from the bottom of my heart for being there and caring. — A BUFFALO TEEN.

* * *

DEAR TEEN: Thanks for letting me know I'm getting through. Your letter was a day-brightener.

Empire designs were often bizarre. This French cradle of 1810 featured women's heads and feet at the top of the supports.

Furniture Designs Result Of Merging Many Cultures

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Strange furniture designs have sometimes been the result of merging several cultures. The Empire period of France was one of the most unusual of all the mixed periods.

Napoleon Bonaparte went to Syria and Egypt in 1796-1802. Archeologists became interested in the art of ancient Egypt. It wasn't long before all of France learned about the sphinx, the glyphics, pyramids and other decorative motifs.

In 1802 one of the archeologists with the expedition had a bedroom designed for himself in a semi-Egyptian decor. The bed was held by three kneeling silver figures with the carved head of Isis and the legs of Uraeus on each figure. The bed was massive. Napoleon soon had similar furniture. The Egyptian designs were featured on Empire furniture until about 1830.

Q. Horsehair upholstery is always mentioned with Victorian furniture. What is its history?

A. Horsehair upholstery fabric was known in England during the 1730's. It is a cloth made from the hair of horses. Red, brown, blonde, or black horse hair was used in its natural shade or dyed. It was woven into a rather rough but very durable fabric. The finished cloth was made in stripes, checks, brocade patterns, and solid colors, and the popular Victorian black.

Hair cloth makers were also recorded in America by the 1770's.

Q. What is a tear bottle? I have one that looks like a very small perfume bottle. It does not stand up. The glass bottle has a cork with an attached tiny spoon like piece that fits into the bottle.

A. Tradition speaks of the tear bottles found in ancient Phoenician, Greek and Roman tombs. The tiny glass phials were said to have held the tears of loved ones. The romantic idea appealed to some 19th century orphan-men who made a tear box. This silver or gold box had a small sponge inside. It was to be used to wipe away the tears of a sweetheart. The tiny box was worn on a watch chain.

The glass tear bottle of the type you own was probably made for perfume.

Some collectors' talk of tear glass bottles. This would be a piece of glass in which a bubble shaped like a tear is part of the design. Many 18th century stemmed goblets had this sort of tear design. A bit of alcohol or a small nail was placed into the glass while it was hot and it formed the tear. This type of tear glass is still being made.

Recipes for Strawberries

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you have a recipe for "Strawberries"? More of a confection; seem to have desiccated coconut in them, rolled in. I believe, strawberry jello powder. If you do could this recipe be used with other flavored jellos to make other fruits or vegetables?

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Lamb Curry on Rice; Julienne Green Beans; Spinach, Lettuce, Parsley and Green Onion Salad with French Dressing; Poached Chilled Plums under Vanilla Ice Cream; Coffee.

ANSWER: Yes to both questions.

MARZIPAN STRAWBERRIES
(Makes 100)

One can (1 lb.) sweetened condensed milk
3 pkgs. strawberry jello (reserve one box of the)
1 lb. unsweetened packaged coconut

Combine the sweetened condensed milk, 2 pkgs. of strawberry jello and coconut in large bowl, adding a few drops of yellow food coloring. Mix well. Form into small 1" balls and roll between palms to shape as little lemons. Pour the third pkg. lemon jello onto a plate and roll "lemons" in it to give them a pebbled coating. Allow to dry overnight on wax paper. Use as a fancy "cookie" on a tray of cookies.

Use your imagination and other colors and flavors of jello for making other fruits and vegetables too.

Campaigning Premiers Make Pitch for Quebec's PC Vote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The two premiers involved in the Progressive Conservative party's leadership race went to work the support of Quebec delegates Friday.

Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia, touring the province in a chartered DC-3, told a Quebec City audience that Confederation "will only realize the established when French-Canadians no longer feel their way of living threatened."

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba spoke to a Union Nationale party club in Montreal, promising that if he became prime minister he would work toward "remaking and reforming the constitution to meet present needs."

Out in Vancouver, Donald Fleming attended the recent Conservative "thinkers' conference" held at Tsawwassen, Ont., Alvin Hamilton claimed his candidacy has drawn strong support in Toronto, Vancouver and the Prairie provinces.

The leadership issue is to be decided at a Toronto convention Sept. 7-9. So far there are nine announced candidates.

Mr. Stanfield has said given no clue as to whether he will remain in the federal field if he is unsuccessful in the leadership bid. Mr. Roblin has said that, win or lose, he will give up his premiership.

The 53-year-old Nova Scotia leader visited Mont Joli and Chicoutimi, as well as Quebec City, to speak to delegates.

His Quebec should have adequate powers to realize the objectives of French Canada but revealed that the powers of the federal government must not be radically weakened. To save Confederation, discussion should begin immediately on the best division of constitutional controls.

Mr. Stanfield said that although some politicians believed a federal party would gain office without support from Quebec, he would not want to be associated with any party that tried it.

Mr. Roblin, 50, said control of government spending and national unity are the most important issues facing the union. Agreements to curb government spending had to be worked out between Ottawa and the provinces.

Speaking in French, he told a Montreal luncheon gathering that he recognized Canada's "three national" aspects in the cultural field, but added that political and constitutional factors were something else.

Confederation, he said, had conferred special status on Quebec "but we have the responsibility, in our time, to revive the concept of special status."

Unity, Spending Top Issues

MONTREAL (CP)—Control of government spending and national unity are the two most important issues facing Canada today, Duff Roblin, Conservative Party leadership candidate, said Friday.

The Manitoba premier told an informal luncheon gathering of Montreal-area Conservatives that a "discipline of priorities" with respect to government spending was needed.

"Arrangements to curb government spending must be worked out with provincial and federal governments," he said.

On the national-unity question, Mr. Roblin said that Canadians "should not be alarmed about reconciling the fact that the two-thirds English-speaking population must and should live with the reasoning one-third French-speaking."

In answer to a question, the Manitoba premier, speaking in French, said he recognized Canada's "two nations" aspect in the cultural field, but political and constitutional factors were something else.

Mr. Roblin is one of nine candidates seeking the leadership at the party's convention in Toronto next month.

Fleming

Thinkers' Not Party Policy

VANCOUVER (CP)—Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative leadership candidate, said Friday he regrets the party's association with the recent thinkers' conference.

Mr. Fleming, a former finance and justice minister, told a news conference: "It was not a party conference."

Mr. Fleming attacked the conference's endorsation of former Liberal finance Minister Walter Gordon's Canada Development Corp.

* * *

"I think that this corporation is a socialistic monster," he said. "I will fight it with the last breath in my body."

He did not believe the Conservative convention, set for Sept. 6-9 in Toronto, would adopt the idea as party policy.

Mr. Fleming also criticized the thinkers' conference's "two nations" resolution on French-English relations.

"The resolution ought to have been a lot clearer and a lot more explicit," he said.

* * *

"Many of the Ontario delegates are going in the conviction unconmitted. They want to wait and meet the candidates face to face.

"But I think I'm ahead in Toronto."

Mr. Hamilton said he has the support of a majority of delegates from Vancouver, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

"I was scuttled in Winnipeg, though, when Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin entered the race," he said.

Asked if he knew whether John Diefenbaker would be a candidate, Mr. Hamilton said he was unaware of the present leader's intentions.

"I do know that he was quoted recently as saying he would have to run if no suitable candidate emerged," he said. "Well, emerge."

The thinkers' conference was called at Montmorency Falls in Quebec by the national executive of the party as a prelude to the leadership convention in Toronto.

"It would be difficult to persuade me that there will be any benefit at all on balance from the thinkers' conference," he said.

Mr. Fleming was here on a two-day visit to British Columbia.

Hamilton

Ontario Bloc Key to Success

TIMMINS (CP)—Alvin Hamilton Friday claimed his bid for the Progressive Conservative leadership is drawing strong support in Toronto, Vancouver and the Prairie provinces.

The former agriculture minister told a party gathering that he'll be success at next month's leadership convention in Toronto will be the Ontario bloc.

Stanfield

Quebec Needed in Party

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia said Friday night he does not want to be leader of a political party that tries to get elected in Canada without Quebec support.

One of nine candidates for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, Mr. Stanfield spoke here on the first day of a three-day weekend tour of Quebec.

He told area delegates to the leadership convention in Toronto next month that the Conservative party could serve as a vehicle for a "frank and sincere dialogue" between French- and English - speaking Canadians.

He described this dialogue as "a prelude to new agreements which would permit Quebec to reach its objectives while continuing to work for the harmonious development of all of Canada."

Some politicians had held in the past that a federal party could gain election without any support from Quebec, but Mr. Stanfield said he would not be associated with any party that tried to do so.

Diefenbaker to Give Old Books To Family Homestead Museum

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker thumbed through some old books.

"These are going back to the homestead where they came from," he said, leafing through old editions of Dervets, Dickens, Horatio Alger, Gibbon and Tom Brown's Schooldays. "And that was my father's Bible."

The Saskatchewan homestead where the former prime minister lived his boyhood has been moved to Regina and will be opened as a museum at a ceremony Aug. 31.

The ceremony, which Mr. Diefenbaker will of course attend, will come just five days before the opening of the Sept. 5-6 Conservative leadership convention.

The Chief gave no outward sign to a Friday visitor at his ordeal on whether to seek re-election to the post he has occupied since 1956.

"I slept in today and my morning walk wasn't as long as usual, only about three-quarters of a mile," he said.

By sleeping in, Mr. Diefenbaker meant he had risen about 6:30 a.m. He is usually up before 6 and at work in his office by 8.

How did he think the nine announced leadership candidates were doing?

"I see where they are getting 150 or 150 people to their meetings. I went to a garden party in Vancouver and 900 people came."

Would he be making any trips beyond those he had already made to British Columbia and the Prairies before the convention?

He might go to Fredericton, he said.

That was about all he had to say about the leadership situation and, after more decision to a secretary, went home.

PCs' Van Horne Flays Robichaud But NB Premier Not Perturbed

FREDERICTON (CP) — From this historic provincial capital to tiny Pocologan on the Bay of Fundy shore, New Brunswick's fiery Progressive Conservative leader has been waging a noisy war which he says will carry his party to victory in the next provincial election.

"Let it come any day," he says of the election, date of which has yet to be announced by Liberal Premier Louis J. Robichaud.

"There is not a riding in this province where the people aren't impatient . . . to bid good riddance to the Robichaud gang."

It is the same Charlie Van Horne who was tagged a maverick a few years ago while representing Restigouche-Madawaska in the House of Commons.

And the premier he hopes to unseat is the same man he sent a telegram of congratulations to when Mr. Robichaud defeated Hugh John Flemming's Conservative government in June, 1960.

The two have frequently exchanged harsh words since Mr. Van Horne returned to his native New Brunswick last year from California, took control of the PC party at a leadership convention and won an easy victory in a Restigouche County byelection.

From his opening speech in the legislature Mr. Van Horne has accused the Robichaud administration of being lazy, His financial critic, Donald D. Patterson, says the chief issue in the next election will be "a strong mandate for a strong approach to Ottawa."

Unless there was a major upgrading of the present fiscal agreement with the federal government, New Brunswick would approach an annual deficit figure of $100,000,000 within four years.

Premier Robichaud and his cabinet ministers appear, at least on the surface, to find few of the many opposition charges disturbing. In fact, Mr. Van Horne told the premier at one session of the legislature to "wipe that smile off your face."

The Liberals have withstood much opposition since they first took office in 1960 by soaring Mr. Flemming's Progressive Conservative government.

Premier Robichaud's program for Equal Opportunity has probably drawn as much criticism as any program advocated by any government in this province since Sir Samuel Leonard Tilley tried to enforce prohibition a century ago.

At the height of it all, the premier and his family received threatening telephone calls and letters.

But opposition to the municipal reform program has dwindled in recent months, something the Liberals no doubt hoped would happen before the election.

The Conservatives, who bitterly fought it in the house, now say they would make alterations if elected, but have dedicated most of the legislation would remain in tact.

The program abolished county councils and centralized major municipal services in Fredericton. The government took charge of health, education, welfare, justice, assessment and tax collection.

The government has encountered some difficulties in implementing the plan, but says these had been expected.

Premier Robichaud's term expires in May, 1968, but recent speculation centres on a fall election. Oct. 16 is the date most frequently mentioned in political circles.

The last election was held April, 22, 1963, when the Liberals won 32 seats in the 52-seat legislature. They now hold 30, and there is one vacancy.

Council Chambers Redecorated

DESERONTO — Deseronto's Council Chambers have undergone a refurbishing. The green walls have been repainted a soft beige and the floors have been tiled in a matching color.

The seating of the councillors has been changed to a horseshoe arrangement facing Mayor Gallas. The new armchairs are also done in the same beige motif. A length of light wood panelling now separates the councillors from the visitors area.

ODDS AND ENDS

Bestie Hunday, a softball pitcher in the Trenton town league who shuns whip style for orthodox, recently threw a perfect 7-inning win for Daisy Queen over the Juveniles in playoffs. Hunday struck out 13 while retiring 21 batters in order.

There's an Eastern Ontario Junior Hockey meeting on the hoop here next Thursday, at the Recreation Centre. It's a combined meeting for all divisions and centres considering entries are advised to attend. The old pack season is fast approaching, believe it or not.

Kingston Lakeview Indians, after winning the 30@A Senior pennant but receiving no consideration for the feat, ousted Brockville Braves two games to one to reach the loop finals, against Little Britain. The Indians ousted the Beavers with a 4-3 win in Brockville after losing the flip. They were not given a bye nor even the extra home game for finishing on top, despite just three contros being in this division playoff. Little Britain, who didn't complete their scheduled games, reached the finals with a 3-1 series win over Peterborough, at the other end of the circuit, which contained most of the lower placed clubs. Kingston dumped Belleville in their first series, 3-1.

Still with baseball, Monday's the night of the big Oldtimers-vs-Lombards battle at the Fairgrounds with such well-remembered names as Mac "Red" Carson, "Mouse" Rush, Johnny Nowak and many others scheduled to return. It should be fun and you can bet the stars of yesterday will go all out to beat the "younger fry." Game time is 7.45.

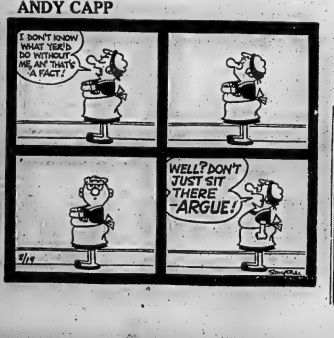
If an active summer in ball helps a hockey player conditioning-wise, Belleville's Larry Mayoty should be in good shape. He has been coaching softball with Ellis Seniors and baseball with both the Lombards and Latts of the South Hastings loop.

The Point Anne Cometmen have to rate as one of the district's tough luck clubs of the year. At least two signed players, Mike Cook and Dave Akey, took jobs out of town and can't attend many games while injuries have also hurt. Shortstop Eric Maher is playing with a painful back condition. He just got back in action after suffering a leg injury when brother and outfielder Dennis Maher suffered a broken arm that ends his season. "We are lucky to get nine men out much of the time," lamented coach Bill Shaw. The club opens OASA Intermediate "C" playoffs against the Kingston-area winner, away, on Monday.

Early darkness, not to mention cold weather, will hurt local daylight ball loops come playoff finals unless they get on the ball. The Departmental League is a prime example, where a couple of postponed games that should have been played several weeks ago are holding up matters and keeping some clubs inactive.

Minor baseball and softball clubs are busy right now, not only with local leagues but also OBA and OASA playoffs. It would be nice to cop a provincial title or two — and also quite possible.

This is a busy weekend for local clubs in OASA playoffs. Ellis Seniors start Sr. "B" play against Lake Bay in Kingston tonight; Picton takes a one-game lead to Cobourg in Int. "B"; Shannon visits Trenton Dairy Queens in Int. "AA" and Verona travels to Madoc for a third game in Junior "C". Tomorrow Trenton Carr's and Peterborough play their third Int. "A" tilt at Port Hope and on Monday, Belleville Tiki Club opens at home against Trenton in Juvenile "A".



Being a Hamilton Ti-Cat backer, this agent is not exactly overjoyed with their efforts to date but we would like to say "Thank you" to the Montreal Als for Thursday's "gift." As the man said: "The points column doesn't show you've won the game, just that you won." However, unless the 'Cats improve quickly, all these Ottawa fans are going to have a ball around the Intelligencer news room this fall.

The second half of the Doug Grant Tennis tournament will be played between Kingston and Quinte clubs here Sunday. In Kingston last weekend, Belleville players winning their matches were Dave Grant and Donald Brearly in men's singles, Carolyn Scofield in women's singles and Ann Thompson and Tom Woodley in mixed doubles.

Proud Champions All

By ROBERT SNEVJELLA

A pair of speedy brothers from Waterdown, Ontario, stole much of the thunder at the Canadian Dirt Track Motorcycle championships at the Fairgrounds last night.

Dave Sehl, 20, and his 18 year old brother Doug, a racing rookie, carried away two National crowns, and the former finished a close second in another, among the stiff competition from the United States and Canada.

The usual overflow crowd watched the meet.

Dave Sehl, winner of the Ontario senior 500 cc championship earlier this summer, raced his Harley to victory in the same event last night. And as before, Maurice Fraser of Hamilton was far ahead of the rest of the field but still second to Sehl.

The younger part of the brother act won the 250 cc Junior championship, as he nipped Bob Kelly with a last moment surge. Trailing by a bikelength going into the final turn, Sehl pushed his bike beside Kelly on the curve and beat him by a yard on the home stretch to cop the crown. Mike Brinkley of Dundas was a close third.

In the 20 cc expert-senior finals, 30-year veteran Don McHugh of Brampton zoomed out Dave Sehl in a thrilling race. The two dueled side by side, wheel to wheel, for six laps before McHugh moved out into a slim lead and stayed there to the finish. Fraser was third, and 16-year-old Alan Munroe of Connecticut was fourth.

Yron Duhamel of Montreal copied his Ontario championship form in winning the expert 500 cc class, but the latter victory was much the easier. Duhamel was practically given the win when Doug Shewier of Cleveland spilled and damaged his bike. On the same upset, Don McHugh's bike was spoiled and both veterans decided not to continue. Prior to the mishap both Shewier and McHugh had been sitting on Duhamel's fall. Bill Betty of Clyde and finished second and Barry Whitmore of Willowdale was third.

Jean Guy Bibeau of Quebec City captured the Junior 500 cc title with a hard-fought victory ahead of Russ Milburn of Whitby. A fall by Robert Wickens of Campbellford midway through the race in which he suffered a broken ankle, cut the field in the finals down to four. Gabriel Brodeur of Granby and John McKown of Don Mills finished third and fourth.

Several spills or near-spills occurred last night, with no serious injuries resulting. With $1,300. in prize money and a great deal of honor riding on the outcome, the riders held nothing back.

Veteran Hal Patterson

Ruptured Spleen Ends Career

HAL PATTERSON

HAMILTON (CP)—Hal Patterson's brilliant 16-year career in the Canadian Football League has apparently ended where it began—in Montreal.

Patterson, prince of CFL receivers during stirings with Montreal Alouettes and Edmonton Tiger-Cats, suffered a ruptured spleen Thursday in an apparently routine play during Hamilton's 17-16 triumph.

An operation in a Montreal hospital was described as a success, but Hamilton general manager John Gaudaur said he does not expect Patterson to play again.

Patterson, 34-year-old end from Rosel, Kansas, had told club officials he would not return for the 1968 season.

Patterson was napped by linebacker Al Kroyer early in the second quarter as he attempted to take a high, short pass from quarterback Joe Zuger.

"Harold was taking a short pass over centre and he and Kroyer got to the ball at the same time," Gaudaur said. "Harold was wide open, with no opportunity to cover himself.

"As far as I could see, it was a perfectly legal play."

Many plays similar to the final one were included in a record that showed the most touchdown passes caught in a career, 84.

Patterson also held a league record for most passes caught in one season, 86, and most yards from receptions in a season, 1,914. In one game, he gained 336 yards on passes, a record. His total of 9,672 yards on receptions is a career record.

Dick Shatto, formerly of Toronto Argonauts, was the only CFL player with more receptions in a career. Patterson was within six of Shatto's total of 488.

Patterson, who came to the Alouettes in 1953, was replaced Thursday by defensive end Dave Viti, but Viti will not play both ways on a regular basis, Gaudaur said.

Pease Lone Canadian In Grand Prix

TORONTO (CP)—Al Pease of Toronto will be the only Canadian among drivers competing at Mosport Aug. 27 for $100,000 in prizes in the Grand Prix of Canada.

Mr. Pease will be driving a Dan Gurney-built Formula One Eagle sponsored by Castrol Oil Co. Ltd., K. G. Thompson, president of Castrol announced Friday.

The race marks the first time Formula One cars have competed on a Canadian track.

Collins Bay Blanks Midgets In Opener

Collins Bay defeated Belleville Ellis' 4-0 in a tight pitching duel at their OASA Midget "A" playoffs opened here last night.

No result was turned in for the game but unofficial reports claim the Collins Bay pitcher threw a two-hitter, striking out 18, while Belleville's Scotty Reid gave up four hits and was hampered by errors.

No date for the next game in the two-of-three series has been announced here.

Minor Baseball

In the BMSA squirt division, on the east bill, Shopping Plaza defeated Vaughan Auto 5-4, while over on the west, Stevenson Ford edged the Cubs 12-11.

Shopping Plaza and Stevenson Ford now open city championship series on Monday, at King George.

New Zealanders In Final

VICTORIA (CP)—The Earl Grey Trophy, symbolic of the Canadian amateur golf championship, will be up for grabs 6,500-mile journey from Victoria to New Zealand.

That was decided Friday as Ross Murray and Stuart Jones, members of New Zealand's Commonwealth golf team, advanced to today's 36-hole match play final.

Neither would commit himself on his chances over the 6,507-yard, par 35-35—70 Royal Colwood golf course.

Murray had sidelined Dick Rumble, a 5-year - 520 - Los Angeles trial lawyer, 3 and 1 and was waiting for Jones' semi-final match to finish when he said:

"I'd like to see old father win it," in a reference to the 53-year-old Jones who is a veteran of international play and a six-time winner of the New Zealand amateur championship.

And Jones came through, although Johnny Sala of Woodland, Ma., took him to the 18th before bowing 2 and 1.

Murray's last clash with Jones was in the semi-finals of last year's New Zealand amateur when the veteran sidelined the 36-year old Dunedin sales manager en route to his ninth victory.

Sala and Murray advanced to the semi-finals by downing Keith Alexander and Bob Wylie, both of Calgary, in the quarter-finals.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—James Kelly, the sensational 19-year-old apprentice jockey, rode seven winners here at Greenwood Raceway to boost his total to 14 wins in five days.

Kelly's 14 wins gives him a commanding lead in rider standings; Hugo Dittsch, Avelino Gomez and Jerry Hawkins are far behind in second place with five wins apiece.

Attendance was 7,287; total handle $435,978.

Cards 11½ Up

Tight NL Race Just Hazy Memory

Tigers, Bosox Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The vice-tight pennant race is now a trademark of the National League, has been only a hazy memory this August, and St. Louis Cardinals seem determined to keep it that way.

The red-hot Cardinals spun off their second straight victory Friday night, whipping Houston Astros 5-3 on Steve Carlton's six-hitter. The victory ballooned the Cards' league lead to 11½ games.

St. Louis has shattered the race with a torrid 13-4 pace this month. They led by just 5½ games as the month began, but won five straight games and have been just about metopeze ever since.

Carlton struck out 11 Friday night and didn't allow a hit after the sixth inning. Julian Javier and Mike Shannon knocked the hitting, each smashing a home run and driving in a pair of runs.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago Cubs tripped Philadelphia Phillies 8-3, Pittsburgh Pirates pounded New York Mets 7-2, San Francisco Giants stopped Cincinnati Reds 2-1 and Los Angeles Dodgers downed Atlanta Braves 5-1.

Shannon's fourth-inning homer was the first hit off Houston's Mike Cuellar. After Tim McCarver reached on an error, Javier unloaded and Cards had a 3-0 lead.

Doubles by Doug Rader and Ron Brand got a run back for the Astros but run-scoring hits by Curt Flood and Shannon produced two more St. Louis runs in the fifth.

Rookie left-hander Jim Ellis won his first major league game and halted a four-game Chicago losing streak as the Cubs dropped the Phillies.

Ellis, recalled from Tacoma Aug. 13, worked into the seventh inning before giving way to Chuck Hartenstein. Glenn Beckert drove in two Chicago runs as the Cubs beat ex-teammate Larry Jackson.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The only hit the California Angels could muster in 14 innings Friday night was one by their pitcher and it's still got the Boston Red Sox stymied.

In the fourth inning of Boston's 2-0 victory, Angel starter Jack Hamilton fielded Boston slugger Tony Conigliaro by hitting him with a pitch on the left temple and knocking him unconscious.

Conigliaro was taken to hospital where the diagnosis was a cracked cheek bone, severe nasal hemorrhage and three weeks out of the line-up. The first two will bother Tony, but the third is considered more serious.

Gary Bell stopped California without a hit until with one out in the seventh inning Jimmie Hall hit his 16th homer over the left-field screen. Hall followed with another homer in the ninth.

Bell had the Boston hitting attack, too, getting credit for a double and a run-scoring single. Mike Ryan each tripled in another run and scored on a bad relay throw to the plate by Jim Fregosi.

In other American League games, New York Yankees and Minnesota Twins split a twinnight doubleheader 1-0 and 3-4, Washington Senators edged Kansas City Athletics 7-6, Detroit Tigers stopped Cleveland Indians 4-0 in a rain-shortened 4½-inning affair and Chicago White Sox split with Baltimore Orioles, winning 3-1 before losing 8-2.

Joe Pepitone drove in a run with a single in the first inning of the the Twins-Yankees opener and Steve Barber made it stand up the rest of the game, shutting out the Orioles on six hits.

The Yanks were winning the nightcap 3-2 behind Fred Talbot's five-hit pitching, when Rich Reese turned things around with a two-run homer in the ninth. Harmon Killebrew drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly.

The first game at Chicago seemed as if it might never start—a two-hour rain delay slowed things considerably—and the second game seemed as if it might never end.

Pete Ward's two-run homer was the deciding factor in the opener and Cecil Butler's three-run homer hayed a five-run Baltimore third in the nightcap.

Cut To 36 Holes

Golfers Unhappy With CPGA Decision

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) —The decision of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association executive to reduce the annual championship event to 36 holes did not rest well Friday with the closest pursuers of leader George Knudson of Toronto.

For those who had a bad second Friday, there was glee when the executive washed out the second round because of a rainstorm. Officials declared there would be a new start and that 36 holes would suffice.

Said Sam Leonard of Vancouver and eight-time CPGA champion:

"Somebody dropped the ball. I'm talking about the 36-hole decision."

A highly-placed eastern executive, who asked his name not be used, said the decision was unpopular and regrettable.

WM Honeomik of Winnipeg, 1966 champion, said: "This is not a championship tournament and I agree with Moe Norman, the defending champion, when he says this year's winner won't be a true champion."

Fellow 69s was Brean of Toronto and Al Hosick, a Montrealer now of Renfrew, Ont., had no complaint.

Brean had an outgoing nine-over-par 41 before the rain descended. Hosick had a 70 over after six holes. Both started with the average behind Knudson's opening 67.

Veteran Jules Huot of Montreal, also with 71, took 42 going out. Jean-Guy Pariard of Montreal, 72, and Adrien Bigras of Montreal, with 73, were far from happy. Both said that with the two more rounds they would have a chance.

Now they can only hope to get in the January money-winners.

Homeomik, who plays on the United Seton pro tour, was optimistic by saying: "There is no such thing in the U.S. as a 36-hole championship. If there is a championship event for several days, the sponsors have an option to play over."

"A 54-hole tournament stands as is, but at 36 holes there isn't any distribution of prize money.

"This tournament should be labelled an exhibition and it's championship status deferred until next year.

"I don't want a vote of the membership sided for."

"The fellows within reasonable distance of Knudson would have a chance with two more rounds. Now the whole thing is the championship because five or six with Knudson holding the advantage."

Homeomik was in the 71 bracket, along with several others including Moe Norman and Montreal's Jack Bissegger. He was out in 37 and Bissegger in 34.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., started at 36, one stroke behind Knudson, who was one stroke behind par over the eight holes. Panasiuk was one over after nine.

English Soccer Begins New Season Today

LONDON (CP)—Britain's late-summer soccer madness strikes again today.

It will be ritualistic roary, big crowds, hot dogs, people's pies—crocked noggins among the partisans and melodictions upon all referees as the English Football League kicks off for a 69-week soccer run.

Perhaps 1,000,000 fans will rattle the turnstiles for the opening day's games among the 92 teams in the four top divisions. The season goes on until the climactic cup final in late May.

Argos, Esks Look For Top Spots

EDMONTON (CP)—Toronto Argonauts roll into Clarke Stadium for their first Western games tonight against Edmonton Eskimos, anxious to show their eastern supremacy in the first of two late-season Saturday encounters.

Since 1961, the Argos have known nothing but the cellar. But they're off to a flying start this season with two straight victories and a share of first place in the Eastern Football Conference with the Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Eskimos, who fared better with a third-place finish last year after several disastrous seasons, are tabbing a bad start at an old western tradition. Nobody wins more than two games in a row.

With this in mind, coach Neil Armstrong is hoping tradition will prevail—at least until he meet the Argos. Like Toronto, the Eskimos are also eyeing first place.

The Western Conference is off to a tight start with three teams—Winnipeg, Calgary and Saskatchewan—bunched in first place with four points each. Edmonton would like to join the crowd.

Dave Hill Overtakes Gary Player

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP)—Dave Hill spent more than an hour on practice shots Friday after playing in the second round of the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open—and because he had any faults to correct—but to keep the form that gave him a 10-under-par 61 Friday.

"I practice every day of my life," the 30-year-old Hill said. "It's a humiliating game, it can defy you. The next, but I'm glad it's over. This was a tough one."

Hill's 61 Friday added to Thursday's 71 gave him a 132 total and a one-stroke edge over South African Gary Player and Texan Terry Dill. Player had 65-69, and Dill 66-66 for 134 totals. Veteran Doug Ford had 67 Friday to hit next at 135.

Lee Trevino, 27-year-old El Paso, Tex., club professional in the first serious try at the pro tour, stood just three strokes off Hill's pace with 67-69—136.

Women's Golf

Three-Putts Oust Champion

SASKATOON (CP)—The three-putt got Helen Gagnon in the clutches Friday, and as it turned a new Canadian women's golf champion will be named today.

Miss Gagnon, of Arvida, Que., was the title holder from Halifax and was breezing steadily through this year's events, winning most of her matches easily.

Then, in Friday's semi-final she was hit by a 16-under-par 68 by Miss Palmer of Kamloops, B.C., Miss Gagnon's putter deserted her. She three-putted five times and bowed out of the tournament 3 and 2.

Miss Palmer was to meet Bridget Jackson, Birmingham, England, today in the 36-hole final.

Miss Jackson made it in the final with a 1-and-4 win over Rae Milligan of Thornhill, Ont. She was a disappointed second golf for Miss Gagnon. The troubles began on the second hole when she muffed a four-footer and in a bid to half the hole. It played about the same on the fourth where she three-putted from 30 feet. She took three putts on the sixth and three more on the 13th, 15th.

Through all the trouble, Miss Palmer played the steady, unspectacular game she has played all week, and it paid off over two over par when the match was over.

Miss Jackson won her semi-final with a similar performance, and finished about one over.

Miss Milligan did not have her putter with any part of her game. She hit a few bad approach shots and a few bad lies, but every time she hit a good shot, Miss Jackson came up with a better one.

But Cubans Out

Top Athletes At Meet

TORONTO (CP)—An eight-member Cuban track team lost its political hurdles race Friday when the U.S. state department threw up a final obstacle.

The Cubans were earlier this week they would not be able to attend the meet because of transportation difficulties between Havana and Mexico City. But a Fidel Castro Friday changed things Thursday when he ordered a special plane to fly the athletes to Mexico where they could pick up a scheduled flight to Toronto.

But the U.S. government lowered the boom. The Mexico City-Toronto flight makes a stop in Detroit, and the U.S. said Friday that regulations prohibit Cubans from landing in the United States except under some procedures, which can take weeks.

CNE officials made unsuccessful 11th-hour appeals to the Americans to relax their rules, but the government ordered customs Premier Castro to fly the athletes direct to Canada, but abandoned the idea because the U.S. prohibits Cuban planes from flying over U.S. soil.

TORONTO (CP)—Many of the top women athletes of the western world will be competing in the centennial invitational track meet here Sunday.

The meet, scheduled for 2 p.m. EDT, includes male and female athletes from Canada, the United States, Jamaica and Trinidad.

Harry Jerome of Vancouver, world record-holder in the 100-metres and 200-metres and gold medallist in the 100-metre race at the Pan-Am Games, will be on hand.

Nancy McCredie of Brampton, Ont., gold medallist in the 400-metres at Winnipeg, also will compete.

Other top notch Canadian performers are Ivanie discus thrower Carol Martin of Toronto, sprinter Irene Piotrowski of Hamilton, Ont., middle-distance specialist Abbie Hoffman and Roberta Picco of Toronto, sprinter Janet Nutter of Ottawa and Jean Wingerson-Meldrum of Toronto, specialist in the women's 80-metres hurdles and high jumper Susan Nigh of Toronto.

Dave Bailey of Toronto, the only Canadian male athlete to run in less than four minutes, will not compete at Sunday's meet. The middle-distance runner is now attend the World University Games in Tokyo.

"Decent Treatment for A Change" Aim of Striking Sailors

MONTREAL (CP)—"What's it like to work a lake carrier? Lady, I'll tell you it's damn miserable."

Jimmy Moss White, a tough-talking ship's cook from Cape Breton, N.S., was one of several striking Great Lakes sailors working out the walkout Friday in the swanky downtown headquarters of the Seafarers International Union.

"We're going to get that 40-hour week if we have to stay here a year," he said. "We want some decent treatment for a change."

The sailors described wages, hours and working conditions for seamen, deckhands, firemen, oilers and cooks which they said is like creating a dangerous atmosphere of sanity and frustration aboard Canada's inland carriers.

About half the fleet of 121 ships owned by 21 Great Lakes shipping companies are more than 30 years old, they said. Conditions on these vessels could only be described as "deplorable."

The 1961, when I was working the R. O. Fetzner, I waited three months before I got a mattress," said Vincent Moughton, an oiler who ships out of Toronto.

"Until then I slept on the springs of my bunk with a few blankets spread over them."

The 1961, both, however, are long hours and a work-spread system that keeps seamen on call for 24 hours straight.

Bosun Walter Dube said a sailor might work two hours in the morning, take time off before docks, and then be called again to work six hours until midnight. If the ship was travelling down a canal he might be kept on duty for another eight hours after midnight.

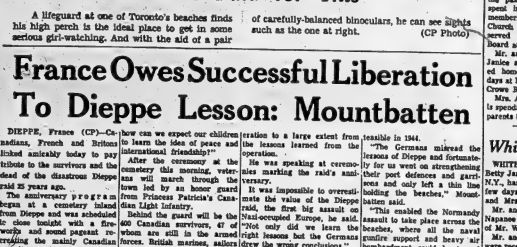
But he got no overtime pay since the last eight hours were counted as belonging to a new day.

During unloading periods, engine room workers and seamen responsible for "manning out" grain or ore from the holds of self-unloading ships might put in 36 or 40 hours without sleep.

"I like fellows asleep lying in the grease and oil of the engine," Mr. Moughton said quietly. "The men get so exhausted they have to quit for a rest."

"I leave my job about every three months just to get some sleep. You can't make money that way."

Deckhands, who make about $350 a month, work an eight-month shipping season on the Great Lakes. Others responsible for ship repairs and cleaning get closer to 10 months employment.



"The only time I ever see my family is during that two months off," says Mr. White. "I've got five kids. I can't afford to quit my job to go see them.

"My family just exists on what I make. They get no extras."

Worst to work on were small tankers, often 60 or 70 years old, where men sleep so tightly packed they can reach from one bunk to another.

Conditions on new ships were better. But in the case of the big new self-unloading vessels that may spend only eight hours in port, it was hard to get enough time ashore to do more than cash cheques and mail letters.

"If you want to see a movie or something you have to set like social people," Mr. White says. "You've got to take a shower and clean up. By the time you do that, your leave is up."

France Owes Successful Liberation To Dieppe Lesson: Mountbatten

DIEPPE, France (CP)—Canadians, French and Britons linked amicably today to pay tribute to the survivors and the dead of the disastrous Dieppe raid 25 years ago.

The anniversary program began at a cemetery inland from Dieppe and was scheduled to close tonight with a fireworks and sound pageant recreating the mainly Canadian assault on this German-occupied port Aug. 19, 1942.

More than 600 Canadians from the Prairies, Ontario and western Ontario mounted a vigil Friday night at nearby Vertus Woods over the graves of 687 Canadian soldiers and 247 British commandos, Royal Navy and Royal Canadian Air Force men killed in the raid.

About 70 miles south of Vertus woods, a small group of veteran German defenders met at their own cemetery after being cold-shouldered out of the official Dieppe celebration.

The German planned to hold their own remembrance ceremony today and soon member of the group was Gen. Joachim Lindner, a captain in 1942 and now commander of a NATO brigade in West Germany.

Another member, Fritz Mueger, 65, veteran of the German 302nd Division that defended Dieppe, expressed bitter regret that Germans had been excluded from the official ceremony. He called the refusal of Canadian to invite German veterans both "sad and unbelievable."

"If we can still behave this way after 25 years—despite the fact that we are allied now—how can we expect our children to learn the idea of peace and international friendship?"

After the ceremony at the cemetery this morning, veterans will march through the town led by an honor guard from Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Behind the guard will be the 600 Canadian survivors, 47 of whom are still in the armed forces. British marines, sailors and about 100 commandos will follow and the parade will close with French troops and a band.

Principal speaker will be Leo Cadieux, Canadian minister of veterans affairs, his French counterpart, Henri Davillard, and Earl Mountbatten of Burma, head of British combined operations and the man behind the decision of the Dieppe raid.

Mountbatten said today France owes its successful liberation to a large extent from the lessons learned from the operation.

He was speaking at ceremonies marking the raid's anniversary.

It was impossible to overestimate the value of the Dieppe raid, the first big assault on Nazi-occupied Europe, he said.

"Not only did we learn the French lessons but the Germans drew the wrong conclusion."

Mountbatten said the raid was the turning point in the technique of invasion—the Allies learned that a frontal assault on a heavily defended port could not succeed without intense preliminary bombardment.

This, and the variable weather conditions of the English Channel, led to development of the prefabricated mobile harbors known as Mulberry, which made the Normandy invasion feasible in 1944.

"The Germans misread the lessons of Dieppe and fortunately for us went on strengthening their port defences and garrisons and only left a thin line holding the beaches," Mountbatten said.

"This enabled the Normandy assault to take place across the beaches, where all the naval gunfire support and heavy air bombardment could be turned on to flatten out the beach defences and defenders, without impeding our troops."

Mountbatten said he had no doubt the battle of Normandy was won on the beaches at Dieppe.

"France owes her successful liberation to a large extent to the vital lessons which we learned at Dieppe. The name of Dieppe will therefore live forever in the history of France and the Allies."

Marmora

MARMORA — On Friday evening the UCW of St. Andrew's, Marmora, met in the Upper Room and presented a gift to Mrs. Frank Grant, who is leaving Marmora to reside in Cardiff, Ont. Mrs. J. R. Barker read an address and Mrs. Allan Wells made the presentation. Miss Grace Warren and Mrs. Wells conducted contests.

At a coffee party held on Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lavender's patio Tuesday morning for members of Marmora Women's Institute presented Mrs. Frank Grant with a gift in token of their appreciation of 33 years of service. Mrs. Grant has held every office in the WI and at present is a director of the local branch.

On Tuesday afternoon several of the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Grant presented them with a gift in appreciation of their many acts of kindness and neighborliness. Mr. and Mrs. Grant lived in Sault Ste. Marie for a few years after their marriage, but the past 35 years have been spent in Marmora. They are members of St. Andrew's Church where Mr. Grant has served many years on the Board and at present as elder.

Atlantic Debt Interest Grows But Assets Also Improve

TORONTO (CP)—The bankrupt Atlantic Acceptance Corp., now being administered by Montreal Trust Co. as receiver and manager, has more to offer senior note holders today than it did a year ago.

But because interest is also growing on its debt—and Atlantic owes more than it can pay—its excess of liabilities over assets is also growing.

This is the somewhat tangled picture presented in a report on Atlantic finances issued by Montreal Trust this week.

The trust company set Atlantic's realized assets at $91,136,605 on Dec. 31, 1961, about $6,000,000 more than a year before.

But, because interest on its unpaid debt is also growing, it had a net deficit at that date of $54,136,596 compared with $52,304,233 a year earlier.

Atlantic collapsed in a financial crisis in June, 1960. At that time it was estimated senior noteholders would receive back $103,000,000. This figure was later increased to $108,000,000.

Interest on the debt and redemption premiums have increased enough the amount to $121,792,833.

J. G. Heaton, vice - president of Montreal Trust, said in his report no distribution has been made to senior noteholders because Connecticut General Insurance Co. is claiming some senior notes are not entitled to such status.

The case is expected to come before the Ontario Supreme Court within the next few months. Mr. Heaton said a distribution would be made after the settlement.

If the Connecticut claim is upheld, some senior debt might go to subordinate noteholders. Otherwise Mr. Heaton said, it appears as if junior and subordinate noteholders will get nothing of the $23,144,193 owing them on Atlantic's books.

Listed among Atlantic's assets are the Lucayan Beach Hotel and Development Ltd. of Freeport, Grand Bahama Island, valued at $10,110,378.

Montreal Trust spent $3,500,000 acquiring the remaining outstanding shares of the hotel and invested another $8,450,000

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

On the plus side, ITL Industries rose 1¾ to 42½, Algoma Steel 1¼ to 27¾ and Western Canadian Seed 60 cents to $.35.

Consolidated Bellekeno was the most active issue, up 3¼ to 17 cents on 650,000 shares. Bellekeno advanced 5 to 75 cents on 205,000 shares and d'Eldona 25 cents to 2.45 on 220,000.

On index, golds were up .52 to 181.56, base metals .77 to 103.32 and western oils 1.43 to 189.88. Volume was 5,483,000 shares compared with 5,151,000 Thursday.

Buying Spree in Penny Stocks Due to More Drilling Activity

By LARRY DWORKEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Penny stocks surged into the limelight on the Toronto Stock Exchange this week after 27 months of sluggishness.

Speculative fever has been strengthened during the last two weeks and on Tuesday volume jumped to its highest daily level since April, 1958.

A total of 39,461,000 shares changed hands compared with 21,794,000 last week, the heaviest weekly turnover this year.

Brokers say the buying spree is due to increased drilling activity by the junior mines. Some companies have also encountered mineralization.

Six issues traded more than 1,000,000 shares each.

Satellite was the most active issue, up 24 to 75 cents on 2,-025,000 shares. The company has a uranium prospect in the Johan-Beetz area of Quebec.

Consolidated-Bellekeno jumped 10 to 17 cents on 3,-086,000 shares. The company has a lead-zinc prospect in the Yangorda area of the Yukon. However, there has been no news relating to the share's sudden surge.

Blue Chips came under heavy selling pressure following a rash of lower earnings for the first six months of this year.

As a result the industrial index, the key indicator of the market's performance, fell 1.82 to 189.63.

CPR tumbled 5¼ to 67¼ after the company's six-month earnings declined—to $33,850,000 compared with $46,156,600 for the similar period last year.

Inco, which dropped 4¼ last week after announcing lower earnings, also slid to 66¼.

A company spokesman could give no reason for this week's sharp loan.

Shares of the major steel companies lost ground amid reports of lower earnings and gloomy prospects for the rest of the year.

Stelco backed off to 24¼ and Dofasco 94 to 25¼. Algoma gained 94 to 27¾ after being down for most of the week.

Western oils strengthened as Central-Del Rio added 3¼ at 22¾ and Hudson's Bay 1 at 37½.

On index, golds were up 0.11 181.56, base metals 1.40 to 103.22 and western oils 3.01 to 189.90.

At Montreal, industrials dropped .17 to 171.98, utilities .23 to 146.05 and papers .35 to 110.06. Banks edged up .27 to 130.92. Volume totalled 6,354,000 shares compared with 7,018,000 last week.

LAYS LIBEL CHARGE

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Albert Hertzog, South Africa's minister of posts and telegraphs, fired a 100,000-rand ($140,000) claim Friday for libel damages against South African Associated Newspapers, publishers of Johannesburg's Sunday Times, over statements in a report indicated he was breaking faith with then prime minister Hendrik Verwoerd, was attempting to undermine Verwoerd's authority and wished to take over the leadership of the ruling party himself.

What's This? Too Short?

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) —Police Sgt. Jack Fannon was recently given a 15-day suspension without pay for not wearing his hair longer.

Fannon was ordered to let his hair grow. Police Chief William Silver said Fannon's haircut made him look like a member of the Gestapo.

Fannon appealed the suspension.

His appeal was denied Friday.

Fannon said: "It seems to me, that the proper concern of a police chief is what an officer has in his head, not what he has on it."

To Your Good Health

Don't Make Drinking A Daily Habit

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: We have two boys in college and are concerned over the amount of beer they consume. How much beer can young men drink without damaging their health? — M. C. G.

There isn't, obviously, any hard and fast rule about this, but there are some things to keep in mind.

One is that alcohol is alcohol whether it is whiskey in a jigger, gin in a cocktail, any liquor in a highball, or beer or wine.

It isn't generally recognized that the amount of alcohol is approximately the same in a jigger of whiskey, glass of wine, a bottle of beer, or any of the other forms of drink. Whether it is dilute or concentrated, the alcohol is there.

Cirrhosis of the liver is one of the penalties of too much alcohol, although there are other causes of this disease. This is a fact not easily accepted by the many folks who argue that beer and wine are harmless.

The amount of alcohol consumed is what counts, regardless of the form. True, one can drink several drinks of alcoholic wine before he feels the effect of two beer might take, but the total quantity of alcohol is still what counts. One rule of thumb is that if 30 per cent of a person's calorie intake is alcohol, he has a 75 per cent chance of getting cirrhosis.

There are plenty of alcoholics who contend that they aren't "because I drink only beer." But they are. And what? Haven't you ever seen or heard of the "wiener" who goes out in slings? They drink wine because it is one of the cheapest routes to oblivion).

From the standpoint of health, I'd be perfectly happy if nobody drank anything alcoholic until older than college age, but what we prefer and what our sibling generation are going to insist on doing are different things.

The second choice, I would hope that college drinkers understand the truth about alcohol. Some people can tolerate very little alcohol, others can handle more without harm.

The fellow who is at college a gg, begins to pride himself on the amount he can consume in bending for trouble. The trouble they come soon, or it may wait a decade or two, but it will catch up to him.

I've seen it happen to some I went to school with.

So my advice is to keep it very easy. Don't make beer a daily habit. Habits grow. They start when we are young. But they grow.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am troubled with an itching scalp. Will you please name a good shampoo for this ailment? — Mr. J. P.

Here's an example of an unanswerable question. Because I don't know what is making your scalp itch. There isn't any remedy which will necessarily cure an itch, but when you find out what is causing the itch, then it sometimes becomes a very simple matter to prescribe something that will cure the cause.

In a case like this I would go to a dermatologist (skin specialist) and find the exact cause. It would be a great deal quicker (and doubtless less expensive) than perhaps spending months trying out various remedies on a hit-or-miss basis.

Dear Dr. Molner: I say a man who sleeps in pajamas needs an electric blanket or two or three covers should not sweat. Because I get up in the morning without a robe and slippers, from a health standpoint. If your reply is in the affirmative it will save me and perhaps others many dollars in lost time and medical bills. — J. D.

But suppose I say, it isn't comfortable, there's no danger that I can see? And that is what I say.

Sophisticated Society in Years Ahead Will Make It Privilege to Work: Ouimet

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet published his annual ball today and predicted 100 years into the future, coming up with a forecast of a brilliant, sophisticated and wealthy population that will choose its own TV fare—and won't be bothered by commercials.

In a speech to the Institute of Association Executives, the retiring CBC head sketched a picture of the complex electronic world Canadians will find in after the country's second hundred years.

Today, of course, we could be so stupid as to blow ourselves up in the meantime."

Mr. Ouimet described as several aspects of future life besides those related to television.

Among them:

—Pocket size TV sets and personal computers will be common.

—Computers of 100 years hence "will have completely displaced today's clerks, stenographers, bookkeepers, junior managers and much of the middle-management and skilled worker classes."

—Completely new groups of highly trained and skilled professionals of superior intelligence will play a predominant role.

—Education will have been revolutionized and the average educational and cultural levels will correspond to today's post-graduates.

—World population probably will have been stabilized somewhere between 10,000,000,000 and 20,000,000,000 and women probably will need state permission to have a child.

—Leisure time will have expanded to such an extent that it will be considered a privilege to work.

By the time all this comes to pass, Mr. Ouimet said, the average television viewer will have travelled the world—possibly the solar system too—and will be multilingual and multicultural.

In the huge cities of the future, he said, the present broadcasting system will have been replaced by a public utility service catering to the communications needs of individual subscribers.

Each home would have a special telecommunication centre with an elaborate TV system capable of displaying several different pictures at once on large and small three-dimension color screens.

There would be high-fidelity stereo speakers in each room so each member of the family could choose his own program fare.

The communications centre would not only provide selected TV programs but also would supply education courses, mail, telegrams, magazines, newspapers and clothing services.

Goods would be "ordered, billed and paid for through the same system.

Mr. Ouimet said he hesitated to predict whether commercial advertising would have a place in this system, "but I believe it will."

He visualized that a consumer of the future who, when he wanted to buy a jet or baby carriage, would ask his information service to provide color pictures of latest models, complete with prices and a critical assessment.

The text of Mr. Ouimet's speech was released before delivery.

U Thant To Visit Expo

MONTREAL (CP)—U Thant, secretary-general of United Nations, plans to make an informal and private visit to Expo 67 in September after having been forced to cancel a visit to the world's fair in June because of the Middle East crisis.

It was learned Friday night the secretary-general hopes to visit the fair Sept. 22-24 provided the international situation does not interfere with his plans.

U Thant originally had planned to pay a visit to Expo June 3 when the world's fair honored the world organization by marking United Nations Day but was forced to cancel his visit.

School Adventure At Simon Fraser

VICTORIA, B.C. — "Heck! Every time I get the right shape, the tobacco falls out!" mutters my friend Peter, as he devotes all his mind and muscle to constructing a cigarette. Meanwhile, I, the breadwinner in the family, sit near him, pen in hand, feet on desk, debating how I should start this article.

That no longer a problem, so with some of the money I've pocked from Regina to Victoria, in capsule, we got a hitchhiker's view of Canada's booming prairies; in Vancouver, a draftdodger told us of his plight and Simon Fraser University captured our imaginations.

A roadside billboard in Regina, tells you where you are in Canada. "Drive carefully," it reads. "The policeman life you save Might be a Buffalo!" We travelled from Regina up to Edmonton and Dawson Creek and down through British Columbia to Vancouver. Although we didn't see any buffalo, we were really impressed by the brisk pace of economic development evident everywhere.

A fast salesman who drove us to Regina said: that potash mines in nearby Saskatoon are the largest, highest grade reserves in the world. (Never will Canada be short of fertilizer!) Oil finds in the Athabasca region of Northern Alberta are also the largest known, an oil-rigger told us. He updated Peter's geography text when he added that processes have now been discovered to tap this vast resource. ("And my geography teacher thought they could never do it." Peter laughed. "Wait till I get back!") A young caterpillar operator on the 600 - foot high Portage Mountain Dam near Chetwyn, B.C., told us that the 700 million dollar Peace River Project will supply a half-million volts to Southwestern British Columbia. He came to Canada from England five years ago, garnered a Australia but found he could make $1,200 dollars a month by working here.

In Vancouver we stayed at the apartment of a draft-dodger from San Francisco, and later at a co-operative residence run by Simon Fraser University students.

Dave, 24, who is avoiding the draft, and his fiance, Susan, 23, have been living in Vancouver's English Bay district for over two months. Dave had been an English major at University until his studies were interrupted by the draft.

"I never understood the real meaning of the draft until my first encounter with the draftboard," Dave told us. "They were interested in what I thought of the war; or whether I cared about what causes I give my life to. All they were interested in was making their quotas."

David has some definite ideas about the country he wants to immigrate to. "Canada is so beautifully out of it! She is younger and more innocent than the U.S.A. Here people still have hope in working things out. In the States, you can't even talk politics anymore. It's all: Either we kill the reds or they'll get us!"

Dave, whose father is a retired major, hopes to finish university here and become a teacher. He is having trouble getting his landed immigrant status though.

"I've been trying for more than two months — it's really a pain. The immigration officer tells me nothing. He has me filling out forms and answering questions all the time. It seems like his whole purpose in to see me make a mistake. There's no way to know what is going on. I have friends my age with degrees who have been refused entrance, while others who seem to have nothing to offer are accepted. It is completely irrational!"

"We know that official policy is not to consider draft status, and we trust this," said Susan, who got her immigrant status in 30 minutes, "but the immigration people seem to have all kinds of discretionary powers."

We could sense the pressure that this young couple were under, and we were relieved to enter the more frolicsome atmosphere of the Simon Fraser student co-op.

In two big houses, 30 young men and women, nine cats, two dogs and a white rabbit named "Silkely" reap the benefits of co-op living. With the purchase of food freezers and washing machines, the students are able to economize; and by owning the houses themselves, they have freedom from old-fashioned restrictions. At the same time, they have a little society on which to test their ideas. These students have elected not to have duty lists for cooking, cleaning, etc. There are no managers, no directors.

"The emphasis is on co-operation," one student explained. Ructions are on the upswing, things just get done!"

Most of the meetings, where the students try to find the common interest.

Most of the students at the co-op attend Simon Fraser, an ultra-ultra modern university built on a mountain overlooking Vancouver. The campus was thrilling but we were even more impressed with Simon Fraser's attitude towards education. Briefly, you can practically take any course you want in any subject you want at any year-level you want. Students like Peter and myself, who are at the Ontario high school Grade 13 level, the equivalent "first year" at Simon Fraser should be in more room for student initiative. S.F.U.; school is an adventure not a chore!

Now for some geometry. If we made a rectangle encompassing Canada, the four points would be St. John's, Nfld., Victoria, B.C., Inuvik, N.W.T., and Windsor, Ont. We've been in St. John's and Victoria; next week we hope to report from Inuvik, where the Mackenzie empties into the Arctic Ocean. I realize that dogsled traffic might be above but we're going by plane! Pacific Western Airlines has decided to help us see that 80 per cent of Canada between Canada and the Arctic.

We like to say that we swam "coast to coast" Swimming we took a dip in P.E.I. and B.C. In keeping with our sense of history, I have been given permission to commit Peter and myself to a skinny dip in the Arctic Ocean! Until next week — mush!!!

Don't Walk But Run Up Stairs Advice Arising Out of Tests

TORONTO (CP)—Sex and city walking don't qualify as valid exercises, but climbing stairs is okay as long as it's done on the run, says a report on a Toronto experiment.

The August edition of the Canadian Medical Association Journal says it found out about walking and stairs in a study of 31 Toronto males whose heartbeats were monitored by a tape recorder for 24-hour periods over the course of a year.

It says no attempt was made to collect pulse rates during sexual activity because this would be "an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." Anyway, that work had been done by others in different surveys.

These studies indicated high pulse rates rising to 140 or 150 a minute during sexual activity, but they were due to emotional response and muscle contraction, neither of which is "an important factor in cardiorespiratory training."

The Journal, in an article by Dr. R. J. Shephard of Toronto, reports that neither walking nor the slow ascent of stairs, main sources of exercise among city dwellers, forces the heart to pump fast enough to keep fit.

Scandinavian studies have shown that the heart should beat 140 to 150 times a minute during a "significant" part of the day if the aim is to absorb enough oxygen to keep the body healthy.

The 16 Toronto men wore portable electrocardiograms which tape recorded their heartbeats, and kept 24-hour diaries of their activities.

Main finding from the diaries was that most people think they exercise harder and longer than they really do—the diaries usually exaggerated on what was shown by the pulse recordings.

The report says pulse rates increased when the subjects walked quitairs, but not sufficiently to do them much good ar exercise for the heart and lungs.

They could have turned stair-climbing into a legitimate exercise by running up two flights 10 times a day, the article says.

Tweed District News

TWEED — One of the largest crowds in the history of the turkey supper and dance sponsored by St. John the Evangelist Parish in Flinton, attended the recent annual event.

Another big fish was caught by Frank Dunstyman, (son of Tweed's most avid fisherman). He landed a 30-pound muskie on Stoco Lake during the weekend. The fish measured 40 inches in length and 20 inches in girth.

Mrs. E. L. Jardine is leaving this week for Carleton Place, where she will spend an indefinite time with her sister, Mrs. Ida Dunlop, who was injured in a bus accident June 24.

Mrs. Joseph (Elaine) Le-Sage, formerly of Tweed, who has been housekeeper for Rev. Peter Murphy in Flinton, is leaving next week for Kingston, where she will be on the teaching staff of Ambercrieve School.

The Anglican women of Plevna, sponsored a successful turkey supper recently in their hall.

Mrs. Thomas Sloat, Tweed, celebrated her 93rd birthday Aug. 10. She resides with her daughter, Mrs. Irvine Bateman and enjoys good health.

Fifty 'Hippies' Arrested for Protest Against Yorkville Cars

TORONTO (CP)—Yorkville erupted in violence and disorder Sunday evening as police struggled through swirling crowds to arrest about 50 hippies involved in the second demonstration of the day in the heart of the coffee house and discotheque district.

Police said the 50, and six arrested earlier in the day, will appear in magistrate's court today on charges of causing a disturbance.

About 2,000 people were congregated in a block-long section of Yorkville Ave. in the mid-town Bloor St. area at the height of the evening's unrest.

Police slapped, kicked and punched as they moved through the mob.

However, an officer at a nearby police station said there were no complaints of police brutality from any of the persons arrested.

The evening protest was a continuation of a campaign led by the Diggers, a hippie self-help organization, to have the district's main street closed to traffic.

Sunday's trouble began before dawn when about 100 shaggy-haired youths and girls in Hippies claim city fathers, with whom they conferred last Thursday, have ignored their grievances. Traffic through Yorkville, they say, subjects them to excessive noise, car fumes and the gawking eyes of sight-seers.

danced around a blazing garbage can on the street. Chanting "Love, love, love" and "Legalize marijuana," they blocked traffic and brought crowds of policemen.

Six hippies were arrested in this outburst. Charged with creating a disturbance, they spent 10 hours in jail.

When the six were released Sunday afternoon on their own recognizance, they were greeted by several hundred hippies who held a "love-in" at Queen's Park, near the Ontario legislative buildings.

One of those who welcomed the six out of jail was Mary Kerson, who said she is a member of the New York Diggers, an ally of the Yorkville group.

She claimed 18,000,000 people in the U.S. are behind the hippies, and said she could supply Yorkville residents with $30,000 By early evening, about 200 from the park returned to Yorkville Ave., a few blocks away.

Chanting "We love police-men" and singing Oriental hymns, the hippies lay and sat on the pavement. When they ignored police orders to move on, the arrests started.

Acapulco Riot

22 Are Slain At Union Dinner

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—A blazing gun battle between two rival factions at the 25th anniversary banquet of a copra growers union Sunday left 22 persons dead and an estimated 100 wounded in this Pacific Coast resort.

Police and soldiers rounded up 184 persons for questioning. Those involved are men who grow and harvest copra—dried coconut meat—either on their own or by hiring workers.

Claudio Monreal, Acapulco police commander, said one group of about 800 men was holding the banquet at the two-storey building of the regional copra-growers union. Another group of about 1,000, dissatisfied with a recent union election, gathered outside.

Cesar del Angel, a representative in the state government of Veracruz, was a leader of the uninvited contingent, said Mario Jaime Palacios, an agent of the Acapulco attorney general's office.

Del Angel was first reported killed in the shooting, then wounded, then fleeing to the hills with police and soldiers on his trail.

One witness reported that Del Angel entered the building during the celebration to negotiate for more representation for his faction in the union. He then left the building and a few minutes later ordered the door kicked down.

At that point shots were fired from the crowd outside, and persons inside the building returned the fire, some with machine-guns.

When police and soldiers arrived, many of the dead and wounded were lying in the street.

Within an hour the area, a slum district on the road to Acapulco's Pie de la Cuesta beach, had taken on a bizarre holiday air. Thousands milled around and tourists roamed the streets snapping pictures.

Police said the dead included two women and a child.

U.S. Embassy Machine-gunned

LONDON (Reuters) — Top-level U.S. security officials today worked side by side with British special branch in a massive hunt for the three political extremists who sprayed the U.S. Embassy here with machine-gun bullets Sunday night.

While the embassy and police officers met in a top-level conference today, extra police were posted around the embassy building in Grosvenor Square, one of the most elegant areas of London.

Glass doors and windows in the consular section of the building were smashed by the bullets in the gang-land style attack, but no one was injured.

Four marines Cpl. John McNamara, 23, it was a marine. He said the attack came seconds before he entered the reception area behind the glass doors on his routine rounds.

Nine bullets cut through the doors, sending glass splinters flying through the air.

Police, after the attack, found a note on a sidewalk outside which said:

"Stop criminal murders by the American army! Solidarity with all people battling against Yankee fascism all over the world! Racism! Freedom for American Negroes!"

The note was signed Revolutionary Solidarity Movement.

Scotland Yard searched for the white sedan car used in the attack.

Farm Worker Arrested For Saskatchewan Killings

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—RCMP arrested a 21-year-old farm worker Saturday in the mass slaying of nine members of one family and said he will be formally charged today.

The arrest of Victor Ernest Hoffman, 21, came four days after the family of James Peterson, 47, was almost wiped out by gunfire early Tuesday in their farm home at Shell Lake, Sask.

Inspector Brian Sawyer of the RCMP, in charge of the investigation which involved 75 Mounties in the Shell Lake area alone, said the arrest was made in Leask, 60 miles southeast of the scene of the shooting of Peterson, his wife, and seven of their nine children.

The arrest "was the culmination of a very casual conversation that one of our members had with an individual and we decided it would be wise to check the Hoffman residence," Insp Sawyer said.

A 22-calibre Belgian Browning pump-action repeater rifle was found Friday and tested at the RCMP ballistics laboratory in Regina, the officer said.

Hoffman surrendered at his parents' home without a struggle three hours after the Petersons were buried in a single grave.

Fire-bombs Answer Klan Rally

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Roving Negro youths threw fire bombs at buildings in a low-rent Negro neighborhood early today after rallies Sunday by the Ku Klux Klan and by 600 Negroes who gathered on the Capitol steps.

The Negro rally climaxed a 106-mile civil rights march that brought out this state's greatest display of force for racial troubles.

Fires broke out before midnight in the Eden Park neighborhood of low-rent Negro housing. None was major.

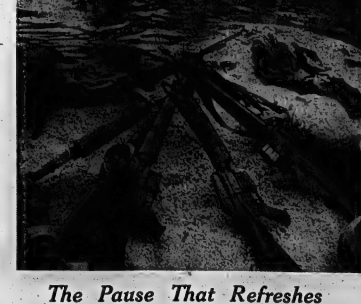
100 Ships Tied Up

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for the striking Seafarers' International Union said Sunday about 100 Great Lake ships now are immobilized and the remaining 81 affected by the strike will be tied up before Wednesday.

Some lakers were still in Chicago, and others were nearing their destinations. Beethings were proceeding slower than first anticipated by the union.

Policeman and JP Are Slain When Called to Family Fight

LISTOWEL, Ont. (CP)—A provincial policeman, a justice of the peace, and a farmer are dead following a bizarre shooting incident near here Saturday following a family quarrel.



Constable James Irvine Hamilton, 36, and Carl F. Rocher, 76, justice of the peace, both of Listowel, were shot to death when they arrived at the farm of Joseph Jantzi to investigate a telephone complaint of Mrs. Jantzi.

Mr. Jantzi, known to neighbors for his crack shooting, was found dead later in a ground-floor bedroom. Beside him were a rifle and a shotgun.

Mrs. Jantzi had gone to a neighbor's and phoned provincial police at Listowel following a fight with her husband.

The police cruiser with Hamilton and Rocher was just stopping at the front door of the Elma Township farmhouse when Hamilton was shot through the head and Rocher through the left shoulder and neck.

Neighbors heard the shots and called provincial police at Stratford. Cpl. W. J. E. Ferguson and Constable Kenneth Armstrong were sent to investigate. When they saw the bodies of Hamilton and Rocher they called for reinforcements.

Postal Workers Here Will Obey Call for One-day Strike Friday

Post office employees who voted against a one - day work stoppage will obey a majority union vote for a one - day work stoppage Friday.

"We are definitely going out and we will maintain a picket line for 24 hours," said J. W. O'Sullivan, president of the Belleville local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers.

The action here involves 27 clerks and mail dispatchers, but its effects were not immediately outlined today.

Acting postmaster Jack Smith could not say how the walkout might influence opening of the post office to the public. He said he was awaiting instructions from Ottawa.

Mail, however, will continue to be delivered in the city, James Campbell, president of the Belleville local of the Letter Carriers Union, said the executives of both locals met recently and discussed the situation.

Carriers, he said today, would cross the picket line and deliver whatever mail was available.

The carriers begin their daily rounds at 8 a.m. By the time the clerical staff strikes after midnight Friday they will have sorted mail for about 12 hours for delivery.

Saturday morning there will be eight hours in which to prepare mail for delivery, Mr. Campbell pointed out.

The national strike call was issued because 1,200 postal workers did not receive a compensating day off for working the July 3 holiday. About 12,000 are involved in the call.

Members of the union's Belleville local three weeks ago pledged support for union negotiations to seek compensation for future holidays worked. However, they voted against the token 24 - hour protest.

But today, Mr. O'Sullivan indicated the Belleville local would abide by the decision of national union headquarters.

In Trenton, meantime, postal workers may meet once more before the Friday deadline. Ron Loader, president of the 13-man Trenton local, said a vote taken last week was 75 per cent in favor of the one-day strike.

However, several members of the local were away on vacation when the vote was taken, he added.

In Ottawa, William Kay, union president, said the national office was awaiting reaction from the country to its strike call.

He said an announcement would be made later today.

Union locals in Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster and Edmonton were reported not prepared to go along with the national directive for a one-day walkout.

The arrest of Victor Ernest Hoffman, 21, came four days after the family of James Peterson, 47, was almost wiped out by gunfire early Tuesday in their farm home at Shell Lake, Sask.

Inspector Brian Sawyer of the RCMP, in charge of the investigation which involved 75 Mounties in the Shell Lake area alone, said the arrest was made in Leask, 60 miles southeast of the scene of the shooting of Peterson, his wife, and seven of their nine children.

The arrest "was the culmination of a very casual conversation that one of our members had with an individual and we decided it would be wise to check the Hoffman residence," Insp Sawyer said.

A 22-calibre Belgian Browning pump-action repeater rifle was found Friday and tested at the RCMP ballistics laboratory in Regina, the officer said.

Hoffman surrendered at his parents' home without a struggle three hours after the Petersons were buried in a single grave.

Fire-bombs Answer Klan Rally

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Roving Negro youths threw fire bombs at buildings in a low-rent Negro neighborhood early today after rallies Sunday by the Ku Klux Klan and by 600 Negroes who gathered on the Capitol steps.

The Negro rally climaxed a 106-mile civil rights march that brought out this state's greatest display of force for racial troubles.

Fires broke out before midnight in the Eden Park neighborhood of low-rent Negro housing. None was major.

News Briefs

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Small bands of Negro youths defied a curfew and smashed windows, hurled bottles and set minor fires in the second straight night of disturbances Sunday. Some 100 persons were arrested.

LAGOS, Nigeria (CP) — The government of breakaway Biafra claimed Sunday its B-26 bomber destroyed several of the Nigerian government's new Soviet-built MIG-15 jet fighters on the ground, but other sources said four bombs missed all the planes.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The unsettled cool weather pattern of the last few days shows every indicative of persisting for at least the first part of this week. Another thrust of cool air now has reached the northern shores of Georgian Bay and will cover all of the province by early Tuesday. A few showers will spread into southern Ontario today with the approach of this cooler air. Tuesday will be partly cloudy and cool in all regions.

100 Ships Tied Up

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for the striking Seafarers' International Union said Sunday about 100 Great Lakes ships now are immobilized and the remaining 81 affected by the strike will be tied up before Wednesday.

Some bakers were still in Chicago, and others were nearing their destinations. Bestbings were proceeding slower than first anticipated by the union.

Postal Workers Here Will Obey Call for One-day Strike Friday

Post office employees who voted against a one - day work stoppage will obey a majority union vote for a one - day work stoppage Friday.

"We are definitely going out and we' will maintain a picket line for 24 hours," said J. W. O'Sullivan, president of the Belleville local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers.

The action here involves 27 clerks and mail dispatchers, but its effects were not immediately outlined today.

Today's Chuckle

Some wives leave their husbands and take everything. Others take everything but don't leave.

Acting postmaster Jack Smith could not say how the walkout might influence opening of the post office to the public. He said he was awaiting instructions from Ottawa.

Mail, however, will continue to be delivered in the city, James Campbell, president of the Belleville local of the Letter Carriers Union, said the executives of both locals met recently and discussed the situation.

Carriers, he said today, would cross the picket line and deliver whatever mail was available.

The carriers begin their daily rounds at 8 a.m. By the time the clerical staff strikes after midnight Friday they will have sorted mail for about 12 hours for delivery.

Saturday morning there will be eight hours in which to prepare mail for delivery, Mr. Campbell pointed out.

The national strike call was issued because 2,500 postal workers did not receive a compensating day off for working the July 3 holiday. About 12,000 are involved in the call.

Members of the union's Belleville local three weeks ago pledged support for union negotiations to seek compensation for future holidays worked. However, they voted against the token 24 - hour protest.

But today, Mr. O'Sullivan indicated the Belleville local would abide by the decision of national union headquarters.

In Trenton, meantime, postal workers may meet once more before the Friday deadline. Ron Loader, president of the 13-man Trenton local, said a vote taken last week was 75 per cent in favor of the one-day strike.

However, several members of the local were away on vacation when the vote was taken, he added.

In Ottawa, William Kay, union president, said the national office was awaiting reaction from the country to its strike call.

He said an announcement would be made later today.

Union locals in Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster and Edmonton were reported not prepared to go along with the national directive for a one-day walkout.

Policeman and JP Are Slain When Called to Family Fight

LISTOWEL, Ont. (CP)—A provincial policeman, a justice of the peace, and a farmer are dead following a bizzare shooting incident near here Saturday following a family quarrel.

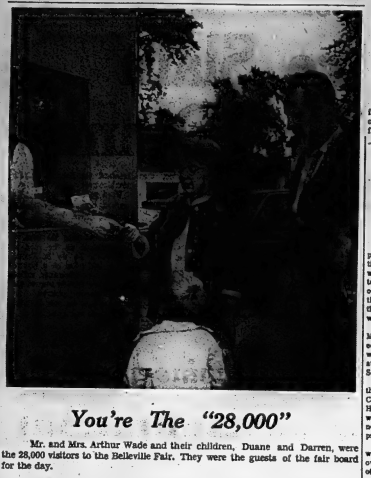
Constable James Irvine Hamilton, 38, and Carl F. Rocher, 78, justice of the peace, both of Listowel, were shot to death when they arrived at the farm of Joseph Jantzi to investigate a telephone complaint of Mrs. Jantzi.

Mr. Jantzi, known to neighbors for his crack shooting, was found dead later in a ground-floor bedroom. Beside him were a rifle and a shotgun.

Mrs. Jantzi had gone to a neighbor's and phoned provincial police at Listowel following a fight with her husband.

The police cruiser with Hamilton and Rocher was just stopping at the front door of the Elma Township farmhouse when Ham ilton was shot through the head and Rocher through the left shoulder and neck.

Neighbors heard the shots and called provincial police at Stratford. Cpl. W. J. E. Ferguson and Constable Kenneth Armstrong were sent to investigate. When they saw the bodies of Hamilton and Rocher they called for reinforcements.



Chewing His Ear Off

The best way to reconcile a disagreement is to get to the heart of the matter. That seems to be the philosophy of two piglets penned up in the sheep and swine building at the Belleville Fair.

What A Load!

Part of Saturday's entertainment at the Belleville Fair was the horse drawing contest. Teams of horses pull a sled loaded with cement blocks. The teams are eliminated as the load becomes heavier.

You're The "28,000"

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wade and their children, Duane and Darren, were the 28,000 visitors to the Belleville Fair. They were the guests of the fair board for the day.

33,891 Patrons Attend Fair

The Centennial Year Belleville fair drew an average attendance of 4,709 eighteen days — fulfilling organizers hopes the big package of displays and showmanship could profit by a longer run.

Saturday night after they closed for the last time, fairground gates had seen 23,981 patrons pass through during the extended five - day exhibition.

The success set a new high for which future fairs will have to bid.

This applies not only to attendance, but to the presentation itself which saw a record number of entries in many classes, particularly horses.

But the biggest break going for the fair was the weather.

It was perfect almost every moment the big exhibit stayed open with the only threat of rain lifting Friday before the start of the grandstand show.

Grandstand events mainly drew a big response from the public.

However, one response still hasn't been decided — reaction of fair board directors to the success of the first five - day Belleville fair.

As yet, it has not been announced if any decision was taken to keep the extra day in future fairs.

Will Open Skyway Sept. 6

Quinte district motorists impatiently awaiting the completion of the new $3-million Skyway at Deseronto are not going to have to wait until the official opening before getting to use the high level bridge between the mainland and Prince Edward county.

Honorable George E. Gomme, Minister of Highways, announced Saturday that the new Skyway would be officially opened at 2.00 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 6.

However, at the opening of the Deseronto Centennial Park, Clarke T. Rollins, MPP for Hastings East, said motorists would be permitted to use the new structure for some days prior to the official opening.

The new high level bridge will carry Highway 49 traffic over the Bay of Quinte south of Marysville.

Installation of light standards and completion of other details are now being carried out by the contractor.

Seven Injured, Damage $2,400 In Collision

A two-car crash at Bayside sent seven people to hospital with minor injuries Sunday morning.

Total damage was estimated at $2,400 wheel cars driven by Grace Partington, Trenton and David Shoniker, 18, of Trenton, collided on Highway 2.

All the injured were released after treatment for cuts and bruises.

Besides the drivers, they were: James Phillips, Frankford, Cindy Jones, R.R. 2, Trenton, Robert Gobeen, Melody Dinghy and Janice Feller, all of Middleton Park.

Car Flips, Three Hurt

Three Sulphide area teens were injured early Sunday morning when a 1961 Vauxhall in which they were travelling went out of control and flipped over three times.

Owen Turcotte, 18, the driver of the car, was taken to the Belleville General Hospital. He was treated and released.

Two passengers, Sharon Doolittle and Joseph Abrams were injured slightly. Miss Doolittle had injuries to an arm, a leg and her back.

The automobile was a total wreck. Charges are pending.

A second car accident occurred yesterday on R.R. No. 8 Hungerford. A 1965 Pontiac driven by Walter Vilneff of Tweed and another 1965 Pontiac driven by Borden Woods of Tweed collided.

A passenger Mrs. Clarence Woods sustained slight leg injuries. Damage was estimated at $550.

Dave's Gig Attracts 700 To Dance

The Belleville Fair was a success and to a lesser degree so was Dave's Gig. About 700 people jammed into the Junior Farmers' Building to dance to the music of the Sands of Time.

According to Dave Charles, CJBQ radio personality, there were no "accidents" during the dance. "We doubled last year's attendance."

To promote local bands the Sands of Time and the Trolls, another local group, will play at a street dance on the Pinnacle Street parking lot behind the Recreation Centre, Thursday evening.

The event begins at 8.30 and admission is free.

Bands, Parade Highlight Deseronto Park Opening

DESERONTO—The weather was kind to Deseronto on Saturday. Although rain threatened all morning, the sky managed to clear enough to give us for the Centennial Park opening attended by an estimated 1,000 persons.

The celebrations started off with a parade at 2.15 p.m. Leading the parade was the official car with Rev. A. F. Dowell, Mr. George Lyons and Mr. Lynor Rendell. Three bands, the Kingston Kiwanis Centenaires, the Mohawk 99 LOL's, dressed in authentic Indian costume, and a group from Point Anne, provided the martial music. There were a number of floats and smaller units, the theme of most being along the centennial line, although one unit patterned itself after a popular TV show, "Hat Patrol", complete with hanging guns and mortar.

Floats were entered from Bath, a motorized bathtub, and Odessa with their lamps spouting flames. Local firms and private individuals comprised the balance of the parade, including the singing church school groups and families in old cars or pony carts. H. J. McFarland entered three antique cars.

The parade left the old High School and proceeded along Thomas street to Fourth street, south to Main street and north to the new park for the ribbon cutting ceremonies.

Director of ceremonies Don Hubble introduced Mrs. Hattie Cole, Deseronto's oldest citizen, who cut the ribbon, officially opening the new park. Mrs. Cole was presented with a bouquet of red roses by Mayor Gerald Lott.

Dedication ceremonies were under the leadership of the Deseronto Ministerial Association. Rev. A. F. Dowell of the Methodist church led the opening prayer and the dedication. Mr. Geo. Lyons representing the Anglican Church read a centennial prayer and Mr. Gaynor Rendell of the Pentecostal Church gave a scripture reading. Father Farrell was not well enough to attend.

Next came the fashion show directed by Mrs. T. L. McCullough, judging done by Mrs. J. Foisel and Mrs. G. Clark of Napanee. Each age group was well represented. Final winners were: Mrs. R. Cindy Haight and Gloria Knapp and the Foster girls; 6-12, Brenda Lawlor and Cheryl English; 13-18, Debbie Jordan and Nora Witkowski; 18-30, Jill Thompson and Isabel Davis (from Carnival); 30 and over, homemade costumes, Mrs. Mildred O'Dell, Odessa and Mrs. Fred Wilson; heirloom group, Mrs. K. Allen, Mr. Ina Thompson; family group, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Brooks; youngest participants, 2 year old Debbie McFarland.

Just before 7 p.m., Miss Betty Berry of Deseronto, a distance swimmer arrived at the Centennial Park after swimming from the new Quinte Skyway. A large crowd was on hand to greet her.

The Quinte Marine Ski Club demonstrated their aquatic skill with a sparkling display of trick skiing, highlighted by Sharon Kimmett's kite-flying routine.

A stage show and amateur contest were the next events. The Quinte Belles, a barber shop group, sang the appropriate style songs, dressed in centennial costumes. Introduction of the entrants was by Don Hubble and Mrs. Dorothy McCullough. The judges were: Mrs. L. B. Tunnicliffe, Miss Jennifer Gardner and Rev. A. F. Dowell. Winners were: runners, Mrs. Blake Moore; men's, Mr. Roy Brant; ghosts, Dale Clause; Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Moore; and Edith and Doug Law; groups, the presbyterian Explorers, and the Three Drops and a Splash.

The balance of the evening was taken over by old time and modern dancing, fireworks display and a fire-works display.

One of the busiest spots during the day was the refreshment booth supervised by Mrs. Bryce Moore and her committee Mrs. Floyd Hodge, Mrs. E. Hood, and Mrs. Blake Moore. Chief cook for the day was Mrs. Bryce Moore.

Following the official opening ceremonies a turkey and ham smorgasbord was held at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall for visiting dignitaries. The Legion women catered to the dinner.

Attending the smorgasbord were Les Grills, M.P. and Mrs. Grills; Douglas Alkenbrack M.P. and Mrs. Alkenbrack; Chief and Mrs. John Brant of the Tyendinaga Reserve; Deseronto Revve Donald Armitage and Mrs. Armitage, Tyendinaga Revve Delbert Harvey and Mrs. Harvey; Mayor Lorne Smart of Napanee and Mrs. Smart; and Mayor Gerald Lott and Mrs. Lott.

Also attending were members of town council and their wives, the Quinte Belles and members of the centennial park committee with their wives.

Fashion Parade Highlights Deseronto Park Opening

Old Time fashion parade with commentary by town councillor Mrs. Dorothy McCullough, was feature of centennial park opening. Park plaque at left was unveiled during dedication ceremony conducted by members of the ministerial association.

Theatre Attracts Meagre Audience

For a few scintillating hours, Belleville's waterfront was an extreme study in contrast, Saturday night.

Tied to the city wharf was an experiment in the good life, Canada's first floating theatre — Theatre de l'Escale.

Moored to board its sophisticated environment, patrons parked their cars in the shadow of dockside coal piles, flanking the ship's clearcut silhouette.

But the immediate surroundings little influenced the response of the patronage, thanks to the fact l'Escale is designed to generate its own atmosphere of gracious living.

To board l'Escale is to take a night out on the town with all the needed attractions only a stair away — bars, a restaurant and theatre with a first-class company on the boards.

Theoretically, one may partake of high cuisine, then a cocktail or two, a play, — with drinks at intermission — and a late-night cabaret.

This, in surroundings designed for enjoyment.

L'Escale was once a ferry boat operating at Sorel, Que., converted to its present setting and now on its maiden voyage.

In practice, however, l'Escale's premier presentation here was flawed by the fact its restaurant was closed. This, officials said, was due to problems with dockside power supplies.

There was also less than a capacity crowd.

About 170 people took their places in the auditorium for the evening's highlight, a three-act comedy, Appelscotland Amedee, by Quebec playwright Bertrand Vac.

The attendance, however, a spokesman said, came close to advance estimates. l'Escale ran into parallel challenges to sales, the company felt: the summer vacation period, and the last night of the Belleville fair, with its parking-related and the Black Diamond stakes.

A further problem may also have been the fact that Appelez-moi was in French, probably dulling the enthusiasm of some playgoers in what is purely an English-speaking region.

Next season, when the floating theatre visits Ontario plans apparently are being made to remedy this by courting a company presenting an English-language production.

Some attempt was made to offset the drawback by distributing a typed scenario of the play's action among the audience before curtain time.

However, the audience rapidly warmed to the presentation, thanks to its style and the sparkling performances of a talented cast, played against a bright, imaginative set.

With much of its situations and characterizations a matter of visual effect, the audience soon entered into the spirit of its plot.

It blessed, on the misfortunes of a wealthy Montrealer (Roger Garceau) repeatedly being mistaken for a high-class thief (Gilles Pelletier). The situation is compounded by the fact the businessman's luxurious apartment also has been taken over by the criminal.

The sparkling performances of these and other members of the cast, readily broke down the language barrier for non-French - speaking patrons.

More, in its own way it gave members of a predominantly English - speaking company a working glimpse of Quebec artists performing in their own environment, a hint of vitality and spirit of that province's cultural scene.

L'Escale departed at dawn Sunday for Brockville, where it will present its own unique form of diversion before returning to Montreal for the next nine months.

City Playgrounds

AVONDALE

Helen Hobson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hobson, 43 Centre Street, was released from Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital after treatment for bruises.

Driver of the car was identified as Howard E. Leavitt, R.R. 3, Picton.

Will Repave Two Streets Near Market

Heavy road building equipment was busy on the city market square today as works department crews ripped out old pavement in preparation for a repaving job.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said that McAnanny and Market streets, as well as the inside of the market square would be repaved.

However, the timing has been arranged so the repaving will not interfere with the Tuesday farmers' market.

The old pavement is being completely ripped out today with the area left in a smoothly graded condition for Tuesday's market.

Then Wednesday paving will be done on the market square and on McAnanny, leaving Market street for completion on Thursday.

Pot Holes Pulled Up with Pavement

The department of public works today began to tear up the old pavement on the parking lot behind City Hall. Repaving will begin on Wednesday by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company and is expected to be completed on Thursday in time for market.

Land of the Free

This is the land of free speech — Canada and the United States and other countries of the western world.

We are free in theory, but in practice it does not always work out that way. At Russia's national day at Expo, for example, a fellow called Constantine Akula, 42, of Toronto, was arrested for disturbing the peace. His offence? He had hurled 12-page pamphlets entitled "Byelorussia (part of the USSR) in the Moscow straitjacket" into the crowd near where Dmitri Polyansky of the Soviet Council of Ministers was standing.

Shouting hoarsely, Mr. Akula was subdued by an army of police, including RCMP, Montreal city police and Expo security guards — and hands were clapped over his mouth.

Now we have seen pictures of this sort of thing in Montreal, when someone was voicing an opinion in the presence of some visiting dignitary. Short of a demonstrator uttering something personally offensive, are people in democratic countries not permitted to say their piece without having a hand clapped over their mouth?

Then again, there is something strange going on up in the Territories, if we are to give credence to complaints of police censorship in the far north.

Donald Taylor, 37-year-old editor and owner of the weekly newspaper Tapwe in Hay River, NWT, has told a one-man royal commission that the Hay River RCMP detachment regularly refused to give him information in his capacity as a newspaperman.

The royal commission was established in response to articles in Tapwe which alleged irregularities in the administration of justice in the Hay River area 700 miles north of Edmonton.

Whatever the outcome of this investigation it is satisfying to note that the public interest is being defended in this remote area. It goes to show that where there is no newspaper serving a community (and there must be many a remote corner of Canada that does not have even a weekly) possible irregularities could go unchallenged.

Gloomy Briton

Canon Douglas Rhymes may be taking an unnecessarily gloomy view of Britain by comparing contemporary life there with the decline and fall of the Roman Empire.

In a sermon at London's Southwark Cathedral, Canon Rhymes spoke of increased drug addiction, inadequate housing and roads, as well as the "persistent attempts through films and advertising to separate sex from true relationships."

Conversely, Canon Rhymes detects a "stupid prudery which is shocked at the results which it freely allows." Moreover, the country is experiencing "a dying church which clings to its security and status symbols." He says Britain is "dying for lack of cause, poverty of spirit and inferior work, inferior lives and inferior ideas."

This is surely as inaccurate as it is harsh. Britons still seek adventure — like Sir Francis Chichester in sailing around the world alone — and new ideas. Britain is still a pioneer of new methods and new inventions. Soon it will launch a massive new passenger liner, currently known as the Q4, which will take over from the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, soon to be taken out of service.

Even the Scottish shipyards have announced they will soon be able to become more competitive on the international market. And in the realm of air travel Britain has a stake in the Concorde, the big Anglo-French supersonic airliner expected to come into service within a few years. These are not the achievements of a nation that is dying.

Visit Britain and you can still sense the permanence and stability of the land and enjoy the beauty and peacefulness of mountain and moorland and rugged coastline.

However, the advice with which Mr. Rhymes concluded his sermon could apply to any group of people anywhere. The job ahead, he said, is to avoid: Knowledge without humanity; affluence without sacrifice, sex without love; and ease without integrity or zeal.

Ann Arbor Conference

Vietnam Evokes No Enthusiasm Among World Scholars

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)— In a gathering of 2,000 scholars of Eastern affairs it is difficult to find any who fully support U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Even friends of the U.S. say that after dreaming up a monster in theory, the Americans turned it into a reality in Southeast Asia.

The monster referred to in this case is the "domino theory" which holds that if one Southeast Asian nation should fall to communism, others will collapse as a row of dominoes.

"The domino theory has more meaning now in our eyes than it had before," said one expert who is a native of that area.

"The United States since 1950 created a situation which makes the theory valid now; it is more likely now than before that the domino theory would prove out if the U.S. military presence should be withdrawn from Southeast Asia."

The scholars, gathered from throughout the world for the Fifth Congress of Orientalists, have been speaking anonymously about the U.S. role in Southeast Asia.

The criticism heard in private is sharp, even from friends of the U.S. who fear the prospect of a rising China in their area. A sample of the kindest comment from Southeast Asians pictures the U.S. as caught in quicksand and sinking deeper all the time. Some do support Washington's policy — people from Vietnam or from Nationalist China.

The delegates seem to reflect a feeling among Southeast Asians of being torn two ways: Wishing that the Americans were less deeply involved, and at the same time fearing what might happen if the Americans decided to clear out of Vietnam — or Southeast Asia.

They do not, however, expect that to happen. They express hope for a de-escalation of the war and the threat it poses to Asia.

Specialists say American mistakes were made all along the line, years ago and in the recent past, with regard to Vietnam, until a situation came about in which the Americans had a tiger by the tail and were unable to let go.

"We want the American presence in Southeast Asia as a protection," said one, "but we are anxious now about what U.S. aid may mean.

"The destruction of South Vietnam . . . all this frightens us."

Said another: "Vaguely we are sorry for the American government, caught in this position. But we, too, are caught in a dilemma. If you (the U.S.) stay we are in trouble. If you go, we probably will be in trouble."

Grade 13 Is Now Flexible

Ottawa Citizen

Changes proposed for next year in Grade 13 examination procedures are already bearing fruit. Because a student's final standing will be based on his work as a whole, rather than on a set of examinations, greater flexibility will be possible, and a better - rounded education likely.

The Ontario department of education is now suggesting that English teachers allow more classroom discussion, seminars, talks by outside experts, poets, authors, actors, and the use of recordings, movies and tapes.

Attendance at plays and lectures should be encouraged. The subject matter in the English course need not be strictly followed.

If this develops, the students will experience broader horizons, and should acquire a deeper understanding of literature. It will be up to the individual teacher to change the whole classroom climate.

Final standing will take into account the student's development of writing ability, research techniques, and verbal effectiveness. Cramming for examinations should become unnecessary.

These reforms could be extended to other subjects, such as history. An ability to comprehend and analyze political situations can be more important than a memory for dates. With these changes, Grade 13 will be a far more effective prelude to university than it is now.

Accountants' Study

The Growing Importance of Computers

Vincent Kane in The Globe and Mail

A massive program of education in computers is recommended for chartered accountants in a special report being mailed to the 16,000 members of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

A committee of the CICA, which carried out the study, warned that the chartered accountant who turns his back on the computer is in danger of losing at least part of his authority.

Parts of the committee's report are highly critical of the lack of knowledge of computers on the part of many members of the profession. But J. R. M. Wilson, CICA president, said at a press conference that this lack of knowledge was "only to be expected, because the computer was not of concern to members and their clients until the last few years."

The report stresses the need for extensive computer courses geared particularly to those born after 1932. Mr. Wilson termed those between 35 and 50 years old "the lost generation" of chartered accountants who will "have to scramble to pick it (computer technology) up as they go."

The CICA president said that the committee's report demonstrated:

— That accountants must prepare for the changes brought about by the computer, if they are to provide more than auditing services to their clients or adapt themselves to new skills and sciences in the field of management.

— That those unwilling to cope would be forced to surrender the most challenging tasks to others and to admit ignorance in a field that rightly belongs to them.

The committee, headed by G. H. Cowperthwaite, managing partner of Kates, Peat, Marwick and Co., Toronto, proposed alternative programs of training for young chartered accountants and students, in the application of computers to their profession.

The suggested courses would each take about 20 days. But for senior members of the profession it proposed an intensive one-week course.

This, Mr. Wilson said, would eliminate the credibility gap between older chartered accountants, who know nothing about computers, and younger practitioners who know a great deal.

Mr. Cowperthwaite said that the aim of the massive educational program proposed by the committee was not to make every chartered accountant a specialist in computers, but rather to equip him to render a high standard of advice and service in this area.

About 1,200 computers are in service in Canada, Mr. Wilson said. This is four times the 1963 total, but only 15 per cent of the U.S. total. Most computers in Canada, he added, are being used for machine purposes.

The report observed that some chartered accountants exhibit a general lack of understanding of computers, and a limited knowledge of the probable future effect of the computer on their clients.

Although many have taken courses in computer technology, their computer expertise is most cases inadequate. The report suggests a vast training program designed to provide accountants with a comprehensive understanding of computers.

It recommends a good working knowledge of computer systems, programming languages, computer capabilities in such fields as statistics, linear programming and simulation. It also suggests an expert knowledge of the methods, terminology and alternatives of systems design and of audit techniques for computer systems and of various controls used in electronic data processing systems.

The committee urges the CICA to work closely with universities to develop a common approach to computer education for graduates entering accounting.

According to the committee, computers can assist auditors in an increasing number of functions — checking information stored in electronic records, selecting information in master files and unusual data for "audit by exception," selecting samples of data for regular verification, making special computations required at year-end, comparing physical inventory counts to perpetual records, and comparing two payroll tapes and reconciling changes to independent personnel records.

All these applications reduce the amount of detailed audit work and extend the scope and efficiency of the auditor's testing procedures, the report added.

De Gaulle Critic Wants France 'Liberated' Before Quebec

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Visions of a Napoleonic "man on horseback" exercising one man rule are shocking Canada in the eyes of some French politicians in the wake of their president's controversial visit to Canada.

But it is hard to gauge the effect of their warnings on a population when many citizens are basking in seaside insouciance during this traditional vacation month in France.

The latest warnings have come from the leader of a party on which President de Gaulle depends for his current parliamentary majority, and from Francois Mitterrand, leader of the opposition Federation of the Left.

Meantime, getting in a dig of his own at the general, right-winger Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancour insists that "before liberating" Quebec, we must "liberate France from de Gaulle."

Mitterrand has only made mention of de Gaulle's request for special powers that would allow the government more freedom in attempts at solving major public problems.

But Valery Giscard d'Estaing, leader of the officially pro-Gaullist Independent Republican party, has concentrated much more on this special powers issue.

He has reiterated his party's support for de Gaulle's repudiation of the international practices which helped bring down the French Republic in 1940. This schema of things, which is termed by Giscard d'Estaing a "nationalistic political system," in France, under de Gaulle's Fifth Republic, was well rid of in 1958, as with so many party politicians in the French Republic and in the pre-war Third, Giscard d'Estaing seems preoccupied with the dangers of a possible dictatorship.

For French politicians so preoccupied, this concept customarily is accompanied by the image of a man on horseback —Napoleon I, whose imperial order superseded the republic forged by the French Revolution, and Napoleon III, whose empire replaced the republic created amid the fires of the 1848 revolution.

Giscard d'Estaing has expressed the fear that "the solitary exercise of power, if it becomes the rule, does not prepare France for assuming — in a spirit of peace, ideological tolerance and national agreements — the permanent determination of its future." Both he and Mitterrand have cited as one example of alleged faults in the general's methods his statements in Canada last month.

First French newspaper reaction to the Mitterrand statements seems guarded if not hostile.

Giscard d'Estaing is viewed by many as making his statement in an effort to remind the general — but not too forcibly — that the Independent Republican's importance as holders of 42 seats in the 487-seat National Assembly.

The 42, together with 200 held by de Gaulle's Party of the Fifth Republic, provide the president with his parliamentary underpinnings.

In Britain, where criticism of de Gaulle on several counts — including the Canadian speeches — has been violent, support for him recently has been expressed by certain conservative elements.

Historian A. L. Rowse and Arthur Bryant have hooted him in letters to The Times.

Rowse, author of books on Tudor England and Elizabethan family, cites what he sees as de Gaulle's revulsion to British global power, a historical misinterpretation of the general's outlook that the picture painted by those hostile to de Gaulle's "man - on-horseback" proclivities.

The sinister dialectic of political parties is ruining this country as it ruined France," says Rowse. "De Gaulle put a spoke in Europe."

Roblin and Stanfield Call for New Deal for French Canada

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba Saturday accused the federal Liberals as ostriches and called for a revision of the constitution to take greater account of particular status for Quebec.

Mr. Roblin's spirited speech climaxed the second week of his campaign for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

About 17 others showed up at a reception for Mr. Roblin.

It was the biggest reception so far for any leadership candidate here, including Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia and former cabinet ministers George Hees, Davie Fulton and Donald Fleming.

With his Montreal-born wife at his side, Mr. Roblin spoke in French with fiery flashes of oratory.

The 50-year-old Winnipegger called for revising the constitutional position of the federal Liberals, who hold a majority of the seats in the 265-seat House of Commons where the federal Conservatives have just seven Quebecers.

"It is the attitude of an ostrich, a return to the policies of Mackenzie King that time will cure all, that there will not be difficult problems."

He said problems do not resolve themselves but "with time they even become graver to the point where they are insoluble."

Talking of the role of the Conservative party, he said:

"We have the task to remake Canadian unity, to repatriate the constitution, to revise the constitution in order to adopt it to the demands of our times."

The constitution should be "an efficient instrument of prosperous, happy and peaceful life for two nations or communities living in harmony within one state."

"It's necessary for us all to understand the particular status of Quebec," he said, noting that Quebec was given certain languages and civil rights in the British North American Act of 1867.

There is a need today "to revise, to reach the particular status of Quebec for the needs of our day."

"In my view the French Canadians in confederation are equal partners in all sectors of our life, social, political and economic."

In an interview Mr. Roblin said he does not wish to go into details of particular status at this time, but said it is something which all 10 provinces should enjoy.

"Any of the 10 provinces might have a different arrangement. I can't see the nation falling apart if any one part is a little different from another."

He said he would operate the bicultural status principle by asking which items are essential to the national government to enable it to act as a national government.

Mr. Roblin returned to Winnipeg aboard his stereo-equipped six-passenger jet, chartered for the leadership campaign.

Fleming Wants Socreds to Quit Federal Field

VICTORIA (CP)—Donald Fleming, one of nine candidates for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, said Saturday the Social Credit party should pull out of federal politics.

In an interview Mr. Roblin said he does not wish to go into details of particular status at this time, but said it is something which all 10 provinces should enjoy.

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia said Sunday it is necessary to make room for the dynamism of French - Canadians" to make them feel the federal government is their government.

The candidate for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party told a reception that the time for symbolic gestures such as establishing a Canadian Maple Leaf flag is over.

Mr. Stanfield toured the Eastern Townships Sunday after visiting Trois-Rivieres, Riviere du Loup and the Laurentien area Saturday.

He began the visit, his third to Quebec as candidate, by travelling to Chicoutimi and Quebec City Friday.

Mr. Stanfield, who has his trouble with French, was asked by a reporter what he thought of the three-day tour.

"Confederation has survived my French for three days," he said. "I think Confederation is a little stronger than people thought."

Mr. Stanfield's Sherbrooke reception was the most successful of his visit in terms of attendance.

All 20 of the region's convention delegates attended.

Mr. Stanfield stressed that he does not want to be elected leader of the Conservative party under the strong support of Quebec.

Symbolic Gestures Useless

Hees Is Worried About Productivity

TORONTO (CP) — George Hees, Progressive Conservative leadership candidate, warned today in a policy statement issued at his office that unless the government takes immediate action to close the "productivity gap," Canada will fall far behind other industrialized countries. The policy statement, fifth in a series of seven to be issued by Mr. Hees before the PC leadership convention opens Sept. 5, contained recommendations designed to stimulate Canadian economic growth and improve Canada's industrial competitiveness. It said the Liberal government has failed "to meet the challenge of economic growth" and has not kept prices and costs under control.

"I believe it is time the government stopped dipping into everybody else's pocket to see what's left over, and started looking at its own spending program to see where it can establish its own priorities," he statement said.

Mr. Hees' contained recommendations designed to stimulate Canadian economic growth and improve Canada's industrial competitiveness. It said

Mr. Stanfield is to campaign in the Montreal area today and visit Toronto Tuesday.

Campaigning throughout Quebec with Mr. Stanfield was Provincial Secretary Gerald Doucet, who spoke on behalf of the premier at each stop.

Auto Bargaining Nearing Crisis

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers is expected to begin making noise this week for action in new contract bargaining.

Only two weeks and four days remain before contracts run out at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—the big three in the industry.

Not a single item yet has been initialed as binding.

The UAW-General Motors contract contains some 400 items; those at Ford and Chrysler approximately as many.

There will be talk about a strike in September.

The present agreements date from 1964.

President Walter P. Reuther will lead off the union's demands Tuesday at Flint, Mich.

Reuther and Vice-President Leonard Woodcock are to report on negotiations to that area's more than 70,000 General Motors employees.

Both are expected also to plump for a big turnout Wednesday and Thursday when Flint UAW members will vote whether to strike if and when negotiators think it necessary.

All GM and Ford locals will vote this week. Chrysler locals have started voting and the first three to report gave overwhelming authorization for a strike.

All locals are to have their ballots in by Friday. Many sources close to negotiations feel company offers will be made only after the result of the vote is announced.

The companies complain they do not yet know specifically what the union wants and argue it cannot be serious about striking in any of what Reuther describes as the "longest and most unhelpful set of demands" in the union's history.

Union bargainers say they have twice explained their demands and the companies know where there must be improvement. The union says it is awaiting an offer.

Among union demands is bringing wages paid to Canadian auto workers up to par with those paid Americans.

Wednesday a portion of the UAW's membership will be making a noise which UAW executives have said they do not want to hear. Skilled tradesmen are pressing for a $1-an-hour for themselves on top of any general wage increase scheduled a demonstration at Ford Motor Co. headquarters.

Union leaders have put pressure on the craftsmen to call off the demonstration.

UAW chieftains express fear the demonstration would delay company offer. They also feel it might create discord between skilled workers and production workers.

Canada Makes Errors In Racial Relations

TORONTO (CP)—Canadians are making the same mistakes in race relations the British made 30 years ago, says a Guyanese novelist who now lives in Toronto.

"They're letting colored people into the country and burying them," Jan Carew, a writer and former lecturer on race relations at the University of London, said in an interview.

Leonard Braithwaite, Toronto-born Negro member of the Ontario legislature, says however that the situation in Canada is different than in the U.S. where race riots have spread from city to city.

"We don't have the class ghettos of the United States—such as in Newark where I lived two years. And we don't have overt prejudice such as is found in England."

The Ontario Human Rights Code, which it helped implement, does some good, he said.

"Although there has been discrimination, we have the law on our side."

Allen Mintz, a lawyer experienced in civil liberties cases, says violent social protests will never spill into Canadian streets because of Canada's restrictive immigration regulations.

Go-go Girl Wounded By Bandits

TORONTO (CP)—A go-go girl was shot in the leg then bound and abandoned during a holdup attempt at a Toronto tavern early Sunday morning.

Police said the dancer, Ilse Lee, 21-year-old Aug./Douglas, was apparently accidentally shot by one of two men she surprised in the manager's office at the Cog d'Or tavern. The bullet tore a hole more than an inch wide as it left her calf, but doctors said the injury was not serious.

Chinese Ultimatum Ignored

From AP-Reuters

HONG KONG (CP)—British officials said today they will ignore China's ultimatum that they allow three pro-Communist Hong Kong newspapers to resume publication and free the papers' arrested employees by Tuesday night.

The British foreign office said in London that its representative in Peking had rejected China's demands for offensive language.

Officials pointed out that China has issued 428 "serious warnings" to the United States charging infringement of air space but never has acted.

British policy-makers believe that because of its internal upheavals, China is not planning any big push to force the British out of Hong Kong. The threats are believed intended to boost the moral of Hong Kong's local Communist agitators.

30,000 Refugees Trek to Hong Kong

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Between 20,000 and 30,000 Chinese were reported today to be trekking toward Hong Kong in a mass exodus from the troubled south China province of Kwangtung and its capital, Canton.

Two army battalions were being deployed swiftly along the Chinese border with Hong Kong to stop the refugee flow, the newspapers report added.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT L. DONOHOE

Donohoe – Burkitt

The wedding was performed in St. Mark's Anglican Church, Bonarlaw, recently of Sharon Geraldine Burkitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burkitt, Bonarlaw to Robert Lee Donohoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Donohoe of Stirling.

Rev. R. H. Stewart of Marmore officiated at the ceremony and Mrs. David Bell rendered appropriate vocal selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor-length gown of imported peau de faille designed with Empire bodice and A-line skirt and complemented by an Ottoman A-line coat with long lily-point sleeves and sweeping chapel train. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white stephanotis.

The maid of honor...Miss Shirley Burkitt, sister of the bride, and other attendants Miss Muriel Rollins, Belleville, Miss Jo-Anne Burkitt, sister of the bride and Miss Connie Donohoe, sister of the bridegroom were dressed alike in floor-length gowns of lilac chiffon over peau d'ange. The bodices were accented with Empire waistlines of Guipure lace and featured rounded necklines and elbow-length sleeves. All wore tulle petal headdresses centred with tiny flowers and over the face veils. Each carried a cascade bouquet of yellow Shasta daisies and lavender velvet ribbons.

Flower girl was Miss Lynn Tice, cousin of the bride and the ring-bearer was Greg Turrion, nephew of the bridegroom.

Joseph Hagerman of Oshawa was groomsman, while the ushers were Don Burkitt of Bonarlaw, brother of the bride, Paul Rollins, Belleville and Paul Rose of Frankford.

Receiving the guests at a reception in the Havelock Hotel, the bride's mother wore an eggshell sheath ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of orange delight roses.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a powder blue linen sheath gown with matching lace over jacket and a corsage of pink delight roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to points in the U.S.A., the bride donned a two-piece mustard shade knit suit with black accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

The couple will reside at King George Square, Belleville.

Costume Look Sweeps Autumn Fashions

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP)—August is the month to start thinking about your autumn wardrobe.

This year the costume look is more important than ever. Coats with companion dresses are particularly popular.

In the coat and dress ensemble, many designers now like a double-faced fleece for coats, with one of the colors matching the dress, more often than not in jersey.

Second Version are liked with the contrasting coat series flared and topped from small shoulders. Underneath was a hooded sweater. This ensemble is called Le Bateau.

Capes with dresses are newly important this fall, in silhouette they tend to be fuller through the shoulders and fall straight, with a slight flare, to the skirt hemline.

Ben Reig went colorful in a red-and-blue plaid cape over a blue dress with matching blue stockings. Jacques Tiffeau votes for a costume of navy plaid with cape with orange blouse and knickers. Capes appeared in conservative three-piece outfits, as does orange-and-taupe tweed cape and skirt, with a taupe knit top and a taupe leather belt.

This season the dress and jacket ensemble seems to be more popular than a suit. Some of the ensemble dresses were imported from the Riviera. Others were newly dirndl-gathered at the waistline. Mostly the jackets are short.

Many of the ensembles were one color, from hat to shoes. Most favored color was navy and it was sterling. Ben Zuckerman's red jacket topped a matching, gold-checked-belted dress with black shoulders and black side panels. Tiffeau's black dress with gold-belted coat with the new choker neckline, was combined with a brief double-breasted black jacket.

Coats with companion dresses are particularly popular for autumn. Bill Blass designed this London bobby's style coat in large white windowpanes on black and reverses the panes to black on a white ground on the overblouse and skirt. The London bobby hat is by Adolfo.

Regular Checkups Urged For Uses of the Pill

TORONTO CP — The Canadian Medical Journal says a trial that before prescribing the women using contraceptive pills Pill, doctors should examine should receive regular check- their patients for any condition ups because of a "slight but that might predispose them to real risk of thrombosis."

The journal says in an editorial that "efforts to correlate thrombosis.

Thrombosis results from a clot in a blood vessel or in one of the cavities of the heart. The condition can be fatal but the editorial notes that such blockage is quite rare.

The warning is based on three preliminary medical studies recently completed in Britain which showed a significant statistical relationship between thrombosis and the use of the Pill by women of reproductive age.

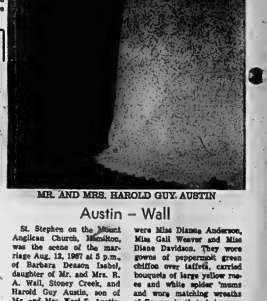
U.C.W. Meetings

VICTORIA UCW

THE GORE — The August meeting of Victoria UCW took the form of a picnic at the cottage of Mrs. Clifford Calnan on the shore of Consecon Lake. A sumptious potluck dinner was enjoyed by some 30 adults and 12 children. In the absence of the president and the 1st vice-president, Miss Jean Brickman conducted a short business meeting.



A pleasant feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a TV chair to Mrs. Flossie Badgley on behalf of the community. Mrs. Badgley has been a long time resident here and since disposing of her farm recently is residing with her daughter, Mrs. Brickman in Belleville.

The younger folk enjoyed bathing and Mrs. Calnan and David took some for motor boat rides about the lake.

Mrs. H. Knox is to be the September hostess.

YOUTH LEARN ABOUT VD

TORONTO (CP) — A venereal disease information booth has been set up in the youth section of the Canadian National Exhibition in an attempt by Ontario health department officials to inform adolescents about the dangers of the diseases. Donna Reed, a scientist with the health department, says many teen - agers are "grossly misinformed" about the diseases.

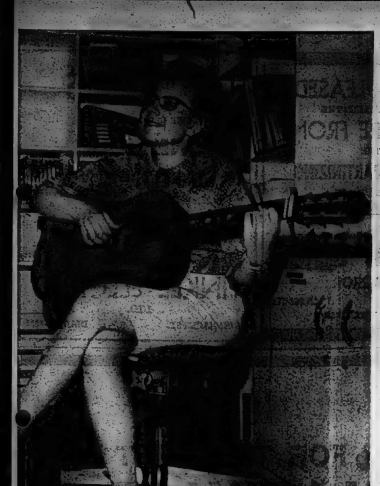
MR. AND MRS. HAROLD GUY AUSTIN

Austin – Wall

St. Stephen on the Mount Anglican Church, Hamilton, was the scene of the marriage Aug. 12, 1967 at 5 p.m., of Barbara Deason Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wall, Stoney Creek, and Harold Guy Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl S. Austin, Frankford. Rev. Robert Ritchie was the officiating clergyman, Miss R. Cassan played the wedding music and Miss Sonia Bowes, Frankford, was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a sage dress of silk organza over a white crepe sheath with small daisy chains encircling the neckline, cuffs and hemline. A chapel length train was also edged with daisies, she wore a shoulder length veil of silk organza, and carried her mother's white Bible crested with a white orchid.

Miss Lorraine Wall, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Dianna Anderson, Miss Gail Weaver and Miss Diana Davidson. They wore gowns of peppermint green chiffon over taffeta, carried bouquets of large yellow roses and white spider 'mums and wore matching wreaths of flowers in their hair.



Douglas Armstrong, Pont Hill, was groomsman and the ushers were Fred Kaich, Kenneth Wall and Bruce Parker.

At the reception held at Gulliver's Travels Motor Hotel the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a shrimp colored chiffon dress over peau de soie and a corsage of white orchids. To assist, the bridegroom's mother wore a dress of bone frosted silk, bone colored accessories and a corsage of roses.

For her wedding trip to Lake George, N.Y., the bride chose a pearl pink shantung dress and coat with white accessories and a petal corsage. On their return, the couple will live in Stoney Creek.

Singing Nun

Luc Dominique, once known as the Singing Nun, now is the singing ex-nun. She left her convent near Brussels last year after her record of Dominique became an international hit. A nightclub tour of Quebec was part of her plan to test her appeal as an entertainer. (CP Photo)

Singing Nun Tries Talent Before Nightclub Audiences

MONTREAL (CP)—Luc Dominique, the Singing Nun from Belgium, is testing her appeal in the highly-competitive nightclub business in Quebec.

Then the blue-eyed blonde, who plays a guitar and whose recorded composition of Dominique three years ago topped the hit parade, will decide whether to continue performing before live audiences in Belgium.

"I was quite nervous about my appearance in front of a live audience," the ex-nun said after a recent nightclub show in Montreal. A six-week engagement in Quebec City will take up most of this summer.

"Whether I accept other nightclub engagements on my return to Belgium will depend largely on my success here."

For four years the public has known Miss Dominique only as a voice and a photograph on an album cover.

Her fans on two continents call her the Singing Nun, but she prefers to be called Luc Dominique, the name she chose on leaving the Dominican convent at Fisherment, near Brussels, last year.

"I belonged to a missionary order and have continued the missionary work outside the convent through my songs," she says.

Running through most of her songs are religious and social themes about Christians in a modern world—from moral values to protests against the inequality of women.

"My native country is often guilty of unequal treatment of women," she says.

One song she has written, Le Temps des Femmes, is addressed to men. It says women are not objects but intelligent beings.

"I would call it a criticism of a man's world."

The 33-year-old singer began her career when girls on retreat at the convent wanted souvenirs of her songs and asked her to record some.

Her songs do not always deal with religious themes. "Even at the convent I sang songs I had learned as a guide and now my performances includes every kind."

All the songs Miss Dominique sings are her own compositions. She learned to play guitar through the help of a friend before she entered the convent.

Best China Should Be Used on 50th Anniversary

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I am planning a 50th wedding anniversary celebration for my Mother and Dad in fall. We live in a small town and I think things should be quite informal, but don't know her I can go without running into criticism.

Would it be in bad taste to use plastic cups for tea and coffee, and paper plates for sandwiches at the open house or...do you think some people would find this obnoxious?

There is usually quite a turnout for something like this in a small town. I have lots of help proffered, so that is no problem. — As Admiring Reader

Dear Reader: Not paper, not plastic. Not for a Golden Wedding. You honor yourselves and your guests when you bring out the best china.

Friends will be glad to lose their best, to make up what you lack in plates and cups and silver. The wash-up can't be what's troubling you, with all those offers of help. Make-shift paper and plastic dishes are more for a picnic.

I'm sending you my leaflet about "Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary" which will answer your other questions.

Dear Doris: My husband and I have been having problems for four years and finally I got fed up and we separated. I went to see a psychiatrist about our problem and we were both to go, then my husband backed down.

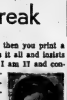
Well, anyway, now my husband has been away just a month and he wants to come back and I honestly don't know if I want him back. Right now I am happier. I sleep at nights and don't have to worry about him being out half the night playing cards and drinking and I really just went help with the whole mess. — In Doubt.

Dear in Doubt: Taking him back may solve exactly nothing unless someone helps both of you to get at the root of this thing. Why not make it a condition of his return to go and see the psychiatrist with you?

Much as he feels at fault and scorns it, a capable counsellor will see his side too; and help you to understand each other better.

Life alone, from here on in, could be plenty lonely.

Dear Doris: Could you please send me the remedy you had in your column one night for tired aching feet? I stand all day at work and my feet bother me quite a lot. — Sam the Short Order Cook.



Dear Sam: What's the good of money if your feet hurt? The set of rules I am sending you for foot care were put together for the mailmen — who walk 16 miles or more daily.

Included are exercises to keep feet and toes limber, care of toenails, corns, callous; bathing and shoe-fitting instructions; and a special note about keeping weight down, since foot muscles do not strengthen in proportion to the extra job overweight gives them.

The leaflet is called "Care of the Feet." (And may be had by other Bookeasy readers for ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Ann Landers

Teen-aged Marriage Brings Heartbreak

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every now and then you print a letter from a teen-ager who thinks she knows it all and insists she is mature enough to get married. Since I am 17 and considering marriage a friend sent me the enclosed letter. It was written by another teenager who describes what it is like to be married too young. I hope you will print this letter. Ann, it was enough to make me change my mind. It might do the same for someone else. Here it is:

"Dear In Love: Let me tell you what it is like to be married at 17. It is like living in this dump on the third floor. Your only window looks out on somebody else's third floor dump.

It is like coming home so tired you feel nearly dead from standing all day at your checker's job in the supermarket. But you don't dare sit down because you might never get up. And there are so many things you have to do — cooking and washing and ironing. But you go through the motions and you hate your job.

"You ask yourself, 'Why don't you quit?' And you know why. Because there are grocery bills and drug bills and the rent to pay. And Jimmy's crummy little cheque from the lumberyard won't cover them. That's why.

"Then you tell the sitter goodbye and you try to play with the baby until Jimmy comes home. Only sometimes you don't feel like it. But you do it anyway because you feel guilty from being away from her all day. Then you mix the formula and wash diapers and you hate doing it. You wonder how long it will be before you can tell that you hate it. And wouldn't it be useful if she knew already?

"Then Jimmy doesn't come home and you know he decided to go out with the boys again and do the things he should have gotten done before he married you.

"So finally you eat the lousy meal by yourself and go to bed and cry your eyes out. When he does come home, you can tell he's been drinking but you don't say a word because he hates to be told anything. So you try to go to sleep and dream about your parents and your brothers and the kids you knew at school. You think about the great meals your mother used to cook and how nice your room was at home. Then you remember how she tried to talk you out of marrying so young and you got mad at her and called her a dried up old woman and accused her of having forgotten what it was like to be in love.

"You try to push the thoughts of other boys out of your mind but they keep coming back. Especially that certain boy who gave you your first kiss. He won the state science prize and is going to be a doctor.

You wonder how different your life would have been if you had gone to college. You have the feeling that Jimmy and the baby are a part of a bad dream. But you know it's no dream. It's for real. So you reach over to touch Jimmy and he pushes you away and says something mean. So you cry yourself to sleep and wake up with a splitting headache. What a way to start another day of hard work!

If you meet anyone who thinks she knows what it is like to be married at 17 please tell her about me. Or better yet, give her this letter — SORRY".

DEAR READERS: I could print a letter similar to this every day of the week, but what's the use? Are you listening out there? I hope so.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Baked Custard for Diabetics

By MARY MOORE

Mrs. Anna I. P. wrote asking for diet custard like the one she had been served in hospital. She is on a 1000-calorie per day diet.

I wanted to make baked custards over which to serve Fresh Plum Sauce (see next Wednesday). So I combined my efforts. First I will give you the regular Baked Custard Recipe. Then I will give you the Diet Custard Recipe. Then I will give you a recipe which call be split in half, and half sweetened with brown sugar and the other sweetened with Sucaryl. This letter method will be welcomed by families who have a diabetic or reducer to consider.

BAKED CUSTARD
(Serves 4)

Number One: Standard
3 cups milk (or 1¼ cups milk and ½ cup 10 or 18 per cent cream)
4 tbsps. white or light brown sugar or maple syrup or honey
3 eggs
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
Nutmeg (for sprinkling top)

Heat slightly the whole eggs with the sugar, add the milk (or milk and cream), salt and vanilla and stir (do not beat) until sugar is dissolved. Turn into 4 large or 6 medium custard cups. Stand in shallow pan containing hot water. Sprinkle tops sparingly with nutmeg and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 1 hr. or until set.

BAKED CUSTARD
(Serves 4)

Number Two: Sugarless

Make same as Number One, but substitute 1 tsp. Sucaryl liquid for the sugar and bake same as above. Do not use cream.

BAKED CUSTARD
(Serves 4)

Number Three: Split — to make half regular and half sugarless.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Sausages; Cinnamon Apple Rings; Baked Banana Squash; Green Beans with Toasted Almonds; Lettuce and Spinach Salad with Lemony French Dressing; Banana Cream Pie; Tea.

Make same as Nuber One but omit sugar and do not use cream. Measure your total amount. Divide in half. I had 3 amounts of 1 1-3 cups each. To one half add 2 tbsps. sugar (I used light brown) and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour into 2 large or 4 small custard cups. To second half add ½ tsp. Sucaryl liquid and stir it in. Pour into 2 large or 4 small custard cups. Stand all custard cups in large shallow pan containing hot water. Sprinkle with nutmeg and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. until set — about 1 hr.

We served our cooled baked custards with fresh plum sauce. Of course you realize sugar-sweetened plum sauce is not for diabetic patients — he or she would use sugarless fruit sauces or jams.

ADDS TO COUNT

An average sandwich made from buttered bread, and containing a one-ounce slice of ham, lettuce and mustard, will provide about 250 calories.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I'm so very sorry we moved. Sally doesn't have any friends to start school with. She'll be so lonesome here."

Father: "I wish we could help her get acquainted with other little girls."

Newcomers don't have to wait for neighbors to call. Extend a friendly invitation so Sally will have a friend in the neighborhood before school starts.

Family Reunions

YORK FAMILY

TWEED — The annual York family reunion was held this month at Yorks' cottage, Marble Lake, R. R. 2, Coyne. Ina and Glen York, Audrey and Larry Black were co-hosts for the occasion.

They planned the meals as their ancestors did, having beef stew made in a cooler (potash kettle) over an open fire with homemade bread, beans baked in the sand, hickory roast ham, home made pies, doughnuts and cookies.

Some of the women were in their centennial dresses and Bob Hawtin wore a regular tall coat and bowler hat.

The outside of the cottage looked like a trappers' camp, with snow shoes, moose caller, cross cut saws, lanterns and other antique articles.

Styles in Girls' Names Have Changed

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Lying on the beach and listening to the young girls chattering among themselves, I wondered vaguely what had happened to the old-fashioned girls' names we used to carve on trees.

All I heard around me were Cindy and Lindy and Mindy.

And Candy. So many Candys, in fact, that the name will soon have to be subdivided into Peppermint, Licorice, and Bon Bon.

There were Hilary, and Holi, and Holly.

And Alison, and Aiden, and Alexandra, and Adair.

Morgan and Kelly. Lindsay and Shelley.

There was even a girl named Folly. But not a single old-time Molly or Polly or Dolly.

A Cary, but nary a Mary. No Jane, Jean, Joan or June.

An Avice and a Mavis. A Tracy and a Stacy. Two Brettz and a Harper. A Kerry and a Kiki.

A Bunny, a Buffy, a Ricky, and a Muffy.

Three Laurens, an Antonia, and a Jody. Even a Sam. Sam?

Whatever happened to the girls I used to see when I was a lad?

Mary Jane. Rose. Edith. Gertrude. Florence. Eleanor.

There wasn't a single Helen on the beach. Or a Doris. Or a Louise. Or a Ruth.

Those names are "out" for the new generation. If you're a girl, you don't get a girl-name any more. You get a family name — even if it isn't your own family.

Or you get a boy's name—or at least a bisexual one. Or a nickname that isn't nick at all, but for real. Like "Nicki," which doesn't stand for "Nicole," but just stands for itself.

Or even dogs' names — like Pepper, and Sandy, and Toto. Any day now, I expect to hear one girl calling another "Spot."

Boys' names run in cycles, too, but at least they remain recognizably boyish. The Johns and Joes and Tims and Dicks of my day have been largely replaced by Michaels and Peters and Christophers and Davids and Adams — but they're still masculine names.

You don't see little boys running around calling each other Trig or Trek or Brek or Spanxy. They'd run away from home before they'd allow that to be done to them.

Shucks, even Sydney is a better name for a girl than for most of what's around today. As far as I'm concerned it's a better name for a girl than for a boy.

So maybe I'm a little sensitive about names.

Traffic Mishaps Kill 44

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic mishaps claimed 44 lives across Canada during the weekend while other accidents accounted for five.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday, local times, showed that of the road deaths New Brunswick reported 12, Quebec 10, Ontario 8, Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia four and British Columbia three.

Two persons also were killed in British Columbia when a light plane crashed, a boy died in Quebec when struck by a tractor and another child was hit by a train while riding his bicycle in Nova Scotia.

In Ontario a woman died after she fell from a chair and struck her head on a bed post.

Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and Alberta were fatality-free.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander
Staff Sportswriter

The summer of 1967 will be remembered by die-hard softball enthusiasts as the "shake-up" season.

Teams and leagues folded, new groups and clubs were formed, champions toppled far enough in some cases to miss league playoffs — and there is still another month or better left to supply more surprises.

Looking at the picture from a fan's viewpoint, the good old working man's league, the Belleville Commercial loop, is providing probably the most for your entertainment dollar.

And aarly in the year, park and lack of team problems almost caused the Commercial boys to hang up the sponges along with the Belleville and District and Prince Edward North Shore leagues.

After verbal battles with city officials had settled sorry and Alemile Park was made available at a reasonable rate for the Commercial clubs, seven teams answered the call to battle.

And a battle it has been most of the year with five of the seven teams in contention for four playoff spots right up until the final scheduled game was played.

Now, with playoffs starting, last year's playoff champs, Stewart Warner, are watching from the sidelines. An early-season slump put Floyd Crawford's squad in a hole that a late charge up the ladder failed to erase. The Warnermen missed that final spot by a hair, losing two clubs, Tibi Club and Brant's Mountain View, on the sidelines.

Black Diamond Cheese, City Hotel, Stinson's Construction and Lightfoots will battle it out for the glory. And the fact that any of the clubs can knock off any other is what keeps this league a good buy for Joe Fan's two bits. Competition is the key to success.

Some league followers feels that despite the fifth-place finish, Stewart Warner still had the most potential but wins are the only measure in the final standings.

The playoff series are slated to start Tuesday with a doubleheader at Alemile Park. Pennant-winning Black Diamond tackles Stinson's in one series while the Hotelmen and Lightfoots clash in the other.

Everyone who follows the loop has an opinion as to who will cop the crown but if we had to choose, our money would ride (rather shakily) on the Cheesemen-Stinson's winner. The four clubs are so close you could pick a winner as easily by drawing names from a hat.

Stinson's have an edge, perhaps, in being able to send four pitchers to the hill in Bobby Boyle, Larry Hull, veteran Junior Day or Harold Workhaven. Hockey Tim Hortons will counter with sure, fast hande while Paul Stinson, Jack O'Neil, Larry Potter, Lyle Thompson, the ageless Jack "Preacher" Whiting, Frankie Donovan and company supply a good combination of hitting and fielding.

Sonny Soloway is the key to Black Diamonds' success. He is the one of the three-man pitching staff which also includes Bob Swan and Don Holoway. The Francis Brothers, Jack and Gene, big Dave Conway and Garry "Pat" Kellar, catcher Stan Ahrens and others add up to a solid lineup.

City and Lightfoot backers are sure that their entry will provide the eventual champs.

The Hotelmen offer a lineup of veterans that could sweep through playoffs if all start to click at once. They too have four checkers in Dave Feeney, Gerry Genereaux, Ray Paquette and Mark Sheridan which should give them an edge over Lightfoots' John French and Don Smith.

Experience at bat and afield comes from such as Doug Hull, Bob Brooks, Jack Hughes, Doug Murray, Don Cooley, Tom Meeker and a couple of others. Young Dave Smith, one of this boss's best rookies, and Bob Lloyd carry their share. They'll be tough to beat.

Lightfoots back their pitching pair with a good fielding club which has Ramy Gerrits, Doug Rose, Don Wood, a real comer in Paul Goodfellow, Terry Cansdiman, Bob Smith, Lee Hall, Terry Jenkins and Cam McKenna on the roster. French is the mound workhorse with Don Smith coming in from the outfield to pitch but it could be a tough route for the boys with only two pitchers. "Not so", says Don Wood, "we'll win it all."

It's that close a league — and that's what makes it one worth watching.

Sport Miniatures

In Quinte district OSAA playoffs on the weekend, Nestor defeated Verona 6-2 in their Junior "C" third game and open the next series at home against Port Perry tomorrow night. In Midget "B", Kemptville routed Trenton with a 6-4 win to sweep the series in two games. In bantam "B", Trenton won two of three from Kenestown. The winners took an 8-7 win over Saturday but dropped a 3-1 decision next day before taking the final 9-8 in 13 innings. Trenton Dairy Queen topped Oshawa 9-7 in the first game of the lot. "A" set and plays back to back with Point Anne's for "A" opener, in Battersea or Delhi, has been switched from tonight to Tuesday, with the second tilt in Point Anne Thursday.

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP) — Morley Lovick pitched a brilliant one-hit shutout Saturday to give Trail, B.C. a 5-0 victory over Windsor, Ont., in the Canadian Little League baseball championship final. Trail now enters the Little World Series at Williamsport, Pa., this week. The team is scheduled to face a Tokyo entry Tuesday.

BOSTON (AP) — The National Hockey League's Boston Bruins Saturday night announced a 37-home game schedule, starting with Detroit Red Wings at Boston Garden Oct. 11. The Bruins will meet the five old NHL teams - Detroit, Chicago, Montreal, New York and Toronto - in five games at home, instead of seven as in the past. Each of the six new clubs brought in by expansion this year will make two appearances at the garden. First will be Los Angeles Kings on Thursday, Oct. 26.

Black Diamond Stakes

Tip Cee Chief Turns Back Reverie

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

James Cochrane's three-year old gelding, Tip Cee Chief, saw his 1967 Belleville track record bettered twice here Saturday night but the Colborne horse and owner didn't really mind.

While Tip Cee Chief ran below his best time of 2:10.2, he turned back the bid of Dr. John Findley's Reverie to capture the fourth annual running of the Black Diamond Cheese Stakes.

An overflowing Fair crowd, estimated at 2,500, witnessed some fine races on a good track and sent a big $18,930 through the pari-mutuel window despite a number of scratches.

Only 11 of the listed 19 entries turned up for the Black Diamond event. A race official said that some owners scratched their horses because they felt they had little chance of winning after viewing the draws for the three elimination heats.

In the featured seventh, Cochrane put his horse on top at the start and kept it there despite the late surge by the favored Reverie, who made his move at the half, overtaking Modern Norman and Campbell Chief. It was close over the last half but Tip Cee Chief won by half a length in the time of 2:12.1. Al Vance brought Campbell Chief in third, followed by Agitator, Modern Norman, Kawartha Bob, R. B. Dillon and Grant's Pride, in that order.

Owner and driver Cochrane received the trophy from Black Diamond president Don Joss, assisted by four beautiful young ladies who added kisses to the winners' fake. Gerald Vance presented him with the "keeper" basket for his horse.

Not to be forgotten was the kitchen's share of the big purse. Tip Cee Chief earned $385 for the final victory and $221 for defeating R. B. Dillon in the two-horse second elimination. In the time of 2:14.3. He turned back the Newton horse's bid at the ¾ pole.

Reverie took first place honors in the fast time of 2:09.2, overtaking Campbell Chief as they entered the home stretch. He won by a neck with Kawartha Bob third. Until this race, Tip Cee Chief had recorded the fastest mile here this season, 2:10.2.

Five went to the gate in the third elimination and they stuck together in a banana-bunch battle that saw Modern Norman beat - Grant's Pride and Agitator. The time was 2:14.3.

With only three eligible, the Black Diamond Consolation in the eighth was won by Dillard Grattan over Dusty Gallic and Ty Venture. The time was a slow 2:21.

The ninth and final race was the best of the night when Hugh Wemp drove Single De Best to a come-from-behind win in the superb time of 2:09. The favored Lee Law jumped into a quick lead, lost it to Forjaz at the half, regained it in the backstretch but finished second to Single De Best's driving finish. Direct Dillard grabbed off third in the six-horse race.

Back in the fourth, Little Linda Sue made her first start since 1963 a winning one, going to the front at the start and staying there for George Dolly, to top Candy B. Creed and Bella B. Gretton.

The win combined with Modern Norman in the third for a nice $71.40 daily double. It was the only good pay of the night.

Hugh Wemp picked up his first win of the night with Brenda B. Hoover in the fifth race, passing Molly Haw Loe in the stretch. Atomic Selka hung tight for third.

Polaris Missile led ¾ of the way in the eight-horse sixth race but Hugh Wemp came through again to push April Linda home ahead of Al Vance's Swift Pick for the win.

Some Spoils!

Midgets Come Back

Mulvihill Has No-Hitter

Belleville Ellis' midgets won the EOBA Baseball crown with a dazzling come-from-behind 11-10 decision over Oshawa, and John Mulvihill came up with a no - hitter as Belleville Holy Rosary whipped Oshawa 10-0 to carry away the EOBA peewee championship, in weekend contests at Parkdale.

Next opposition for the two teams is as yet unknown, on the rough road towards Provincial titles.

Reid Leads Midgets To Series Tie

Scotty Reid's pitching and hitting kept Belleville Ellis' alive in the OASA Midget playoffs, in Kingston, yesterday.

Reid led Belleville to a 2-1 win over Collins Bay to deadlock their two-of-three set at a game each. Collins Bay won the toss for the third game site but no date has been set.

Collins Bay won the opener here Friday 4-0.

Reid snapped a scoreless ball game with a home run in the fifth frame and made it 2-0, with a long fly ball double for damage, in the top of the seventh. Collins Bay shortstop Gilmour got one back with a home run but that was it.

On the mound, Reid tossed his second consecutive four-hitter while striking out ten batters. Douced, who threw two-hit ball Friday, gave up six hits and fanned nine in defeat.

Reid had a single as well as the homer and two RBIs. Teddy Waite contributed a double and single, Bill Probert and Jamie Hunter a base knock each.

Both clubs played errorless ball in the pressure contest.

Senior OASA

Lake Bus Blanks Ellis'

Kingston Lake Bus rolled into a one-game lead in the OASA Senior "B" playoffs in Kingston Saturday night with a 4-0 whitewashing of Belleville Ellis Printers.

Second game in the two-of-three series is scheduled for Alemile Park at 8.30 Thursday, according to OASA convener Cliff Belch.

Ken Lewis, Lake's pitching ace, mowed the visitors down on two or three hits in another impressive performance. Lewis recently struck out 28 batters in a Monday game in Kingston.

Bob Ethier pitched for Belleville.

Larry Mavety was the most impressive Belleville batter, reaching Lewis for a single and a couple of walks.

OASA Playoffs

Minors Topple Oshawa

Belleville minor softball teams chalked up convincing victories over their Oshawa counterparts in OASA playoffs on Saturday.

SACO bantams trounced Oshawa 18-3 here at Alemile Park while Belch peewees dumped Oshawa 11-3 in the motor city. Both were first games in two-of-three sets.

The peewees play back here next Saturday, at 2, and if a third game is necessary, it will be played as part of a doubleheader, at Alemile Park. Belleville bantams travel to Oshawa also next Saturday.

Steve Ellis was outstanding for the SACO crew. He pitched three-hit ball over the route, struck out eight and did not walk a batter. Ellis also garnered the winners' attack with a home run, double and single. Ellis pounded for 3 RBIs in defeat, fanning three and passing the same number.

The SACO hits were will divided with Bill Kirkham hitting two home runs, Rick Belnap a single and two doubles, Herbie Poinder a double and two singles and Al Travis one of each.

Geoff Morton singled twice, Gary Thompson doubled, Kirk Shortt and Bob Codling singled.

Belch's jumped into an 11-0 lead in the first three innings before Oshawa netted trios in the sixth and seventh, with two aid of five errors, in the peewee triumph.

John Sprackett hurled six-hit ball, striking out 10 and passing two, for Belleville. Losor Smith gave up 10 hits, walked five and walked three.

John Romano had a homer, Peter Scott and Peter Stalikowich two singles each and Ron McIntyre a double, to lead the winners at bat. Peter Molnitzi, Mike Shortt, Kenny Vos and Blake Jones added singles. D. McKee was beat for Oshawa with a triple, double and single.

Cobourg Ousted

Picton Wins On Gamble

A daring two-out, two-strike, ninth-inning gamble sparked Picton Kinsmen past Cobourg 2-1 Saturday night in the second game of their OASA Int. "B" playoff series, in Cobourg.

Picton takes the series two-of-three games and next tangle with Beddendale, from the Kingston area.

Warren Ostrander had homered in the seventh to erase a 2-1 Cobourg lead and with the score still 2-2 in the ninth, Demille singled. Dawe struck out the next man but Carl Sadler also singled. Dawe got the second out on strikes, with men on second and third.

Picton next Frank Forster in to hit for Jim Guernsey. He missed twice on bunt attempts but came through on the overpowering third strike attempt with a perfect bunt single, driving home the run. Two more scored on an error off Mitchell's ground ball.

Ken DeMille pitched - another fine game for the win. He gave up four singles, all in the first inning when Cobourg jumped ahead 2-1. It was raining at the time. DeMille struck out 12 and did not walk a batter.

Jim "Sleepy" Dawe was touched for eight hits in defeat. He fanned 13 and also displayed perfect control in the tight contest.

Carl Stacey had two Picton singled, Warren Ostrander his homer and Frank Forster his key bunt single. Keith Stacey, DeMille, Marc Stacey and Jim Guernsey also hit safely.

Cobourg's four singles went to Dawe, Ted Hook, Jim Fair and Clayton Smoke.

No-Hitter Eliminates City Bantams

Belleville bantams forced the third and final game of the series with Oshawa before bowing out in their quest of an EOBA championship, on the weekend.

Both locals won the second game of the series 7-0 behind Terry Meagher's two - hitter before being mashandled in the deciding - tilt 16-0 on a no-hit pitching chore.

Belleville suffered a severe blow to their chances when pitching ace Wayne Farrell was sidelined for the season with an injury.

Meagher gave up two singles in hurling the nine inning shutout on Saturday. He threw third strikes past 11 and walked three.

Paul Hall slammed two doubles, Rick Magher and Glen Carleton had two base hits each, while Moe Thompson, Terry Meagher, Barry Cuhkin, Stan Brooks and Randy Burke struck out singles, for Belleville.

Oshawa pitching star Allan Taylor hurled the 5a - hitter and struck out 15 for the EOBA champs. A Belleville threesome of Terry Meagher, Stan Brooks and Moe Thompson allowed 12 hits in defeat.

Crookston Tops Halloway In 12

Crookston edged Halloway 3-2 in 12 innings to take a two game lead in their best-of-five semi-final series in 7 and 5 Playoff action on the weekend.

Clare Hagerman opened the 12th for the winners with a pounding triple and Chapman followed with a game-winning blast deep into left field, Chapman hurled for Crookston over the first seven innings, with Wayne Shaw taking over mound duties the rest of the way. They fanned 15 and walked one.Ron Denyes went the distance in defeat.

Chapman had a double to his credit before slamming the winning hit. Bruce Kennedy doubled and singled for the losers.

Carmel Cops Peewee Title

Carmel won the EORA peewee C and D crown on the weekend, defeating Welcome 10-4 in a sudden death game.

Dale Bamber hurled a 10 strike-out effort for Carmel and also helped his cause with two singles. Carm McCaffery was best at the plate for the winners with a homer and double. Roger Ruckstall, John Masterson and Robin Allison had two hits each.

E. Moore was the losing pitcher and had one of his club's four hits.

Eskimos Whip Erring Argos 31-10

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos capitalized on weaknesses in Toronto Argonauts' offensive line and on Argo errors Saturday to take a 31-10 Canadian Football League victory before 21,107 fans. The crowd was one of the largest in Clarke Stadium's history.

Eskimos' defensive squad, led by ends E. A. Sims and Ron Forwick, harried Argo quarterback Wally Gabler throughout the game, tossing him for big losses. Sims, Forwick, rookie tackle John Lagrone and others penetrated the Toronto offensive line time and again to get to Gabler.

Midway through the fourth quarter, Argonauts incurred four successive roughing penalties which moved Edmonton into the Toronto eight-yard-line. From there, halfback Jim Thomas new Ar the third touchdown of the game.

The victory put Edmonton in a four-way tie for first place in Western Football Conference with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders but the Eskimos have played one more game.

Argonauts remained tied with Ottawa Rough Riders atop the Eastern Conference standings, but Ottawa has a game on hand.

Flanker Randy Kerbow scored one touchdown for Eskimos and Peter Kempf booted a field goal and four converts. Thomas and Kerbow now stand one-two in the WFC individual scoring race.

For Toronto, Jim Dillard scored a touchdown and John Wilson added a convert and a first-quarter field goal.

Eskimos had a 7-3 lead after the first quarter, stretched it to 17-3 in the second and to 24-3 in the third.

Thomas was the top ground-gainer for Eskimos with 110 yards. He caught one pass for 53 yards in addition to a touchdown pass reception.

Edmonton quarterback Frank Cosentino fired nine passes and completed seven, two for touchdowns.

Gabler completed 11 of 23 pass attempts for 137 yards. Dillard gained 30 yards on the ground in six carries.

The Edmonton club picked up 17 first downs on 298 yards along the ground and 137 in the air. Argos had 13 first downs on 39 yards on the ground and 137 in the air.

Unheralded Hab Keeps Tigers Close

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Hiller, an unheralded lefty from Scarborough, Ont., a Toronto suburb, pitched a vital four-hitter Sunday to help Detroit Tigers keep pressure on all the leaders in the American League.

Hiller, pressed into service as a starter only because Detroit has a stretch of three doubleheaders in four days and, while Sox recently lost lefty John Podres of Baltimore Orioles 4-2 and 2-1 and Boston Red Sox battered Los Angeles Angels 13-2 and 9-1.

Kansas City Athletics and Washington Senators were rained out.

Saturday's games, John O'Donoghue pitched a one-hitter as Cleveland trounced Detroit 5-0, Kansas City topped Washington 5-1, Boston dropped California 12-11 and Minnesota pasted New York Yankees 7-3, Baltimore topped New York 2-1 and Chicago were rained out.

Hiller was called from Toledo of the International League this season and pitched impressive before earning his first start. He has won two decisions and lost none.

Jerry Adair, a utility infielder, drove in the tying and winning runs in the second game as third-place Boston moved within 1½ games of first place. Chicago trails the leaders by a half game and Detroit is fourth, two games out.

Yesterday's Fights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting—Reggie Smith, Red Sox, hit three home runs, good for six RBI, in a 13-3, 9-8 doubleheader sweep over California.

Pitching—John Hiller, Tigers, fired a two-hitter for his second victory in two major league decisions as Detroit blanked Cleveland 4-0 and completed a doubleheader sweep.

Leafs, Suns Fight For Final Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League has two playoff races going—one for the lead and one for fourth place.

Batting for fourth, and a berth in the playoffs, are Toronto Maple Leafs and Jacksonville Suns. Richmond Braves and Rochester Red Wings are in the hunt for the lead.

Richmond regained first place during the weekend by downing Syracuse Chiefs 6-4 Saturday and 5-3 Sunday. Rochester fell a game off the pace by dividing a Sunday doubleheader with Jacksonville after the clubs were rained out Saturday.

A six-run seventh inning carried Jacksonville a 9-4 triumph in the first game and the Red Wings rebounded to win 11-3 in the nightcap.

Jacksonville and Toronto are tied for fourth, three games behind Toledo Mud Hens. Toronto failed to gain on Toledo as the Detroit farm club won the opening game 4-3 before the Leafs bounced back for a 4-2 verdict in the second game.

Buffalo Bisons climbed past Syracuse into seventh place in the eight-team league by pounding out 7-3 and 8-3 victories over Columbus Jets.

Toronto and Toledo split a doubleheader Saturday. The Leafs won the opener 3-1 and took a 4-0 whipping in the nightcap. Columbus and Buffalo were rained out.

Syndicate Purchases Nearctic

CHESAPEAKE CITY, Md. (AP)—Nearctic, Canada's Horse of the year and sire of 1964 Kentucky Derby winner Northern Dancer, has been syndicated for $1,500,000 and will stand at Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Woodstock Farm in Cecil County, Md., it was disclosed Sunday.

The syndication announcement was made jointly by Mrs. duPont and E. P. Taylor, whose colors Nearctic carried and on whose Canadian farm he has been standing near Toronto.

The purchasing group of 32 persons includes Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Gough Thompson and Mrs. Helen L. Jennings. Members of the duPont family are shareholders.

In addition to Northern Dancer, Nearctic has sired stakes winners Cool Reception, Arctic Hills, Bye and Near, Ice Water, Battling Lawyer, Northern Mink, Northern Queen and Florico.

Parsons Blank Trenton

Belleville Parsons scored two late goals to defeat Trenton 3-0 in a Kingston and District soccer league game, at Ewick's Island yesterday.

Both teams battled hard in the first half and both missed scoring opportunities. In the second half Parsons were outplayed but not outscored.

Bob Watson booted home the first goal and Herb Mueller kept the losers scoreless with several fine saves in Parsons' net.

Alan Brown added the second goal with a hard drive from 25 feet out.

Parsons play Estaws on Wednesday at Ewick's, with kickoff at 8 p.m.

Golf Crowns Won By Geo. Knudson, Stu Jones, Bridget Jackson

SASKATOON (CP)—Bridget Jackson of Birmingham, England, rolled upon defensive golf Saturday as she defeated Mercedes Palmer of Hamilton, Ont., on the 37th hole of the Canadian women's open golf championship.

Miss Jackson wrenched her back while driving on the first hole and was plagued by pain and a persistent jab the rest of the way. "—

The bad back hampered her swing on full shots, especially on long irons. But she got by with a three-quarter swing much of the time and used a deft putting stroke to protect her lead, three holes at the time of the injury.

She managed to win four more holes, but three were won in par.

Her only birdie after the injury came on the 37th, where she rapped an eight-foot putt to close out the match. It was the third time in the match she birdied the hole.

Three times, Miss Palmer dropped putts of six to eight feet to salvage halves.

On the 32nd hole Miss Palmer missed a two-footer. She missed again from the same distance on the 35th.

Miss Jackson said she stopped concerning herself too much about Miss Palmer after she hurt her back.

"I was just concentrating on par then," she said.

Leading by three holes after 30, she now her lead disappear by the 35th.

Miss Jackson forgot defensive golf on the 37th. She pitched strongly to the green with her third shot, then rapped the ball solidly into the back of the cup from eight feet away.

She asked reporters not to emphasize the back injury but the injury, more than anything else, enabled Miss Palmer to hold to the end.

After the injury, k was Miss Palmer who got the distance from the tee and who was hitting greens in regulation figures.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Ran or shine, George Knudson emerged Sunday as winner of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship.

The Toronto golfer fired his second 67 in as many rounds to defeat Jerry Magee of Toronto by four shots for the $2,000 first-prize money.

Knudson's total, 10-under par, was posted despite soggy conditions created by heavy rain that forced reduction of the 54-hole event to 36 holes. The champion led by three strokes after the first round and increased his margin by one Sunday.

There were several complaints Friday over the decision of the CPGA to wipe out the second round, halted by rain with many still on the course.

Magee, who played on the United States PGA tour several years ago, earned $1,500 for finishing four shots ahead of Moe Norman of Oakford, Ont., Bob Panasiuk of Windsor and Stan Homeniuk of Dauphin, Man.

Knudson made the turn in 35, one under par, and included a brilliant eagle three on the par-five 18th in a 32 on the way home. Magee stayed within a stroke on the back nine with a 33.

Knudson said the turning point was the 15th hole, where he earned a birdie with a nine-foot putt. Magee missed by inches with a preserve-holen eight-footer.

"He was a little too wrong for me," Magee said. The winner was over par only once, on the 250-yard, par-three 17th.

Tied for sixth place, worth $750 each, were Dick Munn of Vancouver and Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg. At 144, even par, were Ken Girard, Bob Breen and Frank Wibley of Toronto. Each won $218.

Although Knudson said the soggy conditions made the course easier, most scores soared.

VICTORIA (CP)—Stuart Jones of New Zealand put on a late charge Saturday to win the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Jones, a 43-year-old part-owner of a department store, birdied three holes in a row in the second round of a 36-hole final to defeat countryman Ross Murray 3 and 2.

Jones had been dropping long putts as he progressed through the draw to the final but recovered his touch on the 25th hole when he canned a 35-footer for a birdie.

He signalled the start of his charge by doing a dance around the cup as he picked up his ball. The long putt gave him the lead.

On the 28th, he placed his approach shot one foot from the pin and Murray, a 36-year-old sales manager from Dunedin, conceded the short birdie putt.

On the 37th, he went three up on his Commonwealth golf teammate when he dropped a 15-footer for a birdie while Murray had been sticking off a string of pars.

The longest putt of the match was those three birdies," Jones said after his win.

Jones, who was persuaded by New Zealand team manager Bryan Silk, to enter the tournament, was two down to his younger opponent at one point during the first 18 holes.

But Jones crept within one hole when he dropped a 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th.

He squared the match on the 21st by scrambling for a par. Murray regained the lead on the 23rd when Jones missed a three-footer but lost it on the 33rd when he needed three putts to go down for a two-over-par seven.

S. Bowerman Wins

A Day For Silver Tops

Threatening clouds failed to dim the glow of the second annual Bay of Quinte Country Club's Silver Tops Tournament for the club's not-so-young members, yesterday.

A good field battled for the honors in three flights with Steve Bowerman capturing the Silver Top Trophy.

Bowerman, competing in the "Junior" flight, had the best low gross score and led his flight with a net score of 76. Jack Belanger also had 76 in second place, Bert Waters another 79 in third, and Ken LaPelm still another 79 in fourth. Ken Irish placed fifth with 72 while Bud Gill was sixth with 75 and Scotty Reid seventh with the same score.

The "intermediate" flight honors were won by Dr. Frank McCue with a net score of 71. Jimmy Durrant was second with 73, Dr. Earl MacDonald third with 74 and Jack Diamond fourth with 76.

In the "senior" flight, Jack Dyble led the way with a net of 71. Dr. Jack Marshall was second with 73 and Alex Wilson took third with the same score. H. "Gibby" Gibbon placed fourth with a 73.

Flights are determined by age but the ages are a closely-guarded secret.

One golfer remarked, when rain stayed away despite the clouds, "Today, every cloud has a silver top".

A sing-song and social event was highlighted by the piano stylings of member Phil Huddleston.

Frank Gerrieve presented the prizes to complete an enjoyable day.

Imps Clobber Saints 25-6 In ORFU Opener

SARNIA (CP) — St. Catharines Saints were whipped 25-6 by the re-vamped Imperials here in Saturday's opener of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule.

The game was curtailed by referee Al Paterson of Oakville with four minutes and 30 seconds to go after a major power failure in the city. Referees waited for more than 30 minutes for the lights to come back on.

Officials ruled Sunday the game will stand as a Sarnia win.

Cannifton Ousted

Read Magic Works Again

Although Read victories are probably legitimate, there are those that might suspect the club fashions its winning feats from witches' brew.

Last night Read won their semi-final series with Cannifton 8-4 in their usual way, scoring two runs in the final inning, with two out. The series went the full seven games, with Read trailing at one point 3-1 in games.

Read scores the titular series in Shannonville tomorrow.

Cannifton held a 3-2 edge in the sixth before Read notched a single run to tie the game. The losers went ahead 4-3 in the eight with 4 lons tally, but then the roof fell in.

Read's first two batters in the last of the ninth went down in orderly fashion, but Wayne Pascoe hit a grounder that was fumbled by Cannifton's infield to start the rally. Then Carm Milligan slammed a double to score Pascoe. Milligan later scored when Ted Abrams struck a single to complete the winning drive.

Ted Abrams and Carm Milligan shared the winners' pitching chore, striking out 14 and walking four. They sprinkled 11 hits over the route.

Bernie Coughlin and Pat O'Connor buried for Cannifton, fanning seven and walking three.

Read pulled off the play of the game in the fourth with a baseloaded triple play.

Ted Abrams had two base hits for the winners. Ed Lister, Carm Milligan, Gerry Brennan and Pete Enright also hit.

Bob Moon, Ted Lister and Larry Adams all had a home run and single for Cannifton. Each round-tripper came with the bases empty. Pat O'Conner struked three singles and Ron Urch a pair.

Cannifton:	100 002 010	4-11-4
Read:	101 001 002	5- 7-4

Canada Makes Poor Showing

TORONTO (CP)—United States and Jamaican athletes dominated the invitational track and field meet today at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Canadians won only four events and many complained their performances were below standard.

The Americans established six Canadian open records and equalled three. The 11-member Jamaican team won five events.

Canada's poor showing was partly due to the absence of international standouts Bill Crothers, Dave Bailey, Abigail Hoffman, Nancy McCredie and Susan Nigh, all of the Toronto area.

"Some have good reasons for not being here," said Pete Peach of Toronto, part-time agent of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

"Most have had too much competition this year and just didn't bother showing up. There haven't been too many meets."

Harry Jerome of Vancouver, hampered by a leg injury suffered at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg, finished last in the 100-yard dash.

The only double winner was Wyomia Tyus of the U.S., clocked in 10.5 in the 100 yard dash and 23.8 in the 220. Her 100-yard dash time equalled a Canadian open standard shared by Irene Piotrowski of Vancouver and Marjorie Turner of Lockeport, N.S., and her 23.8 clocking for the longer distance equalled Mrs. Piotrowski's Canadian open mark.

Shot-putter Dave Maggard, Hurdlers Cherrie Sherrard and Bob Steele and quarter-miler Jane Barnett of the U.S. all set Canadian records.

High jumpers Gary Hines and Eleanor Montgomery and pole vaulter Dennis Phillips tied or surpassed Canadian open standards in their specialties.

Joan Hendry of St. Lambert, Que., won the women's long jump with 18-2 and Ian Arnold of Toronto cleared 48-6 to win the men's triple jump.

Besides Arnold and Miss Hendry, the Canadian winners were Dave Ellis of Toronto, with a clocking of 13:25.7 in the three-mile event and Carol Martin of Toronto with a heave of 44-6 in the women's shot put.

Orr Injury Disturbs Bruin Brass

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins, top rookie in the National Hockey League last season, will have his right leg examined today by three orthopedic specialists at Toronto General Hospital.

He suffered the injury last Thursday at Winnipeg in an exhibition game against the Canadian national team.

"I'm quite confused about it," said Bruins' general manager Milt Schmidt in an interview. "Whoever sponsored the game did not get permission to use Orr or anyone else in the Boston organization."

James Dunn, president of the Manitoba Old Timers' Hockey Association, sponsor of the game, said he obtained verbal permission from Tom Johnson, assistant to the Bruins, president, to use Boston players.

Schmidt declined to comment further until all the facts are disclosed.

New Soccer Season 'Explodes'

LONDON (Reuters) — English League soccer exploded into action Saturday with crowd violence and the defeat of European Cup-hopes Manchester United.

Hooliganism broke out at two of the biggest games of the day. At Goodison Park, Liverpool, where Everton humbled league champions Manchester United 3-1, police went into action when spectators jumped the barriers. After some scuffles 19 Manchester fans were removed.

A crowd of about 40 police moved in on the stands at Maine Road, Manchester, where Manchester City and neighbor Liverpool played to a scoreless tie. Fans were led struggling from the stadium.

Trouble started at Goodison after Everton got two goals in a minute from Alex Hall, brilliant England forward, and Alex Young. This gave Everton a 3-0 lead and sections of the crowd of more than 61,000 milled on to the field before police restored order.

Bobby Charlton scored United's goal.

Fighting broke out among the crowd of nearly 50,000 at Maine Road just after halftime and it took police 15 minutes to settle the disturbance.

Tottenham Hotspur, English Cup winners and considered Manchester United's most dangerous rivals for Soccer honors this season, scored an impressive 3-2 win over Leicester City, defenders Joe Kinnear and Mike England, and forward Frank Saul scored for Spurs, David Gibson and Nick Sharkey scored for Leicester.

Chelsea, beaten in the Football Association final, opened with a 1-0 win over West Brom which while West Ham United league champions beaten 3-2 at home by Sheffield Wednesday. The Sheffield team's winning goal came through Jack Ivon scoring as when Jimmy McCalling headed the ball home.

Wolverhampton Wanderers made an impressive return to the First Division with a 2-1 victory over Fulham, but Coventry, also promoted was defeated 2-1 by Burnley.

Fighting broke out among the crowd at the West Bromwich Albion-Chelsea game and more disturbances occurred with fans at Reading where Reading beat Stockport 3-0 in the Third Division.

Ron Springett, goalkeeper for Queen's Park Rangers, promoted to the Second Division, complained to police about objects being thrown from the stands. Rangers defeated Bury 3-1 at home.

The other teams promoted from Division Three, Middlesbrough, was beaten 2-0 by Ipswich.

In Scottish football, Glasgow rivals Celtic and Rangers were helped by penalties to win their League Cup game. Celtic, winning every competition it entered last season, including the European Cup, beat Aberdeen 3-1 after leftback Tommy Gemmell had opened the scoring for them from a penalty.

Knut Jornasen scored Rangers' only goal from a penalty in their 1-0 win over Dundee United.

Lady Bird at Expo for Flying Visit

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the United States president, said Sunday after a visiting seven pavilions at the world's fair that she would like to see more, provided she can find the time to do so.

Mrs. Johnson, who arrived in Montreal Saturday night for a two-day private visit to Expo 67, said many persons in Ottawa from Expo wanting to come back again.

Asked whether she plans to make another visit, she said: "I'd like to very much" but "I don't know." It was difficult to find two free days together to make such a journey.

Mrs. Johnson began her Expo tour by visiting the United States pavilion at 8:30 a.m.—an hour before the regular 9:30 a.m. opening—and said she found the display exciting, especially the space exhibits.

She then visited the British, Mexican, Quebec and Atlantic provinces pavilions before making a tour of the Canadian pavilion where she was guest of honor at a luncheon given by Robert Shaw, Expo's deputy commissioner-general.

After lunch she made a leisurely tour of the theme pavilion Man the Explorer and headed for a rest at her downtown apartment before attending a brief reception at city hall.

She was welcomed to city hall by Mayor Jean Drapeau and signed the visitors' book. She then returned to the Expo site for dinner at the Belgian pavilion.

Mrs. Johnson arrived at Montreal International Airport aboard a commercial airline and her department will be shrouded in secrecy as was her arrival.

A large corps of U.S. secret service agents accompanied Mrs. Johnson to Montreal and they were assisted by the RCMP as the president's wife was taken on her tour.

Another important American visitor to Canada will be at the Expo site today when Governor John A. Volpe of Massachusetts heads a delegation from that state to the world's fair.

Today has been dubbed Massachusetts Day at Expo because of the governor's visit.

Each Church Must Be Itself And Respect Others--Leger

TORONTO (CP)—The Roman Catholic Church has changed in "many" ways at many times because "custom and the debility of age" are foreign to it, Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal Sunday told an international congress on theology.

"Nevertheless people do not understand the slowness which seems to be impeding all the efforts of renewal, while the pusillanimous have the idea that the least change in detail would cause the whole edifice, even a danger to the faith," he said.

"To be truly Christian the church must ceaselessly renew itself, while guarding against destroying. Tradition is not changed," the cardinal told 2,000 delegates to the Congress on the Theology of the Renewal of the Church, a centennial project by the Catholic bishops of Canada.

"Our task is to renew the church each time its lights become less brilliant in the night of the world."

But the word of God cannot be changed, nor can the church permit "any part of what has been revealed to be lost," he warned.

To maintain harmony between "that which cannot change and that which must be renewed," the congress and its speakers need freedom, wisely used, he said. The bishops, in approving the congress, recognized that theologians have freedom of inquiry and thought and freedom to express their minds humbly and courageously.

Cardinal Leger said that in the ecumenical movement, each church must remain true to itself.

"The churches which renew themselves in order to be more true to themselves in faithfully following Christ will certainly one day be united," he said.

"For their renewals arise from the same source, and their faithfulness converges."

But unity cannot be achieved until everyone endeavors to be himself, and respects "the other in another."

The search for unity between churches must not be permitted to cause division within a church, the cardinal said.

"... We must be careful not to provoke, in the name of an ill-conceived ecumenism, new schisms. ... We will not arrive at unity by breaking up our own communities."

French and Canadians Unite To Honor Dieppe Raid Fallen

DIEPPE, France (CP)—The 25th anniversary of the Dieppe raid was a public show of friendship between Frenchmen and Canadians against a backdrop of tension at the official level.

A few German veterans of the Dieppe battle caused a minor stir at the fringe, while Britain's Lord Mountbatten choked up some smouldering old arguments about the bloody wartime episode.

Despite sidelight asperities, the main feature about the Canadian survivors of the raid was the personal and public regard shown by the French people.

A series of services, parades and receptions was climaxed on the seafront Saturday night by a Dieppe-composed description — by fireworks and a loud-speaker narrative — of the mainly Canadian raid against German-occupied Dieppe Aug. 19, 1942. The raid was a military disaster in which 907 Canadians and more than 200 British men were killed within a few hours.

Many Canadian participants said the most moving experience came during a parade of Dieppe veterans with Canadian, British and French honor-guard contingents. Thousands of Dieppe citizens thronging the passiform narrow streets and leaning from upper-storey windows sent up wave upon wave of applause as each group of Dieppe survivors passed by.

About 40 Germans and 20 Frenchmen attended a combinegative service at the Canadian ceremony about 80 miles south of Dieppe Saturday after a request by German Dieppe veterans to take part in the service, a celebration had been rejected.

However, a former German Sheriffer took part in a wreath-laying ceremony Saturday evening on the beach at nearby Pourville, where a battalion of the Royal Regiment of Canada was virtually annihilated 25 years ago.

Earlier, Gen. Joachim Lindner, a German captain at Dieppe and now commander of a NATO brigade, attended a service at the Canadian cemetery at Vertus Woods, a Canadian official said.

Mountbatten, the man who promoted the idea of a Dieppe raid, raised a hint of controversy in a lunch-time speech which reviewed decisions leading to the battle. He justified the operation as an essential prelude to the Normandy landings two years later.

While disclaiming "responsibility for detailed planning of the raid, Mountbatten said tactical lessons learned at Dieppe prevented the same errors being made in Normandy.

Local Talent Appreciated

The Sands of Time, a Belleville group played before 700 young adults for Dave's Gig Saturday evening. Held in the Junior Farmers' building, the dance was described by Dave Charles, the host, as a "complete success". The Sands of Time is one of many up-and-coming groups in the area.

Movie Column

Producer Overcomes Riot, War, Earthquake to Make Film

ATHENS (AP)—The filming of Sophocles' Oedipus the King almost became a personal Greek tragedy for producer Michael Luke. But by sheer doggedness he managed a happy ending.

The production recently finished shooting on the third century BC amphitheatre at Dodoni and in the black surrounding countryside. It was no small achievement for Luke, who had to overcome revolution, war, earthquake and the fickle nature of American movie companies. British actor Luke Kirby, is a veteran of the European movie-television world. His brother Peter produced the much-acclaimed Hamlet at Elsinore, filmed in the actual locale of the Shakespeare play.

Michael Luke became intrigued with doing Oedipus in an actual Greek theatre with the same star and director: Montreal-born Christopher Plummer and Philip Saville.

CBS agreed to back the project, reserving the television rights after it had played in theatres.

Then CBS backed out in January," the producer related, "Fortunately Paramount came in on the deal and pumped more money into the picture. We had Sycos Pappas act and the promise of Peter Finch. We already had five or six British technicians in Athens. Then came the revolution."

With the takeover of Greece by a military government, Paramount's interest waned.

Irene Pappas backed out of the film, declaring she would be shot if she returned to her native Greece. Finch also insisted on filming with Pappas in Sicily. But his schedule would have negated Luke's commitment with Orson Welles, to be in his Falstaff production.

"Now I was truly up a pole because if I delayed any longer I would lose Plummer, we had a date at Expo 67," said the producer.

"The Arab-Israeli war made matters worse, since film companies wouldn't be able to get insurance."

Only eight days away from when production had to begin, Luke decided to go where big film companies wheel and deal —the Cannes Film Festival. Within three days, he had three offers. He accepted one from Jay Kanter of Universal.

Just before the film-makers left London, they read of severe earthquakes in the region of Greece where they were to shoot. They departed anyway.

After such beginnings, the actual filming proceeded with amazing ease.

BC Forest Fires Spreading

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's forest fire situation continued to deteriorate during the weekend, despite light rain in most areas Sunday.

Nearly 3,000 men were fighting 400 forest fires early today. Total timberland covered by fires was estimated by provincial forest service officials at 20,000 acres.

Light rains fell on parts of Vancouver Island, the coast and northern B.C., but did little to contain the blazes forests. More rain was predicted for today, but in the form of scattered showers.

Forest service officials say it would take a downpour to stop the flames. The city of Kootenay and southeastern British Columbia remained without showers.

LBJ's Margin of Support On Vietnam Is Slim in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson holds a slim 15-to-13 margin of support for his Vietnam war policies among 28 senators whose seats will be at stake in the 1968 general elections, an Associated Press poll shows.

An over-all canvass of the Senate in which 54 of the 100 senators expressed their opinions, found 44 willing to give a broad endorsement to the course Johnson is following and 40 opposed to it.

Johnson's conduct of the war in the underlying issue in hearings which the Senate foreign relations committee resumes today with Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach as a witness.

Led by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, war policy doves showed every intention of airing further complaints that the president is over-committing the United States militarily and is not taking steps that lead to peace negotiations.

On the other side, the AP canvass, disclosed some hawks standing pat behind the president but demanding even greater military efforts while others are deserting him because he has refused to take all the wraps off U.S. fighting forces.

For the 34 candidates who will seek Senate seats next year, support or criticism of the president's policies may become critical in their campaigns.

Johnson is expected to read the Democratic ticket. As of now, 19 Democrats who presumably will be running with him back his policies while nine oppose.

Among prospective Republican candidates who will be on a ticket opposing Johnson's re-election, five now generally support the way he is conducting the war and four are critical of his policies.

Four Democrats and two Republicans declined to take any stand at this point. Several of those who did express an opinion did not want to be quoted publicly.

Senator Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the assistant Democratic leader, left no doubt he will be out in front in support of the president in his re-election campaign. He said he is "a bigger hawk than the president."

Senator George D. Aiken (Rep. Vt.), a critic of Johnson's policies who will be running again in 1968, voiced a Republican viewpoint when he said Ho Chi Minh, president of North Vietnam, "will never negotiate with Johnson, McNamara and Co."

Blaze Finally Burns Out At Montreal Oil Depot

MONTREAL (CP)—A marathon battle by firefighters against a two-day oil-fed inferno at an east-end petroleum storage depot came to an end Sunday night as the flames ran out of fuel and died.

The exact financial loss is still to be determined, although preliminary estimates by engineers of the Calex Oil Co. set the total oil and property loss beyond $3,000,000.

Investigators have begun probing the charred area for a cause of the blaze, which began early Saturday apparently at a loading ramp where a 3,000-gallon truck was discharging oil into a storage tank.

A company spokesman said the depot could go back into operation as soon as firemen leave, since tanks and loading platforms away from the main blaze were, left undamaged. Mopping-up operations were expected to continue through today.

The fire broke out about 1 a.m. Saturday.

From that moment the situation became progressively worse and reached its peak Saturday when a second blast blew up some 12 hours later, destroying at least three tanker trucks and sending one fireman to hospital with severe leg burns. Armand Page, a company truck driver known in the early hours of the blaze, was in good condition in hospital today.

Six firemen were sent to hospital during the fire, most for smoke inhalation and minor burns.

Foam chemicals were unable to check the flames roaring from the large storage tank which blew up first. It was said to contain 3,000,000 gallons of fuel oil.

Frustrated in being unable to fight the fire directly because of the oil and unbearable heat, the firemen turned to containing the flames by pouring millions of tons of water on adjacent tanks and grounds.

Fire officials said that 65 streams of water—including 13 from two fire boats—were poured to thwart the flames.

Calex officials estimated the total loss would approach 5,300,000 gallons of petroleum products. The Calex depot, in the largely industrial east end of Montreal Island, has a capacity of 25,000,000 gallons but it was not filled to the limit.

Calex is a wholly-owned Canadian subsidiary of New England Petroleum Co. of New York. Its Montreal depot handles imported petroleum products for discount retailers across Canada.

The long pall of smoke and orange fire was visible to thousands of Expo visitors and could be seen as far away as St. Johns, 25 miles to the south of Montreal.

Defective 'Neutral' Switch Can Cause Starting Chaos

BY RAY STAPLEY

I have received a number of letters from readers regarding trouble-free shifting and starting difficulties in cars equipped with automatic transmission. This week I'm covering two of the most frequent queries:

"Dear Mr. Stapley: I drive a 1964 model and recently it has failed to start when in 'neutral'". In order to make the engine turn over, it is now necessary to place the gearshift lever half way between neutral and reverse. Is this easily corrected?"

"Dear Mr. Stapley: I own a 1964 V-8 wagon showing 35,000 miles. At times I have trouble with my automatic transmission selecting the right position for "drive", and often finding the car in "low" although the indicator reads "drive". Several times I have found myself accelerating up to 50 mph before realizing that I was in "low". Is this damaging to the transmission and engine?"

What is known as a "neutral" switch is fitted to all cars equipped with automatic transmission. This switch prevents the engine from starting when the gearshift selector control is in any position other than "park" or "neutral". However, when defective or maladjusted, this safety switch can cause some weird and dangerous happenings. For example, a few years ago a customer asked me to check over a powerful used V-8 he had just purchased. I replaced the gearshift lever in "neutral" turned on the key and depressed the accelerator — (as well as feeding the gas, the accelerator engages the starting motor on this model.) As the engine started, the car leaped forward, ripped through a fence on the parking lot, and I just stopped the brute about a foot away from a brick house. It turned out that the gearshift linkage was worn, and instead of being in neutral, it was in low gear. Also, the neutral switch was defective, and the engine would start regardless of the position of the gearshift selector.

To avoid complete starting failure or plowing down fences as I did, a defective "neutral" switch should be adjusted immediately or replaced as necessary. The switch cost only about $2 plus a minor installation charge!

The gearshift linkage may wear and require some new parts, such as rubber bushings, before it can be adjusted to correctly select the proper gear switch. To allow an automatic to remain in low gear at highway speeds for any length of time can severely damage both the engine and the transmission. Usually, replacing the neutral switch and gearshift linkage is quite simple, but finding a mechanic who really knows how to do it may pose a problem. If in doubt, look for a reliable specialist, or you may end up paying for a complete transmission overhaul or an exchange unit that may or may not be necessary. It is possible for a transmission to fail internally causing the mechanism to stick in low gear, but be certain the external linkage has been checked first before authorizing major repairs.

Senator Says Saigon Ignores Reform Demand

"Ky for you and Ky for me. Ky for Thieu and Thieu for me."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Clifford P. Case suggested today the heavy U.S. military involvement in Vietnam has so trapped the Johnson administration that the Saigon government can ignore demands for basic civil reforms.

Case, a New Jersey Republican and a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said plans to dispatch 45,000 additional U.S. troops emphasize that "American prestige is so deeply involved that we can't withdraw and the South Vietnamese, knowing this, feel free to ignore our requirements."

"I am convinced that the American people will not accept such a position," he said. "Yet the president's decision to send more troops is hard to reconcile with any conclusion other than that the administration has allowed itself to be trapped into this intolerable dilemma."

Suspected Killer

Suspect Gets Mental Tests

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—Victor Ernest Hoffman, 21, was remanded for a mental examination Monday when he appeared before Magistrate J. M. Polichuk on a charge of capital murder in the Aug. 15 shooting death of James Peterson, 47, a Shell Lake district farmer.

Eight other members of the Peterson family also were slain.

Hoffman, employed on his father's farm near Leask, Sask., where he was arrested Saturday, showed little emotion during the 16-minute court appearance. He was remanded for 30 days to the mental hospital in this city, 125 miles northwest of Saskatoon.

When told he had been committed for psychiatric examination, he asked the magistrate:

"Does this mean I will get shock treatment?"

The magistrate replied: "I do not really know, but I believe there will be preliminary examination by doctors."

Hoffman was under heavy RCMP guard during the 60-mile drive to the courtroom from his cell. Two RCMP officers took him to the prisoner's box where he sat staring at the floor and stroking a bandage on his right thumb.

He rose immediately when his name was called by the magistrate and walked to stand directly in front of the bench. The charge was read and the magistrate did not ask for a plea.

Among 30 spectators who crowded the school-floor courtroom in the city police station were Mrs. Lee Hill, 19, of Chetwynd, B.C., eldest surviving Peterson. Seated with her was her husband, brother-in-law and father-in-law.

Hoffman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman, were not in court.

While in the dock Hoffman was released from his handcuffs.

But was shackled when he was led away from the dock to the cells to await transportation back the mental hospital.

An intensive police investigation involving 75 RCMP ended with the peaceable arrest of Hoffman on his father's farm.

It came some three hours after the Petersons were in a single grave at the Shell Lake village cemetery, 37 miles east of Prince Albert.

The slain were Mr. Peterson, his wife Evelyn, 42; and their children, Joan, 17; Mary, 13; Dorothy, 11; Pearl, 9; William, 5; Colin, 2, and Lorne, 1.

Four-year-old Phyllis was unharmed as she slept under the bedclothes between two of her sisters. Mrs. Hill was at her home in Chetwynd at the time of the shooting.

Police said 28 shots were fired.

Ronning Says China Once Ready to Neutralize Area

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—China was once prepared to let the whole of Southeast Asia be neutralized, and that is what should be done, Chester Ronning, one of Canada's leading Far Eastern experts, said 425 delegates to the Lutheran young people's conference Monday.

"The only thing to do in Vietnam is by some terms," he said. "Let North Vietnamese will accept a conference and will accept terms for withdrawal."

"Continuing the bombing is a greater risk to American boys than cessation because bombing may bring in the Communist Chinese, and then the fat is in the fire.

"The war in Vietnam is one of the greatest threats to the continued existence of the United Nations, which is our best and perhaps our only hope for peace."

In a later interview, Mr. Ronning said China was prepared as late as 1961-62 during the Laos conference to see the whole of southeast Asia neutralized if that was the wish of Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam.

"There is a possibility of this if a peace conference is called to discuss the matter and a peace conference can be called only after hostilities are stopped."

He said he did not know what China's attitude now would be toward neutralization.

Mr. Ronning was born in China in 1894, spent his boyhood there and later taught there. He entered the Canadian diplomatic service and served in Norway and India and later as ambassador to China.

He said he believes continued bombing of North Vietnam by the United States could bring in the Chinese and the Russians.

"The one thing the Chinese and the Russians have in common is the prevention of the destruction of North Vietnam.'

Mr. Ronning carried a letter from Prime Minister Pearson to North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh in 1966.

"One of the reasons I was accepted in Hanoi was that Pearson was the only head of government that sent a reply to a letter from (North Vietnamese President) Ho Chi Minh. Canada has also taken a rather courageous stand by trying to bring about a cessation of hostilities in Vietnam."

Threats Received

LONDON (Reuters)—A U.S. embassy spokesman Monday night played down two threatening phone calls which followed Sunday night's machine-gunning of glass doors in the building's consular section.

The spokesman said one call termed the shooting incident "just the beginning," and the other said someone was going to put a bomb in the embassy.

He said normal precautions were taken about the bomb threat, but added: "We feel there is no problem about the embassy's internal security."

He described the calls, which were reported to police now searching for three men seen speeding from the embassy in a white sedan, as "the sort of call that always follows a startling event."

Milk Sold as 'Pet Food' Profitable to Farmers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Farmers seeking higher profits opened a store Monday to sell milk—plain, ordinary milk —but they called it "pet food." The farmers, selling milk at below state-regulated prices, are laughing. Customers, who are saving 29 cents a gallon, are smiling. But the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission is frowning. The commission has set prices at $1.08 a gallon for the consumer.

The store, in its first day, did a brisk business. A couple of young customers were lined up before the doors opened.

Ernest Hayes, head of the United Dairy Farmers which is behind the operation, said with a grin:

"We would like the commission to investigate to see that we're doing the right thing for the pets."

A sign on the wall says: "This milk is sold for pets, and the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission does not allow it to be sold for human consumption."

The farmers say they get 50 to 55 cents a gallon for milk sold under the "pet food" plan while milk sold elsewhere, some of which goes into cheese and butter, returns only 40 cents a gallon.

Forests Are Aflame In Pacific Northwest

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Vast forest land areas of Idaho, Oregon, Montana and British Columbia were aflame today as firefighters sought to overcome manpower shortages, hot, dry weather, and a threat of lightning storms in the Northwest.

More than 400 new fires were reported Monday in the region. Washington state officials said the forest fire threat there was the worst in history.

Spokesman for the U.S. forest service regional office in Ogden, Utah, said exact estimates on the number and size of the fires are impossible.

"We don't have enough men to cover all the fires," Richard Stauber, forest service information officer said. "We've been trying to fight the big ones and then on to the others as we can."

No fatalities have been reported.

In B.C., Forest Minister Ray Williston said he is considering putting a recreational forest closure on the southern half of the Kamloops district at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday.

Torontonians Debate Charge Police Brutal

TORONTO (CP)—Hundreds of Yorkville denizens continued demonstrations Monday as Torontonians debated bitter charges of police brutality in quelling Sunday evening's mass protest in the midtown coffee-house district.

Eight chanting demonstrators were arrested Monday evening as several hundred hippies threaded through bumper-to-bumper traffic and stood in the street.

As in Sunday's disturbance, when 48 persons were arrested, the hippies' efforts to back up their demands for closing Yorkville's main street to traffic were watched by a crowd estimated at 3,000 to 5,000.

But unlike Sunday evening, there were no complaints of police manhandling demonstrators.

Eyewitnesses to Sunday's fracas claim police clubbed, slapped and kicked demonstrators as they dumped them into police wagons.

Police Chief James Mackey Monday defended police conduct in Sunday night's demonstration, saying they used "only the force needed to arrest these people.

"The officers simply did what was necessary. I have no knowledge of any person being hurt in any way. I fully support my men."

New Haven Rioting Continues

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Sporadic racial violence occurred Monday night in a ring encircling downtown New Haven as the city felt its third day of fire-setting and looting.

The city remained in a state of emergency as arrests—mostly on charges of breach of peace—mounted today. Most of those arrested were Negroes.

Police reported 342 arrests since the disturbance broke out Saturday night, spurred by the shooting of a Puerto Rican man by the white proprietor of a snack bar.

City and state police were plagued Monday night by fires and lootings. Thirty-three blazes reported by authorities between 7 p.m. and midnight—four of them called main fires —caused police to retreat occasionally to tear gas to keep crowds clear of the firefighters.

The firebombing incidents, confirmed by authorities, contributed to making the night the worst of the three in terms of fire calls.

Police said most of the looting incidents occurred at liquor stores.

Farming Said More Efficient

Despite rising farm costs and low profits Canadian agriculture has increased in efficiency in recent years, Arthur Bennett, director of extension for the Ontario Department of Agriculture told Belleville Rotarians yesterday.

Agricultural production in the period 1960-65 was 86 per cent higher in volume than the immediate pre-war notpuit. Grain production rose 83 per cent and the average annual milk output per animal was 23 per cent higher. More milk in fact is now being produced by fewer cows. Production of poultry meat had tripled over pre-war, while egg output had doubled. Livestock production was 68 per cent higher.

"Canada is the fourth largest exporter of agricultural products today," said Mr. Bennett, noting that nothing could be more erroneous than to think of Canadian agriculture as an inefficient or declining industry.

Some 40 per cent of the labor force was directly dependent on farming and about 10,000 businesses were associated with agriculture. Moreover, farmers were good customers for other businesses, spending nearly two billion dollars a year for goods and services.

Guests at the luncheon included some 30 members of the two 4-H calf clubs sponsored by Belleville Rotary, accompanied by their leaders.

Nancy Eggleton, 15-year-old member of 4-H, received from Rotary president James Marker an award for the highest number of points, obtained for her Holstein calf and for showmanship, on Achievement Day at Belleville Fair. Miss Eggleton lives at R. R. 6, Belleville.

Mr. Bennett said grass cash receipts of farmers in the last three years had been more than three billion dollars annually. In Ontario alone farmers spend more than $40 million for building maintenance, $20 million for electric power, $70 million for farm machinery and maintenance, $186 million for feed and seed, $45 million for fertilizers and chemicals, $200 million for food, shelter and clothing, $65 million for fuel and petroleum products, $80 million for tractors, trucks, cars and maintenance.

"Add to these money spent for taxes, interest, labor, rent, insurance, veterinary services, and we can readily appreciate the fact that no other single businessman in Ontario requires as many goods and services as does the farmer."

Of the skills needed to farm successfully today, Mr. Bennett said the extension branch employs 150 agricultural graduates as advisa farmers. However, this could not be considered a substitute for well - educated and well - trained farm operators and managers. With the growing demands being placed on farm managers he said the equivalent of agricultural school or a university education increasingly will be necessary.

Mr. Bennett quoted Economic Council of Canada statistics to show that educationally Canadians were lagging. More than 30 per cent more Canadians than Americans discontinue schooling before the end of grade 8 and less than 25 per cent in the 25 to 34 age group have education beyond grade 12, compared with 40 per cent of Americans.

Twice as many Americans, the statistics indicate, have a university degree. Again, fewer than 30 per cent of Canadians aged 25 to 34 have more than high school education, while more than 53 per cent of the comparable American group have such education.

"One has only to look at the thousands of newspaper advertisements for skilled workers, as well as managerial and professional personnel, to realize how much Canada needs more people with better education and training."

Mr. Bennett referred to an editorial in a Toronto newspaper berating Canada as a nation forcing its more professional people from overseas and added: "Surely, unless we are a people of inferior quality this country should have sufficient young people with the ability to master the education required to fill such positions. What a waste of resources it is to have so many of our people working so far below their inherent capabilities because of lack of education."

The speaker went on to refer the program established by the government to further progress in agricultural education, including last year's "Power 67" course attended by 150 farmers.

Kids' Carnival in Backyard Helps to Augment Campaign

Youngsters have a natural flair for showmanship.

They also possess an unlimbibed knack of instant response.

Often the two may be combined with benefit.

Paul, 11-year-old Paul Fraser yesterday found how to blend both for the community good.

The result was a donation to help fight muscular dystrophy in Canada — not a giant donation, it's true, but all painstakingly collected from playmates' pennies at a kid's carnival in Paul's back yard at 14 Meadowvale.

Paul, who has a touch of showmanship, organized it. Neighborhood youngsters immediately responded.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Fraser received inspiration for the project from an American TV kiddies' show, boosting subscriptions for U. S. muscular dystrophy campaigns.

He wrote to the station and received a list suggesting some ideas — among them a carnival.

Without further ado, he gathered up his chums and all set to work organizing — and advertising the event.

John Tilbrodani donated a sheet and offered to stick his head through.

It cost three cents for every five times someone tried to hit him with a sponge.

Alan Lemmins, 12, brought a tent, set a turban on his head and told fortunes. He charged two cents a time to read any youngster's fate in the cards.

They borrowed a bee-bee gun from Paul's older brother Jeffrey, 13, and were paid a penny a time for each shot fired on a cardboard rifle range.

Someone else set up a gift shop.

Then they all went out to the nearest shopping centre and spent $3-$6 on prizes.

"We just made it up out of our own imaginations," explained Paul as he surveyed the results under the bribs of his carny barker's cardboard top hat.

The results also caught the imagination of all small fry in the neighborhood, warned of the carnival's impending presentation by poster.

They romped around the Fraser's amateur fairground most of the afternoon, and in doing so showed just how enterprising also youngsters can be.

At the end of the day when Paul counted up his take he found $8.25 profit — for forwarding to the Canadian Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Chamber Saluted

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, after conducting a national survey, has commended the 13 member organizations that have been in operation for over a 100 years.

Men and women in Belleville, as members of the Chamber of Commerce, have been working towards the betterment of the community since 1905, over 100 years.

There are fifteen Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce which have been started in Halifax has the oldest which has been in existence since 1750. Belleville is the 12th in the list of 15 member organizations.

French Speaking Students To Be Entertained in Area

Commencing tomorrow (Wednesday) Trenton and the immediate Quinte district will be hosts for a group of 34 French speaking students from Riviere de Loup who will be visiting in the area for the next week.

The visit of the Quebec students is under the Centennial Youth Travel group program. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kaine of Trenton will act as hosts.

The students will arrive by CN at the Belleville station around noon Wednesday and tomorrow evening will be entertained to dinner by the Trenton High School Board and Mayor James MacDonald.

Thursday the visiting girls will take a tour of the Trenton Dye Works while the boys will visit the Bakelite plant. In the afternoon the group will visit the Bata Shoe plant and engineering works to be followed by an evening barbeque at the home of Bill Sedore.

On Friday they will be a trip to Kingston's Royal Military College, Ford Frederick and Fort Henry.

Inspect Site for Fire Hall

TRENTON — Town officials want to discuss any possible disadvantages of the proposed site of the new fire hall, but can not see any reason from Queen's Park to talk about it.

Mayor James MacDonald told council last night Murray Stevens—the Department of Transport official who has been acting as the government's traffic consultant to Trenton — has indicated he would be unable to make an inspection of the fire hall site until "at least Oct. 1."

Council some time ago gave formal approval to the Front St. site and the $105,000 plan is now awaiting Ontario Municipal Board approval. The new station was to be completed by year's end at the latest.

Recently, however, Councillor Duncan McDonald re-itegted his objection that the fire hall site might create a traffic problem, and the mayor was asked by council to get Mr. Stevens' opinion.

"He says the traffic layout is operable, but that at times there could be some delay for fire trucks getting out onto Front St.," said Mayor MacDonald.

"But Mr. Stevens says he's tied up on another government job and can't possibly get here before the first of October unless we get permission from his superiors."

"I think, since he's the man who helped us lay out the traffic scheme Mr. Stevens should receive the thing done and for all," said Councillor D. R. Fraser.

At council's insistance, Mayor MacDonald said he would telephone Transport Minister Irwin Haskett and ask if Mr. Stevens could be relieved of his duties for half a day to visit Trenton.

Community Best Asset

Light Industry Said Ideal for City

The next decade could be crucial to the community growth of Belleville.

This is an October's opinion rendered by a man now assuming a key post with the city's community structure — Raymond M. Brown, Belleville's new industrial commissioner.

"The next five to 10 years will be extremely important to this city," he feels. "The future will hinge greatly on its official planning, its social activity, recreational facilities and urban renewal."

The general summation results from more than a brief acquaintance with the community — responsibility for whose growth is now partially invested in his capacity for office.

Although at 39 one of the youngest executives in the highly - competitive pursuit of industrial development, the new commissioner can speak from an experienced background. As a Canadian Pacific Railways supervisor for industrial and agricultural development in Ontario, he has examined Belleville before.

His opinions still have the value of being searchingly impartial.

As Mr. Brown puts it: "I think an outsider has a distinct advantage over a local personality in that you can be unbiased."

However, those opinions are definitely biased in favor of Belleville's potential for growth — and industrial development.

His favorable reactions registered some time ago when he first visited the city for the CPR, mingled with its citizens on its streets, in its restaurants.

Leaving aside all other attributes of a community, its greatest asset is the most basic — its people.

"What is synonymous with industrial development is people — and Belleville has just that," says Mr. Brown. "Some two years ago this was registered in my mind when I was here.

The significance of a community's personal attitudes to industrial location is simple:

"You can't have industrial development if the responses of the citizens isn't favorable. This could affect their output."

And if people don't like living in their own community it is immediately impossible to boost it as an attractive location for new business.

However, there should be a feature to the city's industrial growth, Mr. Browne indicated.

It should build from a basis of steady economic expansion, focussing in its early stages on lighter industries.

The sudden arrival of a huge, heavy manufacturing complex in present-day Belleville, would have all the "unbelievable impact".

"I think we can best attract those industries that employ maybe 200-300 people in light industry so that they can be absorbed into the economic base more readily."

"If an industry employing 1,000 people arrived what would it do here? It's beyond the present financial capability of the city to provide services."

"I think that the city's ability to accept a heavy industry will be determined on its rate of growth in the next 10 years."

Mr. Brown, for more than 10 years with the CPR, entered municipal promotion 14 months ago as deputy industrial commissioner for Brantford.

Another necessary ingredient is the volume of the available labor pool.

The advent of a community colleges in the area also will add to Belleville's attractions for industrialists.

It is important, says the new commissioner, that a community have the capacity to generate a certain number of technologists.

That is a new prospect held out by the location of Loyalist College.

However one of its prime advantages already of proven worth is the city's industrial promotion. It has made Belleville a recognized competitor for new industry in the past four years, he said.

Among the commission's most basic assets is its autonomy.

"When you consider this was evolved in a city of 30,000 people it's tremendous."

Army Motorcycle Team To Provide Drill Show

One of the liveliest events on Belleville's Centennial events calendar sweeps into the spotlight tomorrow night.

It's the Canadian Armed Forces motorcycle display team, now gearing for its thrill show of skill and acrobatics at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Backing up the team, by way of home, will be the Kingston School of Signals Trumpet Band.

The show, presented in co-operation of the department of national defence and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, will be free to the public.

The display comes here with some local strings attached. Much of the training for the centennial presentations in 112 cross-country communities, took place at military camps in Petawawa and Kingston.

Training for the team began early in May 1966.

Of 31 riders selected, 12 had previously straddled an army motorcycle and only one ever performed as a rider. A score of the cyclists now are part of the Canadian Forces Telecon travelling coast-to-coast. The remaining 31 riders make up the team that will perform here.

All riders wear a dress uniform of blue breeches with red stripe, blue patrol jackets, and a helmet in the blue and white of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals. The protective helmet, made of plastic compound and containing absorbing lining, is designed to crack on impact.

Showtime is 7.30 p.m. on the OSD parking lot.

Picton Plans to Widen Town Approach Road

PICTON (Staff) — Picton town council last night took action on two matters pertaining to road allowances.

At a special late afternoon session members voted in favor of an expropriation bylaw which will enable the municipality to land on the western outskirts of town.

The two- to three-foot wide strip, running between Lake St. and Sharpe Motors, will allow the widening of Main St. approach to 44 feet. This will stretch from the town limits to the intersection of Lake, Talbot and Main Streets.

Also approved for expropriation will be a portion of the three-street intersection to allow the improvement of the corners.

Andrew Jarvis, chairman of the streets and property committee, said the special meeting was called to expedite completion of the project. He said asphalt must be laid no later than Oct. 15. Tenders were called for the laying of the asphalt last week.

Councillors also took action to clear a building mix-up on the corner of Robinson St. A 10-foot width of town property was conveyed by resolution to Lambert Bolling Construction Company of Belleville in exchange for an equal strip of property in the same area.

The mix - up occurred when the construction firm inadvertently built an $11,000 brick house on a town right-of-way. Robinson St. had been closed three years ago to provide property for a housing development.

Trenton Council Notes

The question of Sunday movies will once again be put to Trenton voters this year.

Council last night received a letter from F. F. Kennedy, manager of Trenton's only theatre, requesting that a plebiscite be held.

The question has been defeated several times in recent years the latest being last year.

Councillors agreed the question would be put to Trenton voters at this year's municipal year-end elections.

The fenced-off rear lot of the former post office property will be used for parking, but only for those motorists who purchase a dollar monthly permits from Trenton's Parking Authority.

Council last week requested the Authority to consider opening the lot for obtaining parking revenue from the property.

Councillors last night accepted the Authority's recommendation that the area be offered as parking space for purchasers of the monthly permits.

Council passed a bylaw authorizing the town clerk to publish town intent to undertake three local improvement projects worth nearly $3,000.

The projects are a sanitary sewer, and connections, on Orchardview Drive (Phase 2), and sidewalks on Film ($4,400) and Byron ($2,200) streets.

Mayor James MacDonald has been authorized by council to spend town entertainment funds on welcoming 36 Quebec exchange students to Trenton this week.

A request for some sort of official civic welcome was made by Chamber of Commerce manager Jack Wilson.

Reds and Nigeria

Russia's support of the government of Nigeria in its battle with the secessionist province of Biafra is something of a departure from communist policies of the past which tended to side with the disruptive elements seeking to break away from central authority.

Soviet backing of the Castro regime in Cuba comes to mind immediately in this context. In the case of Nigeria, the Soviets have been flying jet fighters for use by the government forces against Biafra, the former Eastern Region which seceded seven weeks ago and declared itself an independent state.

Other arms shipments are reported to have arrived from Czechoslovakia and Poland as well as Britain. Pilots to fly the jets is another problem, and Nigeria is reported attempting to recruit fliers in Britain.

Russia's involvement in the former British colony's affairs may be an attempt to gain a political foothold in a continent where hitherto they have enjoyed relatively little success. It represents Russia's biggest stake in African affairs south of the Sahara since the downfall of President Nkrumah in February last year.

At that time Ghana had close links with Russia, as well as China, and Nkrumah's government was toppled in a coup while he was on a visit to Peking. Soviet and Chinese diplomatic personnel and "advisors" were ordered out of Ghana by the new military government.

Should Nigeria quell the secessionist state of Biafra, with the help of the Soviets, it would be a political victory of considerable significance for the latter and could lead to a communist bridgehead being established in this region of Africa. By the same token, it is a situation which if it develops in this fashion could spell trouble for the west, in the same way that Cuba is a problem for the Americas.

Happy Teachers

Ontario's women public school teachers are a happy lot. That is the implication of a survey whose findings were presented at the annual meeting of the Federation of Women's Teachers' Association of Ontario last week.

Nearly 94 per cent of them are happy in their job and 88 per cent of them think highly enough of teaching that they would advise a younger sister or friend to enter the profession.

However, they think their work load is too great and say they should not have to do lunch hour duty. City teachers feel too much of their time is spent on paperwork, some of which could be handled by secretaries, and teachers complain of excessive lunchroom and yard duty. Most of the teachers interviewed think lunch hour duty should be undertaken by someone other than teachers.

On teacher qualifications, 46 per cent of trustees interviewed rated their training as fair whereas 59 per cent of the teachers put it in a higher category — good. Fewer than ten per cent of the teachers and trustees considered the training excellent.

Some of the teachers said the course should be broader, others that it should contain more specialized training, while some thought it too short. They favored a university education and degree for elementary school teachers.

These are interesting facets of the public school system as seen from the teachers' standpoint. Improvements is being sought constantly on the educational front, with regard to equipment and teacher training. That most of the teachers are happy is one of the most satisfying factors in this survey.

Girl Watchers

The American Society of Girl Watchers is a kooky organization started as a gag in 1954, but it has somehow mushroomed into a business enterprise linked with several corporations.

What these enterprises comprise is obscure, but the society itself has about 20,000 members around the world, including 500 Montrealers who in the last few weeks have joined or indicated they will join.

What benefits will accrue from membership is not clear either, but it is not surprising that Montreal — and Expo — is the current target for members. Ray Baur, an ASGW executive, says a month-long search is under way for "the most watchable girls at Expo."

One of the society's rules is "no ogling." Only amateurs ogle, says Baur. Rather, girl watchers should cultivate "eyeball dexterity."

Actually, there seems no good reason why one should have to join a society to accomplish such skills. The best things in life are free and among these may be included the ancient and honorable pastime of girl watching. Why transform what is essentially a matter of individual taste into something resembling psychiatric group therapy.

'Savers' Win Limited Victory in Budget Battle

OTTAWA — It was a tough fight, that epic battle between the "Spenders" and the "Savers" of the Federal Cabinet.

So tough, in fact, that it was almost too much for Finance Minister Sharp who, while the dust settled around the embattled East Block, took off, fatigued, if not emotionally exhausted, for a two-week rest cure in France.

The war-of-the-Cabinet roared through a full week, with your taxes as the spoils of battle.

It was when they all — or most of them — returned from a short holiday break that Prime Minister Pearson and the 26 members of Canada's biggest-ever Cabinet chose up sides.

Parliament had recessed for the Centennial; the Queen, quietly, had come and gone in triumph; General de Gaulle had made an unnecessary scene across Quebec; and so, leaving as Prime Minister here in the Capital to keep the Federal store, most of the Cabinet had packed and gone the land to rest and reflect on the state of the nation.

They trooped back for a solid week of Cabinet sessions, with two conflicting reports of how the country was feeling about things federally.

The "Savers" led by Trade Minister Robert Winters, Public Works Minister George McIlraith, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer and Treasury Minister Jack Pickersgill, in some alarm warned the Prime Minister that what was agitating the voters was high tax rates with the threat of even worse to come, and, of course, the ever-rising cost of living.

Some government belt-tightening was urged, they counselled the Prime Minister, or as sure as two and two make four there would have to be either some more massive federal borrowing to cover a threatened billion dollar deficit, or a tax increase.

And the way the taxpayers were feeling, they said, by raise Axes would be commit political suicide in the next election.

The timing was wrong.

For any increase would commit next Spring's Budget, "will the election scheduled for that Fall, or at latest early 1969 — just about the time the taxpayers would be really feeling the painful pinch of the threatened new and-always-higher rates.

But the "Spenders," headed by Health Minister Allan MacEachen, Manpower Minister Jean Marchand and State Secretary Judy LaMarsh, cried nonsense — what the taxpayers really wanted, and didn't mind saying for at all, was more social security.

Security like medicare, pensions increases, family allowance bonuses and the planned security doubling of unemployment insurance benefits from a weekly $35 to $60.

So there the battle lines were drawn. Spend and tax more. Save and tax less — or at least hold the line.

What about it, the Prime Minister asked Mitchell Sharp — how did it shape up to the Finance Minister?

Well, recounted the orange-headed government money-man, with all the emotion of a computer, already they were budgeting for a $740 million deficit.

And unless somebody clamped on the lid, government spending could raise it another $500 million or more, giving the taxpayers their first peacetime billion - dollar deficit.

At the end of the fifth day of battle in this week-long war-in-the-Cabinet, Prime Minister Pearson, still talking like an adding machine, reported it had been all love-and-kisses, with each of the 26 Ministers in amiable agreement that federal spending had to be cut in every department, board, commission, bureau and crown corporation.

But word from other of the combatants is that it was not really all such sweetness and light.

Sure, each one cheerfully agreed that of course spending simply had to be slashed — but not in HIS particular department.

Both sides claim victory.

Leaders of the "Savers," Trade Minister Winters reports so that as "a Balanced-Budget-Man, I am satisfied."

But a couple of his economy-minded colleagues did not sound so certain as to that.

As they left the East Block, one of them answered, when asked how it had gone: "Trouble is there are too many damn civil servants in this outfit who have spent all their working lives on the public payroll and are convinced they have the divine right to tax and spend."

Trouble really could be that this Prime Minister happens to be one of those seven ex-career civil servants.

Closer Links with Russia

Globe and Mail

The agreement between Ottawa and Moscow which will permit Canada to open a consulate in the Soviet Union, headed by in Leningrad or Kiev, is a logical step to follow the pact signed last year by Air Canada and Aeroflot. Since November, the two airlines have each had one flight a week between Moscow and Montreal.

Whether the Soviet Union's motives have been to promote understanding through tourism or simply to gain foreign currency, the result has been that many persons who fled to Canada after the war are finding it easier to visit relatives whom they have not seen for more than 20 years.

Discussions are continuing, the External Affairs Department said, to solving the problem of reuniting families torn apart by the Cold War and "continuing progress" is being made. The talks began in 1964 and the number of immigrants from the Soviet Union to Canada doubled to 400 in 1965 and 1966 over the two preceding years.

This was an encouraging easing of Soviet restrictionism, but it hardly constituted a sharp reversal of policy. The figures are a forcible reminder that for thousands of Canadians the Cold War is still very real, and is measured in the suffering of separation from those they love.

Sunglasses and Intrigue

Watertown Times

No longer are dark glasses associated with the blind, or as protection from the sun. Neither are they a seasonal product linked only with summer. Winter sports enthusiasts have been wearing them for some time. Now the latest fad is to wear sunglasses day and night on a year-round basis.

One firm has a frame that changes color as the lights go down. By day the frame is a certain shade but the color changes to noon green at night falls. This saves buying several pairs to match one's wearing apparel, the women claim.

Manufacturers estimate nationwide sales this year of sunglasses of all descriptions will range from 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 pairs. That's entirely possible, because there are about 80,000,000 wearers of regular glasses, who already are users or prospects for prescription sunglasses — not to mention those who buy sunglasses just for the fun of it.

Total industry sales of sunglasses last year were about $175,000,000. The price ranges? From $2 a pair to one of $1 to a high of $20 a pair.

Fashion, of course, comprises 70 per cent of the sunglass business. And one of the biggest disappointments of bikinis's recent made an interesting comment in this respect.

"Sunglasses," he said, "have become an instant cosmetic, adding glamor and intrigue to a woman the minute she flips them on."

They add intrigue all right. With those tricky sunglasses, you can't even recognize your own wife — let alone identify a police or even casual acquaintance.

Pensions and Living Costs In Spotlight

Toronto Financial Post

More contributors to private pension plans are living longer. Yet pensions sufficient when a man retires at age 65 are often hopelessly inadequate if he lives to 70 or 75. To compensate, more pensions are based on the higher wages and salaries earned immediately before retirement. Relating the payment to earnings produces too small a payout for the pensioner.

These pressures are compelling pension fund trustees to put more retirement money in common stocks, where average long-run returns are about twice as much as returns on fixed-income securities such as bonds.

J. Douglas Grant of Fry Investment Management Ltd., Toronto, writing in the Canadian Chartered Accountant, points out that as a rough rule of thumb, a one per cent investment in yields provides a 10 per cent improvement in pension benefits over a 15-20 year period. Over 30 years it can increase the size of the fund by 20 per cent or so; over 40 years by 45 per cent.

Certainly all kinds of evidence supports the expectations of good long-run returns on equities despite recessions and other upsets. And pension funds are in a position to take a long view when investing.

Canadian fund managers still have only 20 per cent of their assets in common stocks. Pension funds are fully invested in stocks. On average, U.S. funds have 60 per cent of their assets in stocks.

Hopefully, the new need for upgrading investment results will shake the $10,600 million pension funds out of their lethargy. A fresh approach to the soundness of long-term stock values could pay off handsomely for companies and for those they employ.

Roses Among The Thorns

Ottawa Journal

The simple loveliness of the mature rose offers its beauty on this sodden package bilious. A soft pink of the fragile petals forms splashes of color along pasture lanes and on the backs of country roads. It is a humble flowering plant that has called the Martha of the family; but it is the parent of all the beautiful roses that adorn gardens and parks.

Sometimes it seems that the loveliest roses in pasture are wrung from adverse conditions. In light soil with little humus, and in the acid soil of lowlands, some of earth's most appealing blossoms develop their beauty. The wild pasture rose is a good example. Among rocks and boulders, where grass is thin, the pasture rose thrives and spreads its loveliness.

The rose family has over 1200 species grouped in 100 genera. It includes strawberries, hardhack, spirea, raspberries, blackberries, and the cultivated fails. Until recently experts included the wild pasture rose as a flower that is the epitome of beauty.

The wild pasture rose does not pretend to compete with the large blossoms in the garden. It opens its flowers in a single set in the morning and closes the petals at night to prevent moisture sticking to anthers and pistils. Recurved sharp prickles discourage cattle and mice from eating the foliage and seed hips. The pasture rose is a humble plant, but its colorful blossoms are an appealing addition to the flowers that give us a flowering world.

Living Grandly Beyond Our Means

Vancouver Sun

If foreigners did to Canadians what Canadians are doing to themselves, the cry of protest from Victoria to St. John's would deafen the world.

But our wounds — economic wounds, that is — are self-inflicted.

To be blunt about it, we are raising our costs and prices many times faster than could be justified by our disappointing rate of increase in productivity. Other countries, which are either more sensible or less greedy for illusory gains, are watching our performance with incredulous wonderment. The United States, for example, is steadily widening its productivity advantage, while refusing to permit its prices to keep pace with ours. The Americans are perfectly happy to exploit a competitive edge, earned or unearned.

Ottawa announced recently that the consumer price index in Canada in July was more than 50 per cent higher than in 1957. It was also 3.5 per cent higher than in the United States although the average income level in the U.S. is more than 20 per cent greater. Furthermore, Canadian prices in June were 3.4 per cent higher than a year earlier while U.S. prices rose only 2.7 per cent.

Economists and finance ministers have warned incessantly against the folly of any great trading nation, such as Canada, pursuing such a course. Apparently nobody will listen. There is still no sign that anyone has heeded Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp's solemn words of caution in his June budget speech:

"I see two . . . difficult problems. The first is to achieve a better rate of growth in our productivity which has been too low in recent years. The second is to restore some stability to our prices and costs of production. The problems are of course interrelated, and their solution is essential to the maintenance of a high level of employment."

Why would any sensible nation knowingly permit its prices to get so far out of line that foreigners could more readily compete in its domestic market while handicapping the efforts of its exporters to sell abroad?

In another section of his address Mr. Sharp remarked:

"The rate of increase in consumer prices is more than we can tolerate on a continuing basis . . . In other sectors, price increases are too often the result of demands for increased income and power, those with strong market or bargaining power, or attempts by others to keep up with the leaders."

That phrase about keeping up with the leaders has an irony all its own. Ultimately when the outcome of the race will merely decide how quickly the value of our money can be eroded at home, how fast we can price ourselves out of world markets, and how many jobs or the opportunities of jobs can be lost for our working forces, trained and untrained alike.

Canada's New Chief Justice

Ottawa Journal

In applauding the appointment of Mr. Justice John Robert Cartwright, 72, as Chief Justice of Canada, Canadians will first want to thank Hon. Robert Taschereau, the distinguished judge he is to succeed.

Chief Justice Taschereau has done more than ably preside over the highest court in the land pt a very critical time. In the case of the Governor-General, or in the event of his death, all his powers and authorities were vested in the Chief Justice. The dignity with which Mr. Justice Taschereau performed these duties after the death of Gen. Vanier is well remembered.

Chief Justice Cartwright will be in the tradition of the great literary jurists of the United States and England. He is duly learned in the law, one of the leaders of the Canadian bar who has won a practising barrister, he has the philosophic and literary bent of a Mr. Justice Holmes. He is moreover, a lover of poetry and literature, has a grace of mind and diction which have long set him apart. The late Sir Lyman Duff once compared in Greek with a scholarly British statesman. Chief Justice Cartwright may not be capable of that, but his judgments will have in them more than Blackstone, will come from a rich and copious mind, with a master of English as well as of law. He will adorn as well as enrich the Supreme, Court bench.

And let it never be thought he has led a sheltered life behind barricades of books. Fifty years ago, in 1917, the young infantry officer Cartwright was awarded the Military Cross for bravery in France.

Union Nationale Machine Revved Up to Back Roblin

QUEBEC (CP)—The powerful political machine of Premier Daniel Johnson appears revved up for the Conservative leadership campaign of Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba.

Although Mr. Johnson has insisted he is staying out of the Conservative race, evidence is piling up that the Union Nationale is backing Mr. Roblin.

One interpretation is that Mr. Johnson is supporting the Conservatives in a fight to finish off the federal Liberals, whose big power base is in Quebec.

The theory is that Mr. Johnson has given up the possibility of negotiating constitutional changes with the Liberals who, the Quebec premier feels, are defending the status quo.

Traces of the Union Nationale organization have been evident in the Roblin ranks ever since the Manitoba launched his Quebec campaign, at Trois-Rivieres Aug. 13.

Behind the scenes the signs are strong that Duff Roblin is the Quebec premier's pick of the nine-man pack of Tory leadership candidates.

Mr. Roblin's aides, who admit the Manitoba premier needs strong Quebec support to win the race, say Mr. Roblin would welcome Mr. Johnson's support.

The Quebec premier returns from his holidays Sept. 1, the day when Premier Roblin is scheduled to visit the Quebec capital. The two politicians are to meet then.

The Manitoba premier, perhaps the most fluently French-speaking of all the candidates, has campaigned in Quebec for constitutional change to take greater account of what he has called the province's particular status.

Mr. Roblin also has going for him have the recent acknowledgment to the Manitoba Public Schools Act creating the right to teach in French in the public schools of his province.

Diefenbaker Dief May Win Place On Hit Parade

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker'No. 1 on the Hit Parade?

It could happen, CHA Victor's recording of the former prime minister telling some of his anecdotes catches fire.

And it just might do that if an accidental airing of one segment of the 25-minute recording has campaigned in Quebec for constitutional change to take greater account of what he has called the province's particular status.

Mr. Roblin also has going for him have the recent acknowledgment to the Manitoba Public Schools Act creating the right to teach in French in the public schools of his province.

The 11-year-old Opposition leader provided the basic ingredients for the record in three recording sessions totalling 2½ hours this spring.

One side of the platter is composed entirely of selected stories from Mr. Diefenbaker's extensive repertoire about Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister.

The one that got on the air before the sale date has been held at several political meetings during the Conservative leader's cross-Canada travels. It concerns the man who was pestering Sir John of appointment to any job vacancy that came up.

Finally, when the job seeker approached Sir John at the graveside of a senator asking to replace the deceased, Sir John cast a glance at the disappearing coffin and replied: "You're a little too new."

On the flip side of the RCA Canadian - International disc are a series of stories from Mr. Diefenbaker's public life, including an imitation of Sir Winston Churchill and an encounter with R. B. Bennett, Conservative prime minister from 1930-35.

The record was produced by Graham Watt, Montreal advertising man.

Mr. Watt says he figures if each of the nine candidates seeking to replace Mr. Diefenbaker as party leader buys a copy "we've got a hit." He expects it to go on sale this week and to be sold also at the party's leadership convention in Toronto Sept. 2-6.

It retails for $4.98 with Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Watt receiving what is described as an unusually large royalty. It is reported that the Conservative leader plans to give his share to the Macdonald - Cartier library project of the Conservative party women's organization.

Aid for Needy Senator's Aim

NORTH BAY (CP)—Sen. Wallace McCutcheon said Monday if he became prime minister he would postpone indefinitely any national medicare plan and eliminate family allowances.

The senator, one of nine contenders for the Progressive Conservative national leadership, held a news conference here he would like to see a review of all welfare programs with the idea of making them selective rather than universal.

He said the family allowance system now gives money to families who do not need it and leaves other families without enough.

Welfare payments should go to the 20 or 30 per cent of the population who really need it instead of spreading it so thinly over the whole population.

Sen. McCutcheon said he was convinced about a drift toward socialism in Canada which has left party lines blurred. Voters no longer have a meaningful choice at elections, he said.

He predicted that if the Conservatives returned to being a right-wing party, they would attract thousands of uncommitted voters and those who now support splinter parties.

No Fiddling with Votes--Roberts

TORONTO (CP)—A man who was involved in all five national Progressive Conservative conventions urged Monday that the sixth one be conducted without any "fiddling" with delegates' votes.

Keiso Roberts, a member of the Ontario legislature for 24 years until his retirement earlier this year, said the convention in Toronto Sept. 5-9 has been "excellently looked after" up to this time.

However, he said, every effort should be made to assure that the system is "free from circumspect" and "imperial" or the name of Metropolitan Toronto could be "dragged about very badly."

"The position of the president of the national PC association (Dalton Camp) is a particularly delicate one at this time, and it will take the greatest skill on the part of that officer to appease—as well as be—neutral."

Mr. Roberts told an informal news gathering at Queen's Park it would be improper if Mr. Camp or any other person high in the party, including John Diefenbaker, the present leader, came out in support of a candidate.

Roblin's View Same

VANCOUVER (CP) — Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin, a candidate for the Conservative leadership, said Monday the federal government should give up its universal welfare schemes in order to cut federal taxes.

"What is needed is to zero in on those who need it," he told a news conference.

"It would save about two-thirds of the cost and cut down the tax bill."

Data Process Teaching In Demand

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario leads other provinces in high-school data-processing teaching, according to a survey made by the Canadian Education Association.

Questionnaires were sent to 1250 school boards, of which 315 replied.

Fifteen Ontario school boards have data-processing instruction courses, seven will begin courses this year and one is to start the following year.

Alberta ranks second, with four boards already giving computer instruction and one to start in 1968-1969. Three Saskatchewan boards are giving courses and B.C. and Manitoba have one each, with one more to start in B.C. this year.

There are no courses in Quebec, but one is planned for the coming year and one for 1968-1969.

A total of 6,164 students were receiving courses in data-processing in 1966-1967.

The CEA says the survey was undertaken because many employers are being forced to use computers less because of shortages of trained personnel.

Another reason was that the federal department of labor estimates that about 30,000 computer personnel will be needed by 1970.

Benefit Increase Delayed

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail, says that higher unemployment insurance benefits and a cut in the rate are planned by Labor Minister Nicholson are off until at least January or February.

Mr. Nicholson had expressed hope July 17 that the measures would get early attention when the Commons resumes its sittings Sept. 25.

But, says the newspaper in an Ottawa story, the proposed amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act gave way to a number of other measures that are ready to go.

Sources in Mr. Nicholson's office were quoted as saying that the amendments were not victims of the economic drive.

"They were not of sufficient priority to displace bills that are ready and have been hanging for some time," the newspaper said.

It quoted his sources as saying that Mr. Nicholson has an understanding that he and his colleagues that an increase is in order and a Cabinet committee is examining the rates.

In 1959, rates were raised from a $25-to-$30 range a week to $27 to $36 a week.

Hamilton Does Not Believe In Two Founding Peoples'

QUEBEC (CP) — Alvin Hamilton, one of nine candidates for the national Progressive Conservative party leadership, told reporters Monday he does not believe in the "two founding peoples" or "deux nations" concept of Canada.

Agriculture minister in the former Diefenbaker government, Mr. Hamilton said he prefers the expression "two founding cultures," or "deux cultures" in French.

He spoke to reporters after delivering a speech to the world food shortage to a North Atlantic regional meeting of the American Agricultural Engineers.

Car-Makers Won't Deal Says Union

DETROIT (AP)—A United Auto Workers union official Monday charged the Big Three auto-makers with reluctance to get moving in new contract bargaining. Leonard Woodcock said it appears that "they are determined in one of the companies to have a strike."

Woodcock, UAW vice-president and its General Motors director, also said "quite definitely there will not be contract extensions for the target company."

Current three-year contracts at GM, Ford and Chrysler expire Sept. 6. Woodcock did not specify which of the auto companies he believed might be determined to have a strike.

Woodcock told a news conference he had called on General Motors Monday for an estimate as to when. It might make an economic counter-offer to what the union concedes is the "longest and most ambitious" list of demands in its history.

New Departure In Dry Cleaning Now Operating

Bellevillians tonight may be carrying the city's latest business venture around on their backs — but hours after it opened its doors.

Newest arrival in the city's commercial community is One Hour "Martinizing" a new departure in dry - cleaning.

Located on Pinnacle Street just north of Victoria Avenue, it tackles the chores of keeping clothes clean in more new ways than one.

One of the prime obvious features is the fact that it is a cash - and - carry operation that promises completion of a cleaning operation in one hour.

On-the-spot pickup by customers reduces overhead with the savings passed on to the clients, management officials claim.

And, of course, there is the "Martinizing" method of cleaning, the process at the core of the coast - to - coast operation which now opens its latest branch in Belleville.

It's the latest method of dry-cleaning and is said to give filtration and cleaning processes, say company officials.

PLAN NEW PARK

KINGSTON (CP)—The Ontario lands and forests department announced Monday a survey has been started for the development of a 9,000-acre park 22 miles north of here. Harold Nicholson, district land supervisor, said his crew is involved in a two-year program to provide recreational facilities in the area which contains at least seven lakes.

HOME Plan May Cover Apartments

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's Home Ownership Made Easy Act will likely be used soon to help people own their apartments in large urban areas, an official of the Ontario Housing Corp. said Monday.

The province has already acted to make apartment ownership of apartments and row-housing in its HOME legislation which takes effect Sept. 1.

The federal government is expected to revise the National Housing Act soon to allow mortgages to joint owners.

One facet of the HOME plan allows home buyers to buy or lease building lots from the government over a long period — eliminating high down payments.

The condominium, or joint ownership, is common in the United States. A person can buy his own apartment and also have joint ownership with fellow apartment dwellers of the land, hallways and other physical aspects of the building.

The OHC official said the corporation now owns a number of apartments which could be converted to condominiums.

Algoma Halts Expansion And Lays Off 900 Men

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP)—Algoma Steel Corp., whose net profit dropped to $4,900,000 in the first half of this year from nearly $14,000,000 in a similar period last year announced Monday it is suspending its $175,000,000 expansion program.

Construction workers employed on the project are being laid off, and final construction of its new No. 3 furnace and plate mill has been suspended.

The company is understood to have been spending about $3,000,000 a month on its expansion program. Company officials suggested Algoma's sales, production and profits would have to improve to continue spending at this rate.

"Production must reflect orders, and steel orders are down," a company news release stated. It said previously construction strikes in southern Ontario have contributed to the company's troubles.

Meetings between the Foundation Co. of Canada, builder of the blast furnace and plate mill, and Algoma were being held Monday to decide the future of 240 men remaining on the construction force.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP) — Steel issues fell sharply in heavy morning trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Algoma, which tumbled 3¼ Monday, slid back to 34. The company announced Monday it had decided to suspend its $175,000,000 expansion program and lay off about 900 workers because of declining demand.

Sexico and Defiance each slipped 9¢ to 23¼ and 24¼.

The industry is not too optimistic about an increase in production for the second half of the year compared with the last six months of 1966.

Steel of Canada, Stelrad Industrials, ITL Industries and CPR dipped ¼ each to 40 and 67 while Inco dropped ⅛ to 198.

Profit takers cut into speculative gains as D'Eldona dropped 6 cents to 2.45, Consolidated Negus 13 to 87 cents and Satellite 2 to 23 cents.

Sleep Rock declined 25 cents to 6.65 in base metals.

In golds, industrials were off 18 to 108.61, golds 1.53 to 178.22, base metals .22 to 103.18 and western oils .12 to 198.01. Volume was not available.

Speculators bought heavily at the exchange on Monday.

Consolidated Bellekeno was the most active issue, rising 5 cents to 22 cents on 841,000 shares. The stock could have been bought at 7 cents Thursday.

The company announced it has acquired 100 claims in the Sloop Lake area of Northwest Territories as well as 24 additional claims in the Vangorda area of the Yukon.

PCE Explorations, which the company announced it encountered copper mineralization in the Coppermine area, was unchanged at 2.20 after being up for most of the session.

Lorado moved up 12 cents to 1.30 on 298,000 shares, 174,000 of which were involved in a single transaction. Canadian Nisto rose 1 at 70 cents on 251,000 shares.

Algoma Steel slid 2¾ to 25¾, Dominion Foundries ⅛ to 40¾ and Falconbridge 1¼ to 87¼.

On index, industrials were off .54 to 108.61, golds 1.53 to 178.22 and western oils 1.52 to 198.67. Base metals advanced .18 to 103.40. Volume was 5,464,000 shares compared with 5,483,000 Friday.

Algoma employees were laid off Monday.

Algoma said it has laid off 600 steelworkers, half of them students hired for the summer, in the last two weeks and plans to lay off another 300 this month.

The company said it will shut down its merchant mill next week, its bar and strip mill next week, and its rail mill from Aug. 28 to Sept. 5.

Basic oxygen steelmaking will be reduced from Aug. 27 until Sept. 4, but Algoma said this is an annual procedure.

The Canadian steel industry operated at 77 per cent of capacity in July and production was eight per cent down from that of July, 1966. Production totalling 5,600,000 tons in the first seven months of this year was six per cent lower than in the same period in 1966.

Algoma's earnings in 1966 dropped to $24,800,000 or $3.14 a share from a record of $30,800,000 or $2.66 a share in 1965.

A strike which shut down operations for a month between December, 1966, and January, 1967, was given as one reason for lower earnings.

The company says it has had to recover business and customers lost during the shutdown, when customers' delivery requirements were not met.

Musical Star Was Pioneer In Women's Suffrage Movement

HALIFAX (CP)—Anna Leonowens, heroine of the musical The King and I, is mainly remembered as the gay, light-hearted British governess who with laughter and song tamed the court of the tyrannical King of Siam.

But Anna was a far more formidable figure than the frothy, formidable woman beloved by script writers. She was a brilliant, eloquent, determined woman.

During the 20 years she lived in Halifax in the late 19th century—it time when women were expected to devote their lives to home, church and family—she was a pioneer in the movement for women's suffrage, played a prominent part in the city's cultural and social life and helped prepare the way for establishment of Nova Scotia's first art college in 1887.

Despite her busy life, Anna always considered her most important task to be the education of her grandchildren.

Her granddaughter, Anna Harriet Leonowens Fyshe, used to recall that she never allowed her grandchildren to go to other children's houses or parties.

"But after a long day of instruction and housework came the happy hours of listening to the enthralling stories of grandmama's life, travels and exciting adventures," Miss Fyshe wrote to her memoirs.

Anna's daughter Avis married New York stockbroker Thomas Fyshe but not before Anna had made it clear she would consent only if she could live with the couple.

Anna's son Louis, who had shared her adventures in Siam, accepted a post at the court of the King of Siam and married the daughter of a British diplomat there.

Anna left Halifax in 1887 to take her granddaughter to Leipzig, Germany, to study music. Later she joined the Fyshes in Montreal where she lived for 15 years, managing the household after her daughter's death.

Anna spent her childhood in Wales and went to India at 15 to join her mother and stepfather. There she met and married Major Thomas Louis Leonowens.

Widowed when her husband died of sunstroke in Singapore, Anna opened a school for officers' children. It was a success and she was offered the position of governess at the court of the king in Bangkok.

She arrived in Siam in 1862 and, in a book about her years there, she described her first meeting with King Mongkut.

"We mounted the marble steps and entered the brilliant hall unannounced. Ranged on the carpet were many prostrate, mute and, motionless forms, over whose heads to step was a temptation deadly natural as it was dangerous."

The king shook hands with Anna and then began marching up and down "in quick step, putting one foot before the other with mathematical precision as if under drill."

Suddenly, pointing a forefinger at Anna, the king asked: "How old shall you be?"

"Scarcely able to repress a smile at a proceeding so absurd, and with my sex's distaste for so serious a question, I demurely replied, 'One hundred and fifty years old.'"

The meeting ended with the king introducing Anna to one of his wives, Lady Talap, telling her to teach the royal wife and her job was to educate them and "as many of my wives, likewise, as may wish to learn English."

Anna's duties also included helping the king with his English correspondence.

One of her pupils was Prince Chulalongkorn who became king in 1868 and, largely due to her influence, abolished slavery.

Ill health eventually forced Anna to return to England. After leaving her son in England, she travelled with her daughter to America where her books on India and Siam were published. The Siamese were furious and sent agents to buy up a whole edition of Anna's book on Siam to keep the American from reading it. They also refused to pay a legacy left to her by King Mongkut.

Anna died in 1914 and is buried in Mount Royal cemetery in Montreal.

MR. AND MRS. ALAN SLAVIN

Slavin — Parnall

Linda Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lloyd Parnall, Havelock, and Alan James Slavin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Slavin, Belleville, were married in the United Church, Havelock, Aug. 12, 1967, Rev. Harvey Allen, Niagara Falls, officiated, the organist was John Hammond, Toronto, and Murdock McFarlane, Ottawa, was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of French crepe with Empire waist and wedding ring collar. Her veil, edged with appliqued lace, was held by an off-the-face cloche and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Janet Parnall, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Kathi Slavin, Miss Margot Greer and Miss Mary Beth Irwin. They wore yellow green georgette over silk taffeta dresses, with Empire waistlines, wedding ring collars and floating shoulder panels. They carried baskets of yellow gladioli and shasta daisies.

James Slavin was his brother's attendant and the ushers were Ted Parnall, brother of the bride, Ronald Slavin and Murdock McFarlane.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the couple left on a wedding trip to the Gatineau Hills. For travelling, the bride chose a burgundy linen dress with pink orchid corsage. On their return they will live at 535 Palmerston Ave., Toronto.

Nun Uses Music to Help Teach Retarded Pupils

TORONTO (CP)—Sister Cecile Gagnon is spending the summer far from her home in the Northwest Territories because she hopes to reach a retarded Indian boy by learning how to play the saxophone.

She uses music to help teach her class of 18 retarded children in the Joseph Burr Tyrell combined elementary and secondary school in Fort Smith, N.W.T.

"After they get interested in music, then I can teach them anything," she said. "I use music to get to them, and it works. Once they're started they can go very fast."

She decided to learn how to play the saxophone because one pupil has his heart set on playing that instrument. Sister Cecile already knows how to play every instrument of the orchestral family but the cello, bass, bassoon and harp.

"The Indians are very shy," she says. "You have to go to them, they don't come to you. But music makes them happy, and they open up like flowers.

"Very often they do two years' academic work in one. The children in my class are happy. I want to make it nice for them because they'll have a hard life ahead of them.

Some of their sons really gifted. You just give them a little push and it goes a long way. Angus Charlie, an eight-year-old Dogrib Indian, is a prodigy on the trumpet. He already plays in the military band. He looks like a midget there."

Sister Cecile, a teacher since 1932, a member of the Grey Nuns of Montreal since 1936, and a resident of Fort Smith since 1945, started to teach the retarded children music three years ago.

Through the trumpet, she taught nine-year-old Frank Canadian to read after four years of unsuccessful attempts. Another nine-year-old, Roderick Beaulieu, learned how to play the same instrument and his stutter vanished.

Fort Smith is a community of only 2,000 but the Tyrell school has 700 students because the town has a "hostel" for Indian students from all over the western Arctic.

Fish Has High Protein Content

OTTAWA (CP)—You hardly ever see a tubby fish. And on them, they're a good friend because fish haven't much fat if you're dieting to get into that skinny-pants suit.

What fish as a food does have is a high protein content, necessary to stay healthy while losing weight. As a protein source, fish ranks with meat, poultry and dairy products.

Fish with the least fat and fewest calories count are cod, haddock, sole, perch and pickerel.

Halibut and whitefish contain slightly more fat, and the chubbier fish of all are herring like trout, mackerel and salmon. But even these contain fewer calories and less total fat than most other comparable protein foods.

Home economists at the fisheries department say that the think-thin technique should also be used in preparing your slimming fish dishes. Cooking in gobs of butter or smothering in rich sauces can add the calories that the fish lacks.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH R. NOLAN

Nolan — Ellis

Rev. J. G. Clancy officiated at the wedding ceremony in St. Peter-in-Chains Church, Trenton on Saturday August 12, 1967 at 11 a.m., when Constance Ann Ellis, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Ellis, Trenton, and the late Mr. A. Ellis was united in marriage to Kenneth Edward Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nolan of Belleville.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Marie Rose who also accompanied the soloist Mrs. Donna O'Neil.

Given in marriage by her uncle Robert Sullivan, the bride wore a full length gown of norganza in Empire style with the bodice featuring a rounded neckline and chiffon wrist-length sleeves accented with frills at the cuffs and embroidered with daisies. A daisy embroidered train extended from the waist at back of dress. Her headdress was a cluster of white roses encrusted with pearls and sequins, from which flowed a four-tier tulle veil with scalloped edges. She carried a white Bible crested with yellow roses mingled with lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Lynda Thompson, sister of the bride as matron of honor wore a mint green crepe dress with the Empire styled lace bodice featuring lace sleeves and accented at waistline with bow. She wore a wedding ring headdress of matching lace with veil. The bridesmaid Miss Dianne Prest was identically attired to the matron of honor but in pastel yellow. Both carried yellow and white mums.

Robert Nolan of Kingston, attended his brother and the usher was Kenneth Vos of Napanee.

A reception was held at the Canadian Legion hall at start at the bride's home. Receiving the guests, the mother of the bride wore a teal blue crepe dress with matching lace overcoat, white accessories, and corsage of bronze mums. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a pink shantung dress with lace top, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and around Lake Ontario, the bride donned a blue crepe A-line dress with matching pillbox hat, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan will reside at 153 Lingham Street, Belleville.

Librarian Is Competent Painter

TORONTO (CP)—In an age of specialization, Angela Danesa Lattanzi is an oddity.

Not only is she a professional librarian but a competent painter. She has combined these two loves in a life-long study of Illumination, the elaborate ornamentation found in early manuscripts.

In her painting, Mrs. Lattanzi explores the vibrancy and color of her native Palermo, Italy. Her abstract style is marked by the brilliance and warmth of a friend, Josephine Phelan, chief librarian at the Earlscourt public library.

Library work brought these two women together when Mrs. Lattanzi was a guest librarian at Earlscourt four years ago. She has since moved from library work though she will teach a course in manuscript illumination next fall at the University of Palermo.

Mrs. Lattanzi has written two books on this subject. She discovered two 12th century manuscripts.

"They supplied a valuable link between the Byzantine style of illumination and the gothic, style of the 13th century," she said.

For Mrs. Lattanzi, painting is a passion. "It's my personality coming out."

Family Honors Mother on Her Birthday

A most enjoyable time was spent on Sunday afternoon at Zelck's Island Park when well over 50 persons gathered to honor Mrs. Daisy E. Jeffs on the occasion of her birthday.

All present included the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of Mrs. Jeffs and the late Mr. Charles Jeffs.

The afternoon was spent in swimming for the little tots, other forms of recreation, and the making of a family tree. A number of pictures were taken and a huge birthday cake was cut during a smorgasbord supper hour.

Necking All Night Only Leads to Trouble

Dear Doris: I am 18 and I like a boy of 16, and he believes in necking all night. But one night I did something foolish: we went to his house and we looked around for a while. Then his friend Bill phoned and he told me to talk to him. But then after he wouldn't talk to me. He said he wasn't mad, but he was because he only necked with me four or five times.

Then he said he liked me a lot and that it wouldn't work out. Then he started to cry. But he walked me to the bus stop. I said goodbye and he said he was going to phone me the next day. But he never.

Please help me. I can't sleep nights. I cry myself to sleep and I like him very much. — Can't Even Think

Dear Can't: You've got the teen-age blues, and no mistake. Now listen to Great-Aunt Doris:

(1) "Necking all night" is a poor, poor occupation — unless you are deliberately looking for trouble.

(2) A person who only has sex on his mind can get to be quite a bore — not to say worse.

(3) Boys who cry too easily better climb back in their cradle.

(4) Instead of "fooling around", how something to do on your dates. Last night I saw a softball game between teams from two community groups. Boys and girls managed each team. Score was 24 to 19. Now clowning and good humor alone were worth the price of admission.

(5) In consideration of (1), (2), and (3), better put that sex-indulgent baby boy out of your mind.

Dear Doris: I come from a family of long livers and we are scattered all over the country. I would like very much to do something for them and I feel your leaflet "Tips in Organizing Friendship Clubs," will be helpful in bringing happiness to us and others.

I would also like to say your advice and friendship have helped many more people than you could imagine. In these troubled times it's so inspiring to have someone like you to turn to each day. May God ever bless you and keep you in His care. — Long Liver

Dear Long Liver: More power to you! Eva Henderson started the first Friends Help Club in Edmonton on a shoestring and brought companionship and fun into the lives of hundreds of oldsters. The ripples are still spreading.

Most important ingredient is not money but optimism and love of life. The leaflet is on its way.

Your last paragraph warmed my heart.

Dear Doris: Is it true the Welfare can have you sign a paper with authority to find out from the bank how much money you have? And is it true that if you have more than $500 (which is the amount allowed for burial) you can be cut off for medical care and no amount for clothing?

I am upset about this, especially as I need built up shoes and some special prescriptions. — Sixty-Four

Dear Sixty-Four: Under the Canada Assistance Plan, money is provided by the government for people who need this kind of help. Just so everything is open and above board, and fair for everybody, a person is usually asked to sign a "Form of Consent," permitting the investigator to check his balance at the bank.

If you feel you need extra consideration because of illness or a handicap, or some other reason, write the Minister of the Department of Public Welfare of your province. Tell him just how things are with you, and he will have a special enquiry made on your behalf.

Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster Universities, and has broad experience in social work. If your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Davey's Own Hermits

By MARY MOORE

When we were shopping Davey guided me to the packaged cookies. Pointing to some chocolate hermits he asked, "Gram, can we have some of those?" I answered, "How would you like to make your own?" His eyes lit up and he headed for the test kitchen before I could pay the cashier.

Here is a recipe you can give your kids pressure to make when they ask, "Mom what can I do now?

DAVEY'S OWN HERMITS

(48) (These cookies freeze well)

(Note: As you know, Davey is nine years old. He made these himself while I hovered.)

1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup butter
1 egg
1 1-3 cups plus 6 tbsp. sifted all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
¾ tsp. cinnamon
2 tbsps. very strong coffee
1 square melted chocolate
1 foil envelope Choco-bake
½ cup raisins
½ cup ground or finely chopped almonds
½ cup cocoanut
48 whole medium pecans (see note below)

Into beater bowl measure the sugar, shortening and butter and beat until creamy and light. Add egg and beat. Sift sifted flour with baking soda, salt and cinnamon. Add to creamed mixture along with the coffee, melted chocolate, raisins, chopped almonds and cocoanut. Mix well. (If desired add whole pecans too.) I recommend that you reserve them to top each cookie just before it is baked.)

Butter your cookie sheets, and from heaping teaspoon drop batter onto them 1½ in 2" apart. If you wet your spoon, batter will drop easily. Top each with a whole medium pecan if you have not mixed them into the batter. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 13 min. Remove to cookie racks to cool.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Garden Vegetable Soup; Chicken Liver Omelette; Hot Buttered Rolls; Peach Shortcake with Whipped Cream; Coffee.

NOTE: Remember that chocolate cookies burn easily so be sure to watch this batch and remove from oven as soon as they are baked through — they should not be browned at the edges.

A model airplane and car contest was held at Parkdale on Aug. 16. Cathy Southorn, Bob Graham won prizes for the most original and prettiest car. Glen Green won for the biggest car, a North American Mitchell. Lonnie Hadley took prizes for the models which were the smallest and with the least wingdows. Alan Rutherford took the prize for the most unusual car and Brian Green for the most modern model.

Thursday was the day for an egg-rolling contest. Barbara Bates was first and Rhonda Chapman took second.

Billy Coughlan won a prize in the yo-yo contest.

More Punch in Perfume Predicted

TORONTO (CP)—Perfume with more punch is in demand this year, says the vice-president of an old French perfume house.

Alvin Welzel of Houbigant Perfumes, a firm founded in 1775, says perfumes used to contain 11 to 15 per cent of fragrant substance but the percentage now is 20 per cent and it's going to go higher.

"Eau de cologne used to be nine per cent and it's now three to four per cent."

Interviewed during a visit to Toronto, Mr. Welzel said it's easier nowadays to keep up with changing fashions in perfume. A century ago there were only a few hundred ingredients available for manufacture of perfumes; today chemists come up with about 30,000 new substances every year although "we take only a few."

One thing that bothers Mr. Welzel is that, whereas women usually know how to wear perfume and freshen it during the day, men are reluctant to carry a little cologne in their pockets to restore the scent.

As a result, although they may use such products as after-shave lotion, deodorants and "body cologne, they usually end the day smelling mostly of human body.

"It might be a good idea to keep a traveling-sized bottle in the desk drawer at the office."

Ann Landers

Birthday Gift Idea: Give Up Smoking

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A year ago my husband asked me what I wanted for my birthday. "I want you to quit smoking". He raised an eyebrow and said nothing. The night before my birthday at 10 minutes before midnight he lit a cigarette and said, "This is my last one, honey. Happy Birthday."

I replied, "I don't believe it!" (He had nine packs left in a new carton). Furthermore, he had smoked (and inhaled) between two and three packs a day for about 15 years. But he had the last laugh after all, because he really did quit.

Now that a year has passed I want to share my happiness with your readers. A husband gave me a birthday present that money couldn't buy. He gave me a gift that required enormous willpower and determination. He may also have given me several additional years of life.

This may sound corny, but my grandmother used to say, "I'll try" can do anything. "I can't" can't do a darned thing. Will you print my letter, please? Perhaps it will serve as encouragement to others. — FRANK'S WIFE.

* * *

DEAR WIFE: What a splendid idea for birthdays, anniversaries, or Christmas — the gift that keeps giving. And the person who gives it also enriches himself. Thanks for your letter — a fine gift to my readers.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Any housewife who lets a 300-pound relative in spike heels ruin her beautiful floor twice, and goes to the expense of sanding and refinishing each time — and then lets the big moose in the house again so she can ruin her floors a third time — is a dumb dopey dopehead.

The only bigger damned fool is Ann Landers who told the woman that floors are to walk on, and if all the woman did was walk on the floors she shouldn't complain.

I am sure thousands of other readers also thought you were crazy but this letter will never appear in print because you always have to be right. So good-bye — MINNEAPOLIS.

* * *

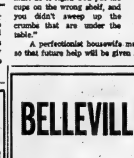
DEAR MINNIE: Not good-bye, dear, hello. I did indeed say floors are for walking on, and a floor should be able to take a 300 pounder without getting wrecked. I also said the relative should be told about the previous damage, and she would surely remove her shoes since no guest wants to knock holes in a hostess' floor.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about the rotten advice you gave a 10-year-old boy whose cat, Jezebel, jumped on the table and ate the salmon loaf intended for his mother's bridge luncheon.

My kids have a dog, two cats, a turtle, three goldfish, a canary and five hamsters. (I haven't looked since this morning, there may be more.) Your answer made it sound as if the mother was at fault for putting the salmon loaf on the table. That's where a salmon loaf belongs. The cat did not belong on the table.

You should have told the boy that children who have pets should watch them. It's the least a child can do if his mother allows him to have a pet in the house. — MAD AT YOU.



DEAR MAD AT ME: I agree that a child should be responsible for his pet, but that was not the question. The boy asked if the cat knew he was doing wrong. I replied, "Cats don't know right from wrong. They only know they like salmon."

You have a point, Mother, but if I had a cat I wouldn't put a salmon loaf on the table until I had checked on her whereabouts.

Camp at Moira Lake Becomes Summer Home For 1,700 Young People

Pictures and Stories
By Donald MacKenzie
Intelligencer Staff Reporter

Volleyball, crafts, swimming, fireside discussions and, of course, eating are activities enjoyed by 1,700 young people who visit Camp Quin-Mo-Lac on the shoreline of Moira Lake near Madoc each summer.

The camp was founded 20 years ago by Rev. Lloyd Shorten and Don Williams for the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church as a camp for boys. It became co-educational the following year.

Although the camp is under the jurisdiction of the church's Christian Education Committee it is non-denominational. Groups of campers from a conference area extending from Oshawa to Brockville usually take the camp for a period of a week to 10 days paying only a minimal fee to cover food expenses. They really work up a hefty appetite at camp.

The campers receive instruction in Red Cross swimming courses and artificial respiration. The camp has a swimming instructor and life-guard on the premises during the summer.

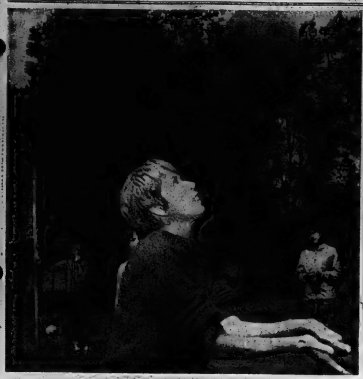
The campers also learn various crafts and handiworks such as fashioning leather rings or tin lampfists.

Along with the various camping groups from churches in the conference the property is also available for rent to various groups.

The Ontario playground training courses are held at the camp and the Ontario government frequently rents the facilities. There are also a couple of weeks each summer when Quin-Mo-Lac is used for family camping.

Counsellors for the groups attending camp are all volunteers. The only paid personnel are the swimming instructor, camp director, and of course, the two cooks.

Don Williams, who originally discovered the location for the camp, said that eventually Quin-Mo-Lac would evolve into a year round camp.



The directors are now more concerned with constructing new buildings; a new dining hall; and perhaps a new access road to the camp.

The camp was cut out of 300 acres of heavy forest with difficulty. Getting a road down to the area was especially arduous because of a very steep hill.

Two roads were built but they were both washed out. Finally, a suitable road was constructed.

Since Quin-Mo-Lac is the only conference camp in the Bay of Quinte Conference it almost invariably has some group using its facilities. The Second Junior Girls and the Port Hope Children's Aid Society are at the camp at the present time.

The most important part of the camp for these girls is their "Home - in - the - woods" where they have the campfires, discussions and singalongs in the evening.

I Got It-I Think

Helen Elliot, counsellor at Camp Quin-Mo-Lac, sticks out her tongue in careful contemplation of the volleyball descending on her. It was a men vs women match and the concentration paid off — the women's side got the point.

Chills the Body But Not the Soul

One by one campers roll off the dock at Camp Quin-Mo-Lac on Moira Lake for swimming practice and instruction in direct artificial respiration. They are taught Red Cross swimming techniques by the swimming instructor at the camp for the summer, Ron Poste. The fact that it was one of the coldest days we have had did not seem to deter any of the anxious young swimmers.

City's Need for Street Signs Makes It A Full Time Job

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The Belleville Public Works Department is in the sign-making business.

All strictly for its own use of course.

Plagued by slow delivery (up to three months) from commercial sign makers, city works got into the sign business a little more than two years ago and the sign making shop is now a recognized separate department.

In fact City Engineer Wilbur Purcell is more than a little proud of the fact the works department does all its own sign making — something a bit unusual for a city the size of Belleville.

The department is headed by "Moe" Huddleston, who has charge of all sign maintenance. This includes the repair of old signs and making new ones.

At first the making of traffic signs comprised the bulk of the shop production. Now the shop turns out specialized signs of all types, including the new universal "wordless" signs, understandable by persons speaking any language.

One of this type being made locally is the "man at work" sign, bearing the picture of a man at work with a shovel and completely without a printed message of any kind.

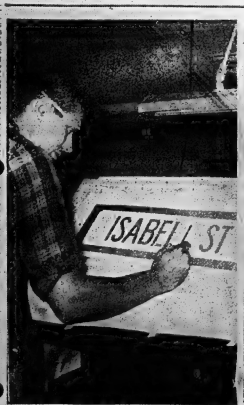
Other signs made include the "stop" signs carried by school guards. These are finished with special "day-glo" paint which stands out brightly in daytime.

Another project is a new type street name sign of tempered masonite and finished with scotchlite lettering which stands out, clearly day or night.

Mr. Huddleston calls them 24-hour street signs. The street name signs come in two sizes, 24 by 8 inches and 30 by 6 inches with 90 per cent being of the smaller dimension.

The street name signs are made with a special silk screening process with the screens being filed for future use such as when replacement is necessary through eventual deterioration, or when the original sign is damaged.

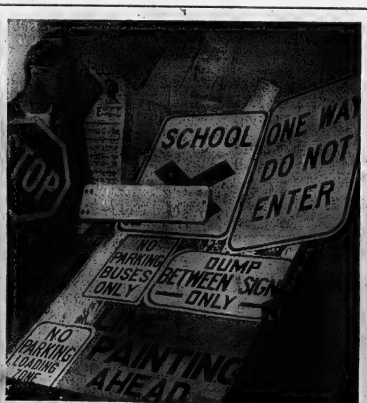
The new street name signs are already up in the Parkwood Heights district between Coldale and Homewood.



No definite street name sign replacement program is being undertaken, but Mr. Huddleston says any new signs required will be of the new "reflectorized" type. He hopes that in five or six years all street name signs in the city will have been replaced.

Last year the works department sign shop repaired close to 300 old signs and made 418 new ones. This year with the street name sign replacement program the number of signs will go considerably over last year's total.

The new street name signs are one third the weight of the ones replaced in Parkwood Heights. They will not chip, rust or fade and barring accident or vandalism should last for up to eight years.



But possibly the most important advantage of the "reflectorized" signs is their clear visibility — day or night.

And that's something which motorists searching for a street in an unfamiliar part of the city will appreciate.

Pinch Hitting

Will Thursday night's Eastern junior hockey league meeting here mark the end of junior "B" hockey in Belleville, at least for the time being?

Indications are that it might well happen.

Jim "Snipe" Matthews, this city's Mr. Junior Hockey for the past half dozen years, and his partner, Tom "Rad" Mavety agreed last week that the 1967-68 picture is not encouraging.

Matthews flatly stated: "The prospects of junior "B" hockey in Belleville this winter looks very bad."

Mavety, who is not sure he can find the time to continue with the sport if there is an entry, was less decided. "I'll talk to you a week from now," he said Saturday, "but I agree that it looks bad."

"Rod" apparently wants to wait until after Thursday's meeting to see how things stand before making any statement for publication.

One thing is certain. Both men have had and still have the best interests of the game and the players at heart.

Neither wants to make any move that might hurt the game or its participants — but the battle gets tougher every year.

Last fall, the Belleville interests, combined with Chris Lockyer's Picton "C" group. Since combine clubs are not allowed in the Ontario Hockey Association, the team was entered as a Belleville "B" team under the name of the Quinte McFarlands.

The Macs, with some backing from Picton Mayor H. J. McFarland, played part of their games in Picton and part here.

The wedding was something less than a decided success from what we can see. Crowds were sent to non-existent and very small crowds in Picton.

Communication between the two groups has bogged down at times and, while no announcement has officially been made, it looks like the union will be severed.

Don't be surprised to see Picton back with a junior "B" team of its own this winter.

Last year's Macs missed the playoffs despite the high-scoring efforts of the Picton line of Ron Riley, Billy Hopkins and Ernie Sharpe. It is almost certain that none of these players will be around this winter. The play of Doug Potts, switched from defence to forward, was about the only other bright spot on the club.

Potts may or may not be available this winter but some of the other players are a-verage. If a Belleville club is formed, Matthews and company will have to start almost from scratch in securing a roster.

Senior hockey, which promises to be back even bigger and better than last year, took what Jupiter fans there were in the city last season. It won't be any different this year.

In the past, Matthews has been disappointed in the lack of support here, not only at the gate but with such matters as travel. "We need a few players' fathers who are willing to pitch in and drive cars for away games," he says.

This is not the only centre facing junior hockey problems. In near-by Trenton, Howard Weese had a disappointing season last year. Players left day-by-day with single gate and juveniles filling out a lineup that managed only three wins all winter, leading to an empty arena whenever the Aggies played.

What will happen there this winter? Would a combining of interests between Belleville and Trenton prove any more successful than the Picton-Belleville one?

Matthews has asked for seven Friday dates plus a batch of Tuesdays at Memorial Arena so if he has a club, at least some playing dates will be available. "Not enough for a whole schedule, however, and that's what the other "B" clubs want I am told," adds Matthews.

"Actually, no final decision will be made until I have talked to Mayor McFarland in Picton. But right now it looks pretty discouraging," he concluded.

Howard Pays Dividend

White Sox Nip Yanks To Share Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elston Howard has travelled the pennant race road enough times to know all its curves and bends, but young Steve Jones can be forgiven if he is not so familiar with it yet.

Howard, 38, was picked up by pennant-hopeful Boston Red Sox from New York Yankees three weeks ago and paid his first dividend Monday night with a ninth-inning single that drove in the winning run in the Red Sox' 6-5 victory over Washington Senators.

And Jones, a young left-hander called up by Chicago White Sox from Indianapolis last week, got credit for his first major league victory as the White Sox squeezed into a tie for the American League lead with idle Minnesota Twins by edging the Yankees 4-3.

In the only other American League games played Monday California's Angels dropped Cleveland Indians 14-4 and Baltimore Orioles defeated Kansas City Athletics 5-2.

Howard, who played in nine World Series with the Yankees, was delighted at finally making a contribution to the Red Sox' pennant push. Monday's victory left the third-place Sox one game back of Chicago and Minnesota.

Howard was retired the first four times up—twice with men on base. In the ninth, with the winning run on third and one out, Washington manager Gil Hodges ordered two intentional walks, loading the bases. Then Howard singled to left and said:

"I want to help in some way because I'm over here to help win the pennant," Howard said. "That would be the greatest thing that ever happened to me if I got into the World Series with this club after being traded."

ELSTON HOWARD

Chicago's Jones had Howard's old Yankee teammates stymied on one hit and was leading 4-0 when the Yanks ran into trouble in the sixth inning.

Mickey Mantle and Joe Pepitone walked and Bill Robinson singled one home. Hoyt Wilhelm relieved Jones and yielded a two-run double to Charlie Smith before shutting the door.

Rocky Colavito slammed a two-run homer for the White Sox and Ron Hansen's sacrifice fly drove in what turned out to be the winning run.

California cams from behind to beat Cleveland in a game enlivened by baseball incident that led to the ejection of Cleveland's Tony Horton.

Horton was struck on the helmet by Angel reliever Jim Coates and started after the pitcher. Both benches emptied as Horton and Coates tangled near the pitcher's mound.

Bobbe Morton's pinch double sparked a three-run comeback that gave the Angels the victory. Morton's hit tied the score in the fifth inning and then Jim Fregosi singled home the runs with California's go-ahead run.

Fred Whitfield and Larry Brown homered for the Indians.

Baltimore's Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks, each slammed a home run and drove in two more apiece in the Orioles' victory over the beleaguered Athletics.

It was the first game for Kansas City under interim manager Luke Appling.

Meeting Held
Athletics Feud With Owner

BALTIMORE (AP)—The feud between Kansas City Athletics players and owner Charles O. Finley reached an impasse Monday after a lengthy clubhouse meeting.

Finley attended the meeting after firing manager Alvin Dark, releasing first baseman Ken Harrelson, suspending pitcher Lew Krausse and fining pitcher Jack Aker, all in less than a week.

Harrelson, given his unconditional release after criticizing Finley, said the controversial Kansas City boss "may have gotten in deeper than he thinks this time."

"Finley made one mistake after another," Harrelson said. "The biggest one was firing Alvin Dark."

Dark was dismissed Sunday following an all-night session in a Washington hotel. The meeting was called after the players released a statement Saturday which supported Dark and accused Finley of undermining team morale by issuing an informant to spy on the team.

The Athletics contended an incident on an airline trip from Boston to Kansas City, which led to the suspension of Krausse, had been overplayed.

Aker, the team's player representative who was fined $250 for missing curfew last Saturday, said the Krausse incident was not the start of the trouble but rather had "brought it into the open."

Prior to Monday's Baltimore-Kansas City game, the Athletics voted unanimously not to retract the statement. They also said Finley requested the retraction.

Finley asked Aker to delay announcing the retraction rules at until further discussion, but after another unanimous vote, the decision was released.

Dark said Monday he knew and approved of the players' statement criticizing Finley.

The deposed manager said the statement was drafted with his approval, but not at his instigation.

Rowdy Fans May Go To Prison

LONDON (AP)—Magistrates' courts started handing out stiff fines and a custody sentence Monday and warned that in future they might be sent to prison.

The courts dealt with fans arrested at five games last Saturday—the opening day of the English League season.

The teen-agers who attended the West Ham-Sheffield Wednesday games were each fined £30 ($80). They were convicted of using threatening behavior and insulting words.

The courts especially were acting on a appeal by the English League to step up the war against hooliganism. The league complained that fines imposed last season — usually £5 or £10 — were not enough to check the troublemakers.

The three youths at the West Ham game were said to have pushed other spectators with their shoulders and then to have spat at policemen.

John Dowsett, chairman of the magistrates, told the trio: "This is the start of the season, and I gave you fair warning. If this behavior persists, we may have to do a little about sending people to prison."

Palmer Heads Money List

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer headed the list of official money winners released Monday by the Professional Golfers' Association.

The list showed Palmer with $138,189.90 in official winnings and $8,521.70 in unofficial prize money.

The other nine golfers in the PGA's top 10 are Julius Boros, $110,635.90; Jack Nicklaus, $106,748.08; Frank Beard $93,-960.80; Doug Sanders, $88,-771.45; Gay Brewer, $75,864.82; Bill Casper, $70,287.13; Bob Goalby, $69,056.85; George Archer, $67,000.78; and Don January, $59,838.85.

Sanders also was credited with $15,432.19 in unofficial winnings, making him fourth in the total money column.

Dodgers Sweep Braves

Rookie Sings Winning Tune

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Singer, the six-foot-four Los Angeles rookie, pitched a four-hitter and struck out 12 Monday night in blanking Atlanta Braves 2-0 for his sixth straight National League victory. The shutout completed a four-game series sweep for the Dodgers over the visiting Braves.

Singer sparkled in three late-season relief appearances for the Dodgers last fall, but had trouble getting the ball at times because of a mysterious coldness in a finger. on his pitching hand.

However, post-season surgery —involving the removal of a piece of rib to correct a pinched nerve—eliminated the problem and the hard-throwing right-hander has overcome a shaky start this year to boost his record to 8-4. In eight starts over the past five weeks he has yielded only six earned runs in 51 2/3 span of innings.

In other NL action, Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed Chicago Cubs 5-1, Houston Astros battered first-place St. Louis Cardinals 11-4 and Cincinnati Reds shut out San Francisco Giants 2-0.

Singer overpowered the Braves with six strikeouts in the first three innings and breezed to his 10th under after a first-inning single by Tito Francona.

The Dodgers scored against Ken Johnson in the first on Nate Oliver's double, an infield single by Willie Davis and a double play grounder. They added a run in the third on a hit batsman and Jim Lefebvre's triple.

Roberto Clemente delivered four runs with a single and his 18th homer as the Pirates extended their winning string to five games.

Woody Fryman registered his second victory against six losses with relief help from Roy Face.

The Astros, who snapped St. Louis' eight-game victory string Sunday, banged out 11 hits against loser Ray Washburn and two successors, wrapping up the victory with a five-run flurry in the seventh.

Rookie Norm Miller led the attack with three successive doubles, drove in a pair of runs and scored twice.

Jim Maloney stopped the Giants on two hits and extended his scoreless string to 18 innings as the second - place Reds trimmed a game off the Cardinals' runaway league lead. Maloney retired 22 of the last 23 batters he faced in bringing his season mark to 11-

OASA Juvenile
Tiki Club Bombs Trenton

Belleville Tiki Club didn't set anything on fire in the Commercial league this year, but Trenton found them plenty hot in OASA playoffs last night.

The juvenile Tiki Club whipped the hapless Trenton crew 20-3 in a error - ridden, boring contest, billed as the first game of a best-of-three set. The next game is slated for Sunday night at Trenton's Bayshore Park.

The winners exploded a seven run bomb in the first inning and added to their total throughout the entire game. Belleville's 17 hits and 11 errors by the visitors made scoring an effortless occupation.

Dixie Lee : Reaches Loop Finals

Dixie Lee flattened Gilly's Express 12-2 to win their women's softball league semi - final series in two games straight, last night.

The winners will now meet the City Hotel for the league crown, with the first game in the best-of-five set slated for Wednesday night.

Dorothy Caverly, Sandra Claus and Debbie Semark slammed home runs for Dixie, with Semark's being a grand slam.

Sandra Claus hurled the win, and Ann Emerson took the loss.

Tiki's hitting barrage was headed by Doug Gleen, who slammed four singles and a home run in five times at bat. Wayne McTaggart and pitcher Tim Wickens chalked up assorted hits for the winners, Mike Headley, Ian McCormick, Rodger Hunter, Jim Parks, Bernie Coughlin and Wayne Brown one each.

Tim Howard and Dan Gobeen slammed a pair of hits each and Mark McKee, Ian McCormick, Ken McGeachy and Wes Lesperance stroked lone base hits, in defeat.

Bill Wickens gave up eight hits and struck out four on the Tiki mound. Dan Dixon and Peterson shared the Trenton chore.

Chuvalo, Patterson 'Medical Risks'

RENO, Nev. (AP)—The international medical adviser of the world Boxing Association Monday recommended that Canadian heavyweight boxer George Chuvalo be suspended as a medical risk.

Dr. Leon Fredman told delegates to the 1967 WBA convention here both Chuvalo and Floyd Patterson, the former world heavyweight champion, should be suspended on medical grounds.

Chuvalo, of Toronto, was stopped in the fourth round of his scheduled 12-round fight against Joe Frazier in New York last month after Frazier opened a cheek cut. Doctors later said Chuvalo, who had never been stopped in previous fights, suffered a broken cheekbone.

The subject of Cassius Clay, the dethroned heavyweight champion, loomed large in other WBA discussion.

Latin American delegates threatened to walk out of the convention if it opened here Monday if they weren't treated "democratically."

Secretary Rodrigo Sanchez of the Panamanian Boxing Commission made the threat in an interview as resentment grew over American control of the WBA.

The Latins cited as an example the dethroning of Clay.

WBA President Robert Evens defended the action against Clay as "the most outstanding thing we've done" this last year. The WBA dethroced Clay because he refused the U.S. military draft.

Clay was champion of the world, not just the United States, Sanchez said.

Meanwhile, delegates to the convention were discussing privately the possibility of a Dick Tiger-Roger Rosse championship fight in October.

They said the fight was being considered for Las Vegas.

There was no indication why Dr. Feldman thought Patterson should be suspended, although the fighter has been suffering from a back ailment believed to be disc trouble.

Twin Losses Send Leafs Plunging

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs continued Monday to sink toward the bottom of the International League, but most of the attention centred on the battle for first place.

The Leafs bowed 1-0 and 3-1 to the red-hot Toledo Mud Hens in a doubleheader at Toronto and Richmond Braves expanded their league lead to two games by outlasting Syracuse Chiefs 6-4 in 14 innings.

Rochester Red Wings failed to keep pace with the leaders when they bowed 4-3 to Jacksonville Suns. Columbus Jets bounced Buffalo Bisons 9-1 and 9-6.

The Braves blew a 4-1 lead after three innings at Syracuse but combined three hits and an error to win in the 14th on runscoring hits by Vince Ferguson and Bob Cor. Bill Bryan's homer for Syracuse in the seventh forced the extra innings.

Four hits and a walk gave Jacksonville a three-run bulge in the first inning of Rochester and the winning run scored on a triple by Amos Otis and a double by Don Bosch in the second. Relief pitcher Bill Wynne checked a late Red Wing rally.

Toledo, which has won 22 of its last 31 games, received fine pitching from Tom Timmerman and Jim Rooker at Toronto. Timmerman yielded two hits in the opener and won on a homer by Chris Cannizzaro. Rooker gave up five hits and fanned 10.

Lombanks Win 6-4

Few Fans See Oldtimers Lose

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

The lack of fan support failed to dim the efforts of Belleville's senior baseball players - past and present - in last night's Lombanks - Oldtimers exhibition game.

Only 78 adults and 11 children paid their way in to see the Oldtimers, led by pitcher Johnny Mowat, bow to the Lombanks 6-4.

Jack Carson, boasman of the Oldtimers when they weren't, kidded the Lombanks after the game that "The boys looked just great out there. Give them a few practices and they could beat you guys."

Mowat hurled the first three innings and struck out four while not walking a man, on the Oldtimers' hilltop. He fell behind 2-0 in the third when the Lombanks put together Don Masters' single, Moe Hunter's double and John McKibbon's triple.

Bobby Bunton ran into trouble after taking over in the fourth, allowing two before Ralph Plane singled one home and Hunter a pair to make it 5-0. Art Wright gave up the final tally in the sixth on a home run blast by Pat Assetstine.

Dave Jones and Earl "Mouse" Bush combined hits with miscues to get the Oldtimers a pair of runs in the fifth. Larry Mavety, who caught for the Oldtimers after Tony Pettitt suffered a split finger off a fould tip, singled in the sixth and Rick Locke blasted a home run to make it a close 6-4 game.

Jones, Bush, Mavety and Duffy Powell each had two Oldtimer hits off the winners' pitching trio of Masters, Bill Latchford and Pat Assetine, while Masters added two Lombank hits. Others, who cavorted on the Oldtimers' diamond were Mac "Bud" Carson, Bud Green, Tom Semark and Al Kelleher. There were a few others present who didn't play.

Moe Hunter led the winners with a four-for-four night while John McKibbon had three. Assetine, Plane and Masters the others.

Some fine fielding plays, such as Mac Carson's great pickup at first and a Jones-to-Bush-to-Carson double play, brought back memories of days gone by while oldtime umpires Cy Young George Clayton and Don Lee did their part to help the show.

During the evening, the Lombank players were presented with individual trophies for their 1967 efforts.

Larry Mavety won the batting crown, MVP and one of the player-of-the-month awards and Pat Assetine copped the Most Sportsmanlike trophy and the cheque that went with it. Bill Latchford, John McKibbon and Mog Hunter also won player-of-the-month trophies.

The clubs enjoyed a get-together following the game.

Orr Back 'In Time For Schedule'

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Orr, injured Boston Bruins defence ace, apparently will be ready to play when the 1967-68 National Hockey League season opens, but National Hockey League officials Monday continued to oppose mid-summer exhibition games.

Orr strained ligaments in his right knee while playing an exhibition game with professionals who live in the Winnipeg area against the Canadian national team.

Dr. John Palmer, a Toronto orthopedic surgeon, said Monday the knee "was investigated under anaesthetic this afternoon, but we did not find enough damage to require surgery."

"The knee was placed in a cast where it will stay for two to three weeks. He should be ready to play two to three weeks later—just about the time the schedule opens."

Milt Schmidt, general manager of the Bruins, said in an interview that no Boston players had permission to play in exhibition games.

Jim Dunn, president of the Manitoba Oldtimers Association which sponsored the game, said he received verbal permission from Tom Johnson, assistant to Boston president Weston Adams.

"NHL contracts specify that players must have written permission to appear in such games," Schmidt said, "and Orr did not have it."

Centre Peter Stemkowski of Toronto Maple Leafs had been scheduled to play, but an injured elbow kept him out of action.

Manage-coach Punch Imlach of the Leafs said Stemkowski had permission to play, but would be held responsible in case of an injury.

"If he had played and been injured, the whole expense would be his own responsibility."

BOBBY ORR

Holy Rosary Ousted At CNE Tourney

Niagara Falls came up with two home runs and a fireballing pitcher to defeat Belleville Holy Rosary 3-0 in the Little Big League baseball tournament at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Big Reg Black slammed a home run into deep centre field and hurled a three-hit, 13 strikeout effort, for the winners. He faced 22 men in seven frames.

Teammate Don McLean clouted a two-run homer in the sixth to add the insurance marker.

John Mulvihill pitched a six-hitter for Belleville in defeat.

Dan Lupenetie stroked a double and Brian Cousins and Mulvihill each had a single for Holy Rosary.

The loss eliminates Belleville from the tournament.

Patterson Comments

Tackle 'Good, Clean Hit'

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal Patterson, the brilliant pass-catching veteran of 13 years in Canadian football, said Monday that a tackle by Al Ecuyer of Montreal Alouettes in an Eastern Football Conference game in Montreal last Thursday was a "good, clean hit."

Patterson made the comment from his hospital bed where he is recovering from an operation for a ruptured spleen as result of being tackled by Ecuyer in Hamilton Tiger-Cats' 17-16 victory over Montreal.

"I was reaching for a pass and my feet hadn't even left the ground" said Patterson, who played with the Alouettes before going to the Tiger-Cats in 1961.

"I felt all right as I left the field but I got a little sick at the bench and again in the dressing room at halftime."

Dr. Ian Auld, a ghost, he was rushed to hospital during the intermission and the operation was performed by Dr. E. J. Hinchey shortly after midnight.

Patterson was in fine spirits in hospital Monday for the first time since the operation. He was resigned to the fact that his football career is over but would barely admit it.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among those case histories was a group of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and relieves soreness and pain. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Don't ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Canadian Driver Fined

WESTBURNY, N.Y. (AP)—Joe O'Brien, trainer-driver of Governor Armbro, Canadian-owned trotter who finished third in the Roosevelt International at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night, was fined $200 Monday night for failing to make his charge of interference directly to race officials.

O'Brien, a native of Albertin, P.E.I., spoke about the incident after the race, but not to the judges as called for by the rules.

Judges examined films of the race and ruled there had been no interference.

The race was won by France's Roquepine. Governor Armbro is owned by Armstrong Brothers Stable of Brampton, Ont.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Dainty Davie waltzed away from the opposition in the third race at Greenwood raceway, and won Avelino Gomez's nomination as the mount he'll ride in the rich two-year-old races coming up in a few weeks.

After Dainty Davie's 5½-length win, Gomez told trainer Nick Gonsalves Jr. he'd choose the Gardiner Farms Ltd. owner's American-bred Dancer's Image, on whom he set a track record for seven furlongs of 1:24 Saturday.

If Davie can top with his Canadian Derby foe, Swyft Dancer, he'll be a winner. Sword Dancer was 1959 horse of the year in the U.S.

Monday's daily double of Not So Social and Buona Notte paid $44. The collector of Lykon Tid and Well To Do in the fifth paid $8.80.

Hinemoa sped 3e War combined in the seventh for a $33.50 exactor.

Attendance Monday was 8,504, with a handle of $490,367.

Junior Golf

Long Chip Earns Tie

TORONTO (CP)—An 80-yard chip shot that saved a par proved the difference as Chris Cheeseman of Peterborough lost a tie for first place Monday after the first round of the Canadian junior golf championship.

Mr. Cheeseman, a slight 165-year-old high school student, carded a two-over-par 72 to tie Ian Thomas, 18, of London, Ont., for the lead. Today's 36-hole holes will determine the qualifiers for the match play championship which begins Wednesday and ends Saturday.

McCutcheon explained he hit the rough with his tee shot on the third hole and that he reached the fairway with his second.

"My third shot was bad—8 yards about of the green.

"The ball was sitting in a hole and my fourth shot was going to use up all the strokes I was allowed for par. So I took out my wedge and chipped.

"I couldn't believe it. The ball just popped into the hole."

Ken Thomas of Toronto was fortunate on his recovery shots. Ken took an eight on the par-five first hole before settling for a 77.

Only 54 of the field of 180 competitors broke the 80-mark over the 6,441-yard Toronto Golf Club course.

Thomas, the 1965 Canadian champion, recorded his 72.

Most golfers found the course tough because the fast greens were not holding well.

Todd Allen of Calgary, who scored 4 in 76, said he had

Broadcast Editorials Advocated

MONTREAL (CP) — George L. Demers, president of the Quebec Chamber of Commerce, told a group of French-language broadcasters Monday that independent radio and television stations should be unafraid to take in favor of free enterprise.

Mr. Demers was addressing a conference of the Canadian Association of French-language Radio and Television which groups all non-government-controlled French-language radio and television stations in Canada.

Government networks editorialized freely for government activity, he said, and "it is your duty to show people what the other side of the coin is."

"You advertise free enterprise all day long but many of you shy away from taking editorial positions.

"I should like you to note that our government-controlled works display a remarkable generosity towards all our cities architects, Marxists, economists and other specialists of frustration," Mr. Demer said.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Miss Paula Out of Kingston has been spending holidays with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Airey and family holidayed at Outlet Park.

Brenda Maher fractured his left arm in the baseball game at Madoc Thursday and will miss the remaining games this year.

Mrs. James Horwood was a patient in Belleville General Hospital for a few days.

Duke Airey is staying with his grandmother, Mrs. Percy Airey, at Long Lake.

Carl Henderson spent a few days with his cousin, Steven Cummings.

ANAF News

Comrade A. Revoy was admitted to the Hotel Dieu Hospital last week and Cds. W. Brenton was admitted to the Trenton Memorial Hospital after being injured in a car accident. Both are reported to be resting easy and the sick chairman is looking after them as well as possible.

An item of interest, especially to the Hasty-Pee members is the final organization of the unveiling ceremonies of the Hast. and P.E.R. Memorial to the comrades lost through action in WW.I. Gen. Howard Graham will do the unveiling which will take place on the Belleville Cenotaph lawn at 3 p.m. Sunday Sept. 10th. Chairs will be set up directly in front of the Memorial for the use of all. As there are no records of their addresses any comrade who knows of any is asked to notify them of this invitation or phone Basil Smith at 962-3049 and give him the name and address of any next of kin they know.

There will be an served after the ceremony in the Armoury lecture room. Padre A. S. McConnell will conduct the service and the Salvation Army Band is being asked to provide the hymn music. The presidents of the Hastings and P.E.R. Officers Association, the present O.C. of the Regiment and the president of the Other Fees association will receive the guests there. Basil Smith and an officer of the Hastings and P.E.R. will meet the guests on the lawn and conduct them to their seats. The Hastings and P.E.R. will form up on the east side of the Memorial and the Association on the west side. The general public is cordially invited to attend the unveiling ceremonies.

Unknown to most of the members and sports enthusiasts, the Duke of Edinburgh Unit has two members who are in the Hall of Fame at Winnipeg. The first is Cds. Bob Cook, father of the Dom. Pres. wife, who played football with the Elmwood Wanderers of Winnipeg in the very early twenties and was on several championship teams. The other is Cds. Johnny Foxon who played for the United Weston team of Winnipeg. In the year 1924 the team won the Dominion championship and the cup. Pictures of both these teams, names of the players and the events that won them their places in the Hall of Fame are hung on the wall for all to see.

Warriors Day Parade was one of the biggest for some time, taking two hours to pass. It was led by the colorful RCMP Band and their Musical ride troop, followed by Warriors Day Council and the Fort Henry Guard in their Old fashioned uniforms and they got a great hand from the spectators. The grandstand was full and, luckily the rain held off until the parade was over. A number of veterans from Belleville travelled by car and bus and joined in with Toronto units for the parade. Both the Parkdale Unit and the 48th OCA welcomed the comrades and attended the hospitality of their clubs and most of them finished the week of Sun commerce with Chappaqua. He has spent much 48th where the bus picked them up. In spite of the weather everyone seemed to be having a good time.

To Your Good Health

Reactions to 'Pot' Can Be Severe

BY DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Marijuana came in for discussion at the most recent meeting of the American Psychiatric Association. Dr. Martin E. Keeler, associate professor of psychiatry at the University of North Carolina, laid some unpleasant facts on the line.

The dangerous thing about marijuana is that it does, indeed, give many a happy feeling without effort — as Dr. Keeler's report described it:

"Euphoria, a feeling of well-being, increase of self - confidence, and decreased self-criticism. The user feels he could perform feats of physical agility or grace but that he is too tranquil to do so. The power to focus concentration is lost or rationalized . . ."

Well, you can gain those happy dreams from heroin, too.

But Dr. Keeler also reported some of the adverse reactions that he learned about personally.

A man of 21 "became disoriented in time and place, could not think, had difficulty controlling his limbs. For some time there-after he experienced flashbacks resembling those he had during the reaction."

Girl, 19, "became intensely anxious and apprehen sive without any idea as to what she was afraid of . . ."

Man, 19, "became convinced that his internal organs were rotting and that he would die . . ."

Man, 22, "became convinced that his taking the drug was part of some gigantic plot, but he did not know what the plot was . . ."

Woman, 32, "after taking her graduate school work did not permit adequate self-expression." Result: Her school work went into a slump. She didn't care about it.

One New York hospital psychiatrist reported 21 cases of toxic psychosis from marijuana. Another doctor reported acute brain disorders in six and psychosis in three more among 72 users.

A team of doctors in India implicated marijuana in the problems of 600 patients admitted to mental hospitals. Several years ago a study showed the effects of marijuana in 60 per cent of more than 1,200 mental cases.

There is no argument as to whether marijuana by itself can cause real mental illness, or whether people whose goals in life change after using the drug would not have a quit cigaling, become beatniks or what not, anyway. But as Dr. Keeler puts it:

"Nevertheless, when this occurs immediately after drug use it may be permissible to consider such a change to be an adverse drug reaction."

Maybe the people who have ended in mental hospitals after using marijuana would have done so anyway. And, maybe the fellow who is killed driving 100 miles an hour would have found some other way to destroy himself if he hadn't had a fast car.

Marijuana harmless? The record says otherwise.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there niacin in coffee? — R. S.

Yes, it has a high niacin content.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been thinking of getting contact lenses but have heard from people that some substance in them will cause cancer and even blindness. Is this true? — R. S.

Of course it's not true. I am constantly amazed at the vast variety of scare stories, and I wonder what possible pleasure anyone can derive from circulating them.

Some people find contact lenses irritating and have to give up using them, but the majority tolerate them very well — provided they pay attention to instructions about proper use, keeping the lenses clean, and so on.

Movie Column

Producer Puts Personal Hell Of Alcohol, Dope Into Movie

ATHENS (AP)—Conrad Rooks has converted his personal hell of alcoholism and dope addiction into a film made with $70,000 of his own money.

Rooks is in Greece to restore his cool before assaulting the world of film commerce with Chappaqua. He has spent much time in recent years here, studying the modern Greek poets—while he was sober.

Now he neither drinks nor takes narcotics. But from his 25th year until his late 30s, he says, "I was on drink or dope most of the time."

When a user hooks, you figure him as an improbable candidate for a useable life. He is strongly built with blonde good looks. He articulates his problems of his techniques with clarity. Yet within the eyes there seems to be a wordless quiet suffocate he has been eyebrighting. He has.

"You name them—heroine, morphine, LSD—I've had them all," he comments.

Five years ago, a New York doctor who specializes in treating alcoholics and dope addicts sent Rooks to a Swiss hospital where he was put to sleep for a month.

"That was the worst time of all," he recalls. "It was the first time in seven years that I hadn't been intoxicated."

After his recovery, Rooks felt the need to record his experience. He chose the medium of film.

He had had a scattering of experience in various media, having been cast in television cameraman and worked for an advertising agency.

Rooks pushed the camera in the extent of its capabilities and enlisted an exotic cast: French star Jean-Louis Barrault as a psychiatrist, author William Burroughs (Naked Lunch) as a death symbol, poet Allen Ginsberg as himself. The central figure is Rooks, trying to escape his torment.

He rearranged the film again and again, adding music of Indian satirist Ravi Shankar and the pop groups, the Fugs. Then Rooks felt encouraged to enter Chappaqua, seemed after the New York commotion that in the Venice Film Festival of 1966. It won second prize.

Then came the challenge of selling Chappaqua to an American film distributor. Most of the movie bigwigs were astonished or appalled by what they saw — or daring is the film's conception.

It depicts a series of nightmare exhibitions in Rooks' future. Rooks finally obtained release through a new subsidiary of Universal.

Boston Pops Thrills Expo Crowd

MONTREAL (CP)—The world-famous Boston Pops Orchestra, conducted by Arthur Fiedler, gave a thrilling concert at Expo 67's Place des Nations Monday night as Massachusetts saluted Canada's Centennial Year.

The Orchestra, which treated a jam-packed audience of 20,000 to a performance under the stars, was brought to Canada by Governor John A. Volpe as the New England state celebrated its self-proclaimed Massachusetts Day at the world's fair.

It was the first time since the official opening of Expo April 27 that visitors to the fair had been treated to such a performance at Place des Nations, normally the centre of a teen-age discotheque as Expo evenings draw to a close.

Massachusetts took the spotlight at Expo shortly after the departure of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the United States president, who had wound up a two-day informal and private visit to the fair.

Today was being devoted to the Soviet Ukraine, whose flag will be raised at ceremonies at Place des Nations to be attended by Pyotr E. Troshz, deputy chairman of the council of ministers of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, and Pierre Dupuy, Expo's commissioner-general.

Mr. Volpe presented Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal with an engraved silver plaque from "the Commonwealth of Massachusetts" to remind the mayor of the occasion as well as the admiration of his achievements in helping bring the world's fair to Canada this year.

The Massachusetts governor was welcomed to Expo by Robert Shaw, the fair's deputy commissioner-general, and later visited Ontario where he signed the visitors' book before returning to the fair for the evening of entertainment.

Jolliffe Says Public Safety Sacrificed to Protect Doctor

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts and Attorney-General Arthur Wishart were accused at the Parker Royal Commission inquiry Monday of having sacrificed public safety in efforts to protect the business interests of a Toronto doctor.

T. B. Jolliffe, lawyer for Dr. Morton Shulman, former chief Metropolitan Toronto coroner, made the charges during his final arguments to the commission.

The commission, under Mr. Justice W. D. Parker of the Ontario Supreme Court, is investigating charges by Dr. Shulman that the provincial government interfered in coroners' duties.

Mr. Jolliffe also named Mr. Wishart's deputy, Rendall Dick, and his assistant deputy, Frank Wilson, as having ignored the safety of the public during a dispute between Dr. Shulman and Dr. Earl Shoaldice, proprietor of a Toronto hernia clinic.

The inquiry was told earlier that Dr. Shoaldice wrote to the premier describing Dr. Shulman as a "psychopath" who should be removed from his position as chief coroner.

Dr. Shoaldice's letter came after Dr. Shulman repeatedly urged the physician to implement improvements in clinic facilities recommended by an inquest jury.

The findings of the inquest into a 1963 death at Dr. Shoaldice's clinic were quashed by a higher court.

Dr. Shulman said in earlier testimony he was told by Mr. Wilson that Mr. Wishart had ordered that the chief coroner cease his harassment of Dr. Shoaldice.

Mr. Jolliffe said the Premier and the other three officials had shown complete indifference to the objective of protecting the public and reducing mortality . . . and zealous concern to protect the pride of Dr. Shoaldice."

Earlier Monday Mr. Jolliffe described as "scandalous and indefensible" the operation of the chief coroner's office before Dr. Shulman took it over in 1961.

He said that none of the 298 hospital deaths investigated by Toronto coroners between 1959 and 1963 led to an inquest.

"He must have known that this situation could not continue," said Mr. Jolliffe, referring to Dr. H. B. Cotnam, supervising coroner for Ontario, "because he himself warned coroners of the danger of being a rubber stamp."

Mr. Jolliffe then read from a lecture by Dr. Cotnam, which was circulated among coroners in January, 1964:

"When there is any indication that a death is not from natural causes, the coroner should hold an inquest, . . . In fact I feel it is the duty of the coroner to hold an inquest."

Mr. Jolliffe asked Mr. Justice Parker to delete the word "unlawful" from the original terms of reference for the inquiry into Dr. Shulman's allegations. He said Dr. Shulman "at no time made allegations that anything was done unlawfully, though admittedly certain acts were improper."

Harry Pepper, counsel for Dr. Cotnam, said of the deletion application:

"I feel as if Dr. Shulman said there was going to be a football game . . . and I find now I'm expected to play ping pong."

Mr. Jolliffe then went into the case of three - year - old Barbara Howe, who died in a Pembroke hospital in 1961 after an excessive dose of oxygen following a tonsil operation. He reiterated that the lack of an inquest resulted in the death being "successfully swept under the rug for 5½ years." Dr. Cotnam was coroner in Pembroke in 1961.

Bishop Criticizes Delay In Adopting New Policy

TORONTO (CP)—Bishops, priests and laity must share responsibility for a "desperate gap" between the papal confirmation of renewal in the Roman Catholic Church effected at the second Vatican council and the reality of its practice at the diocesan and parish level, a British Columbia bishop said Monday.

There has been progress at all levels, however, said Most Rev. Remi J. De Roo, Bishop of Victoria. He had seen its signs in the libraries of North American bishops, in the work of the clergy and in the responses of a growing number of laity and religious.

Where there has been delay on the part of bishops, part must be laid to "a problem of intentions." but mostly it is the result of a philipy residuum of an eager bishop mobile when he broaches change, he said.

Priests are having their own "problem of identity" that preoccupies them, the bishop said at a press conference. Until the clergy find their true relationship to the hierarchy, it will be difficult for the bishops in attempts to get them to start living, thinking and practising the renewed life of the church.

The greatest difficulty, however, is the human resistance of the laity, he said.

"How many people will let their bishops be the new leaders of the Vatican council!" he asked.

In the modern Catholic people, in a mistaken understanding of obedience, have become accustomed to being told what to do, and seek only to follow the leadership of their bishops.

One of the goals of the Congress on the Theology of the Renewed, which Bishop De Roo is attending, is to find ways of stimulating a more popular interest in theology, he said.

Bishop De Roo, with Rev. Gregory Baum of Toronto, is an adviser to the 300 correspondents reporting the congress.

At one of 10 working sessions that he convened, an American rabbi told some of the 2,000 delegates that the task of Christian renewal should first be the renewal of men.

"Renewal of men is the issue, not renewal of the church," said Rabbi Abraham Heschel of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in New York.

The 60-year-old teacher of philosophy said Christianity today makes "too many promises and too few demands."

A similar criticism of the Christian church in the West was voiced later by an archbishop of the Greek-Melkite Catholic Church.

The yielding that one finds in the modern nurse of Western thought at a time when everything invites it to dialogue should not find its corrective counterpart in . . . the Eastern world," said Most Rev. George H. Hakim.

Archbishop Hakim, only Catholic bishop resident in Israel, was speaking on unity, diversity at a plenary session of the congress.

He urged that the theme for today's 10 working sessions, the renewal of the life of the church in structure and ecclesial reality.

Archbishop Hakim, supporting the advantages diversity could bring to church unity, said it is necessary for the churches to come closer together, at a time when "Western and Eastern Christianity must sustain each other."

He warned, however, that diversity as only useful if it maintains a spirit of unity.

Postal Workers Will Strike Despite Division of Opinion

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Union of Postal Workers will proceed with a 24-hour strike Friday despite opposition from some members locals, CUPW President Bill Kay said Monday.

Mr. Kay said in an interview the 12,000-member union does not enter into "something like this" and then back off.

"We're going through with it," he said. He added that most of the mail dispatchers and postal clerks who make up the union membership would honor the strike call.

Mr. Kay, from Vancouver, said he was particularly disappointed that the union's Vancouver local had decided to stay on the job. He hoped these and other opposed locals would reconsider.

The union plans to throw up picket lines around post offices across the country when the one-day stoppage starts at 12:01 a.m. EDT Friday.

Although letter carriers are in a separate union, it was thought they would not cross CUPW picket lines.

Mr. Kay said the strike is to prevent a recurrence of the federal government decision that deprived 2,500 postal workers of a one-day holiday.

The affected postal workers had a regular day off July 3, a day set aside as a holiday for most civil servants because Dominion Day fell on a Saturday, July 1.

Postal workers and other civil servants who had July 3 off as a matter of course got no compensating time off or overtime pay.

Mr. Kay said he had not been in touch with the government recently and so had no idea of how they would react to the walkout.

The government had made it clear earlier there was no commitment to give the additional day off to employees who had a regular day off July 3.

Both sides awaited the decision of the board that administers the Public Service Staff Relations Act on the legality of the strike. The federal treasury board asked the staff relations board to declare it illegal. Meanwhile Mr. Kay says it appears to be illegal, but the board must decide that.

Under the act, the government can impose fines on strikers, while officers and the union for an illegal strike.

Strictly Personal

Four Climatic Types

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We still know painfully little about the relation between climate and conduct — but I am convinced that human personalities are divided into distinct climatic types.

Just as the medieval physicians used to separate people into the "four humors," I would separate them into the four climatic types: mountains, plains, sea and desert.

Much personal misapprehension, it seems to me, is caused by the wrong sort of person living in the wrong sort of climate. The tremendous trek to California in the last decade is proof that many persons are finally awakening to this truth.

I happen to be a water man myself; that is, I have a compelling need, both mentally and physically, to be close to a large body of water as possible.

If I find myself in a landlocked city on the plains, I feel as claustrophobic as if I were locked into a telephone booth. It is even worse on the desert, which has a kind of nightmarish quality for me — no future, ever looking for a lake or ocean just over the horizon.

The mountains are a little better. Their height and scope and snowy peaks at least give me a sense of vista that partly compensates for the lack of water. But I am not really happy away from the sea.

Apart from economic necessity, I am sure that the only thing keeping millions of people in Nebraska and Kansas and such arid areas is their deep (if unconscious) love of the plains. They feel comfortable and at home on the prairies; I feel spiritually parched there.

The mountain people are perhaps the most passionate of all. They will sacrifice everything, including their economic well-being, to live near the peaks. The skiers and mountain climbers near Aspen are a dedicated lot, almost fanatical in their devotion to the crags.

I'm sure the psychiatrists have some profound and absolute explanation for these geographic attachments, but I'm just as content with the old-fashioned doctor who prescribed "a change of climate" was, in his own fumbling fashion, expressing his vague certainty that where we live influences how we feel and think and act.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For August 22

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): You get what you ask for. Be sure you can handle it. Responsibility goes hand-in-hand with greater authority. Stress independence, confidence. Contact with older persons fruitful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Much of what you seek may be hidden from view. Don't be discouraged by delay. Some around you appear gloomy. Counter this. Play for the future. Get cooperation of club, special group.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Some associates, friends may appear hostile or standoffish. Take this with proverbial grain of salt. Key is to maintain sense of balance, humor. People tend to change their minds. Smile through it.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Check details. Observe apparent minor matters. Others tend to overlook points which you could discover. Be alert to opportunities. Career potential highlighted. Be sure of material sources.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 23): Some problems which appear weighty can be solved. Avoid negative attitude. Stress future possibilities. Take a look around. Arrive at concrete decisions. Travel favored today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Money expended for more improvement could pay dividends. Don't be afraid to spend on beauty, comfort. You get much in return. Show that. Make family members happy. Surprise gift indicated.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Find out reasons why. Don't be satisfied with superficial explanations. One close to you appears less than satisfied. Frank discussion clears the key to greater harmony. Don't be afraid.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Avoid extremes. Work and play. Don't over-do either. Some persons tend to lean on you. Accept others. But let others also find their own way. Be amiable without being weak.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Some of your desires may appear flamboyant. But if back is your game others will back pedal. Know this. Exude confidence. Be ready for quick changes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Pressures exerted by older individual. Make decision based on logic, not emotion. Realize some would like you to make mistake. Avoid this. Be thorough. Read fine print.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Not wise to have too many irons in fire. Finish one thing at a time. Be considerate of others. Be receptive to ideas. But be discriminating. Don't believe everything you hear.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Money and how you handle it emphasized. Realize that some statements today are deceptive. Dig beneath surface indications. Key of the truth, even if it hurts.

If today is your birthday . . . you are dynamic, fond of travel. You express yourself well enough to be a writer. Curiously you are completing a cycle. You finish one aspect of a project and prepare for something new.

General Tendencies: Cycle ends for Aries, Taurus. Special word to Capricorn: You won't be caught off balance if you check between the lines.

'Outrageous' Cries Britain As Peking Mission Burned

Britain Won't End Relations

LONDON (CP) — Britain made clear today it will not seek a rupture of diplomatic relations with China following the burning down of the British chancery in Peking.

A foreign office spokesman said it was not Britain's objective to break with Peking.

Answering questions at a news conference, the spokesman said:

"It is not we who are trying to rupture relations."

Newspapers expressed shock and chagrin over the Peking mission episode.

The Daily Sketch says: "Red China is the rogue nation of the world today. Wild, alone and dangerous. Now chairman Mao has got his teeth into Britain."

It adds, though, that the latest developments were probably a brutal bluff by Peking and that "British should nerve itself to sit tight in Hong Kong."

The Daily Telegraph says Britain must be as firm in protecting its nationals and interests in China "as Russia, India and other sufferers who have been in similar circumstances."

In Russia, Communist denounced attacks on Britons in Peking as "a form of Nazi barbarism."

It says, "China is charging head down toward anarchy, war and disaster—all in the name of the 'progress' of humanity."

Problems!

Adolf Hertl, British Columbia storekeeper who conceived a cross-Canada canoe voyage, ponders problems in Belleville last night. The Centennial project was not officially recognized by government and support for it has been slack. Although travelling under blue skies, his voyageurs are paddling in the red. (For details see page 3).

Coffee Is Served!

Tired but triumphant, a canoe crew relaxed last night around Zwick's Island campfire on final phase of 5,200-mile journey to Expo. They left British Columbia in May. Their trip retraces 18th-century explorations of Alexander MacKenzie.

American Negro In China Urges Mutiny In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A publication of a fugitive American Negro in China which advocates violence in U.S. cities and advises Negro soldiers to "eliminate" their white comrades in Vietnam has been carried in the U.S. mails.

The 12-page folder, stating it is published in Peking by Robert F. Williams, contains in the latest edition available here tips for clogging sewers and highways, burning public facilities and smashing windows without getting caught.

It also urges American Negroes to refuse to fight in Vietnam. But it says those who are "trapped into" serving should "throw a monkey wrench into those murderous operations."

Further it says: "They should eliminate as many of their real enemies as they can at the front so that these racists will not be able to return home and intensify the brutalization and extermination of black people to the extent that they are currently exterminating the Vietnamese people."

Postal customs and justice department officials say their power to police the import of foreign propaganda has been sharply restricted in recent years by U.S. Supreme Court decisions dealing with guarantees of freedom of speech and press.

Screaming Mob Pummels Staff

LONDON (CP) — Britain imposed tight restrictions on the movement of Chinese diplomats in the country Tuesday night in retaliation for the burning of its Peking mission building and the beating of British staff members by rampaging Red Guards.

The British government reacted swiftly over the incident in which the British charge d'affaires, Donald Hopson, and nine other mission staff members were pummelled and humiliated in front of a screaming mob.

Britain charged that Mao Tse-tung's regime was behind the attack and linked it to Peking's campaign to harass British rule in the crown colony of Hong Kong.

Sources in Whitehall believed it unlikely, however, that the incident would prompt Britain to sever relations with China.

The foreign office branded the attack "an outrageous and uncivilized act which would bring the Chinese government into disrepute throughout the world."

Summoning the Chinese charge d'affaires, Shen Ping, a foreign office official informed him that:

1. All Chinese in British holding diplomatic or official passports, must obtain exit visas from the foreign office before leaving Britain.

2. All members of the Chinese diplomatic mission are restricted to travel within a radius of five miles from the centre of London unless they give 48 hours notice.

3. Permission to operate diplomatic radio transmissions by the Chinese mission is suspended until restrictions on the British diplomatic radio in Peking are lifted.

The restrictions were ordered by Prime Minister Wilson and Foreign Minister George Brown, who both heard the news while away on vacation. Brown hurried back from Norway.

Britain placed the restrictions on some 20 Chinese diplomats and business officials in the

Nigeria Charges U.S. Tries To Split Nation to Win Oil

LAGOS (AP) — Radio Lagos claimed today that federal forces have driven troops of the breakaway Biafran state out of Ore 30 miles inside West Nigeria, and are pursuing them into the Midwest Region.

No further details were given.

Ore is 255 miles east of Lagos, the federal capital, and a government spokesman said Tuesday the battle for it could decide the course of the seven-week civil war.

Meanwhile, the Nigerian government radio accused the United States of seeking to "balkanize" Nigeria to get control of its oil.

"It was one of the most vicious things I've heard," said an American diplomat.

Nigeria's military government also protested Western criticism of its arms deal with the Soviet Union.

The government admitted for the first time "a limited purchase of arms" from the Russians, who are reported to have supplied Nigeria with some MIG-15 fighters.

Six Men Die

Boat Rolled Over At Yarmouth, NS

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Six fishermen died in a collision between a fishing boat and a tug in dense fog off the southwest tip of Nova Scotia early today.

All the victims were aboard a herring seiner from Wedgeport, N.S., that overturned after colliding with a Saint John, N.B., tugboat. Only one of the seven men aboard the seiner survived. He was rescued by the crew of another fishing boat.

The accident occurred about 12:30 a.m. ADT some nine miles off this southern Nova Scotia port. The herring seiner, Silver King I, with seven men aboard, overturned after colliding with the Ocean Rockwell, a 233-ton tug owned by the St. John Tug Boat Co. Ltd.

Reports here said the seven men aboard the 55-foot seiner were trapped inside the vessel when it overturned. Crew members of the seiner Dunville boarded the craft and chopped their way in the cabin of Bobby McDowell, in his 30s, of Hackensack, N.J.

The six fishermen, including Capt. Roderick Boudreau, McDowell's uncle, drowned. The Dunville's crew recovered their bodies.

Dead are Capt. Boudreau, Edgar Boudreau, Vernon Boudreau, Camille Leblanc, Ray Leblanc and Stanley Burque, all of Wedgeport.

The fisheries department vessel Cohoe'd Ray brought McDowell and the six bodies here about 3 a.m. McDowell was taken to Wedgeport and could not be reached immediately. His condition was not available.

It is believed no one aboard the Ocean Rockwell, en route to Saint John from Dalhousie, N.B., was injured in the collision. Extent of damage to the tug was not known here as it was also not known if the Silver King I remained afloat.

Crew members of the Dunville told after arriving here how they heard pounding on the forecastle of the Silver King I before they chopped through the side of the overturned ship.

They said McDowell, trapped in the partially flooded forecastle, had been banging the hull to attract attention. The other six men, all apparently trapped below decks, were dead when rescuers reached them.

BC Fires Reduced By Score

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirty-three new forest fires broke out in British Columbia Tuesday as 3,291 men continued to battle flames early today in an improving fire situation.

B.C. forest service officials said 58 blazes were put out, reducing the number burning to 237 from 302.

A ban on all recreational activity in forests across southern British Columbia from Vancouver Island to the Alberta border went into effect today.

The restrictions, which do not affect use of main highways across the province, were announced Monday by Forests Minister Ray Williston.

A forest service spokesman said travel on public highways would be allowed but recreational activity would be restricted to supervised provincial parks and campgrounds.

Escalation of North Vietnam Bombing Pleases U.S. Generals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Intensification of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam is accompanied by escalating military praise about how much the strikes are hurting the North.

The generals and admirals are sounding a recurring theme in recent statements before Congress and in reporters: Bomb more while North Vietnam suffers.

Their comments coming as U.S. planes knife more often near Hanoi and along the Chinese border indicate the brunt of the air campaign may be shifting from southern areas of North Vietnam to the heavily defended politically sensitive northeast quadrant.

The northeast area, which includes the vital rail link with China's weapons and munitions factories, is regarded as Hanoi's main base area for the war in South Vietnam.

In Saigon Tuesday, air force spokesmen said the stepped-up attacks in the northeast are severely hurting North Vietnam's capacity for war, and a high-ranking officer said:

"Hammer, hammer, hammer with everything you can because you know it hurts them. I know they're beaten. The question is: When are they going to quit?"

Gen. John P. McConnell, air force chief of staff, told the Senate preparedness subcommittee examining the bombing campaign: "The cumulative effect of this increasing pressure by air has brought us to the point where we have begun to hurt the enemy in his home territory."

One week ago, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was telling the same group the raids have resulted in "steady destruction of the country's physical infrastructure and deterioration of its national economy."

Aug. 9, Admiral U.S. Grant Sharp, Pacific commander in chief, testified before the subcommittee: "During the last three months, with an expanded target list but no significant departure from the broad restraints under which we have long operated, we have begun to hurt the enemy in his home territory."

Officers say the latest raids near Hanoi reflect a policy decision to hammer harder at the important northeast sector which contains key elements of the transportation system, industrial facilities and major military complexes such as training bases.

Bruce Macklin, Brighton, Killed In Car Crash

BRIGHTON (Special) — Plans for a trip to Expo ended in tragedy on Highway 30 for a Brighton couple this morning.

Bruce Macklin, 22, of Centre Street, Brighton, died instantly when the northbound car he was driving was involved in a grinding two car crash.

Mrs. Macklin was reported in critical condition in Trenton Memorial Hospital intensive care unit.

The Macklins were on route to Wawayanda where they were to join friends for a bus tour to Expo 67.

The only occupant of the southbound vehicle in the mishap, Mrs. Hazel C. Roberts, 42, of Hilton, was reported in fair condition in Trenton Hospital.

Investigating officers from the Brighton Provincial Police detachment said the impact of the crash broke the drive shafts of both automobiles.

The mishap occurred three miles north of Brighton around 7:00 a.m. this morning.

MAIL WAS SLOW

MALEO, Italy (AP)—A business letter addressed to the Maleo town hall showed up after traveling 20 days and 5,000 miles from the north Italian town of Pralpettone, three miles away. Somehow the letter reached New York where it was marked "Insufficient Address" and mailed back to Italy.

National Award Winner

DANIEL STIRLING

A native of Belleville, Daniel Stirling, has been named the winner of a national award for a flesh on earth moving.

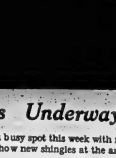
The announcement was made yesterday by the president of the Canadian Construction Association, P. D. Dalton.

Mr. Stirling, a recent civil engineering graduate from Queen's University, received the $250 award for his thesis on the laying of a concrete pipeline between Port Stanley, on Lake Erie, and St. Thomas.

He is the son of Donald Stirling and the late Mrs. Stirling of 90 Selena Avenue in Belleville.

At the present time the award winner is employed by Ontario Hydro in Toronto.

Area Militia Men Go to Germany

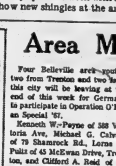


Four Belleville area youths, two from Trenton and two from this city will be leaving at the end of this week for Germany to participate in Operation O'Ryan Special '67.

Kenneth W.-Payne of 358 Victoria Ave, Michael G. Calvert of 79 Shamrock Rd., Lorne H. Pulit of 45 McEwan Drive, Trenton, and Clifford A. Reid of 26 Kerr Crescent, Trenton will be a part of 304 militia men and 150 regular soldiers to fly aboard four airplanes to Fort York near Soeste.

This is the first time that militia men from the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment have been sent overseas. The men will commence operations with the Royal Canadian Regiment.

The youths from the Hasty Pees were chosen from 14 volunteers by rank, qualifications and conduct record. They will be employed in Germany according to their qualifications.



They will leave from CFB Trenton and travel to Europe via Dorval, Quebec. The militia men will remain at Fort York until the middle of October.

Suspected-rabid Foxes Bite Dogs Near Madoc

MADOC — In two separate incidents — two hours and three miles apart — family dogs were attacked by suspected - rabid foxes in this area last night.

One fox was shot on the spot and will be sent to federal government laboratories for confirmation of the disease.

Provincial police were first called about 8 p.m. to the home of Willard Doughty, in Madoc Township, north of here, where the homeowner handed over a fox's carcass.

Police said Mr. Doughty shot the animal after it had attacked and bitten his dog.

At 10 p.m. police were called by Robert Bronson, R.R. 4, Madoc, where a similar attack had occurred.

Police said the fox escaped after a mauling encounter with the family dog.

The attacks were the latest in a number of incidents involving rabid wild animals in the area.

District federal veterinarian Dr. J. F. McCorquodale said in Belleville today there had been an increase in recent weeks in the Tweed-Madoc district.

Almost all the reports received involved foxes, he added.

Increases in rabies seems to be patterned on the fox population, although the disease did not seem to move any easily-determined cycle.

Dr. McCorquodale, whose district includes Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland and Durham counties, said the increase first appeared in the Marlbank area, east of Tweed, earlier this year.

In the rest of his district the number of incidents report was "moderate."

Federal regulations call for animals bitten by rabies carriers to be quarantined three months if vaccinated in the past 12 months. There is a six-month quarantine for animals not vaccinated in the past year.

Incubation period of the disease can be as long as six months, the veterinarian said.

Paddlers, Retracing 5,200 Miles Of History, Visit City Overnight

BY HARRY MULHALL

A canoe slid down the Bay of Quinte this morning, its eight-man crew facing the final obstacles in retracing 5,200 miles of history.

They also are paddling against the historic odds of almost all exploring adventurers — lack of funds.

So far, however, that hasn't stopped Adolf Ikert and his men from almost completing the 1793 water route of Alexander MacKenzie from Fonze Coupe, in British Columbia, to Montreal.

They arrived last night in Belleville and camped on Zwicky's Island — nearly 12 weeks from the time they first pushed off May 12.

Today, they were off before dawn, hoping to make Kingston before nightfall.

The adventure was not on the crew's formal schedule so no one was troubled when only a couple of civic officials were on hand to greet them.

However, failure to draw responses from other official sources has plagued the expedition before it even began.

Ikert, a German-Pole who came to Canada in 1946 and now runs a store at Ponze Coupe, says when he first conceived the trip as a Centennial project, he estimated its cost at $48,000. He hoped for support from various levels of government and industry. However, none was forthcoming so he raised the money himself.

To help offset expenses, the 41-year-old Ikert conceived the idea of publishing a newspaper, The Explorer, and selling it en route.

It's filled with historic articles, photographs and accounts of the trip and the original MacKenzie venture that inspired it.

It sells for 45 cents — when the canoeists can make contact with customers.

Public response to their arrival at selected points is drummed up by an advance party, travelling in an old bus with the team's food and gear.

So far, there have been two disappointments.

The first came at Toronto, where the adventurers were expecting a big welcome from Canada's financial metropolis. The news media failed to respond and there was little response.

"Wow," Ikert said last night, officials at Expo, where the crew is scheduled to arrive in late August or early September, will not allow sales on the exhibition site."

In anticipation, some 15,000 copies of The Explorer were shipped ahead to Montreal from the printers at New Westminster, B.C.

Nonetheless, Ikert, who already has edited three publications of the paper, intends to put out three more before the voyage ends. Because of their painstaking, historic detail, the little journals are being avidly purchased by universities.

Because of his all-round failure to raise funds, the stonekeeper-explorer figures he may now end his adventure $28,000 in the red.

"The prospects don't look too prosperous now — as a matter of fact they're nil," he shrugs.

"I have expenses incurred and I have to take care of them."

"However," he adds with a resigned laugh, "I'm not that desperate that I'll cut my throat. What I'm short I'll have to come up with."

Making up for the short comings of prosperity, ordinary. Ovandiaus along the route have reacted with hearty warmth to the adventurers, feeding them in many places, thus helping reduce food bills.

An imbalance of diet at one point, however, made Ikert the only casualty among the crew.

Feeling unwell, he went to a doctor at Winnipeg who diagnosed scurvy — a condition caused by vitamin deficiency.

Otherwise, everyone has performed sturdily — one of the reasons Ikert selected them for the expedition.

The right — varying in age from 20 to 46 — were picked from an application list of nearly 80, and chosen for physique and an ability to get along together.

Now, nearly 5,000 miles and 35 portages later, Ikert says they all have changed personality.

"The voyage and experience has given us a much broader outlook on things," he says.

Their experiences have been legion — in Ontario as elsewhere.

Once they camped on the U.S. side of the Rainy River and began lighting campfires.

A local native approached, quizzically eyed their canoes and old beards, tricorn hats and buckskins, then told them:

"I don't know what language you people speak, but I'll speak English to you anyway!"

Last night, they lit their campfires at Zwicky's Island and later were greeted by Aldermen John Deacon and city centennial commissioner, Les Shore.

Rednerswille Road residents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawson examined map showing proposed Lands and Forest development of 100 mile long section of Prince Edward County's eastern shoreline. About 60 other persons attended the meeting last night.

ARDA Will Conduct Study Of Marshlands in PE County

AMELIASBURG — Before a proposal to convert extensive county marshlands into a wildlife sanctuary and recreation area receives formal approval some of the property owners to be affected want to know if their land is suitable for no better purpose.

As the result of a public meeting including a number of marshowners last night with the federal government's ARDA organization more work is productivity study of all county marshlands. Discussions touching various aspects of the proposed development ended with the following resolution "that the Ontario Federation of Agriculture request the ARDA committee of Prince Edward County to initiate a study of the marshes to ascertain their best potential use."

Earlier this year wildlife management officer Bill Bittle of Lands and Forest, Tweed branch, presented the plan to restore the marshlands to their natural state.

Afterwards farmers whose property would be involved in the undertaking called on the Ontario Federation of Agriculture to act in their interest. The Federation recommended a study of the marsh soil to determine its agricultural possibilities.

Lands and Forest requires some 9,860 acres along the Lake Ontario shoreline in Hallowell and Sophiasburg townships for wildlife refuge and controlled and free hunting development. In addition another 921 acres including Fish Lake in Sophiasburg township for a sanctuary for a waterfowl feeding and breeding shelter to insure adequate supplies of birds for the flyways.

In order for the plan to become operable it would be necessary to gain control of some 1,250 acres of the land requirement from private ownership. It is understood the acquisition would affect 36 private owners, the majority of them farmers.

It is the intention of Lands and Forest to prepare a brief for the purpose of seeking financial assistance from ARDA once all parties concerned approve the idea.

Screaming Mob

country to try to ensure the safety of Britons from the mobs in Peking.

A day-long demonstration by more than 10,000 Red Guards in front of the British mission's chancery exploded into violence with the exception of a 15-minute ultimatum demanding that the British release Communist newspaper men arrested in Hong Kong and halt a publishing ban against three pro-Communist newspapers.

The demonstration got under way, the foreign office said, with an attempt to make Hopson and other British diplomats bow their heads and "admit their guilt."

Hopson refused and after the Guards surrendered he was allowed to transmit a Chinese protest to the British government. The British made the radio went dead after the operator reported:

"Mob breaking in. ...."

The foreign office learned from other diplomats in Peking that the Red Guards battered their way into the building, savagely beating diplomats and secretaries and hurling screaming of flaming gasoline.

Japan's Kyodo news agency said 15 Chinese Red Guards attacked and beat Hopson and another Briton as they ran out of the Canadian chancery building with shock 10 other officials during the night.

Kyodo's Peking correspondent said other members of the British mission staff and their families sought refuge in other missions before enraged demonstrators assembled through an iron gate and set fire to the building Tuesday night.

All the British were safe and none severely injured, Kyodo said.

Peking's official New China news agency made no mention of the burning of the mission itself but said more than 10,000 "enraged" demonstrators took strong action against the British charge d'affaires' office" because Britain had "dared to ignore" the Chinese ultimatum.

The Chinese set a 48-hour deadline limit on their demand when they presented it Sunday, and the storming of the British mission came as the deadline passed Tuesday night.

FLOGGING ABOLISHED

LONDON (AP)—Flogging has been abolished as punishment for junior ratings in the Royal Navy, Defence Minister Gerry Reynolds told Parliament. "Caning has been accepted for many years as one form of disciplne for juniors," he said. "The practice has been reviewed and it has been decided to bring the navy into line with the other two services."

May Form Ratepayers' Association

Formation of ratepayers' associations in different parts of the city seem to be the "in" thing in Belleville this summer.

Last week Foster Ward ratepayers met to form an association to keep themselves informed on a proposed re-development program for their area.

Now, it has been learned there are plans for a Hillcrest ratepayers association and a suggestion that one should be formed for the Avondale district as well.

Last week Cecil Kellar was named president of the new Foster Ward Association with James Zako as vice-president. Mrs. Leonard Rushlow as secretary and Eugene Rosebush as treasurer. Harry Rollins and Ald. Arthur Keegan are honorary presidents and vice-president respectively.

Hillcrest property owners hope to call an organizational meeting some time next week. Here the big problem is the lack of water service. It is expected the organizational meeting will be held in the Hillcrest school.

Politics Fascinate Youngsters

WINNIPEG (CP)—A group of 28 Winnipeg youngsters agrees with politicians who maintain politics is a fascinating business.

The youngsters, all between 13 and 16, have formed a group called The Problem and meet once a month to study the workings of the Canadian political system.

"It's great," says 13-year-old Joanna Kowalyk. "We learn how Canada is run, what the jobs of the MPs are and why we have them. The group also gives us a chance to learn. If we didn't have it, we wouldn't think about politics."

Under the direction of Susanna Krahn, a 36-year-old mother of three, the group visits the legislature and other public institutions as well as having politicians come to their meetings to address them.

U.S. Embassy Incident

The so-called Revolutionary Solidarity Movement believed responsible for the mach-bie-gunning of the United States embassy in London represents a new dimension in the complex realm of east-west power politics.

Whatever the identity of the movement it certainly is allied to traditional British forms of protest. For one thing gunplay of this nature occurs rarely in Britain, if at all. The incident is all the more remarkable in more in keeping with the atmosphere in Saigon and the war in Vietnam, or with political feuding in Latin America, than with this shooting in one of London's most elegant districts.

No one was hurt, although a young U.S. marine guard had a close escape. The attack came seconds before he entered the reception area behind the glass doors on his routine rounds. Nine bullets smashed through the doors, sending glass splinters through the air.

Police found a note on the sidewalk outside. It read: "Stop criminal murders by the American army. Solidarity with all people battling against Yankee fascism all over the world. Racism. Freedom for American Negroes."

This does not sound like the language of any British protest group. Such rantings are as alien to the British sense of fair play as was the machine-gun that could have killed some luckless bystanders.

Furthermore, the name of the organization given the lie to any peaceful intent it might claim to have. It is the kind of movement which, given a chance, would engage in murder and pillage itself, in the manner of the Viet Cong who regularly abduct and frequently murder South Vietnamese civilians.

United States security police and Scotland Yard have an interesting case on their hands. Is this some organization out for kicks, or is it a body of men of serious revolutionary intent? If it is the latter, it has no justification for attributing fascist leanings toward U.S. policy around the world.

Race Relations

An American delegate to a recent conference of police officers in Canada warned that in 20 years a city like Toronto could be the scene of race riots similar to those that have been occurring in Detroit and other U.S. cities.

Others take a more optimistic view. Leonard Braithwaite, Toronto-born Negro member of the Ontario legislature, says the situation in Canada is different than in the U.S. where race riots have spread from city to city.

We don't have the close ghettos of the United States — such as in Newark where I lived two years. And we don't have overt prejudices such as is found in England."

The Ontario Human Rights Code, while it needs improvement, does some good, he said.

"Although there has been discrimination, we have the law on our side."

But would the law be of much avail if Negroes, for instance, increased in number in Canada? In a country where whites have any number of strange prejudices against each other, and where are reflected by many of the laws of the land — like the bigger the car, the restrictions some property owners place on tenants — Canada's smug claim to toleration in race relations could be smashed quickly.

Allen Mintz, a lawyer experienced in civil liberties cases, has admitted as much. He says violent social protests will never spill into Canadian streets because of Canada's restrictive immigration regulations.

We do not have a "whites only" policy, like Australia, but the Government nevertheless does place a limit on immigration of non-Europeans. This serves to avoid the creation of racial tension such as exists in the United States. Such problems simply do not arise because the circumstances that create them are not present. It is as simple as that.

Bible Training

About 65 per cent of Canada's pre-teen children do not attend a Bible-believing, Protestant church," according to Betty Theaker, Ontario director of Child Evangelism Fellowship.

This is a high percentage and a disturbing one in a country which believes in the value of Christian precept in the upbringing of the young. Two out of three Canadian children, says the CEF, do not receive regular religious instruction.

The CEF conducts outdoor Bible classes during the summer in suburban backyards, in parks and on the beaches. The program is non-denominational and the classes are expected to reach about 35,000 elementary school children throughout the province.

Child Evangelism Fellowship seems to be fulfilling a real need. With headquarters in Grand Rapids, Michigan, it has missionaries and similar programs in 60 countries.

Museums Today Are of Prime Educational Value

Canada's museums tell the story of the evolution of this country in a way that few other institutions present it.

Here are the implements, symbols and artifacts of bygone ages, evoking memories, as The Royal Bank of Canada puts it, "of men and women [illegible] since the dawn of time without convenience or comfort, and often with little hope that such conditions would improve."

In the following article, the first of a series of extracts from its monthly letter, the bank surveys the wealth of historical detail to be found in Canada's museums — all of which has contributed to the clearer understanding of that elusive "Canadian identity" which flourishes in the national scene with each clarity in this centennial year.

The history of Canada is in the long and continuing process of the land and the people and passed this way before us and left memories of themselves and their work and the signs of they knew. Remembrance of them is being given a front place at Canada's centennial celebrations.

Museums, preserved and restored buildings, tell the story of men and women pitted against the wilderness, without conveniences or comforts, and often with little hope that conditions would improve. Their valiant efforts are shown in their handcrafts and documented by letters, deeds, grants of land and old portraits, things which enchant the eye and inspire the mind.

These thoughts are close to the hearts of many Canadians.

Some fifty museums have been organized as centennial projects, nine of them major new buildings. In addition, pioneer homes are being restored, and some gathered together into villages. All these preservations are remembrance of things past and help us to understand how Canada became what it is today, our present circumstances, and how we may project the advances of the past into the future.

In these days, museums are not locked upon as stodgy dull centres, full of dusty relics to assemble a collection of naval and military relics, of stuffed birds and animals, of native products and arrows. Most museums of this kind are pathetic and dusty, more reminiscent of death and the tomb than of the stirring times which they are supposed to recall.

Museums are now finding it possible to educate in an interesting manner. J. D. Herbert, Director of Manitoba's Museum of Man and Nature, writes: "A museum is an institution that seeks to educate by explaining and by showing the relationships of things chosen to illustrate the wonders of nature and the works of man."

Dr. R. Glover, Director of the Human History Branch of the National Museum of Canada, sees the purpose of the museum as fourfold, and these four functions are pertinent: (1) to educate by a wide variety of means: the publication of scientific and popular works, exhibits, guided tours, and public lectures, including films.

There are, roughly, four types of museums in Canada: the National Museum, provincial museums, local museums and special museums.

The National Museum the principal displays are recreations of the natural settings of Indians and Eskimos and of Canada's wildlife. It has exquisitely worked and well-designed dioramas of life in all periods of Canada's history. Its scope encompasses the whole country, its people, and its natural history.

It collects a wide assortment of objects, ranging from microscopic organisms to huge war canoes and totem poles; it records all available information about these specimens, and it preserves them for this generation and those to come. It is one of the great research museums of the world.

Provincial museums are, of course, interested principally in their own environment, but they must go outside it on occasion for objects which contribute to the understanding local conditions.

This is illustrated in a small way in the New Brunswick Museum. The landing of the United Empire Loyalists at Saint John on May 18, 1783 was a matter of the utmost importance not only to the province but to the whole country, and the museum has a fine collection of relics relating to this event.

Local museums are of many kinds, and a valuable contribution to knowledge is made by their collection. This commemorates the Indigenous Indians of Newfoundland, a vanished race whose last survivor, Nancy Shanawditch, died in 1829. These were the people, says the Encyclopedia of Canada, whom the Europeans shot down at sight — the French even paid a bounty for this destruction — on the principle that "there is no good Indian but a dead one."

The Quebec Museum is displayed "French - Canadian Arts", an exhibition of painting, sculpture, jewellery, drawing, decorative arts and folklore arts from the beginning until today.

The Royal Ontario Museum is Canada's biggest, and it is among the three or four largest in the world. Its three acres of galleries in the main building describe the structure of the earth, its animal and plant life, and the march of civilization from Babylon to early Canada.

Manitoba has the "Museum of Man and Nature." This contains a survey from the beginning of split between natural history on the one hand and human history on the other. It attempts to show the unity of man in his environment, bringing together the past, the present, and the future in one great unifying theme.

The Western Development Museum in Saskatchewan has several branches, each of which displays early farm machinery and implements and is devoted to every household. A start has been made on reconstruction of a pioneer village, Smithville, which was Archives Board, with preservation of government records of its primary function, has broadened out to the collection of historical records.

The new Provincial Museum and Archives of Alberta, scheduled for completion in 1968, will be a free public institution which will portray Alberta by collection, preservation and display of significant natural and historical items.

Nova Scotia has its new Archives-Museum complex.

Opportunity for Indians

Ottawa Journal

Visitors to the Indians of Canada pavilion at Expo have been shocked at the evidence of Indian discontent. Indian Affairs Minister Laing calls the display "the anguished cry of the frustrated."

And then, of course, there has been reckless talk of the possibility of Canadian Indians playing racial riots in imitation of the U.S. Negroes.

How serious is all this?

The taxpayers provide $134,000,000 for Indian affairs work this year and that is not ungenerous assistance to 220,000 people. The Indians have 6,000,000 acres of reserve land which Laing declares includes "some of the most-favored real estate in Canada."

Indians should be given real opportunity to get rid of the paternalism of government and stand on their own feet. But they have to make an effort. Are they being given the opportunity? A recent inquiry seems to leave this point in doubt. Parliament should seek from the government some factual discussion of this matter along with a request for information on whether Indian co-operation in self-reliance is forthcoming.

If Indians take the attitude that their reserve privileges are more important than participation in the advancement of the general community, they will be left with their downtrodden fever.

The question now is not merely what must be done for the Indians, but what the Indians will do for themselves.

Commonwealth Co-operation

Globe and Mail

We should chalk up a small but cheering victory for Commonwealth co-operation and good sense today. The tiny Caribbean island of Anguilla is back in the fold. On July 12 its 5,000 people declared themselves independent of St. Kitts and Nevis after only four months as part of the "associated state," a British invention that gave the Leeward and Windward Islands individual self-government without the expense of maintaining embassies and armies.

Anguilla had its grievances against its "big brother," but the largest members of the Caribbean Commonwealth family seem to have managed to restore relations. Ministers from the four fully independent states — Trinidad and Tobago, Jamaica, Guyana and Barbados — met in Bridgetown with the Premier of St. Kitts, Robert Bradshaw, and the secessionist leader, Peter Adams. Anguilla, apparently with the promise of greater autonomy and of more British aid, gave up its revolution. And the four independent states promised to send a peacekeeping force of policemen to Anguilla to ensure fair play.

A pity the Commonwealth cannot act as effectively over Nigeria and the secession of Biafra, or over Rhodesia. But, who knows, Anguilla may be the start.

Brain Drain Hits Poorer Countries

Ottawa Journal

According to a recent Congressional report, 46 per cent of the professionals, scientists, engineers and physicians that emigrate to the United States come from underdeveloped countries. These countries, obviously, are the ones that can least afford to lose such talent and skill.

It's one of those unfortunate, but evidently inevitable facts that in the process of becoming professionalized, citizens of these lands tend to become westernized and social mobility tends to come more closely linked to the middle class values and social milieu of the west than to their indigenous cultures.

The report, released by the House Committee on Government Operations, says: "Such a loss by the developing countries is of direct concern to the United States . . . To the extent that it improves developing nations it also defeats a major U.S. foreign policy objective for the sake of which this country is currently spending about $3.7 billion per year . . ."

As the report rightly points out, the U.S. and other industrialized countries that are losing professionals will have to find the incentives for providing incentives to keep them at home, that is, to plug the brain drain.

Hamilton Spectator

The Argentine is now trying to buy back its best brains from Europe and United States. The demand for graduates has been high in the U.S., so American interests have offered fabulous salaries to young Argentine professionals ($1,000 a month for some university graduates, sometimes six times what they were offered in the Argentine) to make the long trip north.

This is an old story to Canadians. Some years ago leading Canadian industrialists complained what the Argentine is now doing — they offered salaries and opportunities commensurate with those in most U.S. situations. The result was a partial plugging of the drain.

The Argentine hopes to accomplish the same results by offering huge salaries and fringe benefits to expatriates now working in the north. Their efforts may be even more successful than the fragmentary Canadian ones because they have nostalgia on their side. Many of the young Argentines are homesick for their native land and mother tongue. It is not so easy for them to adjust to American life, nor can they fly home on long weekends as homesick Canadians can do.

The brain-drain problem will always exist in nations that are dominated by a colossus. It is a hard fact of life that cannot be escaped. The drain can never be completely plugged but it can be narrowed. And the only feasible way to do that successfully is for governments, the universities, and private enterprise to hand together in a determined effort to offer the nation's best young brains inducements sufficient to keep them happy at home.

Negroes Seek Status

Manchester Guardian Weekly

Disregarding Vietnam, many of the current conflicts have a common origin. That is the gap between potentiality and achievement. The Negro knows a good life is well within the grasp of all America's citizens. He probably knows that some day it will come. But he fears that when the day does arrive he will be dead or too old to enjoy it. The same is true of the inhabitants of the poor continents. That are given daily glimpses through their newspapers and radio of a world of opulence for which they are still excluded.

A Failure?

Housing in the Modern World

Kingston Whig-Standard

We have more than once in these columns made the flat statement that in all the Western nations the private housing sector has failed to provide for the needs, not only of the poorest, but of those who are able to pay for adequate accommodation.

Not that there is anything particularly profound in this observation — it is simply that it is so seldom admitted, in public.

It is considered something dirty to reasonable these days to suggest that private endeavour could possibly fail to provide whatever society might need. Under the pressure of this collective misconception the truth too often tends to be told.

In the case of housing —which to Ontario is receiving special attention at the moment because of the beginning of the HOME plan — it is only necessary to look at the cities. What Michael Harrington calls "the paradox of simultaneous rot and grandeur" appears in every urban centre. The rot in the centre of cities is the result of governmental subsidies where the needs of the middle and upper income classes have been favoured. Barrington, famous for his The Other America, points out in his most recent book, The Accidental Century, that in a city like New York " . . . it has been the official public rhetoric for 30 years that the slums are to be abolished. Only they have grown."

As for public housing, it has been a failure, as we have often pointed out, because of profit speculation in the use of land. Those who can afford it have fled to suburbs, erected zoning laws forbidding public housing units, while within the city public housing has had to compete for land with profitable shops and business buildings.

The result, as Harris adds, what about the total effects of this situation? For many of those left behind in the cities, or perhaps dating from the Great Soldiers of, 1954 when the Christian Church divided on an east-vs.-west basis. The council has no power over the churches but has become a means of initiating common discussion and action.

lost some of their original utility through the transformation of whole neighbourhoods from formerly mixed social and economic groups to ghettoes in which harder the hoisted and the dispossessed.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials continued to decline in moderate trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The industrial index dropped .35 to 167.85.

Trading figures also dropped and by 11 a.m., 848,000 shares had changed hands compared with 1,258,000 at the same time Tuesday.

A number of brokers feel the slowdown is part of a consolidation phase, which might carry through until the end of the month.

CAE Industries fell ¼ to 11¾, Inco and Labatt ½ each to 104½ and 29¼, Algoma Steel ¼ to 24½ and Bell Telephone ½ to 48. Steinco gained ¼ to 23¼.

Speculative activity was light following three weeks of heavy trading.

Black Hawk was the most active issue, down 1 to 30 cents on 50,000 shares. PCE Exploration moved up 5 cents to 2.27 on 18,000 shares.

Central-Del Rio dipped ⅛ to 23½ in western oils.

On index, golds were off 4.68 to 174.46, base metals .33 to 101.54 and western oils .39 to 196.39.

Steel issues came under heavy selling pressure Tuesday.

Algoma, which slid 2¾ Monday, backed off ⅛ to 34½ after being down to 34 early in the session. The company said it has decided to suspend its $175,000,000 expansion program and lay off about 800 workers.

Stelco was down ⅛ to 23½ and Dofasco ¼ to 24¾.

The Canadian steel industry operated at 74.8-per-cent capacity in July and production was eight per cent lower than in July, 1966. The United States industry is facing a similar decline in demand.

Prices also weakened among other industrials and the industrial index slid .21 to 184.48.

Moore Corp. was off 1¼ to 31, Alcan ⅛ to 29, ITL Industries ½ to 40¼ and Canadian Breweries ¼ to 8½.

Profit takers trimmed speculatives as D'Eldona dropped 7 cents to 2.39 and Satellite 4 to 92 cents.

Trading figures were not available due to a computer breakdown.

On index, golds were off 1.35 to 177.80, base metals .47 to 102.53 and western oils .39 to 196.28.

Computer Halts Slows Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — A breakdown in the Toronto Stock Exchange's electronic computer Tuesday prevented the TSE from supplying statistics to news media and apparently cost stockbrokers thousands of dollars in lost commissions.

David Chandler, resident partner of Roche and Co. brokerage house, said: "We had a couple of large orders we were trying to negotiate. We had both sides, but we couldn't get them together because of the computer failure."

Exchange clerks began compiling bid and asked prices by hand at the 3:30 p.m. close of trading. By 9:30 p.m., the computer was repaired and worked at twice its normal speed to process the day's statistics.

A TSE official said the breakdown was partly attributable to "the process of adding to the memory of the computer." Tuesday's trouble was the most serious of several disruptions in the last few years.

Husband's Mother Creates Problems

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My husband's mother lives with us since she has been ill. But she is trying to run things and has me on a strain. I don't think she likes anybody, even her own son.

My husband has all the patience in the world with her but is getting awfully short-tempered with the rest of us. I can't do a thing right for him.

It's simply ruining our home life. Nobody is any fun any more. My husband won't even consider putting her in an old folks' home, which she calls the Poor House. Is there any answer for us? — Dismayed.

Dear Dismayed: Granny's temper is short because she no longer has a roost to rule, much as she tries. And she knows she is slipping. Her loving son takes out his hurt and frustration about her on the rest of you. Family morale drops to zero.

Before banishing her, try putting to work those idle, restless hands. Start a new trend by asking for the loaf that mother stopped baking! If she sews well, dream up a dress or drapes for her to make. Nobody knows what it is to feel utterly useless until they get back themselves.

Then find her a seniors' club to take a hand in. (Report back a month from now.)

Dear Doris: I have pimples and blackheads on my shoulders and chest. I am so embarrassed when I wear a shell or short-sleeved blouse.

My mother says it's because I'm a teen-ager and it will pass over. — Can't Wait

Dear Can't Wait: Why wait? It could plague you for eight or more miserable years, left on its own. If your mother had an unsightly rash for as little as eight weeks, wouldn't she see a doctor about it?

What you are seeing counts — terribly. Are you willing to curb your enthusiasm for French fries, pies, spicy pizzas, chocolates? This is what acne treatment calls for, along with some stringent and frequent cleansing routines.

You can make quick improvements if you're a mind to; I'm sending you the fastest acne leaflet. For a stubborn case your doctor can prescribe a special lotion which speeds results.

Confidential to Mr. Z.: Jay can make a new life for herself and little Sue if she only thinks she can. Why give up because of an abusive and unscrupulous mate?

A counselor can guide her into action; but once she starts something she must stay with it. Plenty of women have had the stamina to fight through to a happier state of affairs. Her daughter is worth it; even if she won't make a break on her own account.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Danny, don't walk on the rail of that picket fence. It's too dangerous."

Danny: "You let me walk here yesterday."

Mother: "I didn't want an argument in front of my company."

Children should learn that there are some rules for which there are no exceptions. These are the rules that involve their health and safety.

If you forbid an object or an act because it is potentially dangerous, then you should forbid it tomorrow, next week and on into the next two or three years. Be consistent, even if enforcing obedience may be inconvenient.

Stuffed Baked Zucchinis

By MARY MOORE

Baked vegetables are in the minority.

Working wives and efficiency cooks want oven meals where meat, vegetables and dessert may be pushed into the oven, temperature and timer set and presto at 6:00 p.m. all are ready for the table.

I have a stuffed baked vegetable recipe for you that includes meat with the stuffing — in spite Zucchini squash.

It may be baked at the same time as crumbed tomatoes and baked custard (see Monday.)

STUFFED BAKED ZUCCHINIS (serves 4)

Two 7" long zucchini squash
1 tbsp. butter
1-3 cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup finely chopped onion or chives
1 cup flaked corned beef (about half of a 12-oz. can) or cooked ham
½ cup fresh breadcrumbs
1-3 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1 tbsp. catsup
About 16 thin 2" square slices process cheese

Wash, and cook zucchinis whole in boiling salted water to cover, covered for 5 min. Remove, drain and chill in cold water at once. Cut each in halves, lengthwise, and scoop out pulp with curved grapefruit knife, leaving 1-3" shell. Chop pulp and reserve in medium bowl. Season shells with salt and pepper. Gently saute celery and onion (or chives) in butter until limp. Add to chopped pulp. Also add flaked corned beef or ham, crumbs, shredded cheese and e a tsp. f

Ann Landers

Taking It Easy Results in Empty Life

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have a nice home, well-furnished, a new car and money in the bank. Our two sons have finished college, are happily married and doing well. We have excellent jobs and our combined income makes it possible for us to live comfortably.

So why am I writing to An Landers? Because suddenly we find life empty and boring. We have no goals, nothing to struggle for. We were much happier when we had to worry about house payments, taxes, mortgage and tuition bills.

Are we different or does this happen to all couples in the twilight years? We need answers. — THE W'S.

DEAR W'S: You need more than answers. You need to get out of your furbished, insulated world and become involved with some causes or projects or people to whom you can devote your time, energy and money.

Contentment does not come from lapping up creature comforts and taking life easy. But this you already know, since this is the thrust of the problem as you have expressed it. Get busy and find out how to make your lives count for something. The world needs what you have to offer. And you need to become dose-payin' members of the human race.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago, three of us (all college students) borrowed a buddy's car. I was driving. Unfortunately we had an accident. Nobody was hurt but the damage to our buddy's car amount to $115. There was no insurance so the money had to come out of my pocket. I think the two fellows with me should help with the repair bill. They say, "No you were driving."

Is this fair? Answer in the paper because if my folks see a letter from you and find out I had another accident, I'll get grounded for life. — D.

DEAR D.: Another accident, eh? It sounds as if you've got quite a history, fella. Maybe you should be grounded until you take some driving lessons, and I am not kidding.

First, I'd like to make it clear that anyone who drives without insurance is a moron. Second, you don't say who was at fault but I have an idea you were. In this case, your passengers should not be expected to pitch in. If someone had hit you and you were blameless I'd agree with you, but not under these circumstances.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband plays ball with the "boys" (about age 40) one night a week and comes home around 2.00 a.m.

Other nights he gets home anywhere from 7.30 to 11 p.m. He hasn't had a raise in 10 years. I've been typing papers at home so we can pay our bills. Should I wake up and smell the coffee? — QUIET DESPERATION.

DEAR QUIET — Or are you unconscious? Did you just notice that your husband hasn't had dinner with his children in three years? It's going to be difficult to get him to stop doing whatever he's doing — after all this time. You need more help than I can offer. I suggest a professional counselor. Yes, I know, he won't go. So go yourself and learn what you can do to get the 40-year-old teenybopper to behave like a husband and a father.

Friends Honor Couple on Departure

RYLSTONE — On Thursday evening, a large number of friends and neighbors, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart to wish them good health and happiness in their new home in Campbellford.

The honored guests were both born in the community and have lived their entire lives here. They were presented with a step-table, a gold colored swivel T.V., chair and matching embroidered foam cushions, Cathy Miller who lives with her grandparents was given a pink boudoir lamp.

At the same time, the congregation at the Gospel Chapel presented the Stewart's with a chaise lounge and Cathy with a wallet.

The program consisted of community singing; and a piano solo by Marlene Shortt.

Refreshments were served.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from easy, no trouble at all, neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles fast return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way suggested by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blemishes—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

University Women Meet in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 300 delegates from across Canada assembled today as the Canadian Federation of University Women opened its triennial conference at the University of British Columbia.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes was to open the four-day convention.

Members came prepared to discuss committee reports and resolutions bearing on the welfare and status of women. The federation, which organized support for the recently-formed royal commission on the status of women, is preparing a brief for presentation to it.

Mrs. M. W. Menzies of Winnipeg, chairman of the CFUW committee on the status of women, said Tuesday the brief will deal with questions of education, employment, divorce, abortion and nationality.

Resolutions scheduled for debate ask for changes in laws on the domicile of married women and the minimum age of marriage. Another asks provincial inquiries into women's status.

Bald Men Are Best

MONTREAL (CP) — Three marriage proposals from audience bachelor girls were offered Raymond Blonde of Nesbitt, France, elected Mr. Baldie of 1967. "Statistics prove a bald man makes a solid husband who's more faithful and generous to his wife than any other kind," explained a marriage counsellor. "Besides, a bald man makes his lady companion look more beautiful than she really is."

Choice of Carpet Should Depend on Several Factors

TORONTO (CP)—When you buy a carpet, your choice of quality and fibre should depend on several factors: how much money you can spend, how much wear and tear the carpet will get and how long you expect it to last.

Betty Berrymore of Toronto Carpet says the question is most often asked is which fibre is best.

"It is impossible to give a blanket answer: There isn't one that's best for everybody.

"For one thing, between all fibres are used for all grades of carpeting, the use of a certain fibre does not guarantee a top quality carpet. Perhaps the best gauge of quality, no matter what the fibre, is the deeper, the denser, the better.

"If you can spend $14 or $15 a square yard, get wool. You can't beat wool, but you can't get good wool under about $13."

Miss Berrymore says you should buy the best carpeting you can, no matter what type it is, because it will be the least expensive in the long run. It will last longer.

She says price is a rule-of-thumb gauge to quality. A carpet suitable for light traffic costs about $8 a yard in man-made fibres. For medium traffic you should spend two or three dollars more a yard, and for heavy traffic you will have to pay about $13 or $13 a yard.

"If you have a family and a television set in the living room, you will need a heavy-traffic carpet there. Older people without children or working people can all day don't need a heavy-traffic carpet.

"If you haven't settled on your tastes in furnishing or are living in an apartment and intend to move, you don't want too much money tied up in the carpet. Choose a living room carpet you might use in a 4 bedroom later."

Miss Berrymore says that among the man-made fibres, acrilan most resembles wool in feel and appearance. She says it will give good wear and is resilient.

She describes nylon as long-wearing, a good choice when the family is young, pets because it will clean easily.

Polypropylene, the newest of fibres, made from oil, also recommends as heavy-wearing and unusually resistant to a long list of cleaning agents.

Viscose, she says, is a good value in areas where heavy traffic is not a problem.

Many carpets are a blend of fibres, and their content should be listed on a label on the back. It takes about 20 per cent of any given fibre to make the characteristics of that fibre noticeable in the carpet.

You should be sure there is a label, giving you the manufacturer's name, the fibre content and, ideally, instructions for care and cleaning. You should avoid incompletely identified carpets and so-called "bargains."

Miss Berrymore says you should also avoid taking easy-cleaning claims too literally. She says it is true that most carpets now are easier to keep clean than they once were, but prompt treatment of stains and regular vacuuming and cleaning are still necessary.

Postal Strike Held Illegal But It Will Still Be Staged

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal agency Tuesday declared the planned postal strike illegal, but the president of the union said the 24-hour walkout will proceed on schedule.

The strike, to start at 12:01 a.m. EDT Friday, was declared unlawful under the Public Service Staff Relations Act by the board that administers it.

William Kay, president of the 12,000-member Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said the board's decision was passed on to the membership through union field officers.

"However, we are in the right and we are not going to be coerced ourselves," he said.

The board ruled that the union was covered by the act, which went into effect March 12, even though the union had not been certified as bargaining agent from the mail dispatchers and postal clerks it represents.

In the board's view, the union had not followed strike procedures laid down in the act. The federal treasury board, the postal workers' formal employer, sought the ruling.

Mr. Kay said the next move is still up to Revenue Minister Benson, who is also president of the treasury board. He has the power to fine illegal strikers and their unions.

In a companion move, the staff relations board rejected the bid of the Kay union and the slightly-smaller letter carriers union for joint certification as a single bargaining unit under the new collective bargaining legislation for civil servants.

Mr. Kay said the certification rejection was a side issue only to the strike.

Meanwhile, Mr. Kay was still trying to rally the support of several of his union locals opposed to the strike, called in the first place to protest a government decision that denied an extra day off to 2,500 CUPW members.

The affected employees had a regular day off on July 1, which had been set aside as a Dominion Day public holiday this year. The government refused a union request for another day off to compensate.

Mr. Kay said he sent a telegram to his British Columbia field officer to instruct dissenting locals there to walk out on schedule. The big Vancouver local and some others in B.C. have decided to stay on the job.

Some locals in other parts of Canada have also voted to stay at work.

Pearson and Anglican Bishop Plead for French-Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson again has urged Canadian unity and says Canada must show the world how people can live together without uniformity.

Both the prime minister and Most Rev. H. H. Clark, Archbishop of Rupert's Land and Primate of All Canada, told the general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada Tuesday that all Canadians must recognize the value of French-Canadian culture in the country's national life.

"..... There must be full recognition by all Canadians that the culture, language and traditions of the French-speaking minority are a distinctive, essential and equal element in our national life," Mr. Pearson told the more than 250 persons taking part in deliberations of the church's highest legislative body.

"Only then will French-speaking Canadians feel that they are completely part of Canada, working with all other Canadians in the realization of a national destiny."

Archbishop Clark said a "change of heart" is necessary because unity is impossible without it.

He called on English-Canadians to revise their attitudes about French Canada and called for improved communication between the two cultures.

"We of the so-English church, with the rest of Canada, can in this Confederation Year confess our repeated failure to understand our French-speaking brothers."

Most Rev. J. A. Plourde, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Ottawa, also brought greetings to the synod and said his church is "irrevocably engaged in the full current of the ecumenical dialogue" and that the churches now are stressing their similarities rather than their differences.

He said the ecumenical movement is not purely human but is one where "we have to believe that God will provide."

Much of Tuesday was spent on routine before the 10-day synod can get down to the agenda that will include consideration of the marriage-divorce canon approved at Vancouver two years ago and union with the United Church of Canada.

The Synod approved as a "working document" a report from Price Waterhouse Ltd., a Toronto firm of business consultants, that provides for reorganization at the church's national headquarters.

Jolliffe Charges LSD Dangers Kept Hidden

TORONTO (CP) — E. B. Jolliffe, counsel for Dr. Morton Shulman, told a royal commission Tuesday that the Ontario attorney - general's department and subordinate officers have prevented the public from learning of the dangers of the drug LSD.

Mr. Jolliffe, in his windup argument at the inquiry headed by Mr. Justice W. B. Parker, dealt with the death last March of John Stern, a 20-year-old Toronto student, in a fall from the Bloor Street viaduct. Testimony at the inquest into his death was that he had taken LSD before his death.

"Dr. Shulman's effort to place all the relevant facts and circumstances before the coroner's jury in the Stern case were repeatedly obstructed or interfered with," Mr. Jolliffe said.

Among "extraordinary actions" were failure at first to subpoena two material witnesses to the inquest, "ordering of an LSD expert not to testify, and the fact that the jury was told it must not go into the question of LSD."

He accused Ontario authorities of "consistently taking the position that the dangers of LSD, and the source of LSD, . . were of no concern whatever to a coroner's jury charged with making recommendations which would provide a guide to prevent the repetition of such a death."

Mr. Jolliffe suggested the provincial government should help cover Dr. Shulman's expenses connected with the hearing.

"It is unreasonable and unjust" that Dr. Shulman should have to foot his own bill when he sparked the investigation for the public good, Mr. Jolliffe asserted.

He said Dr. Shulman has spent at least $10,000 on legal costs during the hearing, including $1,400 for a copy of the 9,000 pages of testimony.

The inquiry was called after Dr. Shulman, who was fired in April as chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto, made charges of government interference in inquests.

Earlier Tuesday in his summation, Mr. Jolliffe was accused by Mr. Justice Parker of inserting his own opinions for those of Ontario's chief coroner Dr. H. B. Cotnam.

Mr. Jolliffe was summarizing the case of Edith Somerdine, who died after receiving a blood transfusion in Hamilton. Six doctors testified at the 1964 inquest that an excess of blood had contributed to her death.

Dr. Cotnam and two Hamilton coroners disagreed, and the jury absolved the doctor of any blame.

Mr. Jolliffe suggested that Dr. Cotnam's manner of charging the jury misrepresented the evidence and the result was surprising, but Mr. Justice Parker said: "It seems to me that you are hearing your opinion about what Dr. Cotnam was doing."

Dief Says 'Two Nations' Idea Would Finish Confederation

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker today broke his silence on his ideas for the future course of Progressive Conservative party policy by saying the two-nation concept would mean the end of Confederation.

"Surely the time has come to put an end to semantic juggling for political purposes," he said.

He aimed his remarks at Prime Minister Pearson and at the recommendation made to the Conservative party by the party's policy advisory conference at Montmorency Falls, Que., earlier this month.

"The proposition of two nations I cannot accept. It would mean the end of this nation, regardless of its attractivity for votes."

The Conservative leader said there were some at the Montmorency meeting "who would lead the party down that garden path."

Firefighters Face New Test

MONTREAL CP — President William D. Beck of the International Association of Fire Fighters said Tuesday U.S. riots have revealed to firemen "the shocking fact that we sometimes require armed escorts to put down fires started by arsonists and looters."

Mr. Buck, of Washington, D.C., told a Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs conference that "once we were symbols of protection; now, in these riot situations, we face deadly fire from snipers' rifles, the hail of rocks and brickbats and the Molotov cocktails buried at our apparatus."

The IAFF was supporting federal legislation to make interference with fire fighters during riots and disturbances a federal offense.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League — Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: Is the 401 all-freeway highway from Brockville to Montreal?

ANSWER: It is four-lane except for a two-lane stretch for 20 miles east of Iroquois, Ont.

QUESTION: On our way out west this summer we would like to visit Yellowstone Park. How far is it from Belleville and which is the quickest route out there? Any other information on it would be appreciated.

ANSWER: Yellowstone Park is about 2,000 miles from Belleville and the shortest route is by 401 to Detroit, Mich., No. 94 and No. 39 to No. 90 or Indiana Toll road; No. 294, bypass Chicago, No. 90 Rockford, Ill., No. 26, No. 69 and No. 9 to Sioux Falls, No. 16 to Yellowstone Park.

This is the oldest and largest U.S. National Park and attracts more than 1,000,000 visitors annually.

Yellowstone has more than 3,000 geysers and hot springs, of which Old Faithful is the best known.

It is about a five day drive from Belleville but is well worth going out of your way to see, if you are heading for the west coast.

Beside the geysers there is wild life such as friendly black bears that eat out of your hand, buffalo, moose, elk, deer, antelope and bighorn sheep which roam 3,472 square miles. Park regulations forbid you to feed the black bears; however you'll find them begging all through the park near the paved roads. There are five entrances to Yellowstone which remain open May 30 to Oct. 15.

There is accommodation for 7,000 persons a day in the park, from campsites run by the government to private accommodation varying from simple cabins to lodges, motels and hotels. Economy cabins are around $9 for four. Motels in the park run from $8 to $17 for five persons, and hotels charge from $11 single to $21 for four.

Five hundred miles east of Yellowstone you will pass through the Black Hills and, just east of this, the Badlands, which are worth seeing. The Badlands contain one of the most spectacular exhibits of weathering and eroded in the world. The formations resemble towers and cathedral spires.

The Black Hills have gold mines that have produced $250 million and still yield millions of dollars a year. They cover 200 miles of scenic hills and caves. The Black Hill National forest covers 1,327,000 acres in the Black Hills and within the forest are many interesting animals and birds.

The mountainous terrain is dotted with lakes and streams, offering excellent opportunities for hunting, fishing and mountain climbing. The Black Hills Playhouse is maintained by professional actors and offers performances during the summer.

Robarts Announces Ontario Farm Income Study

TORONTO CP — Premier John Roberts Tuesday announced a $500,000 project designed to determine methods of increasing the incomes of Ontario's farmers.

The funds will be used to assure farmers a return on their investment and labor in line with other segments of the economy, Mr. Roberts said.

The action follows recommendations by a recent conference at Kemptville, Ont., attended by nearly 300 representatives of 28 food and agriculture industry organizations, departments of the provincial government and the federal agriculture and trade departments.

The conference was sparked by a preliminary report of the special committee on farm income established last October by William Stewart, provincial agriculture minister.

The committee report called for an intensive study into all aspects of the industry, including the effectiveness of existing programs and policies.

Mr. Roberts said: "The necessity of interprovincial co-operation and liaison with the federal government in such matters cannot be over stressed. Talking and relations will just not work."

Why pay more for slippers your child will probably outgrow?

These facts from Foamtreads explain why:

Foamtreads are built by people who believe that children's slippers are just as important as children's shoes. They agree that slippers should be a little softer, a little lighter, and a lot more comfortable. But they'll never sell a slipper that's short on support.

Foamtreads cost a little more money because Kaufman takes a lot more care to make them right. Probably your child will outgrow his foamtreads before he out wears them. At Kaufman that's the way we think it should be.

The craftsmanship and quality materials that go into Foamtreads children's slippers go into Foamtreads for the whole family.

Virtue Is A Habit

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

As old friend of the family, named Aristotle, once told me that "virtue is a habit." I was too young to understand what he meant at the time, but as I get older, I see his point.

Last week we bought a couple of goldfish in a tiny bowl — to give someone as a joke on his birthday. He was called out of town, however, and the goldfish remained on our fireplace mantel all week.

Now, I have always disliked goldfish swimming around in a bowl. They seem to be supremely uninteresting creatures, and I could never see any reason for human feeding and housing them.

Somehow, we didn't get around to giving them away, and we reluctantly began feeding them and changing their water. After a couple of days, against our will, we started to look upon them in a different light.

The goldfish suddenly acquired personality. Dumb as they are, they ceased being "creatures." I would not go so far as to say we quickly grew to care for them, but we assumed the responsibility for continuing their existence.

We may not have cared for them, but we began to care about them.

This "caringness" is a natural instinct in man, but it must be cultivated. It is a virtue because it finds values we find in life, the more full and satisfying our life becomes.

We can easily see how selfishness is a habit, but it is harder to see how virtue is the same. We commonly think of virtue as being a "quality" deep in the soul, which one either has or hasn't. I am convinced that everyone has it, but not everyone cultivates the habit.

Our old friend of the family also told me that virtue must be "active" — which is another thing we generally forget. It is impossible to be passively good — to wish the goldfish well, but let them starve to death or die in dirty water.

Millions of people think they are good simply because they are actively doing no harm. But this smug and self-righteous attitude is more responsible for the consequences of tragedy than the evils these people comfortably decry from their easy chairs.

When we take care of a goldfish, it is less for the sake of the goldfish than for our own sake — for the caring process makes us more of what human beings ought to be. When we realize that taking care of our fellows is more of a blessing to ourselves than to them, we shall understand why the habit of virtue is the first rule of human conduct.

Laity Can Teach Church on Birth Control Says Theologian

TORONTO (CP) — The Roman Catholic Church is in a state of doubt concerning the morality of the legitimate use of birth control devices, one of the church's most liberal theologians said Tuesday.

There are situations in which the laity of the church may teach the hierarchy, said Edward Schillebeeckx of the Catholic University at Nijmegen, Holland.

He was replying at a news conference to a questioner who asked if, in a church which says it is both a teacher and a learner, the use of birth-control pills by a faithful married couple could be regarded as an example of teaching by the people.

The 53-year-old professor of theology, who is fluent in French but uses English with difficulty, is attending a congress on the theology of the renewal of the church.

Responsible Catholics must be cautioned that when they speak of the problems of marriage, he said, although the possibility of abuses must be borne in mind.

Rev. Gregory Baum of Toronto, who on Monday replied to a similar question by saying that there are circumstances in which it is permissible for a loyal Catholic to disagree with non-infallible elements of the church, interpreted for Dr. Schillebeeckx. He added his own comment that while doubt exists in the church, he believes the majority of the Catholic their option."

Dr. Schillebeeckx also said the church is reanalyzing its views on the indissolubility of marriage. Revelation of divorce has been reinterpreted, more than once in history, he said.

"One must continously reinterpret to remain faithful."

There were circumstances in which it would be heresy to fail to reinterpret revelation according to the needs of the times.

Most Rev. Remi de Roo, bishop of Victoria, said not everything that emanates from Rome should be construed as coming from the Pope.

"Popes have sometimes been made to say things they did not necessarily think the matter."

But said.

Rev. Enda McDonagh, of Maynooth, Ireland, added that resistance and conflict can be creative. Those who resist some elements of renewal, he said, can help to make what is finally done more Christian, with the product more enriching for both the doubters and the advocates.

Puppet History

Chief Walking Buffalo answers his great-grandchildren's questions in the Edmonton Puppeteers' history of the Stony Indians. His medicine staff, trimmed with buffalo hair and miniature deer hooves, is a reproduction of one used in ceremonies, and his buffalo-horned headdress recalls a legend about his own great-grandfather, said to have learned to understand the language of animals.

Church Must Foster Love of Man

TORONTO CP — Some principles laid down by the Second Vatican Council for renewal of the liturgy of the Roman Catholic Church are being implemented, but there are revolutionary themes of liturgical reform that have not yet been put into practice, a congress on theology was told Tuesday.

Rev. Godfrey Diekmann, one of the best-known liturgists in the United States, said there has also been a failure to underscore the dimension of the Eucharist as "an active and transforming love for all our brothers, for the entire world."

Father Diekmann, 56-year-old professor of church history at St. John's Seminary, Collegeville, Minn., said Pope Paul has expressed concern at a trend to "desacralize" the liturgy. The church itself is party to blame for the "present danger of a purely secular humanism attracting even the most deeply committed religiously committed persons," he said.

"While the church has fostered the worship of God, it has been largely left to those outside the church to implement effective love of one's fellow man," he said.

He recalled a priest who told his congregation they should not dare to say the Lord's Prayer or approach the altar for communion unless they were determined to work continually to overcome unchristian prejudices and to alleviate social, cultural and economic inequities.

"He was appalled by their almost shameless declaration that they had never before really associated racial justice and charity with receiving holy communion," Father Diekmann said.

Bishops Call for Aid for Families

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's Catholic bishops in a statement prepared for Labor Day have issued a call for help for Canadian families in meeting their economic needs.

The statement issued today says: "The last general census indicated that more than 50 per cent of the heads of families included in Canada's work force earned less than $4,000 annually."

The bishops recommended:

— Encouragement to the development of family associations and movements.

— Establishment within the government of agencies to deal specifically with the family, with representatives of family organizations invited to participate.

— Creation of a "diversified system of family benefits adapted to the needs of families

— Increase of present family allowances.

— Improvement of social elements deeply influencing the standard of living of families — especially education, leisure, housing, health and protection before the law.

Besides calling for support of families — "the primary agents of their own social betterment" — the statement acknowledged "the steps now being taken to protect consumers and to provide individual Canadians with better advice on how to spend their money."

Girl Watchers! Rally to the Fore! Those Clothes Are Made for Watching

By ROGER WORTH

Thousands of the "girls, girl-watchers, watch" are turning up on the the streets of Belleville this summer.

With the arrival of the "mini-mini and micro" outfits women can now dress to catch the man's eye — both on the streets and in offices throughout the city.

And they there's color — WOW — are the shades brilliant this year. The reddest reds and greenest greens make the women stand out against almost any background.

This is the first summer the really short outfits have hit the streets. In previous years the skirts were short but the hemline was never as high as it is at the present time.

The pacesetters with the shortened outfits were the "teeny-boppers"—copying the original "mod" fashions. However as summer has progressed, it now seems almost every young female in the city has shortened her summer attire by at least two inches.

The "in" fashion in the Quinte area is a number called the "coolot dress". To the untrained eye it appears to be a combination skirt and short outfit — if that's not a contradiction.

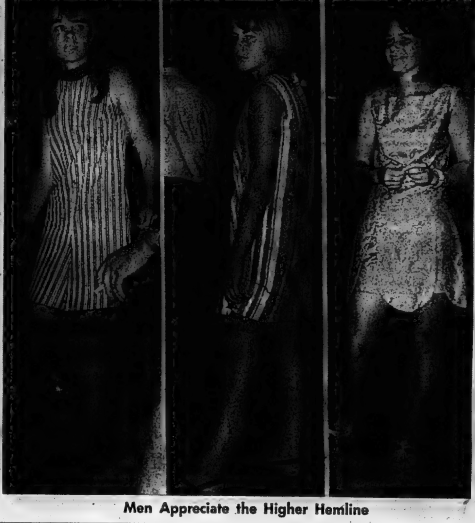
This type of outfit is also available in the shift style — and as the name suggests it's called a "coolot shift".

All outfits this season appear to have incorporated a great variety of highly colored stripes and prints as well as the glaring single color style.

Another popular fashion is the "scalloped tunic with jamaica shorts." This, as the name suggests, is a sort of scalloped shift dropped over a pair of jamaica sheets.

The original shift is again popular this season — but a change has been made in some cases. A few are showing brightly colored red or orange bloomers below the hemline — which may be as high as eight inches above the knee.

Many of the girls have taken a simple "coolot" when it comes to footwear—they're not wearing anything.



While this fashion appeals to many womenfolk and most of their male admirers, other, more conservative women are turning to the sandal.

Another addition to milady's wardrobe this season is a wide selection of sunglasses for all occasions. These run from the smallest, which almost cover the eye, to glasses which cover half the face.

Wide bracelets worn on the wrist are also fashionable, while hair styles run from the sublime to the ridiculous.

One of the startling changes this season is the use of identical dresses by girls traveling in groups. It's strange to see this innovation in what has been called "an age of nonconformity."

While many people criticize the changes in fashions — the age of the girl watcher seems to have reached a peak.

Men Appreciate the Higher Hemline

Mini-outfits Are Fashionable

Fashionable outfits for females are getting shorter and shorter. While this is a worthwhile trend during the summer months the girls may find it a little cool over the winter. Other changes in women's fashions include such items as three inch wide bracelets and the barefoot phenomenon.

Candidates Cover Political Gamut in Stretch Run

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Candidates for the leadership of the national Conservative party claimed and denied support, jumped for women in high places and rejected revolutions by barefoot hippies Tuesday as they entered the stretch in the race to unseat John Diefenbaker.

Here's how they made their latest pitch for the big prize at the leadership convention in Toronto Sept. 1-4:

George Hees: The average Canadian believes in him today "just as the ordinary man in the street believed in John Diefenbaker in 1958."

Duff Roblin: "I shall be very surprised if the Union Nationale party had any official interest in this campaign."

Davie Fulton: The Conservative party should take the lead in recognizing the quality of women in practical terms, bringing more women into the party and eventually into Parliament and the legislatures.

Wallace McCutcheon: "I feel that I have wide support across Canada."

Donald Fleming: "I don't like revolutions. ..... I haven't any hippies personally, but if I did I might like them."

Robert Stanfield, premier of Nova Scotia, took a respite from politics in a speech at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Guest of honor at a Nova Scotia Day luncheon, Mr. Stanfield said Nova Scotians have come to recognize the value of promotion, particularly in Central Canada.

"We are convinced that today we have a good deal to contribute to Canada," he said.

Mr. Hees, former trade minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet, made his "ordinary man" claim at a Montreal press conference. He said his party should base its leadership choice on sound policy and organization, not "by the curl of his hair, the color of his eyes or the cut of his suit."

Mr. Fulton, former justice minister, told a reception in Toronto the federal government should provide incentives to establish a network of day-care centres to help working mothers.

"Yet our public policy continues to cast shadows on the right of a mother to work and to earn."

Senator McCutcheon told a progress conference at St. Catharines, Ont., that he is going full speed in his bid to lead the party. He refused to speculate on his potential support at the convention.

In Ottawa it was announced that candidates Alvin Hamilton and Mr. Fulton have been promised new support by groups of young Conservatives.

Eight young Conservatives in Quebec issued a statement endorsing Mr. Fulton, while 25 young Conservatives across the country announced the formation of a committee to back Mr. Hamilton, former agriculture minister.

Enough Regionalism Now Claims Roblin

VICTORIA (CP)—Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin said Tuesday he would be surprised if the Quebec Union Nationale party supports his bid for the national Progressive Conservative leadership.

"I should be very surprised if the Union Nationale party had any official interest in this campaign," he told a news conference.

"It's a provincial party and I expect, much like any other provincial party, it sticks to its own."

However, he did say that many individual members of the Union Nationale may support his bid for the leadership.

There were reports from Quebec City Monday that Premier Daniel Johnson's Union Nationale, which has in the past supported Conservatives federally, was on the verge of rallying behind the Manitoba premier's leadership bid.

Mr. Roblin said he also hopes for substantial support from Ontario, adding:

"It would be most unfortunate if any candidate became identified with one region. We have enough regionalism already. What we need is a little more Canadianism."

He repeated earlier statements that the most pressing problems facing Canada today are national unity and the promotion of harmonious relations between English-and French-speaking Canadians.

Premier Roblin also said he wants to make his stand clear "on this monarchy business."

"I can see no reason why the constitutional monarchy, with Queen Elizabeth as the Queen of Canada, should not be an instrument of national unity.

"The monarchy should be above politics, and if it didn't exist we would probably have to invent something like it," he said.

Asked if he favored special status for Quebec, Premier Roblin replied that province has always had special status under the terms of the British North America Act.

"The national government must have the power and resources necessary to fill the role of national government," he said.

"Once that is secured, we must be as generous as possible and find measures needed to make French - speaking Canadians more at ease and more at home."

The premier ended a two-day visit to British Columbia Tuesday night.

Tributes to Be at Minimum

TORONTO CP — Tributes to John Diefenbaker at the Progressive convention next month will be limited to a presentation, partly to conform with Mr. Diefenbaker's preferences and partly to be fair to the candidates seeking his job, the convention co-chairman said Tuesday.

E. A. Goodman and MP Roger Regimbal, the co - chairmen said in a statement that the short presentation to Mr. Diefenbaker Sept 7, was agreed upon by the convention committee after considerable discussion June 25-26.

The statement followed criticism by Keith Martin, head of a Youth for Diefenbaker movement, who said he was surprised that there would be no formal tribute to Mr. Diefenbaker.

The co-chairmen said the convention committee felt that this might be unfair to the leadership candidates in the event Mr. Diefenbaker should become a candidate.

"It was further indicated that Mr. Diefenbaker would prefer that the speeches of the keynoters themselves set the tone and pace of the entire convention, rather than acknowledging the great contribution that Mr. Diefenbaker himself has made in the service of our country and our party."

Canadians For Me: Hees

MONTREAL (CP) — George Hees, candidate for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, said Tuesday the average Canadian believes in him today "just as the ordinary man in the street believed in John Diefenbaker in 1958."

Speaking at a press conference, Mr. Hees said his party should base its leadership choice on sound policy and organization, not "by the curl of his hair, the color of his eyes or the cut of his suit."

In reply to a question on special constitutional status for Quebec, Mr. Hees said he considers all parts of the country themselves set the tone and pace of the entire convention, special with "special problems and special solutions."

Quebec Vote To Be Split

MONTREAL (CP)—A number of candidates for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party have sold support in Quebec, Paul-O. Trepanier, president of the Quebec Progressive Conservative Association, said Tuesday.

Mr. Trepanier said Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin has the support of "about 200" of the province's 335 delegates to the province's 335 delegates.

Other candidates who have sold Quebec backing are George Hees, Davie Fulton and Donald Fleming, Mr. Trepanier said.

Fleming Encourages Youth

TORONTO (CP) — Donald Fleming says hippies don't come under federal jurisdiction.

At the opening of his Progressive Conservative leadership headquarters Tuesday, he encountered a barefoot youth who wanted to know his opinion on "the youth social revolution."

"I don't like revolutions," Mr. Fleming said.

"I haven't met any hippies personally," he added, "but if I did I might like them."

The former finance minister said the Company of Young Canadians has received publicity alleging that it is not acting in keeping with the standards in communities where it operates.

But Mr. Fleming said he was in favor of encouraging young people with a sense of mission to help other young people.

In a policy release, Mr. Fleming said the school system should provide exit points where an individual may move from regular schooling to the skill training for a specific job.

"Retraining is not the great a price to pay for the acquisition of useful immigrants," he said.

"The recent withdrawal of the benefits of such programs from immigrants until after they have spent at least three years as members of the Canadian labor force is regrettable."

Full Speed: McCutcheon

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Senator Wallace McCutcheon said Tuesday he is going full speed for top prize in his bid to lead the Progressive Conservative party.

Senator McCutcheon told a press conference prior to a meeting with area delegates to next month's leadership convention in Toronto that his seriousness is proven by his nomination as Conservative candidate in the federal riding of York Simcoe.

He refused to speculate in his potential support at the convention.

"Too many of my friends already have red faces. I feel that I have wide support across Canada."

Unhappy Over Quebec: Stanfield

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia, candidate for the Progressive Conservative leadership, said Tuesday the most urgent task his party faces is improving its role in Quebec.

At a news conference at the Canadian National Exhibition, he said he is unhappy with the party's performance in Quebec since Confederation.

He said: "Just because something is proposed from Quebec, English - speaking Canadians suppose this is striking at the heart of the constitution."

He said the problem with Quebec and the other provinces is the federal government's tendency to use the power of the purse to dictate policy to the provinces in matters of provincial jurisdiction.

Mr. Stanfield said he was not in favor of scrapping present welfare plans in an effort to lower taxes.

Taxes are likely to go up rather than down in view of escalating education costs, he said.

Mr. Stanfield said he is in agreement with an "upward revision" of unemployment payments.

He has not yet made up his mind whether to resign as premier before the PC leadership conference in Toronto Sept. 5-9.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

Staff Sportswriter

The National Baseball League, famous for its tight pennant races down through the years, is taking a back seat to the American loop this season.

The St. Louis Cardinals, despite the loss of pitching mainstay Bob Gibson with a broken leg, are coasting along with a healthy lead over the rest of the National clubs.

Chicago Cubs, exciting all the baseball world with an earlier pennant bid, have fallen down into a six-way battle for runner-up honors, with Cincinnati, San Francisco, Atlanta, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Gone entirely from the pitcher are the Los Angeles Dodgers. Only the faithful Mets and Astros prevent the Koufax-less Dodgers from occupying a basement apartment.

Another disappointment in the National is the Pirates, playing below .500 ball. Last summer, Manny Wills would have given Pittsburgh a pennant but spring-training they acquired his services a year too late.

At one time or another, just about every club has threatened to take a serious run at the Cards' perch but a slump always seems to follow the surge.

Barring another Coogan's Bluff miracle, it's just a matter of the Cards playing out the schedule in '67. In 1968, St. Louis finished in third place, 12 games back of the Dodgers. Now they will try for their second world series victory in four years.

But over in the American, five clubs are staging a terrific struggle that threatens to go right down to the final day of the schedule.

And this one too is a race of surprises.

They would have called for the men in white coats last spring had anyone suggested that the world champion Baltimore Orioles would be fighting it out with the Yankees and Kansas City for last place in August.

Some people point to triple crown winner Frank Robinson's injury as one of the reasons for their position. But the Orioles were down there before he was hurt and the big guy is still enjoying a fine year at the plate with a .324 average.

But, if the Baltimore plunge is a surprise, how about those Boston Red Sox and the California Angels?

Boston finished 26 games off the pace, in 9th position, last year while California wound up sixth, 13 games back of the birds.

Now, on August 23, the Bosox and Angels are right up there helping Chicago White Sox, Minnesota Twins and Detroit Tigers stage one of the hottest fights in many a moon for the coveted flag.

The White Sox, with Gary Peters leading a fine mound staff, guts our nod for the marbles since picking up hitting help with Johnny Romano.

Many feel that the Twins' momentum which carried them to the top will continue long enough to get them the pennant. If they handle the White Sox in their remaining three games, as they did their last series, it sure will be interesting. Three-three games, by the way, are in Chicago on September 15, 16 and 17.

However, unless you have been faithful to one or the other of these two clubs for some time, who can help but pull for one of the underdog squads, such as Boston, to steal the glory?

It has been a long, long while since Detroit or Boston has made the big series. What a ten party they would throw in Boston!

The clubs have been buying pennant insurance where possible but in a race this close, one bad break or an injury can tell the story.

With just a little over a month to run in the schedule, and every game a big one, the American League tornadoes will sing a happy tune throughout September.

Bosox, Tigers Make It Tighter Yet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Scott was in a daze for a little while and Dick McAuliffe was temporarily in the dark, but when they recovered it was the American League pennant race that was in a real state of confusion.

Scott was kicked on the back of the head while making a play to base in Boston's 3-1 victory over Washington Senators in the first game of a double-header Tuesday night.

But he played all of the second game and drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single, sparking the Red Sox to a 5-3 victory.

McAuliffe, who drove in two runs with a homer in Detroit's 7-3 (11) win in a victory over Minnesota Twins, tripled in the 11th inning of the victory. Then, with one out and Willie Horton up, relief pitcher Al Worthington uncorked a wild pitch.

However, because Horton is a right-handed hitter, McAuliffe had trouble seeing and was not sure the pitch was wild until he saw the ball rolling toward the wall. He then scampered home for a 3-1 Detroit victory.

Meanwhile, Chicago White Sox split their doubleheader with New York Yankees. The Sox won 3-2 and then lost 2-1.

After the smoke had cleared, Chicago was in first, one percentage point ahead of Boston and a game ahead of Minnesota and Detroit. Minnesota was a percentage point in front of fourth-place Detroit.

Luis Tiant set a single game high of 18 strikeouts for the majors this season as Cleveland Indians edged California Angels 2-1 and Baltimore Orioles beat Kansas City Athletics 2-1 before losing to the Athletics' 8-1 in other American League games.

Scott came up with the bases loaded in the seventh inning of the second game and the Red Sox trailing 3-2.

Instead of trying for a home run, the right-handed slugger simply hit the ball where it was pitched and stroked it into right field to drive in two runs. The Red Sox then scored a third run in the inning on a sacrifice fly.

In the first game, Boston broke a scoreless tie when Jose Tartabull opened the seventh with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Reggie Smith's single.

Tartabull was the first batter to face Senators' reliever Joe Grzenda, who took his ninth loss against seven victories.

As the leading clubs staged their battle for first place, Toronto Maple Leafs continued to plummet toward the basement. The Leafs managed only five hits against southpaw Bill Short in a 2-1 defeat at Toronto.

In other games, Jacksonville Suns received one-hit pitching from Tug McGraw in a 3-0 triumph over Syracuse Chiefs and Toledo Mud Hens split a doubleheader with Buffalo Bisons.

Ottawa vs. Ticats

Time To Separate Men From Boys?

Stamps vs. Esks

HAMILTON (CP) — The biggest task facing coach Ralph Sazio when his Hamilton Tiger-Cats play Ottawa Rough Riders in an Eastern Football Conference game will be getting his club rolling.

Once the most feared offensive and defensive squad in Canada, the Ticats, after finishing second in the conference last year, now find themselves in the unenviable position of having to justify themselves.

Unfortunately for Sazio, whose team lost badly to Edmonton Eskimos in their opener and won about as badly against Montreal Alouettes, Ottawa is the toughest team in the conference to either pass or run against.

They also, incidentally, have the best passing game in the conference under quarterback Russ Jackson and are second only to Montreal in rushing.

Where the Ticats have a total net offence of 556 yards, Ottawa has 796 and where Hamilton has given up a total of 517 yards, Ottawa has given up 630.

Jackson has passed for 672 yards to 463 for Joe Zuger and Ottawa runners have churned out 373 yards in 43 carries to 180 for Hamilton in 30 rushes.

The only area where Coach Frank Clair has only to replace guard Mike Waldersack, out with torn rib cartilage, with Tom Schoette and dress halfback Don Gilbert in case half Bo Scott's injured ankle is aggravated, Sazio has wholesale changes to make.

Probably the biggest hole Sazio has to fill is at end where he had 14-year veteran Hal Patterson until last Thursday when Montreal Roughriders Al Kreyer caught Patterson wide open taking a pass and ruptured his spleen.

Operated on in Montreal hospital and now recovering there, Patterson probably is finished as a football player and having veteran Dave Viti serve as both offensive and defensive end can only be a stop-gap answer.

Viti will hold down both positions in tonight's game, starting at 8 p.m. EDT and broadcast on the CTV eastern network. Former Ottawa all-star Ted Watkins will be at the other end and Tommy-Joe Coffey and Tommy Grant will work basically as flankers.

In addition, Sazio is moving tackle John Barrow back on defence, where he's been an all-star since joining the club after a stint at offence. But he's leaving Angelo Mosca on offence, after years of terrorizing enemy quarterbacks from his defensive tackle slot.

An added concern is the knee of linebacker Herb Paterra, injured in the club's season opener against Edmonton and still a major question mark.

As a possible replacement for Paterra, club Saturday picked up Gene Donaldson, who can play fullback, linebacker or defensive end. Donaldson last season was with Toronto after failing to make the Hamilton team.

CALGARY (CP) — Coach Bill Armstrong of Edmonton Eskimos said Tuesday he is ready for anything Calgary Stampeders can do to stop halfback Jim Thomas — even to protecting him with his life.

"If they're going to shoot him, the bullets will have to go through me first before they get to Thomas," Armstrong joked after bringing his team to Calgary where they meet the Stampeders tonight.

That was Armstrong's answer to the suggestion of general manager Roger Lebow of the Stampeders that the only sure way to defend against Thomas from our defence."

is to "shoot him when he comes out of the dressing room."

On a more serious level, Armstrong's forecast after watching Calgary game films was: "Trouble. We've got to stop their passing and (Calgary quarterback) Peter) Liske is hard to rush."

Thomas, who joined the Eskimos in 1960, has collected a leading 42 points in the Western Football Conference this season and scored three touchdowns as Edmonton mauled Toronto Argonauts 32-10 Saturday.

Labour and coach Jerry Williams of Calgary agreed their defence can't concentrate on Thomas alone but, as Williams said, Thomas' ability to reverse his field "calls for great pursuit

Both clubs offer strong defensive squads and Calgary's effective protection blocking comes up against a rush that ran Toronto quarterback Wally Gabler ragged in Edmonton Saturday.

Match Play Starts

Juniors Find Course Tough

TORONTO (CP)—This is the day the 64 qualifiers in the Canadian junior golf tournament discover that no one can unload a bad round in match-play.

The 64 qualified during the 36-hole medal-play tournament Monday and Tuesday and many discovered just how treacherous the 6,641-yard par-70 Toronto Golf Club course can be.

The first-round leaders failed to match their opening-day scores in a stiff southwest wind that made the small, hard greens difficult.

Tim McCutcheon, 16, of Peterborough was the low qualifier with 147, but the 1960 Canadian juvenile champion also ran into trouble on the greens. He four-putted 17 via three strokes off his opening pace that had given him a tie for first place.

Meanwhile, Ian Thomas of London, Ont., who had Mike McCutcheon for the lead with a 72 during the opening round, could not find the range and carded an 81 for a two-round total of 153.

Doug Stewart of Vancouver also had 81 victim in the trick greens and wind. After tying Jay Pankhurst of Port Arthur for third place with 71 in the opening round, Stewart finished the final 18 holes with 82 for 153.

Pankhurst, 18, was the most consistent of the low scorers during the two day. He was the only two off his first-round pace during Tuesday's round to finish 72-75—148 and take sole possession of second place.

Tom Morgan, the 1956 final qualifier from Port Hamilton, B.C., had an 80 on the final round for a 36-hole total of 157.

James Burford of Toronto and Dale Tallon, a native of Noranda, Que., now living in Oshawa, tied for third place with 158a. Manfred Bracvac of Port Arthur and Peter Lago of Guelph followed with 159.

John Watson and Dave Hill, both of Winnipeg, tied with Mike Mooney of Fort Dever, Alta., at 152, while Ian Thomas of London, Ont., Steve Bannatyne of Winnipeg and Laurence Branford of Saskatoon followed with 153.

Manitoba was the interprovincial team championship with a four-man total of 619 for the 36 holes. The championship was held in conjunction with the championship's qualifying round and the individual scores also counted in the 36-hole test.

British Columbia was second with 626, Nova Scotia third with 632, and defending champion Ontario fourth at 633.

The others were Alberta 635, Saskatchewan 646, Quebec 655, N.B.-P.E.I. 671 and Newfoundland.

Nicklaus Rejects World Golf

TORONTO (CP) — Chagrined officials of the $50,000 world golf championship today announced that Jack Nicklaus will not take part in the Sept. 1-4 event at Woodbridge, Ont.

They report that Nicklaus told tournament director Dick Taylor of Cleveland he chose to spend the Labor Day holiday with his family in Florida.

The officials noted that while Nicklaus, an automatic qualifier because of his standing on the Professional Golfers Association tour, had never officially filed an application for the world event, he had made "a definite verbal commitment to take part."

The officials said Nicklaus told Taylor he is committed to the Westchester Open this week, the World Series after Labor Day and a fall trip to Australia and the Orient.

"I have to have some time with my family," they quoted Nicklaus as saying.

Wants Full Control

Finley Says 'O Is For Owner'

KANSAS CITY AP — An open player revolt and the firing of manager Alvin Dark are the latest incidents in the stormy seven-year baseball career of Charles O. Finley, maverick owner of Kansas City Athletics of the American League.

"The O is for owner," says the white-haired, 50-year-old Chicago insurance executive, who never leaves any doubt that he is in full control of his baseball club.

He has been involved in more reports of possible franchise shifts than any owner in baseball.

He was on the brink of expulsion from the American League by his fellow club owners in January, 1964, after a long, bitter, complex, sixth-month lease dispute with city officials.

The owners backed the city to the limit and ordered Finley to sign a four-year lease or be expelled from the league.

Finley feels too many baseball men are stodgy, don't want to change and don't realize the need to fight harder for the entertainment dollar.

Finley's lease here ends after this season and he says he's considering moving the club. Whether the Athletics wind up in Oakland, Seattle, Milwaukee, New Orleans or some other city, you can be certain Finley will be in the middle of the action.

Cards Romp 9-0

Cepeda Haunts Ex-mates

By DICK COUCH
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis has been crashing in on last year's Orlando Cepeda-Ray Sadecki sweep for a long while, but Cepeda still won't let San Francisco Giants off the hook.

The slugging first baseman tagged Sadecki for a run-scoring single and a three-run homer Tuesday night, backing Nelson Briles' four-hit pitching and powering the National League-leading Cardinals to a 9-0 romp over the Giants.

Cepeda, dealt from San Francisco to the Cards in May, 1966, for southpaw Sadecki, was 3-for-5 against the Giants and boosted his batting mark to .344 —only two points short of the league leader Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh.

Sadecki, meanwhile, lasted 1 1-3 innings, committed an error, wild-pitched two runs home and wound up with his fifth loss in 10 decisions.

In other NL action Philadelphia Phillies swept a doubleheader from New York Mets 2-0 and 11-4; Cincinnati Reds trimmed Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3; Chicago Cubs drubbed Pittsburgh Pirates 8-1 and Houston Astros spanked Atlanta Braves 4-1.

The Cardinals, who had dropped five in a row, jumped on Sadecki for three runs in the first inning and clubbed him in the fifth on Julian Javier's single, the pitcher's fielding error and Cepeda's 22nd homer.

Larry Jackson, bested by the Mets last week after reeling off 13 straight victories at their expense, started a new string in the nightcap at New York as Rich Allen paced a 14-hit assault with his 22nd and 23rd homers.

Finley feels too many baseball men are stodgy, don't want to change and don't realize the need to fight harder for the entertainment dollar.

Finley's lease here ends after this season and he says he's considering moving the club. Whether the Athletics wind up in Oakland, Seattle, Milwaukee, New Orleans or some other city, you can be certain Finley will be in the middle of the action.

Tuna Win First Round

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—The tuna won the first round of the International Tuna Cup match here Tuesday as they eluded some of the world's best saltwater anglers in waters off Southwest Nova Scotia.

With 216 days of fishing remaining, the pressure was on as 18 boats invaded narrow, tide-swept Soldier's Rip off Wedgeport and Cape St. Mary today in an attempt to even the odds.

Teams from Canada, the United States, Mexico and the Caribbean are competing for the Alton B. Sharp Trophy, donated by the Boston sportsman who helped organize the first international match in 1937.

As the 27 competitors prepared to sail this morning, fog again dampened spirits but there were indications it would lift later in the day.

Although no fish were taken Tuesday, enough bluefin were sighted at both locations to justify an even more intensive effort today.

Minor Baseball

Brian Cousins led his team on the mound and at the plate as Red Boys defeated IBEW 6-1 in the first game of their city championship peewee series.

Cousins combined with Dan Coulson for a four - hit effort, and slammed a homer, double and single at bat.

The Red Boy pitching duo walked four and struck out 10. Mike Burley and Allan Wood allowed 11 hits and fanned nine for the losers.

Andy Ricketts clouted three singles, Coulson and Mark Kent had two base hits each, and Mike Ball one safety, for the winners.

Stephen Burke, Terry Collins, John Ashley and Allan Wood hit for IBEW.

Dominion Lawn Bowling

Tournament Nears End

MONTREAL (CP)—One division of the Canadian lawn bowling championships has been decided, another division will need a playoff after today's seventh round to determine a winner and the third division could end up in a tie for first place.

Ken Jones of London, Ont., captured the singles championship with a record of five victories and no losses after six rounds with today's seventh and final round still to go.

Jones defeated Hugh Walker of Montreal 21-10 in a fourth-round singles match Tuesday and walloped Harvie Wheaat of Vancouver 21-5 in a fifth-round match. He drew a bye in the fifth and has 18 points.

Jones' closest rivals are Wheaat, Walker and Joe Church of Calgary, all with 3-2 won-lost records and six points in the standings.

A playoff will be necessary to determine the doubles champions as Harry Justason and Ernest Munro of Calgary have a 4-2 won-lost record and eight points in the standings with no games left to play.

Saskatchewan's twosome of Bill Postlewaite and Jim Crawley of Saskatoon, Manitoba's pair of Dutch McGurk and Ed Brown and British Columbia's twosome of Bill Hamilton and David Lowden all have six points in the standings on the strength of 3-3 records with one game each to play.

Commercial Playoffs

Stinson's, City Win Openers

Stinson's shaded Black Diamond Cheese 3-1 and City Hotel overcame a 5-0 deficit to dump Lightfoots 6-5 as the Commercial Softball League playoffs opened with a doubleheader at the Alemite last night.

Second games in both sets are scheduled for the same place tonight.

Lightfoots scored four in the second to take their 5-0 lead and they stayed in front 5-1 until City struck for four, aided by errors, in the fifth. Again, Lightfoots pulled ahead 6-5 but a final trio in the sixth gave the Hotelmen their win.

Gerry Genereaux replaced Ray Reynolds on the City mound in the second frame and hurled the victory. They gave up seven hits, only three by Genereaux over five innings. He struck out four and passed one. Paquette fanned two and walked three in his brief stay.

John French took the loss with Don Smith winding it up. Errors and 11 hits banged French the loss. He struck out two and walked one. Smith passed one.

Bob Brooks slammed a triple and two singles to pace the winners. Genereaux had two doubles, Dave Feeney and Doug Hull a double and single each. Brian Smith and Gerner added singles.

Ken Goodfellow and French each bag a double and single for Lightfoots. Bob Rattenbury contributed a two-run homer, Terry Casselman a double and Don Smith a single.

Ken Genereaux doubled home Stinson's first run following Lyle Thompson's single and Don Forsythe's double, after a walk, made it 2-0. The Cheesemen got one back in the sixth and loaded the bases but a big double play killed that threat.

Bob Fraser tripled in the seventh to give them the lead and with that the equalizer.

Bob Royle pitched Stinson's win and Bob Swan hurled for the losing Black Diamond team.

No other details are available.

Quinte Trap Club Holds Annual Shoot

The Quinte Trap and Gun League held their annual postseason shoot at the Belleville Gun Club last night, with teams from Madoc, Belleville, Frankford, Picton, Cobourg and Campbellford competing.

In the 16 yard 50 singles event, Earl Marvin and Bert Singer took 47 of Picton, came within a whisker of perfection with scores of 49. Lloyd Blue, Madoc, George Roberts, Frankford, and Doug Clark, Dennis Fraser and Lloyd Colbourg, ski scored 46. Next came Bob Pope, Belleville, 45, Duff Folkard, Picton, and Dennis Holdsworth, Cobourg, 44, Ken Sisely, Campbellford, 43, Jim Cole and Harry Levitt, Picton, and Andy Carr, Belleville, 42, Jim Hughes, Picton, 41, and Gordon Bates and Doug Johnson, Belleville, 40. K. Landsmen of no fixed club scored 40.

Harry Leavitt led the field in the International event, with a score of 21. Three Belleville shooters, Lynn Reynolds, Andy Carr and Doug Johnston, broke 21, as did Duff Folkard of Picton. Lloyd Blue, Madoc, Ken Sisely, Campbellford, and Earl Marvin, Bert Singer, and Jim Hughes of Picton, had ..

Bert Singer was a clear first in doubles, with 26 out of a possible 30. Earl Marvin scored 24. George Roberts, 23, Lynn Reynolds, Gordon Bates, Jim Hughes and Jim Cole 22, Doug Johnson and Dick Thompson 21, and Ken Sisely 20.

Over all, Bert Singer nosed out teammate Earl Marvin by a score of 95 to 93. Lloyd Blue was third with 94, Ken Sisely and Jim Hughes broke 92, Duff Folkard scored 91, Jim Cole 90, Bob Pope 78 and Dick Thompson, 75.

Shannonville Nips Read

Shannonville stole a page out of Read's book on "how to win ball games" last night.

And the theft was successful enough to give Shannonville a 3-2 win over Read in the first of seven South Hastings Baseball League finals.

Shannonville scored three runs after two were out in the bottom of the fifth and final frame to nip Read 3-2.

Darkness halted play at the end of the fifth inning. Second game in the series is slated for the Read diamond Thursday, at 6:30.

Read, after making a habit of pulling out late wins, took a 2-0 lead with losers in the first and third.

Shannonville got the tying markers on base with a walk and error in the fifth but two men were out before Larry Lewis' base hit loaded the sacks. Rod Hill slammed a long single to tie it 3-3 and Bill Barberstock added the third Shannonville single to bring home the winner.

Barberstock had an earlier two-run homer. Lewis also had a two - bagger for the winners' five - hit total. Read also had five hits, all singles, with Harold Pascoe getting two, Gerry Brennan, Ken Abrams and Ed Lester one each.

Dave Lewis struck out six and walked four while pitching the victory. Harold Pascoe had three strikeouts and four walks in a losing effort.

Maracle Fans 20

Errors Kill Cementmen

Nine errors by his mates ruined Ken Maracle's fine pitching effort, as Point Anne lost 8-2 to Batterses in the OASA Intermediate "C" playoffs last night.

Maracle struck out 20 and gave up five hits, but failed to receive any support in the field, in taking the loss. The game was the first in a best-of-three set, with play resuming on Thursday night at Point Anne, at 6 o'clock.

The winners notched three runs in the second on two errors, three errors and a triple. They added the same in the fifth, before Point Anne replied with their first tally. Batterses batter Charley Convery threw steadily in the final innings to preserve the win.

Convery pitched well, but his big edge on Maracle was his team. Convery fanned nine and limited the same number of hits as Maracle, while walking a pair.

Maracle struck out the side twice although his control was not up to par, as he walked five and hit one batter. Every opposing player died of a strikeout at least once, with some fanning four times.

Bob Oakyoe slammed two singles, Garnet Ball tripled, Ball doubled and John Ball singled, for Batterses.

Starting Dick Rossbush was the only Point Anne player with two hits, a double and single. Catcher Dave Akey, Gerry Maher and Jerry Hill had base hits.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — With it's a familiar feel of his favorite track beneath his hooves, Native Victor, half - brother to Canada's famed thoroughbred Northern Dancer, easily won his first race at Greenwood on Tuesday after spending the early season in Winnipeg.

The crowd of 6,876 seemingly forgot that Victor won the 1965 Fairbanks Handicap over Victorian Era and Fyalong, and sent him away as only third favorite in the seventh race here.

The son of Victoria Park-Natima returned $10 and paired with runner-up Butterscotch for a $33.80 exactor.

Handguns

Louis Kulwar and Reg Sprakett led the Quinte marksmen last night with identical scores of 363. Don Parks followed closely with 361, while F. Allen had 353 and Joe Heinbach 336.

This Romeo Is Cockney, Juliet Is Mini-skirted

ROME (AP)—Romeo recently turned 21 and speaks cockney. Juliet is 15 and addicted to mini-skirts and the Beatles. Both are somewhat frightened about the future.

Shakespearean directors long have been intrigued with casting the lovers as the teen-agers they were supposed to have been. They had been dismayed by the fact that such youthful performers would doubtless lack the skill to polish the lustre of the language.

Now comes Franco Zeffirelli, the audacious Florentine who, when nothing seems impossible to the man who directed the "Taming of the Shrew."

He abandoned the modern tradition of playing Romeo and Juliet with adult and sometimes middle-aged lead. He returned to the original conception—and as it was done in the musical-movie version in West Side Story—of two teen-agers caught in an adult world of hate and strife.

The new Romeo and Juliet were enjoying a few days' rest while the Montagues and Capulets battled under the Roman sun at Cinecitta studios. I found Romeo (Leonard Whiting of London) at a luxurious villa on the outskirts of Rome. The actors are staying near the studio.

I did The Tempest and one of the tragedies when I was in school" he said, "but otherwise I didn't have much contact with Shakespeare."

Whiting started acting at 13 as the Artful Dodger in the London run of Oliver. He was appearing in Laurence Olivier's Love for Love for the National Theatre when he heard of auditions for Romeo and Juliet.

Juliet—Olivia Hussey—is even more experienced than her co-star, having appeared for two years in the London play, The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, starring Vanessa Redgrave, and in two films, including The Battle of the Villa Fiorita with Maureen O'Hara and Rossano Brazzi.

She was born in Buenos Aires to an Argentine opera singer and an English mother. Her father died when she was two, and she moved to London, where her mother works as a secretary.

Agency Now Settling Immigrants

Canada Manpower, the government agency for the placement of individuals into jobs has taken over the settlement of immigrants coming into this country. This new responsibility came to Manpower because of a recent change in the department of Immigration and Citizenship.

The Belleville office took over settling immigrants this July although the program had been instituted in other parts of the country at an earlier date.

Settlement of immigrants was previously looked after by the immigration division of the government agency. The switch was made since newcomers to the country most inevitably turn to Manpower to register for employment and the sooner the immigrant begins his search for a job the better.

Jim Stavely, who is charge of immigration at the Belleville office commented that "in some cases these newcomers do not even realize that a government agency to aid them in their search for jobs exists."

The program has been extremely successful throughout the country so far.

Moira

MOIRA — Members of the Fuller and Moira communities gathered in Moira Community Hall Thursday night to honor Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hawley, a recently married couple. Douglas Farrell was master of ceremonies and Mrs. David Mumby and Irwin Foote played musical selections. Gifts were presented by each community.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Findlay and family have taken possession of their new home at the Milton Vanderkloet farm.

Mrs. Angus Mumby is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Frank Vanderwater is holidaying at the home of her son, Fred Eggleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Vanderwater, Rhonda and Jimmie and Mrs. Edith Vanderwater were honored at a presentation party in Moira Community Hall before their departure to live in Belleville.

Opposition to Duplessis Resulted in Prelate's Dismissal

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. John McDonough, a Toronto Dominican, has written a play depicting Roman Catholic authorities ordering the late Pope Pius XII — as forcing the resignation of a controversial Canadian archbishop under pressure from the then Quebec premier, Maurice Duplessis.

Central character of the Kaleidoscope play, set 17 years ago, is Most Rev. Joseph Charbonneau, who resigned in 1950 as Archbishop of Montreal. He died in Victoria in November, 1956, at the age of 67.

The play, entitled Charbonneau and Le Chef The Chief — Mr. Duplessis, is to be published some time next spring, a spokesman for publishers McClelland and Stewart said Tuesday.

Mr. Duplessis died in September, 1959.

Father McDonough, 43, educated at Louvain University, Belgium, and Oxford, teaches philosophy at Centennial College in suburban Scarborough.

His play depicts Archbishop Charbonneau's resignation as brought about by Mr. Duplessis because the prelate sided with the workers in a bloody, five-month - long asbestos miners' strike in Quebec.

In an interview Tuesday, Father McDonough said he does not see his play as an attack on the church.

"I intended to dramatize a sad allegories the significance of what took place at that time.

"The people are as much to blame as the civil and church authorities in that they re-elected Duplessis in 1952."

"What I tried to dramatize is that a tragedy like Charbonneau's banishment occurred because the people, the government and the church chose political expediency in place of truth and justice."

During the 1949 strike by 5,000 asbestos workers, the Catholic Confederation of Labor, now the Confederation of National Trade Unions, struck five asbestos mining firms in the area of Asbestos, Que. The miners sought a 15-cent raise in their hourly pay to $1 and a number of fringe benefits.

The strike was settled with terms broadly favorable to the workers. Six months later, Archbishop Charbonneau resigned.

In an incident in the play, Archbishop Charbonneau preaches a sermon denouncing the Duplessis government's use of police force in the strike.

He says: "There is today a conspiracy on the part of the government and foreign - owned industry to weaken the working man into a state of economic slavery."

Father McDonough says this defense of the strikers against "the tyranny of the Duplessis government and the American-owned companies" brought the archbishop into "direct conflict with the government and certain ultra-conservative prelates."

Father McDonough told an interviewer: "Six months after the end of the asbestos strike, Charbonneau was informed by the Vatican that he must resign as archbishop of Montreal. No explanation was given, no trial granted him."

Father McDonough says that although he took dramatic licence with the historical material, the story is "substantially

A&P It isn't easy to buy bean coffee!

Nowadays, very few stores offer you bean coffee.

Why does A&P still offer coffees in the bean?

Basically, because "We Care."

Specifically, because we know these facts:

The coffee bean is nature's seal that holds the flavour.

Once that seal is broken by grinding, flavour fades...

NO MATTER HOW IT'S PACKAGED.

The shorter the time between grinding the beans and brewing your coffee, the greater the flavour.

So if you want the finest cup of coffee you've ever tasted, buy and brew one of A&P's three Bean Coffee blends... Eight O'Clock, Red Circle or Bokar.

Not every store can offer you custom-ground bean coffee. A&P can and does.

Shouldn't A&P be your store?

Lake Carriers' President Calls SIU Demands Wishful Dreams

MONTREAL (CP)—J. W. McGiffin, president of the Canadian Lake Carriers Association, fired off a blast Tuesday at the "wishful dreams" of striking Great Lakes sailors.

He said in a statement that demands served by the Seafarers' International Union for a 40-hour week, better benefits "belong to a never-never land of fantasy, not to the world of today's workable facts."

Negotiators for 32 inland shipping companies—including Mr. McGiffin who is president of Canada Steamship Lines—have not met with SIU representatives since talks broke off shortly after the strike by 5,400 seafarers began at noon Thursday.

Earlier Tuesday two unions representing 1,300 marine engineers and ships' officers not on strike sent telegrams of protest to Labor Minister Nicholson saying their union members have been "locked out" from work on the strike-bound ships.

By afternoon only a handful of the 32-company fleet of 181 ships were still operating along the St. Lawrence River system.

SIU officials landed to minimize the effects of their wage, fringe benefits and hours demands which could cost the companies as much as 76 per cent more a year, the statement said.

Earlier Tuesday, the Canadian Marine Officers Union, representing 1,200 marine engineers, sent a telegram to the labor minister asking for his immediate intervention "to require the companies to resume employment of the engineers."

President Gilbert Gauthier said his men had been "paid off and sent home" by the shipowners although they had always been kept aboard for security reasons during previous strikes by other unions.

A second telegram came from the Ottawa office of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, representing 4,000 ships' officers, mates and captains. It too protested a "lockout" by the companies.

The marine engineers, whose last contract expired June 1, are due to begin negotiations for a labor agreement with the companies today.

PICTON — The 4-H Homemaking Club Achievement Day for leaders and members will be held, Tuesday, August 29th at the Community Centre, Picton, Fair Grounds. 94 members are expected to complete the project "Gardens" — Home Beautification". For those planning to attend the afternoon program there will be a colorful display of flower arrangements and vegetables from the members' gardens. Visitors will also enjoy the club exhibits and demonstrations on gardening and home beautification topics.

4-H ACTIVITIES

This week sees the end of the meetings for the 4-H Calf Clubs in Prince Edward. These will be held in the Board Room of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, Picton at 8.00 o'clock.

Dates are: Milford and District Calf Club Wednesday August 23; Club, Wednesday, August 23; and A District Calf Club, Thursday, August 24.

Monday, August 28th is the final date for the Prince Edward 4-H Corn and Barley Clubs. It will begin at 8.00 - m. sharp in the Board Room of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, Picton Judging will inspect of a class of corn and a class of barley will also take place.

BUS TOUR COMPLETED

The annual Eastern Ontario and Quebec Bus Tour was held August 13 to 18. Two delegates represented Prince Edward on this trip which was planned to provide a broadening citizenship experience for a carefully selected group of rural young people. They were Donald Wilbanks, No. 3, Picton and Daryl Osterhout, No. 2, Consecon. 43 delegates from various counties in Ontario took part.

The tour included visits to Upper Canada Village; B. H. Saunders St. Lawrence Generating Station; Expo; Quebec City; MacDonald College; Provincial Agricultural Institute of Technology (St. Hyacinth) and several farming operations in both provinces.

Federal Mediator Tries To Avert Ferry Strike

MONCTON (CP)—A Federal mediator hopes to get the CNR and its East-Coast ferry workers around the bargaining table at least once more before a strike scheduled for Friday noon goes into effect.

Horace R. Pettigrove of Fredericton, appointed by the federal government to mediate the dispute that threatens to tie up ferries operating between Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, and Nova Scotia and Maine, said in an interview Tuesday night there is a possibility negotiations will be resumed today.

However, there was no guarantee that new talks will be held in time to avert the strike — the second this month on the ferry runs between North Sydney, N.S., and Port aux Basques, Nfld., and Yarmouth, N.S., and Bar Harbor, Me.

The 1,050 ferry crewmembers, represented by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, are seeking a $100 across-the-board monthly wage increase over 24 months. The CNR, which earlier offered $75 a month, made a new offer Tuesday—but it was rejected.

The new offer promised an increase of $100 over a 21½-month period.

Lloyd K. Abbott, Atlantic region chairman for the union, said the ferry workers are proceeding with plans to strike.

"The only way to stop it is to give in our demands," he said after Tuesday's negotiations.

Biafra Holds Town

LAGOS (Reuters)—Radio Nigeria claimed Wednesday night that federal forces captured a number of Biafran troops in a battle for the strategic Western state town of Owa.

The federal government radio said the secessionist Eastern region forcibl were driven out of the key town which commands the main roads to Lagos and Ibadan, capital of the western state.

But latest reports reaching here said the community, where some of the heaviest fighting of the eight-week-long civil war has raged during the last three days, still is in Biafran hands.

Radio Nigeria said the Eastern prisoners were taken during the last 24 hours and included Lieut. A. E. Okoafi, a former Nigerian air force officer said to have been "conscripted" into the Biafran armed forces by secessionist leader Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu.

Meanwhile, unconfirmed reports from a usually reliable source said federal forces foiled a Biafran plan to attack Lagos by sailing through 100 miles of dense mangrove swamps.

The report said federal forces claimed 300 Biafrans killed or captured when government troops trapped the rebels as they assembled boats for the advance.

Spokesman

French Information Minister Georges Gorse today said his government is going to step up cooperation with Quebec.

Pearson Undisturbed By de Gaulle Offer

Quebec to Get More Support

PARIS (CP) — President Charles de Gaulle, pressing ahead with his support for French-Canadian aspirations, Wednesday night promised a major increase in France's economic, cultural and technical aid to Quebec.

Information Minister Georges Gorse, announcing the increase after a cabinet meeting, said the government would decide on the details later.

The announcement showed de Gaulle apparently undeterred by the storm of criticism triggered by his remarks during his visit to Quebec last month.

De Gaulle cut short the trip after Pearson took exception to his ending a Montreal speech with the cry, "Long live free Quebec"—slogan of Quebec separatists.

Gorse Wednesday night quoted de Gaulle as telling his ministers his aim was "to help French-Canadians maintain and develop their personality."

Gorse added that the projected aid increase was within the terms of a 1965 co-operation agreement.

Gorse said France is embarking on a "considerable increase in its co-operation effort" in cultural, economic and technical fields.

Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson called this a "normal development."

The decision to step up aid was seen by some observers here as an answer to critics in France who questioned de Gaulle's invitation to French-speaking Canadians to adopt a position of independence from the United States, pointing out that they were dependent on the U.S. for economic progress.

These critics accused de Gaulle of failing to match his words with deeds.

"And I thought our slums were bad!"

De Gaulle Praised In Letter

PARIS (CP)—La Monde, France's leading newspaper, publishes most of a long letter sent to French papers by a French-Canadian group anxious to explain why Quebec gave President de Gaulle a triumphal welcome."

The letter expresses admiration for the "energy and pursuit" of de Gaulle, whose visit to Canada last month has aroused widespread controversy.

"We wanted to salute in his person and statements the France from which we issued, the French community to which we belong, the very Quebec we want to see becoming master in its own house," says the letter.

It refers to "our unceasing struggle," and calls for the support of French political leaders, industrialists and technicians.

Quebec needs "political emancipation." Once this was achieved, "we also would want the possibility of Quebec being associated, in one way or another but voluntarily, with English Canada on whatever basis is dictated by their common interests."

Among the Canadians signing the letter are Francois Aquin, a member of the Quebec Assembly who recently quit the provincial Liberal party to sit as an independent.

Pact Covers Assistance

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson Wednesday brushed off France's newly-announced program of aid for Quebec as nothing to be disturbed about.

He told a news conference there is no more reason to be disturbed than if Britain had a similar program for another Canadian province.

"The report I have seen doesn't disturb me," he said.

The prime minister's mild reaction to France's plan to increase cultural, economic and technical aid to Quebec curtailed speculation the move might worsen French-Canadian relations.

Mr. Pearson rebuked President de Gaulle last month for seemingly encouraging French-Canadian separatism in Quebec on a Canadian tour. The president cut short his trip and went home.

Pearson said Wednesday that the report of expanded French aid for Quebec is no more disturbing than "if Britain made a cultural exchange with any province. He said the aid came under the 1965 Agreement and that he would comment further if it was required when he had more details from Paris.

U.S. and Russia To Table Pact

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union plan to submit their joint draft of a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons at a special session of the 17-nation disarmament conference this afternoon, authoritative sources reported. There is still no agreement on the initial inspection methods needed to police a treaty.

Clark Denies Urging War With China Now

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Retired U.S. Gen. Mark Clark said Wednesday he did not under any circumstances advocate attacking Communist China now.

The general, who was commander of United Nations forces in the Korean fighting, said his views had been misinterpreted in a version published after he spoke to the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New Orleans, La., Monday night.

At that time he was quoted as saying: "The time to act against China is now, because if they develop their nuclear capabilities we'll have more headaches."

Clark said today at his home here: "I do not believe the Red Chinese will intervene in the Vietnam war, but I am not infallible. If they do, then we should hit them in their home bases, but in no other circumstances."

Britain To Repair Mission

LONDON (CP) — Britain's diplomatic mission in Peking has returned to be occupied and will rebuild the burned out legation building on proof of a determination to stay, the foreign office said today.

Donald Hopson, British charge d'affaires in Peking, cabled the foreign office that members of his staff and their families are safe and back in their apartments, which were ransacked but not burned. They had taken refuge, after the mob assault, in other diplomatic compounds.

Hanoi Stages Rally To 'Celebrate' Air War

SAIGON (CP)—Six more U.S. planes were lost over North Vietnam Wednesday, bringing the total for the week so far to 12, the U.S. command announced.

But a mass rally in Hanoi Wednesday night celebrated the downing of 22 U.S. jets in the same period, the North Vietnam news agency reported.

A dispatch monitored in Hong Kong said many American pilots were killed or captured, but that their "savage attacks" on heavily populated areas in the centre of Hanoi killed or wounded more than 100 persons.

The U.S. spokesman in Saigon said American pilots shot down two North Vietnamese MiG-21s in dogfights around the capital Wednesday and probably a third MiG.

The U.S. command also announced that U.S. and Communist casualties increased last week as ground action stepped up in some areas of South Vietnam. But South Vietnamese casualties were less than a week before.

Russian Threat Doesn't Worry U. S. Statesmen

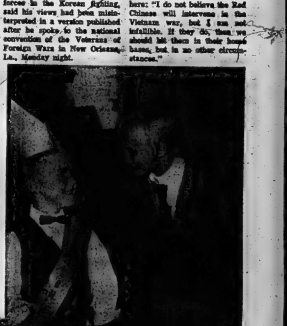
WASHINGTON (AP)—A Soviet threat of possible "retaliatory steps" to be intensified U.S. bombing of North Vietnam is discounted for the present time by a critic and by a supporter of President Johnson's war policies.

The Russians said in a statement Wednesday that what they called the latest U.S. escalation of the conflict will "inevitably lead to the necessary retaliatory steps." They did not spell out the threat further.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.) of the Senate foreign relations committee called it "a mild warning that sets the less should be taken seriously." He labelled the bombing of targets near the China border a stupid move, inviting Chinese intervention.

"I don't reach the conclusion from this that the Russians are about to intervene in the war," he said. "But it might be a straw indicating which way the wind is blowing."

Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, senior Republican on the foreign relations committee, said in a separate interview he doubts anybody can guess the Soviet intentions.



As critical as ever of Johnson's policies, Fulbright said he will oppose efforts to repeal the 1964 Tonkin Gulf resolution which endorsed the president's use of "all necessary means to repulse Communist aggression."

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.-Ore.), persistent critic of Johnson's war course, has announced he will move to repeal the resolution.

But Fulbright predicted any such move would be rejected overwhelmingly, an action said would be interpreted as an endorsement of the president's policies. He said members would vote against repeal because repeal would be regarded in the eyes of the world as a repudiation of the president.

Chinese Bomb Hong Kong Border Post

HONG KONG (CP) — Communist Chinese firebombs set fire to the Hong Kong immigration office at the Lowu border station tonight as violence flared along the 17-mile boundary between China and Hong Kong. The fire was extinguished before it caused serious damage.

The firebombing, at dusk, was the fifth Communist attack across the border during the day.

In other attacks, British Gurkha soldiers used tear gas and smoke bombs to drive back the attacking crowds, one of which was made up almost exclusively of women.

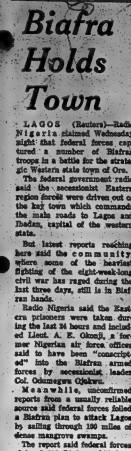
At Mac Kam To, four miles east of Lowu, some 50 to 80 peasants armed with scythes and pitchforks tore through a barbed-wire blocking the road crossing into Hong Kong. Tear gas drove them back before they reached a new border guard post being built on a ridge 200 yards behind the line.

In another incident, three Chinese swam the border river, climbed up on the Hong Kong side back, cut the barbed wire entanglements, and then swam back to China.

In the firebombing, the Chinese hurled half a dozen gasoline-filled bottles at the Hong Kong immigration post.

One landed on the roof, exploding and set the roof afire. The blaze was put out before it could spread.

Several Chinese were reported injured when the Gurkhas drove them back with tear gas and smoke bombs. The mob started to form again but Chinese army troops stopped them.



Today's incidents followed more than 50 terrorist bomb scares in Hong Kong Wednesday. About half of them were false alarms and no one was reported injured.

Hong Kong Radio Comedian Set Afire by Red Terrorists

HONG KONG (CP)—Terrorists stopped a car in the Kowloon district today and set it afire with kerosene, critically burning a Chinese radio comedian known for his anti-Communist jokes, and his brother.

Police said Lam Bun, an announcer on a pro-government commercial radio station, and his brother, Lam Kong-hoi, were taken to hospital in critical condition with severe burns.

The Chinese attackers, numbering three or four men, wrenched a red flag in front of the car, then poured kerosene over the occupants and the front seat of the car, police said.

"Frug-et" It!

Everybody's sympathy was with this youngster during a "go-go" contest at last night's Penny Fair in Trenton. He was completely bewildered as young ladies gyrated circles around him.

Some People Don't Scare Easily

One of the most popular features of last evening's Penny Fair in Trenton was this "Spook" tent, with untold horrors within to chill the hearts of kiddies. Oblivious to the attraction, and to the line-up in front, this youngster catches 40 winks.

Penny Fair at Trenton Successful

TRENTON — The day of the five - cent cigar might be gone, but patrons of the Trenton Recreation Commission's Penny Fair could enjoy an evening out for a handful of coppers.

Last evening's event climaxed the summer playground activities operated by the recreation commission at eight Trenton schools.

In the afternoon, the 400 - odd playground children marched from Bayshore to Hannah Park, wearing costumes and bearing floats depicting different periods of Canada's history.

There was everything from burlap - clad miniature cavemen and women to tinsel-clothed specimens of the future. Queen Elizabeth playground took first prize with a representation of the gold rush era.

But the evening's Penny Fair was the main attraction.

For one penny, or reasonable multiples thereof, the tots could have fortunes told, buy candy apples, enter a "go-go" contest, go on a hayride, or for the really reckless spirits, throw pennies for chocolate bars.

By far the most popular booth was one which offered the kiddies a chance to throw a sopping sponge at their favorite playground leader.

For a quarter, the enthusiastic ones could borrow a bucket of water at the leader of their choice.

A regal aspect was added to the event with the selection of seven - year - old Wendy McAdams and five-year-old Jimmy Graham as Penny Fair Queen and King.

Proceeds from the annual fun fest are turned back into the recreation commission's playground fund for use in future activities.

Mayor's Proposal for Study Approved by Committee

A resolution brought in by Mayor J. R. Ellis of Belleville and approved by this week's Ontario Municipal Association Convention at the Lakehead, will see a special committee set up to study the forthcoming Smith report on Municipal taxation.

Following his return to the city last night, Mayor Ellis said a joint committee of the Mayors' and Reeves' Association and the OMA were authorized to hire professional help and study the report on taxation when it is released.

"We want to see what implications are contained in the report with respect to municipal taxation," said the mayor.

Mayor Ellis said the Ontario Mayors and Reeves for years have been urging the government to assume a larger share of educational, welfare and other such costs.

"Frankly, we are worried about the increasing burden of taxation being assessed against municipal property owners," Mayor Ellis said.

Accompanying Mayor Ellis to Ottawa were city assessment commissioner Leighton Thompson, this year's president of the Ontario Association of Assessors, and city Clerk Adam Stalker.

The trio flew to the Lakehead Sunday in the mayor's plane and returned to Belleville last night.

Hay Bay Church Will Mark 175th Anniversary on Sunday

Prince Edward County's Hay Bay church marks its 175th anniversary Sunday and congregations of the evening are keeping in tune with the times.

Hymns current among Methodist congregations at the time the church was built in 1792 will be included in the anniversary service.

Some participants will be in costume of the period and Rev. J. W. Lamb, of Belleville's Bolloway Street United Church, will arrive for the service by horseback.

The sermon will be preached by a leading United Church clergyman — Rev. Dr. A. C. Forrest, editor of the United Church Observer.

The Hay Bay church is the oldest Methodist centre of worship still standing in Canada.

To add authenticity to Sunday's anniversary celebrations, Mr. Lamb and other organizers have been pouring over old church documents, reconstructing as closely as possible, the original pattern of service used by the early Methodists.

Time of the service has been set for 3 p.m.

Rev. Edith Mainprize Honored

The recreation room in the basement of the Free Methodist parsonage on Avondale Road was recently packed as the many friends and adherents rallied to say a fond farewell to their much loved pastor, Rev. Edith Mainprize. Together they reminisced of the wonderful fellowship that had been shared by pastor and people for more than ten years of her faithful service in this city.

They recalled incidents of her unfaltering faith during the building of the new church and parsonage and her exuberance when the church mortgage was paid off this year. Some spoke of having been cheered by her radio ministry over the local station, and others of friendly visits she had made to their homes or in the hospital.

It seemed that every home represented had been personally contacted by their pastor in baptizing their children, marrying their youth, visiting the sick and discouraged or bringing spiritual warmth and comfort to the aged.

It was most gratifying to see the young people capably serving the refreshments of the evening, for it was under the careful supervision that the Christian Youth Crusaders was organized, which is a strong arm of the church here. One of this group made the presentation of the evening which was a silver tea set and a purse. To this Miss Mainprize responded graciously. She left on Tuesday for her new field of service in Simcoe, Ont.

Dr. R. Barclay Warren, of Kingston, Ont., is now capably filling her place in the new church and the congregation consider themselves fortunate indeed to have such excellent ministers grace their pulpit.

Housing Need Studied

PICTON (Staff) — Ontario Housing Commission representatives will be in Picton next week to conduct a survey of municipal housing needs in the town. According to Town's Clerk Treasurer, Douglas Parry, some personal contacts will be made. Although all applications cannot personally be investigated, it is expected enough applicants will be contacted to give a proper picture of the housing needs for Picton.

The survey is being made by the commission, following a request by Town Council, to determine the need for public rental housing in Picton. The proposed accommodation would be for families of senior citizens living and working in Picton whose present accommodation is inadequate and who would like to rent a public housing unit.

If there is a proven need in the municipality and officials decide to proceed with the housing the initial cost will be shared by both federal and provincial governments.

The size of the housing units would vary according to the needs of the community and rents would be geared to the total family income regardless of the size of the accommodation. Under the plan, families could conceivably have a unit containing four or seven five bedrooms. For couples, apartments would consist of a living room, bedroom, bathroom and kitchen equipped with a stove and refrigerator. A bed - sitting room, kitchen and bathroom would be available for single persons. The rents of the housing units would be set at a minimum of $22 per family.

Odessa Man Remanded in Break-in Case

NAPANEE — An Odessa man — one of three arrested in connection with disappearance of $73,000 in negotiable cheques from Selley cheese factory — appeared for remand in magistrate's court here today.

Donald Williams, 30, has been charged along with Thomas Anthony Hawes, 27, and Alexander Peters, 29, with possession of stolen goods in connection with the weekend break-in say police.

The two other suspects are being held in Toronto, where they were arrested Monday.

The robbery was staged last Saturday or Sunday after thieves cut through a screen door to gain entry to the factory.

A 30-30 calibre rifle was missing with the cheques — ranging in value from less than two dollars to $6,100.

They were scheduled for mailing Monday to farmers who supply the factory with milk.

Police said some cheques and a rifle had been recovered.

Mohawks Gird for War Over Decision to Replace Cairn

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The shades of Mackenzie Bowell — the Belleville printer who became one of Canada's most ill - starred Prime Ministers — today were stirred by a modern - day monumental controversy.

This time, the dispute sees the Indians of Tyendinaga Mohawk reserve on the warpath.

The Mohawks this morning were sharpening the axes of argument with the federal government over removal of Bowell's memorial in Belleville, to replace a monument on the reserve sacred to Mohawk history.

And caught in the middle is a Belleville contractor — Dick Poolstra, whose innocent scalp was figuratively at stake if he carried out the project.

It all started when authorities decided to construct a pathway across the city armory lawn to a new memorial now being built for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Blocking the plan was a limestone monument to Bowell, which has stood on the Bridge - Pinnacle corner of the lawn for nearly 37 years.

The decision was taken to remove the Bowell structure, and place its plaque of dedication on a new monument in Victoria Park.

That still left a pile of limestone.

Recently, says Mr. Poolstra he bandered on a federal contract to remove the limestone and cart it to the reserve on the western outskirts of Deseronto.

The Mohawks for years have made an annual pilgrimage there to a cairn of fieldstones, celebrating the landing of ancestors in the late 18th century as American Revolution refugees.

For the Mohawks, it is akin to a historic totem, symbolizing their loyalty to the Crown.

But, says Mr. Poolstra, his contract called for him to dismantle the cairn and replace it with the stones from the Bowell monument.

The contractor says he was given the official go-ahead Tuesday night during a visit from a department of northern development official from Ottawa.

This morning, he began carrying out his contract, sending in men to dismantle the Bowell memorial while a truck stood by to remove the blocks.

However, Mohawk Chief John Brant had other thoughts — and said so!

Apparently, the first he knew of the project was when an Intelligencer reporter pooned him this morning as the Bowell monument was being taken apart.

"I haven't heard a word about that one," said Chief Brant grimly.

The contractor was sent for and both men talked by telephone.

"I've got everything here on a contract so there's not much I can do about it," Mr. Poolstra retorted firmly.

He reported Chief Brant as telling him definitely not to trespass around the cairn. FH; "Tres' ob.

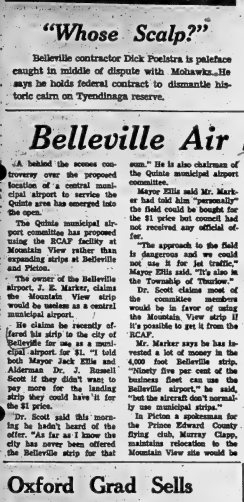
However, Mr. Poolstra's reaction was just as firm:

He said he was going ahead with the terms of his contract.

Chief Brant called in Andy Hyatsah, Indian Affairs agent at Deseronto. Both men agreed to rendezvous for a discussion at the central schoolhouse on the reserve.

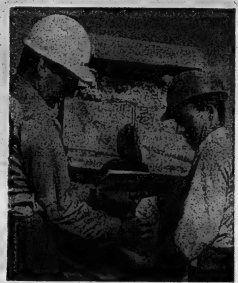
The agent said he had never heard of the project. If such a contract had been let the Mohawk council governing reserve affairs would have been informed since the cairn is on Indian land.

Ironically, the dispute reflects the historic image of Bowell, whose 14-month administration in 1894-1896, was wrecked by mounting dissension, climaxed by a Cabinet revolt and his resignation.



A firm, and final warning came from Chief Brant at 11 a.m. while workers were preparing to load the Bowell monument aboard a truck:

"I've just come down to the cairn and put a padlock on the gate. They don't go in there. I've got to know about this before they do anything!"



"Hold Everything!"

Chief John Brant has warrior-like determination no stone will be turned on Indian cairn until government explanation. He's padlocked historic Mohawk memorial.

"Whose Scalp?"

Belleville contractor Dick Poelstra is paleface caught in middle of dispute with Mohawks. He says he holds federal contract to dismantle historic cairn on Tyendinaga reserve.

"We Just Work Here"

Leaving the feuding to higher-ups, workers Allen DeVries (left) and Alvin Hall press ahead today with dismantling Bowell monument on armory lawn.

Belleville Air Strip Owner Rejects Case for Mountain View

A behind the scenes controversy over the proposed location of a central municipal airport to service the Quinte area has emerged into the open.

The Quinte municipal airport committee has proposed using the RCAF facility at Mountain View rather than expanding strips at Belleville and Picton.

The owner of the Belleville airport, J. E. Marker, claims the Mountain View strip would be useless as a central municipal airport.

He claims he recently offered his airip to the city of Belleville for use as a municipal airport for $1. "I told both Mayor Jack Ellis and Alderman Dr. J. Russell Scott if they didn't want to pay more for the landing strip they could have it for the $1 price.

Dr. Scott said this morning he hadn't heard of the offer. "As far as I know the city has never been offered the Belleville strip for that sum." He is also chairman of the Quinte municipal airport committee.

Mayor Ellis said Mr. Marker had told him "personally" the field could be bought for the $1 price but council had not received any official offer.

"The approach to the field is dangerous and we could not use it for jet traffic," Mayor Ellis said. "It's also in the Township of Thurlow."

Dr. Scott claims most of the committee members would be in favor of using the Mountain View strip if it's possible to get it from the RCAF.

Mr. Marker says he has invested a lot of money in the 4,000 foot Belleville strip. "Ninety five per cent of the business fleet can use the Belleville airport," he said, "but the aircraft don't normally use municipal strips."

In Picton a spokesman for the Prince Edward County flying club, Murray Clapp, maintains relocation to the Mountain View site would be a "good move." "Any strip less than 5,000 feet in length would not be suitable for industrial purposes," he said.

The dirt strip near Belleville is 4,000 feet long "from fence to fence" while the facility at Picton is 2,500 feet long. The Mountain View strip is more than 5,000 feet in length and it's paved.

Mr. Marker contends the city of Belleville should buy his runway and top it with asphalt at an estimated cost of $20,000. "I can't understand why the airport committee wants to operate an' airport Mountain View is in the middle of nowhere."

The Quinte municipal airport committee was set up early this spring with representatives from throughout the area. Reports suggest Belleville has lost at least one industry to a smaller community having a municipal airstrip.

The possibility of procuring the Mountain View strip from the RCAF has been discussed and many committee members are agreeable to the proposal.

Efforts are under way at the present time to ascertain the availability of the Mountain View site. The RCAF is making limited use of the facility.

Mr. Clapp says Mountain View will probably become surplus in the near future.

"The commitee could have the complete installation at a reasonable price if this comes about."

Mr. Clapp also listed several problems the city of Belleville would have to contend with if they bought the present city facility. The most serious of these is the necessity of carrying a $1,000,000 insurance policy on the location because of a double railroad track installation near the field.

MORE

"The total cost of improving the Mountain View site to municipal airport requirements would be $5,000 for a hangar," Mr. Clapp said.

The airport committee exvibition—facilities to handle commercial aircraft, air freight service and industrial jet aircraft. Members feel these services would increase the possibility of getting new industry for the area.

Mr. Marker, who is vice-president of W. T. Hawkins Ltd., as well as owner of the dirt strip near Belleville, says his field is capable of handling aircraft as large as DC-3 "during the summertime."

He contends the airport committee is considering the use of the Mountain View site partly because the runway can now handle jet aircraft.

These jets, however, constitute only a small per centage of the total need," he claims.

Airport Owner Argues Point

The owner of the Belleville airport, J. E. Marker, argues that his strip is of the high standards required for a municipal airport.

He recently quoted a letter from D. G. Stone, regional superintendent, airways, the department of transport stating. "Every phase of the Belleville airport falls in the category of exceptional for its class. It is indeed a pleasure in our official capacity to share this pride in having such an airport and enthusiast in our region."

Second letter Mr. Stone says the airport is capable of accommodating aircraft commonly used by industry. "Your airfield is outside the Trenton airport control zone and no serious traffic conflicition are foreseen."

Mr. Marker was informed in a letter from Wing Commander R. T. Heslip, Base operations Officer at Canadian Forces Base Trenton, that no hazard is inherent in the present or foreseeable situation between the two airports.

Wing Commander Heslip said problems could arise if the Belleville airport, in its present location, was enlarged to major airport status.

Oxford Grad Sells Lollipops to Eskimos

FROBISHER BAY, N.W.T. (CP)—There is an Oxford University graduate in this Baffin Island settlement who makes a living selling lollipops to Eskimo youngsters.

"I am applying my training to make money the best way I know how," explains Colin Alexander graduate in languages of Magdalen College, Oxford, and 25 per cent owner of Frobisher Trading Co. Ltd.

The 26-year-old son of a retired British naval officer, Mr. Alexander operates two snack bars and several vending machines around this Arctic settlement, 1,300 miles northeast of Ottawa.

He was hired by the Hudson's Bay Company in Montreal and posted to Frobisher Bay, where the company has two stores. After completing his one-year contract, he worked for another Frobisher Bay firm.

Two years ago he opened a tiny snack bar in an unused building. He expanded it, first in a juke box from Montreal, then added pinball and vending machines and a second snack bar. The next project was a movie theatre.

"We sell about 8,000 lollipops and 5,000 cups of coffee a month," Mr. Alexander said.

Asked how his company is doing, Alexander replied:

"It looks to be possible to expend 100 per cent yearly in assets and profits for some time to come."

Alexander now owns five large buildings here, lives in a rented private home which has hot and cold running water, drives a recently-imported new car, has several telephones and employs a full-time retired white railway chef, two Eskimo men, a white Nova Scotian and a European immigrant.

Immigration Trends

Britain has contributed much to the making of this country — particularly through immigration. And still they come, while more would like to come.

A poll published by The Sunday Telegraph of London says half of all Britons between the ages of 18 and 30 would like to emigrate — with Canada and the United States as second and fourth choices of places to go.

Australia, first choice with 13 per cent, still leads in the immigration stakes. Sunshine, outdoor life and a healthy economy combined with a good standard of living are a big draw for Britons who find the lure of the big island continent "down under."

Canada, at 11 per cent, has overtaken New Zealand, at eight per cent, for second place. This should have something to do with New Zealand's current economic difficulties. Unemployment, usually almost non-existent there, has risen to some 5,000 this summer, and construction programs have been curtailed as the country struggles to overcome a growing imbalance in its trading position.

In other respects New Zealand is hitting the high spots on the international scene. It is doing it through the medium of sport — and at the expense of Canada.

It all started with the New Zealand victory in the premier "eights" event at the recent international rowing regatta at St. Catharines, ahead of crews from Australia, West Germany and the United States in that order.

Then there were the two Kiwis who reached the final of the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship in Victoria, Stuart Jones winning from compatriot Ross Murray.

As if that were not enough, the Governor-General match — Canada's highest shooting prize — was won at Connaught Ranges last week by James Johnson, 55, who is the mayor of Featherston, NZ.

Emigration to New Zealand may be down, but its sportsmen are keeping their country to the fore.

Chinese Puzzle

It is difficult to discern who is in charge in China these days. Is it Mao Ise-Tung? Or is the party chairman, the man held before the Chinese masses as a sort of deity, simply a figurehead, while the real power is in the hands of the unruly youths of the Red Guard movement?

In any event it was the Red Guards once again who, unchallenged by police or military or anyone else resembling authority, invaded the offices of the British mission in Peking and set them alight.

This latest wave of youth violence in Peking coincides with a campaign to harass and persecute what remains of British trade.

All this while is going on, the unrest which has wracked China for months continues unabated. Recently there have been reports of heavy casualties in fighting between rival factions, including supporters of Mao.

The most ironic element in the Chinese political puzzle is that while political harassment of the British in Hong Kong continues thousands of refugees from the troubled south China province of Kwantung and its capital, Canton, are reported to be trekking toward the British colony. Two army battalions are said to have been deployed along the border to halt the refugee flow.

Meanwhile, as a tactical reprisal against the Peking government for standing idly by while the mob sacked the British mission, Chinese diplomats and business officials in Britain are being held under house arrest as virtual hostages for the safety of Britons in Peking.

The fate of Hong Kong may not yet be in the balance, but so long as central authority in China itself remains suspect, and the Red Guard movement virtually a law unto itself, there is no knowing what may happen.

Rainy Montreal

When the Queen visited Expo it rained. And when Mrs. Johnson, wife of the U.S. president, was there last week it was raining again. Umbrellas were the order of the day and it fell to U.S. protocol officer Saeed Khan, a handsome man with the name and looks of an Arab, to hold one against the elements for Mrs. Johnson.

What is it about Montreal that gives it the aspect of an eastern Vancouver? Even on a sunny day a wind can spring up over the St. Lawrence bringing cloudy conditions, and oil of a sudden the heaven's open.

It was like that in Montreal on Sunday. And it was the same in Ottawa a day or two earlier when the precipitation could only be described as a deluge. This brought fewer visitors to the Central Canada Exhibition in the capital and sent people scurrying for shelter.

It has been a damp summer compared with last year, but it has been good for growth and for the rural scene in general.

Professional Men Are the Cream of the Tax Crop

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The federal political field still offers just about the highest-paid jobs going in the Canadian economy.

And you can take that as the word of Treasury Board president E. J. Benson whose National Revenue Department has just published the new edition of "Taxation Statistics," a detailed catalogue of Who-Pays-How-Much.

It rates the precisely 5,728,942 Canadians from whose incomes the Revenue Department skims its tax cream.

Rates them by province, by district and county, by individual geographic tax areas, by occupations, by kinds of income, categorizing them in dozens of different ways.

And by occupations, doctors and surgeons come out on top with an average annual income of $23,298, followed by engineers, architects and lawyers in the $12,000 bracket, dentists in the $18,000 class, accountants at the $13,000 level — after which there is a breath-taking drop to $7,000 for salesmen next in line.

So, getting more, in actual cash, than some of our 265 MPs are exactly 38,321 in the $19,000-and-above professional elite.

And only some, because many of those 265 MPs do far better than a Parliamentarian's basic $18,000.

In fact, all 265, in real "takehome pay," get more actual "spending money" than the starting $13,000, for $8,000 of it is tax-free — which could be one psychological reason that you don't hear many of the Honorable Members hurling in financial pain about high and ever-higher tax rates. They just do not feel the same hard pinch as the voters, for whom nothing is free, tax-wise.

Then for all Parliamentary hands there are those weekly Air Canada passes to here, there and anywhere they want to go. Those free long distance phone calls. Those railway passes for the whole family including the dog and cat in their cages in the baggage car. And a whole fine, fat list of special perks and favor privileges.

But then there's even more.

There's pension plan No. 1 just for the Cabinet Minister, of course, with a basic $18,000 plus $15,000 plus $2,000 car allowance.

Not only for such Parliamentary VIPs, either, as Mr. Speaker with his $18,000 plus $15,000 plus special allowances, his deputy at $13,000 plus $7,500, or the Government and Opposition Whips each with $18,000 plus $4,000 plus the "extras" that every MP has going for him.

For there are the 16 MP Parliamentary Secretaries, aides to the Cabinet Minister at $18,000 plus $4,000.

And because some members of the Cabinet have sold the Prime Minister on the proposition "why use one when two will do," the member of Parliamentary MP Secretaries could quickly zoom to 40 or more.

Now in prospect is payment of a bonus, perhaps at $4,000 for chairmen of the Commons Committees of which there are 25 — some of which the taxpaying voters seldom if ever hear.

Is there any wonder that Michael Sharp, there'll probably be something more than 100 of the Honorable Members in the Parliament's wall - padded "plum - pery."

Would you believe, eventually as many as maybe 130 — the way politicians can dream up extra part-time Parliamentary assignments at, of course, extra pay?

Now how are these highest paid - of - all - Canadians doing in addressing themselves to the public business—your business?

Well, they've busy at the moment with their 10 weeks of Centennial summer vacation "plus" atop their Christmas and Easter time - off.

But before they left, they presented a truly comprehensive performance.

They were in such a bell-for-leather hurry in their stampede from Parliament Hill that the night before they rammed they voted $800,328,184.84, eight - oh - oo - eight - twenty - four - million - three - hundred - twenty - eight - thousand - one - hundred - eighty - four - dollars - and - eighty - four - cents, to the government for summer spending money.

It was the cash the government said it needed for July, August, September and October — much of which Parliament still would be taking its holiday ease.

Specifically, on what would the government be spending that just-short-of-a-billion?

It's all spelled out in the Estimates.

But who can tell what might be necessary and what could be extravagance.

Not Parliament, that's sure, not until sometime next autumn, long after the last dollar is spent and by which time the billion will be down the government drain.

But then, as old C. D. Howe said grossly under - estimating inflation - through - spending, "What's a million?"

Keeping Up With Times On the Farm

BBC London Letter

In the BBC World Service program "The Farming World," Michael Pickstock discussed the importance of good communications in agriculture with Ken Bean, editor of the international farm journal "World Crops".

Their conclusion: Research is one thing, communicating the results to the farmer another.

"Although our journal goes mainly to people who have had a fairly high level of education in agriculture itself, it is quite obvious to us that, if there is to be any advancement in agriculture, then a lot more of their knowledge must be broadcasted to the actual farmer who does the job," said Bean. This was brought home to us by something that Charles Weitz of the Food and Agricultural Organization — the co-ordinator of the Freedom from Hunger Campaign — said to me some years ago. He pointed out that if all scientific and technical progress was to stop for 25 years but that if we were to put over to the farmer all that we already knew in that 25 years, then there would be no world hunger at the moment."

Bean had just returned from a tour of the West Indian Islands, where, he said, he had been most impressed, "I found that the degree of communication at farmer level was very high. There were excellent local radio services and excellent newspaper facilities of the kind that we are advocating. On the islands there are both radio and television programs put out by Phil Viera, and on Jamaica Percy Miller of "The Gleaner" runs a regular farming column and also a weekly supplement that, virtually, in itself, forms a newspaper for the local farmer. Carol Reichard does radio and television broadcasts in Jamaica, and these are very much the sort of thing that we advocate."

Troubled City of Jerusalem Is Spiritual Home of Millions Throughout World

Toronto Star Syndicate

Untold years before Joshua brought the Jews to Canaan, Jerusalem was occupied by Egyptians and called Urusalim, "City of Peace".

Modern Jerusalem was ruled by the Turks till their defeat in World War I by the legendary Lawrence of Arabia and British forces under General Sir Edmund Allenby.

After the war, Britain was given a League of Nations mandate to administer Palestine. The British gave up their authority in 1948 when Israel was formed and almost immediately war broke out between Israel and Arab forces. The Arab nations refused to acknowledge such a nation as Israel even existed.

Under a United Nations sponsored armistice, Jerusalem was divided, with Israel occupying the western, or "New City" section and Jordan the "Old City" or eastern part. The Mandelbaum Gate became the only breach in the wall built to divide the sectors.

Water, tourism, access to Mediterranean seaports and of course, ages - old hatreds, between Arab and Jew are the basis for mutual bitterness.

Water is the life-blood of the middle - east. In 1938 a 36 mile pipeline running to Jerusalem from the Yarkon River in the Israeli coastal plains was piped into operation. For the first time, the city had an adequate supply. Israel now controls all of Jerusalem and the water.

The spiritual home of millions throughout the world and historically of great interest Jerusalem is one of the oldest cities of our civilization. Most of its importance derives from these two factors. "Jerusalem" "dollars" are a major trading foreign currencies.

Since 1952 the city has been connected to the Mediterranean ports of Haifa and Tel-Aviv by a railroad which runs entirely through Israeli territory. The former Jordanian sector of the "City of Peace" has access to the sea only through the Mandelbaum Gate and the railroad to the coast, both now entirely controlled by Israel.

The Theatre and Human Relations

Ottawa Journal

Some of the innovations of modern theatre, like Theatre of the Absurd, have perplexed even the most sophisticated students of the arts. Leading "absurdist" Edward Albee's drama in "The Sandbox," for example, pf putting a dying old lady in a sandside sandbox while her daughter rails against her ineffectual and passive husband and flirts with a bikini-beach-type musicleman is representative of its obscure symbolism. Often it's fun, loaded with meaning and perhaps incisive social commentary. But it can be obscure, oh so obscure.

That is why it comes as no surprise that psychologists are having an easier time analyzing these plays than some critics. A case in point: two psychiatrists from Illinois who have published their evaluation of Theatre of the Absurd say that the form and content of many of those plays parallel the "dynamic conflicts and personality organization" of what psychiatrists call borderline personality ills. These are persons who have a difficult time maintaining stable relationships — who long for closeness, but do everything to avoid it when it comes. It's part of the syndrome of loss of identity, the search for meaning, lack of communication . . .

The two psychiatrists cited passages from Beckett's "Waiting for Godot" and Albee's "Zoo Story" to support their thesis.

And Albee, whose angry comedy in his drama has sometimes been denounced by angry commentary on critics — unfriendly to the psychiatrists' evaluation. He said that the evaluation of "Zoo Story" was more perceptive than most of the reviews of his plays.

Are we to believe now that it will be necessary to bone up on psychiatric theory to be "tuned in"? Or will we have to take up analysis (leave the couch in the office) with us to the theatre?

Fishery Conservation

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

A lot of time has gone by since the day when John Cabot arrived off Canada and scooped codfish by the basket from the sea.

Technological advances and increases in the numbers of countries and fishermen in the fishing industry have taken their toll, to the point where the 21-country Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development has launched a program to meet the problem of fishery stock depletion in the North Atlantic.

As with all natural resources, fish is not in unlimited supply. Many countries are afraid that improved fishing facilities are detrimental to certain stocks especially the cod.

The OECD suggests that the answer to the depletion problem is to reduce fishing for a time, allowing fish replenish themselves, then to re - introduce fishing with limited fleets. The organization knows this kind of plan would be difficult to implement, and would create problems in the economic, social and political fields.

Despite these problems, however, some sort of program along these lines ought to be instituted. It is well to keep in mind that the fishery industry is only a vital industry today because of controlled cutting and conservation.

Self-discipline and control, on an international scale, may be the only way to guarantee for many more years that the bounty of North-West Atlantic can be conserved.

Somalia—"Land of Spices"

Toronto Star Syndicate

Unofficially referred to as Somalia, "land of spices" this independent nation is the "horn of Africa" which juts into the easternmost part of Aden.

The Republic is a (1960) United Nations trust territory made up of what was British Somalia and the British Protectorate of Somaliland. To the north, and also on the Gulf of Aden, lies French Somaliland. Somalia is bounded on the west by disputed borders with Ethiopia and Kenya . . . borders which Britain in 1954 under her Protector a te mandate.

The nation has essentially an agriculture economy and is poor, even by African standards. Internal politics are often violently conducted because various tribal factions can't agree on foreign policies and which of the major powers would be the best aided.

The middle-east impassioned policies of Egypt and Russia, plus the imminent withdrawal of British forces from Aden, just across the Gulf of Aden, have added to its international promise. As a strategic area Aden, in terms of control of access routes to the East Coast, the "horn of Africa" is a potential hot spot.

Russia and Egypt, much involved in the middle east sphere of influence, have supplied arms and trained personnel and sponsored the unity of the districts of Somalia, Djibouti and of Somali. "Ethiopia and Kenya are aligned with Britain and the U.S. and have similar military forces supplied and trained by the Western powers.

In retaliation for the burning of public buildings at York, now Toronto, 133 years ago, on April 27, 1814, British troops burned the White House in Washington during the War of 1812. Earlier that month, a British fleet entered Chesapeake Bay and landed an army under command of Gen. Robert Ross. Their only opposition before Washington were some 5,000 militiamen hastily gathered to defend the city. The militiamen were routed and Washington defenders fled in an unsuccessful attempt to capture Baltimore, Ross's next objective. Ross died of attacks at other points along the coast.

Avenger Bombers Pursue Targets on East and West Coasts

LANGLEY, B.C. (CP)—Tossing plastic bags of water out of an airplane window has become a million-dollar forest fire fighting industry in British Columbia.

Skyway Air Services began fighting fires this way 12 years ago in small aircraft. Today, the company has a fleet of 14 Avenger bombers.

"Water is still hot in modern aerial firefighting, and special long and short-term retardents, with fantastic ability to arrest flames, are used," said Percy Lotzer, Skyways assistant general manager.

The B.C. government doesn't have a forest foot of its own. It contracts the work to eight companies with 46 airplanes—from small spotter aircraft to four-engine Martin Mars.

Forestry officials do not say that air bombing is anything like the total answer, but the planes are considered an invaluable weapon in battling small blazes before they gain hold. Without them, there would be far more than the 3,300 men and 170 machines currently fighting fires in B.C., which has been plagued by fires this year.

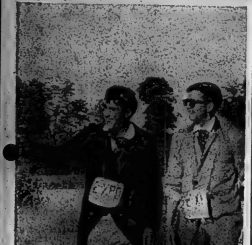
This year, Skyway has a basic $200,000 contract with the B.C. government. It is for July and August with a minimum hour total already used up. The company now is getting $1,000 an hourly fee, and Mr. Lotzer said "it is safe to say the contract will more than double this year."

When the former Canadian Navy dive bombers are not fighting forest fires in B.C., they are 4,000 miles away doing forestry spray work in New Brunswick for a consortium of government and industry groups called Forestry Protection Ltd.

The planes fly to the east coast in mid-May and return at the end of June, after completing a $200,000 spraying contract in the Maritimes.

After completing their east-west assignments from May to September, the Avengers' wings are quickly folded and the planes placed in mothballs for the winter.

During the short, busy, spraying season, with long hours and seven days a week, pilots can earn from $1,500 to $2,000 a month.



The big Martin Mars planes are owned by a group of five B.C. forestry companies that formed Forest Industries Flying Tankers Co.

"Aerial tankers aren't used much on large fires," said one forestry official. They are best for containing and controlling work, to gain time until ground crews can get in.

A system is applied. It goes like this:

A study of weather forecasts gives a lead on areas where lightning is likely to set off new blazes. Patrol planes keep a close watch and, when they spot a fire, they radio the sightings to home base.

As aerial tanker, often of the Martin Mars variety, capable of spewing 6,000 gallons, is dispatched to the fire scene. A helicopter will follow with ground fighters who can be parachuted into the zone and conduct mopping up operations.

Confederation Two-Step

John Chataway and Larry Ostler, two university students from Lindsay, passed through Trenton yesterday on route to Expo '67 on foot. The pair are dressed to depict Sir John A. Macdonald and George Etienne Cartier.

Centennial Walkers Depict Two Fathers of Confederation

TRENTON — For two history-conscious Lindsay youths, the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway is Highway 2.

Wearing waistcoats, ascots, and with their names legally John Chataway and Larry Ostler passed through here on foot yesterday en route to Expo '67.

The 20-year-old university students depict themselves as the foremost fathers of confederation — Sir John A. Macdonald and George Etienne Cartier.

Their motive? It's laid out very explicitly in pamphlets being passed out by the Montreal-bound walkers.

"We believe that the contribution made by these two great Canadians, one English and one French, the spirit in which they worked, and the great they achieved deserve great recognition. We lament today's deviation from the obvious principles of personal trust and dedication to the common good that these two men represent."

The brochures contain thumb-nail histories of the historically-prominent duo and are being distributed along the 350-mile trek to Montreal.

The travellers left Lindsay (about 20 miles west of Peterborough) Sunday, and, making 20 miles daily, hope to arrive at Expo Sept. 6.

Reeves and mayors of every municipality along the way are being asked to sign a declaration drawn up by Lindsay town council.

To the average motorist, the pair will appear like just some more Centennial attention-seekers, but they are serious in their approach.

Quoting another illustrious Confederation figure, D'Arcy McGee, their brochure says "We hope to see the day when there will be no other term but the common name of 'Canadian', without the prefix of either 'French' or 'English'."

Policemen Charged In Riot Aftermath

Detroit policemen and a private guard were charged Wednesday with conspiring to "beat, abuse and intimidate" several persons during last month's riots.

A third police officer was named as a conspirator but not as a defendant in a warrant issued by Wayne County prosecutor William Cahalan.

The charges were filed in connection with an incident July 26 at the Algiers Motel, in which three Negro youths were killed. Several other persons complained that they were beaten during questioning in the motel when police were seeking snipers.

Named in the warrant were Detroit patrolmen David Senec and Robert Paille and a private guard, Melvin Dismukes. Police officer Ronald August was named co-conspirator.

Paille and August earlier were charged with murder in the deaths of two of the youths. At pre-trial hearings last week, August was ordered to stand trial on the charge, but Paille was freed for lack of evidence.

Dismukes, a Negro, has been bonded over for trial on charges of felonious assault in the beatings of two young Negroes at the motel the same night.

Ship Strike Cuts Supply Of Grain

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario dairy farmers could face a serious grain shortage if the strike by members of the Seafarers' International Union continues much longer, grain brokers said Wednesday.

Douglas Watelly, treasurer for Cosmic Co. Ltd., Toronto grain brokers, said the strike will be causing a grain shortage — there is none for sale."

No grain is available from Goderich, Owen Sound, Collingwood and Toronto elevators because of the strike, he said.

A spokesman for Costeworth and Cooper Ltd. of Toronto, another brokerage house, said none of the grain still on ships idle in the strike will spoil if it is not unloaded soon.

However, he said it would be two or three weeks before farmers began to feel the pinch of a serious shortage.

A representative of Toronto brokers Parrish and Heimbecker, Ltd. said four mill workers anticipated the strike and stocked up.

At Kitchener - area farmers said the grain situation does not improve quickly, he will offer farmers will be forced to sell livestock.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials staged a technical rally in heavy morning trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange after four days of losses.

Brokers say the rebound was a result of the market being in a heavily oversold position.

Cebenoyo A and Moore Corp. moved up ½ each to 44½ and 31¾, Bank of Montreal ¼ to 13 and Loeb ½ to 12¾.

Algoma Steel continued to slide following the company's recent announcement to suspend its $175,000,000 expansion program and lay off about 900 workers. The stock dropped ½ to 23½.

Massey-Ferguson fell ⅜ to 21 following a company announcement that nine-month earnings dropped to $22,000,000 compared with $25,700,000 for the similar period last year.

Western oils were down as Central-Del Rio dipped ⅛ to 21⅝ and Scurry-Rainbow ¼ to 48⅛. Scurry jumped 3¾ Wednesday. Hewer said there was no news explaining the sudden rise.

At the provincial gate, Newnorth rose 2 to 16 cents on 145,000 shares while Chesterville eased 1 to 41 cents on 133,000.

Industrial gained .40 to 167.40 in index. Golds fell 1.37 to 171.86, base metals .24 to 100.28 and western oils .86 to 140.11. Volume by 11 a.m. totalled 1,237,000 shares compared with 848,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Skilled Auto Tradesmen Demonstrate at Ford

DETROIT (AP)—Union and company negotiators pondered today the portent of a demonstration Wednesday by hundreds of skilled tradesmen in defiance of the leadership of their United Auto Workers union.

The demonstration at Ford Motor Co. emphasized an often-asked question: Whether the union can win a sufficiently high wage increase to keep skilled tradesmen from vetoing any new contract at either Ford, General Motors or Chrysler.

Under a 1966 change in its constitution, the UAW permits skilled and production workers to vote separately on contract ratification, "and approval of both is required."

Chanting, "One, two, three, four—we want a dollar more," the tradesmen ended more than five hours of demonstrating by storming up and down the entrance ramp past front doors of Ford headquarters and snarling traffic, then dispersed quickly.

Many carried placards supporting a previously announced goal of skilled tradesmen to win a $1-an-hour increase nearly over the life of any new contract with the Big Three automakers.

Other placards left no doubt the aim was to put pressure on UAW officials as well as that of the companies.

UAW demands, laid on bargaining tables when new contract negotiations began more than six weeks ago, call for a "substantial" wage boost for all, and a "substantial" extra amount for skilled tradesmen.

Cabinet Is Undecided About Barrie TV Move

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson fielded a variety of questions at a news conference Wednesday.

Mr. Pearson said the cabinet is still trying to decide whether to permit CKVR-TV in Barrie to move closer to Toronto to broadcast into the Ontario capital.

The Board of Broadcast Governors has approved the controversial move, which has caused strong protests that it interferes with reception from two Buffalo channels.

On another point, he said unemployment insurance legislation, thought to involve an increase in benefits, is still high-priority with the government. But he was not sure the government could get them through this fall. They may have to wait until next year.

No government intervention is planned "at the moment" in the Seaforest International strike on Great Lakes ships.

Mr. Pearson expected the next report of the much-criticized commission on blacklisting and blacklisting to be ready by October. Although not the final report, it will be a major document. On housing, he said the government had reduced its demands on the money market for loan requirements. He promised another look at the question in the fall.

The prime minister did not know whether Nigeria had made any requests for arms from Canada since the outbreak of the civil war.

It was described to have electron reform carried out before the next federal election, particularly on the redrawing of election expenses. The legislation was on the government's 90 list.

He "wouldn't be shocked" if there was an election next year.

The Company of Young Canadians had made mistakes, some of them sensational.

But many members of the company were doing good work, Mr. Pearson would "on balance" one again.

Carling Appointment

W. W. (Mike) Bollbruck

The Carling Breweries Limited is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. W. (Mike) Bollbruck as District Sales Manager for the Eastern District. Mr. Bollbruck, a resident of Peterborough, has had many years of sales experience with Carling and prior to his present appointment, was District Sales Manager in North-Western Ontario.

It pleases us, too. But when it comes to making 5 Star, things are a little more difficult. We select whiskies from our 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 distilleries across Canada (only Seagram's has 5, by the way). Then we blend and re-blend them to get 5 Star's easy taste.

Is the taste worth all the trouble? Easy for you to find out.

Forest Fires Annual Test

Avenger Bombers Pursue Targets on East and West Coasts

LANGLEY, B.C. (CP)—Tossing plastic bags of water out of an airplane window has become a million-dollar forest fire fighting industry in British Columbia.

Skyway Air Services began fighting fires this way 13 years ago in small aircraft. Today, the company has a fleet of 16 Avenger bombers.

"Water is old hat in modern aerial firefighting, and special long and short-term retardents, with fantastic ability to arrest flames, are used," said Percy Lotzer, Skyways assistant general manager.

The B.C. government doesn't have a forest fleet of its own. It contracts the work to private companies with 46 airplanes—from small spotter aircraft to four-engine Martin Mars.

Forestry officials do not say that air bombing is anything like the total answer, but the planes are considered an invaluable weapon in battling small blazes before they gain hold. Without them, there would be far more than the 3,200 men and 170 machines currently fighting fires in B.C., which has been plagued by fires this year.

This year, Skyway has a basic $200,000 contract with the B.C. government. It is for July and August with a minimum-hour total already used up. The company now is getting $500 hourly fee, and Mr. Lotzer said "it is safe to say the contract will more than double this year."

When the former Canadian Navy five bombers are not fighting forest fires in B.C., they are 4,000 miles away doing forestry spray work in New Brunswick for a consortium of government—and industrial groups called Forestry Protection Ltd.

The planes fly to the east coast in mid-May and return at the end of June, after completing a $250,000 spraying contract in the Maritimes.

After completing their eastwest assignments from May to September, the Avengers' wings are quietly folded and the planes placed in mothballs for the winter.

During the short, busy, spraying season, with long hours and seven days a week, pilots can earn from $1,500 to $2,000 a month.

The big Martin Mars planes are owned by a group of five B.C. forestry companies that formed Forest Industries Flying Tankers Co.

"Aerial tankers aren't used much on large fires," said one forestry official. They are best for containing and controlling work, to gain time until ground crews can get in.

A system is applied. It goes like this:

A study of weather forecasts gives a lead on areas where sighting is likely to set off new blazes. Patrol planes keep a close watch and, when they spot a fire, they radio the sightings to home base.

An aerial tanker, often of the Martin Mars variety, capable of spewing 6,000 gallons, is dispatched to the fire scene. A helicopter will follow with ground fighters who can be parachute-dropped into the zone and conduct mopping up operations.

Confederation Two-Step

John Chataway and Larry Ostler, two university students from Lindsay, passed through Trenton yesterday en route to Expo '67 on foot. The pair are dressed to depict Sir John A. Macdonald and George Etienne Cartier.

Centennial Walkers Depict Two Fathers of Confederation

TRENTON — For two history-conscious Lindsay youths, the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway is Highway 2.

Wearing waistcoats, ascots, and with their canvas rucksacks, John Chataway and Larry Ostler passed through here on foot yesterday en route to Expo '67.

The 20-year-old university students depict themselves as the foremost fathers of confederation — Sir John A. Macdonald and George Etienne Cartier.

Their motive? It's laid out very explicitly in pamphlets being passed out by the Montreal-bound walkers.

"We believe that the contributions made by these two great Canadians, one English and one French, the spirit in which they worked, the high goals they achieved deserve great recognition. We lament today's deviation from the obvious principles of personal trust and dedication to the common good that these two men represent."

The brochures contain thumb-nail histories of the historically-prominent duo and are being distributed along the 350-mile trek to Montreal.

The travellers left Lindsay (about 20 miles west of Peterborough) Sunday, and, making 20 miles daily, hope to arrive at Expo Sept. 6.

Reeves and mayors of every municipality along the way are being asked to sign a declaration drawn up by Lindsay town council.

To the average motorist, the pair appear like just another more Centennial attention-seekers, but they are serious in their approach.

Policemen Charged In Riot Aftermath

Detroit policemen and a private guard were charged Wednesday with conspiring to "beat, abuse and intimidate" several persons during last month's riots.

A third police officer was named as a conspirator but not as a defendant in a warrant issued by Wayne County prosecutor William Cahalan.

The charges were filed in connection with an incident July 26 at the Algiers Motel, in which three Negro youths were killed. Several other persons complained that they were beaten before mentioning in the motel when police were seeking snipers.

Named in the warrant were Detroit patrolmen David Senak and Robert Paille and a private guard, Melvin Dismukes. Police officer Ronald August was named co-conspirator.

Paille and August earlier were charged with murder in the deaths of two of the youths. At pre-trial hearings last week, August was ordered to stand trial on the charges, but Paille was freed for lack of evidence.

Dismukes, a Negro, has been bound over for trial on charges of felonious assault in the beatings of two young Negroes at the motel the same night.

Ship Strike Cuts Supply Of Grain

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario dairy farmers could face a serious grain shortage if the strike by members of the Seafarers' International Union continues much longer, grain brokers said Wednesday.

Douglas Wakely, treasurer for Cosmelia Co. Ltd., Toronto grain brokers, said the strike "is causing a grain shortage — there is none for sale."

No grain is available from Goderich, Owen Sound, Collingwood and Toronto elevators because of the strike, he said.

A spokesman for Cooperth and Cooper Ltd. of Toronto, another brokerage house, said some of the grain still on ships idle in the strike will spoil if it is not unloaded soon.

However, he felt it would be two or three weeks before farmers began to feel the pinch of the grain shortage.

A representative of Toronto brokers Parrish and Heimbecker, Ltd. said most feed mill owners anticipated the strike and stocked up.

A Kitchener - area farmer said the grain shortage does not improve quickly, he and other farmers will be forced to sell livestock.

Farm Loans Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp announced Wednesday that 42,862 loans worth a total of $111,615,236 have been made under the Farm Improvement Loans Act in the first half of 1967, compared with 42,940 worth $104,153,853 for the same period in 1966.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials staged a technical rally in heavy morning trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange after four days of losses.

Brokers say the rebound was a result of the market being in a heavily oversold position.

Osborne A and Moore Corp. moved up ½ each to 44¼ and 32¼, Bank of Montreal ¼ to 13 and Loeb ¼ to 17¾.

Algoma Steel continued to slide following the company's April announcement to suspend its $175,000,000 expansion program and lay off about 900 workers. The stock dropped ½ to 23½.

Massey-Ferguson fell ⅛ to 21 following a company announcement that nine-month earnings dropped to $22,000,000 compared with $32,700,000 for the similar period last year.

Western oils were down as Central-Del Rio dipped ¼ to 21⅝ and Scurry-Rainbow ¼ to 48¼. Scurry jumped 3⅝ Wednesday. However, there were no news explaining the sudden rise.

In the speculative side, Newnorth rose 1 to 16 cents on 145,000 shares while Chesterville eased 3 to 41 cents on 132,000.

Industrials gained .40 to 197.25 on index. Golds fell 1.7 to 171.96, base metals .34 to 100.98 and western oils .66 to 197.11. Volume by 11 a.m. totalled 1,237,000 shares compared with 848,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Industrials slumped in moderate trading Wednesday.

In industrial index backed off .55 to 197.45.

Mogan Electronics packed the decline, falling 1¼ to 16½, Amber A and Supertest each dipped 1 to 20 and 25½ and Algoma Steel ½ to 24.

Scurry-Rainbow jumped 3⅝ to 48¼ with most of the gain in the last hour of trading. The rise was sparked by buying on the American exchange.

Among other oils, Dome rose 1⅛ to 57 while Bestf declined ¾ to 18 and Central-Del Rio ¼ to 22.

Dome Mines tumbled 4¼ to 52¼ in golds. However, trading in the stock was extremely light.

Chesterville was the most active issue, up ½ to 41 cents on 533,000 shares. The company has a copper prospect in the Chesterville Stream area of New Brunswick.

On index, golds were off 1.61 to 173.53, base metals .65 to 101.22 while western oils rose .53 to 197.77. Volume was 4,307,000 shares compared with 3,890,000 Tuesday.

Cabinet Is Undecided About Barrie TV Move

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson fielded a variety of questions at a news conference Wednesday.

Mr. Pearson said the cabinet is still trying to decide whether to permit CKVR-TV in Barrie to move closer to Toronto to broadcast into the Ontario capital.

The Board of Broadcast Governors has approved the controversial move, which has caused strong protests that it would interfere with reception from two Buffalo channels.

On another point, he said unemployment insurance legislation, brought in to provide increases in benefits, is still high-priority with the government. But he was not sure the government could get them through this fall. They may have to wait until next year.

No government intervention is planned "at the moment" in the Seafarers' International Union strike on Great Lakes ships.

Mr. Pearson expected the next report of the much-criticized commission on bicultural-ism and bilingualism to be in his hands by October. Although not the final report, it will be a substantial reading. After that he said the government had reduced its demands on the money market for loan requirements. He promised another look at the question in the fall.

The prime minister did not know whether Nigeria had made any requests for aid from Canada since the outbreak of the civil war.

It was described to have election reform carried out before the next federal election, particularly on the location of election expenses. The legislation was on the government's legislation list.

He "wouldn't be shocked" if there was an election next year.

The Company of Young Canadians had made mistakes, some of them sensational.

But many members of the company were doing good work, Mr. Pearson said, "have to balance" one against the other in a report later to Parliament.

There had been no new diplomatic initiatives by Canada lately in the Vietnam war. But Canada is doing what it can to end it.

The July, 1966, starting date for the national medicare program will be maintained. It is up to the provinces to decide whether they will come in at that time or later.

Housebreaker, with a medical care program long in operation, will certainly join up immediately to get federal money.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH R. RICHMOND

Richmond – Pugh

Canon Allan J. Anderson of Kingston, uncle of the bridegroom officiated at the wedding ceremony in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, August 19, 1967, when Margaret Elizabeth Pugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pugh, Belleville became the bride of Kenneth Rowlands Richmond, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Richmond of Picton.

Rev. Allan W. Leader of Christ Church assisted at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by church organist John C. Withers who accompanied the 12 choir boys in appropriate nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor-length sheath styled wedding gown of white French peau de sole with the fitted bodice featuring a scooped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves enhanced with Alencon lace. Matching lace also adorned the bottom of the skirt and the detachable chapel train which flowed from the back neckline. She wore a wedding band headdress of matching peau de soie touched with Alencon lace caught to nylon illusion cathedral veil, and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. T. Silsbury of Toronto as matron of honor wore an A-line floor-length gown of golden bamboo chiffon with matching chiffon headdress with velvet bow. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white 'mums. The bridesmaids Miss Patricia Skelton of Vancouver, Miss Bernadette Hobson of Picton and Miss H. Marilyn Bateman of Belleville were dressed alike in gladioli pink chiffon, full-length A-line dresses with matching velvet ribbon trim. Their headdresses were bows of chiffon and velvet ribbon to match their gowns. Each carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli with pink tinted centres.

The flower girl Miss Jillian Pugh of Toronto, cousin of the bride, wore a floor-length blue chiffon dress styled to match those other attendants, with blue velvet ribbon at the waistline. She carried a white basket of gladioli.

Richard R. Richmond attended his brother while the ushers were Jon Le Heup of Picton, Dr. John E. Anderson, cousin of the bridegroom, and George E. Pugh, brother of the bride.

At the reception at the Belleville Yacht Club, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a beige linen ensemble of dress and matching coat with appliqued lace trim with beige and gold accessories and a corsage of Yuletide roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a sleeveless sheath of pale blue silk shantung with matching jacket, a tulle hat in blue tones with contrasting leaves and a yellow centred white orchid corsage.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, the bride donned an ensemble of three piece suit in popcorn knit with three-quarter length coat, beige accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Upon return Mr. and Mrs. Richmond will reside at 84 William Street, Ayon View Terrace, Stratford, Ontario.

Scott – Cole

MR. AND MRS. GRAYDON B. SCOTT

Recently the marriage of Carol Ann Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Cole, Halifax, Nova Scotia to Graydon Brian Scott, North Bay, son of Mrs. Patricia Scott, Belleville was performed in the Queen of Heaven Chapel, North Bay, Father Kelly officiated and organ music was rendered by Mrs. Lee Bucher.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Seldon Cole wore a floor-length gown of peau de charme fashioned with an Empire waistline and a-line skirt with train flowing from a bow at back. The bodice featured a round neckline trimmed with Chantilly lace, and bell sleeves. Her headdress was a crown of pearls attached to a fingertip veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white and apricot roses.

Miss Louise MacMillan as maid of honor and the bridesmaid Miss Shirley Ambrose were identically attired in floor-length gowns of apricot peau de soie with Empire waistlines. They wore bow headdresses of matching material and carried nosegays of white carnations and apricot roses. Miss Susan Cole, cousin of the bride was flower girl wearing a floor-length gown of apricot peau de soie fashioned with Empire waistline and bell sleeves. Her headdress was a band of pearls and she carried a basket of white carnations and apricot rosebuds. Master Larry Cole, cousin of the bride was ring-bearer.

Groomsmen were James Filipov and the ushers were John and Peter Scott, both brothers of the bridegroom.

For the reception at the Servicemens' Mess C.F.B., North Bay, the bride's mother Mrs. Margaret Cole received the guests wearing a multi-color sheath with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a pink crepe dress with a lace and beaded neckline, and one pleat of matching lace, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Halifax, Nova Scotia, the bride wore a two-piece white suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

The couple will reside in North Bay.

Woman Drag Racer Has Own Sponsor

EDMONTON (CP)—Pretty Lynda Fern is making things rough for men in the hard world of drag racing.

Lynda, 20, is one of Canada's few women drag racers. What's more, she has a sponsor.

Albert Brenchen knows how it feels to be beaten by a girl in the quarter-mile race.

More than 7,000 drag fans watched as Lynda defeated Brenchen in the B stock automatic class at Speedway Park, Edmonton's drag strip.

In the finals of the elimination, Brenchen entered a stock and Lynda took her 410-horsepower Ford through the traps a fraction of a second ahead of him.

Lynda, who operates an electric typewriter when she's not sitting behind 426 cubic inches of engine, says she first began racing in Toronto "with guys ago "on a dare."

She liked her first experience so much, she bought her own 289-cubic-inch F-stock automatic machine and raced it all season.

Her habit of turning over the 14- and 15-second quarter mile prompted a Toronto Ford dealer to offer her full sponsorship this year, complete with the powder-blue 428.

Lynda has improved every time she climbed into her car. She won the stock eliminator class in the Canadian Nationals at Winnipeg in July.

MALE RACES WEAKER ?

MADISON, Wisc. (AP) — Wisconsin's Industrial commissioner, Gene A. Rowland, has proposed a study of jobs women are physically able to do. "It may prove that the male sex is not equipped to do the job that men have been doing. In hospitals there are few complaints from women with back trouble but a lot from males," he said.

Picture in Paper Offensive to Dutch Mother

Dear Doris: I'm one of your fans. I hope you will put a little peace in for me.

I saw last night that picture from Mrs. Van Something and her two kids in the nude. It is bad enough to be called a D.P., foreigner, and communist but is give the Canadians the impression that those things are allowed in our country and that we have no morals is disgusting and hurting a lot of Dutch people.

DORIS CLARE

It is not allowed on public where you go to Holland. Whatever owns a swimming pool has to make sure it is all wooden fence around. — Dutch Mother.

Dear Mother: I see what you mean. I saw that picture in the paper and didn't give it a second thought. The camera angle produced a quite modest portrait of tiny bodies enjoying the hot sun. It never even occurred to me that the pans of the mother was Dutch in origin.

Among my best friends I number some who come from Holland. English . Canadians are proud to have you here.

Dear Doris: I am 17; have quit school and am working. I pay board and help at home as well. Could you please tell me how old a girl must be before she can leave home? I do not get along very well with my two older brothers and I feel I could do better on my own.

My younger brothers are always getting into something of mine and I feel I have no privacy at all. — New Beginning.

Dear New: Anything over 18 is legal, now that you've shown you can support yourself. But don't jump from the frying pan into the fire.

"Brothers are born for adversity" — which in plain English means it is only when things go wrong that a boy shows he gives two hoots for his sister. Once you have all grown up and are tackling king-size dilemmas you'll appreciate them in a way you'd never believe possible now.

Living on your own isn't all roses. Better think it over and talk it over. Don't leave in a pique; and be sure there is a friendly door open to walk back in if you find you want to back track later.

Dear Doris: My best pal is getting married. When I got married my husband bestowed about everything being done for the bride and I must say I agreed with him.

Isn't there something I could do for Josie's boy friend so he won't feel like an "also ran"? — Janie.

Dear Janie: Sure. Give him a shower — like my friend Joanne did. All the boys and girls came.

Non got things like a deep French fryer, a chef's apron, chef's hat, potato peeler, men's cosmetics, about order cook book. They read him a poem written for the occasion. And a wonderful time was had by all.

Dear Doris: Would it be right for a divorced woman 32 years old, who has a son five years old, to be married in church in a short white lace dress? — Just Wondering

Dear Just Wondering: No. Any color in the rainbow but white; which is the traditional symbol of virginity.

There are Canadian resources to help solve your problem. Write to Doris for direction, enclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope for private reply.

Ann Landers

This Reader's Letter Can Save Lives

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a message that can save lives and I want to reach as many people as possible. Please print my letter.

ANN LANDERS

A dear friend and a fine human being died recently because he did something that many of us would do without giving it a second thought. It seems so harmless. My friend went down to his basement after a heavy rain, waded through 12 inches of water, tried to disconnect an electric appliance and was electrocuted.

Please tell people who have basements that tend to flood to go down and disconnect the appliances before the floor gets covered with water. If the basement is already flooded, they should call the electric company and ask them to shut off the power from the outside.

This friend was a clergyman, a wonderful human being who knew a great many things, but he paid with his life for not knowing this one bit of information. Thank you for printing this — CHICAGO.

DEAR CHICAGO: Here is your letter, and I hope parsons will discuss this column with their children at dinner tonight. Thank you for writing. You have alerted 56 million people.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How long does it take to recover from a broken heart? It's been over a year since I discovered that letter in my husband's pocket. He denied being seriously involved — called me a mixed-up "Jealousy" for suspecting. According to him the woman was fantasizing and described things she had hoped would happen, but never did.

I have always been insecure and sensitive, especially where my marriage was concerned. My husband is handsome and vigorous and women simply flip over him. I am plain and quiet and never understood why he married me. When I found that letter I went to pieces, and I can't seem to pull myself together.

We have three beautiful children and a lovely home. I have tried to recover from this blow but I'm not making the grade. My doctor told me to forgive and forget. Is it possible? — STILL HURTING.

* * *

DEAR STILL: You bet it's possible. Millions of women are doing it. And most of them have a lot more evidence than you have, Lady. If you can't forgive him for his age, forgive him for your sake. From the sound of your letter, I suspect if your husband didn't have a girl friend, you'd invent one.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How long should a former governor call himself "Governor?"

A certain gentleman, who shall be unnamed, has not held this office for one heck of a long time, yet his wife refers to him as "the Governor" and so do other relatives.

Give them the word, will you? — UNIMPRESSED.

DEAR UN.: The word is for you. Although former governors (and other public officials as well) do not continue to use the title officially, they often retain the title for the rest of their lives. This does not bother me in the least, but obviously it bothers the daylight out of you. Why?

U.C.W. Meetings

RYLSTONE UCW

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Raymond Stewart was hostess to the Rylstone United Church Women, for their August meeting, at her home Wednesday afternoon. There was an attendance of 14.

The president, Mrs. Ross McMillan opened the meeting and conducted the devotional period. Mrs. Wilfred Spencer read a passage from the study book.

Mrs. Lloyd Anderson was convener for the program which consisted of readings by Mrs. Truscean Miller, Mrs. John Spencer and Mrs. Aaron Anderson.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committees.

MOUNTAIN VIEW WI

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. Kenneth Mosley was hostess at the cottage at Consecon Lake for the August meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute. Mrs. Wilfred Mosley was co-hostess. As the day was rainy about 18 women and nine children had the picnic dinner inside. Following the meal a business meeting was held as there were many items to discuss which took most of the afternoon.

Mrs. Nightingale thanked Mrs. Mosley and her mother, Mrs. Knox for the hospitality and the meeting was adjourned.

The September meeting will be held on September 6th at 1 p.m. and will be in the form of a tour with everyone meeting at the home of Mrs. Burkholder.

Shower Held For Couple Wed in USA

RAWDON — Recently Mr. and Mrs. Burton Morton of Harold, R.R. 2 entertained 30 close relatives and friends in a reception in Havelock Hotel in honor of their daughter Mildred and husband Raymond W. Konan who were married recently in the chapel at Cornell University, Ithaca, U.S.A.

Following dinner the group gave the afternoon at the Morton home where pictures of the wedding were shown.

The out of friends from Wellmans and Bethel tendered the young couple a shower at the bride's home. John Carfield was master of ceremonies. The bridegroom showed a large assortment of pictures taken in Italy, Sicily, also scenes taken on their wedding trip along with local pictures including views of the 1961 Rising Fair.

Mrs. Stewart Hoover read the address and Miss Julia Russell made the presentation of a purse of money on behalf of the group in attendance. Rob Mildred and Ray voiced thanks after which refreshments were served.

At the time also the family of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Morton gave them a pleasant surprise when they were presented with a three-tier anniversary cake by the family on the occasion of their 30th wedding anniversary.

The group in attendance included the best man, one of the ushers and the soloist and flower girl of the 1937 wedding party.

At the first of the week Mr. and Mrs. Konan returned to Washington, D.C. where both are employed.

Silver Cake with Lime Filling

By MARY MOORE

A silver cake beloved by my brother in his college days was recalled when a reader asked for something similar, but she told down a condition: she wanted to make it in her electric mixer.

We had fun making this for it was a joint effort. My secretary, Shirley, made the cake and a lime filling based on lemon filling. I assembled the cake and made the frosting and "cut myself a piece of cake and made myself at home" with a cup of tea.

yolks are used in filling.)

Measure dry ingredients into sifter and sift into heater bowl. Add shortening, ¾ cup milk, vanilla and almond extract. Beat 2 min. on med. speed, scraping down bowl once with spatula during this beating. Add ¼ cup milk (second amount) and unbeaten whites and beat 1½ min. longer at medium speed. Turn into two layer cake pans or 8" diam. lined on bottom with buttered paper and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 25 min. Cool on racks.

Lime Filling:
¼ cup sugar
2 tbsps. flour
dash of salt
½ cup water
3 egg yolks, well beaten
2 tbsps. butter
¼ cup lime juice
½ tsp. grated lime rind
Green food coloring.

Combine sugar, flour and salt in heavy saucepan, add water and 3 egg yolks, mixing thoroughly. Cook stirring until thick and clear. Remove from heat; add butter, rind and coloring and stand pan in cold water and stir 1 min. then add lime juice. Cool.

Lime Frosting:
2 tbsps. butter
1½ cups unsifted icing sugar
Shake of salt
Grated rind and juice (2 tbsps.) 1 med. lime
1 tsp. water
Green food coloring to delicately tint.

Beat all frosting ingredients until of spreading consistency. Spread bottom layer with Lime Filling. Cover with top layer. Frost top and sides with Lime Frosting.

A lovely change in layer cake.

Anglicans Will Let Divorced Re-marry

OTTAWA (CP)—The general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada adopted a new law Wednesday night that will permit the re-marriage of divorced persons in the church.

It also provides for the establishment of church commissions that will assess applications for re-marriage from divorced persons and outlines in detail the church's definition of Christian Marriage.

Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, Archbishop of Rupert's Land and Primate of All Canada, welcomed the synod's decision to ratify the canon approved at the Vancouver general synod two years ago.

"We felt that we were being led to this, that we were being faithful to our Lord and also faithful to the realities of the world God gave us," the archbishop told a news conference.

The Canadian decision is regarded as a landmark in the history of the world Anglican communion because only the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States now allows divorced persons to re-marry. However, that church's canon is less broad than the canon approved Wednesday.

"It was not easy to depart from what has been Anglican custom up until now," Archbishop Clark told reporters.

Only three of the 34 bishops at the synod—D. B. Marsh of the Arctic, N.R. Clarke of Caledonia and J. A. Watton of Moosonee—opposed the new canon. The clergy were in favor 85 to nine and the lay delegates 74 to eight.

The canon was expected to arouse considerable controversy at the synod but strong was orderly and the primate attributed this to the careful consideration delegates had given the proposed changes.

He said he hopes the church will better be able to serve its people through the new canon. To be a Christian required heroism but the new law embodied love and kindness, also necessary for Christians.

Two Eskimo delegates from the diocese of the Arctic opposed the canon, after one earlier through a translator said that although the Eskimo has different marriage customs than the white man, he is learning the value of preparing for marriage.

Archbishop Clark said he expects the views of churches will influence consideration by Parliament this fall of new divorce legislation.

"I'm quite certain Parliament will move with great speed," he said, "I don't like the kind of divorces granted now."

He said he hopes for divorce legislation "which will face the need of society."

The Anglican Church of Canada recommended to the parliamentary committee on divorce that marriage breakdown be considered the sole grounds for divorce in Canada. The Senate-Commons committee has recommended expanded grounds but would retain the matrimonial-offence principle and include the breakdown idea partially.

Dean E. B. Cochrane of Nova Scotia, who worked on the committee that drafted the revised canon, described its approval as a "pretty serious move" which he favored.

Prof. H. R. S. Ryan of Queen's University, Kingston, also a committee member, said he was "tremendously pleased" with the synod's decision. Its

Retiring PCs Honored

TORONTO (CP)—Eight Progressive Conservative members of the legislature who will not be contesting their seats in the next Ontario election were honored by their party at a dinner Wednesday.

Two of them—Keiso Roberts (Toronto St. Patrick) and Louis Cecile (Prescott)—retired earlier this year.

Also retiring are William Sandercock, 72, elected in Hastings West in 1942; Keith Brown, 41, Peterborough, 1959; Lloyd Letherby, 67, Simcoe East, 1954; Lez Mackenzie, 52, York North, 1945; Hollis Beckett, 71, York East, 1951; and George Noden, 69, Rainy River, 1951.

Record Could Be Hit

TORONTO (CP)—No. 2 in the House of Commons is going to take a crack at No. 1 on the hit parade.

John Diefenbaker, who has cut a long-playing record for RCA Victor, seems to have made a hit with the buying public.

More than 4,000 advance orders have been placed for his bourdon platter of patter about John A. Macdonald, Sir Winston Churchill and the Bill of Rights, and more are pouring in all the time, says RCA.

The demand has been so heavy since a Montreal radio station played an excerpt this week that RCA plans a rush release next week.

Principals Told to Set Own Grade 13 Standards

STE. ADELE, Que. (CP)—A group of 275 high school teachers from Ontario was told Wednesday they had better get back to being headmasters and stop temporizing."

Rev. Robert W. Meagher, principal of Brebeuf High School in Willowdale, Ont., said that if principals want a replacement for the Grade 13 examinations to be eliminated in the province next year they should set the standards themselves.

"If quality control is the objective of school principals, then they must be prepared to take the responsibility for it," he said.

Rev. Meagher spoke as part of a five-man panel during opening sessions of a three-day conference held in this Laurentian community by the Ontario Secondary School Headmasters' Association.

J. R. H. Morgan of the University of Toronto, panel chairman, said the whole idea of dropping the Grade 13 examinations had been a mistake from the beginning, since it meant dropping necessary yardsticks for measuring student ability.

Don Brousseau, principal of Kapuskasing high school, said he is worried about the "rapidly declining" quality of teachers entering the system.

"There are too many misfits coming in—people who are militant, egotistical and demanding and whose prime concern is 'how much and how soon,'" he said.

Mr. Brousseau's remarks brought a quick spate of counter-charges from another panelist, Charles McCaffrey, vice-president of Napean high school in Ottawa and president of the 27,000-member Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

"There are some principals who are misfits too," Mr. McCaffrey replied.

"If there is something wrong with the system, then somewhere along the line some of the people in this room did not have the guts to prevent the misfits from evolving. . . .

"Don't forget for a moment that most of the young teachers coming into the profession are the products of your own schools," he said.

"Your own sins are simply coming home."

Survivor Tells of His Ordeal Trapped Inside Upset Ship

WEDGEPORT, N.S. (CP)—This small Acadian fishing community on Nova Scotia's southwestern coast will bury six of its fishermen Saturday following a marine tragedy unparalleled in the history of the village.

The men died early Wednesday when the herring seiner Silver King I collided with the Saint John, N.B., tug Ocean Rockswift in fog-shrouded waters off Yarmouth, 19 miles south of here.

Lone survivor of the collision, Robert McDowell, 27, of Hackensack, N.J., said Wednesday his survival was "an act of God."

Rescued after floating inside the bow section of the seiner for three hours, McDowell told of going into the forecastle of the vessel to sleep and being awakened by three sharp reports.

"The first thing I knew—bang, I was out of the bunk—bang—I was on the floor. Bang —we were upside down with water all around. After the second crash the lights went out."

The six others aboard the vessel drowned. They were Roderick Boudreau, 35, captain of the vessel; Edward Boudreau, 40, Vernon Boudreau, 24, Stanley Bourque, Raymond LeBlanc and Camille LeBlanc, all of Wedgeport.

McDowell, who went along on the trip during a vacation with relatives here, said he was left floating in an air pocket which formed within the hull of the vessel and kept her bow section barely above water.

"Camille LeBlanc who was with me said we were goners, but I told him stick with me and we'll get out," McDowell said. But LeBlanc, a non-swimmer, disappeared below the water within a few minutes.

"First the water was up to my waist but it gradually began to fill up and finally I had my nose against the boat and my chin in the water. I was waiting for daylight so I could see the open forward hold or a porthole."

Meanwhile, eight miles away, aboard the herring seiner Rose Marie of Wilson's Beach, N.B., which had picked up a distress signal from the Silver King II, a sister ship of the tripoled vessel.

"He gave me his bearings and we started out wide open" said Captain Medford Matthews on the Rose Water. Burris MacGown, first mate of the Stub Water, was aboard a skiff which first reached the Silver King I.

"It didn't look very good," he said. "She had toppled and her hull was sticking out of the water about a foot or more."

The six men aboard the skiff began beating on the hull with oars and when they heard no response, Burris MacGown climbed on the slippery hull and began beating with a hammer.

The noise reached McDowell who answered by beating a gas can in response.

About 45 minutes later, with the aid of crew members from several other vessels, McDowell was hauled from the compartment covered with oil. The rescue party had chopped its way through the bow section to the trapped man.

Three-week Visit Planned

DESERONTO — Arriving at Toronto International Airport on Monday evening, was Mrs. W. Higgins sr., of Kernahan, England. She has come for a three-week visit with her daughter Mrs. Bert Coles and family, St. George St., and her son Mr. William Higgins and Mrs. Higgins, Green St.

She also plans on spending some time with her daughter Mrs. R. Batt and family, Kingston. This is Mrs. Higgins' third visit since her children moved to Canada 14 years ago. Her husband was not well enough to make the trip this time.

Shulman Seen as Retreating From His Original Accusations

TORONTO. (CP)—The Parker royal commission was told Wednesday that Dr. Morton Shulman is retreating from his original charges that government officials suppressed evidence or interfered with inquests and investigations by the coroner's office.

Barry Pepper, lawyer for Dr. H. B. Cotnam, Ontario's supervising coroner, told Mr. Justice W. D. Parker that Dr. Shulman, former Metropolitan Toronto chief coroner, was trying to soften the terms of reference of the commission and no longer claimed impropriety by officials.

A request by E. B. Jolliffe, Dr. Shulman's lawyer, that the word "improper" be substituted for "unlawful" in the terms of reference, was called by Mr. Pepper "a downhill retreat . . . an attempt to cover his tracks."

Mr. Pepper, who also is representing William Common, former deputy attorney-general, noted Dr. Shulman was not at the hearing and said he "should be here publicly . . . to eat crow."

When Mr. Pepper made his remarks about Dr. Shulman retreating from his charges, Mr. Justice Parker said:

"I wonder if the government would ever have held an inquiry and spent these public funds if there were no allegations of anything illegal."

Mr. Pepper said:

"So true. It wouldn't have been news and it wouldn't have got the attention."

Mr. Pepper asked the commissioner to judge the evidence under the original terms of reference.

Mr. Pepper asked the commissioner to confine his investigation to the original order-in-council, containing Dr. Shulman's charge of "unlawful" interference.

Dr. Shulman made the charge after he was fired in April as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto.

Mr. Pepper called Dr. Shulman a headline hunter and a man more interested in personal glory and power than in others.

He said Dr. Shulman should have been fired as chief coroner years ago and said his ability as a coroner and physician is questionable.

Mr. Pepper complained that most or all of Dr. Shulman's charges of suppression of inquests and inquest evidence have not been proved.

"I'm not suggesting Shulman was all bad—highly intelligent, witty, skilful debater, good fender," he said, "and in the very occasional case he's done some good."

Mr. Justice Parker said at the conclusion of the session that his findings will take at least a month to prepare.

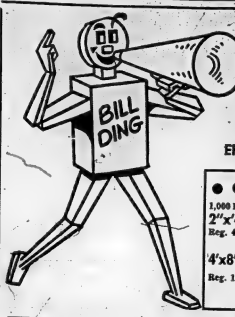
Growing Reliance on Drugs Problem of Ordinary People

TORONTO (CP)—An increasing dependence on drugs is basically a problem of ordinary people, not of hippies or beatniks, says Charles Hammond, chief of the federal narcotics control branch.

Speaking at a National Association of Coroners seminar Wednesday, Mr. Hammond said a growing number of our population is confronted with a pill problem.

He said in an interview later the proportion of heroin addicts was decreasing and now numbers about 2,000 to 3,500 in Canada. The use of the hallucinatory drug LSD also seemed to be decreasing at the moment, he said, but marijuana was becoming more popular among drug users.

Insp. E. Stuart Lorse of the Ontario Provincial Police criminal investigation branch also told the coroners' seminar that the use of drugs now has spread to high schools and universities.



Insp. Lorse told the coroners they are in a strong position to help control drug use through inquests which could publicize the dangers.

Insp. Lorse said barbiturate poisoning was blamed for 187 of 603 deaths attributed to suicide in Ontario in 1966.

Dr. Keigh Simpson, a British Expert in forensic medicine and a consultant to Scotland Yard, warned the coroners against believing suicide notes. He said they should never take anything at face value.

"Anybody can poison anybody," he said.

Dr. Simpson showed a chart indicated a rapid increase in the use of barbiturates and aspirin in poisoning deaths.

Angry Pickets Struggle With Police at London

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Angry pickets clashed twice with police Wednesday at the strike-bound Enco Ltd. plant as strikers harassed non-union workers entering and leaving the plant.

Two of the strikers were slightly injured and a third was charged with malicious damage.

The trouble started Wednesday morning when the strikers, a members of Local 2004, United Steelworkers of America turned out in a show of solidarity following Tuesday night's rejection of the company's latest contract offer in the three-month strike.

Eugene McDowell, 23, one of a group of strikers trying to bar the entrance of a youth reporting for work, injured his left leg when he either slipped, fell or was pushed into the path of a car's front wheels as pickets and police wrestled in a gateway. He was treated and released from hospital, but was on crutches.

A second striker, mechanic Anthony Favis, 34, was charged with wilful damage following a car-wrecking, egg-throwing incident which ended with a car aerial being torn off.

Mr. Favis is free on $200 bail and will appear in court Tuesday.

About 30 police in 11 patrol cars and two paddy wagons were called to the scene.

Again at 2 p.m. when workers left the plant more than 100 strikers were there to harass them.

After blocking cars' entrance with cement blocks, the strikers repeated the morning tactics, rocking cars and pounding their fists on them and hurling insults. Police broke up the crowd.

Pat Daley, union representative, wasn't critical of police, saying they were only doing their duty. He did criticize non-union employees working at the plant.

Mr. Daley said legal action will be launched against the driver of the car which injured Mr. McDowell.

R. W. Reed, Enco personnel manager, said it was the car driver's first day on the job and "with the screaming and pushing he probably got a bit excited and came through the gate fast."

The striking union members turned down 126 to 30 a company offer several days ago. Issue: wages.

It involved a two-year contract, immediate hourly wage increases ranging from 15 to 24 cents an hour, with increases of 15 cents after eight months and an additional 15 after 18 months.

The union said the offer was rejected because the workers want a two-year contract made retroactive to April 1 when the old contract expired. They also asked that their incentive rates be maintained at 33 per cent, and that the company contribution to their insurance program be increased.

A company spokesman said the company would not seek an injunction to restrict the number of pickets.

W. G. Schneider Is Research Head

OTTAWA (CP)—William Georges Schneider, who was born less than a year before the National Research Council was founded 51 years ago, will become the government-operated council's sixth full-time president Sept. 1.

The appointment of Dr. Schneider to replace retiring president Dr. E. G. Ballard, was announced Wednesday by Minister Pearson during a news conference Wednesday.

Dr. Schneider, is scientific vice-president of the Ottawa-based NRC and has been with the council since 1946 after working in the U.S. during the Second World War.

Internationally known for his contribution to the study of inter-molecular forces and molecular properties, he has written more than 100 scientific papers and was author of also a technical book, High Resolution Nuclear Magnetic Resonance.

Married, with two daughters, he is a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, the Royal Society, London, and the Chemical Institute of Canada. He was the chemical institute's medal in 1961.

Dr. Ballard, 65, who retires at the end of the month, joined NRC in 1939, the year the late Dr. R. M. Tory was appointed as the council's first full-time president and the council started the transition from a purely advisory body to an active research organization.

A native of Port Stewart, Ont., Dr. Ballard is an electrical engineer who became scientific vice-president in 1954 after heading the radio and electrical engineering division.

He also has an international reputation, having written papers on high voltage research. During the Second World War, he worked on anti-magnetic mine equipment.

French Canada's Struggle Is Seen As Perpetual One

OTTAWA (CP)—French Canada is "condemned to struggle forever" for its identity, a conference of French-language educationists was told Wednesday.

Claude Morin, Quebec associate minister of intergovernmental affairs, told a conference of l'Association canadienne d'education de langue francaise that "French-Canadians will never be in the majority in Canada and their economic and linguistic strength will always be less than that of their North American neighbors."

A great part of the battle for existence and expansion, Mr. Morin said, would take place within French Canada itself, against its own indolence and middle-class tendencies.

He added that French-speaking Canadians outside Quebec should look for leadership towards the government of Quebec.

Earlier, the federal deputy minister of northern affairs, Ernest Cote, said the most urgent problem facing French-speaking residents of Ontario is establishment of bilingual secondary schools.

He told the delegates Frenco-speaking Canadians are being held back because Ontario's high schools 'do not offer teaching in French.

"French-speaking Ontarians will be a burden on society so long as they are not able to work at the greatest efficiency," he said, "and this efficiency cannot be obtained unless the individual is able to develop in a cultural context native to him."

Largest Quebec Delegation Ever to Attend PC Convention

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Relations between French - speaking and English speaking Canadians Wednesday received liberal treatment by candidates seeking to unseat John Diefenbaker as national leader of the Conservative party.

And while several of the nine candidates for the job set about wooing Quebec votes, party headquarters in Toronto said the largest Quebec delegation ever to attend a national event of the Conservative party will go to the Sept. 5-7 leadership convention there.

Officials said that for the first time every Quebec constituency will be represented, and that the Quebec group will be second in strength only to the Ontario delegation.

In Quebec City, George Hees told a press conference future prime ministers should be completely bilingual.

With coaching of two bilingual aides, the former trade minister spoke in French until he was asked for his opinion on the role of the monarchy. "Perhaps I will answer that in English because it is a very important question," said Mr. Hees.

Most Canadians were proud and pleased with the connections "we have with the Queen and the Commonwealth," Mr. Hees said before going on to advocate "practice, policies, practice" for English- speaking Canadians wanting to learn French.

In Regina, Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin told a news conference he intends to continue basing his platform on a call for improved relations between English - and French - speaking Canadians. Mr. Roblin, who is fluent in French, said it would do other politicians good to be able to speak both languages.

"Let's have a little more Canadianism. Politicians must be prepared to say the same thing in one part of Canada as another," Mr. Roblin has said he will resign as Manitoba premier in his national leadership bid.

At Windsor, Ont., Nova Scotia Premier Robert L. Stanfield told convention delegates Quebec must be given a chance to be heard but not at the expense of other provinces.

"Quebec's relations with the rest of Canada cannot be sidestepped. It is the nation's number one problem. It is not a problem created by politics. It is historical. It is with us. Let's meet it head-on."

In St. John's, Nfld., former finance minister Donald Fleming criticized the report of the Carter royal commission on taxation, and said the threatened strikes by seamen on Canadian National East Coast vessels should not be permitted to continue for an extended period.

Mr. Fleming told a press conference the Carter commission had "erred and erred seriously" in its recommendations. He said he was appalled at the proposals with respect to mining developments and the development of oil and gas resources.

Later, Mr. Fleming told reporters that if the public interest was hurt by the threatened strike by seamen the Parliament should be called and a satisfactory settlement worked out between disputing parties. The strike is set for noon Friday.

Former justice minister Davie Fulton was in Toronto where he talked with 30 of the 77 Conservative members of the Ontario legislature who will be delegates at the convention.

Mr. Fulton said a number of the members had pledged their support but were unwilling to take sides publicly because of an imminent provincial - general election.

Dief Gets My Support If He Wins Says Hees

QUEBEC (CP)—George Hees said Wednesday he is going to win the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

But if John Diefenbaker runs and is retained as leader, the former trade minister told a press conference, "I would support him strongly."

Mr. Hees would not comment on Mr. Diefenbaker's statement that acceptance of the two-nations concept would lead Confederation to ruin.

Asked for his own opinion of the theory that Canada consists of two nations, Mr. Hees read a prepared statement which made no reference to two nations.

It referred to Canada as a nation of "two founding peoples" in English and "deux peuples fondateurs" in French.

Asked for his opinion on the role of the monarchy, he said:

"I think most Canadians are proud and pleased with the connections we have with the Queen and the Commonwealth."

He said he is convinced he has support of Quebec's delegates to the leadership convention in Toronto Sept. 5-6, along with support from delegates in the rest of Canada.

Roblin Repeats Stand Won't Run Provincially

REGINA (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba Wednesday reiterated at a news conference he will not be running for the premiership of Manitoba again, regardless of the outcome of the convention.

He touched on medical care, social problems and Anglo-French relations in Canada.

He said he would have been happier if the impending federal medical care program had been voluntary.

He said he intends to continue basing his platform for the leadership campaign on a call for improved relations between English- and French-speaking Canadians and added it would do other politicians good to be able to speak both languages. Mr. Roblin is fluent in French. "Let's have a little more canadianism," he said. "Politicians must be prepared to say the same thing in one part of Canada as another."

Hamilton Young PCs At Odds Over President

HAMILTON (CP) — An officer of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservative Association Wednesday repudiated a statement issued earlier in the day by a Hamilton Young PC calling for the resignation of Dalton Camp as president of the national party.

Byron Braginsky, first vice - president of the Ontario group, said the views "are in no way representative of the Young PCs either in the Hamilton area or indeed in Ontario."

The earlier statement was issued by Brian Childs, president of the Hamilton Young PC Association. Mr. Braginsky said a letter from the Hamilton group's executive had been sent to Mr. Childs "some time ago" asking for his resignation.

Stanfield Says Welfare Must Be Based on Resources

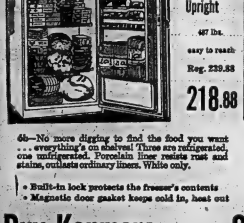
CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Nova Scotia Premier Robert Stanfield said Wednesday he does not want to see the Progressive Conservative party opposed to existing social welfare programs.

Mr. Stanfield, one of nine announced candidates for the party's leadership convention Sept. 7, said he particularly did not want to see his party opposed to the existing family allowance program.

Speaking at a local Conservative meeting, the premier said any further social welfare should be decided on the basis of what the government could afford.

"The big argument is related any new welfare program to the need of the country must first be based on our total resources. The ultimate decisions are not a question of principle but of practical expediency."

Mr. Stanfield said he was opposed to the idea of a guaranteed income for all Canadians.



"A better policy would be a more flexible program of social assistance administered by municipalities. Certainly I would want an adequate floor of security for low income groups but we should think very hard before we go so far as to give every citizen a fixed, inflexible income."

When asked whether he would remain as Nova Scotia premier if he was unsuccessful in the leadership race, Mr. Stanfield said the decision would depend on the circumstances at the time.

He said if he agreed with the views of the successful candidate, he might attempt to win a seat in the House of Commons, but otherwise would return to his premiership.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander
Staff Sportswriter

If you drive past the Bay of Quinte Country Club some time tomorrow and figure nothing in the world is "right" any more, you won't be wrong as far as some 90 golfers are concerned.

The annual Ontario Amateur Southpaw Golf championship will be played here beginning at 8 a.m.

The best left-handed golfers in the province will battle for the glory, and the Wiser's Trophy and Cup, over 18 holes.

There were 91 entries up to yesterday but past entries are being accepted up until 12.30 Friday at the Bay of Quinte's swell little.

Ken Thorpe, well remembered from his fine play here in past tournaments, has to be considered one of the favorites. The Whitevale club ace has won the tournament on more than one occasion but will face plenty of tough opposition if he hopes to add another crown. Thorpe tees off in the 8.31 threesome.

Al McCallam, Greg Wallace and Les Lennox are entered from the host Bay of Quinte Club and will have the local fellowlug pulling for them while another gather returning to his home course of last year is Claire Hoy, now out of a Niagara Falls course.

Club pro George Balazs says the course will be in excellent condition for the tournament. Competing players are allowed one free practice round.

The course will be closed to members and their guests until 3 p.m. tomorrow.

For a couple local softball clubs, the playoff season, provincial-wise at least, will come to an abrupt end tonight unless they come up with winning form.

The Point Anne Cementmen and Ellis Seniors meet win on their home diamonds tonight or forget Ontario title hopes for 1967.

Point Anne hosted the ball all over the park in an 8-3 loss in Batterson Tuesday despite the five-hit, 26-strikeout pitching of Ken Marucic. With a little more support tonight, Marucic should be able to stop the Batterson boys and force a third and deciding game.

Tonight's intermediate "C" affair starts at 8 sharp (remember the early darkness) at Point Anne.

Meanwhile, Ellis' meet Lake Ren Services of Kingston in an 8.30 tilt at Alemite Park facing the same fate. They lost their Senior "B" opener down east 9-5.

Eldon Gow will likely toe the rubber for Belleville tonight with the Busmen selecting either ace Ken Lewis or Phil Litchfield. Ellis' have the players to even the series if they produce a good effort.

If they don't, it will leave the city with only minor clubs still in provincial playoffs at a rather early date.

Unusual Antics

Ticat Rally Upends Ottawa 22-17

HAMILTON (CP)—Some unusual things happened in Thursday's night's Eastern Football Conference game, not the least of which was Hamilton Tiger-Cats' 22-17 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders.

The victory and the unexpected ovation on the field delighted 25,482 fans.

For three quarters, with Hamilton leading 7-0, 14-4 and 16-13, the crowd had little to cheer about.

The Riders started quickly with an 88-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Russ Jackson to Whit Tucker in the first quarter but Tucker added another on an eight-yard pass in the second. Moe Racine converted both and added a 68-yard fourth-quarter field goal.

Hamilton was kept in the game to half time by the prodigious punting of quarterback Tom Casey, who wound up with eight kicks for a 50-yard average, and the field-goal prowess of Tommy-Joe Coffey.

Zoger lofted a 51-yard single in the second quarter and fullback Dick Cotes scored a two-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter. Coffey booted field goals of 11, 41 and 29 yards and scored a 15-yard touchdown on a pass from Zoger in the third quarter.

The victory moved Hamilton into a tie for first place in the conference with Ottawa and Toronto Argonauts, each with two wins and a loss.

Among the unexpected developments on the field were two blocked convert attempts and a pair of interceptions by Hamilton.

The first interception was routine with Hamilton defensive half Ted Page pulling in a Jackson attempt at the Hamilton 44 and racing to the Ottawa 25 before Ronnie Stewart pulled him down.

An interception by Bob Krouse in the fourth quarter damaged Ottawa's chances more severely.

Trailing 20-17 with six minutes remaining, Jackson had moved the Riders from their own 35-yard line to the Hamilton 14 with passes to end Tucker and Margene Adkins, a 20-yard run and a four-yard drive by fullback Bo Scott.

Krouse sniffed out an attempted pass from Stewart to Jackson after the halfback took a handoff. The interception left Hamilton in control. A nullified touchdown with moments remaining did nothing but create confusion and give the Riders a last chance.

Bill Cline took a punt and attempted a pass to Don Gilbert. The pass went astray and Ted Watkins raced into the end zone with the loose ball.

Referee Al Dryburgh if Winnipeg ruled Cline's pass an offside lateral and decreed Hamilton had caused illegal interference. He called the play back and gave the ball to Ottawa.

The Riders tried to capitalize on the unexpected opportunity, but ran out of time.

Ottawa led in most of the statistics, including 18 first downs to Hamilton's 12.

Jackson and Stewart were good on 17 of 26 pass attempts for 233 yards compared with eight of 13 for 186 yards for Zoger. Hamilton held a slight edge in rushing, 136 yards to 126.

Tucker took six passes for 176 yards and Adkins three for 42 while Coffey set the pace for Hamilton with four receptions for 78 yards.

On the ground, Hamilton halfback Willie Bethea charged 85 yards in 13 rushes and Cobee 65 in 14. Fullback Rick Black paced Ottawa with 41 yards on nine carries.

Cowboys Riding High

Stamps Blank Edmonton 16-0

CALGARY (CP)—Jim Thomas of Edmonton Eskimos spurted for 100 yards in 14 carries Wednesday but Calgary Stampeders controlled his teammates and walked off with a 16-0 victory that propelled the Cowboys into first place in the Western Football Conference.

Thomas, nicknamed Long Gone throughout the WFC, did most of his running in Edmonton territory as Calgary defenders produced an outstanding game. He leads the conference in scoring with 42 points.

The victory left Calgary two points ahead of Saskatchewan Roughriders, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and the Eskimos. British Columbia Lions remained in the conference basement.

Calgary jumped into a 15-0 first-half lead and was never in trouble the rest of the way.

Edmonton quarterback Frank Cosentino had his troubles. He was relieved briefly by flanker Randy Kerbow in the second half, but Kerbow was rendered ineffective by the tenacious Calgary defence.

Five pass interceptions harassed the quarterback.

Peter Liske threw touchdown passes to Herm Harrison and Lovell Coleman. Bill Goods was successful on both converts and scored a single in the fourth quarter on a wide field goal attempt. Jim Furlong lofted the ball 71 yards for a single early in the first quarter.

The 21,435 fans were treated more to wind than to exciting football. North winds with gusts to 36 miles an hour whipped through McMahon Stadium.

Harrison almost missed Liske's 10-yard pass into Edmonton's end zone in the first quarter but snapped it out of the air with one hand as he fell.

His later described the catch as "something I've done a lot in practice."

Harrison also set up Calgary's second touchdown. His catches in the second quarter led the Stampeders downfield before Coleman plunged over from the six.

Stevenson Ford defeated Shopping Plaza 10-7 to tie their EMSA Squirt city championship series at one game each.

City Whips Lightfoots

Stinson's Grab 2-1 Squeaker

Lyle Thompson's two - out double in the bottom of the second extra inning broke up a tight pitching duel and gave Stinson's their second consecutive 2-1 win over Black Diamond Cheese last night.

In the other half of the Commercial softball playoff twin bill, City Hotel whipped Lightfoots in a 17-6 slugfest.

Third games in both four-of-seven series are scheduled for next Tuesday, at the Alemite.

The Cheesemen's Sonny Holoway blanked Stinson's without a hit until the fifth while Larry Hull also fired tough, shutout ball on the opposing mound.

Stinson's jumped ahead 1-0 when Jack "Deacon" Whiting broke the no - hitter and scored home on Larry Hull's two - out single. They were the only hits off Holoway until the ninth when he walked Paul Stinson and Thompson ended the game with his double to centre field.

Black Diamond tied it 1-1 in the sixth on a walk and "Pug" Kellar's double.

Hull gave up seven hits in his winning effort, striking out four and walking only one. Holoway fanned seven and passed three in his three - hit setback.

"Pug" Kellar had a double and single, Jack Francis two one - baggers, Bob Fraser, Ross Empey and Holoway one each in defeat.

Lightfoots snapped a 2-2 tie with four runs in the fourth and put the decision in wraps with seven in the fifth against Lightfoots.

Mark Sheridan and Gerry Genereaux combined for a ten - hit win, fanning three and passing the same number. Don Smith took the loss before John French came on in the fourth. They gave up 13 hits and were also hurt by errors, whiffing three and walking six.

Tom Meeker paced the City hit parade with a double and two, singles. Bob Brooks and Doug Murray each contributed two hits, Jack Hughes a triple and Genereaux a double. Sheridan, Brian Smith, Bob Lloyd and Doug Hull added losers.

Lightfoots got three singles from Terry Casselman, two from Rusty Garvin plus a double and single from Paul Goodfellow. Bob Smith, George Perry and Doug Rose had singles.

CNR Wins Tadpole Crown

CNR rode a 17-hit attack to the city championship of the tadpole division last night as they defeated Golden Mile 21-3.

The winners, coached by R. Thorbourne and Fred Newman, received hits from nine members of the squad.

Golden Mile managed but three hits off CNR's pitching pair off Glen Andrews and Randy Hutchinson. The winning duo fanned 15 and walked five.

Pete Hall and Bobby Cunningham struck out 18 but experienced control problems, walking 13, for the Mile.

Pitcher Glen Andrews slammed the game's only home run, and mound-mate Hutchinson had a triple and single to his credit. Dean Newman clouted a triple and two singles, Gary Coogan a double and two singles, and Tony Simard a double and single. Robbie Stanton doubled, Bernard Thompour and Mike Wessels had two base hits each, and Brian Coughlan singled.

Ike Christopher, Bobby Cunningham and Mike Lamirande had the losers' hits. Golden Mile was coached by Bill Slavin.

Error-Riddled Tilt

Printers Whip Picton 11-4

Scoring freely in each of the final four frames, Belleville Mills Printers tripped Picton Kinsmen 11-4 in an error-riddled affair in Picton last night.

Belleville leads the best-of-five Quinte-KASA semi-final series two games to none. No data has been announced for the next game.

Tonight, Ellis' meet Kingston in OASA Sr. "B", in Belleville, while Picton opens their second round OASA Intermediate "B" series against Reddendale in Picton Saturday.

The clubs fought through three scoreless innings before the bubble burst last night. The winners plated two in the top of the fourth and Picton came back with three. Tried in the sixth and seventh decided the issue for Ellis'.

Bob Ehler pitched the victory with relief from Elden Gray in the eighth. They struck out nine and walked one, allowing eight hits.

Workhorse Ken DeMille took the loss before Carl Stacey replaced him in the seventh. They were tagged for a dozen hits, whiffing seven and walking one.

Picton committed six errors and Belleville made five.

Stu Muirhead and Ralph Pizzo spearheaded the winners' free-swinging attack. Muirhead slammed a three-run homer and two singles while Pizzo stroked four one-baggers.

Don Gardiner added a double and single, Terry LeSage, Larry Mavety and Carl Boomhower a base hit each.

Carl Stacey hit a triple and single, Ken DeMille a double and single and Keith Matthew slid two one-baggers. Keith Stacey had a two-bagger and Bob Weese a single.

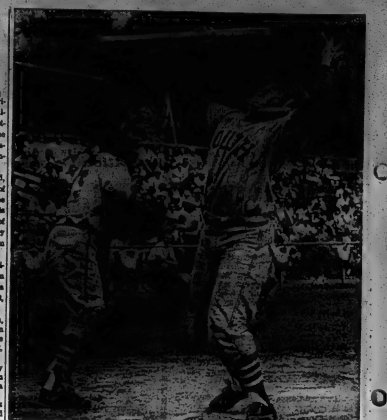
Defending Champion Eliminated

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Americans, a Briton, and an Australian will be in the spotlight Saturday as they compete for the two major titles at the Canadian junior open tennis championships.

John Williams of Bridgend, Wales, will meet Ian Russell of Melbourne, Australia, in the under-18 boys' singles finals and Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., will play Linda Tuero of Metovia, La., in the under-18 girls final.

Williams eliminated defending champion Richard Stockton of Garden City, N.Y., in a three-set match Wednesday 8-3, 2-6, 6-3.



In the other semi-final match, the second-seeded Australian disposed of third-ranked Steve Cornell of Oakland, Calif., 6-2, 6-4.

Cornell earlier in the day eliminated top-ranked Canadian Dale Power of Toronto, in a quarter-final match, 6-4, 6-3.

Top-ranked Miss Bartkowicz won easily over fourth-seeded Vicki Rogers of Rye, N.Y., 6-0, 6-3.

Miss Tuero, fifth seed, defeated second-seeded Corinne Molesworth of Torquay, England, in a two-hour match 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Two Canadian girls were eliminated in quarter-final matches. Miss Barbara Tischie of Vancouver 6-1, 6-3, and Miss Molesworth knocked off Madeleine Thivierge of Montreal 6-2, 6-0.

Second Day Fails To Produce Tuna

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—With flags flying at half mast, the 16-vessel tuna fishing fleet returned to port Wednesday after the second straight day of the international tuna cup match produced no fish.

The teams from Canada, the United States, Mexico and the British Caribbean are competing for the Alton B. Sharp trophy here 114 days remaining to land tuna.

Anglers were silent and grim-faced as they arrived in port at Wedgeport, 19 miles south of here and at Cape St. Mary, 20 miles to the north, after hearing of the deaths of six commercial fishermen from Wedgeport.

Fishermen were reported sighting several of the elusive bluefin tuna, but all refused to bite.

Trap and Gun Results

George Roberts led the shooters at the Quinte Trap and Gun club's Wednesday meet, with a score of 24 out of a possible 25 breaks. Lloyd Blue was second with 23. Gord Bates, H. Farnell and R. Pope followed with 22, D. Johnston and J. Dodson 21 and J. Walsh 20.

In the doubles, G. Robertson shot 23 out of 30, while Lloyd Blue and George Roberts were close seconds with 22.

CITY DUMP SPRAYED

BRANTFORD (CP) — Brantford's fly-infested city dump, almost untended since the city's garbagemen went on strike Aug. 9, was sprayed as a health precaution Wednesday night. Pickets, members of Local 181, Canadian Union of Public Employees, let spraying equipment enter the dump without considering it a violation of their line.

Carl Leaves Nats

That Man Brewer Again

KINGSTON (CP)—Carl Brewer, the former Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman, unexpectedly walked out of the eastern Canada national hockey team's training camp here Wednesday.

"I really don't know what's on his mind," said coach Jack Bownass, another former National Hockey League player.

Brewer was on the ice briefly Tuesday, but hurt his elbow and left the workout.

Bownass has scheduled intersquad games here today and Friday for the remaining 30 players on the team.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—A week ago thoroughbred owner Conn Smythe revealed he was holding a rummage sale of what he termed his "cheaper horses." His trainer Johnny Starr is already cashing in on the bargains.

Starr bought four Smythe horses in a package deal for an unspecified amount which Starr says was "real reasonable." He got the first at his new quarter in the post in the fifth race Wednesday and seven furlongs later his three-year-old bargain gelding No Such Animal brought home the $1,362 pot in the Fort Garry Purse at Greenwood race track.

No Such Animal paid $7.50 on a $2 win ticket. He was just 4-5 seconds off the track record of 1.34. The record fell in the seventh race when Hammer Kopf went the distance in 1:22 3-5.

Wednesday's attendance was 7,506 and $459,080 was wagered.

The daily double produced by Tongue Twister in the first and Pomme Souffle in the second was $112.10.

Minor Baseball

Little Owen was strong on the mound in defeating DeMille 8-4 last night, in the tyke city league championship series.

The winners' moundsmen, Jerry Cunningham and Rick Bellis, held DeMille to four hits while striking out five and walking four.

Tim Whelan and Pat McKenney allowed nine hits, walked five and struck out 16, for DeMille.

Glen Schwager slammed a double and single to pace Little Owen. Gordon Male doubled, Bob Holloway and Bob McKay had two hits each, and Rick Bellis and Jerry Cunningham singles.

Mike Bradshaw, Scott Sturgess, Steve Kirby and Tim Whelan led DeMille's base hits.

Next game is Monday night at the YMCA.

Soccer Match

Parsons Defeat Batawa

Belleville Parsons rallied from a slow start to defeat Batawa Braves 4-3 in a Kingston and District Soccer League game here last night.

Parsons' next start is also at Zwick's Island, against Kingston Italo, at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Batawa dominated early play and led 1-0 when Parson's Barry Fitzgerald headed the ball into his own net past Herb Moeller.

The homesters settled away and took a 3-1 lead by half-time. Joe Iasenza broke through the middle on Alan Brown's pass to tie it and Bob Watson headed home Fitzgerald's free kick to shove Belleville in front. Watson smashed home Iasenza's cross for the third Parson counter.

The second half was a free - wheeling affair with both sides having good scoring chances before John Zalel put Batawa back into the game on a strong solo effort with about 20 minutes left to play.

Bob Watson was responsible for the clinching goal when he checked Batawa's Arens near his own net and the Brave put the ball past his own goalie.

Joe Romano and Bill Butcher played strong soccer for Parsons.

Dispute Rages

Athletics Seek Hearing

BALTIMORE (AP)—Kansas City Athletics requested Wednesday that baseball commissioner William D. Eckert hold a formal hearing and investigation of their dispute with club owner Charles O. Finley.

The Kansas City players met before the night game against Baltimore Orioles and voted unanimously to seek the hearing.

Pitcher Jack Aker, the team's player representative, notified Marvin J. Miller, executive director of the Major Leagues Players Association, of the decision.

The Athletics have been involved in an open dispute with Finley since he suspended pitcher Lew Krausse last week for an alleged incident aboard an airliner.

Krausse has been reinstated, but in the wake of the original dispute, Finley fired manager Alvin Dark. Hoyt Aker for missing curfew and handed first baseman Ken Harrelson his unconditional release.

Cards Beaten 6-0

McCormick First To Win 17

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al McBean of Pittsburgh Pirates retired one of his biggest boosters Wednesday to protect a 3-1 victory over Chicago Cubs in his second start of the National League season.

McBean, normally a relief standout, protected his slim edge by robbing Cub captain Ron Santo with the tying run on third base in the eighth inning.

"He's good and cocky and he likes the job done," Santo says. "He's as fast as anybody in the league and he almost dares you to hit the ball.

Hitless in his first three attempts Wednesday, Santo smashed the ball through the middle with Don Kessinger representing the tying run at third base. McBean made a leaping stab of the ball and threw out Santo to quell the threat.

Mike McCormick of San Francisco Giants became the first pitcher in the league to win 17 games as he blanked the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals 6-0, Atlanta Braves rapped Houston Astros 9-3, Philadelphia Phillies edged New York Mets 3-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers pounded Cincinnati Reds 8-0 in other games.

McBean scattered eight hits for his fourth victory in seven decisions. Losing pitcher Bill Hands' fifth-inning single delivered the Cubs' run.

McCormick beat the Cardinals for the third time without a loss this season. Willie Mays helped with his 10th homer, a two-run blast in the third.

Orlando Cepeda, the league batting leader, had three of the Cards' five hits off McCormick, 17-4.

GETS NEWSPAPER POST

MONTREAL (CP)—Jacques Richer, 36, former director of public relations for the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, has been named to the newly-created position of general manager of the daily newspapers La Journal de Montreal and Le Journal de Quebec, both printed in Montreal. Mr. Richer a native of Ottawa and comes from a family of French-Canadian journalists.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Rick Reichardt, Angels, smashed three hits, including a grand-slam homer, and drove in five runs in a 16-5 romp over Cleveland.

Pitching—Mike McCormick, Giants, blanked St. Louis' National League pacesetters 6-0 on a five-hitter to become the league's first 17-game winner.

Tigers, Twins Split

Chicago Game Up As Bosox Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Priddy of Washington Senators has had little success as a starter in his major league career but he shocked the red-hot Boston Red Sox Wednesday after many batter-known hurlers had tried and failed.

Priddy, who went to Washington in the off-season, went the distance as the Senators squeezed out a 3-2 decision on a ninth-inning sacrifice fly by Paul Casanova.

The White Sox stretched their lead to one game by defeating New York Yankees 5-2 and Minnesota and Detroit split a twin-bill. The Tigers rode Joe Sparma's four-hitter for a 10-0 victory in the opener and Minnesota held off a late rally for a 4-3 triumph in the nightcap.

In other American League games, California Angels bettered Cleveland Indians 16-5 and Baltimore Orioles blanked Kansas City Athletics 1-0.

Boston took an early lead on Carl Yastrzemski's 32nd homer, but Ed Stroud put the Senators ahead with his first major league shot.

The Sox tied it up in the seventh, but Casanova came through after Hank Allen doubled in the ninth and moved to third on an infield out.

Ken Berry hit key singles in a pair of two-run rallies for the White Sox, who made their league lead a little less precarious, but still plenty close. Fred Klages turned in a five-hit pitching job until the seventh and Don McMahon and Bob Locker came in to finish up.

The Tigers and Twins fell into a third-place tie, 1½ games behind the White Sox after the Tigers got four-hit pitching from Sparma and four-hit hitting from Dick Tracewski in the opener.

But the Twins got a homer from Harmon Killebrew that made the difference in the finale.

Rick Reichardt's grand-slam home run was the big blow in the Angels' 22-hit attack, the largest in terms of hits and runs in the league this season. Jim Fregosi had four hits for California.

Pete Richert scattered eight hits among the Kansas City batting order and Frank Robinson's run-scoring single accounted for the game's only score.

Junior Golf

Top Qualifier Ousted

TORONTO (CP)—A slim youngster who carried his own clubs posted the first major upset of the Canadian junior golf championship Wednesday.

Roger Klatt of Edmonton shocked low qualifier Tim McCutcheon of Peterborough 2 and 1 and then heard a piece of free advice.

"If you're going to play like that," McCutcheon urged, "get yourself a caddy." Klatt finished with an equestrian medal 71, best round of the competition so far.

McCutcheon, 1966 Canadian juvenile champion, led qualifiers with 147. Well back among the 64 qualifiers, Klatt, 17, settled for 153.

Klatt took a two-hole lead by the eighth and dropped a 30-yard chip from a downhill lie to par the 11th with a four. The Peterborough youngster, 17, attempted to reverse the trend when he wagered home a 25-foot birdie putt on the 12th.

Sixteen competitors from Ontario survived the first round and entered the second round today. A third round was scheduled in the afternoon.

Four Nova Scotians got past the first round. There were three each from British Columbia and Manitoba, two from Alberta and the United States and one each from Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan.

Six other leading qualifiers were upset in the first round.

Doug Moir of London, Ont., defeated Mike Zichy of Calgary; Tom McNall of Regina defeated Jim Burford of Toronto; Nick Passanis of Windsor, Ont., beat Keith Allen of Calgary; Bobby Barrett of Southampton defeated Rick Fish of Saskatoon; Dan Gordon of Toronto upset Lawrence Benford of Seaforth, and Don Garrett of Charlottetown defeated Wayne Vitu of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Consistent Leafs Slip Into Sixth

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The most determined critics of Toronto Maple Leafs must concede that the International League club is consistent.

The Leafs slipped into sixth place in the eight-team league by dropping the 12th of their last 17 decisions. Columbus Jets rode a two-run triple by Elvio Jimino to victory after Toronto jumped into a 4-2 lead in the opening inning.

At the top of the league, Richmond Braves regained a two-game margin by battering Rochester Red Wings 6-1. Syracuse Chiefs thumped Jacksonville Suns 4-0 and Buffalo Bisons downed Toledo Mud Hens 2-0 in other games.

A two-run triple by Al Yates and a two-run single by Tony Torchia sparked Toronto's early burst against starter Fritz Ackley. Ian Small took over and controlled the Leafs until the Jets could regroup. Jiminez hit his triple against loser Billy Rohr, 3-4, who opened 1967 by pitching an American League one-hitter against New York Yankees.

A classic pitchers' duel between winner Jim Britton and rookie Mike Adamson broke open in the ninth inning at Rochester when the Braves scored four runs. Two unearned runs put Richmond ahead to stay in the seventh inning.

Walkout Possible

WBA Delegates Riled

RENO, Nev. (AP)—The World Boxing Association closed its 1967 business session Wednesday trying to soothe American delegates still considering a walkout.

Abe Green, the WBA's national-international commissioner, asked the delegates "not to permit momentary differences to become the purpose of the WBA, which requires unity to give boxing its strongest front."

But the delegates, representing Mexico, Chile, Panama and Venezuela, said they would ask their respective athletic commissions whether to withdraw from the WBA.

Said Ramon Velasquez of Mexico:

"The president wants to control boxing for the United States."

He referred to re-elected president Robert Evans of Louisville, Ky. Evans defeated Dr. Elias Cordova of Panama Thursday. Cordova had united Latin-American support.

City Girls Nip Dixie In Opener

Sharon Francis knocked in the winning run as City Hotel edged Dixie Lee 15-14 in the first game of the Women's softball league finals.

The next game in the best-of-five set is slated for Monday night, at 6.15 p.m.

Verna Hill slammed a pair of homers and Roxanne Chapman another, for the winners. Donna Barberstock buried for City.

J. Guthrie homered in support of losing pitcher S. Drummond.

Lack of Support Rules Out Postal Strike; Unions Bid for Stronger Bargaining Position

OTTAWA (CP)—The postal workers' planned 8-hour strike fizzled Wednesday on the lack of grass-roots support and unbending government opposition.

William Kay, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, called it off at mid-afternoon. The walkout was set for 12:01 a.m. EDT Friday.

In the aftermath, he acknowledged several big locals representing more than half the union's 12,000 members objected to the one-day taste of strength with the federal government.

But he said the book is not closed on the abortive strike, a union bid to win an extra day's holiday for 2,500 members. Their regular day off fell on July 3, which most civil servants got as a Dominion Day holiday.

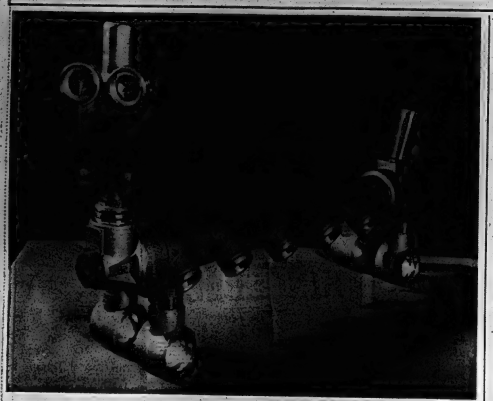
"We are not letting them get away with that one day for nothing," Mr. Kay said, after the cancellation. "They'll pay for it one way or another."

For the government, Revenue Minister Benson said the whole strike threat was ridiculous. The union position on the holiday made no sense.

Mr. Benson, president of the treasury board, the union's employer, felt the union would not strike because the members are law-abiding citizens.

The board sought and won a decision from the board that administers the public service Staff Relations Act that the strike was illegal.

This put the government in the correct legal position to levy fines on strikers and union leaders if the walkout occurred.



Mr. Kay said one reason for cancelling the strike "for the present" was certification difficulties faced by his union.

The public service staff relations board, which ruled the strike illegal, also rejected a combined CUPW-letter carriers bid for recognition as a single bargaining agent for all postal workers.

Both unions had formed a single council to seek certification under the collective bargaining legislation that went into effect March 13.

But the staff relations board found that the CUPW executive did not have the proper constitutional authority from the membership to form the council.

Mr. Kay felt it was more important to concentrate on certification than on the strike.

Right to Fair Trial Supersedes Press Rights

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Mr. Justice C. T. Evans says it is essential some method be found which will preserve and strengthen the right of an accused to a fair trial without abridging the freedom of the press.

Mr. Justice Evans, speaking to delegates at the convention of the Ontario Municipal Association Wednesday, said he does not advocate that censorship be imposed on the press.

"I believe that any responsible newspaper acknowledges that the right of a fair trial supersedes the right of a free press to publish material which may tend to prejudice a fair trial and that where these two rights conflict, the conflict must be resolved in favor of a fair trial."

Delegates unanimously endorsed a resolution calling for the formation of a committee to study housing costs.

Another resolution approved asked the province's municipal affairs department to review remuneration paid to elected municipal officials who have an increased work load because of the "exploding population and related problems."

T. J. McKibbin, clerk-comptroller for the city of Kingston, was elected president of the association succeeding A. M. Campbell, reeve of the borough of Scarborough.

Jerusalem 'Opens' Mandelbaum Gate

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Mandelbaum Gate, the last symbol of the 19-year-old division of this holy city, is being dismantled.

"Now we at least have a united city," said Jerusalem's Israeli mayor, Teddy Kollek, Wednesday. "We have dreamed of this for a long, long time. Now that terrible gate has gone."

Demolition teams are blasting and bulldozing the ruins of several houses around the gate in the no man's land that separated Israeli and Jordanian Jerusalem before the war in June.

The Mandelbaum Gate was the only crossing point between the two sectors for Israelis, Heverry Christmas, some 6,000 Christian Arabs from Israel passed through the gate with special passes to make pilgrimages to Bethlehem and other holy sites.

Voyageurs Reach Mattawa

MATTAWA, Ont. (CP)—The centennial voyageurs arrived here Wednesday from North Bay after paddling and portaging one of the toughest stretches to date of their Centennial Year canoe pageant from Alberta to Expo 67.

The 50-mile stretch over shallow areas of the shale-covered Ottawa River, scraped the bottoms of the canoes so badly they had to be re-waxed before today's journey to Stonecliffe Provincial Park, about 40 miles south of here.

Two of the 10 teams didn't make it to the finish line in the scheduled time. One of them, the Yukon team, was so late it didn't get a chance to participate in the 14-mile sprint portion for the benefit of the 2,000 spectators on hand for their arrival.

The canoes started their summer-long 3,500-mile journey to Expo at Mountain House, Alta. They are following the route of the original voyageurs.

British Columbia won the sprint leeing out Manitoba by 2.3 seconds over the 14-mile course. Ontario finished third, followed by New Brunswick, Alberta, Nova Scotia the Northwest Territories, Saskatchewan and Quebec.

Inspector Henry Peter Tadeson, from headquarters, Ottawa, to E Division, Vancouver.

Births Decline Folks 'Too Busy'

VICTORIA (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett Wednesday explained British Columbia's declining birth rate by saying the people of the province are just "too busy."

He made the comment as he greeted and talked with 46 Ontario high school students who toured his office as part of a centennial exchange program.

Later he explained the decline in reportary this way: "People are flocking here from all over but people in our dynamic society are too busy."

Pentagon Lists 225 Targets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has disclosed that U.S. planes have bombed more than 225 key military targets in sensitive areas of North Vietnam during the 3½-year air campaign.

Many of these have been authorized personally by President Johnson, acting on recommendations from the joint chiefs of staff.

The joint chiefs laid out these targets for the president's consideration because they were situated in populated areas where civilian casualties might be heavy, near China's border where overflights might occur, or in major ports where Soviet ships might be damaged.

North Vietnam has some 18,600 potential targets. Of these, 3,000 are said to be worth hitting and the great majority have been struck at the time and choosing of Admiral U. S. Grant Sharp, Pacific commander-in-chief.

To date, North Vietnam, with more than 7,000 anti-aircraft guns and missiles, has brought down more than 850 U.S. planes worth more than $1,000,000,000.

Middlesex Girl CNE Winner

TORONTO (CP) — Barbara Taylor, 18, representing Middlesex County, won Wednesday's dairy princess contest at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Miss Taylor, a 4-H and junior farmers member, lives on a 230-acre farm with her parents. She is one of five winners who will compete in Saturday's daily queen finals.

The 5 princesses will be crowned Wednesday with Lynne Tyan of Prescott County, Monica McKinley of Lambton, Margaret Bakker of Leeds, Norma Jibb of Ontario and Barbara Joan Burton of Russell.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

At one time, mortgage lenders competed primarily based on interest rates. Many still do, but new financing gimmicks introduced in recent years make it almost impossible to compute the true interest rate — even by experts.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I need $8,000 by the first of the year, so I'm going to get a mortgage. Since my house is worth about $20,000, this should be no problem. It's only a question of shopping around to get the best interest rate.

My bank is willing to give me the money at 6 per cent interest. A local finance company, and I'm a complete stranger to them, is willing to give the money for 4 per cent. It's true, they do have a few extra charges like insurance, appraisals, etc. (I'm enclosing copies of their papers for your examination.)

I always was poor in math, so please tell me whether all these extra fees amount to more or less than the 2 per cent difference in interest rates. — Mr. T. T.

ANSWER: As best as can be determined, the extra charges raised the true interest rate from our correspondent's estimate of 4 per cent to 34 per cent. The papers contain almost every known gimmick for raising the true interest rate. For the information and enlightenment of readers, these are enumerated below:

1. Five years' interest (4 per cent of $8,000) amounting to $1,600 is added to the amount borrowed and the face amount of the loan reads $9,600 and not $8,000.

2. The interest rate of 4 per cent during the whole period is computed based upon $8,000 and not the remaining balance or amount owed.

3. The borrower is allowed only one day grace period in which to make mortgage payments. If he misses that day, the late penalty is then 1 per cent a day.

4. The pre-payment penalty is 10 per cent.

5. The borrower has to buy life, disability, health and accident, and homeowner's insurance from the lender's agent at very high rates.

6. An inspection fee of $100 is charged the first year and $50 per year thereafter.

7. The legal fee is set at $200 and the annual legal fee thereafter is $100.

8. The appraisal fee is $500 and the annual appraisal fee thereafter is $50.

9. Borrower agrees to pay a 10 per cent placement fee for securing the loan.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: What do I do with an island off the New England coast whose only value is the scenery? Every summer I've been taking my family to Maine, and frankly, we've enjoyed the rocky coastline and the quaint old towns.

Last year, an agent had a "special deal." It was a 36-acre island, three miles off the coast, rugged and isolated. Naturally, I jumped at the chance, especially since the price was only $12,000.

Now my question is: How can one this island? It has no drinkable water, there is no way of getting electricity from the mainland, to build a weather-proof dock would cost over $10,000, and to build a house would cost three times as much as on the mainland.

Worst of all, as a city slicker, I didn't realize that even if I buy a sturdy 30-foot boat, the island will be inaccessible over 75 per cent of the year because of weather conditions. What's my next move? — Mr. N. C.

ANSWER: The next move is to give it back to the agent who sold it to you in the first place. In investigating your island, I find that your agent has made a good living off it for over 35 years. In that period of time, he has sold it to 21 different buyers. Just ask him to get buyer number 22.

Dream islands are like dream women — they are always more desirable from a distance.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Please inform me as to the proper procedure to follow in locating a choice lot. I don't want to pull it. As a first step, I assume it would be best to contact a reputable realtor who would strive to interest a prospect. — Mr. C.

ANSWER: It has been my experience that much of the confusion and animosity in real estate transaction arises because often the owner really needed professional advice but received sales advice.

As a first step, in this problem, a realtor should not be contacted but rather, a real estate consultant or appraiser. That owner must receive professional information on such problems as: highest and best use of the land, fair market value of rental, value of the ground, market trends, etc.

The professional making this study is unbiased and gets paid on a time basis. He is not trying to negotiate a lease for or with the owner and therefore, the decision determines his monetary returns.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I would like to put up some shelving. The instructions were, "define the studs by tapping along the wall." It can't be done! The plaster and the gang all sound the same. Every time I drove a nail it was like playing Russian roulette. Please tell me how a mechanic goes about finding the studs. — Mr. S. N.

ANSWER: I'm aware that some authors have been recommending the tapping method. It doesn't work.

The best way is the old-fashioned way, guaranteed to find the studs. Using a small drill or nail, punch tiny holes about 1¼ inches apart, until you hit the stud. From this reference point, the next stud should be 16 inches away, if not try 12 or 24 inches.

Representatives Request Rental Of Ice Time

TWEED — Representatives from a hockey league from the Quinte District expressed at the meeting of Tweed village council that week, to discuss the possibility of forming a league play hockey games at the Tweed Campbell Community Centre.

Spokesmen for the hockey league were: Nick Mosdossy, Dennis Newman and John Trueman, all of Belleville. Mr. William McCrea, deputy-reeve of Hungerford Township was also in attendance.

The rental of ice time and other arrangements will be made between the league and the local rink committee.

Depending on the ice time available, it may be necessary for the Tweed and the Hungerford Township Councils to hold a plebiscite to obtain the voters opinion on Sunday sports. At the moment this is not required, and Reeve Barbara Allen, felt there was no point in encouraging bridges before it was necessary.

Council members gave the hockey league representatives some hope, adding that intermediate hockey would be all needed income to the Community Centre, and give the town's economy a boost during the winter months.

Councillor Conroyers, who is responsible for street lighting, was instructed to contact local Hydro regarding the installation of lights on top of the posts at the Community Centre. The Tweed Chapman's Women's Institute had expressed interest in this project, but council members felt their final decision would more likely be governed by the costs involved.

A meeting was suggested with members of Hungerford Township Council, when the matter of a plebiscite would receive further consideration regarding Sunday sports.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Miss Patsy Benson is spending two weeks at Camp Calumet, Minden.

Rev. and Mrs. James Cullen, Susan and Dennis McMaster who have spent the past few weeks at Moira Lake and visiting relatives here, returned to their home in Gagetown, N.B. on Wednesday.

Miss B. M. Fleming spent a day recently with Mrs. J. Russell Scott; Lavalee Park, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benson were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Nightingale, Hoff's Island.

Mrs. John Kerby who has spent the past three months in England, returned home on Sunday.

Rev. James Cullen spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Rita Cullen, Owen Sound.

Miss Judy Wood, Kingston, Mr. John Shepherd, Glencoe, are holidaying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wood.

Mrs. James Cullen spent the weekend with her father, Mr. Blake Sharpe, Mt. Pleasant.

Miss Gwendolyn MacMullen and Miss Norma Stephens spent the weekend at their home here.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stensburg of Kingston spent the weekend with Mr. Stensburg's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrod Jones and family. Mrs. Stensburg remained for a few days.

Master David Haw spent a week with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cooney of Sidney.

The Misses Janet and Kathryn Rae of Bethany are holidaying with their grandmother, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Jones, Steven, Debra and Scott spent a week at Portsmouth, Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cole, John and Christopher and Mrs. Cole's mother of Newmarket also spent their holidays at Portsmouth and on their return were overnight guests of the Jones family.

The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute held their annual picnic at Cedardale on Sunday with a good attendance. The next meeting will be an evening meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers on Wednesday, September 13th.

A large number from this district attended Bellevile Fair last week and there were favorable comments especially on the Women's Institute section. The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute assisted with this display.

Vietnam War Making Myth Of Free World

TORONTO (CP) — The war in Vietnam is becoming, in the eyes of most of the world, the symbol of the underdeveloped against the developed, a Belgian priest said Wednesday.

Abbe Francois Houtart, in a paper that described the link between peace and world development, told the Congress on the Theology of the Renewal of the Church:

"Vietnam is becoming, whether we like it or not, the symbol of the battle of the underdeveloped against the developed, the poor against the rich, the oppressed against the oppressor; and it is on its way to making the free world a myth."

Abbe Houtart later told a news conference there is a division between Catholic bishops in much of the world and the hierarchy in the United States on the question of Vietnam.

He did not expand on the remark.

Gaps in the rate of development are widening between nations and require urgent solutions, Abbe Houtart said in his paper to the congress.

"The longer the delay . . . the more we will be forced to radical choices as the only way out. We are going to find ourselves faced with conflicts of values, which very frequently prevent Christians from acting," he said.

"We uphold the inalienable value of human life and we know the theoretical solution to the problems of famine and underdevelopment. But in practice, in India, demographic expansion is inexorably creating situations of an intolerable inhumanity. . . . What are we to tell Christian doctors and nurses, who no longer dare to discuss the question? Are we to continue to create medical colleges for training the doctors who are opposed to birth control programs? Or are we to approve of the minister of health who offers on the radio to every man who will have himself sterilized?

"The alteration of social structures is a requirement for the development of Latin American. . . .

It is the responsibility of Christian people to apply tremendous pressure on their governments "who already hold the answers in their hands" to the great world social problems of today, Abbe Houtart told the news conference.

"There is no problem of supply," he said when asked how Christian people could respond more quickly to the famine they know exists and can no longer be the grounds of ignorance.

"We have the means. But the structure of society is something else again, the political and economic causes. Tremendous pressure on the governments of the world is necessary, but we are not mobilized for that kind of pressure."

Catholics Must Accept Changes To Build Future

TORONTO (CP)—Roman Catholics must accept change in the civil and political life of their church that will result from its renewal, the clerical editor of a Rome magazine said Wednesday.

Unless they do, said Rev. Roberto Tucci of La Civilta Cattolica, "Christians will be opposed to the inevitable course of history, with the result that they are . . . pushed out to the fringes of civil life, being not the builders of the world of tomorrow but strangers to it and merely tolerated by it."

A state's lay character imposes on it the obligation to take account, in making its laws, of its temporal common good, the 47-year-old Jesuit told a congress on the theology of the renewal of the church. The common good may require laws and measures legally permitting things not in harmony with Christian and moral principles.

"The state . . . is not bound to adopt its positive legislation to each and every moral and religious law," he said. "It must leave free and render legal things which are morally sinful."

He mentioned as examples the distribution of birth control information, the use of contraceptive instruments and divorce.

"If the majority of a population desires divorce, the state, in order to guarantee the most principle of religious and moral freedoms, may legalize divorce."

"Catholics involved in temporal affairs—politics, sociology, economics, journalism—must not oppose the principles which underlie the laws which they enact, in view of the common good . . . may contribute to the formulation of such laws, adopting them but in such a way that the resulting laws diverge as little as possible from moral principles and are as harmless as possible."

Citizens with political responsibilities, he said, must respect the secularity of the state.

They must give a Christian spirit to political life, but "they may not adopt the idea of creating a Christian state or of looking after the interests of Christianity—they are obliged to look after the interests of the common good . . . not trying to take away from the temporal order its proper autonomy."

In a second paper, the congress was told that the second Vatican council with its emphasis on church renewal has opened a floodgate of questioning that is causing a feeling of insecurity among Roman Catholics.

"The council did not create the questions but it lifted the barrier which had prevented them from being asked freely," said Rev. Yves Congar, in a paper delivered for him because of illness.

Father Congar, a 63-year-old French theologian, is regarded in his church as being unsurpassed as an authority on church renewal.

The things that are being questioned—political, intolerance and institutional forms—must necessarily be criticized, the paper said, but present attitudes of reformers should be taking warning from history.

Anglicans Will Study Abortion

OTTAWA (CP)—Changes in the Criminal Code will not mean the end of illegal abortions in Canada, a Windsor, Ont., physician told the general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada Wednesday.

Dr. D. J. Broadwell said the church should take a position on the question of abortion and that "the main justification for our existence . . . is the allowing number of illegal abortions in Canada."

"Regardless of any changes in legislation there will still be illegal abortions," he told the more than 250 delegates to the 10-day synod that began Tuesday.

The synod approved a resolution asking for establishment of a committee of laymen and clergy to discuss the abortion question and prepare a brief requested by the Commons health and welfare committee.

Church Land May Be Used For Housing

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian Anglicans will be asked to consider the possibilities of using church land for low-rental, high-rise apartments.

The church's general synod passed a resolution Wednesday that also requests diocesan authorities in rural areas to support the formation of housing co-operatives.

Archdeacon Alford Abraham of Sarnia said: "It seems to me there is an obsession with low-cost housing."

A serious aspect of the problem, the archdeacon said, is that young persons cannot afford down payments for homes. Housing was one of priorities facing Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Cycling Girls From East Get Cool Reception at Expo

MONTREAL (CP)—President Felix Houphouet-Boigny of the Ivory Coast will preside over flag-raising ceremonies today as the African country marks its national day at the world's fair.

Following the opening ceremonies, President Houphouet-Boigny and official delegation will depart for a tour of Africa Place, a cluster of 15 national pavilions, and will also tour the Canadian and Quebec pavilions.

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York told a crowd of 4,000 at Place des Nations Wednesday that Canadians had made Montreal "in this summer of 1967, an international mecca for millions."

The Republican governor and his wife, Happy, mingled with crowds and shook the hands of hundreds who had joined in celebrating New York State Day at the fair.

The governor spoke several times and was retired off part of an official speech in French earlier in the day much to the delight of many French-speaking fair visitors.

While the governor toured the fair site, 21 girls from the Maritime provinces were cycling feverishly to reach Expo.

They rolled on to the fair grounds Wednesday only to discover to their disappointment that the Atlantic Provinces pavilion was not too excited by their arrival.

"We arrived with 94," said 26-year-old Claude Dube of Quebec City, the group leader. "All of us were given by the pavilion is a one-day ticket for every member of the party.

"When I asked pavilion officials if they could lay on some kind of a reception for the girls after their long hot trip, I got a flat no."

The girls, ranging in age from 13 to 22, had begun the 1,600-mile trip as centennial project July 5 in Halifax.

Quebec Lodging Service Wins $100,000 in Refunds

MONTREAL (CP)—Expo 67's biggest pain has been eased by something over which it has no control—the inability of the dissatisfied visitor to obtain the refund of his deposit on accommodation.

Robert Shaw, deputy commissioner-general of Expo, says the majority of complaints by visitors "to the world's fair" arose because they felt the accommodation provided was not in keeping with the rates charged.

But the Quebec Lodging Service, created under provincial legislation adopted last Feb. 3 to inspect and certify lodgings and to establish maximum rates, has been working quietly and with some success to correct the situation.

Although there is no law to force owners to return deposits, and an official, inspectors of the service are trying hard to obtain refunds in cases where they feel visitors' complaints were justified.

So far the service has succeeded in persuading owners to refund to visitors more than $100,000 simply by convincing the owners concerned they should make the refunds to improve Montreal's reputation with the visiting public.

Visitors dissatisfied with their accommodation are asked to file complaints at the offices where help will be given to find new quarters and where the complaints will be investigated.

The service works with Legaspi, created by Expo to assist visitors to find accommodation because nobody else was prepared to do so, which over that good and sufficient accommodation is available for tourists at more than having to take an sub-standard facilities.

The Montreal area now can provide sleeping accommodation for 300,000 persons a night —more than adequate for the 200,000 visitors it requires for shelter during their tour of the fair.

"So far too many cases," Mr. Shaw said in an interview, "the people received were heavy and those who demanded refundment were refused."

Owners cannot be forced to return deposits to dissatisfied tourists because deposits are part of a legal agreement which guarantees the visitor of accommodation and assures the owner the visitor will show up or forfeit his deposit.

And about 70 per cent of the complaints received on the question of deposits and on the fact that visitors feel they are getting low quality accommodation at excessive rates.

Motorcycle Unit Provides Thrills

About 2,000 people turned out to watch the Canadian Armed Forces motorcycle display team perform last night at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

The crowd cohed and aahed as the team went through about 40 routines, including a ladder headstand, a 17 man trad ride on one bike, and a 15 man pyramid on five bikes.

The 45 - minute show also featured motorcycle safety and dangerous stunts such as driving through hoops of fire.

The team, which drives Triumph TR7s and Tiger 100s, 500 cc motorcycles weighing 360 pounds and 305 pounds respectively, is visiting 113 cities in a cross-country tour.

The tour, in observance of Centennial year, began at Lloydminster, Saskatchewan and will end at Belle Island, Newfoundland.

The Kingston Trumpet Band provided entertainment before and after the motorcycle show while members of the team explained facets of motorcycle riding to interested spectators.

The team was invited to the city by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

AWARD AGAIN FOR CNR

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR announced Wednesday it has been named a winner of the United States' national safety council's public safety activities award. Nine U.S. railways also were named winners. The CNR, the only Canadian railway selected, now has won the award for 10 consecutive years.

LBJ Names Doves and Hawks To Observe Vietnam Election

WASHINGTON, (A P)—Supporters and critics of the Vietnam war are among 30 prominent Americans President Johnson is sending to observe South Vietnam's presidential election.

They include clergymen, labor leaders, businessmen and politicians.

In announcing the group, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Christian, presidential press secretary, was asked "to share an experience with the South Vietnamese people. . . They are not going there to supervise."

Although they will not be asked to prepare formal reports, Christian said, the travellers will not be restricted in what they can see or what they can say later.

The U.S. delegation, chosen in response to an invitation by the South Vietnamese government, will leave Monday aboard a U.S. military plane and returns about Sept 8. Expenses will be paid by the government. The election is Sept. 3.

Senate leaders, some of whom have charged that the elections might be rigged in favor of the military government Premier Ky heads, rejected the invitation. Among them was Senator J. W. Fulbright, a persistent critic of Johnson's Vietnam policies.

In Saigon, the American acceptance was welcomed by Tran Van Do, South Vietnamese foreign minister. He said the governments of Japan, New Zealand, Greece, Belgium, the Philippines, and Laos also will send observers.

Invitations were sent, he said, to all nations with whom his country maintained diplomatic relations as well as civic groups and other private organizations. Newspaper men from free nations will be welcome to observe the election process, he said.

In Ottawa, however, a spokesman for the external affairs department said Canada never had been "formally approached" by the South Vietnamese government about sending observers.

As a member of the three-national International Control Commission for Vietnam, Canada has permanent observers stationed in both the South and North.

Cuban Refugees Costing U. S. Million Every Week

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. taxpayers are paying more than $1,000,000 each week to help a seemingly endless stream of Cuban refugees start life anew in the United States.

Total expenditures in the program have climbed to hundreds of millions of dollars, officials say.

A Cuban refugee center spokesman called it "one of the finest investments in humanitarianism."

The number of Cuban exiles who have reached the U.S. since Fidel Castro's takeover in 1959 is estimated at nearly 400,000. About half live in Miami, the rest are scattered throughout the United States.

Some 80,000 Cubans have arrived by daily or chartered flights established Dec. 1, 1965. Two planeloads of refugees come each weekday. Each flight costs U.S. taxpayers $850.

This year's approximations for the refugee needs, operated by the health, education and welfare department, total $31,000,000.

Sally Ann Aids Hippies

NEW YORK (AP)—Offering free coffee and sympathetic understanding, the Salvation Army has invaded the strongholds of the hippies and the teeny-bopper front at Greenwich Village cafe called The Answer.

"They think the army's real square and something," says Ed Hertzberg, a 23-year-old soldier in the hippies who helps run the storefront cafe.

Since it opened three weeks ago, The Answer has become a popular "gathering place for young people—generally between 14 and 23—and its narrow interior fills quickly each night.

For entertainment there is a hi-fi set and sometimes singers use the tiny stage at the back of the room. There are chess sets, books, and always a friendly soldier to listen.

Strictly Personal

True Atheist Rare as Saint

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

It is the folly of children to ask many questions to which there are no answers; it is the power folly of old age to keep repeating answers, oblivious of the fact that different questions are being asked.

True scholars are as rare as true saints: Most men who call themselves scholars are merely replaced the god of religion with some other deity — the god of money, or of sex, or of fame, or of intellect — and make that their ultimate value and concern.

A man without natural divinity may have everything else, and yet he does not feel himself empty; and the more he acquires the greater he feels the disparity between his inner and outer selves.

Those "topical" arguments between liberals and conservatives always remind me of Christopher Morley's acute comment: "There is no squabbling so violent as that between people who accepted an idea yesterday and people who will accept the same idea tomorrow."

What the so-called "family counsellors" I have met socially in my lifetime, nearly all of them, would stand and stand some good family counselling.

"Education" in its best sense has always meant preparing our children to help create the kind of world that is best for them to live in — and the crisis of modern education is precisely that no one knows what that world will be like.

What zealots and super-patriots tend to forget (if they ever knew it) was fiercely expressed by William Allen White, when he said: "Liberty is the only thing you cannot have unless you are willing to give it to others."

When a young man asks her beau, "Where did you buy that tie?" he answers, "In such-and-such a shop"; when a man asks his wife, "Where did you buy that dress?" she answers, "What's the matter — don't you like it?"

Until comparatively recent times, it used to be thought that epidemics, sometimes killing millions, were "acts of God"; today, many persons still regard war as a "natural" and "inevitable" thing for mankind — and it is this very attitude that perpetuates war at a time when its consequences are utterly intolerable for all.

In my view, if you put a thousand "experts" on one side of a line, and a thousand shrinks on the other side, the balance of truth, honesty, and general decency would swing heavily on the hippies' side.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Perform necessary tasks with sense of humor. Means don't take myself too seriously. Involves money. Do not "chase" it unless relaxed. You're due to win.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Cycle moves up. Key is accomplishment. You get what you ask for. Be sure you know what you need. Some restrictions are lifted. Maintain dignity. Be gracious.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Avoid tendency to doubt, fear, worry. Change can be stimulating. Realize some associates may not want you to succeed. Be self-reliant. Much in your favor. Know this.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Domestic schemes overtax. Take care of family requirements. Friends, hopes, wishes succeed. Partnership with loved ones. Have fun. But don't neglect duties.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Some opposition turned into constructive challenge. Don't be discouraged by what appears to be a setback. You are being tested. You can come through with flying colors. Go straight ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Favorable lunar aspect coincides with chance to enhance knowledge. Could include travel, special summer educational course. Read, write, express thoughts on paper. Fine for publishing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Finish what you start. Day for completing projects. Involves money of mate, partner. Dig deep for information. Realize that real accomplishment may require sweat of your brow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Accent on mate, partner, legal matters. Gain shown if you look beneath surface indications. Interest in the occult highlighted.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Avoid tendency to brood. More strength on your side than you realize. Associates, fellow workers give you vote of confidence. Show appreciation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Stress creative endeavors, resources. Bring forth original ideas. Express yourself. Lead the way. Be versatile. Don't be tied down by someone else's promises.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Basic issues are faced today. Turning your back causes only delay, possible harm. Be realistic. If practical you gain objective. Otherwise you are forced to repeat lesson.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): A trip involving relative indicated. Money matters, and travel today. Satisfy intellectual curiosity. Ask questions. Obtain pertinent facts. Beware of mate, not rumor.

If today is your birthday . . . you are introspective, analytical. If single, marriage could be in offing. You serve many and many take advantage of you.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Taurus, Gemini. Special word to Pisces: There are numerous roads to your goal. Study all facets of challenge.

To Your Good Health

Boy 'Fails' Kindergarten, Needs Help

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, six, has some sort of a problem. He cannot color or cut with scissors, did not walk or talk until he was two. He seems bright but something is wrong. He is stubborn as the dickens. You cannot either go along with him or scold him to do what you want him to. He will never answer questions, just looks at you. He drives his teachers crazy and they do not know how to handle him.

He has been in kindergarten a year and will have to stay an other year. The school suggested a physical examination by the school doctor, and thinks there may be brain damage.

He has been very much in the care of baby-sitters for unavoidable reasons, and I wonder if his trouble could be emotional. But I would like him checked physically first.

What could I take him for a complete test? I have listened to so many people and have come up with exactly nothing. I do not know where to start. — Mrs. E. G.

When a child is as hard to handle that he has to repeat kindergarten, it is obvious that something is wrong. Perhaps brain damage is responsible or involved, to some extent. Emotional disturbance would, from the description, seem to be involved, but whether it would spring from so much supervision by baby-sitters is problematical.

You need answers from specialists who, after studying the boy, can tell you what problem you are actually facing.

A good physical examination is in order to start with, but it seems obvious to me that psychological testing and study of his emotional responses will be necessary.

There is no point in your trying to guess; go where you can get some positive determinations.

I presume, or hope, that you already have a pediatrician. He can start the examination and then refer you to more specialized experts.

Or — since you live in one of the cities which has an excellent children's hospital — arrangements could be made to have all the testing, of various sorts, conducted there.

For parents in other communities, a child guidance centre is the best source of help, but many of them, perhaps most or all, will want a physician to make his examination and then refer the youngster to the centre.

For non-city dwellers, the best place to start is with your own family physician or pediatrician if you have one, and let him make the necessary referrals in the nearest appropriate city.

The important thing, Mrs. E. G., is that you recognize that something may be wrong. You gain nothing by trying to guess in advance what the problem is. That's what specialists are for, to diagnose difficult conditions.

Whether the problem is basically physical, mental or emotional or a combination, the place to start is with your pediatrician.

Dear Dr. Molner: For several years as I fall asleep I start breathing through my mouth, even though I can breathe perfectly through my nose. Then I awake from the dryness in my mouth. I tried adhesive tape but that irritated my lips. — J. G.

I should think the tape would indeed irritate. Have you tried a chin strap, fastened to a cap of some sort?

Note to N. Del.: Some cities have several classes for emphysema patients to show proper breathing exercises. The TB and Health Society usually is an excellent place to learn where such classes are in your vicinity.

Bell Protests Pensions Not on Priority List

OTTAWA (CP)—A Conservative MP has expressed astonishment that no mention has been given to increasing pensions of retired federal employees in the government's list of priorities for legislation this fall.

Richard A. Bell, who represents Ottawa's Carleton riding, made public Wednesday a copy of a letter he sent the Prime Minister earlier this week reminding Mr. Pearson that a special "Commons-Senate committee unanimously recommended pension increases in a report May 8.

"The government can no longer postpone a decision and deprive retired civil servants, many of whom are in great need, of the relief unanimously recommended by the joint committee."

Signs Grow That Dief Will Fight for Post

TORONTO (CP) — Actions of John Diefenbaker, and on his behalf by others, indicate the 72-year-old Conservative chieftain plans a fight to the finish at his party's national leadership convention.

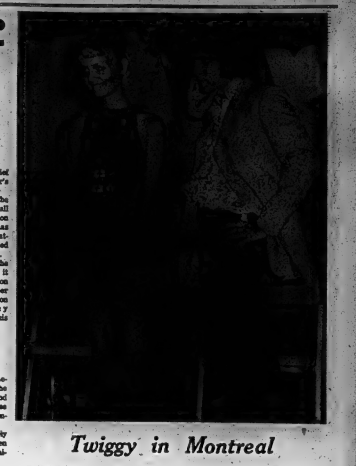
Mr. Diefenbaker, who has not said publicly whether he will seek another term at the convention here Sept. 5-9, has made moves recently that confirm to Conservatives here he's in the running.

Reliable sources said Thursday one such step was a request to convention headquarters for a full list of voting delegates and alternates—more than 4,000 names, addressed and telephone numbers.

These lists under convention rules are supplied only to leadership candidates 21st the party leader. The request came from the Youth for Diefenbaker committee here and convention officers were given unimpeachable evidence the group acted on Mr. Diefenbaker's authorization.

A further indication of Mr. Diefenbaker's intentions was the report here that a rushed telephone circuit covering all parts of Quebec and Ontario had been set up on Mr. Diefenbaker's behalf.

Between them, Conservatives in the two central provinces control more than half the 2,343 leadership votes at the convention. Quebec has 535 votes and Ontario 758.



Senior party workers concluded the delegates lists and phone-circuit meant a telephone canvass for Diefenbaker support at the convention was being launched.

Another possible indicator that Mr. Diefenbaker has reached a decision to give battle is an increase in challenges about credentials of voting delegates known to back ons or other of the nine men seeking Mr. Diefenbaker's job.

While these developments have been occurring behind the scenes, the Opposition leader's statements this week in an interview reinforces the belief here about Mr. Diefenbaker's intentions.

For the first time since the Conservatives were last fall to hold a leadership convention this year, Mr. Diefenbaker has expressed his views on a matter of policy to be determined during next month's meetings.

He said he cannot accept the two-nations concept, that it would destroy Confederation and that the party should steer away from the recommendation of the Montmorency policy advisory conference on this subject.

Junta Plans Shuffle

SAIGON (AP)—A major shakeup was reported under way today among high-ranking generals of South Vietnam's armed forces.

One account from reliable sources said five generals would be relieved of their duties.

The report came as U.S. planes drove deep into North Vietnam Thursday, bombing rail and military targets within 15 miles of China but losing another F105 Thunderchief jet to ground fire, the U.S. command said today.

In the military shakeup, Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state, told reporters the military makers was discussing a plan that will "go from generals to second lieutenants." He denied that any generals had been fired yet, adding: "We have not taken any decision, but it's our plan."

Ballets and Bombs Fly at Border

HONG KONG (CP) — Machine-gun fire rattled across the border from China into Hong Kong tonight, whining over the heads of British officers in an observation tower.

Two bombs were also lobbed over the frontier and a British army patrol soldier retaliated with a smoke grenade.

No casualties were reported on the Hong Kong side.

It was after the bomb-throwing incident that Chinese troops opened up with machine-guns, the spokesman said.

The trouble erupted at a border bridge at Lowu, where British troops earlier lobbed tear gas grenades to drive a crowd of stone-throwing Chinese peasants back across the border.

The peasants had crossed to fill their pots on the Hong Kong side while Chinese soldiers warned the British over loudspeakers that if they tried to obstruct the peasants they would be "held responsible for the consequences."

The British replied with loudspeaker announcements that the Lowu crossing was open as always for farmers to cross and peacefully work their fields.

The peasants filled their land quietly for three hours, but as they made their way slowly back to the bridge across the border, they lingered near the immigration office on the British side.

British troops on duty there lobbed two tear gas grenades.

The Chinese produced home-made gas masks, but the smoke drove them back and they were all back in Chinese territory by dusk, a government spokesman said.

He said they were "closely intent on making trouble" when they lingered near the immigration office.

NORAD Wants to Move Headquarters Into Sky

OTTAWA (CP)—After spending $148,000,000 for a new underground headquarters, North American Air Defence Command wants an airborne headquarters like that of the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

An airborne command post would comprise a number of big jet transport planes fitted out with radar, computers and communications equipment to detect enemy aircraft, track them and direct interceptors and missiles against them.

NORAD officers say the Boeing and Douglas companies in the U.S. will compete for a contract for the planes.

Defence department officials here said that though NORAD is a joint Canada—U.S. command there is no Canadian involvement in the plan—yet.

There might be once it comes to paying for the system, known as airborne warning and control.

However, Canada contributed nothing to construction of NORAD's new underground headquarters inside Cheyenne Mountain near Colorado Springs, Colo.

RCAP Air Defence Command has $800,000,000 worth of equipment tied up in NORAD and command costs this year are estimated at $130,500,000, an increase of more than $10,100,000 from last year.

Gen. Raymond J. Reeves of the U.S. Air Force, commander of NORAD, says an airborne headquarters will be "another very significant step in the effort to guarantee a functioning warning and control system in the face of nuclear warfare and the intercontinental ballistic missile."

He adds: "There is no doubt that the system will provide better command and control of the unified forces assigned to NORAD for the air defence of both Canada and the U.S."

Lawyer Argues Shulman Broke Secrecy Oath

TORONTO (CP)—The Parker Royal commission Thursday heard its last spate of charges and counter-charges, with counsel for Dr. H. B. Cotnam, chief supervising coroner, suggesting that Dr. Morton Shulman be prosecuted for breach of his oath of secrecy.

Harry Petter said Dr. Shulman "committed an offence" by searching confidential files in Ontario government files and passing on information in one of them to Hamilton reporter Gerald McAuliffe.

Love-in Set Up By Film Board

"Gee, sorry sir! I guess I overshot the target!"

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a spokesman for the National Film Board has admitted that an NFB film crew manoeuvred some of the events during a series of hippie demonstrations in and around the Yorkville coffee-house district early this week.

The paper quotes the spokesman as saying the NFB obtained a permit from Toronto's park department Friday to stage a noisy "love-in" to be used in a film in the making on youth today.

NFB crews were on hand in mid-town Queen's Park for a love-in that erected six hippies when they were released from jail Sunday after being arrested on charges of creating a disturbance in Yorkville early Sunday morning.

The Globe and Mail article quotes Leo Kwashuck, NFB location business manager, as saying the permit to film a love-in had been obtained Friday and that neither he nor anyone else knew a demonstration would be held in Yorkville early Sunday morning.

Mother, 24, Two Girls Found Dead

GIBRALTAR, Ont. (CP)—A young mother and her two daughters died Thursday morning in what police said was apparently a murder suicide at their home in this community about 45 miles east of Owen Sound.

Dead are Gloria Harvey, 24, and her daughters Jean Ellen, 6, and Wilma Helen, 4. Police said Mrs. Harvey's husband, William, 30, was at work at a shipyard in nearby Collingwood when the bodies were discovered at about 10 a.m.

Police were alerted by a neighbor who had spoken to Mrs. Harvey during the morning, then had tried to enter the Harvey house.

The front door was broken down and police found the bodies of girls in their beds. Mrs. Harvey's body was hanging from a woodshed rafter.

Provincial police Insp. George Harries said there was a suicide note. Police said the girls appeared to have been strangled.

Canadian Couple Finds Food Scarce in Russia

NEW DELHI (AP)—A Canadian couple has completed a rigorous drive with their two children the length of the Soviet Union. They report food shortages everywhere except in Moscow.

What food they did find was extremely expensive, say Simon and Christina Feldman of Montreal. Their biggest complaint was against a Russian major at a town near the Iranian border, whose actions made the Feldmans and their sons — 11 and 5—go without food for 24 hours. Feldman says there is one thing I'll never forget or forgive them for."

The Feldmans are making a round-the-world trip in a self-contained camper truck made in Britain.

"The only place we found with enough food was the Dollar Shop in Moscow. Food was much cheaper there also. Other places tomatoes were 75 cents a pound and cherries $1.50 a pound, for instance. Potatoes just weren't available, and the meat looked like it had been chewed by animals."

Robarts Plans Ontario French-language Secondary Schools

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier John Robarts said Thursday night the government will meet the need of Ontario's French-speaking residents for equal educational opportunities by providing French-language instruction in all secondary school subjects.

He told l'Association canadienne des educateurs de langues francaise that French-language secondary schools would be established "wherever the members of French-language students are great enough to warrant instruction in French."

"As far as possible they should provide for French-speaking Ontarians the counterpart of the existing English-language educational program."

Mr. Robarts said the department of education will establish a committee whose terms of reference will be:

"To advise the government as to the procedures required to provide opportunities in the public system for those who are primarily French-speaking."

He also said the increasing interest in English-speaking people in learning French may make it necessary to provide space for them in French-language secondary schools.

"I should emphasize also that since such schools would be an integral part of the existing public schools system of the province, they would automatically be eligible for provincial assistance as all secondary schools."

Mr. Robarts said it is not the government's intention to establish "an exclusively French-language system of education within the public system of this province."

quate knowledge of English is essential if the French-speaking person is to participate fully in the life of Ontario, of Canada and, indeed, of North America."

He said his view is shared by the l'Association canadienne

Stuffing Birds, Fish Is Part Time Job For Graduate Taxidermist in Stirling

By BARRY GRILLS

Who stuffed the fish you have mounted over your fireplace? Who made the bear rug on the floor of your den? It was probably Stanley Olasnsky of 109 Main Street in Stirling.

Mr. Olasnsky learned the art when he studied with the North-western School of Taxidermy in the United States. He worked with a taxidermist for some time before taking the course. He has been practising the art for about a year in Stirling on a part-time basis. "I enjoy it," he says, "but I'm busy right now." He still works with the Bata Shoe Company.

His working which, at present, is still part of his home is filled with animals waiting to be stuffed. Business comes from the United States, the East Coast and from the Department of Lands and Forests.

Because of the increase in orders Mr. Olasnsky is adding 1000 sq. ft. to his shop. "I need a bigger place to work".

His dang gey type of animal, fish, birds, snakes and the smaller mammals, bears, deer and wolves.

At present Mr. Olasnsky is doing a lot of work for people in the East Coast. It takes about two months to complete a 700-pound bear.

Birds generally take about a month. He has finished a golden pheasant but "the procedure is slow". He finds that, it is best to have several going at the same time. He has stuffed a hawks, which he has found on the road.

To stuff a bird Mr. Olasnsky must skin it up to the beak. He removes all the flesh and grease and leaves only the bones. The brain must be extracted.

He then applies plaster and uses wood core for the body. He fixes it up with fibre glass. The whole thing is strung together with wire and then the skin is sewn back on.

Mr. Olasnsky finds that bones is best for tanning skin. He uses formaldehyde for preservation. "If there is any flesh left on the specimen the formaldehyde takes care of it."

Larger animals such as bears, deer and wolves undergo somewhat the same process. He uses an alum solution for making the bears more realistic. A bear rug varies in price from $50 to $80 depending on the size.

However, snakes pose a different sort of problem. They have to be skinned from the mouth inside out. This is hard to fit size. The body is filled with pepper snacks. Mr. Olasnsky has completed a 78 inch diamond-back rattlesnake.

He uses modern methods but has combined the old style of taxidermy. "We used to make mannequins and use rods for legs. We had to make the body exactly the right size." It was glazed over and the skin was sewed to the mannekin.

The modern way is forming the body out of papier mache and then in plaster. The mold is then cut in half. "You don't have to use bones, but I do."

Stuffed animals are used for many things. Some are put in museums, such as the new Toronto Natrex Museum. Stuffed animals play a large part as sporting store models. Then advertising placards in stores, there are people who want models for their dens.

Mr. Olasnsky brows of one fellow in the United States who has a wall in his den designed with underwater scenery. He sent me a bass to stuff. He bought it up and it looks as though it's swimming in the water."

Mr. Olasnsky explains that he first became interested in taxidermy as a hobby. "It's working into a full-time job. I like to study wildlife and I hunt and fish."

"It all ties together," he says.

Pride of Collection

One of Mr. Olasnsky's favorites in his collection is this golden pheasant. The bird is multi-colored.

The Artistic Touch

Mr. Olasnsky has a touch of the artist within him. Here he works on the papier mache inside a large dropby fish, a Muskie, by prodding it through the eye.

Comments of Children on Expo

The highly successful community project, Expo-a-Go-Go, sent 200 children to Montreal and the fair for a day. Besides they memories and mementos they brought back with them they also brought back many candid answers for the Intelligencer that United Appeal asked them to fill out.

The two most important questions were "Items bell us in a few words what you liked best about Expo" and "Any suggestions, complaints, other comments."

One young fellow really took the "new" to heart—his answer was, "Subway".

The train ride was very popular with many of the children most likely because many of them had never been on a train before. When they tried to express this in their answers it became quite comic out the wrong way.

"What did you like best about Expo?"

"I enjoyed the best part of the trip was the train ride up and back." When the person asked if he had any complaints—the answer was a sincere "no".

One future explorer commented, "What I liked best about the trip was going through the various towns like Cornwall, Prescott, Kingston and Brockville."

"The box lunches were the best." "The girls at Expo." "They had cake in the Army camp." "It was my first train ride and the box lunches." "Seen a few more of the answers.

A reply that went from one extreme to the other was, "Thanks — a lot — I really enjoyed myself — Mr. guide thanks!"

When the children were asked if they had any complaints or comments the answers seemed to come in similar groups.

On getting lost — "I think they should have tied ropes around us." "I think that you should have told the children to establish meeting place before they got lost."

On the problem of money — "No comments except the prices were too high." "Well, everything was so expensive that all you could buy was food." "Where I was at Expo my wallet was stolen from my pocket but I survived."

Group leaders were the targets of many comments. "Our group leader got me in on the train on the way home — I didn't want to get in on the train." "My group leader was kind to me." "My group leader understood our views perfectly and I enjoyed the trip" and "of course — "My guide stunk."

One poor fellow was disconcerted about the trip because "My father started to put me at ease."

All in all 90 per cent of the comments on the trip were very favorable and many of the children expressed the desire to go back. They also wished that they could have stayed longer — only one managed to prolong the trip.

"If we had a second chance — could we please go again."

"I think that you and the other people deserve a lot of thanks, for help sending a lot of people to Expo, who might not have had the chance. God bless you."

Bloomfield Youth Wins -But It's No Wonder

PICTON (Staff) — A 17-year-old Bloomfield boy, Donald Smith, has been chosen as this year's winner for Ontario of the 1800 CNE scholarship. The award is made to a person in the 4-H agricultural program who intends to enroll in a degree course in agriculture, agricultural engineering or veterinary medicine.

Donald, along with the nine other winners from the various districts will be taking part in the awards dinner at the CNE on Sept. 1. Prior to the dinner Don will be a three - day program of visits to Niagara Falls and the University of Guelph.

Donald has achieved an average of over 80 per cent every year in high school and 75 per cent this year in grade 13. He has edited the school year book, played Macbeth, competed on the school track team and for 1967-68 he will be president of the students council at Prince Edward Collegiate.

This year, along with all his other activities, Donald took two Grade 13 music courses. He achieved 120 per cent in a theory course, the highest standing in the area. He has completed 13 4-H Club projects, entered several provincial animal judging competitions and still finds time to be an active member of his church.

IN MEMORIAM

LICKFOLD — In loving memory of a dear father Jack Lickfold who passed away August 25th, 1966. This day recalls memories sad and dear.

It brings a day we will never forget.

You were called away without regret.

But memories of you will never part.

His memory is my keepsake, With which I will never part, God has him in His keeping, I have him in my heart.

—Sadly remembered and sadly missed by wife Betty.

MOSSMAN — In loving memory of a dear father who passed away on August 25, 1964.

In our hearts your memory reigns, Always loved, lost never forgotten, There's not a day, dear Father, We do not think of you.

—Sadly missed by daughter Fred, daughter-in-law Vera and granddaughter Janet and Susan.

MOSSMAN — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Wilfred Mossman, who passed away August 25, 1964.

He would not wish for sorrow, He would not wish for tears, But just to be remembered, By the loved ones he leaves.

—Always remembered by son Donald and daughter-in-law Jean and grandchildren Jeffrey and Jennifer.

MOSSMAN — In loving memory of a dear father, Alfred Mossman who passed away August 25, 1964. In our hearts your memory reigns, Always loved, lost never forgotten, There's not a day, dear father, We do not think of you.

—Sadly missed by daughter Kathleen, son-in-law Ken and grandchildren David.

CARDS OF THANKS

Through the medium of the Intelligencer, the family would like to thank our neighbors, friends relatives who sent flowers, messages and came to visit me while I was a patient in the Civic and Belleville Hospitals. A special thanks to Dr. Dr. Lindsay and Dr. Hall and the staff nursing staff of 4 South, Belleville Hospital.

—Mrs. Delbert Lashbrook.

The family of the late Murray Whitmore would like to express their sincere thanks to everyone for their kindness in sending beautiful floral tributes, donations to cancer funds, cards and the many acts of kindness shown them during their sad bereavement.

—Mrs. Vera Whitmore family, Mrs. Jean and Ingrid Chase.

Cut in Cement Production Not Anticipated Says Supt.

Mr. T. M. Legate, superintendent of the Canada Cement Company plant at Point Anne, today discounted a rumor that lack of orders may force a drastic cut in production this fall and winter at the big cement plant east of Belleville.

"Not at the present time," replied Mr. Legate when asked if there was any thought of a cut.

Mr. Legate admitted that the plant production hinged to a great extent on the construction business in the Toronto area.

But with the return to work of the ready mix operators who have been on strike, he said that things now "looked good in this area."

"We are hopeful anyway," he said.

Because of the strike of ready mix operators production at the Point Anne plant has been slack during the summer months. As well summer time is normally taken on was not hired this year.

Including office staff the Point Anne plant normally employs approximately 300 persons.

It Doesn't Happen in Movies or on TV But Indians Won This War Anyway

By HARRY NULHALL
(Staff Reporter)

DESERONTO—That sophisticated, smooth - running efficiency machine known as the white man's government staggered on a pile of stones and stalled here yesterday—after setting up its own ambush by Indians.

Today, officials are pondering how to get things moving again. As for the Indians, they couldn't give a feather.

Scene of the bureaucratic breakdown was the historic cairn marking the eighteenth-century landing of the Mohawks to inhabit Tyendinaga Indian Reserve.

The skirmish was set when the Mohawks learned the federal government was going to tear down the cairn and rebuild it with limestone from the dismantled monument to Prime Minister MacKenzie Bowell in Belleville.

Workers labored at loading about five tons of the limestone aboard a truck, headed for the reserve—and arrived to find the cairn under padlock, guarded by Mohawk Chief John Brant.

Despite a contract, duly-drawn by a federal official, the chief remained impassive and refused to allow the workmen on the property.

"This is Indian land," he warned them. "If you come in here it'll be trespassing."

Innocent victim of the affair was Belleville contractor Dick Poelstra, who fears he may have been financially scalped over an apparent bureaucratic blunder.

He faced the chief armed with his contract, and showed the signature of the civil servant who had signed it Tuesday.

The chief eyed the document impassively.

"As far as that fellah (the civil servant) is concerned I don't care anymore about him than anybody else," he retorted. "He can't do anything unless he comes before the reserve council and gets permission."

Mr. Poelstra waved toward the truck, laden with limestone and demanded:

"Now I've got the thing on the truck, who's going to pay for it to take it back to Belleville?"

"I'm not going to pay for it," rejoined Chief Brant. "You should have found out about that before you left Belleville. There's too much of this stuff — people coming along and doing things you don't know anything about."

With the situation deadlocked — and the limestone still looming in the background — the chief went off to seek a mediator, local Indian Affairs superintendent Andy Hyrtzak.

Mr. Poelstra glumly eyed the cairn behind its padlock.

"I don't blame these people," he said. "This is sacred to them. But it's not my fault. You can't make a living this way."

He showed the contract, dated August 23, contracting him for the project on behalf of the National Historic Sites and Parks branch of the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development.

The work order specifically called for construction of a cairn and "dismantling of the existing cairn, removal of the old cairn from the site and transportation of cairn materials from Belleville. . ."

Mr. Poelstra pondered the possible financial loss since now he was unable to carry out the terms of his contract.

"We're the suckers. We've got a job in black and white and we're stuck with the whole thing."

Superintendent Hrytsak had no solution to soothe the situation when he arrived.

Contract or not, the project couldn't get under way without Mohawk permission, he emphasized.

"You can't have this thing dumped on them without their knowledge," he reiterated. "And maybe there are some sentimental ties to the old cairn — as far as these people are concerned — than one can see."

"But I'm the one holding the bag," persisted Mr. Poelstra.

Still stymied by the tons of limestone brought from Belleville, Mr. Poelstra asked if he could at least dump it on the side while the situation was thrashed out between government and the Mohawks.

Chief Brant refused, but offered to let the contractor unload it in a nearby field flanking the Bay of Quinte.

Mr. Poelstra pondered the task of heaving out the cargo he had toiled to load shortly before in Belleville.

"Well, what are you going to do?" asked the chief. "Are you going to dump it here."

"It doesn't matter to me," retorted the contractor, by this time understandably frustrated by the whole incident. "We can dump it in the bay as far as I'm concerned."

"Well, you can't do that either," crowded the chief. "Because we don't want the shore messed up—that belongs to the Ist!"

Accepting the inevitable, Mr. Poelstra and his two-man work crew backed up the truck and for the second time in an afternoon, began handling the heavy chunks of stone.

The reserve superintendent departed to seek out sources of explanation from the federal administration machine.

Chief Brant decided to unlock the cairn. However, the key to the padlock was missing. He was patiently cutting it with a hacksaw as Mr. Poelstra and his men resignedly returned to Belleville.

Today, Chief Brant said the project had been temporarily cancelled by the department of Indian affairs and northern development.

Department officials told him no further action would be taken until a federal representative was sent to Tyendinaga to obtain the wishes of the reserve council.

Next council meeting is scheduled for Sept. 6.

Valid--And Very Illegal!

Indian Affairs superintendent Andy Hyrtzak scans federal work order given Belleville contractor Dick Poelstra for demolition and rebuilding of Tyendinaga Mohawk cairn yesterday. The document was in order — except for one oversight: Somebody forgot to get Indians' permission.

Police Probing Death At Green Point Sunday

Provincial police confirmed today they were still probing circumstances surrounding the death of a Toronto woman, found dead near Green Point Sunday.

The investigation — which twice has sent OPP officers to Toronto in recent days — was ordered after 40-year-old Mrs. Gladys Lois Herbert was found dead by members of her family in their cottage near the south shore of the Bay of Quinte, opposite Deseronto.

Police said the woman, mother of six children, three of whom live in Belleville, died from head injuries.

Mr. Herbert and one of the children were on the scene when police arrived from Picton about 5 a.m. Sunday.

The family has since returned to Toronto where funeral services were held for Mrs. Herbert Wednesday.

No inquest has been yet ordered by Coroner Dr. C. R. Richmond, of Picton, pending the results of the investigation.

HATE BILINGUALISM

LOUVAIN (AP) — Flemish-speaking Belgian students marched 2,000 - strong through this ancient university city, defying a ministry ban to demand that Flemish be the only language used in higher education. They want French-speaking students to move out of the ancient Catholic university to the Walloon region of Belgium.

Weslemkoon Lake Lots to Go on Sale

TWEED — A bloc of lakeshore lots on Weslemkoon Lake on the Hastings-Lennox and Addington counties line will be thrown open Aug. 29 for public purchase.

The Crown land parcel counts 18 lots on the north end of the lake with frontages varying around 150 feet, says the department of lands and forests.

The area — to be allotted on a first-come-first-served basis — is on a spot of the lake served by a road leading to McArthur's Mills in northeastern Hastings.

The sale is the latest in a series that has seen increasing areas of Crown land sold in the Tweed forestry district in recent years.

Just three years ago there were 155 such land sales. This climbed to 238 in 1966 and this year, the department expects to dispose of 350 lots.

So far, this year 134 sales have been sold on 25 different lakes.

Already, says a department official, some district lakes have been developed to the maximum allowed under provincial land regulations.

No further development will be permitted on lakes St. Peter and Papineau in Hastings. Across the county line in Lennox and Addington, Mazinaw Lake also will have reached the maximum and no further sales are expected within the next two seasons.

Private interests must hold on Crown land—within two years of purchase from the Crown. Mandatory regulations call for a structure with a 320-square-foot space and a minimum value of $1,000.

Cottage builders also are required to check with local township building regulations to ensure there is no conflict with those laid down by the department.

Blacksmith Tools to Be Sold

FRANKFORD — Anyone in the market for blacksmith tools?

A forge, two anvils and all the smithing gear on one section block here this week.

Not that there is a revival in the smithing trade.

The occasion is next Saturday's auction of a late Frankford resident's estate at 114 North Trent street.

The blacksmith tools are included in a machine shop and garage equipment sale.

$2.5 Million To Be Spent On Trent Canal

TRENTON—The federal Department of Transport is'celebrating its 2.5 million dollar improvement program for the Trent Canal system.

Tenders are now being invited for the construction of a control building at Lock 23 in Seymour Township, Northumberland county. Tenders for the job will close Sept. 18.

The Department of Transport earlier announced that, due to increased vessel activity on the 240-mile long Trent system, an extensive refurbishing program is planned for lock installations along the water route.

BRITAIN APOLOGIZES

LONDON (AP)—Britain has apologized to the Chinese government for violations of Chinese air space by British helicopters last month, a foreign office spokesman reported Thursday night. But at the same time the British have disclaimed knowledge of a Chinese complaint that British planes have overflown their territory recently.

Wellington Taxes Cut

PICTON (Staff) — Most municipalities these days are complaining about increasing education costs. Reduced levies for education however, has been one of the factors in the Wellington mill rate drop of five mills for 1967. Part of this was a reduced levy from the Prince Edward District High School Board.

Wellington residents will pay approximately 5 mills less, the rates will be 63.44 for residential and 70.89 for commercial. Last year's rates were 68.63 for residential and 75.76 commercial.

Wellington entered it's 1967 financial year with a surplus of $480, not counting $10,000 put into a special fund as a reserve.

U.S. Nazi Chief Killed

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi party, was shot and killed today by a sniper, Arlington police said.

Police said Rockwell was in a parking lot across the street from the Nazi party headquarters in this Washington suburb when he was shot.

They said the sniper, who fired from the roof of a building, escaped.

Police said they are looking for a man dressed in a trenchcoat.

Fruit Rustling Season Now In Full Swing

BRIGHTON—The fruit rustling season in the area is in full swing again.

A Brighton provincial police spokesman says the detachment has received numerous complaints from produce growers of persons stealing corn, potatoes, carrots and apples.

Not content to gather pocketsfull of fruit, the culprits apparently comb the fields and orchards with bushel baskets, say farmers.

Anyone apprehended with stolen produce is liable to charges of trespassing, theft, or both.

Affluence or Poverty

This is the age of the affluent society — for many in the Western world at least. Canada is one of the leaders anyway, as having the second highest standard of living in the world, although Sweden also lays claim to the position.

One way or another there may be little in it. Yet are we so affluent overall in Canada? Sweden, with its elaborate cradle-to-the-grave welfare benefits, likely has none of the near-poverty conditions that may be found in this country.

For instance, a statement issued for Labor Day by Canada's Catholic bishops belies the claim that this is an affluent society for all of this country's 20 million people.

Calling for help for underprivileged Canadians in meeting their economic needs, the statement said: "The last general census indicated that 50 per cent of the heads of families included in Canada's work force earned less than $4,000 annually."

Among a number of recommendations the bishops made in one urging the development of family associations and movements, while another seeks the establishment within the government of agencies to deal specifically with the family, and with representatives of family organizations invited to participate.

What from there is in such recommendations? In a society that already has such institutions as marriage counselling, family planning clinics and the like, it would seem the call is going out for more of the same.

Rather than a proliferation of government involvement in the welfare of families, should the emphasis not be laid on a renewal of the spiritual as well as the self-supporting qualities of Canadians. Can we not learn from some of the older societies of this world, including the Indians of Canada and the peoples of the Orient, who traditionally support each other in times of need? Isn't this essentially the function, lacking as it is in our materialistic and every-man-for-himself world, which to some extent is now the responsibility of government welfare — simply for lack of any spontaneous sense of kinship among society generally.

The bishops' statement evidently recognizes this, for besides calling for support of families — "the primary agents of their own social betterment" (and isn't that the crux of the situation?) it goes on to acknowledge "the steps now being taken to protect consumers and to provide individual Canadians with better advice on how to spend their money."

Indeed, it must be said that the reason many people are in difficulties is that their money is not being spent on essentials like food and shelter but rather is being squandered in other directions.

Thus in addition to family self-renewal, there must be a concern for reality and a practical approach to life. By giving attention to such considerations some at least of the problems of low-income families could be eliminated.

Marshland Survey

The Department of Lands and Forests proposal to convert nearly 10,000 acres of county marshlands into a wildlife sanctuary and recreation area is a significant plan that will commend itself to many.

Before such a concept becomes a reality, however, the owners of some 1,255 acres of the total area involved want to be assured the land is suitable for no other use. To this end a resolution was passed at a recent meeting in Ameliasburg requesting the federal government's rural development association (ARDA) to make a study of the marshes to ascertain their best potential use.

Behind this resolution is the thought in the minds of a number of the private owners that the marshland might be turned into productive farmland. Others, however feel that this will delay the wildlife sanctuary project unnecessarily, and in any event no move had been made thus far to improve the acreage. That is the view expressed for example in a letter on this page today.

Be that as it may, to permit all interests to be served the resolution mentioned above has been passed, and it may well be that the survey envisaged will elicit some interesting facts on the topography and the quality of what is essentially virgin land.

Ideally, the area seems entirely suited to the purpose the Department of Lands and Forests has in mind. However, if a study is to be made of other possibilities it should be conducted without delay. Otherwise, plans for the area might have to be postponed indefinitely.

Local Museums, Pioneer Homes, Mirror Canada's History

Royal Bank of Canada
Monthly Letter
(Second of a Series)

The local museum has the function of showing the life and times of its town or county. To be fully meaningful it should demonstrate the process of development from pre - pioneer days to the present. Two things are important: the Albert County Museum in New Brunswick displays a name-quilt used in fund-raising for a community house — a pertinent exhibit within the context of telling the country's history.

The great strength and the pulling-power of the local museum is its concentration on what is local. It owes it to its visitors to give them a coherent story, attractively told, of how and why this particular community originated and developed. As Mr. Herbert remarks, it must be able to entertain and educate at the same time, or to do neither—"The choice you make will determine whether you run a museum, a midway or a mausoleum."

Some local museums specialize in periods or subjects, for Example the U.E.L. Museum at Adolphustown, the Brant Historical Museum, the Bell home stead at Carleton Place, and the South Simcoe Pioneer Museum, with its 5,000 implements. The rectory of Lacombe at Baliche, Saskatchewan, has been established as a museum telling the story of the Northwest Rebellion.

There are special museums, big and small, covering the development of various human activities: the National Aeronautical Collection, Ottawa; the Canadian War Museum, Ottawa and the Canadian Railway Museum at Delson, Quebec. The Canadian Railroad Historic al Association has a valuable collection and preservation of records and rolling stock relating to rail and inland water transportation.

Life as it was lived a century ago is best seen in the old houses restored and furnished by devoted local women's groups and historical associations. As the visitor walks through their doors he enters the life and times of the people who lived there.

A house of particular interest because of its age and existence is that of Simeon Perkins, in Liverpool, Nova Scotia. Colonel Perkins was a merchant and ship-owner who came with the United Empire Loyalists in 1758 and built this house in 1766. Here is Perkins' desk, from which he managed activities ranging from the West Indies to Labrador; here is that unusual piece of furniture about which many have read but which few have seen — a trundle - bed. A trundle-bed is one that rolls under an ordinary bed and can be pulled out for use. The Perkins Hearth Cook Book, containing many excerpts from the Colonel's diary, is being released in its fourth edition as a centennial project by the Zion Guild in Liverpool.

Not many miles away is Uniacke House, built by an Irish adventurer from Cork who became a member of the Nova Scotia Council and Attorney General. A unique feature is that the closet doors have holes drilled in them to admit cats in pursuit of mice.

Although he was influential in Nova Scotia government, Judge Thomas Chandler Haliburton is most popularly recalled as the stories about Sam Slick, a smart author of a series of Yankee peddler of clocks. Haliburton has been named "the father of the American school of humour." His home has been preserved, and in it you may see one of the original Sam Slick clocks, with wooden works.

In 1795 Claude de Ramezay built his chateau in Montreal. After the conquest it was the official residence of the governor-in-chief of British North America. In 1775 the American Continental Army made the chateau its headquarters. In 1778 there came to it Benjamin Franklin as an envoy to stir the French Canadians to revolution. Benedict Arnold occupied the chateau for several weeks. It has been preserved as well that its mark of the old reception date is still to be seen on the salon wall.

Ontario has dozens of pioneer homes. At Orillia is the Stephen Leacock Memorial Home. It contains original furniture and a number of Leacock's manuscripts, books and letters.

The quaint and charming home of William Lyon Mackenzie, leader of the rebellion of 1837, is in Toronto. Laurier House in Ottawa was the residence of two prime ministers. "Chiefswood", at Middleport, was the birth-place of the Indian poetess E. Pauline Johnson. The McFarland House, near Niagara-on-the-Lake, was built in 1800, and served as a hospital during the War of 1812.

In far-away Yukon, you may visit the log cabin home of poet Robert Service. Signatures of visitors from all over the world are to be seen in the register on the rickety desk where the author wrote his poems.

The Kids Are Litterbugs

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

No city can be neat and tidy without the co-operation of the younger generation. One only has to stand at the entrances to any corner store where the youngsters refuel and look for two bucks in any direction to see a trail of litter that is an eyesore. Since kids are careless and careless, it is going to be hard to correct this situation, but the parents might try inculcating a little civic pride whenever they catch the young ones littering.

Ontario Is Losing Much of Its Best Farmland

Windsor Star

Much fine farmland in Ontario soil which never has known a crop failure, is being taken out of agriculture. This is largely due to it not providing a sufficient remuneration to keep farmers on it.

This is especially true in the Toronto area, where it has become a status symbol for wealthy urbanites to own a country estate. These are buying up land within a 50-mile radius of the city. Some of it is marginal but is among the best soil in the province.

We know one locality where, within a radius of ten miles, 2,500 acres now are owned by Toronto people. None of it is being worked, yet this good soil once supported large families on each 100 acres.

There is an economic reason (apart from low returns on investment) for the farm owners selling. One got an offer of $40,000 for his 150-acres which, with his implements and livestock valued at almost $20,000, made about $70,000. No other farmer could afford to invest this much in land and stock. To be bought on a mortgage, he never could pay it off; if he paid cash, he could have invested the money much more profitably elsewhere.

Other good farm land, near cities, is being taken over for industrial sites, for housing — or being held by speculators. The Niagara Peninsula, the Oakville - Burlington area and seven Windsor suburbs are examples.

Indeed it is predicted that the time is coming when land within 50 miles of large Ontario cities will be so costly it will be too expensive to farm. This, for instance, would take in most of Essex County.

Various conclusions may be made from a study of the condition of Ontario agriculture.

(1) There seems to be a real organization of Ontario farms, consolidating them into the most efficient and economically viable units. the day of the 100-acre farm (except in intensive agriculture) is gone.

This will require absorption of the smaller farms into larger ones, and the taking of marginal land out of tillage. It also will mean many farmers will be leaving the land, who often will require retraining for urban jobs.

This is the trend overseas. Sweden has a program to reduce the number of its farmers by 50 per cent in the next ten years. Some European countries are retiring farmers at 55, on full pension, provided they sell their land for redistribution into larger units.

(2) There should be government supervision over the sale and use of farm land, to prevent much of the best soil being lost to agriculture. Ontario cannot afford to lose soil which is productive and which should be profitable.

(3) There will need be much additional planning as to crops per hectre, so as not to overproduce or under-produce. This would lend stability to prices.

(4) There will be further development of farm co - operatives, both for production and sale; to reduce the costs of production and give farmers a say in the prices they receive. Perhaps organizations such as the prairie wheat pools, for various Ontario crops, would help.

This will require governmental planning and financhi assistance. But this will be cheaper in the long run than subsidies and price supports, which are expedients rather than remedies — and all too often help those most who need help least.

All Ontario farmers are not irpoverished. Some are doing all right. But even most of the latter are not doing as well as they should for the investment and work they put into their operations. The program should be designed to raise the general ivels.

This reorganization won't be achieved easily, quickly or cheaply. It is essential, however a start be made on it soon. Further delays will be costly in both a social and economic sense.

Productivity Issue

Quinte-Area Marshland Survey

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It was with great interest that I sat for three and one - half hours in the Ameliasburg town hall on Tuesday August 23 to hear a Department of Lands and Forests official outline a proposal to make useful some 9,000 acres of marsh in Ameliasburg and Sophiasburg townships.

Of these acres, some 1,200 are privately - owned and it was made known that the owners would have to be agreeable to the scheme as their support was a necessary part of it. If they would not accept the scheme the plan would quite likely be dropped.

The main theme of a few of the landowners who were present was that the Government should be asked to make a feasibility study of the marshland to see if it could be used for agricultural purposes and a resolution was passed to this effect.

Whether this resolution was by the members of the farm organization present or by the meeting or not, was not clear, at least to me. I am a marshland owner in the 1,200-acre group, as were some others present to whom I spoke. None of them are members of the farm organization sponsoring the meeting. However, the resolution will undoubtedly discourage the Department of Lands and Forests who will now have to face a five-year (my guess) delay, or find some alternative way to utilize the 9,000 acres that are not privately owned, for the benefit of all of the citizens in the area.

I can only conclude that a small number of all the landowners involved would like to have many thousands of dollars spent on a feasibility study, and on dams and other structures, so that their owners can produce crops for which they were told there is no present market.

The scheme as well put forth by Mr. Bittle of Lands and Forests would benefit all of Prince Edward and surrounding communities. It has received approval of all the interested organizations and the Township and county councils, as well as the conservation authority and the Chamber of Commerce, and is total represent all the citizens of the community.

It seems a shame that the few owners objecting can so easily destroy something of benefit to us all particularly when they themselves have never done anything to improve their acres and wouldn't spend a cent to do so.

Expo 67 Impresses U.S. Visitor

Letter to Montreal Gazette

Please allow another U.S. visitor to add his vote on the question concerning the hospitality of your city during this great festivity.

It is obvious that the current problem of accommodation, long waits at pavilions, etc., are the most commendable compliments to Montreal and Expo.

Expo is the fourth fair I have attended. It is the greatest. Our Japanese friends will be hard put to exceed your achievement at Expo 70.

Of course, the crowding creates problems. No host, no matter how skilled, can seat 400 for 50 guests and make all arrivals perfectly comfortable when 40 are late. But Expo IS doing as good a job as possible in allowing us to enjoy ourselves.

Congratulations! I wish to congratulate all connected with this show of shows on their spectacular achievement. As a parting note, I wish to urge visitors to explore more of one of the world's great cities and cities beyond the magical isles of Expo 67.

Ivan the Terrible, Czar of Muscovy, was born 437 years ago today—in 1530—and succeeded to the throne at age three. During his long but wrecked control from a council of noblemen called the Boyars, and became the first Russian ruler to claim the title of Czar. Ivan laid the foundation of modern Russia, being a decade of impressive conquest -but from 1580 on was a morbid fear of treachery paved the way to mass murder and destruction. He passed Great Novgorod, second city of the Kingdom, on the accusation of conspiracy, and at age 50 Ivan killed his only son in a fit of rage and the throne passed to the Romanov in 1534.

1830—Belgian revolution against Dutch control began.

1944—Prime Minister Bennet unveiled St. Malo Cross, Gaspe, to mark Cartier's first landing.

"Gun Lobby" Problem In the U.S.

Christian Science Monitor

A man shot. A family bereaved. All because someone who should never have had a gun in his hand pulled a trigger.

Should it be necessary for Congress to debate for two years, as it has, the question of controlling guns in the hands of persons? In spite of fatal snipings in recent riots and threats of further violent use of guns, the mild control bill before the Senate 91 is still given only a 50-50 chance of passage.

For lack of national or local government regulation of weapon sales, some misdirect homes have engaged in self-regulation during the recent riots. In their stores in several cities, Sears, Roebuck and Co. and J. C. Penney Co. suspended sales during tension periods.

This was commendable but it does nothing to handle the continuing problem. There was no riot in progress when a sniper's bullet assassinated President Kennedy.

The issue is quite simple. Shall the public permit its representatives in Congress to heed the spokesmen of the gun lobby who wants no legislation and calls it a "healthy sign" that membership in the National Rifle Association "protest loud and long when their sport is threatened"? Or shall the public demand simple, effective controls to save lives?

This is an issue all can understand. The people must make themselves heard.

George Hees Outlines Program to Save World From Hunger

TORONTO (CP) — George Hees, Progressive Conservative leadership candidate, in his penultimate policy statement, Thursday outlined plans for a new program to solve the world hunger crisis.

In the sixth of seven policy statements to be issued by his Toronto office prior to the Sept. 8-9 PC leadership convention here, Mr. Hees proposed a "freedom from hunger" campaign which would bring together "all the Canadian public and private experience" in developing a successful world food program.

The program would assist developing countries to devise ways to feed themselves, and explore necessary new sources of foods and food supplements for the future."

The statement, dealing with foreign policy, also called for a reorganization of the department of external affairs to coordinate foreign, defence and economic policies, along with production of a white paper on Canada's objectives abroad.

It also called for a program of assistance, in conjunction with the province, to establish graduate research institutes to undertake specialized studies of different regions of the world.

Other foreign - policy aspects discussed in the statement were a new emphasis on Latin American relations, efforts in the United Nations and elsewhere to guarantee Israel's existence as a modern state and bring it together with the Arab countries to the negotiating table, and new efforts to improve Canadian ties with the French African community.

Camp's Role to be Brief

TORONTO (CP) — Dalton Camp, the man who started it all, will have only a brief public role in the Progressive Conservative party's leadership convention Sept. 8-9.

Convention sources said Thursday Mr. Camp, the party's national president, will be introduced to the delegates along with the presidents of the women's association, the Young Progressive Conservative and the PC Student Federation.

His public participation ends there in current convention planning.

Mr. Camp successfully campaigned last year to have the party's annual meeting call a leadership convention. Since then, he has not been active publicly on the leadership question although he is a member of the convention planning committee.

Co-chairmen of the convention are Toronto lawyer E. A. Goodman and MP Roger Regimbal (Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes).

Convention spokesmen denied a published report that no speech by Mr. Camp has been scheduled to prevent demonstrations against him by supporters of John Diefenbaker, party leader.

The Diefenbaker group has maintained since the party's last annual meeting that members of Mr. Camp's campaign organized a demonstration of booing and hissing during Mr. Diefenbaker's address to the annual meeting.

William Hatton, a leader of the Youth for Diefenbaker movement here, said his group is planning no demonstration against Mr. Camp.

Under the convention rules, the only demonstrations to be permitted during the leadership convention are five-minute affairs after the nomination of each candidate.

Nomination speeches and acceptance by the candidates are scheduled for Friday, Sept. 8. Voting takes place Saturday, Sept. 9.

So far nine candidates have declared their intention of running but Mr. Diefenbaker has declined to say whether he will seek re-election to the post he has held since 1956.

Victory Is Here Exults Fulton

MONTREAL (CP) — Davie Fulton, one of nine Progressive Conservative leadership candidates, said Thursday the leadership crisis is already within his grasp.

"Victory is here," he told an enthusiastic audience at a local club.

Mr. Fulton said the Liberal party "is no longer acceptable to Quebec and that it expects full participation by French-Canadians in the Conservative party.

Mr. Fulton said his victory at next month's leadership convention in Toronto is guaranteed by the hundreds of phone calls he has had with Quebec delegates during the last six months.

Mr. Fulton discounted the idea that he had been on the political scene too long. He said delegates to the party "didn't necessarily want new men but rather experienced men with a new approach."

Too Many Parties

HALIFAX (CP) — Donald Fleming, a candidate for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party, said here Thursday he hopes the present Credit Party will withdraw from federal politics.

Mr. Fleming said:

"I think federally we have too many political parties," he said. "You can see the effect on this in Parliament where the multiplicity of parties often retards the transaction of parliamentary business."

Don't Go Back to Days of Second-class Citizens: Dief

HANOVER, Ont. (CP)—Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said Thursday night Canadians don't want to go back to days when some residents were only second-class citizens.

"We've got an answer to those who call Canada a two nations," he said, repeating from a public platform a claim he made earlier in the week in an interview.

"Through the years, I have belonged to those who advocated building one nation . . . in which all are equal.

"There are not going to be any second-class citizens in Canada, there were for too many years. We don't want to go back to that."

Mr. Diefenbaker's remarks on an issue that confronts most month's leadership convention brought his loudest applause in a speech in this southwestern Ontario community still heavily populified with men and women of German and Dutch ancestry.

Mr. Diefenbaker himself was born at Neustadt, 10 miles from here and, en route to a testimonial dinner, stopped briefly to visit the old yellow-brick Diefenbaker home.

"I was born in that room up there," he told a group of friends who accompanied him, pointing to a second-storey window.

He then chatted for a few minutes in the kitchen with Mrs. John Diefenbaker, who has lived there for the last 39 years. The Diefenbaker's moved from Neustadt to Greenwood, Ont., in 1907 when Mr. Diefenbaker was two years old.

The dinner here was in honor of Eric Winkler, MP for Grey-Bruce since 1957 and chief Opposition whip in the Commons for the last four years.

Mr. Winkler expects to resign his seat shortly to contest Grey South in the forthcoming Ontario general election. He already been nominated in the provincial riding.

Mr. Diefenbaker had earlier warned that the Toronto leadership convention Sept. 8-9 should reject the recommendations of the Montmorency conference that the party adopt the two-nations concept.

The conference, held at Montmorency Falls, Que., produced a policy recommendation for the Toronto convention that the party endorse the idea that Canada is composed of "two founding peoples (deux nations)."

Mr. Diefenbaker, who still has not declared whether he will seek a further term as national leader, said this concept would destroy confederation and warned against the party adopting it.

The association got the city to establish a 260-car underground parking garage beneath Rue St. Joseph. Major department stores constructed their own parking garages.

It implemented the "park-and-shop system", providing two hours free parking for each $2 purchase in member shops in the district.

Now, with parking for about 5,000 cars in the district, the association would like to establish what might be the biggest indoor shopping centre in the country.

Quebec City Mall Revitalizes Lower Town

QUEBEC (CP)—The merchants of Rue St. Joseph, main street of Lower Town, has dressed their street with a Mod pedestrian mall in an effort to increase sales.

The mall, similar to Ottawa's Sparks Street, opened May 19, complete with 236 trees, flowers galore, 69 benches and crowds of curious Quebecers.

And the project's promoters are so sold on the idea they would like to see Canada's first 3,700-foot mall with a roof that might cost $4,000,000 to build.

This would top off efforts begun in 1963 by a business-men's association to liven up the old St. Roch area, long Quebec City's central shopping district.

Its share of sales has been threatened by huge suburban shopping centres. These offer free parking by the acre and indoor shopping, air-conditioned in summer, heated in winter.

The mall, which includes 122 shops at street level, was installed at a cost of $65,000 by the city and the merchants association, is Centre d'Affaire St. Roch Inc.

Although many merchants would like more time to judge the mall, their experiment seems to be showing signs of success.

"The results have been wonderful," says Charles-H. Robitaille, 55, general manager of the merchants association. "Some specialty shops such as shoe stores have increased sales 100 per cent."

A meeting will be held later this year with contractors to discuss the feasibility of installing a roof over the mall. Mr. Robitaille says it can and should be done.

Mayor Gilles Lamontagne has expressed interest in the proposal, which would be financed by both merchants and the city.

The mayor is awaiting a report on urban redevelopment for the region, expected to be made public late in August.

About 450 businesses in the area banded together in 1963 to tackle a common problem: Lack of parking space compared with suburban shopping centres.

Chosen to head the group was Mr. Robitaille, a civic-minded chartered accountant who spent 25 years at Quebec l'Action, the last four as the newspaper's general manager.

TOTAL LOOK—Cover girl Toni O'Connor illustrates two workouts which are total routines to activate most of the important muscles of the body.

Fashion and Beauty Stress the "Total Look"

Today, fashion and beauty stress the "total look." Coiffure, cosmetics and clothes combine for an over-all impact. Does your face and figure measure up? School portraits and professional photographs literally provide the both full-length and portrait poses, score yourself on these pointers. Is the area from hairline to chin divided into three equal parts? Is your figure symetrically proportioned, or do you have such bulging statistics as hips more than one or two inches larger than bust, upper arms one and a half inches larger than ankles and thighs six inches more generous than calves? If so, exercise is indicated.

The following two workouts are total routines, for they activate most of the important muscles of the body. To firm arms, torso and legs, stand erect, feet 14-16 inches apart. Grasp a belt and raise arms overhead. As cover girl Toni O'Connor illustrates, hold strap taut and briskly kick right leg to the side. For extra stretch, keep knee straight, toes pointed. Rehearse action on the left side. Maintain a lively pace as you practice interval kick 10 times. Gradually increase to 20 repetitions.

Another routine, "The Swinger," offers multi-rewards. Results are noted at the waist and hips, with contouring benefits to the chin and throat. Stand with feet widely separated. Bend forward and swing upper torso and arms to the right. As you twist, extend right arm up and against midriff. Feel that stretch! For added chin slimming, let eyes follow movement of extended right arm. Alternate sides; practice 10 times.

Bond – Aitchison

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM A. BOND

On Saturday August 19, 1967 at 2 p.m., the marriage of Jane Elizabeth Aitchison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Aitchison, Belleville to William Albert Bond, Edmonton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Albert Bond, Delhi, Ontario took place in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville.

Dr. H. M. Davis officiated at the ceremony and traditional wedding music was rendered by organist S. Alec Gordon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie and Chantilly lace, highlighted with a wedding coat of organza and lace extending in form a train. A seed pearl crown was caught in a three-tier veil and she carried a bouquet of white glamelias with coral, yellow and turquoise centres.

The maid of honor Miss Glenna Bond, sister of the bridegroom from Deep River wore a sleeveless floor-length chiffon gown in coral with matching coral headdress.

Miss Carol Aitchison, sister of the bride, Belleville and Miss Kathi Slavin of Saskatoon as bridesmaids were dressed similarly to the maid of honor but in yellow and turquoise respectively. All carried bouquets of white glamellas.

Alan Gagnon of Guelph was groomsman, while Kerry Bond, brother of the bridegroom, St. Catharines and Alan Aitchison, Waterloo, brother of the bride were the ushers.

At the reception in Bridge Street United Church hall, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a two - piece sleeveless beige lace dress with coral hat and accessories and a corsage of coral shade roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a navy blue triple sheer sheath dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to their home in Edmonton, Alberta, the bride chose a three-piece turquoise double knit silk suit with white accessories.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD E. TODD

Todd – Redner

The Alliance Church, Belleville was the setting on Saturday, August 19, 1967 at 2 p.m., when Mary Elizabeth Redner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Redner, Carrying Place R.R. 1 was united in marriage to Richard E. Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Todd, Toronto. Rev. L. Broadhurst, minister of the church officiated and wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Marion Foster who also accompanied the soloist Mr. James MacKay.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin dress highlighted with beaded embroidery on the bodice and on the lace edged train. Her shoulder-length veil was caught by a satin rose and lily-of-the-valley and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli and pink roses.

Miss Eleanor Redner was maid of honor wearing floor-length pale blue Swiss shantung dress with floral headdress and carried a bouquet of white and blue tinted carnations. The bridesmaids Miss Sytsia, Redner, Miss Jean Todd and Miss Alice Legros were similarly attired to the maid of honor. Little Miss Linda MacKay was dressed almost identically to the bride, and Chris Redner, nephew of bride, dressed similarly to the bridegroom.

Roger Neilson of Peterborough was groomsman, while the ushers were Howard Bernie, Bill Foley and Charles Stygs, all of Toronto.

For the reception at the Tops Motor Hotel, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a pink lace ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue crepe dress with lace bodice matching hat and a corsage of white carnations.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Cape Cod the bride wore a pink coat and dress ensemble with matching tam and on return will reside in Toronto.

Layered Raisin Bars

By MARY MOORE

LETTER: I am enclosing Layered Raisin Bars . . . Mrs. R.A.

ANSWER: We tried them and they are good — rich and chewy.

LAYERED RAISIN BARS
(courtesy Mrs. R. A.)

Bars:
½ cup butter
½ cup brown sugar, packed
¾ cup quick-cooking rolled oats
½ cup sifted all - purpose flour
Topping:
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar, packed (second amount)
¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¾ cup raisins, packed
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup coconut (shredded, flaked or desiccated)
¼ cup chopped glace cherries or glace pineapple).

Blend all bars ingredients together until crumbly. Press into a 9" square buttered pan and bake 15 min. at 350 deg. Fahr.

Meanwhile make topping by beating eggs until frothy, adding 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup flour, baking powder, salt and vanilla and mix well. Add raisins, coconut, cherries or pineapple and mix again. Spread evenly over partially baked base and return to oven and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 20 min. longer or until firm to touch. Remove from oven and cool, then cut into 36 to 36 bars or squares.

QUESTION: My husband's mother used to make lentil soup and he remembers how much he liked it. I have a ham bone in the freezer. Would you please print the recipe and I will surprise him. — Ida H.

ANSWER: The pleasure is mine too.

LENTIL SOUP
One 8-oz. pkge. dried red lentils
7 cups cold water
1 ham bone
½ bay leaf
1 tbsp. chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped celery (optional)
1 tsp. salt
Shake of pepper

Soak lentils in cold water one hour. Add all remaining ingredients. Simmer in covered soup pot about 2½ hrs. or until lentils are so soft they are a puree. Remove ham bone and bay leaf and skim soup to see if you would like to add a little more salt.

Best of luck.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN F. LONG

Long — Desrochers

The marriage of Linda Ann Desrochers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Desrochers of Stirling to John Francis Long of Kingston, son of Mrs. John Francis Long of Frankford and the late Mr. Long was performed by Rev. J. F. McGarvey in St. James the Minor Church, Stirling on Saturday, August 19 at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Carl Pitman was soloist and played accompaniment for soloist Miss Roseanne McAvoy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length Empire styled gown of white sheer silk organza over taffeta featuring cap sleeves and panels of Chantilly lace extending down the front of the dress. A detachable train fell from the shoulders and was accented with panels of matching lace. Her three-tier scalloped silk illusion veil was caught to a crystal headdress and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of pink delight roses and stephanotis.

Miss Susan Desrochers as maid of honour and the bridesmaid, Miss Nancy Desrochers, sisters of the bride were dressed alike in street-length princess style dresses of peacock blue, designed with boat necklines and short sleeves. Both were lily-of-the-valley headdresses with small illusion veils and each carried a semi-cascade bouquet of pink pom poms 'mums.

Michael Long, brother of the bridegroom was best man, while the usher was Robert Noble.

Receiving the guests at the reception in Batawa Recreation Hall, the bride's mother wore an Empire styled gown of pink crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a sleeveless gown of aqua crepe with matching hat and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to eastern points, the bride wore a sleeveless buttercup yellow dress featuring a high round neckline, with black patent accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Long will reside in Kingston.

Successful Living

Sister's Disposition Changes

Dear Doris: I have a sister who is 23 who spends most of her time sitting at home. She used to have boy friends but the last one just up and got married to someone else. We read it in the paper.

Since then (a year) she has changed. She speaks different; so very prim and so proper. She is very cold towards males (even me), and shows no chances of going out with men for fear she will be hurt again.

She is depressed and she becomes very irritable when my two brothers come down with their children. She used to act lively and cheery and she found no difficulty speaking to others. At times it is almost unbearable living at home.

I wish I could help her in some way. I hope it doesn't look as if I'm meddling. — Brother Tom.

Dear Tom: When a fellow takes enough interest in his sister to write to me about her it doesn't look like meddling to me. We can go too far with this modern trend of not getting involved."

Have you tried the direct approach? Soften her up by bringing her a box of candies or a bouquet. Tell her you are one male who cares about her and who needs the good cheer she used to spread around.

If you can get her talking to you, plant the idea that there is a child or a handicap somewhere who needs her loving help; or point the way for her to start on a new hobby.

Letting her withdraw into her cocoon is paving the way for the deterioration of her personality.

Dear Doris: My daughter and her boy friend have cars. He's selling his car and he expects my daughter to chauffeur him around to work and in the evenings. She is all for it. She says they can save more money.

They both earn good money as school teachers and will be married in six months. His excuse for selling the car is that he is going to have an expensive operation and wants to pay cash.

I do wish to be a good father-in-law and will be glad of your advice. — F. I. L.

Dear F.I.L.: I'd agree the boy friend seems to be rushing the chauffeur service.

But if she is sport enough to do it and there is plenty of love between them, who are you to make life difficult? Getting married is expensive, without the complication of an operation.

Far better for him to take care of his health than to keep on with the extravagance of two cars.

Dear Doris: I found all the information about weddings which you sent me quite helpful. The only thing you didn't tell me, which is very important, is what the groom's parents pay for. — Mom Help Needed.

Dear Mom: Nothing — unless by special arrangement. They may offer to supply liquid refreshments, if any; or help the groom by providing flowers.

But they do join the receiving line, or in any case the groom's mother does. The two fathers may elect to catch guests as they come off the line and steer them around to refreshments and pleasant company.

Groom's parents sometimes give the rehearsal party.

WINNER OF CONSERVATIVE DRAW

Ann Landers

Minding Own Business: Virtue or Cowardice?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When does "minding one's own business" cease to be a virtue and begin to be an act of cowardice?

This morning I heard a youngster crying in front of my house. I looked out to see a little neighbor child surrounded by four jeering children. The boy was wearing a diaper over his trousers and had a cardboard sign around his neck which read, "I am seven years old and I still wet my bed."

I was furious and went outside and began to remove the sign and the diaper. My husband stopped me and said, "It is none of your business."

I know the child's mother. She is a divorcee and as nutty as a fruitcake. Her oldest boy plays centrefield with his thumb in his mouth. A middle child, a girl, has a nervous tick and stutters. Now this little fellow is being tortured because he wets the bed.

Should I try to help these kids by talking to them? Or should I plead with the deranged mother to get some help for herself and her children? — NO NAME PLEASE.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR N.N.P.: Pleading with deranged people is useless. Your best bet is to have a talk with the teachers in whose classes these unfortunate children will be next fall. Surely they will recognize evidence of a tragic home life. Your information and interest should encourage the teachers to investigate and see that the appropriate steps are taken to save these kids.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter wants to go steady. I see nothing wrong with it since the boy is a very nice lad and comes from a good family.

My husband is against it. He says it is ridiculous to allow a 13-year-old girl to accept a boys' friendship ring and go only with him. I understand from friends that going steady does not mean what it did in our day. They claim it is the "in" thing and that most kids outgrow it.

We have been having some heated discussions on this subject since my husband and I are divided. The line-up is now two against two. Our 17-year-old sides with his father. What do you Say? — PARK RIDGE.

DEAR PARK: I just tipped the balance. It's 3 to 2, and I'm with your husband and your son. Not only am I against 13-year-olds going steady, I am against 13-year-old going. Period.

What's your big hurry to get this little chick grown up? I don't know what your friends mean when they say going steady doesn't mean what it did in our day. The basic idea is the same — "everybody else, hands off." This is a poor approach even for 16-and-17-year-old. If you came to me for support, Madame, you rattled the wrong cage.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO HATE THE STUFF: Leave it alone, Stupid. Of course he want you to drink with him. What does he have to lose? He's already a drunk. Furthermore, booze is one of the best known devices to break down a girl's resistance.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Now please behave when Aunt Jane is here. You know how fussy she is and how you disturbs her."

Child: "I hope she doesn't stay very long."

Mother: "Let's show Aunt Jane how much we enjoy having her visit us. We'll all try to be quieter so she can relax here.

Child: "We'll keep our record player turned low."

Your attitude will determine the children's reaction to a difficult guest — and their reaction may make her less difficult.

Sticks and Stones

Employees of the H. J. McFarland Construction Company work on a rain culvert on Highway 37 north of Belleville. The road will finally live up to its name at the end of October—it will be passable.

Tweed District News

TWEED — Mr. Floyd Caverly, who is employed by the Department of Lands and Forests, has moved with his family from Denbigh, to Stoco.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kranz and family from St. John's, Newfoundland, are spending a few weeks in Denbigh, and while there, Mr. Kranz will be the guest speaker at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Denbigh, in absence of Mr. Schroeder who is on holidays.

Recently, little 3-year-old Trina Gorr, of Plevna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gorr, fell off a swing while visiting at a cottage at Brule Lake, and cut her head. Emergency hospital at Perth, said it required ten stitches to close the wound.

A successful two-week Community Vacation Church school was culminated this week, at Plevna, with a picnic at Sand Lake. Forty-three children and adults participated in the school.

A successful bake sale was held recently in Denbigh, by the Centennial Committee, in the Denbigh Community Hall.

After visiting her sister, Mrs. Harold Long, and Mr. Long, Tweed, for five weeks, Mrs. James Cunningham of Kilmarnock, Scotland, returned to her home in Scotland.

Tweed Highway Given Facelifting Job

Travellers on Highway 37 won't have to purchase new shock absorbers after each time they travel the road to Plainfield and Tweed.

Although the road is still comparable to the road west in 1950 it is well on its way into being transformed into a highway. The contract, which is with the H.J. McFarland Construction Company, calls for grading, drainage, granular base and hot mix paving.

The work extends from the Moira River north on Highway 37 for almost seven miles and the road through Plainfield will also be repaved.

Work on the road began in the spring with installing culverts and it has been a heavy job right from the beginning.

The road in some parts had to be cut out of the rough terrain and blasting was necessary in numerous areas.

There have been no real problems with the job although the dirt-work was delayed at the beginning because of rain. The problem of working through traffic has naturally slowed the job down according to C. Boyd, chief engineer for the construction company.

Mr. Boyd thought that the construction would be completed on time by the beginning of November as "now schedule." that it is dry again we can catch up and get back on The contract for the job was over $540,000.

Ellis' Win 5-1

Gray's Four-Hitter Stops Lake Bus

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

Eldon Gray fashioned another one of his ultra-fine pitching efforts last night, as Belleville Ellis' slew Lake Bus of Kingston 5-1 at Alemite Park.

Gray gave up just four hits, struck out 15 and was backed by sensational fielding by his teammates, in gaining the do-or-die decision.

The victory for Ellis' tied the OASA Senior "B" series at one game each with the final tussle to be staged Saturday night at the Alemite. Game time is 8.30.

Lake Bus and Ellis' have had a close rivalry all season. The latter won the Quinte-KASA league's pennant by a single point ahead of Lake Bus. It appears the two will meet to decide the league championship after their OASA series.

Second baseman Don Gardner slammed a home run and triple to account for three of the winners' runs. In the ninth inning, Ellis' centerfielder Ralph Plane made the play of the game, a diving catch of a hard-hit ball off the bat of Bob Jackson that appeared bound for distant pastures.

The losers pushed across their lone run in the second, when Ellis' Paul Moraw erred.

Belleville scored twice in the bottom of the same inning, with Gardiner's triple the key blow, and took a 3-1 lead when the same player clouted his home-run.

Phil Litchfield and Ken Lewis pitched the Kingston pitching chore, giving up nine hits and fanning 11.

Ralph Plane had a double and single for Ellis', Paul Moraw doubled, and Terry Legge, Larry Mavely, Carl Boomhower and Eldon Gray had singles.

Tom Cashman hit twice for the losers, before being ejected from the game by plate umpire "Widget" Adams. Lewis and Bob Jackson also hit safely. Cashman's departure came as the result of an argument following a play at home.

Sunday's Grand Prix of Canada, marking the first time that Formula 1 racing has been held in this country, will attract up to 70,000 people at Mosport Sunday.

A number of local car enthusiasts are expected to make the trip to the Bowmanville area for the race.

With points from the race counting toward the World Driving Championship, the top drivers are competing, including two from our own country.

Eppie Wietzes will be making his debut in a Formula 1 car and Ludwig Al Pease as the only Canadians in the Grand Prix. Wietzes will be driving a Lotus-Ford, the same as Jim Clark and Graham Hill, two of the greatest, while Pease will be behind the wheel of an Eagle.

Two city minor softball teams hope to wrap up important playoff series in OASA tomorrow afternoon.

Belch Construction powers topped Oshawa 11-6 last Saturday and can win the Zone Four crown with another victory tomorrow. Their game is scheduled for 1 p.m. and another game will follow, both at Alemite Park, if Oshawa should tie the series.

Meanwhile, SACO bantams also carry a one-game lead when they visit Oshawa, having downed the Motor City boys easily here last weekend. Oshawa will be tougher at home than they showed in an 18-3 loss here.

Turning to senior baseball, the proud Hi-Ho Cornwall team treks to Thorahill for the opener of an OBA powwow "C" series tomorrow and plays back at home Sunday, at 2 p.m. This marks the first year for a South Hastings senior team to travel down the OBA playoff trail and the boys, under Jerry MacLurcan, are doing right well.

The two Stinson-Black Diamond Commercial playoff meetings to date have provided as many 2-1 thrillers, with Stinson-Synthetic both. City Hotel also leads Lightfoots 2-0 in games and due to park circumstances only one doubleheader will be played next week, that on Tuesday at the Alemite.

Meanwhile, Stewart Warner and Brant's Mountain View are playing a four-of-seven consolation series. Tibi Club, the third team out of the league's playoffs, withdrew to concentrate on OASA juvenile playoffs.

ODDS AND ENDS

Speculation is that a major shakeup will take place in the Atlanta Braves which could see manager Billy Hitchcock fired and regular players Mack Jones, Rico Carty and Felix Mendo traded . . . Formula 1 racing cars are valued at about $75,000 each . . . and there's no fenders for the wife to scratch . . . Former hockey hardrock Bill Eshiki joins fellow-Canadians Moe Norman, George Knudson, Ian Harvey, Will Dommerville, Johnny Heanick, Bill Waleshan, John Munro, Bob Cox and Stan Honsonath in the Carling World Golf tourney, in Toronto, September 1 to 4 . . . There's stock car racing in this district Sunday, at 2 p.m., at both the Tweed and the new Tyendinaga (Read), raceways . . . Last season's Belleville Centennial Hockey Club expects to play out of Tweed this winter in a intermediate loop . . . The Limit: Saskatchewan will defeat Winnipeg, Argos will slip Montreal and B.C. Lions will get their first win — against Calgary — this weekend.

OBA playoff dates were announced this morning with the city Elks Midgets travelling to North Toronto tomorrow and North Toronto powwow coming here to meet Holy Rosary at Parkdale Sunday afternoon.

Bantam Title to Parkdale

Parkdale bombed Farrells 18-3 to capture the bantam city league baseball crown, last night at Parkdale.

The winners cracked 18 hits as compared to the losers' five, and scored in every inning but one. They led 5-4 after the first, added four more next inning and eight in the final chapter.

Glen Carleton started for Parkdale but left after a shaky start in favor of Stan Brooks in the second inning. Terry Meagher hurled the final two innings. Together they allowed five hits, walked four and struck out five.

Moe Thompson pitched the entire game for the losers, walking one and fanning seven.

Randy Burke led Parkdale's batsmen with a triple and three singles. Paul Wolfe homered and added a pair of base hits. Rick Graham tripled and doubled, Ed Christopher and Merle Dafoe doubled, Rick Meagher, Terry Meagher and Stan Brooks singled twice each, and Glen Carleton added a base hit.

Don Bankey homered and singled, Bill Cole tripled and Norm Pope and Darwin Easton singled, for the losers.

Lewis vs. Farrell

Scoreless Duel In SHBL

Larry Lewis and Frank Farrell hooked up in one of the best pitching duels of the South Hastings Baseball League season last night - and failed to reach a decision.

Shannonville and Read fought to 0-0, seven - inning tie at Read in the second game of their loop finals.

The third game is slated for Shannonville Sunday afternoon at 2. Shannonville won the best-of-seven series opener 3-2.

Lewis gave up three hits for Shannonville, striking out six and walking three.

Farrell also allowed three hits, whiffed four and walked one for Read.

Read had a good scoring chance when it loaded the bases with two out in the fifth but couldn't get a man home. Read catcher Gerry Brennan threw out three Shannonville runners and the visitors managed to get only one man as far as second base.

Glenn Milligan had two Read singles and Wayne Pascoe doubled.

Shannonville base hits went to Bill Hall Barberstock and Doug Dafoe.

Four Enter

Junior Hockey Here In Doubt

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

The Junior hockey picture for this city remained hazy following a meeting of possible entries for the Eastern Junior "B" loop here last night.

Representatives from all six of last year's Junior "B" clubs were present but only four announced definite intentions of returning for the approaching season.

Oshawa, Peterborough, Cobourg and Kingston will be back for sure and Trenton is a likely fifth starter.

Jim "Snipe" Matthews, representing the Belleville squad, was given until the next meeting, tentatively set for Sept. 12, to come up with a yes or no.

"I just don't know", he announced when the representatives were asked to declare.

"With no players and no money things are pretty rough and if we do have a club, I don't know about ice time here", he stated.

"If we come up with a sponsor, we might give it another try but the well has run about ray dry here, both money and player wise. And there is no doubt about it, we can't have senior hockey for the fan support", he added.

The other clubs were all for giving Belleville more time to reach a decision.

Trenton's Howard Weese said he expected he would be back, "if we can get our ice problems solved".

The clubs talked of schedules from 24 to 32 games, depending on the final number of entries.

The meeting was conducted by three OHA executives, president Jack Dennett, 1st vice-president Lorne Cook and executive member Harold Webster.

Cementmen Even

Ejections End Playoff Game

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Bob Olajos and Charlie Convery may have helped Kingston Aces win the OHA Senior "A" hockey crown last winter but they didn't stick around long enough last night to be much help to the Batteress ball club.

Both were ejected from the game in Point Anne, leaving their club with only eight players and a big hurtle loss to the Cementmen.

Point Anne, leading 6-1 in the bottom of the fifth when Batteress ran out of players, tied their OASA Intermediate "C" series at 4 games each with the win.

The third game will be played at Kingston's Megaffin Stadium Sunday at 3 p.m.

Olajos got the bounce in the fourth from plate umpire Jim Tebworth for swearing and disputing called strikes. Convery followed in the fifth after a verbal exchange with first base official Austin Walsh following a close play at third in which the umpire there, Bruce Nickle, had called a Point Anne runner safe.

Ron Maracle was breezing along with a four-hitter and had struck out 13 batters with the razor-sharp hurling when the end came. He had walked two.

Point Anne chased Batteress starter John Ball with three runs in the first. Gerry Hill hit the first pitch for a homer and Ron Maracle made it 2-0 with another. A pair of miscues and Dave Alley's double scored the other and brought in Gerry Emmons. In all they gave up eight hits and Batteress served four times. Two hits and a hobble plated two in the third and three more safeties got one in the fourth.

Ron Maracle had two singing to go with his homer, David Akey a double and single, Gerry Hill, Jim Horwood, Eric Maher and Vern Whalen the rest. Ken Silver singled twice, Convery and Garnet Ball once each for Batteress. Silver and Ball combined their hits with a wild pitch for the lone tally in the third.

Girls Win

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Top honors in the Canadian girls' junior sailing championship here went to Daphne Grant and Barbara Orens of the Queen City Yacht Club of Toronto.

Would You Believe 30-0 Score?

Stewart-Warner and Brant's Mountain View are scheduled to play a best-of-seven Commercial Softball League consolation series.

If the Warnermen don't wear themselves out running around the bases before the series gets beyond the second game, that is.

In Ameliasburg last night Stewart Warner demolished Brant's by a 30-0 count.

Doug Ellis pitched a four-hit win with nine strikeouts and one walk.

The losers', who finished a dead last during schedule play, left Joe Maracle on the hill all the way. He gave up 14 hits and his mates made just one long error. He fanned none and issued nine free passes.

Ellis also sparked his own attack with two home runs and a single. Moe Hawkins had a triple, double and single, for Wannamaker's a double and single, Cliff Hineman a home run and base hit while Gary Lee singled twice, Rick Deard and Jack Caddick once each.

George Daniels doubled with Doug Boomhower and Bill Cannons adding singles in a losing effort.

The teams are scheduled to play again Monday at Alemite Park.

Reliever Superb As Starter

Yanks' Monbouquette Dumps White Sox Into Tie For First

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Yankees blanked Chicago White Sox 5-0 on Bill Monbouquette's fine pitching Thursday and dropped the White Sox into a virtual tie with Boston Red Sox for the American League lead.

The White Sox couldn't do much hitting against Monbouquette, who, after being released by Detroit Tigers in May, spent three weeks trying to catch on with every major league team before the Yankees took a chance that has been paying off handsomely ever since.

Monbouquette has pitched well in relief, but in making his first start against Chicago, he was superb. The league leaders managed only five hits and only one of them went out of the infield.

In other American League games, the Red Sox beat Washington Senators 7-5, Minnesota Twins took Detroit Tigers 4-2 and Cleveland Indians edged California Angels 3-1. Baltimore and Kansas City were rained out.

Carlton Fisk, the man who came when Roger Maris went to St. Louis, blasted two two-run homers for the Yankees and the White Sox just couldn't do a thing off the Yankee right-hander.

Elston Howard hit his first homer in a Boston uniform, a three-run shot in the seventh inning that led the Sox to within a point of the league lead. Chicago's percentage is .561 to Boston's .560.

Jerry Adair and Jim Landis also homered for the Red Sox who won 10 out of 12 in their current home stand. The Sox scores scored three times in the ninth before John Wyatt came in to get the final out.

Harmon Killebrew's 34th homer broke a six in the eighth inning and the Twins scored again in the ninth on Ted Uhlaender's run-scoring single to cement the victory and solo possession of third place, half a game behind Chicago and Boston. The Tigers are in fourth, 1½ games out.

Chuck Hinton hit a homer in the fourth inning for the defensive Cleveland run and Sam McDowell protected it, giving up just six hits to the Angels and striking out nine.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Billy McCool, working in relief in the 10th inning against Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday night, walked a moment too long before deciding what to do with Jim Lefebvre's sacrifice bunt and Cincinnati Reds wound up on the short end of a 4-3 score.

Gary Nolan was working on a three-hitter and leading 3-0 going into the ninth inning against the Dodgers. But three straight hits by Lefebvre, Al Ferrara and Wes Parker followed by two errors tied the score for Los Angeles.

An inning later, Lou Johnson opened with a double, Lefebvre bunted and McCool fielded the ball, looked towards third, hesitated, and threw to first. But Lefebvre beat the play.

An intentional walk to Ferrara loaded the bases and after Parker popped out, Bob Bailey singled Johnson home with the winning run.

In the only other National League games played Thursday, Houston Astros edged Atlanta Braves 5-4 in 10 innings and St. Louis Cardinals blanked San Francisco Giants 2-0. Pittsburgh's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

Doug Rader drove in three runs with three hits and a sacrifice fly for Houston but the Braves won Sonny Jackson, whose 10th-inning single scored Ron Brand with the winning run.

Brand had been hit by a J Ritchie pitch with two out ar raced to third on Julio Gotay double. Ramon Hernande relieved for the Braves an Jackson singled the winnin run home.

Bob Tolan and winning pitch er Dick Hughes stroked sixth inning singles that drove in the winning runs for St. Louis against San Francisco.

Tim McCarver singled open ing the Cardinal ninth and moved to second on a sacrifice. Julian Javier was intentionally walked and Tolan and Hughes followed with their hits.

Bad Boys Peewee Champions

Bad Boys scored a single run in the final inning to edge IBEW 3-2 and win the peewee city baseball championship in two games straight.

The winners were outhit 5-4 but six walks by IBEW's hurlers as compared to three by Bad Boys spelled the difference.

Brian Cousins, Dan Coulson and Mike Bell combined on Bad Boy's mound for the victory. They struck out 10. Mike Bentley and Allan Wood shared the loss, managing 11 strikeouts.

Mike Bell slammed two singles and Dan Coulson and Mark Kent had one each, for the winners. Bill Coughlan replied for IBEW with a double and single, Stephen Burke homered and Mike Burley and Terry Collins each had base hits.

Richard Hall coached the champs while Larry Bowden and Keith Love were IBEW's coaches.

Parker Resigns As Rifles' Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Jackie Parker resigned Thursday as coach of Toronto Rifles, just two days before the team's scheduled Continental Football League opener in Akron, Ohio.

Parker, a former Canadian Football League star with Toronto Argonauts and Edmonton Eskimos, was in his rookie season as a coach.

In a brief statement, Parker said:

"Due to recent changes in club policy which keeps me from fulfilling obligations to my players and coaches I feel it leaves me no other choice but to resign.

"I do this with deep regret as my association with the players and coaches has been a very enjoyable one. I hold no animosity toward the Toronto Rifle football club . . ."

Parker did not explain the policy changes.

Leo Valentine, vice-president of the Rifles, indicated assistant coach Bubba Merriell likely will replace Parker.

"We were very surprised," said Valentine. "We think highly of Jackie and have done everything in our power to retain him as coach.

"We'll have to carry on the best way we can and certainly we'll have to find a new coach.

We have a pretty good assistant coach in Bubba Marriott, and we'll probably let him take over.

Bombers, Riders Juggle Lineups

REGINA (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers have undergone a bit of lineup juggling in preparation for their first clash of the Western Football Conference season with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Coach Eagle Keys of the Roughriders also has made some changes in preparation for the game tonight at Taylor Field.

The Bombers have switched five men to other positions and brought in four new players.

Bill Whisler has been switched from defensive end to offensive tackle. Frank Rigney will play offensive guard instead of tackle. Phil Minnick jumped from outside linebacker to middle linebacker, Roger Hamelin from defensive tackle to end, and Morley Bolsner went from an offensive guard spot to defensive linebacker.

With Roger Rook out of the running and Al Miller still limping on a sprained foot, Minnick is the only healthy starting linebacker on the Winnipeg squad.

Keys said and Jim Worden is definitely out for the game. Jim Carphin is also out after being poked in the eye by a finger during a recent game.

Offensive halfback Larry Dumelie will be dressed, but whether Keys uses him is another question.

The Riders have added another import, Jason Francl, who joined the club Monday after he was chopped by Denver Broncos of the American League. Francl will be playing as an offensive end, but has been described as a capable defensive end tight end.

Bobich Brings Along Boot

MONTREAL (CP) — Lou Bobich, who used his boot to lead the Montreal Alouettes' Montreal Beavers in scoring last season, has turned up at the Alouettes' training field.

His is supposed to be a possible threat to field-goal kicker Ron Forwick, who missed three short-yardage efforts in last week's 17-16 loss to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Grand Prix

Record Run Is Expected

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP)—On the basis of unofficial runs over Mosport's twisting road circuit Thursday, the track record could fall when 25 championship cars race Sunday in the Grand Prix of Canada.

New Zealander Chris Amon took his red Ferrari around the 2.45-mile track in one minute, 23.8 seconds, an average of 105 miles an hour and a little short of the mark set last year by Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., in a Lotus 770 sports car.

Gurney is entered in Sunday's race with an American Eagle.

Twice world champion Jim Clark of Scotland had made an unofficial mark of 1:24 when the Lotus-Ford he was driving spun out on corner No. 1 and slid on a bank, damaging a radius rod. Clark was not hurt.

The car, to be driven in the Grand Prix by Eppie Wietzes of Toronto, one of the only two Canadians entered, was expected to be repaired in time for the big race.

Practice starts in earnest this afternoon and continues through Saturday as drivers prepare for the first Grand Prix to be run in Canada. It is one of 11 races leading towards the world driver's championship of 1967.

The race, with $100,000 in prize money, includes three world champion drivers.

Clark has won the world crown twice and Lotus teammate Graham Hill of England has won it once.

Australian Jack Brabham, who has New Zealander Denis Hulme on his team racing Brabham-Repcos, is the reigning champion and has won the title twice before.

Collins Bay Eliminates Midgets 9-0

Belleville Ellis' bowed out of the OASA Midget "A" playoff picture in Kingston last night by shooting a 9-0 loss at the hands of a red-hot Collins Bay pitcher.

Collins Bay won the two-of-three set two games to one with pitcher Doucette outstanding in all three games.

He let Belleville down on four hits last night and blew third strikes past 19 batters. He did not walk a man.

Scotty Reid and Jamie Hunter shared the hurling beat. They gave up nine hits while Ellis booted the ball for eight errors. They struck out 12 and walked five.

Don Fuller collected two of the Belleville singles with Jamie Hunter and Cli Wilson notching the others.

Belleville 'B' Nips Wilsons

Belleville "B" gained a narrow 1-0 victory over Wilson Concrete in Bay of Quinte Soccer play last night.

The winners applied the pressure throughout the game, and were rewarded for their efforts in the second half when John Cowie booted the ball home after a fine pass by Peter Crowle.

Wilsons nearly scored when a free kick whistled over the Belleville cross bar with only moments left in the game.

Hughes Wins Junior Title

TORONTO (CP)—George Hughes of Toronto won both races Thursday to capture his second consecutive Canadian national junior sailing championships.

Hughes and his crew, Jamie Fitch, won the title by coming in first in five of the six races.

Rich Allen Cuts Wrist

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies' slugging third baseman Rich Allen will be out of action the rest of the season, after accidentally cutting two tendons on his right hand and wrist Thursday night.

The 21-year slugger was pushing his car at home when he accidentally shoved the hand through a headlight, cutting the two tendons and severing a nerve.

He was admitted to Hospital, where two orthopedic surgeons and a neurosurgeon worked on the hand over a period of nearly five hours.

The doctors said Allen's hand would be in a cast at least six weeks and that if the healing was normal, he will not have any difficulty in grasping a bat or ball.

Shelby Leads In Dragons

TORONTO (CP)—G. Shelby (Bud) Friederichs of the Southern Yacht Club in New Orleans, moved into a commanding position Thursday to successfully defend for the second time his North American dragon-class sailing championship.

Under sunny skies and with a brisk 10-to-15 mile-an-hour wind scudding his sleek 29-foot craft along, Friederichs beat a fleet of 17 competitors, including defending world champion Ole Bernsten of Hellerup, Denmark, by taking the first two of three preliminary heats leading to a two-race final Saturday.

Track Records Expected

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian junior track and field championships open today with predictions that several records will fall in the two-day meet.

"The track is in the best shape ever," says John King, president of the Ottawa Secondary School's Track and Field Club.

"I'm sure we'll see several records fall."

About 400 athletes of junior and juvenile age will compete in the 86 events which are split evenly between the 19-and-under and 17-and-under age groups.

While Canadian championships still are the top awards in the meet, the athletes have another incentive this year. Sixty of the top boys and girls will be named to a special Canadian junior team that meets teams of similar size from Britain in the Westchester Classic golf tournament.

They had a one-stroke lead on U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, Bob Charles of New Zealand and John Schlee, a counsellor at Camp Kenwood, Monday.

In all, 68 of the field of 154 matched or bettered the par 72 at the 6,573-yard Westchester Country Club course, as George Knudson of Toronto shot a 37-35 —76.

Latta

LATTA — The Women of Trinity United Church catered at the Belleville Fair on Tuesday and Wednesday last week.

Miss Donna Hennessy of Kingston has been holidaying with the Misses Carol Cathy Karen and Susan Treverton.

Miss Shirley Charlton has returned home from the Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Harold Treverton, visited Mrs. Allen Hennessy who has been a patient at the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston.

Community members of the 4-H Club participated in the 4-H Day at Belleville Fair on Friday.

Miss Lois Benny of Mount Forest has spent some time this summer with her grandmother, Mrs. A. Reeves.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Reid and Vicki of Whitby called recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Treverton and girls.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Treverton were Rev. E. J. Kersey and Mrs. Kersey and family of Hamilton.

The Trinity United Church in Rodin has been closed for the month of August. Service will commence on Sunday September 3rd with Rev. Fullerton officiating.

Barbados Crew Heads Dinghy Championships

CORNWALL Ont. (CP) Jack Hood of Barbados continued to set the pace in the first week GP-14 class dinghy championships Thursday at Stormont Yacht Club.

Hood and his crew, Bill Tennyson, finished ahead of Michael Davis of Wales' Treadder Sailing Club in the morning race. The afternoon race was called off because of lack of wind.

The two victories put Hood—a 24-year-old Hood not in front with 1½ points. Second-place Davis has five points. Bill Whitker of the host club is third with seven points.

The host with the lowest number of points at the conclusion of the championships Saturday will be declared the winner. The five remaining races in the seven-race championships will be held today and Saturday.

Dave Pennington of the host club and Gerry Springer of Kingston, Ont., are deadlocked for fourth with 18 points. Springer the North American champion.

The Canadian champion, 16-year-old Anne Gourley of Brockville, Ont., sailed to fifth, and is in 22nd place among the 45 entries.

Entries in the championships represent nine countries—Wales, the United States, England, Northern Ireland, Barbados, Trinidad-Tobago, Australia, South Africa and Canada.

With The Trotters

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP) — J. M. J. won the second race at Mohawk Raceway Thursday night.

J. M. J. scored a half length triumph over Davis Blue.

Bonnie Duke and Elvis combined for a $148.80 daily double.

Kenland Lass and Armbro Dimlet produced a $51.50 exacta in the sixth race.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—Adios Custer, owned by Ken McNutt of Wilmington, De., and George K. Mohan of Niagara Falls, Ont., won the $4,000 3-year-old international pace Thursday at Batavia Downs.

Adios Custer beat Niagara Ace to the wire by a nose.

Adios Custer paid $25.80 for Win.

The daily double of Lovely Lad and Dr. Direct paid $277.20.

Leafs Split Twin Bill

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A two-run home run Thursday night by John Ryan carried Toronto Maple Leafs to their fourth victory in their last 11 starts but the Leafs dropped the second half of an International League doubleheader.

The Leafs nipped Rochester Red Wings 4-3 in the first game and dropped a 7-3 decision in the nightcap.

Richmond Braves suffered a major setback in their bid for the pennant as Ed Hobaugh pitched a six-hit shutout in his performance in a 3-1 victory by Columbus Jets.

Jacksonville Suns split a doubleheader with Toledo Mud Hens, stealing the opener 2-1 in 11 innings and dropping the nightcap 5-1. In the only other game, Buffalo Bisons battered Syracuse Chiefs 6-3 in the opener of a six-game series.

Intrepid Wins Trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Intrepid, the 12-metre yacht skippered by Rod Mesquita, defeated Columbia again Thursday and was selected to defend the America's Cup for the United States against the Australian challenger, Dame Pattie.

Almost before Columbia's foes were made fast to the dock for the selection committee moved alongside and informed owner Pat Dongan and skipper Mesquita they thought they had been eliminated from the trials.

In posting her 19th victory in 20 trial races, Intrepid crossed the finish line three minutes, 51 seconds ahead of Columbia.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—K. Day, one of Canada's all-time money-winning thoroughbreds, got the pace in the seven-furlong allowance at Greenwood Raceway Thursday but Vulan, ridden by apprentice Robin Platts, pushed through to win by half a length.

Vulan moved on the final turn to pass K. Day.

The owner of Vulan and E. Day returned $14.80.

Arctic Blizzard, Cool Reception's three-year brother, won the fifth race defeating Bonnie Isa and Cornelian d'Argent over seven furlongs.

Arctic Blizzard paid $2.60 and combined with Ruthen Sal for a $11.30 exacta.

The daily-double of Evy Lou Hanover and Easy Dot paid $3.60, second lowest recorded on the circuit.

The turn-over at the track was $420,086.

USED CAR

CENTRE

We have sold an average of 4 automobiles per selling day since our new (fiscal) year started July 1st with our high volume and turnover we offer you the highest trade in allowings on any car of your choice. Our stock of automobiles is low at the present time. Approximately 40 units. Our stock will be increased for a bigger choice when 1968 models are in production. But due to increased prices used automobiles traded in on '68 models will also be $100.00 to $200.00 higher. Hurry now for your saving for your choice, please.

New Drugs Now Used to Prevent TB

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently my boy friend had a tuberculosis test and found that he has the germs. He does not know if it is active as he has not yet had X-rays. Are TB germs transmitted by kissing? Is there a chance I may have the germs? — S. M.

There probably is no more effective way of transmitting those germs than kissing. Why haven't your boy friend had a chest X-ray and sputum test?

I take it for granted that he had a skin test for T.B. He has picked up the germ. The question now is whether he has an active case of T.B., or whether his system has managed to overcome the germs.

There should be no delay in having X-rays and the sputum test to find out what is needed. If he does, indeed, have an active case, then he is having passing the germs on to others including you.

Unless that is determined for certain, you should avoid kissing this boy friend, and you should also have a T.B. skin test yourself.

Many changes in taking place in the handling of suspicious cases these days.

For instance, now that a person has been exposed to an active case of T.B., even if there is a chance that he may have acquired the disease from that source, we give him a drug that acquired the disease from that source, we give him a drug that (isoniotinic acid hydrazide) as a prophylactic measure — that is, to make sure that the disease will not develop.

Should your boy friend prove to have active T.B., then the INA drugs would be a wise precaution for you.

We are also using the INA drugs for two other types of people: for people with inactive lung lesions, as a precaution against the lesions becoming active again; and for people with arrested cases who have not in the past had the INA drugs.

Until the INA drugs were developed, we depended on streptomycin. It did a very good job, but the INA compounds reinforce the suppression of the germs. Just the other day I saw a patient, his tuberculosis apparently thoroughly arrested. Still, when he was treated, he had only streptomycin, and giving him the INA's now is at extra measure of safety.

If you think such precautions aren't needed — well, did you know that in the last two or three years the amount of T.B. in some parts of the U.S. is actually increasing?

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it fact or old wives' tale that an eight-month baby has less chance of living than a seven or even six months? — Mrs. G. W.

It isn't so. The closer to full term, the better for the baby. The notion you mention probably arose when an eight-month baby died but a seven-month baby in the same neighborhood lived, so people generalized. You can't accurately generalize from one or two occurrences. The premature may have received special care to account for its survival.

Dear Doctor: I am 61 and very fond of bananas cut up and topped off with whipped cream and sugar and a little milk. Am also very fond of candy, especially chocolate creams. Are these harmful if indulged in regularly? — T. M. C.

Nothing wrong with either provided they don't (a) make you overweight; (b) spoil your appetite so you don't get the basic foods you need, such as protein, other dairy products, fruits and vegetables for a full supply bulk, vitamins and minerals.

Note to E.M.R.: No, prostate trouble does not cause mental disease. Remember, however, that prostate trouble and mental disease or any other problem is an emotional strain and hence can have its effect on mental ability.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Suitable questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Congress on Theology Closes With Appeal for Open Church

TORONTO (CP)—A congress on theology that brought 44 of the world's leading theologians and philosophers to Toronto for five days ended Thursday night with a Canadian minister and a priest challenging a cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church to open the church to public scrutiny.

Franz Cardinal Koenig, 63-year-old Archbishop of Vienna and a church liberal, had said in the last speech heard by 2,000 invited delegates that the church must become "more transparent," that it must open itself to communication with its people and with the world.

Rev. A. C. Forrest, editor of the United Church Observer and member of a five-man panel which commented on the cardinals' address, said he was troubled by a reference to "transparency and partial transparency" and would like it explained.

Rev. Raymond Durocher of the Canadian Register, a Catholic newspaper, said: "The message of God was transparent on the cross at Calvary."

He asked why the church is not as fully transparent.

"That is not since the task of the church," the cardinal replied. "It is the task of the journalist to probe and to make transparent."

It was on that note of questioning that the congress on the theology of the renewal of the church ended after speakers from the countries had tried to fulfill its purpose of coping "with some of the serious problems of contemporary man's thinking" and to create in North Americans a greater interest in theology.

The congress, organized by the Institute for Medieval Studies, a Roman Catholic research organization at the University of Toronto, was the ecumenical project of the conference of Canadian bishops.

Most Rev. Remi De Roo, bishop of Victoria and chairman of the conference, said in summing up that a ferment had been created when the second Vatican council four years ago instructed the church to "look at the reality and the complexity of theology" as part of its renewal.

"We are trying to bring ideas into synthesis—to look at man in his setting," he said at a press conference.

"It is the responsibility of the people to think more deeply about renewal, its meaning and its direction."

"The congress has been a hit on the theoretical side," he said at the end of five days of lectures touching on theology, philosophy, anthropology, sociology, spirituality, linguistics, atheism, materialism, humanism, communications—and just a spice of sex.

"But all that was said was concerned with man in his modern setting, and I think it has been a success," he said.

Strictly Personal

True Optimist Is A Realist

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I happen to believe I am an optimist — both by temperament and by philosophy. Yet, from time to time, I receive letters from readers accusing me of "pessimism" or "cynicism."

My record is that they are muddle - headed sentimentalists who refuse to look reality straight in the eye. Let us consult the dictionary, brethren, and see how far we can agree and where we disagree.

Webster's gives four definitions of "optimism." These are (1) The doctrine that the world is the best possible world, (2) The doctrine that reality is essentially good, (3) The doctrine that the good of life overbalances the pain and evil of it, and (4) An inclination to put the most favorable constructions upon actions and happenings, or anticipate the best possible outcome.

With the first three of these, I am in complete accord. This is the best possible world, for it is the only possible world for us; reality is essentially good, for nothing created by God can be bad; and I am convinced that the good of life overbalances its pain and evil.

But the fourth definition, to me, is the weakest and the most treacherous. To put "the most favorable construction upon actions and happenings" is to substitute wishes for facts; to "anticipate the best possible outcome" is to fail to be prepared for the worst.

In recent history, for example, Chamberlain was abjectly convinced that the Munich pact brough "peace in our time," and millions of "optimistic" people throughout the world heaved a sigh of relief and agreed with him.

Those who, like me, insisted that the appeasers were dangerous sentimentalists were reproached as pessimists or cynics. Yet, we were the true optimists: believing that reality is essentially good, we refused to be satisfied with an unreal interpretation of the facts.

What most people shallowly call "optimism" is simply an unwillingness to confront reality — and, time and time again, this attitude leads to catastrophe in human history.

It is undoubtedly a virtue to hope for the best — but first you have to know what the best is, and you have to know that you cannot achieve it merely by hoping for it.

It really hurts me when thoughtless or confused readers label my convictions as "pessimistic" or "cynical." Nobody is more grateful for the gift of life, or more convinced that ultimately righteousness shall triumph — but not until we are willing, as an entire world, to give up our comfortable (and fatal) delusions.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

Director of Young Canadians Denies Radicals Try to Take Over Company

OTTAWA (CP)—Executive Director Alan Clarke said Thursday he is confident of the future of the Company of Young Canadians despite a flareup over the role of young radicals.

At a news conference, he rejected a newspaper claim that a group of radicals, including Marxists, are attempting a takeover of the federally-sponsored organization.

Radicals had made a contribution to the organization, but there had been no takeover by any group, he said. Nor were there Communists in the company which has 85 volunteers and 40 trainees in the field attempting to raise community, social and economic levels.

The unattributed newspaper charge claimed that some CYC radicals were "possibly Communist-oriented."

Lynn Curtis, a Victoria CYC field worker, was cited in the Montreal Gazette story as the author of an article critical of the company in Sosa, a publication which the newspaper claimed was Communist-oriented.

Mr. Clarke said he knew Mr. Curtis and the field worker's family and he is not a Communist. The company plans no action against Mr. Curtis. He is entitled to express his views.

The idea behind the Curtis view of "a rotting middle class" was consistent with CYC aims and principles, Mr. Clarke said. The official added he did not agree with some other Curtis points.

Mr. Clarke acknowledged that the company has no formal screening process to find Communists. But nobody with a totalitarian viewpoint could survive the company's selection process for volunteer field workers, he said.

He was "confident of the future of the company" despite the radical takeover claims, the Curtis involvement (Mr. Curtis advised activist radicals to join the CYC) and the controversy surrounding David Depoe, 23, another CYC field worker.

Mr. DePoe, working with hippies in Toronto's Yorkville district, faces a charge of creating a disturbance following a hippie-police street clash.

The CYC has hired a Toronto lawyer to defend Mr. DePoe, Mr. Clarke said. But the company is identifying with the field worker, not the issue he is involved in.

Defending Mr. DePoe, Mr. Clarke said the worker was invited to Yorkville and is filling his prescribed role there: helping the hippie community develop and communicate with the larger society around it.

Asked whether Mr. DePoe would be expelled from the CYC if convicted, Mr. Clarke said only that company volunteers must work within the law.

As for the legitimacy of Mr. DePoe's work among hippies, Mr. Clarke said the number of people who have opted out of regular society is small numerically, but they represent a more important segment of the community than their numbers indicate. The Yorkville hippies are alienated from society.

Publicity About Seal Hunting Faces Eskimos With Disaster

OTTAWA (CP)—An unprecedented slump in the world sealskin market, blamed on adverse publicity about seal-killing methods in the Gulf of St Lawrence, is threatening Arctic Eskimos with economic disaster.

Officials of the northern development department say about 1,000 Eskimo families count on sealskin sales for the major part of their cash income. But their market has virtually disappeared.

Three years ago arctic seal pelts sold at an average $14.75. This dropped to $11.05 in the 1964-65 season and to $3.87 in 1965-66. In record months the price has fallen to between $2 and $3.

The Hudson's Bay Co., main buyer of northern furs, is reported to have about 100,000 unsold sealskins in storage, equal to two years supply. It is continuing to purchase skins in the $2-$3 range only as a token price to prevent extreme hardship among the Eskimos.

"There's no doubt about the cause of this situation," said Frank Carter, director of the northern administration branch. "It started when all the publicity broke about hunters skinning live baby seals in the Gulf of St. Lawrence."

Mr. Carter said in an interview there is no connection between hunting methods in the gulf and those used by Arctic Eskimos. Gulf sealers use heavy wooden clubs to smash the heads of baby seals. There have been accusations that many of the seals are merely stunned and die during the skinning process.

Eskimos stalk adult seals resting near ice-holes. A seal must be killed with one stroke or it will disappear down the hole.

Base Raided Near China

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Navy jets roared in from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf Friday for the third attack in five days on North Vietnam's main naval base, 30 miles from China. Meanwhile air force pilots continued to hammer enemy supply lines.

U.S. pilots had raided the Port Wallut naval base, 61 miles northeast of Haiphong, Monday for the first time. They also hit it Thursday.

Eight-engine B-52 bombers flew two bombing missions today inside and just below the so-called demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, making a total of five raids in two days following a Communist attack from there.

Recent ground action, below the buffer zone was among indications the Communists might try, as they did early in the summer, to push into Quang Tri, South Vietnam's northernmost province.

U.S. State Secretary Robert S. McNamara and the Washington Friday he still is convinced the war must be won by ground troops in South Vietnam.

"The bombing of North Vietnam has always been considered a supplement to and not a substitute for an effective counter-insurgency campaign in South Vietnam," he told a Senate committee.

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.-Mo.) said top military leaders have told the Senate preparedness subcommittee that recent increased bombing was hurting North Vietnam.

But, he added, "if the position as presented by the secretary this morning is right, I believe the United States should get out of Vietnam at the earliest possible time, and on the best possible basis, because with his premises, there would appear no chance for any true 'success' in this war."

McNamara replied later: "All the military people support the basic strategy that the war can be won in the South."

Two Canadians Try To Cross Atlantic

TRALEE, Ireland (CP)—Two Canadians were to set out from Tralee Bay today in a tiny sailboat without navigation instruments in an attempt to follow the legendary path across the Atlantic of the sixth-century Irishman, St. Brendan the Navigator.

The adventurers, Louis Lourmais, 41, and Victor Lloyd, 26, of Halifax, hope to hit the coast of Massachusetts in anywhere from two to five months. They were sailing from Fenit, a village eight miles down the coast from this town.

"Everything is satisfactory—better than we expected," Lourmais said Friday after he and his companion had given the 22-foot, Canadian-built craft two workouts on the day.

They are out to prove that Irishmen could be right in their claims that St. Brendan discovered America long before the Vikings or Columbus. With that in mind, their craft is patterned as nearly along the lines of an ancient Irish coracle as Lourmais has been able to figure out.

259 Writers Give War Views

LONDON (CP)—A new flurry of argument about the rights and wrongs of the Vietnamese war is about to hit Western literary circles.

Disclosure was made Friday by a British publisher of the impending appearance of a book rounding up views on the war collected from 256 writers in Britain, the United States and Europe.

Publication, scheduled for Sept. 18, should give added fire to a British controversy which in recent weeks has centred on the personality of a self-proclaimed "unofficial," British novelist Kingsley Amis.

Amis backs U.S. involvement in Vietnam, and is the frequent target of passionate attack from the literary left.

The forthcoming book, to be published in London by Peter Owen, features answers from the writers, including Amis, to a pair of questions:

1. Are you for or against the intervention of the United States in Vietnam?

2. How, in your opinion, should the conflict in Vietnam be resolved?

Most of the writers are said to be preliminary accounts of the book to oppose the U.S. presence in the Southeast Asian war. There is less certainty apparent as to how the current hostilities might be stopped.

The list of writers opposing U.S. Vietnamese policy includes Edmund Blunden, British poet and author of one of the major memoirs of the First World War; U.S. dramatist Arthur Miller and two redoubtable women novelists with their publishing base in London, Iris Murdoch and Edna O'Brien.

Amis, author of Lucky Jim, is joined on the pro-U.S. side by, among others, Auberon Waugh, son of the late Evelyn Waugh.

The new book is to be called Authors Take Sides on Vietnam.

News Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon-General William H. Stewart accused the American tobacco industry Friday of an unconscionable effort to gain "longer profits" with new, extra-length cigarettes which he said pose an increased health hazard.

LAGOS (Reuters)—Nigerian federal troops today appeared poised to push secessionist Biafran forces from the strategic Western Nigerian town of Ore which they overran earlier this week. Observers here said a counter-attack is imminent.

OTTAWA—A burglar who specialized in entering the apartments of attractive single women was sentenced Friday to 23 years in penitentiary, one of the stiffest sentences handed down here in recent years. Arthur William Burke, 27, pleaded guilty to nine charges of breaking and entering and five of indecent assault.

Tear Gas Repels Rioters

HONG KONG (CP)—Police fired tear gas to disperse some 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators in central Hong Kong today as political unrest continued in the British colony.

The demonstrators, chanting left-wing slogans, blocked off busy streets at lunch hour close to the heart of the city.

One demonstrator was arrested. Police fired seven rounds of tear gas to disperse the crowd after a 10-minute demonstration.

The colony's 17-mile border with China was quiet today after incidents Friday.

Police meanwhile said the terrorist killing this week of radio comedian Lam Bun, 27, who ridiculed Communist agitators, indicates the Communists are switching from random bombings to a planned assassination campaign.

Authorities offered protection to anyone who has been threatened or feels he is in danger from terrorists.

Young Admirers Plan Tribute To Chief Dief

TORONTO (CP)—The Youth for Diefenbaker Committee promises to make its presence felt at the Progressive Conservative leadership convention, but it will not say how.

The committee's co-chairmen, Bill Heston and Keith Martin, said Friday their plans will be kept secret because any demonstration from the floor will be ruled out of order.

"But we are determined to have some kind of demonstration whether Mr. Diefenbaker runs or not," Mr. Martin said.

The co-chairmen were disappointed that the convention committee had abandoned plans for a tribute to the party leader.

Convention co-chairman Edwin Goodman said a tribute would be "unfair" to other leadership candidates if Mr. Diefenbaker decided to run.

Both Mr. Hatton and Mr. Martin appeared certain Mr. Diefenbaker would decide to run.

The committee plans to purchase 1,000 copies of Mr. Diefenbaker's recent record, I'm a Canadian, for distribution to delegates.

The committee also will pass out Keep the Chief buttons and stickers.

Cripple Found Dead

TORONTO (CP)—Roland Soldue, 37, the partially — paralyzed Toronto man who earlier this summer tried to travel the 340 miles to Expo in a wheelchair, was found dead Thursday in his downtown apartment.

An autopsy showed death was caused by an overdose of painkilling pills. Coroner Kumo Alt ruled the death accidental.

Corrupt Officers Will Go

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky confirmed today that many South Vietnamese army officers would be swept out for corruption and inefficiency.

"It is not a purge but rather a cleaning up of the army ranks," Ky told a palace press conference. "This has always been the policy of my government."

The premier, running for vice-president on a military slate headed by Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, also said that if he is beaten in the Sept. 3 elections, he will go back to the South Vietnamese Air Force and "be a pilot." Ky took leave of his post as air force commander for the campaign.

In the Mekong Delta, Thieu made his first appearance on the same platform with the 10 civilian candidates running for president. Thieu told a cheering throng of 2,500 at My Tho that if he is elected president he will ask North Vietnam "if they want to meet to talk about peace."

Rockwell in His Element

Expelled Nazi Is Held As Rockwell's Slayer

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Police hold a former Nazi firebrand, accused of slaying George Lincoln Rockwell, under heavy guard today while Rockwell's heir-apparent vowed to carry on.

Rockwell, 49, founder of the American Nazi party, was killed in his car Friday by two cleanly - placed shots as he was leaving his parking lot of a small shopping centre near his home.

Five hours later, police charged John C. Patler, 29, former No. 4 man in the small U.S. neo-Nazi hierarchy, with murder. Bail was set at $50,000.

Matthias Koehl, second in command to Rockwell, told reporters: "I don't know of anyone who can fill his shoes . . . but we'll all do everything we can to carry on."

Koehl said Patler was expelled from the party last April because of his "Bolshevik leanings." He had been a member of the group, which directs its hate toward Negroes and Jews, almost since its founding in 1958.

Rockwell once described Patler as the party's propaganda minister and Patler edited the organization's magazine Stormtrooper until early this year.

Patler, also of Arlington, was to appear in court Monday to determine the date of his preliminary hearing.

Rockwell was shot after leaving a coin-operated laundry in the shopping centre, one block from party headquarters. The shots, fired from a low roof over a barber shop, struck him in the head and chest. He fell out of the right side of the 10-year-old, rusted car.

Patler was arrested 45 minutes later, a half mile from the scene. Police would not say whether a weapon had been found or whether Patler had made a statement.

Patler often was in the forefront of Nazi party harassing activities and it brought him a long string of arrests.

Patler once wrote: "I learned early that the only way you can stop terrorism and force is with superior terrorism and superior force."

That might sum up Rockwell's philosophy too. Rockwell, in lectures at college campuses, said often, "I am a racist."

Rockwell, who idolized Adolf Hitler, advocated "transporting all Negroes to Africa, stripping Jews of property and sterilizing them."

He was in the U.S. Navy in the Second World War and during the Korean War and attained the rank of commander before he was released from active duty in 1954. The navy discharged him from the reserves in 1960 because of his conduct.

Rockwell refused, to say how many members were in the party, but knowledgeable people said it has fewer than 100 members.

Rockwell was the son of George (Doc) Rockwell, an old-time vaudevillian who played on Fred Allen's radio show.

Tourist Boom

Room Bookings at Near Capacity

The tourist business is booming through out the Quinte area.

Spokesman for the top motels and hotels in the Quinte area reported this morning that traffic moving through the area is heavy and bookings are at record highs.

A spokesman for the Sun Valley Motor Inn said all units have been completely filled most of the summer. "We're about half way between Niagara Falls and Expo and get the tourists coming and going."

Charles Wener, manager of the Tops Motor Hotel says this is the most successful year the operation has had in its six-year history. "Expo has really been a boom and our 48 units are operating at near capacity."

The 84 room Quinte Motel in downtown Belleville is also having a busy summer. Office manager Charles Orrell reports the hotel is also picking up some of the Expo traffic. "We certainly haven't any complaints about business this year," he said.

The manager of the Queen's Hotel, Ben Yzenver, finds more traffic moving through the city than in previous years. "A majority of our 65 rooms have been filled during the summer."

A spokesman for the 40-room Queen's Motel, Kenneth Johnson, said business has been excellent all summer. "I think we're getting a portion of the Expo traffic as well as our regular tourist trade. We've been near capacity for the past two months."

Gordon Hostetter, proprietor of the Dutch Mill Inn, Bergen in the Trenton area with 22 units, said this morning: "If anything, our room rentals are down from the previous year. We've had a number of people going to Expo from Michigan because this seems to be the half-way point. However, we've found Expo tourists are not spending the way they would on a normal holiday. They seem to be saving it for the world's fair."

A spokesman for the Hodwood Motor Hotel in Trenton said business is noticably improved but "we got a good commercial trade survey and we added more units this spring." The motel has 34 rooms.

The 16-room Glenbourne Motel between Brighton and Trenton reports business is both restaurant and motel has increased considerably over last year. Co-owners Don and Fred Freeman say a number of their guests are travelling to Expo.

BUSINESS was brisk at the peach stand at the Belleville market this morning. Here two youngsters pick up one of the few remaining baskets about 10.30.

Peaches Best Seller At Farmers' Market

By far the best seller on the Belleville market this morning was red haven peaches — 600 baskets were sold in a two-hour period.

The peaches are known as one of the better varieties for freezing and customers flocked to the stand to purchase the supply. Prices on the red haven variety were $1.45 for four quarts; $1.85 for a six quart basket; and $4.50 per half bushel.

A wide variety of other fruits and vegetables also appeared on the market. Cucumbers were selling for 10 cents each or three for 25 cents. Potatoes were 85 cents per basket; cherries were $2 per basket or 50 cents a quart; beans were selling at two bunches for 25 cents.

Pears were on sale at 21 per basket; green peppers at 25 per basket; and carrots at 15 cents per bunch. Onions sold at 10 cents per bunch or three bunches for 25 cents.

Several varieties of apples were displayed with close variety selling for 50 cents per basket, duchess at 25 cents per basket and melons also 25 cents.

Small cabbage sold for 5 cents per head; broccoli for 15 cents per bunch; yellow beans at 25 cents per quart and chard at 15 cents per bunch.

Many stands displayed blueberries selling for 40 cents per pint; 75 cents per quart, or $2.50 for a six-quart basket.

Pepper squash was priced at 20 cents each; butternut squash was priced at 25 cents. English cucumbers were priced at 20 cents and vegetable marrow at 25 cents. Crab apples were priced at 40 cents for a four quart basket.

Eggs were 50 cents per dozen, and farmers were getting $1.50 for six-quart baskets of pears. Honey was priced at $1.25 for a four-pound tin.

Home Lots Selling After Slow Start

TRENTON — After a disappointing start sale of lots under the Home Ownership Made Easy plan of the Ontario government, has started to climb.

Only four of 60 available lots in north Trenton were purchased during the first 10 days of the offer, all on the first day, Aug. 8.

Since then, 16 more lots have either been leased or purchased.

Town assessment commissioner J. Allan Smith, now supervising the HOME plan here for the Ontario Housing Corporation, says one Trenton contractor has purchased his quota of five lots.

The Trenton lots form Burnside Heights subdivision and are completely serviced, including underground hydro lines.

Man Dies At Wheel Of Auto

Police said Emerson McClellan, of 21 Spring Street, Picton, suffered a seizure and died apparently instantly.

Mrs. McClellan escaped injury when the car went out of control on the Hoards road, near Highway 14, and struck a hydro pole.

The couple had eight children.

Funeral service for Mr. McClellan will be held at the Gordon R. Whattam Funeral Home here at 2.30 p.m. Monday.

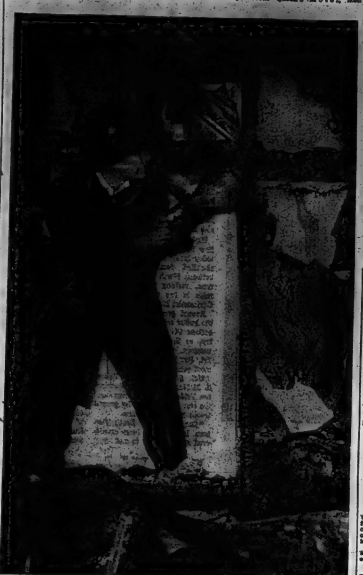
Obituaries

WILLIAM GORDON BROWN

Death occurred suddenly this morning at Belleville General Hospital of William Gordon Brown, 44 Plaza Square.

The late Mr. Brown is survived by his wife, the former Lois Batchelor, sons David and Glen at home; a sister, Mrs. Jack (Dorothy) Ward of R.R. 4 Point Anne and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown. He was pre-deceased by a brother, Douglas.

At the time of his death, Mr. Brown was a northcommander at the Belleville General Hospital.



Mr. Brown had served three years in the Royal Canadian Air Force and maintained his interest in flying as a former commanding officer of the Belleville Air Cadet League. He had also been a member of the Belleville Canoers Club.

Mr. Brown was a member of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church. Rev. Arnold Dunlop will officiate at the 2.00 p.m. service Monday from the chapel of J. R. Bush Funeral Home. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

WILLIAM EDWARD CARTER

Funeral service for William Edward Carter, Concession 9, Thurlow, was held Friday at the John R. Bush Funeral Chapel with interment at Christ's Cemetery.

Rev. George A. Puttenham officiated. Bearers were Clarence, Les and Norm Ketcheson, Earl Sayers, Roy Chambers and Donald Gifford.

FIREMEN finishes fight to save Cloverleaf Drive house from fire early today. Cause of blaze, which heartily damaged structure being readied for new tenants, is under investigation.

Fire in Vacant House Damages Second Storey

Fire officials today were probing the cause of a blaze that partially destroyed a vacant house on Cloverleaf Drive, just north of Belleville this morning.

The house was said to be rented next month by its owner, Alexander Fedirka, who lives 2624 door.

The fire was first discovered burning in a rear second-floor bedroom by neighbors who awakened the Fedirkas about 7 a.m.

Firemen confined the blaze to the upper storey although the rest of the house was severely damaged by smoke and water.

Firefighters found a side door open when they arrived. Mr. Fedirka said he had been working in the house last night, preparing it for occupancy, but could not recall leaving the door unlocked.

Fire department inspector Robert Fair and provincial police are investigating.

Youngsters Cover Miles In YMCA Swimathon

They might not have swum the English Channel but the 30 or so boys and girls who participated in the Swimathon this past week really put out the effort.

They swam as many lengths as possible for 30 minutes a day throughout the week and when the water stopped churning on Friday winners were declared in three age groups.

In the Frogs (5 and 9 years) Derek Bowcott (8) managed to trim out over his nine-year-old brother Gaston by one length 225 lengths to 224. For the four thirty-minute periods Derek covered a total of almost two and two-thirds miles. Third in the Frogs was Jean Gen (6) with 164 lengths.

Janis Mason topped the Juniors (10-11) with the remarkable total of 299 lengths for 5,980 yards. Peter Lank finished second with 287 lengths and Kevin Woodman third with 233 lengths.

In the Intermediate and Youth group Christopher Fleming was the leader with 351 lengths. Kim Sturgess finished a close second with 276 lengths and Janet Ward was third with 266 lengths.

The winner in each age group received a Belleville YMCA swim bag. The second and third place finishers received YMCA aquatic achievement badges. All other contestants received iron-on "Y" crests for participating.

The YMCA swimming pool will be closed during the week of Aug. 28 to Sept. 2 for the annual cleaning and scrubbing. All swimming periods will be cancelled during this period. The showers, hot room, exercise room and exercise machines will be open for adult members.

Fall, winter and spring program folders will be available on Monday, Aug. 28. They will be mailed to "Y" members and to any other interested persons who request them. Please phone the "Y" office if you want one mailed to you or drop in for one.

Car Wheel Stolen From Auto

Some thieves take it easy. Others work at it.

Like the one who put his eye on a car wheel in Point Anne last night.

Only trouble was this wheel was still attached to the car.

However, say provincial police, this didn't discourage him.

This morning the owner awoke to find his vehicle resting hopelessly on three wheels.

During the night the car had been jacked up, the wheel unscrewed and removed complete with hub cap.

Motorcycle Hits Tree, Two Sent to Hospital

Two young men were seriously injured early today when a motorcycle slammed into a tree after leaving a sideroad near the Canadian National Railways yards in Belleville.

John William MacKinnon, 21, of Trenton, a North Hastings County and owner of the machine, received internal injuries and had a triple leg fracture. His passenger, Archie Graham, 17, of 67 Byron Street, suffered head and neck injuries and a broken arm.

Police said the motorcycle missed a curve on the road — near the old CNR coal chutes — and veered 300 feet in darkness across the field before being wrecked against the tree.

Both are in Belleville General Hospital.

Ferry Operator Quits; Quinte Skyway Opens

DESERONTO — The Quinte Skyway was inaugurated thrown open today — nearly two weeks before official government ceremonies were scheduled to celebrate the Deseronto's newest scenic highway link.

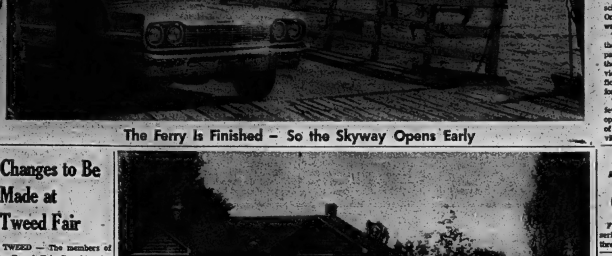
The sudden decision to put the big bridge in business apparently was precipitated by the withdrawal of ferry services which have carried traffic across the Bay of Quinte for years.

"It's usual to open these a few days before the official opening," said a department of highways official at Marysville this morning. "But we opened it today. We had to — the ferry quit."

The Skyway, which curves dramatically across the Bay of Quinte west of here to join Highway 14 in Prince Edward County with the mainland, replaces the ferry, operated for the past 17 years by Don McDermott.

Earlier this month Mr. McDermott said he was not concerned about going out of business.

"I have a partnership in a Beresford farm in Prince Edward County and when I'm at the ferry the farm is losing money."



The decision to open the Skyway, however, came as a surprise, following recent trends which saw it steadily sealed off to traffic.

Department officials took the action after a contractor complained motorists were sneaking over the route while the bridge floor was being finished.

At that time — Aug. 3 — a contractor said it would take about a month to complete finishing touches to the structure.

Steel had to still be painted and floor joints mechinized to assure a smooth passage for motorists.

The official opening ceremonies this week were definitely set for Sept. 6.

The Ferry Is Finished — So the Skyway Opens Early

Changes to Be Made at Tweed Fair

TWEED — The members of the Tweed Fair Board, under president Thomas Lynn, have decided to make a few changes in the program for this fall, 1967. The directors meeting was held recently and they report that they are cutting out a number of duplicate classes, in the horse races, using the prize money thus saved to increase the prize money in several of the remaining classes.

All baker classes will be judged in the forenoon, in an effort to speed up the entire program. The horse drawing competition, which has always proved to be popular, will be held at 3.00 p.m. There will be classes for both light and heavy horses, and the prize money will remain the same as last year. First prize - $40; Second Prize - $30; and Third Prize - $20.

If the County Achievement Day is held in conjunction with the Tweed Fair, as is the custom ,the calves will be housed in the old exhibition building.

The Quinte Western Horse Association will be given the use of the grounds for the Sunday show.

There will be no parade on fair day. This was decided by the directors, in an effort to once more speed up the program. The drawing contests are always a big attraction, and in the past they were not held until late in the evening, this year being held at 3.00 p.m. and with the entire program to be finished by six o'clock.

Tickets were distributed to the directors at the meeting, and persons having unsold tickets may obtain them from Stan Walker.

JAILED FOR 6 MONTHS

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—William Reeds, 5, of Burlington, was sentenced to six months hard labor in reformatory and fined $5,000 Friday after he was convicted July 28 on a charge of bookmaking. Trial evidence showed Reeds had recorded more than $14,000 in bets on horse races and major league baseball games.

Cows for Lawn Ornaments?

This herd of dairy cattle evidently prefers a manicured lawn to a pasture. The 22 cattle roamed around the property at 116 Main St. in Wellington for over an hour feeding on the shrubbery and literally destroying the apple trees. Perhaps the farmer got apple cider when he milked them last evening.

Victim's Condition Critical

BRIGHTON — Two Brighton-area women are still in the intensive care unit of Trenton Memorial Hospital following a head-on crash on Highway 30 Wednesday.

Mrs. Muriel Macklin, Centre Street, Brighton, is reported in critical condition with injuries suffered in the mishap that claimed the life of her 63-year-old husband, Bruce Macklin.

The couple were enroute to Expo when their car was involved in the mishap three miles north of Brighton.

Driver and only occupant of the second automobile, Mrs. Hilzi C. Roberts, of Hilton, is in fair condition and under intensive care.

Square Dancers Jamboree Boost for United Appeal

Square dancers aren't square, especially when there are 400 of them and they are staging a mammoth jamboree with the proceeds going to United Community Services.

Bob Whiten, President of the Quinte Square Dance Organization and chairman of the Centennial Committee announced plans for a jamboree that will be held in the Belleville arena on Sept. 16.

GETS GOLDEN GAVEL

TORONTO (CP)—John W. Fisher, Canada's centennial commissioner, Friday received the Toastmasters International Golden Gavel award, highest honor of the public-speaking organization for his efforts in building better world communications.

The centennial effort was "originally planned as a demonstration but Mr. Whiten thought that the public would not mind a nominal admission fee of 25c if they knew that it was for the benefit of charitable services in the Belleville area.

The "Quinte Twirlers" operates five clubs in the area with an active membership of around 400. Clubs in other parts of Canada and the United States have been invited and it's expected 800 visiting square dancers will attend.

The jamboree is being coordinated by Mr. Whiten and George McGill who is in charge of public relations and publicity for United Community Services. The effort has come at an excellent time of the year as United Appeal will be holding its annual fund drive shortly.

Decoration Serices Held By Legion

MARMORA — Decoration services of Branch 227 of the Royal Canadian Legion were held Sunday afternoon in Marmora. The parade, led by Legion President, Jack Lowery, was composed of the color party, legionnaires, service women, and the Trumpet Band of the Canadian Legion, Branch 30, of Belleville.

Salute was given to plaques in the Memorial Building. Graves were decorated and services held at the Legion plot of Marmora Protestant Cemetery, and Sacred Heart Cemetery. Scriptures and prayers were led by Rev. Father V. G. Bonlan of Sacred Heart Church and Rev. Paul Ripley of Marmora Pentecostal Church.

The Last Post and Reveille were played by two members of the Trumpet Band.

Second Serious Accident Occurs on Highway Curve

FRANKFORD — The second serious accident in less than three weeks on a Highway 33 curve south of here, last night severely injured the father of three children.

RCAF Cpl. John Robert Hawley, 31, of Frankford, was rushed to hospital at Kingston after preliminary examination in Trenton revealed head injuries.

Hawley was injured when his motorbound car went out of control approaching the curve and struck a tree. The vehicle was wrecked.

The mishap occurred near the scene of a one-car crash Aug. 15 where two people were killed and several injured when a car rolled over on the curve.

Most HARP Men Stay In Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—Indications are that relatively few Canadian scientists will be moving to the United States because of the move to the University of Vermont of the High Altitude Research Project developed by McGill University.

A McGill spokesman said Friday that the U.S. university had not made "any concrete offers to our men."

"We do not know which ones will be going and which ones will not."

Individual scientists working on the project, however, gave a variety of reasons why they would not move to the U.S. to stay with the project.

One engineer said he would refuse to work for the U.S. for moral reasons. A second said he feared the military draft, and a third that he preferred Montreal to Burlington, home of the University of Vermont.

But Dr. Stewart Gordon, one of the senior scientists working on the HARP program, said he plans to make the move. Dr. Gordon earned his degrees at the University of Toronto and later worked for a scientific company in Princeton, N.J. He returned to Canada in 1964 to work on the HARP project.

"I'm trying to stay in Canada, you can see that," he said in an interview. "But I'm a scientist as well as a Canadian. I'll be following my research to Vermont."

The McGill spokesman said about 40 scientists were employed on the project in Montreal.

De Gaulle Again!

President de Gaulle is not letting the French "fact" in Canada die from lack of nurturing by the "mother country."

Prime Minister Pearson says...France's promise of a major increase in its economic, cultural and technical aid to Quebec "doesn't disturb me." He notes that such aid would come within the terms of an agreement entered into between France and Quebec in 1965.

True, France and Quebec did enter into a co-operative agreement at that time. However, the timing of de Gaulle's announcement, coming as it does only shortly after the president's ill-starred visit to Canada, is clearly motivated by political considerations rather than by any real desire to assist Quebec.

Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau's incisive address just before de Gaulle's return to France comes to mind. Mr. Drapeau said Quebeckers were North Americans and had reached their present level of progress without any assistance from France.

Thus, de Gaulle's promise of aid may be regarded as an attempt to retain some of the prestige lost during his visit here. And Ottawa should be concerned about this despite any agreement France may have with Quebec.

Anything France and Quebec work out under the 1965 pact will represent another blow to the autonomy of the Canadian government and its responsibility for the running of national affairs — including jurisdiction over Quebec.

Yorkville Adolescents

Amid all the furore over the hippies of Toronto's Yorkville district, it is well to have regard for the almost certain probability that these "flower children" (and that essentially is all they are — children) represent but a passing phase.

It seems everyone is climbing on the bandwagon following the recent clashes between hippies and police at Yorkville. The representatives of the law hauled off a bunch of the beats to the pokey, provoking accusations of police brutality. Some of the pictures of the incidents suggest maybe the officers were a little over-zealous — but then the hippies were scarcely behaving with much decorum.

When crowds of these young people roam the streets, jeer at the police, smoke marijuana and even seek official sanction for the drug, and generally effect an air of disrepute, then they can expect trouble.

The hippies feel they are as entitled to their way of life as the rest of society whom they regard as the denizens of the "square" world. And they might have a point if only their own guilt appeared to have any value for themselves as a society.

In any event when the police arrested some, they had to be dragged to the paddy wagons because they resisted the officers in the passive way of those who some months ago took part in anti-war demonstrations outside the American consulate in Toronto.

And that is a reminder that many of the people who protest against the war in Vietnam are the same who frequent Yorkville and embrace the hippie cult. The anti-war demonstrations have tapered off — just as the hippie craze will die a natural death.

Anne Lise Sorensen, 19, cook on a four-month study program, said in Hamilton the other day that there are beatniks and hippies in her country too, but they are no problem.

And it would say that way for a year or two. Then they grow up — and with any degree of luck, and having regard to the natural demise that inevitably afflicts any passing phase, is what is going to happen to the hippies.

Fashion Scene

There is talk of women's fashions swinging away from the world of short shorts skirts and minis to something in the realm of ankle-length orlitis.

All of which sounds like portents of disaster for the girl-watching fraternity, who like the styles the way they are now. Some of the new styles seem to confirm in part at least the melancholy news that changes may be on the way. Those floor-length hostess gowns for instance, in contrasting colors — and made of paper for heaven's sake!

Well perhaps they are for evening wear only, for pictured along with two models in these styles, in a current fashion presentation, are two others wearing miniskirted A-line paper shifts. So there is still hope for the girlwatchers while summer still lasts.

Indeed it is bad enough to contemplate the not too far distant winter season when girl-watching virtually ceases for lack of artistic merit in the winter fashions. And yet that is the time when everyone needs cheering up visually most of all.

Dief Puts the Old Hex on Dalton Camp and Duff Roblin

By RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA — Poor Duff Roblin.

What did he ever do to Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, to deserve such a kiss-of-protestdeath from the Old Chief?

There was the Manitoba Premier, flirting coyly with the Conservative blog - makers who wanted to recruit him for what Prime Minister Pearson has dubbed them is their "baseball team" of nine (count 'em) leadership candidates.

Yes, there he was, young — well, a youthful looking 50, anyway — handsome (even without his Charlie Chaplin moustache), his brow adorned with the laurels of 15 successful years in provincial politics, the best ales of them as Premier.

He seemed to have the talent for doing the right thing — perhaps more important, in politics at any level, municipal, provincial or federal, for avoiding doing the wrong thing.

It got for a time to the point that he just might have stood in, doubling in the flesh, for Manitoba's favorite "Golden Boy" atop the Legislature in Winnipeg.

If the political halo of infallibility slipped it all, and in the broad perspective of the years it was but a tiny fraction, it was when, temporarily, he put party public protests, he pocketed his own salary from $18,500 to $25,000.

It might have been just a small regional news bad out on outward leanings, items of Joseph Borowski pictured the Manitoba Legislature. No ordinary picket, he set up camp, actually, trailer tent and all, on the steps of the provincial House, fighting a one-guard action out onto the parking lot when he was evicted from the legislative stoop itself.

Perhaps it was that, when it became apparent that Duff Roblin could make mistakes, that John Diefenbaker began looking upon him with less than fatherly favor.

(This business of political leaders, prime ministers and their own salaries—and to back with the taxpayers—has been a sore point indeed with Dief ever since Lester B. Pearson, uncovering of his pre-1957 Parliamentary pay from $12,000 to $18,000 plus an overflowing cornucopia of juicy fringe benefits.)

But it could have been too, when Duff Roblin responded with less than the gratitude expected of a humble subject to Dief's monumental offer to designate him crown prince when the Old Chief was still in the biggmaking tradition of being able to bestow the Party's Blessing-from - on - High.

Again, it could have been that Dief remembered Duff Roblin had not been among the Good - Men - Who - Came - To-the-Aid-of-the-Party last November when Conservative President Dalton Camp split it, hand to toe, on the issue of the Old Chief's leadership.

It wasn't all that long ago, early summer, in fact, that Dalton Camp, deal-making Duff Roblin and Nova Scotia Premier Robert Stanfield had two of the men he'd most like to see succeed the Old Chief, made it out to Winnipeg for a closed-door, coolly was a leadership scouting expedition.

Silly thing to have done, for it presented Dief with perhaps just exactly the opening for which he had been waiting.

Up onto the platform went the Old Booger, and in one of his performances, proceeded to do his destructive best to fix Duff Roblin's leadership clock.

Gesturing with outrageous extravagance, Dief spoke of "my old friend Dalton Camp" as a butterfly — pun intended, evidently, fleeting destiny hither and yon amid the flowers of the field, searching out the ultimate in the floral exotics."

It was a performance of meanaticness, with Dief grimacing in wicked mockery and flexing his hands as if himself stirring about deliciously inside the cranial cavity of the luckless Roblin.

"And whom do you think Dalton Camp chiefest" asked Dief, laughing, "Why, Duff Roblin, the butterfly's favorite flower—ater Duff Roblin, indeed."

It hurt, for to thousands of Diefenbakerites, Dalton Camp forevermore is a dirty word, and Duff Roblin would suffer grave guilt-by-association.

"Mr. Camp, whatever opportunists," he has said hotly, hoping that nobody had seen and heard Dief's preposterous political pantomime.

How different has been Bob Stanfield's handling of the hot political potato of Dalton Camp.

"Yes," he has said, "I hope I have everybody's support, including Mr. Camp's."

But then he never got the bunions from Dief.

Trade with Communist Bloc

Vancouver Sun

The Russian mission of Theodore E. Sorensen, adviser to the late president Kennedy, is wrapped in intrigue mystery, but it is reasonable to assume the chief motive is to open trade channels for U.S. firms."

Mr. Sorensen has no official government connection but he is evidently pursuing the ends of the Johnson administration. Its policy of expanding East-West trade has recently run into the same road block which has interfered severely with the first pursuit of the desired detente between Moscow and Washington — that is, Vietnam.

As he said in Moscow, Mr. Sorensen has run into Vietnam everywhere in his talks with Soviet officials. But he believes they are coming round to the view that trade has to be got moving now, that to wait for an end to the Vietnam affair will mean a long wait indeed.

The Communist world, and especially the part of it in Russia and Eastern Europe, has been showing increasing interest in trade with the West. But the revival primarily has been with Western Europe, Canada and Japan. American businessmen are interested because they increasingly realize the market is worth going after and that their Western rivals have a long start on them.

There is, however, an important obstacle to trade with the Communists within the U.S. itself. It is the ingrained disposition on the part of many citizens to discriminate against imports from Communist countries. Toronto motorist a few years ago against stores carrying East European goods is still remembered.

West Europeans, of course, are pushing hard to make a solid impression in the East because they are aware of the high reputation U.S. equipment and technology enjoy in those parts. For Canadian exporters and manufacturers there should be every disposition to dig deep into the Russian market. Communist purchasers have a reputation for coming back to the seller they know they can depend on.

Samaritans Unwelcome

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

The Good Samaritan, seldom noted for his good fortune and long accustomed to black legislation, has just hit a new low.

In New York, truck driver Joseph Lisle leaped from his vehicle to aid a woman who had apparently fallen in the road. The "Lisle" promptly pulled a gun and relieved her would-be rescuer of $38.

In Longueuil, England another truck driver, Yorky Coles, helped a young woman change a tire. This time, the recipient was grateful enough to write Coles' boss about how nice he'd been.

The boss didn't think it was so nice. He fined Coles three pounds (nine dollars) for acting "in flagrant disregard for our rules." He explained that using a girl to stop a truck was a favorite trick of hijackers.

If there is a moral in this, it is evidently "Mind your own business and look out for number one." If so, it is to be hoped this precept will not be followed any more than it is already, which is quite enough. As for Samaritans and Lisles, they may be short of cash but not of character.

Shadow of Imperialism Behind China's Anti-British Stand

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The burning of Britain's diplomatic headquarters in Peking is a violent reflection of the disorder that now grips parts of China.

The domestic disorder, verging on possible civil war in some areas, follows action by official China towards its neighbors—in the manner of a man turned inexperimentally nasty by a radical physical upset.

The anti-British onslaught also is part of the legacy generated by the bitter history of China's relations with the imperial powers of the West, beginning with the Opium War of 1839-42.

The general atmosphere surrounding Tuesday's eruption consists of the feverish anti-foreign sentiment whipped by Chinese responsible for the Boxer Rebellion of 1900—self-proclaiming patriots set out to avenge the "humiliations" suffered at the hands of foreign "barbarians."

"Pekingologists" long have felt that current Chinese commotions to some extent an extension of the old xenophobic belief in China as the world's supreme nation.

Britain's Peking facilities have by no means been the only diplomatic outlets in the Chinese capital to suffer from the zeal of Red Guards in recent months.

Officials in London like to point out that the Chinese foreign affairs department has been the victim of mob action in Peking.

No one outside China seems to know for sure who runs the department at present.

The apparent lack of a solidly-based diplomatic team within the department free from fear of retaliation in the unpredictable flux of contemporary China may mean that the foreign ministry has had to go along with extremist and mob-dictated policies.

The Flight of Canadian Capital

Montreal Gazette

It may well be that Canadians have been concerned over the wrong thing. The real cause for worry may not be the amount of foreign capital that has been coming into Canada (with the implication that we are "losing control" over our own economy).

The real cause for worry may be the amount of Canadian capital that has been moving out of Canada for investment elsewhere. Why is it that Canadians do not have more confidence in the economic future of their own country?

The flight of Canadian capital abroad has reached awesome proportions. One of the latest features has been the trend of Canadian mutual funds to increase the American holdings in their portfolios, and to diminish the Canadian.

It is true, of course, that the New York Stock Exchange, by its variety and its more rapid responses, has always provided larger opportunities of profit to the informed investor. But the New York Stock Exchange has been there a long time. Its more impressive handful explains why Canadian capital has been switching to foreign investment at an increasing rate.

What has been happening is another something deeper, more disturbing. It cannot be, unrelated to certain trends in the Canadian economy and certain failures in the way governments have managed this country's affairs.

Certainly, investment in Canada is not being made more attractive by the fact the productivity in this country has been dropping behind. What this means has been well stated by Mr. R. B. MacPherson, executive officer of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association:

"Excluding agriculture, the trend of productivity in Canada has averaged 1.3 per cent during the past decade but failed to advance last year.

"Average wage and salary advances, amounting to 13 per cent for the past two years, are 7.5 times greater than the increases in productivity during the same period.

"The result, of course, has been higher costs of production. In fact, the cost of the unit costs of production between Canada and the United States has widened alarmingly since the beginning of 1965 . . . To narrow the wage gap without reducing the productivity gap means higher production in the United States."

This is the sobering viewpoint of a business association. The governor of the Bank of Canada, in his last annual report, said: "Diverging movements in costs and productivity, such as we have been seeing recently, cannot go on for long without seriously affecting the Canadian economy and in particular its international competitive position."

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

SHEPHERD OF TENDER YOUTH

Shepherd of tender youth,
Guiding in love and truth
Through devious ways;
Christ our triumphant King,
We come Thy name to sing;
Hither our children bring
To shout Thy praise.

Ever in Thee our guide,
Our shepherd and our pride,
Our staff and song;
Jesus, Thou Christ of God,
By Thy perennial word
Lead us where Thou hast trod,
Make our faith strong.

So now, and till we die,
Sound we Thy praises high,
And joyful sing:
Infants, and the glad throng
Who to Thy church belong
Unite to swell the song
To Christ our King.

This is Christendom's oldest hymn. It was written about 200 A.D. by St. Clement of Alexandria and was translated from Greek to English by Dr. Henry M. Dexter, distinguished New England Congregational minister.

The translation is little more than a century old; it was made by Dr. Dexter in 1848 while he was serving a pastorate in Manchester, N.H. On a certain Sabbath, so the story goes, there was a sermon dealing with the tribulations and fortitude of the early Christians and, in keeping with his message, Dr. Dexter translated St. Clement's hymn for his choristers to sing at the close of the service. The choir, it is said, sung the English version for the first time from the pastor's manuscript.

A year later it was published in the Congregationalist. The time to which it is sung today was written in 1832 by Lowell Mason, popular American composer who wrote the music for John Newton's "Safely Through Another Week", for Ray Palmer's hymn, "My Faith Looks Up To Thee", and for many, many other favorite songs of the Christian church.

Dr. Dexter was graduated from Yale college and from Andover Theological Seminary. In 1857, nearly two decades after his hymn appeared in the Congregationalist, he gave up preaching to become editor of this magazine. He died in 1890.

Cheques Comprise Giving

MONTREAL (CP)—The congregation of a Roman Catholic parish in suburban Laval will no longer make its donations at regular Sunday masses.

The parishioners of St. Maurice, de Duvernay will make an annual contribution by signing a series of postdated cheques. No church member, however, is under any obligation to contribute.

The idea became a reality when a publication suggesting the new collection method met with overwhelming favorable response.

So far, some 250 families have subscribed amounts of at least $100. There are an estimated 1,000 Catholic families who attend the parish.

The church wardens have decided to test the new method of giving for a year after which, if all are in favor, the pledge system will be continued.

Although no specific amount per family or individual has been designated, it has been agreed that identity on per cent of everyone's net income be donated.

Those who could not give one per cent of their net revenue because of financial obligations could give less and those affluent members of the congregation a little more.

All other collection methods would be eliminated.

Spontaneous, Fluid, Unplanned Underground Church Develops

NEW YORK (AP)—Spontaneous, fluid and unplanned, a so-called "underground church" is developing today in American Christianity.

The descriptive label comes from various Protestant and Roman Catholic observers, who cite evidence of a spreading growth of religious alignments and activity outside regular ecclesiastical organizations.

It is seen most extensively among younger Christians—clergymen and nuns as well as laymen—in cities across the U.S.

It often comes about through some jointly shared concern, such as poverty, peace or civil rights, but also involves common devotions and study, cutting across denominational lines, on campuses and in neighborhoods.

"Private ecumenism," it has been called. Also "secular ecumenism," "anonymous ecumenism" or "rebellious ecumenism."

Using the last-named term, Rev. Dr. Eugene L. Smith, a Methodist and executive secretary of the U.S. conference of the World Council of Churches, says it "signifies an element of rebellion" underlies it.

"This 'rebellious' ecumenism is rooted in two strong and strangely inter-related currents of public concern," he says. "One is a dissatisfaction with present church structures; the other is an enormous concern about religious beliefs."

A Roman Catholic layman, Donald J. Thorman, writing in Overview, an assessment of church trends published by the Thinks More Association, says that an "informal, unofficial church" is developing alongside the official church.

"The rapid proliferation of such underground church communities in the wake of the non-institutional church is fast assuming the characteristics of a parallel movement within some segments of American Catholicism," he says.

Paul Hanly, publisher of the National Catholic Reporter in Kansas City, Mo., says frustration at delays in reforms implied by the second Vatican council has stimulated the "underground, non-institutional church," with its "own faithful, clergy, liturgy and morality."

He lists examples brought to his attention in which clergy and laity get together in private homes for "Eucharistic happenings"—Bible reading, discussion and communion.

He said an increasing number of priests say "they have suddenly discovered something bigger than the institutional church—Christianity—and it has changed their lives."

Many participants in these ad hoc groups or calls also take part in regular parish life. Others do not.

Rev. Gregory Baum of Toronto, a Catholic scholar who lectures widely in the U.S., says there's a traditional institutional organizations "no longer adequately promote human life."

The phenomenon also has come in for some sharp criticism.

Rev. Jean Danielou, a French Jesuit theologian, deplores what he terms a drift away from the institutional church by those who would turn Christianity into an "elite religion" for the few with almost no organizational form.

"A church which became a church of the elite would be simply a caricature of what Jesus intended," he adds.

Bishop Not Eager For Change in East

VANCOUVER (CP)—Christianity is much in the minority in one of the warmest diocese in the Anglican Church, but Rt. Rev. Joshua Ban Ii Chin plays it cool.

He's not in a hurry to change things in the dioceses of Malaysia, Singapore, Vietnam, Thailand, Laos and Cambodia, he said in an interview here while on a tour of Canada and the United States.

He said he believes the Anglican Church has found a permanent home in Asia, even though the governments of the various countries spend much of their time battling with one another.

The bishop, a citizen of Malaysia, but a resident of Singapore, which left the federation two years ago, said both nations should concentrate their efforts on keeping communism off the Malayan Peninsula.

Bishop Chin said both countries have shared in their attitudes toward his church, although at one time the odds appeared a successful ministry were believed insurmountable.

Less than five per cent of the population in his diocese represents Christian denominations and Anglican membership is smaller still.

Minister Defends Hippies

HAMILTON (CP)—Some delegates to the annual Institute of Alcohol Studies conference took exception Thursday to a Baptist minister's defence of hippies and young protesters.

Rev. Philip Karpets, counselor for Humber College of Applied Arts and Technology, told the conference Toronto's Yorkville hippie area is not a place but a state of mind.

Co-founder of a Yorkville centre for young people, Mr. Karpets, said signs since 1964 that young people want to engage in some dialogue about world and social problems and the aims and values of society have largely been ignored.

While Mr. Karpets was urging that the adult generation listen to what youth is trying to say and stop turning a deaf ear, one member of the audience walked out, mumbling: "This is a waste of time."

An unidentified Toronto minister said young people are handing out ultimatums and demands.

"If they don't like the Puritan freedom of the older generation, I don't like the ultra-freedom that we are now having shoved down our throats," he said.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD F. MULLIN

Mullin – Palmer

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the scene of the wedding on Saturday, August 19, 1967 at 12 noon, when Susanne Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Palmer, Belleville was united in marriage to Gerald Francis Mullin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mullin, of Belleville.

Rev. Father P. Canty, assisted by Rev. Allan Lauder of Christ Church, officiated at the ceremony. Wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Grant who accompanied Mr. Robert Burke, the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length cage style gown of pointe d'Esprit trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace, and highlighted with a detachable Watteau train and long lily-point sleeves. Both dress and train were banded with Italian crystal satin. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion fell from a floral cluster and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses.

The maid of honor Miss Janice Lait of Toronto and the bridesmaid Mrs. Rosemary Lanigan, sister of the bridegroom were dressed alike in floor-length sheaths of patterned sheer over yellow taffeta. A flowing panel at back highlighted the design which were in shades of yellow, Aqua and orange. They wore matching hair bonet dresses and each carried a nosegay of Shasta daisies.

Joseph Lee was groomsman while ushers were Adrian and Donald Mullin, brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at Club Canara where the bride's mother received the guests wearing an Empire styled sheath dress with matching coat in dusty rose silk and worsted, with matching turban and a corsage of pink and white carnations. The mother of the bridegroom wore a sleeveless gown of shrimp colored crepe with matching lace coat, shrimp and white hat, brown accessories and a corsage of bronze carnations.

For the wedding trip to the Southern United States, the bride chose a sleeveless white dress with matching coat embanced with orange color dots, and orange accessories.

Upon return the couple will reside at Willowdale.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD E. COLEBOURNE

Colebourne – Burgoyne

The wedding of Ann Elizabeth Burgoyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. C. Burgoyne of Egansville to Richard Ernest Colebourne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ernest Colebourne, Corbyville R.R. 1 was solemnized in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville on Saturday, August 19, 1967, at 3 p.m.

Rev. Dr. H. M. Davis officiated at the ceremony, while traditional wedding music was rendered by church organist S. Alec Gordon who also accompanied the soloist Mr. Robert Reid.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length bridal gown of boats white chrome silk taffeta with Empire waistline and A-line skirt, with the bodice featuring appliques around the neck and shoulders, from which flowed a cathedral train of Alencon lace with the cape sleeves, also of Alencon lace. A matching lace headdress held in place a tulle illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white cymbidium orchids mingled with stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Carol Ann Dixon as matron of honor and the bridesmaids the Misses Carol Mearns, Elinor Milley and Jacquline Bell were identically attired in full length gowns of Caribbean blue brocade in Empire style with short trains. All were wedding ring headdresses of matching brocade and carried bouquets of Fuji mums.

Edward R. Colebourne attended his brother, while the ushers were John Rolling, Terry Morgan and Robert McFee.

The reception was held at the Son Valley Motor Inn where the bride's mother received wearing a rust-beige Chantilly lace gown with small flowered hat and a pink cymbidium corsage. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a petal pink silk sheath gown with jacket, matching pink pillbox, white accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

For the wedding trip to the Poconos Mountains Resort in Pennsylvania, U.S.A., the bride chose an imported coffee brown silk linen dress, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Upon return from the honeymoon the couple will reside at 271 John Street, Apt. 203 in Belleville.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

"Since Eve ate apples, much depends on dinner."
—Lord Byron (1788-1824)

It was done with spontaneity, with galety; the way the smiling young waitress brought in a lighted birthday cake and placed it, to the surprise, delight and appreciative pleasure of an elderly lady dining with members of her family at the hotel in celebration of her 85th birthday.

This touch of graciousness conferred almost as much honor to the establishment and to her who presented it, as to the recipient, and occurred at The Hotel Quinte, the pretty waitress being Miss Vi Douglas.

As the poet says, all human history attests that happiness for man is dining,—for who can live without it? And his pleasure is heightened and doubled by the unexpected, thoughtful gesture. The Hotel in Kitchener, The Walper House unfailingly graces each lady's breakfast tray with a rose, so we hear. And we recall the restaurant, instantly, that presents the bill on a tray of scented tissue. Or the hostess, whose iced tea and iced coffee is served in cubes; in each ice cube of tea a white orange blossom, in each coffee ice cube a tiny strawberry.

The gracious touch lingers in his health and capacity for work; depend on his mood." In fact, the memory; it fosters good-will. medical science proves most modern ills are of nervous origin.

In similar, but perhaps different vein, the Aschinger brothers in Berlin upon opening their restaurant let it be known that customers could eat as many rolls as they wanted—free. Baskets of fresh crisp rolls were placed on counters and tables, and like magic were continuously filled. All to win clients for their main staple dish—pea soup. This year one of the beat eaters, who was an engineering student with six a bowl of soup and 20 rolls plus a lot of mustard, for lunch daily, the price rose from 3½ cents a bowl in 1892 to 15 cents.

Sad to say, this free lunch practice, dear to generations of college students, cabbies, housewives, workers and business executives, is now in danger of being barred — for sanitary reasons. To serve individu al ly wrapped rolls is too costly, but Aschinger's hope to meet this obstacle by setting up automatic roll dispensers throughout the premises.

On the other side of the coin, an observer notes that thoughtlessness, indifference, carelessness on the part of those who have to do with the preparing or serving of food may be listed as petty things. But petty things

"Give me a pleasant waitress," stated a Belleville friend. "I'd much prefer, if I had to, choose a poorly made sandwich served by a smiling waitress, rather than the good one we had the other day at a road-side restaurant served us at the counter by an uncivil waitress, totally unmindful of a small wooden plaque, for sale, on the shelf behind her, on which was printed:

"A smile is something nice to see
It doesn't cost a cent.
A smile is something all your own,
It never can be lent.
A smile is welcome every-where,
It does away with frowns,
A smile is good for everyone
To ease the ups and downs."

Lord Chesterfield sums up the gracious touch in saying:

"Most arts require long study and appreciation, but the most useful art of all, that of pleasing, requires only the desire."

Mean Thief Steals Little Girl's Pet

Dear Doris: Being a social worker, maybe you can tell me what kind of so-called people go around stealing children's pets?

My little girl's constant companion, "Wee Wooly" was taken from our lawn. She was a little long-haired chihuahua, strictly a one-girl dog. Now little girl is heartbroken and how can we console her?

Disgusted.

Dear Disgusted: Either the thief:

(1) Wants the pup himself and can't afford one;

(2) Plans to sell Wee Wooly for the money he'll bring; or

(3) Likes to steal things for the mischief of it.

Not a nice person to know, anyway.

DORIS CLARK

The best antidote is another puppy to love. A little girl can get over the loss quickly if Mom and Dad are optimistic.

Help her take a step forward in growing up by letting her learn now what it means to overcome a sorrow with good cheer.

Dear Doris: I hardly ever miss your column. I came across this about an 11-year-old girl needing a home. I am willing to take her and give her love and the best I have along with it.

I raised a granddaughter from a baby. She is now married and I also took after her little girl sometimes. I also took two little boys for three years when their mother died. So I would be very happy, Doris, to have this girl.

I have a bungalow home but comfortable. I am not well off but I own my own home, and would do my best to see her through school with a good education. — Just Granny

Dear Granny: I passed your message on to Tom Thumb. He was grateful, but now has a suitable spot for his girl.

Why not ask your own child care agency? In Belleville this is the Children's Aid Society of Belleville and Hastings County, 93 West Moira Street.

Your kind of loving and understanding help is greatly in demand, when it comes to helping little ones whose own parents are not on the job for one reason or another.

Dear Doris: Can you tell me the name of the carrying case that the squaws used to carry their babies in on their backs? I imagine it was made from skin.

Everybody seems to think they have heard the name but nobody can remember it. — No Luck So Far

Dear No Luck: It comes in three spellings: tikinagan, tikinagn, or tikinakun. All spellings were supplied by other church magazines or missionaries. Take your pick.

The English name — and maybe this is the one you are searching for after all — is Indian cradle board.

Longer, fuller replies were printed by those correspondents who enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Teddy hates to hold my hand when we go for a walk, but I have to hold on to him all the time so he don't run ahead and cross the street."

Mother: "You may walk or run ahead of me, but when you come to the corner, you must stop and wait for me. We always hold hands when we cross a busy street."

A 4-year-old can realize that some rules are necessary for safety. If you relax the unnecessary rules, you may find he obeys the others willingly.

Ann Landers

Cruel Sorority Girls Barber Classmate

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 18-year-old daughter is very attractive and has always been popular. We sent Marylou to a fine school last year where she joined a sorority.

ANN LANDERS

In June I drove up to bring her home for the summer. When she left the sorority house she was noticeably upset and came out in a hurry, avoiding farewells. When we drove off, Marylou broke into sobs and I couldn't get her to talk for half an hour. Finally she removed her head scarf and I was horrified. Her hair had been cut short and the letter W shaved on the top of her head.

Marylou tells this story: The night before, she returned from a date inebriated and then passed out. When she awakened she discovered what her sorority sisters had done to her. She claims it was because she had dated a fellow who had been previously pinned to one of the girls. Frankly, I wonder about this.

Now the question: Should Marylou return to that school? She wants to go back but not to the sorority house. I say she is ruined on that campus and would be better off elsewhere. What is your opinion? — S.M.

DEAR S.M.: The decision should be hers, but I am inclined to agree with you, Mother. The sorority girls sound vicious and cruel and you can be sure that the barbering episode received wide coverage.

More to the point, however, Marylou will do no better elsewhere unless she awears off the sauce. A girl who gets smashed and loud passes out is lucky if nothing worse happens to her than a shaved head.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this message to all parents of children who have emotional problems.

I am a girl 18. For a long time I was depressed and unhappy. I asked my mother if she would send me for counseling but she refused. She said I was "going through a stage" and would outgrow it. I know now that she didn't want to send me because it would make her look like a failure as a mother.

Finally I was afraid I might commit suicide so I went to my teacher. That wonderful woman arranged counseling on the sly.

After eight months of hard work no miracles have been accomplished, but I am learning to live with myself and with others. I am determined to continue the sessions as long as is necessary because I have a beautiful future to work for.

I feel no bitterness toward my mother — I am sorry for her. I am deeply grateful to my teacher and my counselor and to a family friend who is paying for my therapy. (One day I'll pay her back.)

Please tell all parents that if their kids ask for help, to swallow their pride and let them have it. After they reach adulthood it may be too late. — ON MY WAY.

DEAR ON YOUR WAY: When parents ask me if they should agree to let a child get profession help I always encourage it. The child who asks is half cured because he wants to be well. Thank you for your letter, honey. I am proud of you for meeting your problem head-on and slugging it out.

Benjamin Franklin Invented Rocking Chair Before 1787

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Lazy summer days are not new to the 20th century. Our ancestors enjoyed relaxing on hot summer evenings in that American invention, the rocking chair.

Traditionally, the rocking chair was invented by Benjamin Franklin before 1787. Actually chairs with rockers were known as early as 1725. Some examples dating from the 1770's were made with rockers added to the legs of straight chairs. The factory made rockers were produced in quantity by 1815.

The easiest way to determine the age of an old rocking chair is by the length of the rocker. If the front and back of it are curved bottom rocker is the same length the chair probably dates before 1800. From 1800 to 1815 the back of the rocker was a few inches longer. After 1825 the back rocker was from 4 to 10 inches longer.

* * *

A word of warning for the novice silver collector. We have received several letters from misinformed silver collectors who have tried to find the history of a piece of silver from the marks. It is possible but several basic facts are needed.

First, find the date of the silver by the general shape and style of the piece not by the marks.

American marks on coin silver usually are just a name or initials. Small pieces often have hallmarks sometimes appear that will show an eagle, hand, star, or a letter. English marks have four or five small pictures.

Q. Are all Currier and Ives prints worth a lot?

A. No. Most of the prints were marked but a few of the publishers' cartoons were published without a name. All of the religious and scenic prints had the firm's names at the bottom.

The name has been eliminated from a few prints over the years. The removal of the name or the margin lowers the value in the serious collector.

Quick Sausage Casserole

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you give us more sausage recipes? I buy a package every week when I shop because we like them and they are cheap. Would you give me more ideas besides just frying? — Mrs. Donald T.

ANSWER: We agreed sausage is a good question.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Lentil Soup (see Fri); Cold Plate: Sliced Cooked Ham or Smoked Ox Tongue, Sliced Headcheese, Sliced Liver Loaf, Finely Shredded Cabbage Salad with Mayonnaise; Hot Rolls; Layered Raisin Bars (see Friday); Assorted Cheeses; Coffee.

LIGHTNING SAUSAGE AND VEGETABLE CASSEROLE
(Serves 4 generously)

One 14-oz. can kernel corn
One 12-oz. pkg. fresh frozen lima beans (forjhook or baby)
One 10-oz. can cream of vegetable soup
1 cup fine fresh bread-crumbs
1 pound sausages
Turn on oven at 350 deg. Fahr. In a saucepan bring to boil together the corn and its liquid and the fresh frozen limas. Drain. Turn into casserole. Heat undiluted soup in same unwashed saucepan and pour over vegetables evenly. Cover with crumbs. Arrange sausages in uniform rows on top. Sprinkle sparingly with paprika. Bake at 350 deg Fahr. 30 to 35 min. or until bubbling and sausages are cooked and golden.

SAUSAGES YORKSHIRE
(Serves 4)

1 pound pork sausages
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
½ tsp. salt.

Arrange sausages in loaf pan in one crowded layer if possible. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 min. While they are baking prepare Yorkshire Pudding batter: beat eggs until very light. Add milk, flour and salt and beat for 3 min. Allow to stand. Remove cooked sausages from oven and tip off all but ¼" excess fat and discard. Rearrange sausages evenly and pour batter over them. Return at once and bake 10 min. at 450 deg. Fahr. then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. and bake 20 to 25 min. longer until rich gold and puffy. One English cook I knew served chili sauce with this along with creamed cauliflower and green peas.

BAKED SAUSAGES
(Serves 6)

Arrange 2 pounds sausages in single layer on rack of broiler pan. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 30 min. or until cooked and rich gold. Transfer to preheated platter. This eliminates all fat.

CHERNEY'S SEMI-ANNUAL INVENTORY SALE

INSTANT BEDROOMS

Where do you put Mom and Pop when they come to spend a weekend or a week with you . . . or vice versa? In the spare bedroom, you say. Even if you ever had one, it soon became unsparable when the kids started arriving.

If you have a den, study or family room, you can put a bed in there. You do gain the guest room, but you lose some much-needed work or play-space.

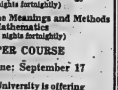
Instead of buying a larger house, renting a bigger apartment or adding a room to the house at great expense, you can add an instant guest room for the price of an ingenious piece of furniture called a convertible sofa.

A convertible sofa looks like a beautiful, regular living room sofa (Many people do, as a matter of fact, buy them as replacement for regular living room sofas.) Concealed within the convertible sofa, however, is an instant guest room. "Concealed" is used advisedly because you can't tell a new convertible sofa from a regular one by looking at it or sitting on it.

This has not always been the case. The first convertibles did not look or feel like regular sofas. Even if you didn't notice the mattress showing at the bottom, you were sure to notice a lack of comfort as soon as you sat down.

"A home's sleeping accommodations have become almost a status symbol," says one home-furnishings expert. "A house is rated in terms of how many people it can sleep. A family is rated high in gracious living if it can accommodate overnight guests on short notice."

You need make no compromises in furnishing your home with convertible sofas. The engineer and the designer have combined to give you practically any style or design that fits your decor or motif. You will find a wide variety of styles . . . Modern Contemporary . . . Colonial . . . Traditional. Why not look them over this weekend?



See Our Selection - Convertible Sofas

You won't buy many things that combine style and utility the way your new convertible will. Budget terms, quickly and easily arranged.

Federal-provincial Parleys Should Not Be Secret--Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts said Friday that federal-provincial conferences have been conducted behind closed doors to a degree that is "unwarranted," but that would not be the case at the Confederation of Tomorrow talks here Nov. 27-30.

Mr. Robarts told Canadian National Exhibition directors that traditional federal-provincial conferences "have no constitutional or legal status under the British North America Act."

"Decisions are made without the normal recourse to parliamentary or legislative debate and, of great concern to me, they are made in private rather than according to our normal parliamentary practice of public debate."

Eventually the decisions are made public and are usually ratified by the appropriate cabinets and parliaments.

"In my opinion, means should be found for the purpose of informing the press and, through them, the public of the discussions involved in these conferences."

Mr. Robarts said he would apply this conviction to the Confederation conference he called. "Arrangements now are under way to provide facilities to meet the requirements of all media."

The premier said the news media sometimes fail to inform the public about important issues, and gave as an example the debate surrounding the future of Canada.

"I . . . was taken aback when the leader of another government informed me recently that if he were to list the 100 items about which the people be represents are concerned, constitutional problems might well be No. 100."

Mr. Robarts said his concern was that many people had not been informed by their news media "in a manner which whetted their interest and curiosity about such an important matter."

However, this was before the visit of President de Gaulle.

. . . Gen. de Gaulle may have given focus to the latent interest of many Canadians in the issues of nationalism."

GM Modifies Its Stand On Canadian Pay Talks

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers said Friday General Motors has withdrawn its stand against bargaining on equal pay for Canadian workers in U.S. negotiations on grounds this would be illegal.

GM said the issue is not precisely correct, that it has agreed only that the question of wheth-er Canadian pay is a matter for job security and wage standards of Americans workers is debatable in U.S. bargaining.

Emil R. Brumbleit, labor vice-president, emphasized that in GM's view, "Canadian wage rates should be bargained in Canada . . . and the matter of wages is on the table" to concurrent Canadian negotiations.

The UAW contends that the Big Three pay workers in their Canadian plants an average of about 40 cents an hour less than they do their counterparts in U.S. factories. It insists that this issue must finally have been abolished, this is a direct threat to American workers.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice-president and GM department director, said that in view of GM's Canadian wage parity stand he does not anticipate the issue will be incorporated in initial economic demandsoffers which the Big Three have presented Tuesday.

Negotiations, which the union complains have been dragging with little progress during the last seven weeks, resumed at Ford until Tuesday. Sunday is the only day they were scheduled at GM and Chrysler.

The UAW reports that its some 850,000 members in the Three plants across the U.S. and Canada are overwhelmingly in favor of authorizing negotiators to call a strike, if and when they deem one necessary.

Industrial Stock Prices Drop Under Heavy Selling Pressure

By LARRY DWORKIN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Industrials reeled under heavy selling pressure on Canada's Toronto stock exchange this week as earnings continued to decline.

The slump, in its second week, followed the trend on the New York Stock Exchange, the traditional North American leader.

At Toronto, the industrial index, which measures the price movements of key stocks, tumbled 2.14 to 198.82.

Adding to the market's weakness is uncertainty about prospects for the second half of the year.

Some brokers say the market's are going through a period of consolidation. Others predict the markets will not turn around until mid-September improvements in the economy.

Trading activity dropped sharply at Toronto where the 362,000 shares changing hands, compared with 39,461,000 last week.

The decline in turnover was due mainly to a slowdown in speculative trading.

Some analysts say higher interest rates on bonds and other securities are also losing potential buyers away from the market.

Steels took it on the chin after Algoma announced it had decided to suspend its $175,-000,000 expansion program and lay off about 900 workers because of declining demand.

This caused speculation that other major companies would also scrap expansion programs. However, Stelco said it does not intend to cut its $112,000,000 program.

Algoma fell 4¾ to 23½, Dofasco 1¼ to 34 and Stelco 1¼ to 23.

Massey Ferguson dropped 1¾ to 20 after touching a yearly low of 18¼. The company announced a nine-month earnings to $22,000,000 compared with $32,700,000 for the same period last year.

Thomson Newspapers advanced 1¾ to 30¼ after being down for most of the week. The company announced its subsidiary, Thomson Newspapers Inc., has purchased the assets of Brush-Moore Newspapers Inc. of the United States.

Western oils also softened as Pacific Pete retreated 1¼ to 16¾, Banff 1¾ to 15 and Home A and Hudson's Bay 1¼ each to 21¾ and 37.

Scurry-Rainbow moved up 2 to 46¼ with most of the gain coming at mid-week. The stock's advance was sparked by a buying order from the American Exchange. There was no news explaining the sudden rise.

On the speculative side, Consolidated Bellechasso edged up 1¼ to 18¼ cents on 1,720,000 shares. Not much could have been bought at 7 cents Aug. 17.

The company said it has applied for 120 claims in the Coppermine Lake area of the Northwest Territories as well as 34 additional claims in the Yukon.

Broker's Clients Irate As Shares Denied Them

VANCOUVER (CP) — Angry clients of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Waite, Reid and Co. have called a meeting Monday to discuss an Ontario Supreme Court decision that blocks release of shares held in safekeeping by the refunct company.

A spokesman for the clients said the purpose of the meeting is to "form a consolidated effort to get more pertinent information and to impress officials with the urgency of the matter."

The group has retained a lawyer.

Dunwoody and Co. of Vancouver and Toronto, trustees in the bankruptcy, had applied to the Ontario Supreme Court for an order permitting the firm to "open communications with clients for the purpose of establishing proof of claims."

Once this proof was obtained, the trustees had intended to release the securities to Waite, Reid clients. The request was denied.

A spokesman for the trustees said the company has been told by the registrar of the Ontario court that no claims will be paid until inspectors to represent all creditors are appointed.

"The appointments cannot take place until a creditors' meeting. The meeting had originally been scheduled for Sept. 22, but the Dunwoody spokesman said efforts are being made to have it moved forward to Sept. 14 in Toronto.

Crusade At Trenton For 2 Weeks

TRENTON — An evangelical Centennial Year crusade is planned for this town Aug. 27 to Sept. 8.

Sponsoring the event are three local evangelist groups — Bethel Temple, of Trenton; Full Gospel Tabernacle, Frankford, and Evangel Temple, Brighton.

Leading the crusade will be a minister who had preached the gospel internationally — Rev. Max Solbrekken, of White Rock, B.C.

Week nights the crusade will be held in the town's high school auditorium and Sundays in Bethel Temple here.

Employment News

By: J. R. Stavley,
Manpower Consultant

The employment market during the past week was dominated by the labor demand from the agricultural field. Farmers utilized the prevailing good weather to maximum use in harvesting the season's crops. During the week, farmers and canning companies commenced to pick and process the tomato pack. A number of persons have thus obtained seasonal work.

Belleville Canada Manpower Centre has already received some requests for apple pickers. Apple growers are invited to list their coming labor requirements as soon as possible.

The Canada Manpower Centre officials are pleased by the response of employers to last week's invitation to list employment vacancies for older worker. Currently the office has a substantial number of older workers seeking employment.

No doubt at this time of the year some students are wondering whether to return to school this September. An analysis of employment opportunities listed at not only the Canada Manpower Centre, but elsewhere across Canada, shows that the worthwhile job demand either an education or a skill or a combination of both.

In the female division locally, there is an urgent need for an experienced seamstress for alterations. A registered nurse and a registered nursing assistant are required. An industrial plant is seeking a plant laborer to work on the 8 p.m. to midnight shift. Experienced kitchen help are in demand for hotel and motel work. Two of these positions are in licensed dining rooms and therefore, the successful persons must be 21 years old or over. Other openings call for reliable women to take care for children by day, with several positions alsoplaced in the necessity of "living-in". A number of dayworkers and dishwashers are also required. Attractive out-of-town positions await typists to work at the United Nations in New York City. A legal secretary who is bilingual is required in Northern Ontario.

In the male division locally, there is a constant requirement for young men possessing a Grade 12 or better education for employment opportunities with retail, banking and industrial organizations. There is also a varied range of sales type of work from insurance selling to the heavier selling type. There is a opening for a class "A" automobile repair mechanic who would be interested in the repair of industrial lift trucks. A junior draftsman possessing a structural and mechanical knowledge is required by a construction firm.

Other openings are for service station attendants, a male nurse and apple pickers who will be required, it is estimated after September 15.

If interested in any of these positions, seeking employment or thinking of re-entering the labor market, contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 254 Church Street, Belleville.

Construction Activity Lags Except in Engineering Work

OTTAWA (CP)— Shortages of investment funds and slack in the economy are combining to cut the volume of construction this year below 1966, Peter Dalton, president of the Canadian Construction Association, said Friday.

Mr. Dalton said in an interview the federation's concern is not limited to house construction, but other fields of construction are feeling the pinch.

"The mid-year report on private and public capital investment showed some increase in dollar terms, but we think that the volume of construction put in place in 1967 is not going to be as good as it was in 1966."

He said expenditures on engineering work are up, but the volume of construction in the fields of manufacturing, financial and commercial enterprises is down.

The construction industry has been faced with numerous work stoppages in various parts of the country, which have cut into the volume of work done.

Mr. Dalton said there is no lack of capacity in the construction industry. Its capacity was proven in 1966 when a record amount of construction was completed.

But there is a shortage of mortgage money, interest rates are high, and some companies are putting off intended projects. He said the decision of Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd., to postpone expansion was "only one of a lot of such decisions."

The trade department's mid-year report on investment intentions forecast a $9,712,000,000 construction program for 1967, 2.9 per cent higher than in 1966.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics' index of residential and non-residential building material prices were 2.5 and 1.5 per cent higher, respectively, in July than a year ago.

Wages and salaries paid in the construction industry in April this year totalled $221,500,000, compared with $205,100,000 in April last year with the figures adjusted for seasonal variations.

All Provinces Participate In Canada Assistance Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—All provinces now have signed agreements with the federal government to participate in the Canada Assistance Plan, Health Minister MacEachen announced Friday.

Quebec, the last province to come to terms with Ottawa on the plan's integration of shared-cost programs for public assistance, signed Aug. 21.

The plan provides payments to the needy aged, blind, disabled and unemployed, to needy mothers and their families, and to children in the care of child welfare authorities.

Provinces, which administer the programs, have an option of replacing separate programs with single, comprehensive schemes embracing all persons in need.

The agreements for Retroactive to April 1, 1966.

The plan also provides for federal assistance to health care costs. These may include any or all of medical, surgical, obstetrical, optical, dental and nursing services, drugs, dressings, prosthetic appliances, dentures and eyeglasses.

Since Parliament approved the plan last year, Quebec, Ontario and Saskatchewan have extended health care benefits under programs covered by the plans.

"It is no longer enough to provide simply financial assistance to needy persons, important as this may be."

Support may be extended to help persons find employment, including special counselling and work activity projects designed to prepare chronic unemployables for re-entry into the labor force.

Cheese Auction Only Takes Half Hour But $1,000,000 Changes Hands Each Week

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

For close to three quarters of a century Belleville is and has been styled the cheddar cheese capital of Canada and even the world.

The high quality of Quinte area cheddar is still widely recognized but in the past decade, Belleville has also become the cheese capital of Canada in another sense.

Every week during the summer months approximately two million pounds of cheddar cheese is sold over the Ontario Milk Marketing Board cheese exchange at Belleville.

This represents all cheese made in Ontario east of Toronto and returns upwards of a million dollars weekly to cheese milk producers in the same area.

The weekly cheese sale in Belleville represents the production of about 120 cheese factories in the Eastern Ontario area. The factories in turn have a total of about 10,000 milk suppliers.

This week there were 10,298 50-pound cheese sold over the exchange floor, 40 pound square cheese and 5,354 specials. The specials go to Kraft Cheese, Black Diamond or other large cheese companies.

The weekly exchange is conducted under what is known as the Dutch Clock auction methods and the entire sale of two million or more pounds of cheese is over in little more than half an hour.

But making preparations for the sale, preparing factory statements, and mailing out cheques to factories means a full time occupation for an office staff of 10 or more employees — even with the assistance of an IBM computer.

Office Manager Henry Wild says the computer does the work of about four girls. Now it can be a little more than a year the computer currently is doing three operations in connection with cheese exchange sales and shortly will also be doing payroll.

The cheese division of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, which operates the Belleville exchange, also has a big cold storage plant at its bay shore location southwest of the hospital.

At the present time there are about eight million pounds of cheese in storage at the milk producers plant in Belleville.

J. A. Johnston, director of the cheese division at Belleville, says the bulk of the cheese in storage here is destined for export. However, the movement of cheese in and out of storage is almost continuous.

Only about 25 per cent of the cheese sold on the Belleville exchange goes into storage here. The board operates another storage in the Brockville - Cornwall area and rents storage space at Picton, Brockville and Cornwall.

Generally speaking, only cheese from the immediate Quinte area is stored at Belleville. However, the production of one large plant in Northern Ontario — at Earlton, more than 100 miles north of North Bay — is brought here.

Apparently Belleville is the closest suitable storage to Earlton but it is a 10½ hour run by highway transport.

The Dutch Clock auction of cheese at Belleville is a far cry from the individual cheese boards which were held throughout the district up until a decade or so ago.

Then, separate board meetings were held at Belleville, Napanee, Campbellford and other centres with the evening sales taking anywhere up to midnight.

Now information regarding cheese from all 135 factories east of Toronto is received at the Belleville office where consignments are catalogued for the weekly sale.

The result is that buyers attend only one central cheese board per week instead of individual boards throughout the district. Seldom are there more than half a dozen buyers at weekly board in Belleville.

Under the Dutch Clock method the head on a big sales clock is put in motion and buyers bid on the cheese consignment by stopping the clock — at the price they are prepared to pay.

Each buyer is given a number and when he presses the button to stop the clock, his number on the clock dial lights up. The price bid is recorded by where the clock hand stops.

Milk board office personnel record the sales as they are made and punch cards for processing the sales through the computer.

Either Mr. Johnston or Mr. Wild sits in as a buyer for the milk board to take cheese not sold to regular buyers. The milk board protects the price of first and second grade cheese at a certain level. And no cheese is sold below this figure.

Before the cheese are sold government graders take samples for forwarding to Ottawa for sediment testing.

The results of the sample tests are received back before the cheese are graded.

At one time the bulk of cheese made was put up in 90 pound round blocks but today the trend is toward 40 pound squares.

Now approximately 50 per cent of the cheese coming into the Belleville storage are of the square type which is rapidly gaining favor by buyers for export.

The square cheese cut to better advantage and with less waste than the round type.

Even the old wooden cheese box made from elm has changed with the years.

Only a few years ago elm boxes for the big 90-pound cheese were used almost exclusively.

But Dutch Elm disease, which has killed much of the elm in Eastern Ontario, has cut the supply of wood and now boxes made of cardboard are more and more in use.

The cardboard cheese boxes serve the purpose equally as well as those made of elm — providing they don't get wet.

At the Belleville storage 90-pound cheese are stacked 14 high and if the boxes get wet the weight causes collapse of the piles.

This has happened at the Belleville storage on a few occasions! And in the words of one storage employee it "messes it up" — literally by making a mess."

Keeping Tab

Office personnel keep track of sales. Plant superintendent Graydon Colwill operates Dutch Clock control panel.

Computer Operator

Dutch Clock Cheese Auction

Close to $1,000,000 in cheese sales are rung up each week at Ontario Milk Producers cheese exchange in Belleville. Sales are conducted under Dutch Clock system with buyers in foreground stopping the clock at price they are prepared to pay.

Dief Declares Communists Join Company of Young Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Friday the Company of Young Canadians should be investigated so that it does not become an agency for the propagation of communism or Communist philosophy.

He said there are dedicated young men and women in the Company but that inferences with the benediction of the Communist party are infiltrating it.

Speaking to reporters, Mr. Diefenbaker repeated his call for reconvening of Parliament to deal with the Great Lakes shipping strike by the Seafarers' International Union.

Mr. Diefenbaker twitted Prime Minister Pearson for his phrase "I see nothing to be disturbed about" concerning the Paris announcement of increased French economic aid to Quebec.

He said "I am not disturbed" is the embodiment of the attitude of the Liberal government toward high taxation, uncontrolled expenditures the seamen's strike, pensioners and the cost of living.

Mr. Diefenbaker said McGill University's High Altitude Research project (HARP) should not have been wiped out on the say-so of Industry Minister Drury who had taken no interest in the matter.

For another $500,000 Canada would have been able to put objects in space orbit in its Centennial Year.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government is spending $54,000,000 on a naval hydrofoil boat turned down by other countries as worthless. The hydrofoil project had originally been estimated to cost $9,000,000, he said.

The Conservative leader said housing is in a most chaotic condition.

"The government must supply adequate funds to house Canadians," he said.

He was commenting on Mr. Pearson's statement that more funds for house mortgages will not be advanced at this time.

On the shipping strike, he said Canada was in danger of losing wheat markets.

Hamilton
No Special Status

MONTREAL (CP)—Alvin Hamilton, a candidate for the Progressive Conservative party leadership, came out Friday against giving Quebec a special status in Confederation.

"I cannot see how we can have a constitution giving any particular treatment to any particular section of Canada," he told a combined news conference and meet-the-delegate session.

He said real equality between French and English Canada cannot be achieved unless it is preceded by economic equality.

Economic measures aimed at this goal have to be taken in the "20 years it will take to change the constitution."

"The way English- and French-Canadians get along is a wonderful example to the whole world," he said. "We get along very well."

Unity Most Important

MONCTON (CP)—Donald Fleming arrived here Friday from Halifax to drum up support for his campaign for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party.

He said in an interview that restoration of party unity is the most important issue facing delegates to the national convention in Toronto next month.

Mr. Fleming said that in the interests of national unity there must be party unity.

Duff Roblin Eats on Run As He Sets Fast Pace

OTTAWA (CP)—The scene that most reflects Duff Roblin's campaign style is the candidate hurrying out of a meeting eating a sandwich.

As last man to enter the nine-man race for the Conservative leadership Manitoba premier is running hard for the big prize. He has not a tight campaign schedule and sticks to it.

The sandwich scene occurred Friday around 7 p.m. in the Ottawa valley community of Smiths Falls. When it was time to go following a meeting with voting delegates at the Sept. 69 leadership convention in Toronto, Mr. Roblin went. So did the sandwich he was munching.

He left the private home where the handful of delegates had gathered, climbed into a rented limousine for a high-speed drive to Kingston, the final campaign stop for that day on the Ontario swing.

After the evening Kingston meeting with more delegates, it was on his rented executive jet for an night flight to Northern Ontario.

The Kingston affair was his third meeting Friday with eastern Ont a r i o delegates after flying to Ottawa in the jet from Regina. All is precision and timing and planning.

At each stop a rather striking blonde, Nancy Poole, wife of Mr. Roblin's Ontario campaign chairman, got the name and address of each delegate who showed up. They got a handyou note later. The invited ones who did not attend get a wish-you-were-there note.

While Mr. Roblin mixes, his executive assistant, Joe Martin, 30, checks delegates on their leanings. It's a kind of counter-check on extensive research by the Roblin team on how delegates will vote. A card is kept on each of the 2,843 voting delegates going to the convention.

After the Roblin team arrived in Ottawa by jet Friday morning there was a capital press conference with the Ontario press corps. But Mr. Roblin was regarded later to be a little surprised the questioning wasn't tougher.

Then the 50-year-old candidate had lunch in Ottawa with 100 delegates, alternates and friends, and hit the nearby communities of Cornwall, Smiths Falls and Kingston, moving by limousine.

Fulton
Poor Are Enslaved

MONTREAL (CP) — Davie Fulton Friday assailed government policies which he said "restrain creative Canadians."

At a news conference, the candidate for the Progressive Conservative party leadership said Canadians who have achieved security by their own efforts have it guaranteed by the government.

"But God Canadian caught in the web of poverty remains ensnared, lacking the education, the income, the assistance or the incentives to escape."

"He too is secure—but it is the security of a slave."

Mr. Fulton said he would not try to abolish medical care insurance if he takes over the government after the federal health plan has been established.

"But we will try to modify it."

Foreign Control Inevitable

TORONTO (CP) — Senator Wallace McCutcheon, Progressive Conservative leadership candidate, criticized economic nationalism in a speech to riding delegates here Friday.

"The pseudo-nationalist's bugbear of foreign control of the Canadian economy is merely an emotional football," he said.

"We must accept the fact that the economics of the 20th century is world-wide in scope and is a fabric woven of interdependent relationships."

Bombers Lose 24-18

Last Minute TD Enables Roughriders To Share First Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It took a last-minute touchdown to do it, but Saskatchewan Roughriders knocked off the Winnipeg Blue Bombers Friday night in Regina to grab a share of first place in the Western Football Conference.

And with most pre-season predictions calling for the Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders, to battle for the WFC crown, the guessers look pretty good today.

The defending Grey Cup champion Riders are tied with Calgary, each with three victories. Winnipeg and Edmonton are deadlocked for third while British Columbia Lions are on the bottom with four straight setbacks. The Lions try again Sunday afternoon in Vancouver against the Stampeders.

At Regina Friday night, Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster rallied his forces as time was running out, after Winnipeg had pulled even at 18-18.

He found Alan Ford with a 37-yard pass to the Winnipeg 44 to start the drive, and went over from the one on a keeper play to end it.

It was a tough loss for the Bombers, especially for second string quarterback Tom Burkico, who replaced Kenny Ploen in the second quarter. Ploen left with a badly bruised shoulder, and was relieved minutes later by fullback Butch Pressley, also with a shoulder injury.

Van Burkico's passing was the key to Winnipeg's comeback in the final quarter, when the Bombers scored two touchdowns to erase an 18-6 deficit. Long passes to Ken Nielson set up both of them, one from the Saskatchewan seven and one from the eight.

Winnipeg's other points Friday night came from Ernie Kyzyk's convert and field goal, and a safety touch.

Before Lancaster's game-winner, Saskatchewan had touchdowns from George Reed and Ed Buchanan, both converted by Jack Abendschan. Abendschan also kicked a single and a field goal.

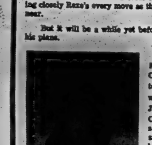
As the scene shifts to Vancouver Sunday, Calgary Stampeders will face a revamped B.C. team, playing for the first time under new coach Jim Champion.

With Tom Brown retired for medical reasons, linebacker Rudy Rasmika will move in as defensive left end. At the other end will be rookie Bill Sufica, filling in for Wayne Foster who suffered a knee injury Tuesday in practice.

Champion made other changes Friday as well. He cut rookie defensive back Grant Martinson from Utah State and replaced him with Steve Shelby, who sat out the last game.

Martinson's spot on the import roster was taken by quarterback Dave Mathieson, a Washington State graduate who has been on taxi squads in the National Football League for three seasons.

In another signing Friday, the Lions picked up non-import Richard Sorkorum, a pass receiver. Sorkorum, 24, an American classed as a non-import because he didn't play high school or college football in the U.S. before his 21st birthday, will spell Fred Burleson at split end.



Pinch Hitting

Whenever senior hockey talk comes up in this city, one question always comes to the fore: "What is Steve Reza going to do?"

The Mo-Hawks' sensational young goalie so impressed the hockey world last year that he was scooped up by Pittsburg Penguins, one of the new NHL clubs, for their negotiation list. And local hockey fans are watching closely Reza's every move as the hockey season draws near.

But it will be a while yet before they learn much of his plans.

Contacted by phone at Kingston's Constantine Rink yesterday, where he is working out with Jack "Red" Bownass Canadian Nationals second team, Reza says that right now he is "just putting in time until the Pittsburg camp opens."

That will be on Sept. 13 in the sparkling new Brantford, Ont., arena.

"Bownass is a real nice guy but I am a little disappointed in the talent here," he said when questioned as to his intentions concerning the Nationals.

"This camp is not near as strong as I thought it would be," adding "Syl Apps Jr. impresses me but not many others do.

"No, I don't really think there is much future with this team for me but the early workouts will help get me in condition for the Pittsburgh camp. Sure, there would be a lot sweeter but I won't make any commitments very until after the pro camp.

"I hope to go to Hull with Bownass for another week, however. My legs are coming a bit sore but I am not too smooth on my skates yet but the old eyes and hands seem pretty good. The more practice the better," he added.

Steve says he has been playing some softball in Peterborough to help stay in shape over the summer months.

Bownass plans on breaking camp in Kingston this weekend but will take only about 15 of his present camp roster with him when he departs from across Canada will join them for the Hull camp.

"Floyd Crawford and Bob Temple have been to Peterborough to talk to me and I intend to stick by my word. If I don't get what I want from the pros, I'll play my amateur hockey in Belleville", Reza confirmed.

"Really, I don't know what is going to happen," he offered. "I wrote to Jack Riley, the Pittsburgh general manager, but he just says he wants to have a look at me in action.

"Sullivan (Pittsburgh coach George "Red" Sullivan, of Peterborough) has sent in some pretty favorable reports on me, I understand, as I am hopeful.

"The Penguins own three goalies, Les Binkley, Ray Edwards and Joe Daley and they have myself and Morve Edwards on their negotiation list.

"I expect the first of us will report to their camp. They will keep two goalies and they will want two more to send to their Baltimore club in the American League."

Reza hesitated when asked if he would accept a minor-pro assignment.

"That would depend on the money. If they were willing to pay me something between an NHL and an American League salary, I would likely agree to play in Baltimore."

Steve is a determined young man.

At the age of 26, he hopes to make a living in the tough world of pro hockey. And he wants to make up for the three years that he wasted by sitting out of the game.

Reza quit hockey after disagreements with the Montreal Canadiens' system, while playing junior in Peterborough, returning to the sport with the Senior "A" Mo-Hawks last fall.

If Reza continues to progress with the ability he displayed here last winter it will not be a matter of "if" he will make it.

Just a matter of "when."

Tuna Reluctant To Bite So US Wins By 8½ Points

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—The United States won its fifth International Tuna Cup match Friday in a tournament in which the fish played a reluctant role.

Fishermen on the four teams entered in the tournament said there was no shortage of the big bluefins, but they seemed disinterested in the bait.

Only two fish were caught—one by R. E. Naftzger of the U.S. team and one by Dr. Norman Bethveau of the Canadian team.

Naftzger's 683¼ - pound fish, baited Thursday, was the only pounds heavier than the Canadian fish. With points awarded on the basis of one per pound of fish caught, the U.S. won by a margin of 8½ points.

Members of the four teams—the U.S., Canada, the Caribbean and Mexico—gathered at the usual post mortem session Friday night and nobody seemed to be discomposed by the unwillingness of the bluefins to co-operate.

The decision whether to hold another tournament next year will be made by tournament directors at a meeting in New York this fall.

Hundreds of spectators lined the waterfront at nearby Wedgeport Friday afternoon when the Canadian fish was brought to shore.

It appeared to be about the same size as the U.S. fish and the crowd spread agonizing minutes awaiting the weigh-in. Finally the fish was positioned on the scales—which decided to malfunction.

Another cat was shown in from Cape St. Mary which the Canadian team—looking much smaller than fathers—paced up and down and worried about their fish losing weight through dehydration.

The bluefin was covered with oilskin and salt water was poured over it until the scales arrived by RCAF helicopter.

The final verdict: 675 pounds —24½ less than the U.S. fish.

Thorpe 4-Time Winner Of Lefty Golf Tourney

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

Whitevale's new lefty, Ken Thorpe, fired up to expectations here yesterday and won the ninth annual Osborne Amateur Rosebowl golf title.

The experience was far from a new one for Thorpe. It Friday's win, at the Bay of Quinte Country Club, was Thorpe's fourth. He has finished in the runner-up position on four other occasions.

Thorpe got a battle for the honors this time from young Greg Wallace, of Chinguacousy.

The winner carded a three-over par 74 and Wallace was one stroke back at 75.

Wallace was up two strokes on his playing partner after 15 holes but was into true trouble on the 17th. He took a double bogey to Thorpe's par to tie the score. Thorpe scored a safe par three on the 18th, and Wallace missed a short putt for a bogey, costing him a share of the lead.

Thorpe took 37 putts in his steady round which read 4-4-4-3-5-4-3-4-5 (37) 4-5-3-3-5-4-4-4-3 (35): 74. Wallace scored 4-4-5-3-5-4-3-3-5 (36) 5-3-4-3-5-4-4-4-4 (39): 75.

Lake Williams of Sunnidale finished third with 36-39 for 77. Troubles on the 14th, and 15th kept him from hoisting the other pair. Richard Charles, of Westview-Aurora, also carded a 77. He had the best front nine of the tourney; a 36, but faded to 41 coming home.

Other contenders were: Harold Nicholson, Port Stanley, Harold Phillips, Glen Eagle, Bruce Atkins, Fenelon Falls and Martin Rose, Thames Valley, each with 78. Dennis Grierson, Dundas; and Kerry Short, Tweety Valley, scored 79s and Ray of Quinte's hope, Al McClinton, and 80 on a 36-hole round that included 38 putts.

Thorpe was presented with the Wiser's Trophy during the presentation and David Laking, of Uptons, took home the Wiser's Cup for low net score of 64. Golfing in "B" flight, Laking shot an 81 with a big 17 handicap.

Charles had a 69 net in "A" flight followed by Grierson's 70, Nicholson's 71, Stanley Carroll (Caesarsaun) with 72 and Phillips with 73.

First low gross in "B" went to Larry Smithson of Bay Valley with 84. W. R. Ostler, Cedarbrae, and Dick Gibbs, Willowdale, also had 84s in second and third. Fred Pisch, of the CFB Trenton, was fourth with another 84, Gord Ferris, Maxinaugo, had 86 and Lorne Buck, Pickering, 87.

Following Laking in "B" net competition were George Resnick, Donald, 71, Tom Gillis, St. Andrews Towers, 71, Huck Welch, Hamilton, 72, Nick Reinhart, Whitevale, 72, Robert Dove, Waterview, 72, Ken Scutt, Sleepy Hollow, 73, Dave Jeanblanc, Hillsburg, 74, Mike Cromer, Islington, 74 and Gar Hughes, Uptands, 74.

George S. Jackson, Barrie, won low gross honors in "C" flight with 82 followed by J. A. Thiffault, also of Barrie, with 86 and Dez Pilling, Pinecrest, 90.

Vic Dingley, Pickering, had low net of 77 with Dennis Murphy, Downsaville, at 82 and a post entry from Quinte, Ed McKinny, third with 83.

Handling the presentation of prizes were several Ontario Golfer's Association officials along with Harry Myles, Wiser's sales manager for Central Ontario. Also taking part were Ray of Quinte Club president, George P. O'Brien, and Belleville mayor, Jack Ellis.

The course was "badly in need of water" according to many of the golfers.

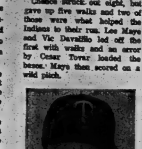
Dean Chance's No Hitter Gives Twins Half Game Lead



BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dean Chance threw a no-hitter at Cleveland Indians in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader Friday that enabled Minnesota Twins to sweep into first place in the American League.

Only the score applied it. The Indians got only one without a hit in the first inning, and the Twins won 2-1. They took the opener 6-5.

Chance threw a blister game earlier this month, but it was rained out after 4½ innings so it won't go into the record book. This one, though, was the real thing.

Elsewhere in a full American League schedule, Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox split 7-1 and 1-2, Detroit Tigers blanked Kansas City Athletics 3-0 and New York Yankees took two games from Washington Senators 7-3 and 2-1. The California-Baltimore doubleheader was rained out.

DEAN CHANCE

Chances struck out eight, but gave up five walks and two of those were what helped the Indians to their run. Leo Maye and Vic Davalillo led off the first with walks and an error by Cesar Tovar loaded the bases. Maye then scored on a wild pitch.

The Twins scored in the second off Sonny Siebert when Tony Oliva singled and scored all the way from first on Harmon Killebrew's single. Tovar scored on a balk with the winning run in the sixth.

In the first game Oliva scored on Killebrew's triple in the 10th and Sandy Valdespino drove in Harmon with a sacrifice fly. Joe Azcue homered in the bottom of the inning for the Indians.

Boston jumped all over Gary Peters in the first game in Chicago and George Scott powered out four hits. Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith each had two, Jim Lonborg picked up his 17th victory.

In the nightcap, Ken Berry drove in the winning run for the White Sox with a single. Berry had homered in the sixth to give Chicago a 1-0 lead, but Smith tied the game in the eighth with a run-scoring single. Each club is now half a game behind the Twins.

Detroit got six-hit pitching from rookie John Hiller and homers from Dick McAuliffe, Bill Freehan and Eddie Mathews. The Tigers are in fourth place, 1½ games out.

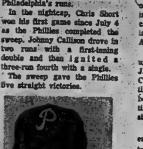
Bob Tillman drove in three runs for the Yankees in the first game, and Mel Stottlemyre, 13-10, was the winner. The Yanks scored on a passed ball and Bill Robinson's single to win the nightcap.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Juan Marichal, plagued by a rash of injuries this season, made his first appearance for San Francisco Giants Friday night since Aug. 1, and Atlanta Braves climbed all over him Friday night.

Marichal lasted just 4 2-3 innings and was tagged for 11 hits and four walks. He was charged with the loss in Atlanta's 8-4 victory, and it left his record at a rather unimpressive 14-10.

Elsewhere in the National League, streaking Philadelphia Phillies swept a twi-night doubleheader from Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0 and 6-2 to move into fourth place; Cincinnati Reds chaded Houston Astros 2-1 and Los Angeles Dodgers split with St. Louis Cardinals, winning 2-1 and then losing 4-1. Chicago's game at New York was rained out.



Woody Woodward and Bob Uecker triggered a pair of two-run innings for the Braves with consecutive singles in the second and fifth.

Phil Niekro benefitted from a 13-hit Atlanta attack and won his ninth game with a six-hitter.

Jim Bunning hurled his 37th career shutout and held Pittsburgh at six hits as the Phillies took the first game of the doubleheader. Johnny Briggs' seventh homer produced one of Philadelphia's runs.

In the nightcap, Chris Short won his first game since July 4 as the Phillies completed the sweep. Johnny Callison drove in two runs with a first-inning double and then ignited a three-run fourth with a single.

The sweep gave the Phillies five straight victories.

In the nightcap, Chris Short won his first game since July 4 as the Phillies completed the sweep. Johnny Callison drove in two runs with a first-inning double and then ignited a three-run fourth with a single.

The sweep gave the Phillies five straight victories.

Mel Queen throttled Houston on five hits until the eighth inning, and Ted Abernathy came out of the bullpen to finish up as Cincinnati shaded the Astros.

The Dodgers finally caught up with longtime nemesis Larry Jaster when they nipped the Cardinals in the first game of their doubleheader. Jaster had beaten Los Angeles six straight times—five of them consecutive shutouts last season.

Bill Singer, 9-4, won his seventh straight in the opener and touched off the Dodgers' winning rally with a sixth-inning double. Willie Davis followed with a triple for one run and then Lee Johnson's sacrifice fly brought Davis home with the tie-breaking run.

Orlando Cepeda's fourth-inning homer snapped a tie game in the nightcap and keyed the Cardinals to their victory.

Wimbleton Centre Court Used By Pros First Time

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Tennis professionals played on Wimbledon's centre court Friday for the first time.

Two former Wimbledon champions — Australia's Lew Hood and Rod Laver — were back at the scene of their old triumphs.

Laver, even more devastating than in his Wimbledon days, crushed Australia's Fred Stolle 6-4, 6-2.

Ken Rosewall, the little 32-year-old Australian, pulled out all his old magic — drops and lop shots — to defeat hardhitting Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., one of the juniors on the pro tour, scratched disaster route between careless smashes and volleys and lost to Andres Gimeno of Spain, 6-1, 6-2.

Hood, 32, outlasted Pancho Gonzales, 39, of Los Angeles, 3-6, 11-9, 6-4.

Junior Golf Championship Pits Polished Swing Against Brothers

TORONTO (CP)—Jay Paukkunnan of Fort Arthur will match his polished swing and cool nerves against two brothers today in the 36-hole final match-play round of the Canadian junior golf championship.

Paukkunnan plays against Doug Roxburgh, a 15-year-old while kid from Vancouver, whose brother, Bob, Doug says pro- he "keeps Doug in there."

Roxburgh, playing in his first Canadian championship, has been golfing less than three years. "But I play all year in Vancouver."

"He's good, but I talk to all his shots," said Bob Roxburgh after brother Doug downed Stephen Baumstyre of Winnipeg on the final hole of Friday's semi-final round.

Bob Roxburgh, 16, never leaves his brother's side on the course. He kneels behind him on the greens to help line up the putt and talks to him quietly as they walk down the fairways.

Paukkunnan, 18, is a cool-thinking veteran of three national tournaments.

A clutch golfer who never gives up, Paukkunnan proved his steadiness Friday by overcoming a three-hole deficit with three holes remaining to tie the match with a 30-foot birdie putt on the 18th green.

He then went on to beat Mike Mooney of Red Deer, Alta., in the second extra hole of the semi-final.

The 30-foot putt was the second of the day for Paukkunnan on the 18th. He was even with Peter Logan of Guelph after 17 holes of the morning round and won it with the clutch stroke.

Roxburgh defeated Doug Paistor of Toronto 3 and 1 in the morning round, while Mooney beat Richard Dennis of Liverpool, N.S., 1-70.

Baumstyre was scheduled to play Pete Oakley of Palm Church, Va., but the U.S. golfer arrived 15 minutes after tee-off time and was disqualified.

The Roxburgh-Baumstyre match was a see-saw battle. Roxburgh went 3-up on the fourth hole, but lost the next two.

He was 1-up after 16 holes, but his iron shot off the tee on the par-three 17th overshot the target and ended in the water.

He took a one-over-par five while Baumstyre got a par to even the match.

NO FORCED STUDY

TORONTO (CP)— University of Toronto's Trinity College will abandon a 115-year-old tradition and do away with compulsory religious education for the 700 students enrolled in its arts and science course.

Gurney's Lap Record Broken By Jim Clark

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Jim Clark of Scotland, world champion racing driver in 1963 and 1965, set an unofficial lap record of 1:32.9 during Friday's qualifying runs for the Canadian Grand Prix Sunday.

The present official record is 1:33.1, set by Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Cal., last year in a Lotus T70 car.

Clark's mark, however, will not go into the book because Mosport records must be set in actual competition.

Second fastest was Clark's Lotus Ford which was a Brabham driven by Denis Hulme of New Zealand with a time of 1:33.5.

Toronto driver Eppie Wietzes didn't get on to the track Friday as repairs to his Lotus Ford, damaged Thursday with Clark in the cockpit, were completed just as track officials signalled an end to the day's activities.

Clark and Gurney both hit the day's top speed with a clocking of 168 miles an hour at the top of the three-quarter-mile back stretch.

Gurney is driving an Eagle Climax, a car of his own design.

Qualifying laps will also be run today, with 18 drivers earning qualifications for the $100,000 in prize money.

The Formula 1 cars will race through 90 laps of the 2.459-mile Mosport track for a total 220 miles.

It is one of 11 races counting toward the world driving championship.

Test For Argos

Als Lineup Unchanged

MONTREAL (CP) — Twice-beaten Montreal Alouettes will stand pat with the lineup that lost 17-16 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats last week and hope to make the most of an expected defensive shuffle by Toronto Argonauts in tonight's Ale-Argos meet.

"We will go with the same team as last week but there's a chance I may use halfback Mike Gibbons," coach Kay Dalton of Alouettes said.

He said he is reluctant to change players even if they are available.

The 31-year-old 5-7 in the opening game against Argos in Toronto and dropped a 17-16 squeaker to the Tiezta the next week when three field goal attempts failed.

Meanwhile, an injury to defensive back Mike Wicklum may force Toronto to juggle its defence.

Wicklum suffered a bruised right leg during Argos' two games out west last week and is a doubtful starter.

If he is unable to play, linemer Dick Aldridge will likely move from his corner linebacker position to the defensive backfield where he was stationed last season.

Either Dick Abood or newcomer Ian McDonald will replace Aldridge at the linebacker spot. MacDonald was recently released by the Edmonton Eskimos, who acquired him in the Don Sutherin trade with Ottawa Roughriders.

Also on the Toronto scene, Joe Williams will not see action tonight due to an inflation of the price for his services. The Toronto Rifles of the Continental League locked up their price for Williams and Argonest him back to Rifles. The salting price was not released.

Dalton's decision to stand pat means George Sork will be at quarterback. Dave Lewis will be backup man and may also start on defence in place of defensive half Ron Woodward, who has a shoulder that disfeates easily.

Outdoor Tips and Tricks

BY BOB BLAIND

Fishing seasons are still in full swing and will be the best during the month of September.

Meanwhile Mr. Duck Hunter is busy getting ready for the season which opens the latter part of September.

Duck blinds are being located, decoys painted and duck boats, guns and gear readied.

This year, due to high water, has been a good breeding season for water fowl, in nearly all of eastern Ontario.

Not so in our western provinces, the breeding grounds of our water fowl for North and South America.

These rearing spots for most of the black, mallard, pintail and most species of puddle ducks were hard hit by the drought which persisted all summer in Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba.

We, in this part of the country will not feel the impact of this poor crop of ducks this season as we are in a different flyway but hunters in Pacific and Central flyway of migratory birds, in North and South America will find a scarcity of all puddle ducks normally using these flyway patterns.

This is the reason to come our bag limits cannot help but be reduced due to shortage of ducks.

This coming season is one to conserve and preserve our future duck hunting.

Here are a few does and don't's good hunters should follow;

Do not take more than your limit.

Do not shoot at ducks you cannot retrieve.

Do not waste ducks by shooting over decoys and wounding.

Do make all efforts to decoy ducks to good shooting range.

Do not kill ducks shot (if you don't like eating, your neighbor might).

Do use dog or boat to retrieve dead or wounded birds.

Do hunt at least 100 yards from duck blinds.

These are just a few rules to follow. I could go on all day but remember to do the best teacher and one must hunt a lot to learn to be a good duck hunter.

To me it is a game of outsmarting Mr. Duck and when this is done being skilful enough to shoot and kill clearly,

To Your Good Health

EEG Simple Way to Discover Tumor

Dear Dr. Molner: In a recent physical, my doctor told me to have a brain wave test. This was new to me, but I admit being ignorant on such subject.

The report came back good but it kept wondering about it. Just what would the test prove or disprove? — Mrs. L. J. D.

The brain wave, or EEG (electro-encephalogram) is a perfectly painless test, as you now know. It records for the brain pretty much what an electro-cardiogram records for the heart.

They electric currents are constantly flowing through the brain, potentials measured in millionths of a volt. (The same is true of the heart.)

The EEG, or brain wave test, amplifies and measures these very small electric impulses, the pattern of the rise and fall of voltages can tell a good deal that is very difficult to learn by other methods.

Not always the surgery will have a different brain wave pattern. Indeed, different types of epilepsy can be identified. In certain limited cases, some headaches have a distinctive pattern.

The presence of a brain tumor can be discovered and, to be determined. The space is true of other tissues — scar tissue or the like.

Then an EEG might be ordered for any number of symptoms, tremors, a tendency to convulsion, headaches and others, and the test in many instances will be of value by indicating what conditions do not exist, for sound medical examination depends in a substantial extent upon finding out what ailment the patient does not have to guide the doctor to the correct diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Molner: My married daughter has just been told by her doctor that her uterus is not in normal position. Will you explain what this means in regard to her health and possible future pregnancy?

She had a physical examination before she married to order to begin birth control pills, but was not advised of this condition then. Is it possible it was in normal position then? She has no pain at any time. — Mrs. D. D.

The uterus normally tilts forward, but any position other than this is not likely to interfere with pregnancy unless the tilting is extreme. It is difficult to predict with accuracy, however. If in the future there is difficulty in becoming pregnant, that would be time enough to consider whether surgery should be done about it.

Doubtless the uterus was in the same position at the time of birth. Some people use this vague "medical journal" guess-work to "prove" all sorts of her gynecological examination, but the doctor did not think the displacement significant enough to mention. Sometimes commenting on minor conditions does more harm than good.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told to avoid both sugar and artificial sweeteners, but I need sugar for energy. What can I use for sugar? — Y.N.

It is rare for anyone to have to avoid both sugar and the sweeteners, but if you do, you do. It may make things difficult to go without sweetening, but so far as the energy is concerned, carbohydrates — starchy foods for all kinds — will serve the purpose.

Note to Mrs. L. G.: I never heard of any such thing as he claims was "in the medical journal," and suggest that you ask which journal, and what things that aren't so.

Bosox Sign Harrelson

CHICAGO (AP)—Ken Harrelson, the first baseman fired earlier this week by owner Charles O. Finley of Kansas City Athletics, agreed to terms Friday night with Boston Red Sox.

Harrelson will be added to the Sox's 40-player roster immediately. To make room for him, Boston optioned pitcher Pete Charton outright to Pittsfield of the Eastern League.

The veteran first baseman will join the Red Sox in New York Monday.

Harrelson was released by Finley after criticizing the Athletics' owner's decision to fire Manager Alvin Dark. He was batting .272 for Kansas City.

MoreHomes Started This Year

OTTAWA (CP)—House builders are made starts on 14,985 new housing units in urban centres during July, about 2,300 fewer than in June but almost 50 per cent more than in July a year ago.

A report Friday by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. said the annual rate of starts represented by July construction was 151,000 units after adjustment to eliminate seasonal factors.

The comparable June rate was 170,000 units.

Actor Paul Muni, 71, Dies in California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Paul Muni, 71, whose dedication to perfection won him honors and fame as the portrayer of biographical roles, died Friday at his home in Montecito.

Word of his death came from Hollywood Cemetery, which was handling funeral arrangements.

The Austrian-born actor had been in poor health for some time.

His wife, Bella, was at his bedside. A nurse attributed death to Muni's heart.

Muni won an Academy Award in 1936 for his title role in The Story of Louis Pasteur.

In recent years the actor had been troubled by failing sight. He once caused removal of his left eye in 1955.

The funeral will be held Tuesday.

Muni devoted nearly 30 hours a day to work and study when filming a picture. His portrayals of Louis Pasteur and Emile Zola were preceded by painstaking research about the personality, appearances and mannerisms of the men.

His was an avid student of makeup and was considered a master of this art.

To learn his parts, Muni generally read his dialogue into a dictating machine. Then he would play and replay the recording until he knew it.

Canadian-made Starfighters End Up in Formosa and Spain

OTTAWA (CP)—Some Canadian-made Starfighter jet fighter-bombers are believed to have ended up in Nationalist China and Spain, informed defence sources said.

These planes are among 140 Starfighters produced at Canadair Ltd., Montreal, under a $200,000,000 arrangement made between Canada and the United States in the late 1950s for military aid programs to other countries.

The aircraft came off the assembly line between September, 1963, and October, 1965.

There is apparently a good deal of embarrassment in government departments about the present location of some of the 140 planes. No authority will be officially found on the subject.

Qualified sources say, however, that some of the planes were originally destined for Nationalist China and Spain under the U.S. military assistance programs and that there is no reason to believe they were not sent there.

One source said a "few" of the Starfighters are in Nationalist China.

Other countries involved in the program are Denmark, Norway, Greece and Turkey.

Of the $200,000,000 program, the U.S. put up $130,000,000 and Canada $50,000,00. Title to all the planes was vested in the U.S. in late 1961.

Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons May 13, 1964:

"An understanding was reached whereby the U.S., having title, would decide the allocation of the aircraft, taking into account Canadian views."

By that time the Cyprus crisis had erupted. Canada sent a peacekeeping force to Cyprus in March, 1964, and was reluctant that any of the Starfighters be sent to Greece or Turkey, longtime disputants over the future of Cyprus.

Mr. Hellyer added: "Arrangements have since been made for the total production of Starfighters to be divided into two categories: aircraft purchased in Canada for the U.S. military assistance programs, and aircraft produced for presentation to NATO countries as a joint Canada-U.S. program of assistance to NATO countries."

Such aircraft as have been delivered to date all fall into the former category.

"No decision has as yet been taken concerning the country which will receive Starfighter aircraft under a joint Canada-U.S. program of assistance to NATO countries."

Three Students Win Scholars

TWEED — Miss Lloyda Dene, an 18-year-old student at the Sharbot Lake High School, received word that she had won an Ontario scholarship by achieving over 80 per cent on eight credits in her Grade 13 examinations. Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dene of Mountain Grove, Ontario. She will attend Queen's University in September. She made the 80 per cent.

Patrick Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Kelly, Tweed, who will be attending Toronto University in September, topped his class with an average of 82.8 in eight subject credits in Grade 13, at the Tweed - Hungerford District High School.

Richard Whalen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Whalen, Tweed, was a close second with 81 in the eight subject credits. Richard will be entering Toronto University in September, and was a student in Grade 13, in the Tweed - Hungerford District High School this past term also.

Geologists Visit Farm Near Tweed

TWEED—A party of geologists from many countries of the world, and the forerunners of some 500 geologists who will meet at Queen's University, Kingston, August 31 to September 3, visited the farm of Harvey Hasty, R.R. 3 Tweed earlier this week.

This was part of a bus tour of the Canadian Shield country in Frontenac, Lennox and Addington and Hastings County. This party of some 50 persons, mostly European geologists, are on a 13-day field trip that will give them a chance to study Pre-Cambrian rock.

The trip will take them from Kingston to Sudbury to Val-d'Or, Quebec, to Montreal and back to Kingston.

The rock formation in the Clare River district was of sufficient interest to these noted geologists to warrant a visit here.

Union Wants Shipping Strike Mediator

MONTREAL (CP) — Leonard Red" McLaughlin, president of the striking Seafarers' International Union, Friday sent a telegram to Labor Minister Nicholson asking for appointment of a mediator to end the seafarers' dispute with Great Lakes shipping companies.

The telegram says Mr. McLaughlin has received "numerous appeals from shippers and various authorities" about the effects of the shipping tie-up and asks for the appointment "in the public interest".

It comes on the heels of statements about Thursday by John McGiffin, president of the Canadian Lake Carriers Association, who said: "There's no emergency for the 33 shipping companies involved as yet."

However, Mr. McLaughlin said Friday, "my desk is piling up with anguished cries of misery from people being hit by this strike."

The companies altogether have 181 ships operated by SIU crews. Three of these in Arctic waters will continue to operate throughout the strike under special agreement with the Canadian government.

Only Upper Lakes Shipping, a company with about 30 ships which fights with a different union, is not affected by the lake carrier tie-up.

The companies charge, the telegram said, complaints have come from the Toronto Board of Trade, Maritime grain exporters in Goederich, Ont., K. A. Powell grain company in Winnipeg and the Quebec and Ontario Transportation Co. of Montreal which ships coal to Toronto.

"We are advised by Mr. R. B. Boyd of Quebec-Hydro that more than 10,000 workers may be laid off unless the Hydro project at Manicouagan, Que., is able to obtain the delivery of cement by ship," the telegram says.

Meanwhile Friday reports from across Canada began to paint a gloomy view of the effects of the strike by 3,400 seafarers that began at noon, Aug. 17.

Reports that 300 elevator workers had been laid off for lack of work in Port Arthur, 100 in Fort William, 18 in Quebec City and an undetermined number in Sorel, Que., were added to the complaints of 1,900 marine officers and 4,000 ships' captains, mates and other officers left unemployed by the strike.

Mr. McGiffin, who is also president of Canada Steamship Lines, said that 850 longshoremen, hired by the company, had been sent home. "Seven hundred dock workers also were reported out of work in Quebec City.

In Montreal Ray Green, president of the Montreal teamsters' brotherhood said layoffs are expected soon to start affecting 6,000 teamsters working on the docks and on overland freight jobs.

In Ottawa earlier Friday, Mr. Nicholson told reporters the prospects of a settlement "are not too bright."

At the same time, President McLaughlin replied to Mr. McGiffin's claim that the shipping companies are prepared to wait until the shipping season ends, with "we can wait too, our men's morale is terrific."

The SIU is providing bed and board for about 140 union pickets and negotiators in ports along the strike-bound river system. It claims to have assets worth $3,000,000 — mostly in buildings — that can be converted to support the strike.

In Montreal, Gordon Anderson, assistant manager of the National Harbors Board here, said:

"If the grain business had been booming like it was last year at this time, the walkout would have been of very great importance.

"But its not booming and we have 18,000,000 bushels of grain in our Montreal elevators right now. That will hold us for a month," spokesman similarly reported little or no alterations in normal business patterns.

But higher up the Great Lakes system, the pinch was beginning to make itself felt.

S. E. Spencer, area manager for the CNR, said the number of cars entering the Lakehead carrying grain and ore for shipment has dropped from an average of 600 a day to 350.

Some 12 to 15 yard men in Port Arthur had had to be laid off.

"It's getting worse," he said. "And if things keep up there are going to be a lot more layoffs."

Small Nations 'More Human' Can Make World Better--Baron

MONTREAL (CP) — A European expert says Canada has distinct similarities, racial and otherwise, with the Benelux countries — Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Baron van Lynden, secretary-general of the Benelux economic union, also says that such countries as Canada and the Benelux nations are meeting closer together at Expo 67 than the major countries.

"We are more human," Baron van Lynden said in an interview of the Expo approach of the smaller and middle-size countries.

"We have the opportunity today to make a more human world and Expo enables every country human to think that they personally are making a better world."

The baron, 52, delivered an address on Benelux 1967 as Expo 67 celebrated the Benelux special day Friday. An official delegation attended from the three countries and Pierre Dupuy, Expo commissioner-general, gave a luncheon in honor of the visitors.

In area, the Benelux nations are less than one per cent the size of Canada, but together they have a total population of 22,000,000, the "most populated countries in the world," considering Canada's 20,000,000, Baron van Lynden said. Both geographical units are among the world's greatest trading.

Where Canada has the two main ancestral streams of English- and French-language groups, the Benelux countries have their counterpart of Dutch- and French-speaking peoples.

"Because they are different is what makes it all so interesting," said Baron van Lynden, adding that he is a Dutchman who has lived in Belgium for the last 10 years at his Brussels headquarters.

All attempts to link Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg failed through the centuries until governments-in-exile got together while the countries were in London during the Second World War.

The Benelux economic union became a going concern in 1948, 10 years ahead of the International, a service organization of male students sponsored by Kiwanis International. The programme opens Sunday with a series of committee sessions and ends Wednesday afternoon with the installation of a new executive board.

Building Graduate Schools Universities' Big Problem

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Ian McTaggart-Cowan of the University of British Columbia said Friday building and equipping graduate schools is the greatest single problem facing universities in Canada today.

Dr. McTaggart-Cowan, the university's dean of graduate studies, was speaking to conference delegates from the Canadian Federation of University Women, attending the four-day triennial convention here.

"We have been living almost parasitically off the highly developed world for our business, academic and government leaders' training," he said.

"The universities of Canada could absorb every one of the Ph.D.'s graduated from Canadian universities—and they'd still have to hire two-thirds of their faculties from outside.

"We're not coming within streets of meeting our own educational needs, and this leaves nothing for industry or for government."

In British Columbia alone, the three universities hired 284 new faculty members this year and granted just 84 doctorates, he said.

Dr. McTaggart-Cowan said graduate schools of advanced degrees are the innovators who create new jobs in the long run.

Earlier Friday, delegates adopted resolutions asking:

1. That a married woman have the right to an independent legal domicile;

2. That provinces prohibit marriages of persons under 16;

3. That provinces establish enquiries into the status of women in such fields as hiring and promotion practices, parental rights, domicile, taxation and property rights;

4. That the income Tax Act be changed to allow the deduction of housekeeper-babysitter's wages as a legitimate expense for either full-time or part-time employment;

5. That the department of Indian affairs set up programmes to increase secondary school attendance and attract teachers to the reserves;

6. That the federal government select a major increase in funds for research into the causes and problems of drug addiction and drug dependency.

Executives Will Help Poor Lands

OTTAWA (CP)—Top-flight Canadian executives will be given assignments to work in underdeveloped countries under a new voluntary organization now being formed, External Affairs Minister Martin announced Friday.

He said the first business and professional men will be sent this fall for short-term stints abroad.

Montreal businessman Claude Hebert has launched the Canadian Executive Service Overseas (CESO).

"He is supported by a board of directors drawn from the highest levels of Canadian companies and professions," Mr. Martin told the closing session of a two-day conference of teachers soon to take up external aid jobs overseas.

"CESO will undertake to provide senior company executives and professional people on relatively short-term assignments to give entrepreneurial advice and assistance in tackling some of the tough and complex development problems faced by industries and governments in the developing countries."

CESO has been formed as a non-profit corporation in co-operation with the Canadian University Service Overseas.

Mr. Martin said the first assignments will be in French-speaking and English-speaking countries of Africa.

Yugoslavs Hope Rivers Will Halt Army of Mice

ZAGREB, (AP) — Yugoslav farmers were preparing for their wheat harvest one day, the next day there was virtually nothing left to reap—the mice had destroyed the wheat overnight.

The mice have chewed up an estimated 90 per cent of the wheat, beans and potatoes in the Sunja area. Farmers complain that even cats won't challenge them.

The government recently announced crop damage has exceeded $400,000 across 9 to 10-mile front.

The unusually large number of mice has been blamed on the virtual extermination of martens and foxes, mice eaters.

Drinking Driver Biggest Threat

TORONTO (CP)—The drinking driver is the single greatest cause of death to others, delegates to the National Association of Coroners convention were told Friday.

Dr. Eric Campbell, medical director of the Traffic Injury Research Foundation of Canada, a non-profit organization formed three years ago to promote research into all aspects of motor vehicle deaths, said more than half the drivers who died in traffic accidents within six hours of being behind had varying degrees of alcohol in their blood.

He said a survey carried out in Ontario, Alberta and New Brunswick, which dealt with 652 deaths, of which 98 per cent had blood estimates, showed 67 per cent had no alcohol in their blood, 12 per cent had levels less than 0.10 per cent and 41 per cent 0.10 per cent or more.

"Two-thirds of single-vehicle accidents appear to involve alcohol," Dr. Campbell told the coroners. "And 57 per cent of all single-vehicle accidents appear to involve alcohol levels of 0.10 per cent or more."

Young Canadian Loses His Heart in Arctic

OSHAWA (CP)—When 23-year-old Ken Garvock of Oshawa went to the Canadian Arctic last fall as a member of the Company of Young Canadians, it was to help conquer the hardships of northern life.

Instead, he conquered the heart of a 18-year-old Eskimo girl he first saw when she was working in the Inuvik, N.W.T., hospital.

Sporting a diamond engagement ring, Florence Ashkina is now having her first glimpses of life in the south and she likes almost everything she sees.

Most fascinating was her first sight of television, Florence said in her letter Thursday to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Toronto itself had "too many lights, cars and people."

Before the two flew south last week, Florence had never been more than 100 miles from her hometown of Inuvik, a community of 2,200—700 Eskimos, 600 Indians, and government officials.

They arrived in Oshawa Monday to spend their holidays with Ken's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Garvock.

Marriage is still a while away.

The two plan to enroll at the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology at Edmonton where Florence, who has a Grade 11 education and wants to become a dietician, will study commercial cooking. Ken plans to take a three-year course in architectural technology.

The wedding will be in Inuvik, 150 miles inside the Arctic Circle where most native people keep dog teams, travel by sled and live from fishing at least a week.

Sea Route Opened

TOKYO (Reuters) — A Russian Freighter docked at Yokohama Friday after opening a new shipping route between Europe and the Far East through the Arctic Ocean. The ports from Hamburg, West Germany, was 12,000 miles and paved with 11,600 miles between Leodon and Yokohama via the Suez Canal.

Sarnia Archdeacon Assails Re-marriage for Divorced

OTTAWA (CP)—An Anglican priest told his church's general synod Friday night he would refuse to re-marry divorced persons as provided by a new marriage canon approved earlier in the week and would resign rather than have another clergyman perform the ceremony in his parish.

"If the officials at the marriage of a divorced person," said Archdeacon Alfred Abraham of Sarnia as the synod considered an amendment to the new marriage canon that would permit clergy to refuse for conscience reasons to re-marry divorced persons in the church.

The amendment also would permit bishops to assign another clergyman to perform the marriage of a divorced person in the parish of a priest who has refused.

Archdeacon Abraham predicted such a measure would result in the advent of "despicable marrying Sams" in the Anglican church.

"If I were a priest in such a situation by return mail a bishop would receive my resignation."

Rt. Rev. E. S. Reed, Bishop of Ottawa, supported the amendment—it did not come to a vote but will be dealt with next week.

He said that parishes belong as much to parishioners as they do to a rector and that they should have the right to use the new canon, which not only deals with divorce but with the whole field of Christian marriage.

Another amendment to the canon approved Friday would put Anglicans serving abroad under their home bishop for purposes of the canon. Commissions will be set up in each diocese—there are 28 in Canada—to hear applications from divorced persons for remarriage in the church.

Earlier Friday, the synod approved a resolution to ask the government to set up a research board to determine the effect of television on Canadian society. Some delegates also called on the church to move ahead in its use of modern communications.

Rt. Rev. G. P. Gower, Bishop of New Westminster, said Canadian churches of all denominations should work together in communications in the spirit of the ecumenical movement.

A resolution along that line later passed the synod which also decided to study the possibility of co-operating with other denominations in publishing a joint newspaper.

Dr. R. F. Blackhouse, professor of the philosophy of religion and Christian ethics at the University of Toronto, said it was useless to consider the positive aspects of television but there were negative considerations too.

He said television with its concentration of violence, lust and "delusionic communication of life" is promoting a philosophy of life that contradicts what the gospel says about human existence.

He was commissioned to design the city for "influential parties" in Japan who would like to float it in Tokyo Bay.

Expo Dome Designer Plans Floating City

MONTREAL (CP) — R. Buckminster Fuller, designer of the geodesic dome which houses the United States pavilion at Expo 67, said Friday he now is designing a floating tetrahedronal city that will rise out of the ocean like a mountain and support 1,000,000 residents.

"It's tetrahedron," Mr. Fuller said at a news conference, "is a four-sided triangle. Like a pyramid."

He was commissioned to design the city for "influential parties" in Japan who would like to float it in Tokyo Bay.

Sixteen Skydivers Perish in Lake Erie

HURON, Ohio (AP)—Searchers intensified their hunt today for 14 sky divers missing in Lake Erie, 8km, blustery winds and choppy waters hampered the search.

Of the 18 veteran sky divers who made Sunday's ill-fated jump from a converted B-25 bomber, only two were known to have survived.

Two bodies, recovered within half an hour of the jump, were being kept in a temporary morgue. Officials, meanwhile, tried to identify the owners of seven gloves, three chutes and four reserve chutes, the only items recovered from the lake.

Two sky divers escaped by staying on the plane for a second pass at higher altitude.

Helicopters, planes and an armada of coast guard and military and private boats that included an ocean - going log - Raw combed a 100-square mile area of the lake.

Nine civilian skin divers joined the search, probing the shallow 30- to 40-foot waters of the lake.

Coast Guard Lieut. Paul Pobter, who saw the multi-colored chutes descend through overcast skies into the lake Sunday at 4:30 p.m., said chances that the 14 missing jumpers survived the night in the 72-degree water were "slim".

Exactly how the 18 Ohio parachute-enthusiasts, most of whom had more than 100 jumps to their credit, missed their target by 12 miles was unknown.

"As far as I know, I was right where I was supposed to be," the pilot, Robert Karns, told Ohio Highway Patrolman John Shimp.

Shimp quoted Karns as saying he was flying by a radar fix furnished him by the Federal Aviation Agency tower at Hopkins International Airport in Cleveland and a Loran station at Amherst.

The divers were unprepared for the landing in water. None had floating equipment, the two survivors said. Each carried about 50 pounds of equipment.

Patricia C. Lowsabury of Akron—who had celebrated her wedding June 24, 1966, by sky diving with her husband—was found dead in the water.

"She loved sky diving," said her husband, Alvin.

Lowsabury, as from worker, had made the wedding sky dive with his bride. He quit jumping earlier this year after suffering his fourth broken leg.

"It hadn't been a month ago that Pat said I jumped into Cleveland Lake," Lowsabury said. Sky divers sometimes intentionally leap into water, but carry floating equipment in such cases.

The other known drowning victim was Dorsie Kitchen Jr., 33, also of Akron.

One of the missing, Michael Thiem of Springfield, had told friends before the jump that he didn't like the idea of going. I was too close to Lake Erie and he couldn't swim. He had them.

Winds were estimated at 35 miles an hour at 30,000 feet up.

"If they do get found in that water with parachutes on I don't imagine we will get too many of them alive," said highway Patrol Sgt. R. L. Schell.

After the 18 had jumped, Karns made another pass over the area and two other men—Jumpmasters Larry Hartman of Fairview Park and Allen Homestead of Oberlin, bailed out and landed safely at Vermilion Air Service field, near Wakeman, some 19 miles from the lake and the intended target area for all the divers.

Shimp said Karns told him "they had planned to make the second pass because two of the jumpers refused to jump from higher than 20,000 feet. They had special oxygen equipment."

Robert Lee Hoffman, the survivor, said: "I was shocked and flabbergasted to see that I was over the lake. We assumed we were over the field.

"As soon as I broke out of the clouds, I knew something was wrong," Coy added. "All I saw was water."

Huge waves were over my head and water was swishing into my mouth," he added. Coy said he stayed afloat by making an air pocket within his crash helmet.

Bernard Johnson, 30, of West Richfield, Ohio, the other survivor, said: "I was more fortunate. My chute canopy stayed inflated, acting like a life preserver." Johnson was making his 367th jump.

Wilson Will Announce Today Major Changes in His Cabinet

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson today hustled through a major shake-up of his ministers in a bid to beat the mounting political and economic challenges facing his Labor government.

Wilson arranged to announce up to about two dozen hirings, firings and promotions tonight in the most extensive reorganization of the leadership since Labor won power in October, 1964.

It seemed probable, however, that both Foreign Secretary George Brown and Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan will keep their jobs at least for the time being.

The clear purpose of this will be to demonstrate that no drastic changes are contemplated in Britain's foreign policy and that no devaluation is intended.

The Wilson government currently has several ling-size problems before it — the most important being the country's economic and fiscal difficulties, reflected in an unemployment total of nearly 600,000, the highest in 17 years.

In addition, Wilson has been trying behind the scenes to settle the festering dispute over the future of Rhodesia, where a white-minority government nearly two years ago sieged power in defiance of London's authority.

There has been much discontent within the government about the premier's evident readiness for a compromise on Britain's pledges to grant legal independence only to an African majority government.

At least three are expected to leave their cabinet posts. They are Michael Stewart, Minister for Economic Affairs and ruled No. 3 in the hierarchy; Douglas Jay, President of the Board of Trade, who has been lukewarm towards Britain's projected entry into the European Common Market, and Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden, who has been resisting suggestions for a compromise with the Rhodesian rebel Premier Ian Smith.

Five key members of Wilson's cabinet in recent months have

U.S. Plane Crashes

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — Two Americans were killed and two others seriously injured Sunday night when their light private aircraft crashed near this community 30 miles east of Toronto.

Dead are Dennis Neigendorf, 20, of Menomonee Falls, Wis., pilot of the fixed seater Mooney Mark 20, and a passenger Sandra Stokostese, 17, of Milwaukee, Wis.

In critical condition in hospital are James Weismueller, 17, of Thamesville, Wis., and Marlyn Murey of Milwaukee.

The plane was said to have been en route to London, Ont., from Montreal when it crashed on a farm.

Racing Fans Crawl Home, Forty Miles in Five Hours

TORONTO (CP)—Major arteries leading into Toronto vehicles returning from the vehicles returning frim the Grand Prix of Canada at Mosport, Ont., and from cottage and resort areas.

Cars carrying the majority of a crowd of almost 40,000 created the worst traffic jam in the six-year history of Mosport.

Many racing fans spent up to five hours crawling the 40 miles from Mosport to Toronto.

Sheikh Asks Army Take Over

ADEN (Reuters)—Sheikh Ali Mussid Al Babakri, current chairman of the South Arabian Federal Supreme Council (cabinet), has asked the South Arabian army to take over the administration of the eight-year-old 17-state federation, a federal government spokesman said today.

The spokesman quoted Sheikh Al Babakri, the federal minister of defence, as saying he took the decision because the majority of states in the South Arabian Federation no longer were under the control of the government.

"If the army refuses the invitation I will resign from the government," the spokesman quoted the minister as saying.

PC Director Resigns Over Delegate Selection

OTTAWA (CP)—Miss Laura G. Mann, an Ontario director of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, resigned today from the committee selecting delegates at large for the party's national leadership convention. She charged undemocratic selection in favor of one or two of the nine leadership candidates.

"I cannot condone your actions and will be no part of them," she said in a letter of resignation, dated Aug. 25, to convention co-chairman E. A. Goodman, a Toronto lawyer.

Mr. Goodman, Miss Mann, Ontario PC president Elmer Bell and Dr. Mae Spence, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., were the four member committee picking 90 delegates-at-large for the leadership contest Sept. 5-9. Dr. Spence is an Ontario director of the PC Association of Canada.

Miss Mann charges at a press conference, where she distributed copies of her letter to Mr. Goodman, that the Ontario selection committee held one preliminary meeting and never met again to make final decision on the 90 persons to be accredited as voting delegates at large.

Ontario also will have 440 voting delegates elected by riding associations and 126 ex officio voting delegates who hold offices in party organizations or are members of Parliament or of the Ontario legislature.

Viet Cong Shellings Continue Second Day

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong kept up their intensified mortar and rocket attacks for the second day today, hitting 16 U.S. marines, wounding 106 and destroying or damaging 12 helicopters.

The barrages against two U.S. bases in the northern part of South Vietnam followed a series of 12 mortar shellings up and down the country Sunday which killed 27 and wounded more than 300 persons, most of them civilians.

U.S. officials considered the attacks another Viet Cong effort to scare the South Vietnamese from voting in the presidential election next Sunday. It had been months since the Viet Cong made a co-ordinated effort like that of Sunday.

In the air war against North Vietnam, the U.S. command announced that last week matched the worst previous week for plane losses, with 15 down over the North. Two planes — an air force F-4 Phantom and an F-100 Supersabre — went down Saturday and only one of the four men aboard was rescued. A total of 23 flyers was reported missing during the week.

A delayed report from the command said U.S. B-52 bombers killed 11 South Vietnamese policemen last Monday in the southern half of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam. The command said the target area had been approval in advance by the South Vietnamese province chief and that all bombs hit in the approved area.

Viet Cong gunners struck today at a marine helicopter airstrip near Da Nang and at the base at Dong Ha, seven miles south of the DMZ. Four marines were killed, 30 were wounded, three helicopters were destroyed and nine were damaged at the airstrip, military spokesmen said. The attack at Dong Ho killed six marines and wounded 26, AP Correspondent Robert D. Ohman reported from Da Nang. He said 110,000 gallons of fuel were destroyed.

The Viet Cong used their heaviest weapons, 140-millimetre Soviet rocket simular to those used July 15 in an attack on Da Nang which killed eight marines, wounded 172 and wrecked 43 planes.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: More than an inch of rainfall will reported in many localities in southern Ontario in the last 24 hours as a slow moving weather disturbance moved across the lower Great Lakes. As this storm moves eastward out of the province skies will clear. Across the rest of Ontario it will be mostly sunny and warmer. Afternoon temperatures will range from around 56 in the north to the low 70s in the southern parties of the province. Prospects for Tuesday are for sunny warm weather in the south, but in the north cooler air will move in accompanied by clouds and showers.

Terrorists List Six Intended Victims

HONG KONG (AP)—Chinese terrorists today published a death list of six prominent anti-Communist Chinese the Communists said would be executed like radio comedian Lam Bun.

The list included Paul Tsin, secretary for Chinese affairs in the Hong Kong government, two legislative councillors, two newspaper executives and the chairman of a villiage elders' association. It was published in the terrorists' underground newspaper.

The 37-year-old comedian and his brother were turned into human torches last Thursday when terrorists bombed their car, doused them with kerosene, and then set them afire. Lam Bun died 30 hours later. His brother, 27, is near death.

Hong Kong police said a British army demolition expert was blown 200 feet down a cliff by a hidden bomb today, bringing the number of terrorist deaths in eight days to five. Earlier, today, a 39-year-old Chinese man died of injuries received in a bomb trap intended for police and army demolition squads.

Police said they would give protection to anyone who was threatened or who had reason to believe his life was in danger from terrorists.

Otherwise, Hong Kong enjoyed a peaceful weekend.

The border crossing at Man Kwan To reopened after two weeks and food trucks resumed normal travel from China. Food prices, up during the period when the border was closed, started to return to normal.

Rail traffic bringing food from the mainland still was disrupted because of the turbulent situation in the adjoining province of Kwangtung.

Boat in Tow Struck by Motor Car

TRENTON — It's not every day a motorist collides with a boat. But provincial police in Brighton say charges are pending against a U. S. tourist for doing just that.

Police say $185 damage was caused to a boat and trailer when struck from the rear by a car driven by 36-year-old Mrs. Enid Bush of Madison, Wisconsin about 8 p.m. Sunday.

The boat was drawn by a car driven by Ronald E. Baird, 40, of Trenton. Mr. Baird was stopped at the south side of the Murvey Canal Bridge at Carrying Place which was swinging to allow boats through passage.

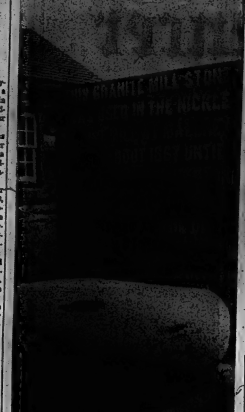
Mr. Baird was accompanied by three members of his family, and Mr. Bush by his wife. No injuries resulted from the mishap.

Policy say the Bush vehicle failed to stop, struck the rear of the boat, and caressed into a guard rail. Damage to the car is estimated at $500.

Heart Attack Kills Driver At Wheel

PICTON (Staff) — Three accidents kept Picton OPP busy over the weekend.

Emerson A. McClennon 54, of 11 Spring St. Picton, died of a heart attack while driving his car early Saturday morning near the junction of County Road 1 (Scoharie St.) and 14 Highway. The accident which occurred at 2.05 a.m. also involved his wife, 56 year-old Hazel McClennon, who sustained minor injuries, was taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital and released.



It is alleged that following the attack McClennon's car left the road and crashed into a hydro pole.

At 9.30 p.m. Friday 18-year-old Elaine Anne Yeates of 141 William St., Belleville was injured when the 1967 Volkswagen she was driving left the road and rolled over. The accident occurred on County Road 13 between Cherry Valley and the Orchid Provincial Park. Charges have been laid say police against Miss Yeates, who was alone in the car at the time of the accident.

At 12.30 a.m. Saturday, also on County Road 13, a 17 year old Brian William Norton of Cherry Valley was involved in an accident while completely demolished his 1956 Oldsmobile and sent him to County Hospital with injuries. He sustained a fractured jaw, broken ribs, facial lacerations and multiple bruises as a result of the one-car accident. Charges are also being laid by Picton OPP against Norton, who was alone in the car at the time of the accident.

Fire Officials Prepare For Prevention Week

Although the official Fire Prevention Week is over a month away, already the fire officials in this area are beginning their Fire Prevention Campaign.

This year literature will be sent to homes in the Belleville area, the first time the Fire Department has done so.

The magazines contain statistics for the past ten years on damages resulting from fires, lists of fire hazards and how to prevent them and other general facts on fires and fire department.

The Fire Department is, at present, engaged in an extensive fire inspection program. The program is designed primarily to locate fire hazards and then record them. The figures form statistics which are used to stimulate legislation concerning fire prevention rules and laws.

As well, the inspections acquaint fire fighters with specific hazards in specific buildings so that they may be changed and controlled.

The inspections also provide good public relations. They supply the public with a knowledge of what the fire department is doing and what it is trying to do.

The inspectors inform the public of the specific area in which they will commence their investigations. This results in a general clean-up on the part of the private citizen.

All types of hazards are inspected, heating, electricity, and storage combustibles.

Buildings in which invalids reside are noted and recorded so that the fire department is aware of a potential rescue if a fire should break out.

Home inspections last all summer, as long as favorable weather remains. Factories and industrial buildings are inspected at least twice a year.

Before and during Fire Prevention Week the fire department and other fire officials visit various associations and schools to speak and inform the public of fire fighting hazards and developments.

Drills are practised constantly, often under the watchful eyes of the fire inspectors, in schools and other public buildings, as a prevention for innumerable fire fatalities.

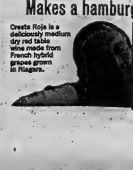
Canning Crops In Prime Shape Says Report

TWEED — While an all-day rain would benefit parched pasture land in this area, farmers generally are not complaining. Recent reports from the farm front indicate things are coming up roses in various sectors.

Yield and quality of the grain crop is above average; hay was good while the second alfalfa crop is reported excellent thanks to heavy rains earlier this summer.



Haying was a long-drawn process this year, since harvesting an extra-heavy crop was hampered by rainy weather.

Canning crops, particularly sweet corn, also is in prime shape.

ANAF News

Last week, the club was honored to welcome Cde. Les Howell-Harries, past president of unit 128, London, East. Passing through Belleville on his holidays he decided to visit the local unit and was quite impressed with the facilities and decorum. Being an old Naval veteran, he was quite impressed with the Naval corner containing the Memorial Plaque to the men and ships lost during the war that was presented for safe keeping by the Quinte Naval veterans when they disbanded, together with large photos of the Chiefs of Staff of the services when the war ended. He stated that he was very pleased at the hospitality shown him during his short stay and cordially invited any members who visit London to enjoy the same hospitality at Unit 128.

Cde. A. Revoy is still at the Hotel Dieu Hospital at Kingston and Cde. W. Brenton has been released from the Trenton Hospital and is resting at home although still using crutches.

The audiorium was a bit of a noisy place last Saturday as sports chairman, Russ Bland, entertained the youngsters who comprised the members of the pee wee team sponsored by the Duke of Edinburgh Unit. They were pretty well filled up on hot dogs, ice cream and soft drinks and through the courtesy of the Bell Telephone Company were shown several war films shown by projectionist Al Bodling. The party was greatly enjoyed by the youngsters who all seemed to be having a great time.

While on the subject of sports, Cde. Russ has received confirmation of the date for the annual trek to those brawn tiltin' Leaders at Trenton, Ontario. Always a wonderful time is had by all so watch the notice board for when reservations are being available for the bus. The date of the battles for supremacy will be Saturday, Sept. 30th so get practising, Comrades, they are sure tough to beat in their own ballyards.

Reserve Sunday, Sept. 10th for the unveiling of the Hast. and P.E.R. Memorial and pay your respects to the boys who stayed in a small plot of ground, that will be forever Canada.

Drinking Probed

WASHINGTON (CP) — The closely watched row, provoked off on a spree is going to be the focus of a three-year U.S. research program costing more than $300,000.

Male volunteers aged 30 to 45 — "with a five-year history of spree drinking" will be the backbone of the study conducted at Boston, says the National Institute of Mental Health.

The emphasis will be on behavior before, during and after inebriation.

Husband Charged in Death

PICTON — A Toronto man is in Prince Edward County Jail today awaiting court appearance Wednesday on a charge of manslaughter in the death of his wife.

James Wesley Herbert, 45, was arrested Saturday by Toronto police — six days after police were first called to a house near Great Point, south of here, where his wife, Gladys, 40, was found dead.

Police said she had head injuries.

The Herberts had been vacationing at the cottage with several of their children.

Police were called to the cottage early August 20 and started investigations that lasted several days as people were questioned locally and in Toronto.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in Toronto and a warrant for Herbert's arrest later given Metropolitan police who handed him over to OPP officers from here Saturday.

His first court appearance will be for remand by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Historical Society Will Tour Counties

TWEED — Plans are being made by the members of the Hastings County Historical Society, for a color tour of Hastings and Lennox and Addington Counties, to view historical sites and the autumn colors, on either Sunday, September 24th, or Sunday, October 1st, depending on the availability of the rented buses.

The tentative plans are: the buses will leave the museum in Belleville at 9.00 a.m. and will first proceed to Tweed, by way of country roads, Madoc, Eldorado, where the party will visit the Richardson Gold Mine, the mill at L'Amable, the museum at Bancroft, the Craigmont old dam and historical mill at Denbigh, Bon Echo Provincial Park, Flinton, Tamworth, Marlbank and then back to Belleville. The full day trip will be the Historical Society's annual tour.

Last year the members visited Black Creek Pioneer Village, near Toronto and the previous year, they visited Perth Museum.

The tour will be open to the public, and arrangements may be made for tickets by contacting the Hastings County Museum, Church Street, Belleville, Ontario.

MRS. BILLIE HERRINGTON (R. R. 1, Springbrook)

Following a brief illness, Mrs. Pearl Herrington of R. R. 1, Springbrook died Saturday in Peterborough Civic Hospital. She was in her 79th year.

Mrs. Herrington was born at Madoc and had lived in the Springbrook district for the past six months and attended the Springbrook church.

Predeceased by her husband Billis Herrington she is survived by four sons, Harwood of Belleville, I. V. Herrington of Madoc, Murney Herrington of Belleville and Malcolme Herrington of Barrieficld.

The funeral will be held Tues day from the Duffin - Hoefs Funeral Home at Stirling with interment in Mount Nebo Cemetery.

CLINTON BORDEN ELLIOTT (Demorsele)

The funeral service for the late Clinton Borden Elliott was held in the John R. Bush Funeral Home in Belleville, on Thursday, August 24. Officiating was the Rev. Alfred F. Dowdall of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Demorsele, a family friend.

The bearers were: Herman Leaber and Herbert Bruce of Napanee; Alec McAlister of Kingston; Glen Lothean of Foxboro; Melville Hill of R.R. No. 1, Deseronto; and his nephew and namesake, Clinton Robert Borden Hill of R.R. No. 1, Sesley.

Interment was in the family plot at Albury Cemetery in Prince Edward.

The late Borden Elliott was born in Shannonville 84 years ago, the son of William D. Elliott and his late wife, who was Maude Wilson prior to her marriage. With his parents he lived there and in Belleville before going to Belleville when seven years old. Here, in 1936, he married Lena Marjorie Ball, and he continued his employment with the W. W. Weaver Company there until his wife was engaged as a teacher on the Tyendinaga Reserve. They have since lived in the teacherage in that area, and he was employed first by Vandervoort Hardware and then by Wm. T. Ellis Company as a salesman for appliances.

Two years ago illness forced his retirement and he very found to have cancer of the throat. A series of operations followed and finally cut short his life, but eventually death came to him in his sleep Tuesday, August 22nd, in the Kingston General Hospital.

His work had brought him many friends and acquaintances. His kindness of heart and his cheerfulness in the indomitable spirit throughout his illness had brought him many friends. His continuing whatever activity he could until the last moment, even driving the car himself the day he was last admitted to hospital two weeks before his death. He and Mrs. Elliott loved baking, and his hobby was making bird houses.

He is survived by his father of R.R. No. 4, Brighton; his wife; his brothers Earle W. of Belleville, and Delbert of Ancaster, and their three sisters and by two cousins in Napanee, Mrs. Ella Closs of Napanee, St., Napanee, and Mrs. James Wilson of a local nursing home.

IN MEMORIAM

FERGUSON — In memory of a dear husband and Bestman Fred Ferguson who passed away August 28, 1966.

I met a friend with a heart of gold,
He was always willing to help the needy untold,
Without reward he fell asleep,
With only memory for me to keep.
Now he is gone and I am left to grieve,
But I know I'll see him in the world unclothed.
—Loving memory by his wife Keitha.

FERGUSON — In loving memory of our dear husband and father Fred Ferguson who passed away August 28, 1966.

Sadly missed, gone, never forgotten,
Two years ago today,
Your memory we'll treasure,
You suddenly passed away,
No one knows the heartache,
No one knows the pain,
We never could have said goodbye,
For then we'd not see you again,
Peace God just take a message,
To dear Dad,
Tell him we miss him more than ever,
And give him a kiss,
From Mother, Sandra, Ron and Betty and the grandchildren.

GILLARD — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Percy Orland who passed away August 28, 1965.

Sadly missed by us who loved him,
His lost but gone forever,
We think of him in memory,
And will forever treasure,
His memory dear we have with us,
Sacrifice and sun-to-turn,
Served Belleville and country well.

Red Guards Beat Greek Ship's Crew

LONDON (Reuters) — Chinese Red Guards have broken up every crewman of a Greek freighter anchored in Shanghai, Moscow radio reported today.

It said the ship's captain had torn up his contract with the Chinese and asked to be allowed to leave the Soviet Asian port of Nachodka where he asked for medical aid for himself and several of his crew.

About 200 Red Guards attacked the ship after the captain asked the Shanghai authorities to enforce order among fighting longshoremen, according to the radio's correspondent.

The broadcast, which gave no date for the reported incident, said the freighter was hired by the Chinese to ferry cargoes between China and foreign ports. The vessel's name could not be made out clearly in the broadcast monitored here.

All Saved As Plane Ditched

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP)—Some swam, others clung to the wing until boats arrived, but within minutes of 14 persons aboard a commercial airliner which ditched Sunday night in the Atlantic stood wet but safe on shore.

The 2½-engine Lockheed Electra, owned by Provincetown-Boston Airlines Inc. was flying from Provincetown to Boston, 40 miles away, when trouble developed in the right engine.

Pilot Edward Hallowell, 38, of Naples, Fla., said he ditched the plane about 30 miles south of Boston.

"The pilot really did a hell of a job," said an eyewitness.

The plane stayed afloat for about eight minutes, giving summer residents with small boats time to pluck five non-swimming passengers from the left wing before it sank.

Five others were picked up in the water as they swam toward shore and four others reached the beach without help.

It's Steel on Schedule

Time has not been wasted at the Highway 401 site of Superior Electric. Steel framework has sprung up in the past few weeks as work goes on schedule to close in the plant before cold weather arrives. Initial estimates call for up to 100 employees at the northeast end plant.

Scottish Dictionary Progresses

EDINBURGH (AP) — Scotland's first "national dictionary" has reached the letter R in the seventh of 10 anticipated volumes. It has taken 38 years to get there. The work will not be completed for another nine years.

Many of the words and phrases have never been committed to paper before. They were passed from generation to generation by word o' mouth, as the Highlanders say. It means word of mouth. Some of the children still use this talk at home and sing-song rhymes.

Sixty years ago, Sir William Craigie, a distinguished scholar and lexicographer, came up with the idea that Scottish words, ballads, legends and traditions should be collected. A committee was formed under Dr. William Grant to undertake the task. The first volume was published in 1929 with Grant as editor. When Grant died in 1946, the job was taken over by Dr. David Murison, the present editor.

Financial help came from the Carnegie Trust, the Scottish universities and local government bodies. There are contributors in many parts of the world. Among them are scores of Robert Burns clubs and Scottish societies.

The slow progress and passing years have brought problems. The enthusiasts who launched the work have gone and it is harder to find qualified successors in the task of reading and collecting current usage.

Eight years ago a Scots professor remarked that every year saw fewer Scots-speaking informants and fewer of the traditional positions of many colloquial uses.

The dictionary aims at giving a complete account of Scottish words used since 1700.

In the newly published section, for example, the word "peat, under its various meanings, takes 14 pages.

Many a famous Scot was born in a but and ben. The dictionary explains that a farmhouse or cottage in which the outside door opened into a room called the but, from which people passed by another door into the interior room or ben. Today in modern houses the but is generally the kitchen and the ben the parlor, the two being separated by a passage.

Troops Must Slim

COLOGNE (AP)—Many soldiers in the West German army are too fat, says Dr. Sven Gohlert. He says the average soldier eats 4,000 calories a day—too much for instructors, officers and clerks. Young men in training might need 4,000 calories, Dr. Gunther said, but they would "probably be grateful for an improvement in quality and a reduction in the now visit village wells to quantity of food."

Annual Back to School Fever Reflected in Daily Sales Increases

School days are getting close with more than 10,000 Belleville students slated to return to the classrooms after the Labor Day weekend.

The younger pupils are probably impatient to get back to the books while older students try to forget about the fast opening date.

Parents in the Quinte area are out shopping for back to school supplies these days. Local businessmen say sales are increasing daily.

Clothing is a major portion of the back to school expenditures with many mothers choosing this time of year to buy fall outfits. The teenagers also make the changeover in clothing at the start of the school year.

The school supply business also comes in for a boom period at the beginning of the school year. Notebooks, pens, pencils and other miscellaneous school supplies are a must for everyone from the five-year-old to those entering their final year of secondary school.

This is also the time for mothers to clean up last year's fall clothing with a cleaning job at one of the local dry cleaners. Business is really pick-up during this back to school period," one of the local dry-cleaners said yesterday.

Back to school days are days when people start thinking about remaking that extra room into a study and local contractors think a lot of this type of work will be done this fall.

School officials are making preparations for the influx of students. New out of town teachers are arriving in the city daily and last year's staffs are returning from summer vacations.

For many working mothers baby-sitters cease to be a problem with the arrival of school days.

Horoscope Guide Used To Buy Dog

LONDON (AP) — Every dog has his day, so study a dog's horoscope before you buy.

If you're a Leo, don't purchase a Taurus type. If you're a Scorpio, stay clear of mutts born under Capricorn.

But how does man read a dog's horoscope?

Well, what you do, man, is take a squint at The Dog's Horoscope Book, just published by Arlington Press.

"I wrote it on the theory of knowing the dog's birthday," explained author Elizabeth Trevillian. "Every prospective dog owner should also know the birthday of the dog he's buying."

Here are some of her prognostications by constellations:

Gemini — May 21 - June 20: Excitable dogs. Eternal puppies, intelligent but over - fond of variety. Cat-chasing and pill-tow-destroying are not alms to them, more part of life. Best owners—Leo, Aquarius.

Aries — March 21 - April 20: The me-first breed, devoted to getting ahead. Whether they're after tree trunks or dog biscuits, they will drive you mad in their pell-mell rush to be top dogs. Best owners—Leo and Sagittarius.

Virgo — Aug. 23 - Sept. 22: Essentially a pet. Loving authority, loath to sit on your lap, utterly adaptable, and so keen to help that the morning paper will disintegrate from his dribbling enthusiasm. Best owners —Taurus, Capricorn.

Miss Trevillian is 25, lives in the Wiltshire village of Castle Combe and loves dogs. She and her doggies are on the right horoscope alignment.

Man Has Plan to Cut Car Deaths

TORONTO (CP)—A 54-year-old Greek-American says he has spent $11,000 during the last 10 years developing a device he says makers in the U.S. and Canada on a plan he feels can eliminate 90 per cent of highway deaths.

Nicholas Demetry said in an interview he has crossed the continent four times trying to gain acceptance for his National Safety Zone and Speed Control Plan. But he claims so far he says has been called a nuisance and a nut and has sometimes been chased from car broadcasting stations and newspaper offices in the U.S.

His plan calls for a push-button dashboard device that would control the speed of cars in various speed zones. It would also include five different-colored lights on the front and back of cars and the use of several colors in marking speed zones and speed limit signs.

Mr. Demetry has written to every U.S. president since Eisenhower and to the governor of every state.

"Perhaps some day I will find a man of national stature who will endorse my plan," he says. "Then we can alleviate this highway slaughter. That's what I dream of."

Martin Says Will Stay In NORAD

TORONTO (CP) — Canada will continue to participate in both NORAD and NATO, External Affairs Minister Martin said Saturday in an apparent reply to suggestions earlier this month by Dalton Camp, Progressive Conservative party president, that Canada withdraw from both bodies.

Mr. Martin was speaking at the Canadian National Exhibition International Day luncheon.

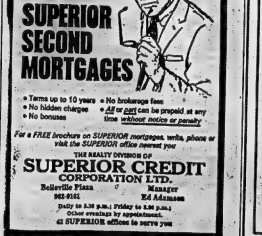
He discounted fears that participation in the North American Air Defence Command would commit Canada to any future U.S. plans for an anti-ballistic-missile defence network.

At a news conference earlier, Mr. Martin said Canada does not consider the situation in Vietnam Canada, but that draft status does not enter into the evaluation of landed immigrant applications.

Toronto City Hall Crowded

TORONTO (CP)—A documentary film calls Toronto's new city hall the world's most exciting building. A Swiss art and social historian, Siegfried Giedion, names it the first civic centre worthy of the name.

But the 2,630 men and women who work there find it has its drawbacks.



There is a serious space problem in the twin, curved towers with the spherical council chamber between them. The 10-per-cent space allowance made in the plans 10 years ago for future expansion is already used up less than two years after the building opened.

Elevator service is so slow that some department heads are reported to have ordered employees to stay in the office rather than take the long trip to the basement cafeteria.

Harold Wrightman, business agent for Local 70 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, says he has heard of female workers getting ill each from the dry air in the building.

Harry Rogers, city property commissioner, spends $1,537,000 yearly to maintain the building.

He says it could use four times as many elevators. Some departments have claimed a claim a messenger up to 20 minutes to reach one office lower from the other.

Marathon Swimmer Latest Of Eccentric Expo Arrivals

MONTREAL (CP)—A swimming mathematics teacher from Pennsylvania strolled into Expo 67 Sunday night, joining the swelling ranks of travellers who have arrived by eccentric means.

Russell Chaffee, 40, swam most of the way from Watkins Glen, N.Y.—he estimated the distance at 400 miles—in a three-week marathon, arriving with strength to spare.

"Yes, in good shape," he assured a reporter after climbing from the St. Lawrence river at the Expo Marina, which shelters a luxurious-looking array of yachts. He smiled away the "the pain of milk I usually take on these occasions."

Chaffee's arrival hardly raised an eyebrow among Expo personnel who have seen visitors come, sometimes in their thousands for miles away, by canoe, bicycle, "model-T Ford, side, roller skates and Chinese junk.

Californian Gordon Young, 43, pedalled his bicycle into Expo Saturday night 30 pounds lighter than when he left his West Coast home not still hitting the 200 pounds mark.

The rich and powerful and poor throng to Expo. Nearly 300 underprivileged children from Washington, D.C., were to start Monday in a combined effort launched by Montreal's Anglican diocese.

A group of 43 summer campers was given an exclusive look for girls in Vermont, meanwhile, ended a two-o-one-h French-language program by visiting bilingual Expo.

The Shah of Iran, whose eldest is "thing of hugs," completed a three-day unofficial visit to Expo and Montreal Sunday night.

Chaffee, of Bayes, Pa., said he regretted only one thing about his long swim—he arrived too late for a Wednesday conference of the National Council of Mathematics Teachers that he had planned to attend.

The powerfully-built swimmer's ordeal began Aug. 7 and his route took him through Lake Ontario and down the St. Lawrence Seaway to the Expo site.

"My longest previous swim was 43 miles," Chaffee said.

The swimming was not handled by his wife, Phyllis, and three children. He was accompanied on a canoe by his friend, 18-year-old Tom Burton.

The 224-pounder confided with a smile that he first took up swimming as physical therapy for a number of ailments including high blood pressure and "a nervous system."

"I feel great now," he said.

been under close scrutiny for the way in which they have been carrying out their jobs:

Callaghan, whose tough economic recovery program remains to be fulfilled, has let it be known he wants to be foreign secretary.

Brown, whose unorthodox personal behaviour sometimes has irked even friendly colleagues, has suggested he might quit politics rather than give up a job he enjoys.

Defence Minister Healey, whose policies of military retrenchment have angered the opposition Conservative Party and some service leaders also would like to foreign secretary.

Richard Crossman, leader in the commons whose plans for reforming procedures of Parliament have aroused controversy, would be more than content with Stewart's job if he cannot take over from Brown or Callaghan.

Home Secretary Jenkins, who is sometimes spoken of as a possible successor to Wilson, might take over from Stewart.

In addition to the switches within the cabinet itself, informants said several consequential changes will be announced in the middle and lower echelons of government.

In general, Wilson's intention seems to be to inject new blood into ministerial ranks in the hope of giving his team new zest and a new look.

Madoc Bypass Paving To Be Done in 10 Days

The paving contract for the No. 7 highway bypass at Madoc is expected to be completed in another week or 10 days, but the department of highways district office at Kingston has not so definite date for the 20-mile stretch of new highway.

District Engineer E. A. Smith said all arrangements such as highway signs and shouldering would have to be completed before the bypass was opened for traffic. However, he said the bypass would be opened sometime in September.

"Slap" signs on No. 62 highway and Madoc will be moved to the bypass, and also the No. 7 route through Madoc village to the junctions with the bypass.

Also included in the contract was the reconstruction on No. 62 at Bannockburn, construction of curbs and resurfacing. This work has been completed.

A McFarland spokesman said today that paving on the Madoc bypass would be completed in a week or ten days".

Stiff Upper Lip

Strange are the delicate shades of diplomatic conduct. For instance, declare a couple of Russians incommunicado because they have been engaging in espionage (as has happened in Ottawa on one or two occasions over the past few years) and Moscow, to save face, inevitably would retaliate by sending home a like number of Canadians on some pretext or other.

Or consider those masters of diplomatic etiquette — the British — and the difficulties they are experiencing these days with the Chinese, and one wonders how they can come to apologize to Peking under any circumstances.

Yet that is what has occurred. The apology has nothing to do with the sacking of the British mission in Peking, or the attack on charge d'affaires Donald Hopson. Indeed, Chinese Red Guards had attempted to wring apologies from Hopson and his staff to compensate for the arrest of Chinese communist agitators in Hong Kong, but the Britons would have none of it and preferred to run the gauntlet of the mob in escaping from the burning mission than to bow their heads and admit any error.

No, the apology related to another incident altogether — and since the British apparently did err in this case they had no option under diplomatic conduct but to own up. The occurrence was violation of Chinese air space last month by British helicopters from Hong Kong.

The ordeal of Hopson and his staff recalls the similar pressure imposed on Soviet families flying home from China some months ago. Hopson was at the airport when Red Guards made departing women and children from the Soviet embassy kneel before posters of Mao Tse-tung. When they began beating the Russian women with pamphlets of Mao's thoughts, Hopson stepped in, shielding the women until they reached the aircraft.

The "Mod" Generation

Two things lacking in many young people today are good manners — basically a concern for others — and an ability to communicate properly with their fellow man.

Deploring the calibre of Grade 12 students seeking summer employment, The Calgary Albertan notes that of all the standard subjects taught in high schools English is perhaps the most important and the most often neglected.

"Hundreds of young people," says the paper, "literally talk themselves out of the job of their choice because they have never learned to communicate. Their deportment is atrocious, manuscript which has much to be edited, and, worst of all, they lack the ability to express themselves clearly."

Today more than ever it is "square" for young people to hold themselves erect, look a person in the eye when talking with others, walk in a manner other than a shuffle, or generally give an impression of purposefulness.

Sloppy clothes and a languid air (carried to the extreme by the hippie fraternity) are reflected by many youngsters. In the offices of the personnel managers such an image, even if they are formally dressed for the occasion, leaves a poor impression.

Perhaps this is one reason why Canada is not turning out many well-trained young people as industry for example would like.

Ottawa Links

Adequate road links with Ottawa are long overdue. The existing highways to Ottawa from the rest of the province certainly are not of the calibre needed to serve a capital city. They are narrow, twisting and often bumpy — and in winter time leave little margin for driver error.

Now comes word that a four-lane highway linking Highway 401 with the capital is in the engineering stage. Ontario Highways Minister George Gomme said in Smiths Falls the other day that the route linking 401 with Ottawa will be named Highway 416. The minister added that his department was already buying property along the right-of-way.

Better late than never — but it has always been a source of wonderment that Canada's capital city for so long should have been left out in the cold, not only where entire freeways are concerned, but also with regard to rail links.

Even now there is no train out of Ottawa on a Saturday night for anyone living in Belleville wanting to visit the city for the day only.

Historic Churches Symbolic of Faith of the Pioneers

Royal Bank of Canada Monthly Letter
(Third of a Series)

The pioneers paid great attention in founding their communities, and their church buildings stand as memorials to their piety.

At Hamilton, Ont., St. James' is the oldest non-conformist, non - denominational church building in Canada, built in 1795. The grandson of one of its clergymen became Archbishop of Canterbury. Near by is a memorial to the grandmother of John Howard Payne, who wrote those Sweet Home lyrics. Edward's Church, at Cannestport, erected by the Loyalists in 1792, has many relics.

In Montreal, Notre Dame de Bon Secours (the Church of the Sailors) was founded in 1657. Damaged by two fires, the church was replaced by the present building in 1772. Quebec City has many ancient church buildings, but of special interest is Notre Dame des Victoires, erected in 1688 near the site of Champlain's original house.

The original mission founded on the site of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, in 1866, is now a museum. The English Mission of the Church of England, in Saskatchewan, built in 1350 of logs cut locally and partly brought from England, is still in use.

Attracting scores of thousands of visitors every year, the restored pioneer village across Canada are one most popular link with our past.

In those villages history drops its textbook dryness and reveals itself not as a scholarly record of political struggle and economic development but as the story of people.

Fort Royal, Habitation, in Nova Scotia, has been restored in accord with Champlain's plan for the original of 1606. Visitors enter a room furnished as it was when Marc Lescarbot sat there writing a play in 1606, the first drama ever presented in North America, and the community room, where Champlain instituted the Order of the Good Time. Chambly Village, near Montreal, is part of the seigniory granted to Jacques de Chambly in 1672. In it are St. Robert house, built in 1760, the Malgaret house, built of four-inch-thick logs, a merchant's store, frame of hand-hewn timber, and the Lemoyne house, built on its present site in 1775.

Upper Canada Village, near Morrisburg, Ontario, is a living museum portraying the evolution of life in the province from 1785 to 1890. More than forty buildings, many of them brought here from the seven villages now flooded by the St. Lawrence power and power projects, have been refurnished with authentic furniture of their time. Among the houses is one that is truly historical: built before 1785, it was the residence of John Graves Simcoe, the first governor of Upper Canada. Around this fireplace he met with the five members of his executive in 1792 and hammered out the institution of Civil Government here, too, are: a Glengarry log cabin, immortalized in stories by Ralph Connor and Jean Graham; an early pioneer log structure and the other brought on trucks from Monkshire, one of the Eastern Townships.

Near by is an imaginative, and beautiful contrast to the pioneers. Before their chosen spots were flooded, burial stones were removed. Stones and bricks from the demolished buildings in the valley were brought to this place and used to build ornamental garden courts. The gravestones were set into the walls.

Perhaps the most crumbling stone-work beside the River Nye marked the site of Sainte-Marie until a few years ago. In 1940, the Jesuit Order acquired the property and sponsored archaeological investigations. In 1944 the government of Ontario began reconstruction of the outlines. The work is not finished yet. A spoonful at a time is revealing the mouldering remains of the palisade and buildings. Today the visitor sees many half-log cabins faithfully reproduced.

There are other historical villages in Canada including Pioneer, Muskoka, Jordan, Kitchener, Stockton, St. Joseph Island and Black Creek.

On a still more distant scale Calgary, Alberta, has been reconstructed a prairie settlement of the 1870's. Here the Canadian Pacific have been brought here and re-erected — a North West Mounted Police barracks, a smithy, a ranch, a post office, a barber shop, a bank, a church, a general store and many others.

British Columbia has its Barkerville, where gold flowing from creeks in lean of millions of dollars in the 1860's created the largest settlement west of Chicago and east of San Francisco. The town is being rebuilt as it looked during the gold rush.

Hawaii's Happy Racial Blend

Alastair Lawrie in The Globe and Mail

The trouble with the world," said my companion, the beach-bum philosopher, "is that it isn't mixed up enough."

He narrowed his eyes against the glare of sun on sea and watched with languid appreciation as a pair of bikini-clad goddesses undulated toward the surf. This gave us time to consider the meaning of his remark.

"You mean the mixing of the races?" I said.

"Right, man," he replied acidly.

It was easy to believe, lying there on Waikiki beach. There is probably no better place in the world to test the truth of the theory than in the little chain of islands that reaps up Hawaii, because here the blood not only with some of the most attractive scenery on earth, but also the most beautiful people.

Here is an ethnic melting pot that will surely never boil over. Pure Hawaiians, part Hawaiians, Japanese, Occidentals, Filipinos, Puerto Ricans and Negroes, to mention just some of the ingredients in this wondrous blend, make up a community in which racial tension is not only unlikely but laughable. The progeny of inter-marriage, are a refinement of the human species. In some, happy, gentle people who are glad to be alive and who can transmit the feeling to the more inhibited visitor.

The trick to full enjoyment of a visit to the islands is to unbend as early as possible.

Cast aside the city suit and slip into something comfortable, like an aloha shirt and an orchid lei. Some of the hotels along Waikiki beach are magnificent, to be sure, but don't eat and drink for a while. Be intimidated. Take off your shoes and walk the main street. Walk through the lobby in your swimsuit.

This is part of what is known as the aloha spirit — the sense not but relaxed, it is part of the rhythm of Hawaiian life, and it can be read in the broad, dazzling smiles of the people, sounds of their music, in the easy grace of their movements, and the casual style of their dress.

Penal Reforms

Sault Ste. Marie Star

Probably one of the most perplexing questions facing those persons responsible for the care and control of the Canadian criminal offender in prison is: How far can we go with measures to bring about the rehabilitation of the criminal, while he is in prison?

In Saskatchewan recently it was decided to allow certain prisoners in the province's penal institutions to enjoy periodic visits with their wives and families in private. It was made clear this was a privilege that had to be earned by the prisoner, but there was no restriction to get the families to visit; they were invited and they could accept or refuse.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Despite abnormally hot weather throughout August, Belleville ice dealers are better off in the matter of ice supplies than in many other centres in Ontario. A check with the two local ice dealers this morning revealed that although it was expected ice would have to be brought in later in the season the situation is still not at all drastic and current supplies are expected to last another month at least.

One of the prettier spots in this immediate district is that part of the Bay of Quinte off the Belleville Purification Plant. Green, sloping, well-kept lawns with the lush carpets of grass form an attractive foreground to the bay itself. Adding another touch of color to the scene is the fleet of pleasure boats anchored in the bay between the plant and Swick's Island.

Equality—It's Up to the Women!

(Letter to the advice column of a Toronto newspaper.)

As a European woman hard-earned, stubborn bachelor, I certainly read your column and especially the current discussion about the equality of women. It really amazing how hard women try to be equal, especially in Toronto—yet how little their bitter struggle results. Frankly I have never seen so many withdrawn women as I have seen in this city, though I have travelled extensively in different parts of the world. For instance, quite recently I visited one of the communist countries where I refreshed my knowledge of women's equal status. Travelling as a train I made interesting friends, females among them as well, and their spontaneous approach toward the opposite sex really surprised me. It was a pleasant feeling and very humane. (Naturally I saw them working on the railroads as well but they are equal, you know.)

Here in Toronto I hear the occasional uproar demanding equality. Demanding from whom? Do women feel inferior that? Is it possible in normal freedom they want?

If women really want to be free it is up to them. They must get themselves out to the street and pick up the businessmen they need when and as they like for a husband. (Be prepared that he might call the police.) Open the door for him politely, grab his baggage at the bus station, light his cigaret in the restaurant, ask him for a dance, have a fat fight for him on the street. Ladies, the field is wide open.

During my stay in Toronto I have met only one really equal woman. She was a wonderful person. But alas, she turned out to be a European from one of the most backward countries where a woman can still be bought for a goat. She was not ignorant about equality and equal rights, she practiced it.

Once I bought flowers for a Canadian girl. She was so embarrassed and confused that I thought she might eat them on the spot. Another time I accidentally touched a girl on the streetcar, and she cried out like a wounded elephant. What an incident. I opened the door for them and they did not say thanks, I smiled at them and they got mad at me as if I had accosted them of stealing my devotees. In general, they suspect a sex maniac in every male who tries to be humane.

I think women are so confused about their identity that it is really difficult to find out whether they are females or males or in-betweens. Their maleishness indicate a female underneath while their attitude is rather aggressive and their fantasy lingers on and on and on . . . until they are old enough to be free of their inhibitions and their maleishness.

Canada Takes Part

UK Parley Aimed at Increasing International Credit

By JOHN LEHLAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In some of the major capitals of world trade in recent weeks, horse-trading had been going on to put together an acceptable plan for increasing international credit.

Now, word trickling out of some of the finance ministries of the group of ten suggests a sufficient degree of agreement has been reached to give reasonable assurance that Saturday's meeting of the ministers in London will lead to a firm scheme.

For years the main industrial countries have been trying to work out some means of drawing on one another's currencies in time of need to augment the world's increasingly inadequate money supply and, in the case of individual countries temporarily embarrassed, tide them over balance-of-payment difficulties.

Canada has been playing a full role in this move to enhance international "liquidity." The other nations concerned are the United States, Britain, Germany, Japan and the European Common Market countries except Luxembourg. Their ministers today last met in London July 17-18.

That meeting came up with a general outline of a plan. It would not consist of a new currency—such as Canada would —but would consist of drawing rights against a new pool created by contributions from the group's reserves, all supervised by the International Monetary Fund but separate from the IMF's own pool.

Some major loose ends remained. These included repayment terms for drawings and the question of the IMF voting majority required to activate the plan. The odds and ends were turned over to a committee of deputies.

Since then, it is reported, the deputies have managed to reach agreement on almost all details. France is believed still to want to draft some further ideas of its own at Saturday's session.

Final agreement is not taken for granted, but informants in London, at least, are quietly confident the working outline of a scheme will emerge from the next meeting.

That will not be the end of the road. The next step will be to take it to the International Monetary Fund for the approval of its Rio de Janeiro conference next month. But since the IMF has been sitting in on the ministerial meetings and watching developments closely, adoption at the London meeting should mean passage over the main hurdle.

In any case no one looks for the plan to do anything big and sudden for world trade. It will operate on a contingency basis, meaning it would be an on-the-hook mechanism for any eventual effectiveness still depend on how much would be made available in "drawing rights."

Estimates of this figure range from $5,000,000,000 to that amount. Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the IMF, who helped draft the charter of the new scheme is unlikely to come into effect before the start of 1968.

Boost for Trade

Reformed Credit System Reduces Dependence on Gold

LONDON (CP)—With Canada playing a key role, the top 20 industrial nations of the non-Communist world agreed Saturday night to a reformed system of credit aimed at boosting international trade.

The compromise plan climaxed four years of discussions.

The new scheme—when finally approved by the International Monetary Fund and the parliaments of all the nations involved—will provide a new credit facility linked to the IMF reserves. It will be a contingency plan, going into effect when the IMF decides that one or another country needs more financing for its international trade.

Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp said after the session that for Canada the decision is "one of the most important developments that could possibly take place for a country greatly dependent on foreign trade as we are."

The Canadian delegation backed by Sharp helped bring about one of the major compromises that resulted in final agreement late Saturday. Until this final meeting, there had been disagreement over the way countries might use the new credit facility. France, including Canada, wanted it "discretionary"—to have it set the same rate as a country's own reserves. Others wanted each country to be limited to a specific percentage of the IMF's total allocation under the new system.

Canada sidetracked its own inclination and made the final motion to set up a package deal of the two types, but with the second part predominant. Thus, over a five-year period a country would be able to use an average 70 per cent of its allocation. The figure could go up or down in any year, but 70 per cent would be a ceiling.

No allocations were fixed at this meeting, and the amount that might be added to world credit facilities remains unknown until after the plan has been further along the line towards ratification. The first move now will be to place it before the governors of the IMF at Rio de Janeiro in the last week of September.

After that, it will have to go before the legislative bodies of the countries involved. The process could take until 1969 before the plan is in operation.

U.S. Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler said Sunday the plan could spell larger prosperity for rich as well as poor countries. He said the odds are heavily in favor of its being accepted at Rio.

A second major compromise made Saturday was to let France have its way on what proportion of the International Monetary Fund voting power would be necessary to activate the contingency plan once it had been set up.

The other countries agreed that 85 per cent of IMF voting power would be needed. Since France and the other countries of the European Common Market have 17 per cent, this would give them a veto if it all voted together.

Agreements on this point represented a concession by the United States, which makes the largest contribution to the fund. Other countries engaged in the final discussions—in addition to Canada and France —were Britain, Japan, Sweden, Italy, Belgium, Holland and West Germany.

Finance Minister James Callaghan of Britain told a new conference later the special "drawing rights" set up for credit-short countries under the agreement will mean dealings among various countries are no longer entirely dependent on gold and dollars.

Latin Lovers Out of Style

MILAN (AP)—Italy's beautiful, abounding in girl watchers from abroad, have long been happy hunting grounds for the country's young "Latin lovers."

But more and more during this hot summer, the sweet-talking Italians appear to be getting the cold shoulder.

"It will be a national catastrophe if the attractive tourists of the abundant days change," wrote Milan's respected Corriere della Sera about the results of a random survey on the tourist-packed Adriatic shoreline.

"German, French and English girls vacationing on the shores of Romagna are beginning to turn their backs on the legendary fascination of the young Italians."

The Corriere's poll came up with plenty of documentation. Here are some of the complaints the Italians made about the visiting damsels:

"They don't flirt at all."

"They don't believe in the they used to."

"If you get romantic they start laughing."

"If you offer them a boat ride, they drag along a girl friend."

"They sponge a plate off you and then along comes Fritz to take them away."

The Germans, the Englishmen and the Frenchmen—especially the Frenchmen—seem to be carrying off most of the girls on the beaches this year, Corriere della Sera said.

The paper blamed the phenomenon on changing times.

While the foreign girl once fell for the Italians' romantic invitation to a solitary cruise or a quiet dinner for two, they now apparently prefer parties, open sessions and group boat rides.

The techniques of conquest have changed and the young Italians are forced to conform," said Corriere. "The Italians are no longer bachelors."

"We talk about it often among friends," a 19-year-old German girl told Corriere's pollsters. "Italians are fine but it's not worth letting yourself be courted by Italian boys any more because they think they begin so cling."

Drunks Cost Million

VANCOUVER (CP)—A committee" that made a study of chronic alcoholism in Vancouver's skid road district says drunks will cost taxpayers an estimated $1,000,000 this year.

The committee, headed by Canon F. A. Rainsford of Central City Mission, said in a report to civic authorities the figure is probably closer to $2,000,000 if welfare payments to drunks are considered.

Canon Rainsey said that in 1966 Vancouver police arrested 2,700 chronic drunks. Most of the 1,700 were in and out of jail several times and accounted for 9,974 jail sentences.

The canon said it costs at least $35 to convict a drunk and $9.15 a day to keep him in jail—few skid road alcoholics can pay fines.

The report urged city council to consider decentralization of the "detoxication centre" to replace existing drunk tank facilities at the Vancouver City Jail.

It also urged the provincial government to establish a uniform policy to ensure the development of halfway houses—rehabilitation centres run by private agencies for a limited number of men.

There is a move throughout Canada and the U.S. for removal of the apprehension and care of the chronic drunkard offender from the hands of the police, on the assumption that an intoxicated person suffering from a serious medical condition," the report said.

The report said the drunk is entitled to modern medical care while in custody and urged the municipal and provincial governments to build "the most enlightened type of facilities for drunks."

HOME OF THE WEEK

This modern design is truly a home for entertaining and outdoor living. It has a most interesting layout. The living area with its open planning makes this portion an attractive social centre, yet the kitchen is effectively closed off by the open fireplace and the glass wall behind the counter. Traffic to all parts of the house is excellent, and extends through the hobby room to the garage, patio and outdoor barbecue. All rooms are extra large making this a home to be proud of. Construction is brick and stone veneer. Design is suitable for any type of heating.

Standard blueprints for this Design No. CH500 cost $25.00 for the first set, and $6.00 for additional sets. Blueprints comply with the National Building Code of Canada, and are obtainable by return mail. (Ontario residents must remit 5 per cent sales tax.) The 1967 edition of "Suburban and Country Homes Designed for Canadians" — Price $1.00 net. Free is now available at the newspaper office. WEDDING

HUGHES — HEALEY

TWEED — Recently St. Edmund's Church, Sloco, was the setting for the wedding of Heather Denise Healey, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Healey, Sloco, and Thomas Rodney Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes, of Newburgh.

Rev. John Grosvenor officiated at the ceremony. Tim Healey, brother of the bride was soloist. Mrs. Lawrence LeGage presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Gene Healey, Ottawa, cousin of the bride.

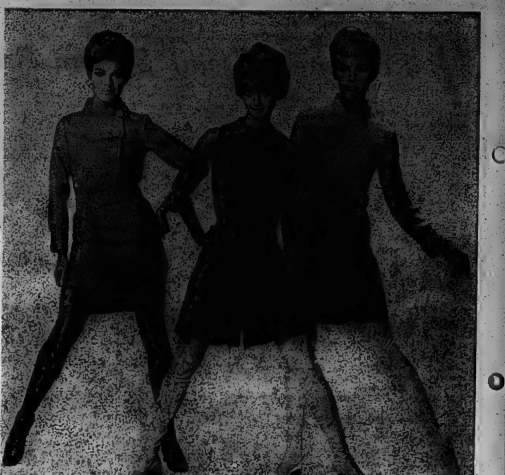
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Swiss embroidered and satin, of princess design featuring a fitted bodice, long sleeves and floor length train. A chamber of flowers held her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion. She carried a bouquet of white and pink roses.

Miss Noreen Murphy as maid-of-honor, wore a floor-length gown of yellow jersey, matching crown of tulle and carried a bouquet of yellow and white mums.

Mr. Harry Hughes, brother of the bridegroom, of Orillia, was groomsmen, and Mr. Laurie Healey, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ernest Cole, cousin of the bride were ushers.

A wedding dinner followed in Sloco Lake Hotel where Mrs. Healey received the groom wearing a gown of rose-beige, with black and white accessories and a corsage of roses. Mrs. Hughes assisted wearing a pink linen ensemble and a corsage of pink and white feathered carnations. Mr. Vincent Healey, uncle of the bride was master of ceremonies.

For a wedding trip to the western provinces the bride donned a beige and brown suit, with brown accessories and a corsage of roses.



The couple will reside at 34 Links Road, Apartment No. 302, Willowdale, Ontario.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. H. Juby of Coleman Street, Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Juby of Point Anne attended the wedding of their great nephew Ronald Westcott in Watertown, New York, on Saturday.

Tinned Bananas Another Exotic Dish Added to Hungarian Menues

BUDAPEST (Reuters)—Hungarian housewives, already envied by their socialist neighbors as the most coddled shoppers in east Europe, can add another exotic dish to their menus—tinned banana.

It comes straight from the canning factories of the battered North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi, packed in a tin with a faded green and yellow label. In Budapest food stores, it costs about the same as a pound of butter, and one tin provides a dessert dish for four persons.

Husbands say it is irresistible in strudel-thin, butter pastry—or topped off with a large spoonful of whipped cream.

This was only one of the overseas delicacies brought to Hungarian tables under the stimulus of ideological alliances.

The choice of Chinese products includes one which appeared from its label to be a Peking version of pressed mixed meat.

This appears to be less popular among Hungarian housewives than Chinese goose pate or a Peking-style goulash, consisting of meat balls, dumplings and bamboo shoots in brown sauce.

To import Chinese goulash into the heart of the goulash country might seem like selling refrigerators to Eskimos. But the tin attracted attention from Budapest shoppers.

A sure success on food store shelves here is Cuban crab—But that is difficult to find nowadays. Budapest luxury restaurants snap it up and serve it heated with rice and paprika as bisque homard.

Chinese fruit juices, which used to be a staple east European breakfast drink from East Berlin's Johannisof Hotel to the Alkonex Palace in Bucharest, appears to have been crowded out by ample supplies of pineapple juice from Cuba.

Other Cuban offerings to the Communist countries included high quality rum and, especially in Czechoslovakia, cheroots, cigars and richly-smelling cigarettes.

Hungary is rich in wines, and every quality food store here displays shelves up to 40 yards long with at least 30 white wines and 10 red to choose from.

With this goes the usual choice of hard liquor, including Polish vodka, Russian vodka, Yugoslav slivowitz, Romanian tsuika and Bulgarian arrak. And there is, of course, beer from East Germany.

The choicest of these east European drinks have, wherever possible, been sold to the West for hard currency. But ample supplies have always been left to meet home demand.

SKIRTS UNSETTLE MONKS

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Thai Buddhist clergy is asking girls attending temple services not to expose their thighs. A leading priest, Paravanda Bhikku, said that although Buddhist priests are sworn to celibacy and trained in self-discipline, the sight of young girls in mini skirts and matador pants is unsettling.

Different Apple Dessert With Hard Saure

By MARY MOORE

We took a vote: would we make another apple pie or a different apple dessert for Labor Day cookout supper? I put up two hands for "something different". Dawg swung the vote for me by asking for a pudding with that sauce you use on Christmas Pudding" — (hard sauce).

Ten years ago I offered you the recipe for Hungarian Apple Pudding and ever since requests have been trickling in for copies of that release. So with our voting session over and Cleanliner rapidly approaching, I gladly handed the assignment to my sister Peachy to get apple dessert with hard sauce.

MONDAY
Dinner Menu

Broiled Beef Patties; Mushroom Gravy; Mashed Spuds; Spinach; Celery and Carrot Sticks; Peach Crisp; Tea.

HUNGARIAN APPLE PUDDING with Spiced Hard Sauce (serves 6 to 8)

Pudding:
4 cups tart apples, washed, cored, unpared, measured after grinding
1 cup, tightly packed bread-crumbs, gently packed
1 tbsp. butter
1-3 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
½ tsp. salt
2 egg whites
3 tbsps. granulated sugar (second amount)
Sauce:
1 cup icing sugar
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. cloves
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1-3 cup butter
1 tsp. rum flavoring or 1 tbsp. rum (optional)

Make Hard Sauce first so it may be thoroughly chilled: sift together sugar and spices. Cream butter and sugar mixture then beat until fluffy. Pile in attractive serving dish, pealing the top with a fork. Chill until hard.

To make the Pudding, wash and core tart summer apples. Do not pare. Put through coarse knife of grinder. Measure 4 cups including juice which collects in grinder. Stir in breadcrumbs. Cream butter with sugar well then add egg yolks and salt and beat. Stir into apple-crumb mixture. Beat whites with the 3 tbsps. sugar until they form a stiff meringue. Fold into apple mixture. Pour into large shallow buttered baking dish. Stand dish in larger shallow pan containing ½ inch water. Ovenpoach at 375 deg. Fahr. at least one hour or until golden and fairly firm. Serve hot with Spiced Hard Sauce (above.)

NOTE: This same recipe may be used substituting fresh firm peeled peaches for apples.

Successful Living

Father Reluctant to Let Son Grow Up

Dear Dorie: I am the youngest of a family of six. The others are all married.

My father doesn't want me to grow up. He tries to keep me doing childish things. What really bothers me is this: Every boy I go out with my father finds fault with. He either tells them to get off the property or he keeps me in the house and won't let me go out with them.

My mother argues with him about it, but it doesn't do any good. He just picks up and leaves for a few days.

Dorie, could my father be mentally ill? — Troubled Sixteen-Year-Old.

Dear Troubled: It would be stretching it to say that all adults who are unreasonable are mentally ill. I expect this might include just about any one of us struggling mortals at one time or another.

It does sound a bit extreme, though, to settle an argument by walking out on the whole thing for several days. Most of us can bring ourselves to face the music.

Is your Dad missing all those others who grew up still left him? Perhaps he is doubly blinding himself to the fact that his youngest is also about to mature.

You could deliver the message unmistakably by giving thought to behaving in a grown-up way:

(1) Become more helpful around the house;

(2) Avoid the slightest inclination to sulk or have a tantrum when you don't get your own way;

(3) Show respect for money — especially Dad's; and

(4) Show appreciation when he does do a kind deed for you.

It can't go on forever. Meanwhile, have what fun time you can, in groups and surely from your own home. And talk to your mother about seeking counseling for her marital dilemma.

Dear Dorie: Can the welfare department make you go out to work if you have a small baby to look after? If not, what would they do?

Please try and understand it is not that I don't want to go to work; it's just that the baby is too small and there is no work available to me. — Unwed.

Dear Unwed: Most unlikely they'd even try. But they would want your help in getting support for your baby from his father. This is his baby too.

A personal talk with your child care worker is the kind of counseling you need; not a letter from me.

To Mother of Two: There's not a doubt in my mind that your irritation is caused by "hidden hunger". You use up plenty of energy every day, and this takes fuel — of the right kind.

Hunger can eat large quantities of food (of the wrong kind) and still be under-nourished. Or a deficiency of iron can actually go into a decline, if she doesn't know what she is doing. Be reassured that small gradual weight loss, and don't be more self-denying than your doctor approved.

I'm sending you my ten-cent leaflet, "Simple Reducing Diet", which you will see stresses the importance of the protective body - repairing foods. A person on a good reducing diet will feel better, not worse, for it.

(Dorie reserves the right to ignore anonymous letter. If you have a legitimate beef, sign your name to your note and it, of course, are kept confidential.)

Ann Landers

"Sisters in Misery" Deal with Problem

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You'll never know what you did for me when you printed that letter from "Young At Heart" — the 70-year-old woman who longed for fulfillment night after night while her husband (who had gone dead sexually 10 years before) was snoring in the next bed. She asked if something was wrong with her and wondered if she was the only woman in the world "up in years" who had the problem. You said, "No. You are not alone."

ANN LANDERS

I, too, wondered if I was alone. I am 68, look 55 and feel 35. My husband is 68, looks 75 and acts 100. On his 50th birthday he made an announcement — too many of his friends were dropping dead of heart attacks and sex was killing them. "I am through with all that nonsense," he proclaimed.

I almost went into shock. We had been married 27 years, raised four fine children and, I thought the physical side of our marriage was perfect.

After eight months of living like brother and sister, I celebrated my 50th birthday by taking a lover. (He is 10 years my junior.)

I am not writing to ask if I am doing right or wrong. I just wanted "Young At Heart" to know how I dealt with the problem. — BACK FROM THE DEAD.

DEAR BACK: Please keep reading and learn how another "Sister in Misery" dealt with the problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The 70-year-old woman who fell for the carpenter — or was it the paperhanger — caught my eye. I know how she must have felt, after having raised a nice family and believing her marriage to be a good one in every respect, to be told that part of her life was over. It happened to me, too, not exactly that way but close enough. About that time an attractive man (also married) showed a little attention. I was flattered, "No harm in it," I thought, "just something to brighten my life." Before I knew it, I was sneaking around, seeing him twice a week, lying to my husband and taking ridiculous chances. The man swore he loved me and needed me as much as I needed him. He said what we were doing was beautiful and right. Then I began to hear his name pop up over bridge tables and in the locker room of the club. He was linked with this woman and that woman. When I was told that his car could be found every Thursday afternoon in Mr. X's garage (Thursday was her maid's day off), I couldn't believe it. So I checked, and I saw not only his car but the man himself going into the house by the side door.

I thought I would die on the spot, but I didn't. I just promised myself I would go home and work as hard to rejuvenate our marriage as I had worked to keep the love affair exciting. I discovered that my husband was pleased when I took the initiative. It brought out a side of him I'd never seen before. He later told me he had just given up because he was sure I had lost interest in him.

When I run into my former Romeo at Social affairs I feel cheap and ashamed. But I thank my lucky stars I didn't wreck my life over him. He isn't fit to shine my husband's shoes, much less fill them. — HOME WHERE I BELONG.

DEAR HOME: The medical literature I have read makes it plain that many people past 70 are still sexually active. "Back At Heart" letter, however, produced such an avalanche of mail that I now believe the geriatrics set is even livelier than the literature indicates. And I say hurry for them!

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Friend: "Your twins look so cute dressed exactly alike. Can you tell which is which?"

Mother: "I can, but most people can't. Doris is a tiny bit taller than Darlene."

Instead of concentrating on having twins be exactly alike, encourage them to be as separate as they are willing to be. Skip the similar names and identical garb so each child will seem more an individual.

Twins should not remain a unit all their lives. Start early to help them become independent of each other.

Living Flower Dress Shown At Convention

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Michael Distl Jr. has created a dress that is sure to wilt after one day's wearing unless it is hung in the refrigerator—overnight.

Distl unveiled his creation Sunday night to a convention of fellow florists. It's a living flower dress.

"People can't believe it," said Judy Meinders, who modeled one of Distl's creations.

Los Strother, another "flower girl," said she found the dress set light, comfortable and cool. "There is just one drawback—you can't sit down in them."

Mrs. Meinders' dress of anthuriums and asters would have a price tag of about $25. An inverted flower pot liner hat and show flowers would run the cash to $125.

Mrs. Strother's orchid, gladiolus and fo gi (mums) frock would go for $185, with hat and shoes another $25. Both dresses are mini-skirted.

Distl said he can whip a creation in about an hour. The flowers are pinned to a paper dress, not unlike the technique used in frost-making.

Welfare Leader Praises Baby Bonuses

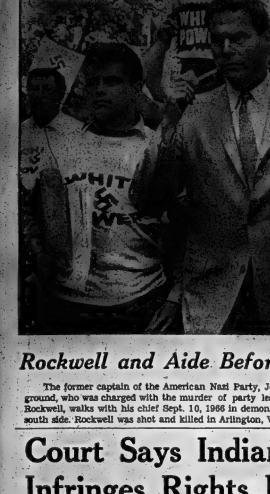
QUEBEC (CP)—The family allowance program should be maintained and even broadened, the international conference on the family was told today by Reuben C. Baetz of Ottawa, executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council.

Attacking criticism of the federal plan, which pays out about $500,000,000 a year, he said it has been of enormous help to young families with low and medium incomes, providing cash assistance without the stigma of welfare.

"It has been of particular benefit to the young man who has to assume the expenses of a growing family while not yet earning his maximum income," Mr. Baetz said.

Some contended that family allowances were too costly and help persons who do not need it. He said he is suspicious of such critics.

"I doubt, for example, whether people suggesting the discontinuance of family allowances would be ready to direct the more than $600,000,000 now spent on this program to families really in need," he said.



Mr. Baetz suggested two ways of extending the plan.

First, the present monthly rates of $6 and $8, depending on the age of the children, should be doubled or tripled in the case of one-parent families where the costs of child care are often high. This was particularly true where a widow or divorcee with children had to work.

Second, young couples in difficulty trying to finance a home should be allowed to draw future payments in a lump sum.

Even if only 30 per cent of the present allowance payments were diverted, it would make "new money" available for home building.

Mr. Baetz said the lack of housing may be one of the greatest problems facing new families in the decade ahead.

Massive Relief Operation Saves India

NEW DELHI (AP)—One of history's most massive relief operations has made good in India this year, preventing large-scale starvation.

The program was successful, officials say, in saving 10,000,000 persons in eastern India.

"This was certainly the most multifaceted relief effort in world history," says Alan Berg, who headed a drought-relief coordinating committee established last November by Reuter. "It is quite clear now that despite a very serious protoptics has been averted."

Foreign governments sent food, seed grain, seed, vehicles, well-drilling rigs, and foodstuffs, all of which supplemented the American Food-for-peace program that has shipped millions of tons of grain.

CARE—Co-operative for American Relief Everywhere—and various religious groups provided a meal a day for 8,000,000 children, nursing mothers and pregnant women in the eastern Indian state of Bihar.

The program has been so effective that children in Bihar actually look better than children in stem areas of many Indian cities.

In addition to the free feeding kitchens, the Indian and foreign agencies set up self-help projects. Able-bodied men and women were put to work in "land renewal labor" schemes, building water reservoirs and other earthworks to ease future droughts.

With money secured at these projects the people could buy food at government ration shops.

Berg says there may be critical moments in the months ahead until the Kharif (summer) crops is harvested in December.

Some problems have arisen. There has been cases of profiteering, corruption, black marketing, mismanagement and caste discrimination.

Now that rains have come the farmers are busy sowing their crops. A shortage of seed may cause problems.

India's agriculture officials are optimistic that a crew of 100,000,000 tons of food grains may be harvested this year—a record. The best previous crop was 80,000,000 in 1964-65.

Even a 100,000,000-ton crop could not meet India's needs and imports will have to continue to keep apace with the country's population growth—more than 12,000,000 new mouths each year.

Court Says Indian Act Infringes Rights Bill

EDMONTON (CP)—A Northwest Territories Appeal Court decision handed down here during the weekend says a section of the Indian Act is discriminatory and conflicts with the Canadian Bill of Rights.

The Appeal Court upheld an earlier decision by Mr. Justice William Morrow of the N.W.T. Territorial Court.

The case came up after Joseph Drybone, 40, an Indian trapper, was fined $10 in Yellowknife last April on a charge of intoxication. He had been charged under section 94 B of the Indian Act.

Mr. Justice Morrow reversed the conviction. His decision was upheld by the Appeal Court.

Brian Purdy of Yellowknife, defence counsel for Drybones, said the case now should be taken to the Supreme Court of Canada and tested fully.

The Appeal Court decision, written by Mr. Justice H. G. Johnson, says the Bill of Rights affects acts that discriminate "by reason of race, national origin, color, religion or sex.

"It has been the policy of the Canadian government in the past, and is, no doubt, its continuing policy, to treat Indians in many respects different from other races in Canada.

"One would have hoped that that (treatment of Indians) could have been done with subjecting Indians to penalties and punishments different to those imposed on other races.

"If it is not possible to protect them otherwise, the Bill of Rights permits discriminatory legislation to continue or be enacted, but Parliament must expressly declare that such acts shall operate notwithstanding the Canadian Bill of Rights."

Separatists Toss Eggs At Confederation Train

MONTREAL (CP)—While a group of about 25 young Quebec separatists jeered him Saturday, Jean Marchand, federal immigration and manpower minister, called for greater government decentralization.

Mr. Marchand was speaking before a crowd of more than 1,000 attending ceremonies marking the arrival of the Confederation train at suburban Dorval.

The separatists tossed eggs and leaflets and shouted party slogans in the first demonstration against the train since it left Vancouver last winter with its travelling show of Canadiana.

One youth was arrested and later charged with disturbing the peace.

Mr. Marchand said Canada, because of its "strong minority groups must definitely be decentralized."

Anyone who considered Canada a melted hand didn't know the country.

Pentecostal Women Run Bible School

DESERONTO — Keeping Deseronto's children busy this week and next, are the women of the Deseronto Pentecostal Church.

Under the capable leadership of Mrs. Roy Brant, as superintendent of the church, aided by 4 teenage boys, are holding a Vacation Bible School. Bible lessons are being given every day, as well as teaching the children some choruses, by games and songs. They are busy every weekday morning from 9.30 a.m. — 12.00 p.m.

The child who brings the most friends to school during the two weeks will be presented with a Holy Bible.

The enrolment on Monday was 46 but by Friday had climbed to 111.

Rhodesia Sold Disguises Goods

LONDON (Reuters) — The Sunday Times reports Rhodesia is fighting economic sanctions by disguising its exports as goods from South Africa, Mozambique and Malawi.

Oil was reaching Rhodesia from a big international company with large interests in Britain via one of its related companies in South Africa, the article says.

Shulman Says Perfect Murder Easy in Ontario

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman, former chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, said Saturday it is relatively easy to commit a perfect murder in Ontario.

Dr. Shulman said a person could commit a perfect murder "because it is all too simple to have a cremation certificate signed and once the cremation is performed ..... it is impossible to tell what is the cause of death."

Dr. Shulman, who will be a New Democratic Party candidate in the next provincial election, was speaking to an NDP youth assembly at the University of Waterloo.

Galbraith Says Critics Curb Conduct of War

ASCUTNEY, Vt. (AP)—The influence of Vietnam war critics has kept U.S. military leaders from carrying the conflict into China and from using bomb targets in Russia, Harvad Professor John Kenneth Galbraith said Saturday.

"The critics of this conflict have had a good deal of influence, the Canadian-born former U.S. ambassador to India said. Galbraith is national chairman of Americans for Democratic action.

"If it had not been for their voice on behalf of restraint," he said, U.S. military leaders would be ready to direct the strikes at Chinese and Russian stations.

The program has been so effective that children in Bihar actually look better than children in stem areas of many Indian cities.

In addition to the free feeding kitchens, the Indian and foreign agencies set up self-help projects. Able-bodied men and women were put to work in "land renewal labor" schemes, building water reservoirs and other earthworks to ease future droughts.

Kashmir City Hit By Riots

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (Reuters)—A total curfew was in force today in Srinagar, Kashmir's capital, following renewed clashes among Hindus, Moslems and police.

Three days of violent protests against the alleged abduction and forced marriage of a Hindu girl to a Moslem youth have resulted in more than 50 police and 250 demonstrators being injured.

The curfew, already in force in Old Srinagar, was extended Sunday to cover the whole city, partly due to police fears of further violence today when Hindus celebrate the birthday of Lord Krishna, God of their main deities.

While the army imposed the curfew, police sealed off the old part of the city where several fires were reported to be raging.

Moslem crowds had rampaged through the streets, stopping vehicles and demanding gasoline to set fire to government buildings and property.

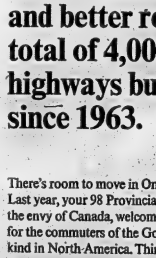
Police herded people on to trucks to be driven to their homes before the curfew was enforced, and stopped a movie and cartoon, the theatre audience to leave.

Police used tear gas and batons Sunday to disperse stone-throwing Hindu demonstrators. Forty-four persons, including 22 policemen, were injured.

Hindu claims that the teenage store clerk, Parmeshwari Nandon, was abducted before her marriage and that she was only 17—under the age of consent—sparked the disturbances two weeks ago.

Camp Stove Smothers Four Men

MANIWAKI, Que. (CP)—Four Montreal firemen on a canoe trip on Lac Voreschen provincial park 150 miles north of here were found dead in bed, one on Saturday by the father of one of the men.



The dead: Pierre Desaurault, 20, Jean Lambert, 21, Andre Charbonneau 20, and Roger Ranger, 45.

An inquest found the deaths accidental.

Armand Desaurault went searching for the men when they were four days late returning to Maniwaki from their camping trip. Maniwaki is 70 miles north of Ottawa.

The men were found in their tent on Kabonga River. Quebec provincial police said a charcoal-burning stove was set up inside the tent, and the men apparently died of asphyxiation.

Losing Wrong Beliefs Is Hard Learning Task

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Although in spirit I remain as fervent a tennis player as ever, my body refuses to comply, and I decided that this summer I would take up golf, after years of highly vocal contempt for the pastime.

A friend, learning about my decision to take a few lessons from a pro, remarked: "He'll kiss you when you tell him you've never played golf before — it makes his job ten times easier."

What my friend meant, of course, is that I have so bad golf habits to unlearn. I start with an utter ignorance of the game in all its aspects — which is the best pre-condition for learning anything.

Having had Great Books classes for more than 15 years I can appreciate the delight of the pro at finding a pupil who doesn't know the wrong things the wrong way.

One reason that adult education is such a slow and laborious process is that, unlike child education, it requires two steps: first, taking the student from "error" to ignorance, and second, taking him from ignorance to knowledge.

The first step is by far the most difficult and protracted. Emptying a man's mind of errors, misconceptions and preconceptions is almost a surgical task, which he resists with the tenacity born of long habit.

It is only when he admits his ignorance, and gives up the deep defence he has established over the years, that his real education can begin.

The physical and the mental worlds are alike in this respect. I once acquired a considerable proficiency as a table tennis player, although my grip on the paddle was in violation of all the laws of gravitation and good playing form.

But I soon reached a plateau, and was unable to by any better using that fantastic grip. When a Swiss table tennis champion tried to teach me the correct way, I made a half-hearted effort, but soon reverted to my old style. It was simply too much effort, and too little fun, to begin learning the proper rudiments of the game.

This is exactly how we feel when our habits of thought are challenged. We are accustomed to thinking in a certain grooves and it is actually painful to try to change our mental "form." We are used to our own grip on ideas — even if half the time we are paddling our own bottoms with the paddle.

Hoots For Bork Turn Quickly Into Toots

MONTREAL (CP)—Short-tempered Montreal Alouette fans sat up in their seats Saturday night and watched George Bork, whom they had not long ago assigned to the sidecar, fire their team to a 34-22 victory over Toronto Argonauts.

The victory, before a crowd of 13,000, was the first for the Eastern Football Conference Alouettes in three games so far this season. But the two points picked up by the Als made no difference in the standings. They're still in last place, while the Argos continue to share first place with Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders.

Bork found holes all over the Toronto defence.

The Alouette quarterback wound up with a hose bruise and possible stretched ligaments in his ankle after he was tackled in the last 30 seconds—Ian MacDonald was called for a piling on penalty on the play.

Bork started with a touchdown pass to Jim Rountree as the Argo defender grabbed a pass intended for Gerry Sternberg and ran unmolested for 60 yards.

The hoots had barely subsided when Bork directed a 71-yard march in nine plays culminating in a nine-yard touchdown pass to Roger Murphy on third down.

From then on it was Bork's game even though the Argos retaliated with a Jim Dillard touchdown. Several of Bork's 17 completions in 28 attempts were made in the first down zone behind the Toronto linebackers. He flooded the zone with three receivers and Donnie Davis was invariably free.

End Roger Murphy and halfback Charlie Scales scored two touchdowns each for the Alouettes, Larry Fairholm got the other touchdown when he picked up a fumble and raced into the Toronto end zone.

Bobby Taylor scored Argos' third touchdown. Vitucas converted all three and added a single in a wide field goal attempt.

Ron Parson converted three of Montreal's five touchdowns and Dave Lewis kicked a 62-yard single to round out the scoring.

Calgary's Drive Spoils Champion's Debut

VANCOUVER (CP)—Calgary Stampeders spoiled the head coaching debut of Jim Champion and took over sole possession of first place in the Western Football Conference Sunday by defeating British Columbia Lions 16-7 before 28,436 fans at Empire Stadium.

Calgary now is two points ahead of the defending Grey Cup champion Saskatchewan Roughriders with a 4-1 record. British Columbia is mired deep in the WFC cellar with five straight losses.

Champion, who succeeded Dave Skrien, said he felt if his squad could hold the Stamps to 16 points, the Lions could win. They did this without the services of two defensive backs stars —Tom Brown, who quit football last week because of a recurring ankle injury, and Wayne Foster, out with a sore knee.

"But what I didn't figure," said Champion later, "is that we would score as few points as we did."

The only B.C. touchdown was by fullback Larry Ehmes early in the second quarter to cut the score at 7-7 after Stamps quarterback Peter Liske had put the Cowboys ahead with a touchdown pass to Terry Evanshen in the first quarter.

Ehmes went over from the four yard line after the Lions had marched 24 yards in four plays following Bill Lesseter's interception of a Liske pass to Herm Harrison.

Calgary placement kicker Bill Goode kicked a 37-yard field goal in the second, then added 38 and 38-yarders in the last 15 minutes of play as well as converting after the touchdown. Ted Gerela converted the B.C. touchdown.

Champion split the quarterbacking chores between veteran Bernie Faloney and former Washington State newcomer Dave Mathieson.

Faloney completed seven of 17 passes for 79 yards and had two intercepted.

Mathieson had a frightening debut as he fumbled on the first play he called, a handoff. Then he settled down, completing six of 11 passes for 82 yards.

Liske, who was given solid support for his pass plays, completed 18 of 32 for 251 yards. He led the Stamps to a touchdown on their first series of the game as they went 60 yards in seven plays.

Calgary's total offence of 435 yards consisted of 251 yards through the air, 167 of them to Evanshen. Lovell Coleman led the ground attack with 123 yards.

Bill Munsey was top ground gainer for the Lions. He picked up 72 yards in 14 carries. Leroy Sledge was the Lions' best pass receiver, taking five for 76 yards.

Lions play Winnipeg Blue Bombers Thursday in the Manitoba capital and coach Champion assured "there'll be some changes made."

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

Staff Sportswriter

Did you ever stand around the club house following a tournament and listen to golfers explain how they failed to win by a country mile?

People talk about fishermen and their stories of the "one that got away" but Friday's Orlando Southpaw tournament here, many of the participants would have put the average angler to shame.

But the most amazing part is that golfers tell their tales to each other!

Actually, not being a member of a club, I can't prove this statement, but I have a hunch that all golfers must sign an affidavit when they join a club, promising by all that is holy to "listen to and to believe anything and everything told'me by another golfer."

Failure to abide by the code would likely result in the sinner being forced to play the rest of the season against the club champion, swinging from the wrong side of the tee and using the wrong end of the clubs.

Seriously, though, golfers do seem to enjoy the "after-the-match, why-I-didn't-win-club" as much as they do the sport itself.

22-year-old Greg Wallace, who could have won the Southpaw crown here Friday but settled for second, one stroke behind Ken Thorpe, was far from a gracious loser.

After his own positioning on the 17th tee hits the title, Wallace spent the rest of the day kneeling the OGA, the course, the prizes and the tournament as a whole.

I asked him exactly what the trouble seemed to be and his reply was that "the prizes should be better and I'll never play here again."

He failed to explain what the fact that he won a cooking utensil and was a single man had to do with the course, the OGA, the tournament or the sponsors.

Mr. Wallace may be one of the better jetties but he did not leave a very good impression with many of his fellow golfers nor people connected with the tournament.

In all fairness, most of the golfers excuses are in the "I just couldn't get a putt to fall", "the wind was too tricky", "the greens were too fast", "the greens were too slow" (yes, both in the same tournament sometimes), "I never got a good roll all day", "I was too tired to play", and so and so on, class.

Really, this talk is expected and means little, either to the speaker or his audience, except to get the others going in an effort to top one of the opponents' bad breaks.

Numerous golfers here Friday, including some club members and others who have golfed here before, were somewhat disappointed in the dryness of the course.

One high handicap golfer remarked near the scoreboard: "I loved it. I just dubbed my usual shots and they kept on rolling", which proves that even a fault in the course proves helpful to some.

A Toronto-district golfer told this reporter, while discussing the scores being rather high: "Sure, this course played tough today but that's the way it should be in a championship tourney, isn't it?"

So while there were a few beefs, we doubt that a tournament has ever been held anywhere that there were not.

And for one thing, we didn't hear any of the golfers complaining about the food or drink departments. The Bay of Quinte club and Wiser's, under Mr. Harry Myles' direction, stood out as always in those categories.

Holy Rosary in Command In 4-0 Peewee Victory

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

A great little team from Belleville, the Holy Rosary peewees, rolled over North Toronto 4-0 at Parkdale on Sunday.

The game was the first in a best-of-three series, with the winner advancing into the Ontario Baseball Association's semi-finals. Next contest will be played on Saturday at Talbot Park in Toronto.

The locals were led to victory by the arm of John Mulvihill and a crew of powerful hitters.

Mulvihill gave up only two hits, both singles, and struck out six, in the seven inning affair.

Meanwhile his teammates were busy at the plate, slamming seven hits, including three triples and a double.

Wayne Andrews of Holy Rosary broke up a tight pitching duel in the fourth, when he clouted a triple and scored on a wild pitch by Toronto's Bill Low.

The winners added three more in the sixth, with catcher Danny Lopenotte hitting his second triple of the game, Wayne Andrews a double, and Bill Coughlin a single.

Toronto had five runners, but only one got on base. Twice Lopenotte threw out men attempting to steal second, and once the Rosary's catcher tagged a Toronto player trying to steal home.

North Toronto hurler Bill Low began the game strongly but faded in the later stages. He struck out five, four of them in the first two innings, and walked one.

Bill Coughlin backed up the combination of Lopenotte and Andrews with a pair of singles, John Mulvihill added a base hit.

The losers' hitters were Bill Low and Brian Macintosh.

Ken Lewis Too Much For Ellis

An ailing pitcher from Kingston ended Belleville Ellis' wasdering through the OASA playdowns Saturday night at the Alemite.

Ken Lewis, who suffered an injured leg early in the game in a collision at home plate, pitched Kingston Lake Bus to a 2-0 win over Ellis' in the third and deciding game of their Senior "B" series. He also tripled home both of the visitors runs in the second inning, and was hurt trying to stretch the three base hit into a home run.

Belleville had forced the deciding game with a 5-1 decision on Thursday, with pitcher Zidon Gray leading the way.

On Saturday, however, it was Gray's turn to lose.

Lewis allowed only five hits and struck out 10 in his strong effort. After the second inning he hurried with the injury, but the losers could not score although they left nine men stranded.

Twice Belleville had men on third and second, with only one out, but Lewis held the losers at bay.

Eldon Grey hurried well for Belleville, and only slipped once, during the disastrous second inning. He gave up seven hits, three of them in the second, while striking out nine.

Lake Bus scored their runs when Bus Jackson and Brian Porteous singled and Lewis hit his triple. The Kingston pitcher then drove home by Gordon Larry Mavety tagged him in a heavy collision in front of the plate.

Lewis remained a threat with the bat throughout in spite of his limp, and clouted a single in the fifth.

Brian Porteous added another single in the sixth, and Bob Jackson and Tom Cashman had Kingston's other hits.

Larry Mavety and Eldon Gray each had a pair of base hits, and Carl Boombower added a long single for the losers.

The game was played before one of the largest crowds to date at the Alemite.

On Thursday night Picton visits the Alemite to play Ellis' in their Quinte EASA semi-final playoffs.

Tiki Club Ousts Trenton; Awaits Toronto Winner

Belleville Tiki Club managed only two hits in their OASA Juvenile "A" playoff game in Trenton last night — but that was all they needed.

One of the hits was a solid home run smash by Dale Duvall, following a walk to give Tiki a 2-1 victory and the series in two consecutive games.

Belleville now awaits a Toronto-area winner. Tiki won Zone Four honors last night and their next series will be Ontario semi-finals.

Duvall's home run came in the fourth inning and Belleville's only other safety was a single by catcher Doug Olsen.

Trenton got one run back in the sixth but that was it.

Mike Healey hurled five-hit ball on the winners' hilltop. He blew third strikes past 12 and did not walk a man.

Dan Dickson suffered the tough two-hit loss while striking out 11 and passing a pair. He also received errorless support afield.

Trenton singles went to Ken McGeachy, with a pair, Tim Howard, McCormick and Les Perence.

Madoc Finds Worm Turns

Madoc Juniors suffered a surprising 5-4 loss in Port Perry Saturday night to defeat clinch their OASA Junior "C" series at 4 games each.

The surprise was due to the fact Madoc won the opener at home on a 9-0 default after objections left Port Perry short of players. The score at the time was 27-0 for Madoc in the eighth inning.

The third and deciding game is scheduled for Madoc tomorrow (Tuesday) at 8:15 p.m.

In other district softball news, Point Anne and Trenton Cerm'x, both knocked out of OASA ball, resume Trent Valley League round-robin play in Trenton on Wednesday, at 8:15.

Bosox-White Sox Split

Twins Squeeze Past Rivals For Slim Hold On First Place

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Stanky's hit sign wasn't doing him much good so the Chicago White Sox' skipper adapted to the conditions and switched to a waiting game.

Stanky's patience paid off in a run without a hit that gave White Sox a 1-0 11-inning victory and a split of a Sunday doubleheader with Boston.

Red Sox took the opener 4-3 with Carl Yastrzemski slamming his 33rd and 34th home runs of the season. The sp[illegible]rombined victory over Cleveland, moved them to first place, one percentage point in front of Boston. Chicago is third, one game back and Detroit, which lost 2-1 to Kansas City, is fourth, 1½ behind.

The White Sox, whose team batting average is hovering around .220—ninth best in the American League—had managed just four hits against Jose Santiago and Darrell Braden in the nightcap, in the 11th inning, Stanky decided to stop swinging and start waiting.

Braden, who had blown over in the 10th when Santiago collided with catcher Mike Ryan and injured his knee, obliged nicely.

The relief pitcher walked Dennis Joseph[illegible] opening the 11th. Ron Hansen sacrificed and Braden then purposely walked pinch hitter Sticky Burgess, who was swinging for pitcher Gary Peters.

Joel Horlen ran for Burgess and Braden wild pitched the runners to second and third. Horlen drew and got Ken Boyer on a bouncer, twisting Joseph[illegible] and Braden then beat Horlen reached third and Boyer first on the play.

Don Buford walked, loading the bases and then pinch hitter Rocky Colavito walked out Brandon's fourth pass of the innings, forcing Horlen across.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York belted Washington 8-3 and California's doubleheader in Baltimore was postponed by rain.

Yastrzemski's first game homers came in the fifth and seventh innings. Chicago threatened in the ninth and had the tying run on third with one out. But right fielder Joe Tartabull caught Josephson's fly ball and threw out Ken Berry at the plate, ending the game.

Jim Merritt hurled a seven-hitter for the Twins and Carew and Rich Rollins smashed home runs.

Jos Ascue, who was robbed of a homer in the second when Ted Uhlaender made a spectacular catch in centre field, tagged a two-run shot in the ninth for Cleveland.

Merritt struck out eight and ran his record to 10-4.

Ramon Webster hammered a two-run homer and Roberto Rodriguez and Paul Lindblad combined for a five-hitter as Kansas City trimmed Detroit.

Jim Northrup gave Tiger s a brief lead with a sweeping fourth inning homer, but Athletics's bounced right back in the bottom half of the inning as Dancy Cater singled and Webster followed with his seventh homer.

That was enough to beat Joe Sparma, 13-5, who allowed only three other hits. Rodriguez, recently recalled from Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League, worked into the seventh inning and Lindblad finished, preserving the rookie's first major league victory.

Tom Tresh drove in four runs with a double and a sacrifice fly and Ruben Amaro ripped a three-run homer as the Yankees dropped the Senators.

Frank Howard homered for Washington.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mike McCormick, San Francisco's comeback king, is playing the hitters one at a time. Atlanta's pitching staff is ganging up on them.

McCormick became the National League's first 13-game winner Sunday, scattering five hits as San Francisco blanked Atlanta 3-0 in the opener of a doubleheader.

Braves bounced back to take the nightcap 4-3 behind Ed Rakow, Ramon Hernandez and Phil Niekro, who teamed up for a masterful two-hitter.

The shutout victory was the second in a row for McCormick, 18-6, who blanked league-leading St. Louis 8-0 last Wednesday and has pitched 34 consecutive scoreless innings.

"I never worry about how tough the teams are I face," said the veteran left-hander, reacquired by Giants in a trade with Washington Senators last winter. "I just worry about one batter at a time."

Rakow, unbeaten in three decisions since Braves rescued him from the minors last month, was clipped for two hits and a run in the first inning of the nightcap. He then pitched five hitless innings, walked two Giants with one out in the seventh and was replaced by Hernandez.

Hernandez threw an inning-ending double play pitch and gave way to knuckleballer Niekro, who completed the two-hitter by retiring all six batters he faced.

Cardinals whipped Los Angeles 6-2; Cincinnati outlugged Houston 11-8; Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 3-0 in a shortened 4½-inning game and Chicago Cubs topped New York Mets 3-1 in seven innings before rain halted play and washed out their doubleheader nightcap.

McCormick, now 28, broke into the majors 11 years ago with Giants and pitched for them until 1956, when he came up with arm trouble and was dealt to Baltimore. He won only 4 games in his first two Baltimore seasons and was demoted to the minors before being traded to Washington in 1960. He was 8-8 and 11-14 in two years with Senators.

"I figured if I could turn last year's record around . . . it would be a pretty good year," he said. "It's turned out far better than I'd hoped.

"Last year with Washington was the first time I was two straight shutouts—I beat Kansas City and Cleveland."

Golf Brother Act Falters

TORONTO (CP)—The difference between good golfers and great ones often shows in putting.

The theory was demonstrated Saturday when Jay Paukkunen of Port Arthur, Ont., defeated Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver 4 and 3 in the 36-hole final of the match-play Canadian junior golf championship.

Paukkunen, 18, and Roxburgh, 18, were about even on their tee shots and iron play but the Ontario golfer showed his mastery on the greens.

Paukkunen sank at least three key birdie putts during the final match. He sank a pair of 30-foot birdie putts in Friday's matches.

Roxburgh, who has been golfing less than three years, was no match for the cool-headed Paukkunen. The Vancouver lad faltered early in the match when he kept asking his brother Bob, who was also his caddy, for advice before every shot.

Paukkunen won three up on the sixth hole, increasing it twice to 5-up before finally winning the 33rd hole for the championship.

The Port Arthur golfer was eligible for the Manitoba interprovincial team in the tournament, but failed to qualify. Golfers in the Port Arthur area are members of the Manitoba association.

His loss of the team berth also cost him sponsorship, but he decided to compete anyway.

Paukkunen's ambition is to enter the University of New Mexico.

"I want to get on the college team," he said after receiving the Pepsi Cola Trophy for his victory.

"I want to find out just how good the fellows are in the United States. I might decide on golf as a career later."

Golf's Richest Tournament Rained Out For Third Day

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—It's reaching the point where it's almost funny. Like getting hit in the face with a wet towel.

Three days of rain have ruined the Westchester Classic, a $250,000 affair, which the world's richest golf tournament is also a sodden disappointment.

For three days tournament officials have tired to get in the second round. And for three days heavy, soaking rains have turned the lush links of the Westchester Country Club into a quagmire.

Players and officials are bitterly disappointed. And the elements have mocked the ejusdic stage.

"Perhaps it should be called the Wry Classic," offered one.

Another dubbed this town in Westchester County, one of the most rich & wealthiest suburban areas, as Rye and Water.

Still another called it "the Westchester Classic."

At an interview on the edge of the indoor pool, Lee Trevino looked up when someone splashed into the water.

"Someone going after his ball," said the young, El Paso, Tex., pro, one of the chief victims of Sunday's rain-out. He was one of 83 who had finished their rounds when rain and lightning wiped it all out.

Trevino was in with a five-under-par 67 and a 135 for two rounds over the 6,373 yard, par 72 layout. He was tied for second with Gary Player, a former time assistant pro at the club, who had a brilliant 66.

They were two strokes back of Mason Rudolph from Clarksville, Tenn., who had a 67 for 133. All, of course, are wiped out.

It was the second such blow for Rudolph, who had a 66 washed out in Saturday's rainstorm. Play did not begin Friday.

Arnold Palmer had a 71 Sunday for 140, while Jack Nicklaus was clubbing for the lead when the rains came. He had played 14 holes and was five under par for the day, 10 under for the tourney.

Now it all reverts to Thursday's first round results, with Rudolph, Gary Player and Jim Colbert tied for the lead at 66, followed by Nicklaus, John Schlee and Bob Charles at 67.

The schedule now has 18-hole rounds set for today, Tuesday and Wednesday, the greatest delay of the year.

Brabham Wins Canada's First Grand Prix at Mosport

Brabham Wins
Speed Fizzles Under Drizzle

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP)—Jack Brabham of Australia kept an eye on the weather Sunday and won Canada's first Grand Prix for Formula 1 cars on the rain-drenched Mosport track.

As a light drizzle began 15 minutes before the 3 p.m. EDT start, the 43-year-old driver put rain tires on his Repco Brabham.

When the drizzle turned to a downpour in later stages, Brabham was driving steadily while such favorites as Jim Clark of Scotland and Graham Hill of England were spinning on the slippery asphalt.

Brabham, three times world champion, finished the 230-mile race in two hours, 40 minutes, 40 seconds at a relatively slow average pace of 82.79 miles an hour.

The victory was worth $18,575 in prize money and the Player's Award.

New Zealander Denis Hulme placed second in another Brabham one minute, 1.9 seconds behind the Australian and won $6,350 in prize money.

Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., placed third in his All-American Eagle Racer for 94,000.

The race was the eighth in a series of 11 leading towards the world championship. Normally 10 races count in the championship contest but the event was brought to Canada in honor of this country's Centennial Year.

In the race for the world driving championship, Hulme leads with 43 points. Brabham is next with 34. New Zealander Chris Amon, who finished sixth with the only Ferrari in the race, is third with 30. Clark, 1965 world champion whose Lotus developed electrical trouble and was listed as a non-finisher, is fourth with 18.

A paid crowd of 39,471 watched the race, many of them huddled under umbrellas throughout the afternoon. It was the first major race to be held at an Ontario track on a Sunday.

Hill, 1962 world champion, open his Lotus 13 laps before the end of the 80-lap race. He was placed fourth although he completed only 88 laps.

Mike Spence of England finished fifth in a BRM and New Zealander Bruce McLaren was seventh in a car of his own design.

Campbell Chief Wins In 2:10

Al Vance drove Don Chatterson's Campbell Chief to a Quinte Riding and Driving Club track record for the season Saturday before a paid attendance of 706 fans.

Campbell Chief, a four-year old black horse, turned the mile in 2.10 flat in the eighth race to erase Tip Cee Chief's 2.10.4 mark.

A fast track made for good times most of the night. The pari mutuel handle was $13,248.

The highest paying win of the night went to Bellfox in the sixth, returning $18.50, $10.10 and $3.40. The daily double, Agitator in the second and Molly Haw Lee in the third, paid $11.50. The quinellas paid $4.50 and $5.30.

The fourth and eighth races saw a tight, three-way battle with Single Bed coupling the opener ahead of Campbell Chief while Magic Lady Lou took third. Then came Campbell Chief's record time in the eighth, dropping Single To Bed to second with Lou again grabbing the show spot.

Only four starters answered the gun in the first race and Uncle Jack got the win with Simm Sam second.

Agitator was chased by Nyda Dale C. and Judy's Echo in the second but Bellfox roared home in the sixth with Bolls W. Gratton second and Judy's Echo again third.

Molly Haw Lee cut distanced Polaris Missile and Chenango Bill in the third but John Hunzbach came back with Chenango Bill to grab the seventh, paying $15.80 for the win. Polaris Missile took place and Candy B. Creed show.

In the fifth and ninth races, it was again a three-way scrap with Atomic Seika finishing third both times while Brenda B. Hoover and Swift Pick traded firsts and seconds.

Hugh Wemp, the track's second leading driver going into Saturday's card, copped two wins and two seconds, to improve his position considerably.

Errors, Walks

Battersea Ousts Cementmen

Walks and errors told the tale as Battersea trumped the Point Anne Cementmen 8-3 in Kingston's McGaffin Stadium yesterday afternoon.

The victory gave Battersea a 2-1 games triumph in their OASA Intermediate "C" playoff series.

Battersea set the pace early, scoring three runs in the opening inning and four in the sixth, for a 7-1 lead. All seven Battersea runs were unearned.

Two walks, as many passed balls, a pair of errors at short and Garnet Bill's hit plated the first trio. A hit batter, a walk, Convery's single a daring error on what should have been an inning-ending double play opened the door in the sixth. Jerry Emmons' base hit and another miscue completed the damage.

Darting homered following another free pass for another pair in the eighth.

Ron Maracle's triple and David Akey's fly ball has cut the deficit to 3-1 in the Pointers' fourth but they failed to hit in key spots and that's as close as they came. An error and Pat Maracle's pinch single got another in the seventh while a walk and safeties by Hill and Horwood closed the scoring in the ninth.

Charles Convery scattered 11 hits in a route-going effort for Battersea while loser Ron Maracle gave up seven hits.

The difference came in walks and errors. Maracle struck out nine and passed the same number while four of five errors proved costly. Coovery fanned three and walked but one while his club erred twice.

Jerry Emmons had two Battersea singles, Jerry Darling his home run and Garfield Ball a triple. Dalton Smith, Garnet Ball and Coovery added singles.

Jerry Hill stroked a double and three singles on Point Anne's behalf. Ron Maracle had a triple and single, Jim Horwood two one-baggers, Glen Maracle, Pat Maracle and Gerry Maher losers.

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A bakery and an apartment above it were damaged severely by fire early Sunday. Damage to the bakery was estimated at $5,000 and to the apartment at $10,000.

DeMille Strikes Out 16 As Picton Wins Opener

Timely hits and strong strikeout pitching by Kenny DeMille paved the way for a 5-0 Picton Kinsmen victory over Reddendale, in Picton, Saturday night in the opening game of their OASA Intermediate "B" series.

Each club had six hits but the Kinsmen got theirs when they counted and DeMille mowed 16 of the visitors down on third strikes.

Second game in the two-of-three playoff is slated for Kingston's McGaffin Stadium Wednesday at 8.15 p.m.

Picton scored one run in the second when Ostrander doubled, stole third and scored on St. Denis' single.

Ostrander preserved the 1-0 lead with the play of the game in the sixth. Reddendale got half their hits that inning but Ostrander picked up VanLuven's lined - shot single and cut the lead man down at home with a perfect throw to end the threat.

Weese's base knock drove in two for Picton in the bottom of the inning and an error on a bunt made it 5-0 in the seventh.

DeMille walked but one over the distance. Losing pitcher Jack Leeman struck out three and walked a pair.

Marve Stacey hit a triple and single, Warren Ostrander a double, Ron Weese, Lee St. Denis and Keith MacDonald a single each to account for Picton's six safeties.

Paul VanLuven had two, Reg Leonard, Brian Doe, Neil Campbell and Harold Nicol one each, all singles, for Reddendale.

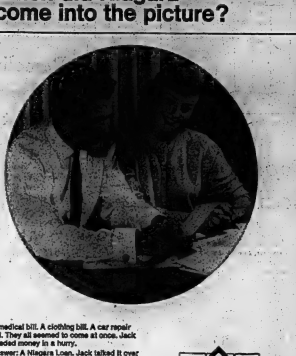
Midgets Lose 3-0

North Toronto scored single runs in three different innings to defeat Belleville Ellis' 3-0, in an OBA midget quarter-final contest at Toronto on Saturday.

The game was the first in a best-of-three series.

The locals' pitcher Randy Castellarin gave up only two hits but still wound up on the losing end of the score. He struck out five and walked four.



Toronto hurlers allowed four hits and walked three, while fanning seven.

Doug Gean slammed two singles and Castellarin and Ted Shaw had one base hit each, for Belleville.

Robinson and Ugolini rapped hits for the winners.

Greek-Canadians Demonstrate Against King

TORONTO (CP) — Several thousand Greek-Canadians demonstrated Sunday against visiting King Constantine, carrying placards denouncing him for support of what they called Greece's "fascist" military government.

The young king arrived Saturday to compete in this week's world Dragon class sailing championships.

The protest started late Sunday afternoon when an estimated 3,000 of Toronto's 40,000-member Greek community gathered in downtown Queen's Park to hear a series of speakers accuse King Constantine of accepting and supporting the military junta which this April ousted civilian government in Greece.

"We know the king tried to resist the generals, but he is still ignorant and guilty," said Angelo Giannakopoulis, secretary of the newly-formed Committee for the Restoration of Democracy in Greece.

"He should have abdicated. If he had, the generals would not have been accepted by the people or the world."

Several skinny Sempopitas — dancing "Long live the king" were taunted from the park.

The crowd then moved to the nearby Park Plaza Hotel where the king is staying during his Toronto visit. A Toronto policeman refused them admittance to present their petition, telling them to deliver it "through proper channels" at the Greek consulate.

The petition called on the king to withdraw all support for the "fascist junta," restore the civilian constitution and release political prisoners.

The monarch and Queen Anne-Marie arrived late Saturday by private plane from New York.

About 150 cheered as the royal couple left the plane at Toronto International Airport. Some 250 would-be protesters waited at the main entrance, only to be disappointed when the king's motorcade left by another gate.

Pope's Delegate Leaves Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Archbishop Sergio Pignedoli has been the Pope's man in Ottawa for the last three years. Sunday he left Canada for a new post in Rome, but managed to take in one last quick look at Expo 67.

As apostolic delegate to Canada since July, 1964, he has been the Roman Catholic Church's official representative to Canadian Catholic Church's official representative to Canadian Catholics, distinguished himself in Ottawa diplomatic circles with an ease and charm carried by many fellow diplomats.

The in-group of diplomats did not hold his attention as much as did the Canadian nation and its people.

Sunday, the man who was assistant to Pope Paul when he was still Cardinal Montini in Milan, flew to Rome to become the new secretary of the Congregation of the Propagation of the Faith, the organization that directs the church's missions throughout the world.

This summer, no sooner had his new appointment been announced than he decided to make the last of his Canadian cross-country tours, visiting especially the missions in western Canada.

In 33 days he travelled 7,400 miles through Western Canada in a Volkswagen, stopping at every mission and diocese along the way.

Demolition Of Home Protested

TORONTO (CP)—Forty placard-waving demonstrators Sunday marched in front of the home of Mayor William Dennison and five other prominent civic officials, protesting the asinine Saturday of the home of Mott Korret.

Mr. Korret, 57, left his Steiner Street house fo shop, then returned to find wreckers accompanied by sheriff's officers had ripped out the windows and doors and were boarding up the four-room frame structure.

The house was ordered expropriated three months ago for $8,300 to make room for a low-rental housing project. Mr. Korret, who bought the house 10 years ago for $2,000, had been gambling it is back up his demand for $12,000.

Many of the demonstrators Sunday were owners of older homes in redevelopment areas.

Bad Brake Fluid Hose May Cause Car to Pull

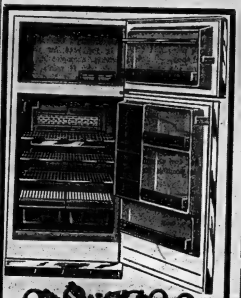
By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes:

"Last May the brakes on my 1960 Chev. started pulling to the left. My mechanic installed new top-grade overs I e bonded brake shoes, overhauled the wheel cylinders, and resurfaced the front drums at a total cost of $23. This did not cure the pull, and I was told to drive for a couple of weeks to see if the new linings

I did this, but the pulling became more severe. The mechanic then installed new brake springs on all four wheels, costing another $12. Not this didn't help, and if anything, made it worse. I know that poor tires or loose steering can cause erratic braking, but the tires are new and I spent $100 overhauling the steering last March.

My mechanic has removed the wheels and checked his work four times, but cannot find the cause of the problem. The front drums are now .060 oversize, and I am told this is the limit to which drums can safely be machined. My mechanic tells me a new set of front drums may be the answer (another $40) but cannot guarantee it. Before becoming involved in further expense, I was hoping you might know the cause of the problem."



All hydraulically operated brakes have a flexible rubber hose fitted to each front wheel. Brake fluid is carried through these hoses to the wheel cylinders. When the brakes are applied the fluid is forced through the hos and hydraulic pressure presses the brake shoes out against the brake drums to stop the car.

To avoid pulling left or right it is imperative that the flow of fluid be equal in both these front hoses. Occasionally, one of these hoses deteriorates and swells up internally, restricting or blocking the flow of the fluid to that front wheel cylinder. More hydraulic pressure is then applied to the opposite front wheel, causing the car to pull in that direction. If the pull is to the left, it means the hose on the right wheel is restricted. It's wise to replace both front hoses should one be restricted, to avoid recurrence of the same problem.

To test these hoses, remove them, clean the end, and try to blow through them. If they are restricted, it will be almost impossible to force air out the other end.

Beatles' Manager Dies at 32 Leaves Fortune of $18,000,000

LONDON (AP)—A post-mortem probably will be held to determine what killed Brian Epstein, but one friend said the 32-year-old discoverer of the Beatles had been in poor health for months.

Epstein, whose promotion of the Beatles and other pop music stars made him a multimillionaire, was found dead in bed at his $109,000 home near Buckingham Palace Sunday.

"No notes were found at the house," said a spokesman for Scotland Yard. "As far as we are concerned there are no suspicious circumstances."

After failing to make the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, Epstein went to work building a record department in his father's Liverpool furniture store.

Intrigued by the number of requests he got for a German record made by a local pop group called the Beatles, he sought them out at the Liverpool Cavern Club in October, 1961, and became their manager.

He claimed he lost no money on them for the first year, but late in 1962 their records began spinning to the top of the hit parade, and then money began to pour in.

During the last five years the Beatles are reckoned to have earned between £30,000,000 and £50,000,000 ($60,000,000) and $90,000,000. Epstein's personal fortune was estimated at around £8,000,000.

Epstein had a great ability for discovering and promoting talent and had many other top pop stars under his management.

To his staff he was known as a good man, but he was lonely and often depressed and admitted to friends he attempted suicide last year. Recently he had been depressed by the death of his father, to whom he was close.

Epstein's contract with the Beatles was due for renewal at the end of the year, but this was considered a formality. On learning of his death, the quartet hurried back to London from Wales, where they were attending lectures and meditations by and Indian mystic.

"We were stunned and shocked," said Ringo Starr, the Beatles' drummer. "Brian had everything to live for."

Area Skiers Finish 3rd

A pair of Quinte district skiers won third place honors at the Canadian National kite flying championships, in Peterborough, over the weekend.

Mike Church, of Deseronto, captured third place in the overall standings, behind champion Don Ho, of Baltimore, Col. and Ron Rochette, of Lasalle, Que.

Elaine MacDonald, of Belleville, brought home third place in the women's overall standings, where Jean Rochette was the crown and Sharon Klement was second.

Parsons Tire At End Lose 3-1 to Italo

Belleville Parsons scored an early goal but then faded to end on the short end of a 3-1 score, in a Kingston and District soccer match against league - leading Kingston Italo on Sunday.

Both clubs put on a fine display of fast, hard - hitting football to entertain a large crowd of spectators at Zwick's Island.

Parsons took an early lead when Bob Pearson tucked a pass from Joe Iazenza and put Ron Gish in the open close to the visitors net.

Parsons dominated play throughout the first half but their efforts were frustrated by the Kingston goalkeeper. Theo Toffolon broke away from the Belleville defence to score on Parsons' goalkeeper Ray Hore, and the game was tied.

Two more Kingston goals, by Jesperson and Neilsen, came late in the game against the tired home team.

Franco Nicola, Parsons' 15-year-old left wing, deserves mention for his fine play.

Read Ties Best-of-7 Playoff 1-1

A three-run first inning rally led to Read's 5-3 victory over Brighams Baseball League finals play at Shannonville yesterday.

Put a home run in the top of the ninth got the job done as Read took a 5-4 win to knot the best-of-seven set at a win each and one tie.

Games are slated for Read on Tuesday and Shannonville Thursday of this week.

Read led 4-0 going into the bottom of the third but Shannonville notched a pair then, and single runs in the seventh and eighth, before Read snapped the tie.

Ted Abrams pitched an eight-hit victory and cut nine down on strikes. He walked one.

Larry Lewis lost it after taking over from brother Dave in the third frame. They gave up 10 hits, struck out six and walked five.

Wayne Pascoe, Carm Milligan and Ted Abrams had two hits each, including a double by Pascoe, to spark the Read attack. Fred Abrams, Ken Abrams, Pete Enright and Frank Farrell contributed singles.

Wayne Sager enjoyed a big day in defeat with a home run, triple and single. Bob Dellar singled twice for Shannonville. Jerry St. Denis, Bud Hill and Mike Brad each got one.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Dancer's Image, son of Native Dancer, ran to a 1¾-length victory Saturday in the $32,575 Cherubom Stakes at Greenwood.

Owned by Peter Fuller of Boston, the big grey easily defeated Windfield Farm's Soldier of Fortune over the seven-furlong dash.

The odds-on-favorite, with Antonio Gomez aboard paid $2.70.

Greenwood's leading jockey Jim Kelly brought Lady Kasha to victory in the third and Copper Fire in the fifth to boost his total to 33 winners.

Trap and Gun Results

Barry Titterson, Lloyd Blue and George Roberts carried the top guns at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's weekend shoot yesterday.

Titterson scored 24 out of 25 in the 16-yard single targets division, followed by Blue, Denny Rosatte, Brad Lee, Robert and Doug Johnston, etch with 22, and Grant Griffin, with 20.

In the handicap event, Blue scored 23 out of 25 and Griffin had 22.

Roberts paced the doubles shooters with 24 out of a possible 30. Griffin, Blue and Lee each registered an even 20.

It was announced that the annual club championship shoot will be held on Sunday, September 17, beginning at 10 a.m.

Peewees And Bantams Win Zone Softball Championships

Belleville peewees and bantams captured Zone Four OASA championships over the weekend with victories over Oshawa clubs.

Belch's peewees used a six-run fifth inning here Saturday to defeat Oshawa 7-4. In Oshawa, SACO bantams doubled the score 10-5 against their Motor City counterparts.

Belleville teams swept both games in consecutive games and now await other zone winners.

The OASA Zone Four squirt finals, Cobourg scored a 5-3 win over Belleville. The second game is scheduled for Alumite Park Saturday, at 3 p.m.

Bob Sprachett pitched the peewee win. He allowed seven hits, struck out seven and walked four. Paul Faillace gave up eight hits, fanned six and passed three.

Belch hitters were Sprackett with a double and single, John Romano two singles, Mike Short a homer, David Dolan a double, Ken Vos and Peter Stallkovich a base hit each. Terry McKee was best for Oshawa with a triple and single.

In bantam, Belleville starter Steve Hills had to leave with a pulled back muscle after one inning and Bill Buchanan hurled the remainder. They gave up six hits, struck out nine and walked but one. Oshawa's Wright was combed for 17 hits.

Al Travis led the SACO hitters with a homer, double and single. Bob Codling had a home run and single, Herb Poisier a triple and single, Bill Buchikin a double and single and Bill Kirkham three safeties. Tom Hiddleston, Geoff Morton and Dave Belnap also hit safely. No Oshawa player had more than one hit.

Cobourg pitcher Hastings gave Belleville squirts only three hits a home run and double by Dave Sutherland and another homer by Martin Thistle.

Cobourg scored three in the fifth to grab the win, collecting six hits off Belleville pitcher Sutherland. Erwin led the winners' attack with two singles.

Carmel Splits 2 Games

Carmel dropped a 7-1 decision to Thorahill on Saturday but rebounded to gain a narrow 4-3 win at home yesterday in OBA peewee "C" playoff action.

The deciding tilt in the best-of-three set will be played at Carmel on Sunday.

In Carmel's loss, Thorahill scored all of their runs in the first two innings off pitcher Carm McCaffery.

Dale Bamber relieved McCaffery and buried five innings of shutout ball, but the losers never recovered from their early deficit.

McCaffery and John Masterson had Carmels' hits.

Sed.

Matheson, the winning pitcher on Saturday, took the loss yesterday.

McCaffery tripled and singled, and Rodger Ruckstall, Dale Bamber, and Bob Allison had base hits for Carmel.

With The Trotters

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Tenya Herbert won the $10,000 Canadian standardbred futurity of Mohawk Raceway Saturday with a 4¼-length victory over Kobra Rosie.

The win was Tenya Herbert's seventh in nine attempts and boosts her earnings to $22,364.

Driven by owner Ed Herbert of Lambeth Farms Tenya Herbert combined with Kobra Rosie for an exacta of $16.30.

Ambert Alcyn and Merrie Dauzier combined for a daily double of $43.80.

HOME FILMS ON TV

NEW YORK (AP)—A new process to play film cartridges through ordinary television sets in house or classroom was announced Sunday by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

A spokesman said the equipment-cartridges and a "player" attachment—will become available early in 1969 in Britain, and soon thereafter in the United States and elsewhere.

Marmora Personals

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grant of Cardiff spent Wednesday in Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Green have returned home following Mr. Green's having undergone surgery in a Toronto Hospital and recuperating with their daughter, Mrs. Hugh McManus in Scarborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Whiteman have taken up residence in their newly erected home on Forsythe St.

Miss Judy Anderson of Hoard's Station is holidaying with her grandparents this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Finnegan and Miss Finnegan of Picton visited Mr. Finnegan's father, Mrs. A. Campion of Marmora, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. James Casement has returned to his home here following surgery in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Reginald Little (nee Bernadine MacPherson) of San Antonio, Texas spent a few days in Marmora visiting with the residents of the late John and late Hugh Shannon. Mrs. Little noted many changes and improvements in the village since her last visit her 34 years ago.

Mrs. T. Wood of Willowdale spent holidays here with her son, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Monk.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Mason, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McLean and daughters and Mrs. McLean Sr. of North Augusta, S.C. paid a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Foston of Nash St., Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Savage and children of Collins Bay are spending this month with Mrs. Alice Mahoney.

Mr. Roger Peckinpaugh of Cleveland, Ohio, is holidaying at his cottage at Crows Lake. He states he has only missed two years in the past 43 years. Mr. Peckinpaugh was a baseball player with Washington and New York Yankees (professional) league and later was manager of the Cleveland Indians. He and his family have made many friends here.

Movie Column

Samuel Goldwyn, Alert, Canny As Ever Despite His 85 Years

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Samuel Goldwyn celebrated his 85th birthday Sunday in a quiet manner befitting his position as Hollywood's elder statesman.

The night before, several of the top names of the film world gathered at his Laurel Lane mansion in Beverly Hills to salute his 85 years.

There was all the observance that Goldwyn wanted. Unlike recent years, he did not summon the press to his Formosa Avenue studio to deliver pronouncements on the state of the movie business.

"Look, I have no news to offer," he said on the telephone from his office.

During the last year or two, the film pioneer has been getting more and more from the Hollywood scene. He rarely attends parties or awards banquets, though he and his wife Frances still give small, elegant dinners at their home.

He no longer takes his long walks, limiting his exercise to golf. He still goes to the office two or three times a week, but his days there are shorter in duration.

But if his physical powers have lessened, he seems as alert and canny as ever.

"He still keeps a close eye on everything that goes on at the studio," which he rents to other producers, an intimate reported.

The Goldwyn product has been released in TV during the past couple of years, and the producer has been able to rattle off ratings for such films as "Best Years of Our Lives, The Secret Life of Walter Mitty, Guys and Dolls and Wuthering Heights."

Goldwyn watches a great deal of television and often sees the latest films in his home. Privately he deplores the trend toward sexier and more violent films, but he declines to make any public pronouncements.

One film he produced was Porgy and Bess in 1959. For a time of the public he embraces the folk opera was a bitter disappointment to him.

Hees Says Liberals in Civil Service One Cause of Inflation

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Contenders for the Conservative leadership took their campaigns into the Maritimes, Ontario and two Prairie provinces Saturday.

George Hees told a Saskatoon audience that one reason for inflation was the large number of Liberal supporters in the civil service.

Despite "an astronomical increase" in the public service, Canadians were getting worse service than ever before from it, the former trade minister declared.

In Sudbury, Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba defended former prime minister Diefenbaker's northern vision as "a real and substantial thing" and in Saint John, N.B., former finance minister Donald Fleming promised greater economic aid to the Atlantic provinces if he became prime minister.

In Winnipeg, Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia labbed Mr. Roblin as his major threat for the Conservative leadership. But he added that all would-be leaders were formidable opposition.

Meanwhile a 51-year-old Toronto woman held a news conference to announce herself as the 10th candidate for the leadership convention to be held in Toronto Sept. 8-9.

Mary Walker Bawtra said she has filed an intention to run for the post with convention headquarters. But a spokesman there said Mrs. Sawka had not yet advised the party of her intention in writing. She had spoken to convention officials by telephone.

Mrs. Sawka described herself as a movie producer, director and writer and president of Palmer Production Enterprises Ltd.

Mr. Hees also was critical of the government allowing labor disputes to reach five "crisis stages." It had created "illegal strikes legally, and provided 30 per-cent wage increases."

Mr. Robbin said communications were vital to developing the Canadian north as a new frontier and cited Mr. Diefenbaker's road-to-resources program as an essential part of northern communications.

"Unless we can get at the resources of the north, they can not be used for the good of all," Mr. Robbin said.

"Mr. Fleming said it was an unhappy fact that the per capita income of the Atlantic provinces was lower than the national average. This was a federal responsibility.

As Prime minister, he would increase grants to the area through the Atlantic Development Board, he said.

To Your Good Health

Fitting Symptoms to Disease Is Wrong

Dear Dr. Molner: I think I have a brain tumor but can't be sure. Please state some symptoms. — G.M.D.

You came to the right place with the wrong request.

I can't think of a single good reason why I should tell you any of the symptoms of a brain tumor.

Deciding on a disease first and looking for the symptoms afterward is the surest way of deceiving yourself. It is also the surest way for a doctor to deceive himself. — so doctors train themselves not to do so.

There are mighty few symptoms which are exclusively characteristic of a single disease. Most fit several conditions, so you have to judge other symptoms, too, until you have a set of signs which point to one and only one disease. That is why a physician very often will refuse to give a patient any indication of the likely diagnosis until a history has been taken and an examination and laboratory tests have been made.

Obviously you must be having trouble of some sort to make you think you have a brain tumor. What you must do is tell the doctor what these troubles are — and let him decide whether it is a tumor or something else. If you can't restrain yourself, you can even tell him you think it is a tumor, or you are afraid it is, or that for some reason you are more terrified of a tumor than anything else. But then let him decide what your trouble is, and treat it accordingly.

One trouble with knowing symptoms but without knowing (or being able) to perform various tests, of which a brain wave test would be an important one in this case, is that you wind up frightening yourself into finding symptoms that aren't really there.

A good friend of mine who had been working on rabies woke up one night with what he decided were all the signs of that disease. The more he thought about it, the more symptoms he was sure he had.

He said it felt like hours to him, but it may have been only a matter of minutes before he screwed up the courage to try to swallow. If he couldn't — that would fit with rabies.

So he tried to swallow. And was astonished to find that he could. The rest of his symptomes disappeared and he went back to sleep.

So take your symptoms to your doctor. You may pleasantly surprise yourself to find that there isn't any tumor. If so, your symptoms may all disappear or the real cause be discovered.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is the diet they call the Mayo Clinic Diet really from Rochester, or is it just a name given to it? — Mrs. A.D.L.

Just a name, it has no connection whatsoever with the Clinic. In fact, the Clinic people got so tired of being falsely attached to the thing that in a journal published by them they printed an item:

"Many have stepped up by the spurious 'Mayo' diet prompted the Clinic to publish this diet to end all diets.' "

Then followed a week's meals of which the following is a sample:

Sunday

BREAKFAST - 4 chopped banana seeds.

LUNCH — Broiled butterfly liver

DINNER — Filet of soft crab claw

Other items included such tasty ones as "DINNER — Breathe deeply passing delicatessen," and "BREAKFAST — Boiled out stains of table cloth."

Dear Dr. Molner: Did you ever hear of wearing a piece of brown paper over chest and stomach for ear or seasickness? — Mrs. B.J.

Yes, and even mentioned it in this column. I have no idea why it should work but sometimes it does. It is probably a psychological effect.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Mr. Stanfield told a news conference he does not favor revision of existing welfare measures such as the old age pension and family allowances. But these programs may need updating, he said.

Chinese Diplomats Protest Trailing By Scotland Yard

LONDON (AP) — Chinese Communist diplomats blew their car horns and shouted at Scotland Yard detectives trailing them today near the Chinese trade office.

The Chinese were protesting restrictions on their movements imposed in retaliation for the arrest of Chinese Legation in Peking last week.

The Chinese, wearing Mao-style "boiler suits," waved little red books and treated about 30 onlookers to a reading in English from The Thoughts of Mao.

Smiling, one Chinese said this was intended "to promote friendship between the Chinese and British peoples."

The foreign office said Britain's charge d'affaires in Peking, Donald Hopson, still had not succeeded in obtaining plane seats for 36 members of his staff of them women and children.

Hson is back working in his office and able to communicate with London by commercial cable only. The diplomat's direct radio link has been shut down by the Chinese.

Yemeni Ceasefire Ordered

ADEN (Reutes) — Unconfirmed reports from Yemen said Sunday the Yemeni royalist government ordered a ceasefire in its war against Yemen's republican regime as from midnight Saturday night.

The announcement, said to have been broadcast by the royalist radio, added that the ceasefire would become effective only if Egyptian troops supporting the republicans are withdrawn from the Yemen.

The Egyptian troops, estimated at from 25,000 to 40,000, support the republican regime which for five years has engaged in a civil war against the Yemeni royalists who were ousted in a 1962 military coup d'etat.

Nicotine Deadens Men's Sex Life

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet doctor says heavy smokers should beware—nicotine can deaden their sex life.

Writing in the magazine Science and Life, Dr. Ilya Porudominsky warned that experiments show "nicotine causes harm to the sex centres" and is one of the chief causes of impotence among Soviet men.

The doctor advised impotent men to stop smoking, stop drinking and get plenty of sleep. He also recommended vitamins, physiotherapy, psychological therapy and an unexplained remedy he called "tissue therapy."

Gullible Birds Want Nest Back

SUNDERLAND, England (Reuters) — Seagulls attacked a woman visitor to a bird sanctuary near here after apparently mistaking her new hair-style for a nest.

They began tearing the hair-style to pieces, and she only escaped after putting on a headscarf.

A Spitfire offered as an explanation, saying the gulls were angry because they thought the woman was taking the "nest" away.

Nazi Held in Killing Of Jewish Salesman

COHOES, N.Y. (AP)—A former member of the American Nazi party was held on a first-degree murder charge today in the shooting of a Jewish salesman.

Francis Mainville, 29, of Cohoes, described himself as a Nazi storm trooper Saturday, police said, upon his arrest after the slaying of Harry Feariberg, 39, a shoe-to-door clothing salesman from nearby Troy.

Feariberg, who had called at Mainville's house to make a collection, was struck by several bullets fired through the closed door by a .22-calibre pistol, police said.

Police said Mainville was arrested after telling a police officer: "If you'd been black, I'd have shot you, too."

Mainville pleaded innocent to the murder charge Saturday. He was remanded without bail pending hear Friday.

When arrested, Mainville wore a black arm band with a red SS symbol on his left arm and a silver SS pin on his collar. The SS was Germany's elite storm trooper organization in the Second World War.

Mainville's wife and daughter were away at the time of the shooting.

Viet Cong Shelling Spreads Agonies

CAN THO, South Vietnam (AP)—His tiny chest throbbed with pain from the shell fragments that tore into his body. His eyes were filled with all the agonies of war.

He was a brave little boy. He did not cry, at least not aloud, not at first, when one of the wounds in his back began to hemorrhage.

Then the pain and fear became more than a boy of seven could contain, even with his wounded grandmother, her own face pocked with superficial shrapnel wounds, at his side. Finally, he screamed.

His mother could not come to him. She lay wounded in the same hospital in a bed only a few feet away.

The boy, his mother and her mother were the victims early Sunday of a Viet Cong mortar shelling of Can Tho that left 46 persons dead and 222 wounded.

HOSPITAL FILLED

The Mekong Delta provincial hospital in this Mekong Delta city 80 miles southwest of Saigon was filled with men, women and children wounded in the attack. There were perhaps 150 persons jammed into the main ward. With the wounded were their families who remained at their side, as is the custom of the Vietnamese.

Outside, American medics loaded some patients into ambulances for evacuation to other hospitals.

A crowd gathered around one middle-aged woman on a stretcher. Her arms and legs moved erratically. Her facial muscles twitched. Her eyes made a jerking movement.

She had suffered a skull fracture in the Viet Cong shelling that poured more than 100 rounds of fire at several areas in this city of 115,000 persons.

"Let's tie her feet together because she's having a convulsion," shouted one American medic as the men hoisted the stretcher. She would be transferred to a hospital that had a resident neurosurgical specialist.

FLOOD KILLS 24

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The waters of the River Jumna, swollen by torrential rains, flooded 115 villages in the Delhi and nearby Agra areas Sunday night, killing at least 24 persons and rendering thousands homeless. The situation is expected to worsen with flood waters still rising.

Election Eve in Mekong Delta Finds Peasants Under Pressure

Two Associated Press reporters investigated South Vietnam's election campaign in the northern Mekong Delta, home of 1,- 250,000 voters. Here is their report.

By PETER ARNETT
and
KELLY SMITH

TAN AN (AP)—In the villages that line the canals criss-crossing the Mekong Delta in the government towns surrounded by barbed wire, the official word is that South Vietnam's presidential election Sept. 3 will be the first opportunity to make a free choice for a government.

But the hard facts threaten hope that democracy is even beginning if recent events in the northern Mekong Delta are duplicated elsewhere.

A government official suspected of supporting a presidential slate other than that of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky might lose his job. That happened to the deputy province chief for security in Long An province, Maj. Nguyen Van Xinh.

Should the peasants be unsure of a choice among the 11 presidential slates, they might be enlightened by some of the district chiefs. All openly favor the Thieu-Ky ticket.

Special booths are being provided for soldier voters in some districts, suggesting to some observers the possibility of voting irregularities.

As the current chief of state and premier of Vietnam, Thieu and Ky hold a government and military apparatus that employs 1,000,000 people. Many observers feel this represents their election. No other candidates have anywhere near the broad following that the military men can poll.

The Viet Cong are actively trying to sabotage the election, by threat, terrorism, and military action.

American officials say the activities of the military state's supporters have been generally covert and probably will not take the form of anything so obvious as ballot box stuffing.

However, these Americans say the transfer of the security chief of Long An, Maj. Xanh, was a blatant, unnecessary and unwise act. The Viet Cong in the province already are making slightly slanted attacks against government outposts, blowing up main highways, murdering election officials, and threatening to blow the two largest steel and concrete bridges in the area.

The great mass of the people appear to know that there is an election coming up, but they have no real grasp of what it means, or who the candidates are.

Ky may get votes, not because of his military record but because his supporters tell farmers in the province, "Vote for the man with the moustache." Ky? He's the only candidate that has one.

Peasants often believe the election means a handout of food and clothing, because whenever the government information service comes in their hamlet to talk about voting, it brings gifts.

Peace is the main concern of hundreds of farmers, fishermen, and laborers interviewed in the countryside, and many observers believe that any candidate with a peace ticket would get tremendous backing from the rural population.

A hamlet schoolteacher, asked why he would vote, said: "I will vote because the government asked me to. The government is very powerful and when they ask us to do something we're expected to do it."

The Viet Cong who control most of the population of the northern delta and move freely among another third, are expressing more interest in these presidential elections than in any other elections in the past.

Loudspeaker teams sneak in at dusk to scores of hamlets for hours-long harrangues.

Buses are stopped on lonely country roads, and Communist leaflets are appearing all over the delta.

The Communist theme runs: "If Thieu and Ky are elected, we will not negotiate with them."

To the simple rice farmer this means perpetuation of the war.

Move Is Likely to Get UN Action on Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new effort by some U.S. senators to bring the Vietnam war before the United Nations appears to be generating support with tacit approval of President Johnson.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's statement that the administration is interested in seeking action on a long-dormant U.S. resolution for reconvening of the Geneva conference sparked new inspection of this possible avenue toward peace negotiations.

Senator George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican member of the Senate foreign relations committee, in an interview urged Johnson to ask the UN Security Council to try to get the South Vietnamese government to open negotiations after its election Sept. 3.

William B. Bundy, undersecretary of state for East Asian and Pacific affairs, said Sunday, however, the United States probably would stay entirely out of peace talks if the new Saigon government found a way to negotiate with the Viet Cong and requested U.S. absence.

Bundy also said the U.S. would "take very seriously" any request by an elected South Vietnamese government that bombing policy be altered.

Mansfield, in an interview Saturday he believes Johnson will act to put the Vietnam issue before the council. He had met with Johnson earlier last week.

President action to touch off UN discussion of the war could be interpreted in the Senate as an attempt to offset growing opposition to the course he is following in Vietnam.

A U.S. resolution calling for a conference to apply to Geneva accords of 1954 and 1962 to the Vietnam conflict was shelved early in 1966 after it became apparent that it would be voted down or vetoed in the Security Council.

Mansfield said he favors inviting China, North Vietnam, the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, and the new Saigon government to participate in the Security Council's discussions.

Bundy said the United States has "no indication that Hanoi is ready to call off the war, but said it was possible next Sunday's elections might change that. He was not asked to explain how.

He appeared on NBC's Meet the Press.

Burning Tank Truck Threatens Small Town

FORT LITTLETON, Pa. (AP)—The threat of an explosion hung over this little town for six hours Sunday night until two army experts braving possible death, opened the doors of a smoking truck and leased out a dozen boxes of chemicals.

The truck started smoking on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, and was pulled into a picnic grove near this town of 100.

Police warned residents of a possible explosion that could release deadly fumes, and some left town with their children.

Wearing masks, Army Capt. Robert Leiendecker and Sgt. Benjamin Albertson, opened the truck doors and threw out the smouldering boxes. Leiendecker said that ended the danger.

Truck driver Arthur Holland said the truck was loaded with chlorine, which is toxic, and hexane, which is flammable.

Police went from door to door warning residents of the danger. The area around the truck was blocked off.

Bobbies Face Ball Bats, Axe

Red Diplomats Fight Police

LONDON (Reuters) — Furious Chinese wielding baseball bats and, in one instance an axe, clashed with police today outside the Chinese legation here. Several persons were reported injured.

The scuffling with truncheon-swinging police preceded a protest from the Chinese Charge d'affaires, Shen Ping, that police had beaten a member of the Chinese mission.

A spokesman said the British Foreign Office denied the allegation.

Police, demonstrators and legation staff were involved in two violent clashes outside the legation.

The first was in front of the building. The second came as Shen drove his big black Mercedes to the back of the legation.

The melee ended with blood streaming from the diplomat's face and a police officer taken to hospital with chest injuries. Several other policemen also were reported hurt.

The scuffling was touched off when a Chinese dashed down the legation's steps and waved the book of the thoughts of communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung in front of bystanders who booed five diplomats suddenly appearing at a side door.

A group of about 20 Chinese ran out of the legation's garages and pounded the roof of a police car, screaming that the police had insulted Chairman Mao.

Police tried to restrain them and within seconds there was a seething mass of about 40 struggling bodies.

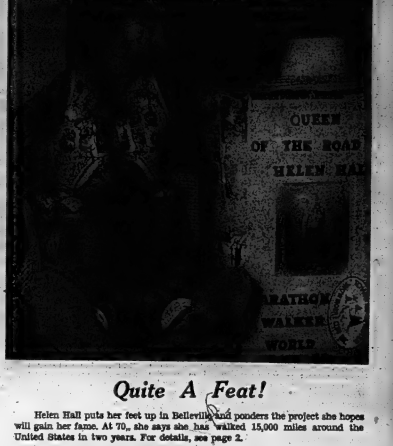
Bystanders said at least one Chinese had a pistol. Others carried axe-handles, milk bottles, garbage can covers as shields—and baseball bats.

A policeman was led away, blood streaming from his head. A Chinese man, his face a mass of blood, was dragged along the narrow alley behind the legation.

One report said Shen himself was thought to be in the melee.

A blonde policewoman grabbed a Chinese and kicked him to the ground.

A woman hurled flower pots at the Chinese from the window of an upstairs apartment.



Then the mass with the axe appeared. He led a group of Chinese who forced their way along the alley.

One policeman was said to have been hit on the skull with an axe.

Two policemen, three Chinese and a photographer were taken to hospital. Another policeman injured—in the first clash was also taken to hospital.

The fighting—which lasted about 15 minutes—ended with the Chinese retreating into the garage.

More than 30 police crowded into the alley to prevent further trouble.

Quite A Feat!

Diphtheria Case Listed At Consecon

Dr. C. R. Lonk, medical officer of health for the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit today reported a case of diphtheria had occurred at Consecon and appealed to parents to have children immunized against the disease.

The announcement by Dr. Lonk said that the 15-year-old Consecon girl who had contracted diphtheria had never been immunized against the disease.

Dr. Lonk said that all necessary around-the-clock measures were being taken to stop a possible spread of the dread disease. He urged the public to have children routinely immunized by family physicians at immunization clinics organized by the health unit or in schools.

Festival of Flower Children Blossoms With Lovely Cash

LONDON (CP)—The Festival of Flower Children, billed as the event of the year for Britain's hippies and held at the Duke of Bedford's rolling 2,000-acre estate, left acres of flower-power advocates wondering today whether it was a love-in or a cash-in.

Sixteen accountants were hired today by organizers to count the take of the three-day festival at Woburn Abbey, 40 miles north of London. They estimate the profit at $70,000 plus $15,000 to the Duke for rental of his estate.

More than 50,000 persons, most of them teen-agers with flowers in their hair and bells around their necks, paid $4.50 each to lie in the grass for three days, listen to continuous beat music and talk love, love, love.

Most of them wore little bottoms saying "Make love, not war", and most of them found people trying to make something else—money.

Everywhere they turned, someone was selling something. Beads, baubles and bells went for anything from $2 to $10. Hot dogs were 40 cents, soft drinks 20 cents.

As the rock music baited out into the night, disc jockeys typed dancers in the crowd at $5,000 to "buy something beautiful"—like a psychedelic poster for only $2.50.

And there, in his own booth, stood the chairman himself, signing autographs for people who bought souvenir plaques, pencils, books, badges or "official" Woburn Abbey tea towels.

But most tradesmen found the flower people had little to offer besides love. "They don't buy anything over 10 shillings," said a dealer in imitation leather.

The festival, held in conjunction with Britain's long weekend Bank Holiday, had other problems.

Hundreds of visitors were ordered to leave the grounds Saturday night after Scotland Yard received an anonymous warning that a bomb had been planted in the abbey.

No bomb was found, but policemen received 11 calls in the abbey during the next 12 hours. Most were false alarms, but four small blazes were put out. Police said someone was trying to "sabotage the event".

But it was all pronounced a success today by chief promoter Cyril Power.

Police called the event "extremely well organized".

The duke said he was in favor of the event and announced he has already made preliminary plans to hold another one on his estate next year.

Attacks Seen Viet Cong Plot to Sabotage Vote

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. and South Vietnamese sources said today the Viet Cong have plotted a countrywide campaign to sabotage the presidential elections Sunday with increased military attacks, terrorism and propaganda.

The sources said information on the Viet Cong plans came from captured documents, intelligence reports and questioning of guerrillas taken prisoner.

During the weekend the Viet Cong launched a series of mortar, rocket and artillery attacks from Quant Tri province below the demilitarized zone to the Mekong Delta in the south. There also has been a sharp increase in terrorist kidnappings, murders and sabotage.

The sources said one captured document called for Viet Cong forces in the northern city of Da Nang to "smash the ballot boxes" of the election." It said that if the elections were a failure, this would provide "momentum to force a new political crisis."

Another captured document said the policy of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is "to battle the masses to push a full-fledged political struggle to disrupt the false election of Thieu-Ky and to make the new crisis greater."

From this it appeared that the Viet Cong is assuming Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky—the military candidates—will be elected president and vice-president.

Some U.S. officials view the anti-election drive as a last-ditch effort and predict the Viet Cong will be seriously weakened if the voting is carried out successfully.

Other quarters discount this, however, and say the Viet Cong appear to be looking beyond the voting day. The intelligence documents and some captured enemy documents call for action to be taken after the elections.

Viet Cong Sappers Blow Up 9 Bridges

SAIGON (CP)—The United States suffered its heaviest losses for a seven-day period in the war against North Vietnam — 19 planes—between Aug. 21 and Aug. 27, the U.S. command announced today.

In South Vietnam, the stepped-up campaign of shelling and bridge destruction in the northern war zone was met today by three heavy B-52 raids on Communist staging bases inside the demilitarized zone.

Military headquarters said Viet Cong sappers blew up nine bridges, eight of them in the mekong area on a national highway and one in the main Mekong Delta city of Can Tho.

Bolshoi Refuses Pay So CBC Show Is Off

MONTREAL (CP) — A scheduled performance of the Soviet Union's Bolshoi Theatre on the CBC radio network was cancelled Monday after the company refused to allow its members to receive minimum performers' pay stipulated in a labor contract between the network and the Union des Artistes.

The union's agreement with the CBC states that all performers appearing in broadcasts in conjunction with the Expo 67 World Festival of Labor performed must be paid individually at certain minimum rates.

However, a CBC spokesman said the theatrical company pays its members a basic weekly salary and would not permit them to be paid under the terms of the agreement between the union and the CBC.

Salmon Derby Winner Charged With Fraud

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police Monday arrested David John Chale, 32, and charged him with fraud as winner of the Aug. 20 Vancouver Sun salmon fishing derby.

Chale, a Newfoundlander, who had been working as a part-time laborer in the fishing wharf district, was at home when arrested by city police. He is scheduled to make a court appearance today.

The weekend derby Chale won the $3,500 first prize boat and motor "by presenting a fish . . . when in fact he had not caught the fish according to the established rules," of the contest.

Officials of the derby said any redistribution of prizes would take place after the case against Chale was completed.

Chale had he hooked the 37½-pound winner about 8:45 a.m. Aug. 20, after having caught four or five smaller salmon.

Chale told reporters "I've seen bet I'm a good fisherman," and that he had risen at 2 a.m. on the morning of the derby.

"My grandfather and my father were both fishermen and I caught my first when I was nine," he said.

Picton Mayor Left Off PC List of Delegates

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The nine declared candidates for the Conservative leadership took a back seat Monday as heated controversy broke out over the way two sets of voting delegates were selected to attend the September leadership convention.

Laura G. Mann of Ottawa, an Ontario director of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, found fault with the way her province's 90 delegates had been chosen.

Miss Mann said 40 of the 90 selected are from the immediate Toronto area, including many financial contributors.

She said Mayor Harvey McFarland of Picton was left off the list because he was an elected voting delegate, "which was not so."

Mayor McFarland was not chosen for the five-member delegation which represents his home riding of Prince-Edward-Hastings at the convention.

He was not available for comment this morning.

At an Ottawa news conference, Miss Mann, one of a four-member committee which appoints the delegates, accused convention co-chairman E. A. Goodman of Toronto of rigging the delegates in favor of one or two unmentioned candidates.

Mr. Goodman was not available for comment but he was shortly defended by party president Dalton Camp and Elmer Bell, Ontario association leader.

Paul was added to the controversy later in the day when it was revealed that party national director, Dr. James Johnston, had sent a formal letter of protest against the addition of 94 voting delegates from among persons attending the Conservative policy advisory conference earlier this month in Quebec.

Dr. Johnston's letter to convention secretary Gene Rheume said the 94 far exceeded the number agreed upon earlier by a convention committee. He said the maximum should be 30.

Dr. Johnston's letter also said 51 of the 94 were from Ontario and a large number of these were known supporters of one of the leadership candidates.

Driveshed Roof "Ventilated" by Fire

A driveshed fire at Hastings County Manor west of the city left this unusual latticework effect yesterday, as the blaze burned off sections of aluminum siding. Two tractors and most other stored machinery were rolled to safety.

THE WEATHER

Synoptic: It will be a warm sunny day across southern Ontario with afternoon temperatures climbing to the 80s. Over the rest skies will be variable and there will be a few widely scattered showers or thundershowers in other parts of the province. This weather is occurring in advance of easter and moving in and by late Wednesday all of southern and central Ontario will be in the cooler air.

Detention Centre Cost Million Over Estimate

Costs for the proposed four-county regional detention centre in Bo bolt just outside Napanee have come in nearly one million dollars higher than expected.

As a result the consulting architect for the department of reform institutions, Harry B. Toll of Toronto, has been asked to review tenders to see if cuts can be made to reduce the cost.

The regional detention centre board will meet on September 15 to discuss the matter and decide what to do about the building.

Total costs of the project have now risen to $3,346,000 — almost $1,000,000 more than the original estimate of $2,350,000.

The lowest of eight tenders submitted for the building alone was for $2,971,000.

In addition to this cost is the price of jail facilities at $515,000; land with services, $160,000; architect's fees $180,000, and contingencies and other costs another $100,000, making a total of $3,946,000.

Fifty per cent of the over-all cost of the project would be covered by provincial grant with the four counties — Hastings, Prince Edward; Lennox and Addington and Frontenac — to pay the balance.

The local cost to each county and city would be based on that municipality's expected per capita use of the facilities.

Hastings county clerk treasurer Carl Bateman said that if the $3,350,000 cost is final, the county of Hastings, Belleville and Trenton, would be called upon to pay 40 per cent of the four county local share or about $640,000.

Frontenac county's share of the local cost would be 30 per cent of which the city of Kingston would pay about 90 per cent.

This is the second time that architects have been asked to take a second look at the region- al jail project with the view of paring costs.

Plans for the detention centre were drawn more than a year ago but when cost estimates were higher than anticipated the architect was asked to review the project. Tenders were not called at the time.

Ball Brothers of Kingston were the lowest of eight bidders on the building project. Their tender of $3,971,000 for the building alone. The highest bid, by Noren Construction of Toronto, was for $2,608,000.

A check with the architect's office in Toronto brought the explanation that "the prices came in higher than expected."

It was not known whether new tenders might be called under redrawn plans.

Busy Year for Playgrounds Ends

A quiet hush has suddenly and simultaneously descended on 20 pockets of greenbelt in Belleville.

The sudden silence signals the end of organized summerplayground recreations for another year.

And with it, more than 2,000 city youngsters have drifted back home to mother, to mark time and patiently await the opening of school for another year.

Meantime, back at the playgrounds workers are beginning to dismantle the swings, the slides and teeter-totters at the city's 20 playgrounds while recreation officials check out the statistics of the busiest recreation year on record.

The year saw a continuation of expansion — in facilities and activities surrounding them.

One of the biggest additions — and among the most popular — was the opening of a third wading pool, this time at Zwicky's Island.

Its big attraction included the fact that mothers could themselves relax in the surrounding bayshore park while their offspring romped in the pool.

Off-playground activities also showed an increase, with organized bus tours to local places and trips to the Centennial Caravan at Zwicky's Island.

Added to these Centennial Year events was a growing display of initiative among playground supervisors to organize activities of their own inspiration for their young charges.

By far the most successful were the organized track-and-field events, expanded to include meets with Picton and Trenton.

These culminated in a trip to Oshawa and the winning Belleville team taking on challengers from East-Central Ontario. The group placed second in the meet.

Its success confirmed officials' thoughts for building up the athletic events on next year's playground program.

Next year likely will see more emphasis on such events, recreation officials say.

Playground supervisors Mary Kavanagh (left) and Peggy Ackerman make final check of sports equipment as they help playground for another year. More than 2,000 youngsters registered for city's summer recreation program.

Housing Survey Started

PICTON (Staff) — The rental housing survey being conducted in Picton by the Metro Housing Corporation began yesterday with the arrival in Picton of two representatives. Heading the survey are Miss Fran Abood and R. W. Cawfield both of Toronto. They were in touch with town clerk, Douglas Perry, yesterday and picked up maps, zoning by-laws and applications before beginning their survey of the housing needs of the town.

They plan, they said, to personally contact and interview as many applicants as possible and may possibly be continuing their work for a week. The survey at present is to determine the need for low rental housing for families with children and senior citizens.

If there is a proven need in the area for this type of housing the capital cost of the project will be shared jointly with Federal and Provincial governments. The town of Picton is one of the first in the province to take action on this public rental housing plan.

Fire Burns Barn at Manor

Boys playing with matches are believed responsible for a fire which Monday afternoon gutted a machine driveshed at the Hyslinga Manor west of Belleville causing several thousand dollars damage.

The roof of the fully enclosed structure was burned off but most of the machinery, including two tractors, seed drill and other equipment was rolled to safety.

The driveshed was only 20 feet from a larger structure housing hogs, but the wind fortunately blew flames away from the building.

County hoens officials say that three small boys were seen running away from the driveshed and minutes later reported that the building was afire.

Workers at the county home farm and estate residents were able to save most of the farm equipment stored in the lower section of the building. The fire is believed to have started in the second storey loft.

Farm irrigation equipment, a number of harvesters and other articles were lost in the blaze which was brought under control by city firemen.

One-time Nurse Walks 15,000 Miles

The road to fame is a long, long trail.

Especially if you're 70, going on 71, and intent on walking every step of the way.

However, the challenge doesn't daunt Helen Hall. Obstinacy is a moving force in her makeup.

And the characteristic so far has set her feet to walking 15,000 miles around the United States and may carry her across Europe.

Yesterday, she put her feet up briefly in Belleville's Queen's Hotel and revealed her streak of stamina in a single statement:

So she trekked to Washington to see President Johnson.

"He wouldn't see me because I wasn't Martin Luther King or someone," she recalls with an edge of bitterness.

Disenchanted, she pondered the idea of undertaking a personal project that somehow might be turned to advantage, something unique — like a 70-year-old woman on a major marathon.

She's now been walking two years and hopes to find a sponsor for a trip across Europe.

Why?

"I want to become internationally famous so I can come back and make enough money to lead a normal life."

Some time ago she crossed into Canada and went to Expo — pushing her possessions in a supermarket shopping cart.

However, there have been problems.

For one, Mrs. Hall never figured on the sparsity of Canada's population, which means communities are further apart than the daily 10 miles she can walk.

Secondly — and more seriously — she says she contracted food - poisoning in an Ontario restaurant and had to do some bus travelling.

Now prospects of a Canadian winter have changed her itinerary and Mrs. Hall hopes to begin walking south as soon as she reaches Toronto.

Along the way she calls on police departments in every community, and seeks a badge or shoulder flash. They adorn her clothing and she wears them happily.

The police, she says, have often given her lodging and been her best friends on her odyssey. She likes to see herself as a travelling public relations contact for them.

Her badges and flashes she hopes to exhibit some day in a small museum which may be a source of income.

Seeking other funds, she has written a book and a song. The song — "My Walking Shoes" — is up for copyright. The book hasn't found a publisher.

However, disbouragement finds no response in her character.

"I don't feel sorry for myself, but I'm out to get what I want out of life," she says firmly. "You can't have things dropped in your lap. You have to get out and get them."

Owners Crowding Wickets

It's tax time again at city hall and local property owners are crowding the cashier's wicket to beat the August 31 deadline.

City Tax Collector John Grahn said today this was the fourth installment for city realty taxes and were due on or before August 31. There is still one more realty tax installment due in October.

Belleville property owners pay taxes in five installments — two for the interim tax billing early in the year and three installments on the final billing after the millrate is set.

Order Inquest In Death

An inquest has been ordered into the death of a Corbyville man, who drowned at an Ontario resort during the weekend.

The body of Hugh Petrie, 32, was found yesterday in a cistern in the motel, provincial police said.

An employee of Northern Electric, he was an active sportsman, he played with the Canadian baseball club, and played with the Grand Realty team of the Quinte Hockey League.

Petrie was born in Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Petrie.

He is survived immediately by his wife, the former Mary Clare Harvey and two daughters, Glenda and Lisa.

He is resting at the O'Brien - Rutledge Funeral Residence and Requiem Mass will be held at Holy Rosary Church on Wednesday.

HIPPIES REMANDED

More White Collar Workers Joining Union Rotarians Told

A big influx of new members into the Canadian labor movement, including people in the so-called white collar field, was envisaged by Dwight M. Storey, legislative director at the Canadian head office of the United Steelworkers of America, when he addressed Belleville Rotarians yesterday.

Mr. Storey said that with the advent of the computer and other technological changes the white collar worker is no longer secure in his job. Nor does he have the close relationship he once enjoyed with top management.

"As a result more and more white collar workers are coming into the ranks of organized labor, and as unions merge, get more resources and new staff, it can be expected this pace will increase."

Already an attempt had been made to organize the employees of a bank in Quebec, and while the union was originally started the drive was not successful, the employees have now formed themselves into what they call an association.

"While this may not be the most desirable thing from organized labor's point of view, it certainly substantiates my suggestion that white collar workers are more and more interested in organization," said Mr. Storey. This is also signified by the attempts of registered nurses to form their own bargaining organizations, and by such people as professional engineers."

In future, insurance salesmen, real estate agents and other professional men could be expected to form similar bargaining groups.

"Collective bargaining is no longer a case of banging your fist on the table. That is outdated, and it does not work," said Mr. Storey. He said since the union's beginnings some 30 years ago it has grown to the point it now represents 140,000 workers employed primarily in steel, aluminum and non - ferrous metal industries. It employs a staff of more than 150 persons, specialists in many fields including education.

Referring to the difficulties involved when a multiplicity of bargaining groups were established within one company, Mr. Storey said the Canadian Labor Congress and its affiliates must take action to re-orientate bargaining and organizational efforts.

As an example he cited the Domtar company. No fewer than 93 local unions affiliated with the CLC were doing business with the company. Another example was the Hawker-Siddeley Corporation which in recent years has diversified its operations greatly. This firm has some 30 local unions bargaining for employees.

Denying any suggestion that it seeks to co-ordinate their operations, unions were becoming too dominant, or in effect were forming a cartel, Mr. Storey said: "There is nothing worse, and nothing that it more liable to lead to a strike than either party coming to the bargaining table ill-informed about the facts of any situation."

"Little unions, like little companies, are just no longer able to compete with the big corporations that they now must meet. And the only way they can overcome the problem of finding sufficient money and staff to do the basic research and perform the other services needed is to become affiliate with a larger organization, or to form some kind of council which will give them the necessary financial resources to equip themselves properly for collective bargaining in the future."

The union official said such co-ordination of activities would only come about with the cooperation of the employers and with the governments of the country bringing in legislation that would facilitate the process.

Mr. Storey saw a danger in the possibility of the federal government permitting the Confederation of National Trade Unions (the smallest central labor body in Quebec) sanctioning representation of Quebec workers on a provincial basis.

"This could mean that train crews (a factor affecting Belleville) would find themselves shut off at the Quebec border, or alternatively we could have our rail transportation completely blocked between Ontario and the Maritimes by a strike of a small group of workers in Quebec."

He said the same results could follow for employees of airlines, the CBC, and any other group under federal jurisdiction.

SOMETHING HELPFUL

Of third party intervention in a dispute, Mr. Storey said while it might in some respects this cannot settle management of labor problems when forced upon the parties by legislation. This had been proven in Australia where despite the outlawing of strikes and the use of compulsory arbitration there were actually more strikes than in Canada.

"It should be kept in mind that if future legislation forces workers to accept wages set by a third party, then workers are going to demand that prices and profits also be set by third party intervention. That, I submit is the final result of such interference. The day has come when the workers of Canada will not accept restrictions on their right to bargain for what they consider to be their share of the corporation pie."

Car Safety Priority Required—Says Joss

TRENTON — Highway safety should be given top priority by Ontario's lawmakers, Donald Joss, Liberal candidate in Quinte riding told Trenton Rotary Club last night.

Recommendations from safety organizations already have been placed on the books, but many still are in the talking stage, said Mr. Joss,

"Surely to goodness, in the light of the thousands of traffic deaths which take place in this country annually, recommendations as to highway traffic and safety should be given top priority by our legislators," he added.

Mr. Joss picked 12 areas in which safety measures might be improved. Among them: compulsory insurance and closer regulation of auto insurance companies; greater government attention to car safety standards and tire grade standards; across Canada uniform road rules; closer interprovincial co-operation in licensing drivers; a "get tough" policy on impaired and drunken drivers.

Mr. Joss said "half-hearted efforts" or royal commissions were little use in raising safety standards.

"It's time for immediate, common-sense action on many of the points I've raised," he concluded.

Changes Have Little Effect in This City

City engineer Wilbur Purcell said today that the proposed changes in the 1967-68 winter works program to concentrate work in the cold weather months and discourage welfare type projects will have little effect in Belleville.

The Ottawa announcement said the winter works program is being shortened to five months from six with hopes that most work would take place in the period after December 1.

Mr. Purcell said sanitary sewers in Foster Ward were being considered as a winter works project although even without the government subsidy on labor the project would go ahead.

From a cost saving standpoint he said that such work in Belleville should be started in November.

Another project contemplated as a winter work project is a tree removal program under which elm trees with Dutch Elm disease are to be removed.

Mr. Purcell said that this was a definite winter works project as without government subsidy the program would not be considered at this time by city council.

Ten Rinks Compete in Lawn Bowling

CAMPBELLFORD — The Womens division of the Campbellford Lawn Bowling Club held their last scheduled tournament of the season on Monday.

Ten rinks competed, six of which came from Peterborough, one from Trenton and one from Stirling along with two local rinks.

High for three wins was the Campbellford rink of Mrs. J. McMullen (skip), Mrs. Irene Taylor and Miss L. Smith, with a score of 45; high for two wins, Mrs. G. Gimblette rink of Peterborough with a score of 46. A Peterborough rink with Mrs. Hepburn skip won the prize for one win with a score of 44. The prize for no wins was taken by Mrs. Darling's rink of Peterborough with a score of 34.

The weather was ideal, the greens in good condition to create an enjoyable day for the participants.

Lunch was served by the Campbellford club.

Sixteen Teams Enter Junior Soccer Tourney

TRENTON — Organizers of this weekend's Centennial International Junior Soccer Tournament here are looking for beds.

More than 100 visiting participants from as far as New York State have yet to be billeted in Trenton with the tourney only four days away.

Teams from Belleville and Trenton will be among 16 entered in the event. Other teams have been drawn from such diverse locales as Sudbury, St. Catharines, and Hamilton.

Kick - off for the first of 23 tournament games is scheduled for 8.30 at the C.F.B. Trenton southside sports field, with Oshawa's Elan Park meeting the Sudbury Steelworkers.

Game number two will be played simultaneously, as North Bay United and Oshawa's Baker Park tangle at Bain Memorial Park.

All games will be played on either the CFB Trenton or Bain fields. Bain Memorial Park is located between the air base and Trenton's eastern town limits.

Six games will be played Sunday, with the final three matches slated for Monday.

The championship match will be played at 2.30 Monday in Bain Park.

Saturday evening, the public is invited to attend a special showing of the feature film "Goal" in Trenton Centennial Park at 9 o'clock.

The film shows highlights of World Cup soccer play.

Viet Cong Active

Viet Cong guerrilla attacks that killed or wounded more than 300 persons, most of them civilians, over the weekend, have demonstrated once again that the communists are far from beaten.

United States military men have been saying of late that the bombing raids are having their effect on the war capability of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars helping them.

However, incidents such as the mortar attacks on the city of Can Tho between midnight and dawn Sunday tend to dispute that. The communists in Vietnam are not doing. They are not only efficient and ruthless fighters, but their operations are often geared to the political happenings in the south where the United States is attempting to assist the establishment of democratic government. And in such instances they kill without regard for innocent lives.

Thus officials in Saigon believe the attacks were the start of a communist campaign to show the South Vietnamese the allied forces could not provide full security for next Sunday's presidential election and that it may be dangerous for voters to go to the polls. The communists have made similar attacks during previous elections, and while they have not deterred people from going to the polls they have taken many civilian lives. Once again women and children have been the victims of indiscriminate shelling by the Viet Cong.

Meanwhile interviews with American fighting men in Vietnam also suggest the optimism of the men at the top may not be too well founded. "It ain't getting any better, I can tell you that," a U. S. marine sergeant is quoted as saying. "People back there at their desks may think it is but I don't know anyone up here who thinks it is."

Ministers' Task

When it comes to choosing a profession the Church today is one that demands from its ministers a particularly strong sense of calling and duty. It is said that for one reason or another fewer men are entering the ministry. Certainly the more liberal attitudes that obtain in modern society demand men of mettle and strong belief in the upholding of Christian principles and beliefs.

Every calling has its difficulties peculiar to it and the Church is no exception, as the results of a survey conducted by the Anglican church show.

For instance most Anglican clergymen at the parish level work seven days a week and find administrative duties the most frustrating part of their work, according to Globe and Mail writer Martin O'Malley. The survey reveals about half of them are lonely and want to supplement parish work with outside employment.

Of 1,800 Anglican clergymen active in the parish ministry, 494 responded to the survey. And, despite the frustrations and loneliness of parish work, 84 per cent of them said they would still be in the ministry if given a choice. However, 23 per cent said they would like to teach in a school or university in addition to their parish work, and others as chaplains or in social service organizations.

Still others expressed a desire to work in commerce, government and industry as worker-priests. In other words there is a desire to become more involved in things. This could be a reason for the loneliness which the survey says affects the younger men particularly.

The comments of some priests are significant. Said one: "There is a total lack of communication on how one handles things — works on problems. You are on your own and no one cares — bishops on down. . ."

And another: "I am bushed, too long on my own and in isolation. Now that I am in the city, I find that no one gives a damn if the money is coming in and all is quiet. . ."

Marriage is not always the answer to the problem of loneliness, according to the survey. Indeed the survey suggests there is conflict between the life of family and that of the parish. Or as one clergyman put it: "When do you stop feeding the parish and start feeding your own family? At times I think a good case can be made for celibacy."

The clergy, in other words, serve a calling that essentially means total involvement. The conscientious minister belongs to everyone and is expected to be on hand whenever needed. And yet, as has been shown, much of life passes them by simply because they work in an environment divorced in large measure from the daily round of business that for the rest of us offers a certain sense of community effort and spirit. And that is the paradox of the task of the minister. He is in this life but not always of it.

Provincial Leaders Front Runners But Odds Against Them

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The two provincial premiers, Nova Scotia's Robert Stanfield and Manitoba's Dufferin Roblin, clearly are Two - of - the - Men-to-Beat in the great race.

Both late off the mark started strongly and with a rush, at once were up with the front-runners.

The betting is that one or perhaps both will still be hanging in there when the leaders, narrowed down to three, run the second last heat for entry to the final winner - take - all ballot.

How, in the last stretch, will the two premiers do in next week's Conservative leadership convention?

Well, let's look at the political form-chart, the record over the last 100 years that these national leadership affairs have been run.

And on form, you find, the odds are against them.

Provincial premiers just haven't been consistent winners at these federal derbies.

Precisely 34 provincial premiers, across the years, have forsaken the legislative track to race federally.

Of the 34, only one, Sir John Thompson, who had been Premier of Nova Scotia, made it as far as the supreme political purse, the office of the Prime Minister of Canada.

And who, except perhaps for professional historians or students, remembers the unfortunate Thompson years, 1892-94, Sir John succeed as Conservative Prime Minister?

Three provincial premiers have captured second prize, office of the Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

They were:

Edward Blake, Reform Premier of Ontario, 1871-72.

John Dryden, Liberal Progressive Premier of Manitoba, 1922-43.

George Drew, Conservative Premier of Ontario, 1943-48.

All three were Conservatives and none came close to winning a federal election and becoming Prime Minister.

There is a fifth provincial premier, T. C. Douglas, CCF head of Saskatchewan, 1944-61, who won third prize as leader of the galloping opposition group of the New Democrats.

Two other provincial premiers tried for second prize, their federal senior party leadership, and missed. W. C. Fielding, head of Nova Scotia, 1884-96, and James G. "Jimmy" Gardiner, boss-man of Saskatchewan, twice, 1926-29 and 1934-35.

So that's it, out of 34 entries, nine provincial premier made it to the federal summit, three ran second and a fifth came in third.

Consolation prizes — membership in the Federal Cabinet — were won by 23.

Of these Cabinet members, one also made it to the Senate.

Five others, outside the Cabinet, became Senators.

Two provincial premiers were complete losers, no leadership, no Cabinet post, no Senate appointment; nothing but a seat in the House.

Mof, of course, that Commons membership can be shrugged off, really, as nothing — except that to a provincial premier, a backbench seat in the federal House must surely be a bit of a glum comedown in terms of prestige and power.

If the provincial premiers have had very indifferent success federally, Members of Parliament haven't done at all badly at provincial premiers.

Thirteen MPs have left Ottawa to lead their parties to provincial power.

On the statistics, the traffic seems hardly a one-way affair, with few exiting it from the premier's office to any kind of a federal place of leadership power — but twice as many going the other way, from Parliament to the premier's office.

From the House of Commons, six of them as federal Cabinet Ministers, the 13 who became premiers were:

R. N. Rhodes and Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia;

J. S. M. Baxter of New Brunswick;

Jean Lesage of Quebec;

Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario;

Thomas Greenway and Sir Hugh John Macdonald of Manitoba;

Walter Scott, W. M. Martin, cher of Saskatchewan;

Joseph Martin and S. F. Tolmie of British Columbia.

So how, on the record, are either Nova Scotia's Stanfield or Manitoba's Roblin going to make it as provincial premiers to the Conservative 41, Official Opposition leadership?

The hard way. Against all the statistics of the political form chart through 100 years. Either, of course, could defy the odds and make it — but it won't be

Canada's Costly U.S. Gift Horses

Pitcairn Island Loafers

Windsor Star

A Pitcairn Island native spoke up the other day to tell how things are back home, where about 90 persons are crowded on a two-square-mile isle. That adds up to togetherness, at one of its post stages. But he saw compensations, as others invitably will also.

There are no taxes for one thing, and presumably no obtuse tax forms to be filled out annually. The equivalent of what used to be a statute labor here is to be found on the island and involves all the men from 16 to 65. But about 20 days' work a year meets its requirements, leaving a lot of time for plain loafing.

There's talk of buried treasure on the isle but this resident didn't mention it. Why fool around with fanciful notions like that when one can live off post-age stamp sales, which are an important revenue item there?

The island is well beyond the recognized jumping off places but just knowing it's there could make some people indifferent. They have an answer to their benumbed-in feeling.

Kitchener Waterloo Record

Christmas comes oftener than once a year, or at any rate in Expo year it does. The despicable dome which is the United States pavilion at Expo has been offered as a gift to Montreal. It's the biggest ornamental boubie that ever hung on any Christmas tree.

Gifting is splitting and we are mindful of the saying about horses' mouths and when not to look in them, but nonetheless we are mindful of another expensive gift, the Alaska Highway.

The 1,523-mile highway, from Dawson Creek, B.C., to Fairbanks, Alaska, was built under wartime pressure in 1942-43, after Japan went to war against the United States.

The government of Canada donated the land for the 1,221.4 miles of the route which ran through Canada's territory. That was not very generous because a cent an acre would have been a high price for most of the moose pasture involved. The taxpayers of the United States put up the whole cost, $39,800,000, of building the highway.

On April 1, 1946, an appropriate date, the United States made a gift to Canada of all of the highway within Canada. In 1961 Ottawa managed to get rid of 32 miles of it by making a gift to British Columbia.

The Canadian taxpayer still has the privilege of paying the bills for grading, gravelling and snowplowing of 1,139 miles of the Alaska Highway. The responsibility involves keeping up 18 depots for maintenance.

The highway is useful to people up in the northwestern corner of the continent. It serves the 17,000 Canadians who live in the Yukon and 330,000 Americans in Alaska.

One of the factors in the gift of the U.S. pavilion to Montreal is that the framework of the geodesic dome was welded together instead of being riveted or bolted. It was less costly to weld than to bolt, but the result is that it would be prohibitively expensive to dismantle and take it away.

It's a magnificent structure. We hope Montreal can find a remunerative use for it.

The Art of Listening

Calgary Albertan

On first thought, it is a little puzzling to find a gathering of teachers of the English being told that they should spend more time teaching their pupils how to listen. The easy assumptions are that listening is an inherited accomplishment and that in most people it has. But it would seem to have been developed to a high degree through extensive exposure to radio and television.

Yet what Professor Vera Thomas of the University of Calgary has to say about slang in the recent advice to the teachers of English was active listening, as distinct from the passive kind. And it is probable that the broadcast media and the general increase in noises of all kinds which has taken place in urban society have actually encouraged passive listening.

That is a pity — and not just from the standpoint of the teacher of English. Communication among human beings becomes increasingly important as life grows more complex. Yet communication is a two - way street. The human word is wasted if it is only half-heard and therefore but half-understood; if it is misunderstood it may even be dangerous.

Forts and Martello Towers Helped Defend Canada

Royal Bank of Canada Monthly Letter

Canadian military efforts have been in self - defence, and there are big and little forts and martello towers in every part of the country, testifying to the determination of Canadians to defend their land.

Stone by stone, the mighty fortress-city Louisbourg is rising from its ruins on the Atlantic coast of Nova Scotia. The first French settlers came here in 1713, and by 1735 they had a fortress-city with more than 200 homes and 5,000 people. The fortifications cost so much that King Louis XV said he expected to awake some morning in France to see the walls looming on the horizon.

No other place in America has seen so much fighting or so many sieges as has Fort Anne, Nova Scotia, where building started in 1635. Visitors may enter the powder magazine, built of stone shipped from France in 1708. The original door is still in place, supported by one French and one English hinge.

Quebec City is full of memories. Its walls, completed in 1832, cost $35 million, and its gates are attractive. There are houses in which Montcalm lived and one in which General Wolfe died after the Battle of the Plains of Abraham. Tablets mark the place where, on the last day of 1775, the two founding races of Canada united for the first time to defend their country. A combined French-English garrison beat off an American revolutionary force led by General Richard Montgomery and Benedict Arnold.

The first Fort Chambly, Quebec, was built in 1665 by a captain in the Carignan Regiment. By 1711 the solid stone structure the walls of which remain today, had replaced the wooden fort. The Americans captured the fort in 1775, and upon retaking it the following year destroyed everything that would burn. Fort Lennox, on Ile-aux-Noix, near Montreal, was built by the French in 1759 and for nearly a year held up the British advance from the south. Rebuilt in 1775, it was used as the American base for an advance on Quebec. In 1812 the British built the present fort and occupied it until 1869.

One of Canada's most impressive war memorials, because sensitive thought went into its construction, is at Cryster Battlefield, near Upper Canada Village. The battle, in which a British-Canadian force of 800 routed an invading American force of 4,000 that was marching on Montreal, was fought on Crysler's Farm, now Ecoded. By a stroke of genius, the topsoil from the battlefield was tracked to high ground and built into a mound. The memorial, an obelisk built by the Government of Canada in 1895, was brought out of the valley and erected on the mound.

Fort Wellington, at Prescott, has been partially restored. From it, in the War of 1812, British and Canadian troops sallied out to capture Ogdensburg, and in the invasion of 1838 to repel the Americans under Von Schoultz.

Fort Henry, at Kingston, was started as a blockhouse to protect the naval dockyard. When Colonel John By began construction of the Rideau Canal to provide a safe inland passage from Lake Ontario to Ottawa and Montreal, the blockhouse was raised to guard the canal's Ontario end. Wholly restored, the fort offers many souvenirs of the past century.

Fort York, Toronto, was established in 1793, and played a prominent role in the War of 1812. Fort George, at Niagara-on-the-Lake, was built in 1797 and destroyed by the Americans in 1813. Its blockhouses have been restored, and its powder magazine still stands.

When Sitting Bull and the Sioux under his command crossed the boundary into what is now Saskatchewan after the Battle of the Little Big Horn, the North West Mounted Police established a detachment at Wood Mountain.

Big 3 Auto-makers Not Expected to Meet Union Demands

DETROIT (AP)—Top-heavy odds prevailed today that the Big Three auto-makers will not satisfy demands of the United Auto Workers union in first company economic offers to be made in new contract bargaining. Two-year contract expires Sept. 6.

A forecast of quick union turndowns is unchallenged by any source.

Money offers were promised today from General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., and Chrysler Corp., which employs close to 600,000 UAW members.

Union and company negotiators were to meet at all three firms.

One company source estimated it would take an additional $4 an hour for each employee each year to meet all wage and fringe benefits demanded by the union. The UAW is placed no price tag on its package, but said everything is justified to give workers a fair share of industry profits.

The straight-time average hourly wage in the U.S. auto industry is figured at $3.41 by the bureau of labor statistics. Fringe benefits are estimated by the companies to run the total cost to about $4.70 hourly.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has stressed substantial income, saying each worker must know at the beginning of a year what his income will be for the next 12 months, say layoffs notwithstanding. He also has demanded improvement in practically all wage and fringe benefit areas.

Included also are demands to bring wages of Canadian auto workers on a par with U.S. workers.

The UAW set in motion last week its machinery for calling a strike at whichever company becomes its target.

Traditionally, (the union drives by strike or otherwise to a contract at one company then uses that agreement as a pattern for settlement with the other two.

Reuther called his target-setting, 26-member international executive board to meet Wednesday and the union's GM, Ford and Chrysler councils to meet Thursday.

A target likely will be named Thursday night.

Friday, his 60th birthday and six days before current three-year contracts expire, Reuther is expected as traditionally to lead his bargaining team to the target.

Once a target has been picked and strike vote over, negotiations normally intensify, sometimes running around-the-clock.

Wilson Makes Himself British Economic Boss

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson, acting in the face of growing strains on the British economy, has made a bid to step into the breach—himself.

By assuming direct charge of the department of economic affairs, Wilson also assumed his top cabinet status against any possible ambitions on the part of his economically-orthodox chancellor of the exchequer, James Callaghan.

The prime minister's move yields economic affairs from its post of secretariat to a big man in his Labor government Monday night. It also signals Wilson's decision a decidedly expansionist air as opposed to the tightly restrictive line of government economic policies since the curtain of austerity was rung down over Britain in July, 1966.

Wilson, 51, is first lord of the treasury as well as prime minister, and is "overlord supreme" by virtue of his dual position anyway, an aide said in explaining that the premier's minister did not assume the actual title of economic affairs minister.

That title he gave to Peter Shore, a boyish looking pro-europeanist who will watch over day-to-day administration of the economic department.

Shore, 43, succeeds 60-year-old Michael Stewart.

Stewart, a flinty Labor personal, retains his title of first secretary of state and will chair cabinet committees dealing with non-economic domestic affairs.

Another economic expansionist, Anthony Crosland, 48, moves up to become president of the board of trade.

Crosland is British entry into the European Common Market. Crosland replaces George Brown, 52, another pro-anti-marketeer, in the trade post. Crosland formerly was minister of state for economic affairs.

Brown is being made a life peer, becomes chairman of the Independent Television Authority, which controls commercial TV in Britain.

Wilson also announced 11 appointments to less prominent government posts. The whole shuffle reduces the average age of cabinet members to 54 from 55.

Shore breezily turned up at 10 Downing Street in shirtsleeves Monday for consultations leading up to the shakeup announcement, as if to underline a new get-up-and-go government philosophy.

But Edward Heath, leader of the Conservative opposition, broke off the changes as insignificant.

"It didn't need the organ grinder to jump on top to tell us he's responsible for the mess we're in," said Heath.

The Rural Scene

PICTON — Last Thursday, for the first time in Prince Edward County, a soil fogging and blast was completed. Winter had it took place on the farm of Morsley and Robert Williams, R.R. 1, Picton, 4 H Agricultural club members and Junior Farmer members under 26 years of age were present.

The main objective of this competition was to assist everyone in becoming familiar with soil structure and soil type and the crops which are being suitable for each type of soil. The morning program was a tour by one of the surrounding area farms which uses instructions and use by Mr. Jack Hagarty, Regional Soil Scientist, Belleville. In the afternoon the competition was held on the Williams' farm. Mr. Edward Reagon Conservation Authority sponsored this event and did the fogging with the farm owners. In the senior division out of nine participants the top three were Ronald Wellbanks, R.R. 2, Picton; Don Smith, R.R. 2, Bloomfield, and Wayne Williams, R.R. 1, Bloomfield. In the Junior Division out of 23 contests, Ken Parks, R.R. 2, Bloomfield scored highest with Barry Spriggs, R.R. 2, Bloomfield second; Dixie Mowery, R.R. 2, Belleville, and Robert Smith, R.R. 2, Bloomfield tied for third.

The Prince Edward 4-H Corn and Barley Club will hold its August meeting at the Canada Department of Agriculture and Food, Board Room, in Picton, at 8 p.m. The final corn field will be held at this time as well as the judging of two classes of corn and barley.

Thursday, August 31, is the date set for the Tomato Field Day at the Smithfield Experimental Farm at 1.30 p.m. This field day will be a joint project and will be held at this time as well as the judging of two classes of corn and barley.

Labatt Sales Jump 20 Per Cent

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—John Labatt Ltd. increased its share of the Canadian beer market to 21.87 per cent in the year ended April 30, 1967, from 22.3 per cent in the previous fiscal year, President J. H. Moore says in the annual report.

Beer sales were 3,025,000 barrels, a new high for Labatt's, from 2,521,000 in 1965-66. Canada increased at an above-average rate of 4.97 per cent. Labatt's sales in Canada increased 20 per cent over the previous year despite those four times the industry rate of growth.

Continuing increases in Labatt's share of the market in Canada will be the only one of its kind in North America to be integrated with a pipe-coating plant.

Cardinal Tube Coatings Ltd., another new Calgary company, will produce a 10,000 square foot plant with a 150 - feet - a - minute coating capacity.

Parkdale Wines Ltd., in which Labatt's has a 60 per cent interest, expanded operations in the past year. Sales rose 25 per cent and represented about 50 per cent of the domestic wine sold in Canada.

Delmar Chemicals Ltd. increased sales by 20 per cent over the previous year. The company is organizing production and marketing facilities to put the plants more fully in world markets.

In exported earlier, Labatt's had fiscal 1967 profit of $6,827,316, or $1.57 a share, up from $5,687,000, or $1.31 a share, the previous year. Sales were $147,859,000 against $123,482,000.

At the company's annual meeting Sept. 13, shareholders will be asked to elect as directors J. W. Carson, Labatt vice-president of finance and corporate planning; J. D. Harrison, QC, partner in the London law firm of Harrison, Elwood, Gregory, Lintjelsen and Fleming; and Alex J. McIntosh, QC, a Toronto lawyer.

It is proposed that three directors leave the board. They are members of the Labatt family, John P. Labatt; of Montreal, is the last direct member of the founding family associated with the brewing firm. The other members of the family is D. B. "Ted" Russell of Montreal.

Third proposed change in the list of directors is F. W. Dowser, of London, lawyer for the brewery.

Mr. A. M. Haig, president of Moira-Schuster Limited, is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. J. B. (Jim) Driscoll to the position of General manager of the company.

Mr. Driscol has been associated with the retail and wholesale fuel oil business in Belleville and eastern Ontario for the past sixteen years. He is perhaps even better known for his interest in the physical fitness program for Belleville youth and in 1957 was awarded membership in the national Y.M.C.A. leaders' fellowship. He is currently president and chief instructor of the Belleville Judo Club.

Equality for Women Begets Responsibility Says Mrs. Orange

VANCOUVER (CP)—The new president of the Canadian Federation of University Women is a person who doesn't like tea parties or "the flotsam and jetsam of open-faced sandwiches."

Mrs. Roberta Orange of Sudbury, Ont., a petite, gentle-voiced mother of six, says women can't expect equality until they accept responsibility.

"It's all very well to say we can't get seats in the Senate," she says. "But we refuse to run for office.

"If women leave universities halfway through, how can we expect expensive disciplines like law and medicine to open their doors to us?"

Married to a Sudbury physician, Margaret Orange was the federation's Ontario vice-president before her election to the presidency. She has also been the chairman of the national committee on the status of women.

But when she talks about women's status, she usually returns to her favorite subject.

"One of the real functions of the federation is to encourage women . . . to be much more conscious of our responsibilities, rather than our rights."

She says the CFUW can grow for better guidance programs in universities and high schools "to develop in young men and women the feeling that by participating in their profession they are contributing to the life of their country."

"About 83 per cent of their education's cost is borne by government. Whether they're girls or boys, they owe something in conscience to the society that's educated them.

"We should be encouraging women to be more committed to making a contribution in those areas in which they're qualified."

Most of her own contributions have been in education.

She graduated in modern languages from the University of Toronto, she is a member of the Ontario Council of the London University where she also worked as non-resident dean of women from 1961 until 1965.

With a wry smile and a quick, lively inclination to speak, she doesn't look like the stereotype of a dean. One of the staff members described her as interested in "people, not as units in a system."

She's excellent at getting people to co-operate and getting "problems resolved," a friend said. "And in her own quiet way, she has a great deal of personal courage."

Though she holds attention when she speaks — usually without a lot of notes — she doesn't show up in a crowd.

She said she tried to buy a bright-colored dress recently but her 11-year-old son stopped her.

He said he didn't want a swinger for a mother."

Her other children are older; Peter, now a physician; John, a professor of English; Mary, a social worker; Patricia, studying French at Laval University and Peter, in communication arts at the University of Western Ontario.

She herself taught high school English, French, history and vocational guidance before her marriage.

"All aspects of education should be our prime concern," she says.

"More women should be attached to provincial departments of education.

"School boards can make a special accommodation for women to teach part-time, with shortened hours. This sort of arrangement is needed," record Oct. 12.

Lodge Holds Picnic to Mark Centennial

The annual picnic of The Order of The Royal Purple Lodge No. 134 held special significance this year as a centennial picnic. With the weather at its Sunday best, a record attendance spent a pleasant day at Cove Beach enjoying the games, prizes and awards, all of which were, in happy pursuit of the Centennial theme.

There were races for all ages: everything from that old standard, the wheelbarrow race, to egg races and the more recent bubble gum race. A surprise race won the favor of all with the stipulation that "the last in wins". There were a lot of winners.

The draw was won by Nina Dulmage who promised to take her prize west on her future visit there.

The oldest person award was presented to Josephine McConnachie who was born in 1900. And the three Centennial (1967) babies were first, Hazel Margaret Heslka, born March 20; second, Kimberley Ann Sine, born March 26; and third, Elwood Paul Dulmage, born April 26.

Rod Francis, dressed in a Centennial bathing suit and sporting an over-size straw hat provided some lively entertainment, assisted by Dorothy Rloard, similarly adorned. The two made a striking, if "mismome" couple.

MRS. STEVEN SCADDING (nee Susan Hill)

Scadding – Hill

Rev. J. A. Dunlop officiated at the wedding ceremony in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church, Belleville on Saturday, August 19, 1967 at 11 a.m., when Susan Alan Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hill became the bride of Steven Richard Scadding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Scadding of Etobicoke.

Nuptial music was rendered by Scott Beckford at the organ who also accompanied the soloist Miss Sherrill Taylor.

Given in marriage by her brother Kerry T. Hill, the bride wore a fitted taffeta sheath wedding gown under an A-line lace overskirt featuring bell sleeves outlined with crepe. A cluster of frosted petals was caught to a short veil. She carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies and Sweetheart roses.

The maid of honor Miss Claudia Hoppe wore a gown similar to that of the bride but in aqua blue with the bridesmaid Miss Susan Barnett dressed identically to the maid of honor. The junior bridesmaid was Miss Laura Ann Hill, sister of the bride who wore a pink voile dress featuring a Swiss embroidered bodice. All carried Shasta daisies.

Groomsman was William Scadding, brother of the bridegroom and the ushers were Philip Scadding also a brother and Kent Armstrong, cousin of the bride.

At the reception in the Tops Motel, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a navy blue linen sheath dress with portrait neckline, matching navy hat with two sky blue roses, blue accessories and a corsage of small red tea roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a beige knit boucle suit with white accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

For the wedding trip to points in Eastern Canada, the bride wore a widow green coat and dress ensemble, with matching bows, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Upon return Mr. and Mrs. Scadding will reside at 285 Shuter, Toronto 2, Apt. 602.

DIETS DANGEROUS

Food scientists say "crash" diets are usually useless and may injure health.

Why pay more for slippers your child will probably outgrow?
These facts from Foamtreads explain why:

Foamtreads are built by people who believe that children's slippers are just as important as children's shoes. They agree that slippers should be a little softer, a little lighter, and a lot more comfortable. But they'll never sell a slipper that's short on support.

Foamtreads cost a little more money because Kaufman takes a lot more care to make them right. Probably your child will outgrow his Foamtreads before he out wears them. At Kaufman that's the way we think it should be.

The craftsmanship and quality materials that go into Foamtreads children's slippers go into Foamtreads for the whole family.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT L. McINTOSH

McIntosh – Boomhower

The marriage ceremony was performed in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, recently when Nancy Jean Boomhower, daughter of Mrs. Amy L. Boomhower, Belleville was united in marriage to Robert Larry McIntosh, Picton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. McIntosh, Toronto.

Rev. L. Sutherland officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by organist R. L. Porter.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length white satin bridal gown enhanced with tiers of lace and a satin train at back. A white tulle veil flowed from a tiara of rhinestones and she carried a white Bible crested with red roses.

All members of the bridal party including the maid of honor Miss Barbara Anne Boomhower, sister of the bride, the bridesmaids Miss Lynn McIntosh, sister of the bridegroom and Mrs. Lois Templeton, sister of the bride and the little flower girl Miss Karen Templeton, niece of the bride were dressed alike in Empire style blue brocade floor-length dresses with matching headdresses. Each carried a bouquet of white and blue tinted 'mums.

Charles McIntosh attended his brother, while the ushers were Harold Boomhower, brother of the bride and Carmen Mitchell, uncle of the bridegroom. Danny Monroe, cousin of the bridegroom was ring-bearer.

For the reception in the Legion Hall, Pinnacle Street, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a turquoise blue laminated dress, tent styled coat with white and blue 'mums and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of blue and white 'mums.

Leaving on a wedding trip to the Muskoka tourist area the bride wore a sleeveless pink shift with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh will reside in Rexdale, Ontario.

WEDDING

FRENCH — CASSIDY

TWEED—At St. Ambrose's Church, Tweed the recent wedding of Marilyn Ann Cassidy and Alexander Irvine French was solemnized.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Cassidy, Tweed and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Raymond French, also of Tweed and the late Raymond French.

Rev. Father Peter Murphy of Flinton, officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the nuptial Mass. Rev. Sister Wilhelmena presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Ronald Cassidy, of Toronto.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of white lace styled in coat effect and enhanced with pearl and rhinestone buttons to the waist. The bodice featured a wedding ring collar and long bell sleeves with scalloped edging. She carried a nosegay of white gardenias, stephanotis and ivy. White stephanotis were entwined in her hair.

Miss Charlene Cassidy was her sister's only attendant, and wore a street-length dress of aqua nylon chiffon over a taffeta sheath, with matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of white 'mums and pink roses.

The bridegroom was attended by Gregory Hughes, and Ted Baldrick and Paul Cassidy, brother of the bride, were ushers.

At the wedding dinner and reception at the home of the bride, Mrs. Cassidy received the guests wearing a sheing linen A-line dress, featuring an embroidered empire waist. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of talisman roses. Mrs. French assisted wearing a three-piece suit of egg shell silk shantung, brown accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Montreal, Quebec City and New York State, the bride donned a two-piece wool suit of chili orange with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. French will reside in Peterborough.

Ann Landers

Home Should Have At Least One Adult

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Right now I am burning up. Will you please tell me what to do about a 28-year-old husband who has less sense than his 9-year-old son?

Ever since we first married I have asked him to please turn his socks, undershirts and shorts right side out before he throws them into the hamper. It really blows up my Mondays to have to turn everything.

Last week I hit on what I thought was the ideal solution. As usual, everything was wrong side out, so I just washed his socks and undershirts wrong side and I ironed them that way, too. He never said a word. He just wore them that way.

ANN LANDERS

What do I do now? — PRUDENCE.

DEAR PRUDENCE: Every home should have at least one adult. Grow up and be the adult in your family before your children notice that their parents are a couple of kids.

No less time than it took to write this letter you could have turned every garment in the hamper inside out or outside in and saved yourself a case of apoplexy in the bargain.

* * *

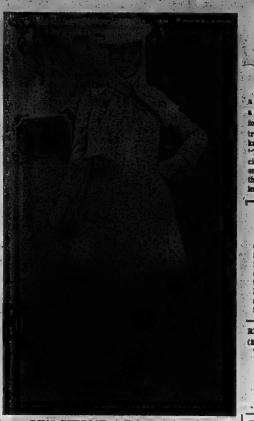
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been going with this man for two years. He is kind and sweet, but he has a habit that bothers me. He keeps running out of money.

I kept track of our last 10 dates and I paid seven times. This goes for movie tickets, dinners and baseball games. He never warns me. He just tells me when we get to the box office (or when the check comes) that he is a little short, and will I "help him out"? Last night we decided to drive to Akron for supper and when we were half way there he pulled into a gas station and said, "Fill 'er up." Then he turned to me and said, "Do you have $6.40?"

Please don't say I should tell him to get lost. I love this man and I don't want to stop seeing him. What I want you to tell me is how I can get him to stop flicking me with the tab. Thank you. — INSUFFICIENT FUNDS.

DEAR IN: Look, Lady, I write an advice column. I am not a magician. This bird is a free loader and you might as well know it.

If you want to continue to go with him, do so with your eyes open. And carry plenty of money with you at all times because you're going to need it.



* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I don't know who else to ask so I am asking you. How come parents can go around sweating and using any kind of language they want to and when us kids do it we get slapped across the mouth?

My mother says adults can say whatever they please because they are adults. I don't think this is a very good excuse. Do you? LOOSE TOOTH.

DEAR LOOSE: When your mother says adults can say whatever they please it means they do not have to worry about getting slapped across the mouth by a parent. This, in my opinion, is a pretty poor excuse for swearing and using gutter language.

A fool mouth is a liability to adults as well as children. It can also get to be a habit. So why don't you imitate something that will add to your personality, not detract from it?

DUAL PURPOSE — This coat dress by Originals is in champagne tweed with single file oversized buttons and large patch pockets. The hat is by Mr. John. The coat dress looks like a coat but can be worn indoors. (CP Photo).

Compare Hippies to Christians

GUELPH (CP) — Rev. Laura Butler of Victoria Saturday drew a firm philosophical line between hippies and Christians at the southwestern Ontario conference for women of the United Church.

"There is no freedom without discipline," she told delegates to the three-day conference.

"Hippies want to be free to do what they want to do. A Christian is free to do what he must do.

"We must conform to the laws of the land. They are made for the benefit of society."

Rev. Margaret Ervey of Sutton, Que., Friday called on delegates to promote "a new relationship between people and God."

This relationship, she said, should be based on the second chance given mankind when God recreated man through Christ.

The conference, attended by 300 delegates from London, Toronto and Hamilton districts, ended Sunday.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Reader Recommends Refrigerator Buns

BY MARY MOORE

A letter written in May by a reader in Brandon included a highly recommended recipe for Refrigerator Buns. It intrigued me for it requires no kneading so I put it in the "Try" basket and did. The recipe makes 36 light-as-a-feather hot buns and nearly stole the show at a cookout supper in our garden.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chilled Fruit Juice; Shoulder Lamb Chops; Fresh Mint Sauce; Potatoes-Mashed-in-Cream; Buttered Cabbage Wedges Fluffy Summer Apple-sauce; Gingerbread; Coffee.

REFRIGERATOR BUNS
(2 dozen—courtesy Carrie D.)

1 pkge. granular yeast
1 tsp. sugar
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup hot water
1-3 cup shortening
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. sugar
1 egg
4 cups sifted all - purpose flour, divided

In large mixing bowl soak yeast and 1 tsp. sugar in lukewarm water 10 min. In a smaller bowl mix together hot water, shortening, salt, and sugar and when cooled to luke warm, add to risen yeast liquid. Add 1 cup flour and the egg and beat until thoroughly mixed. Add 3½ cups flour and beat until smoothly blended. Scrape down sides of bowl, cover carefully and refrigerate 3 or 4 hours or overnight. About 1½ or 2 hrs. before mealtime remove from refrigerator and turn out on baks board or counter sprinkled generously with remaining ½ cup flour. (NOTE: This dough is soft and should be, but if you flour your board and turn dough out on it then turn it over to flour all surfaces you can handle it.) Form into long roll and cut into 36 even pieces. Place in buttered muffin tins. (Use two 12-cup muffin pans.) Let rise in warm place until doubled and above rims of pans. Bake at 400 deg. F.for. until golden brown — about 13 to 15 min. Serve hot.

NOTE: We had four left over for lunch next day. I split, buttered and toasted them under the broiler. They were superb.

Thank you Carrie D.

Points for Parents

By MARY BEYSON

Mother: "Come on, put your toys away and jump into bed. It's time for your nap."

Child: "I don't want to go to bed yet."

Mother: "You may run all the little cars in their garages before you take your nap. When the clock has both hands pointing to 1, it will be rest time."

Give a small child a little warning when you interrupt his play. An impersonal reminder, such as a clock or a timer, may be more quickly heeded than a mother's command.

Successful Living

A Diabetic Needs as Much Nourishment as Anyone Else

Dear Doris: I am a diabetic. My son went to get veal chops; he got two slices. I don't know how to cut this for calories. Lamb chops are all fat; not much lean.

How can I count calories? I am allergic to fat and the doctor says I am to make substitutions. It is hard to catch on by myself when deaf. — Sixty and Suffering

Dear Sixty: Here's the way the doctor explains it: A diabetic needs as much nourishment as anybody else, but has trouble with starches and sugars. With a little professional help you can soon learn how to re-arrange your diet and to make the exchanges which will mean attractive as well as nutritious meals.

For instance: If one slice of bread is allowed, the Food Exchange lists allow a substitution of one of: half a cup of cooked cereal, half a cup of macaroni or rice, half a cup of lima beans or split peas, half an ear of corn or a small baked potato.

Under certain conditions, a little ice cream is allowed; many vegetables are on the list. Same with meat and fat exchanges.

Priceless help about these things is offered by the Canadian Diabetic Association, which puts out a book called "Exchange Lists for Meal Planning for Diabetics in Canada". If you don't have a local branch of C.D.A. where you are, write for it to their headquarters at 1491 Yonge Street, Toronto 7, Ontario.

Dear Doris: I enjoy clipping from the newspapers, and pasting in a scrapbook, certain articles such as the series of "Phyllis Dillar's Housekeeping Hints".

My mother says this is childish and it is time I grew up. Do you think this is childish for a 15-year-old girl? — Happy Scissors.

Dear Happy: If it is, many grown men and women suffer from the same - in a lady. Writers, editors, stamp collectors, researchers of many kinds keep scrapbooks or reasonable facsimiles.

Starting early in life — like you are — you'll always have a place to tuck away the little gems you treasure. One day even Mom may be glad of some bit of Confucius new or verse or amusing cartoon you have preserved. Who knows?

Is her objection really because you are spending too much time with your hobby — when you should be out with your pals?

Dief's Entry Into Race Would Create Problems for Party

TORONTO (CP)—John Diefenbaker's entry into the Progressive Conservative leadership race "would create problems" today for the party's leadership candidate Davie Fulton said Monday.

Fulton and four other candidates, Michael Starr, Robert Stanfield, George Hees and John Maclean, were assembled in a television studio for a group question session conducted by John Bassett, owner of television station CFTO and publisher of the Toronto Telegram, columnist and former MP Douglas Fisher, and Charles Templeton, director of news and public affairs for the Canadian Television network.

Mr. Bassett asked "those who would like to see John Diefenbaker as a candidate for the leadership" to raise their hands.

The five sat under the television lights, not moving a muscle.

None raised a hand in support of the present leader.

"Let's be serious," Mr. Fulton said finally, "his entry would create problems for the party."

Asked how they expected to make out at the convention, Fulton said a prediction would not be helpful for him or the party, Hees said he would lead from the first ballot and on and Stanfield said he was still a few delegates short of a majority on the first ballot.

The film will be televised on the CTV network at 10 p.m. EDT Sunday night.

Alvin Hamilton, Premier Duff Roblin, Senator Wallace McCutcheon and Donald Fleming, the other leadership candidates, were invited to attend the filming, but had previous commitments.

Hees, Fulton and Stanfield left little room for Maclean and Starr. "Mike and I would like to get into this conversation," Mr. Maclean said plaintively at one point.

McCutcheon

Carter Tax Plan Too Complicated

SASKATOON (CP)—Senator Wallace McCutcheon, leadership candidate for the Progressive Conservative party, said Monday the Carter commission report on taxation should be rejected and a simplified taxation plan sought.

Mr. McCutcheon told a news conference that the Carter report could not be used in part because it was a package. And since portions could not be used alone it should be rejected and a new study undertaken.

"The Carter report is far more complicated than the tax structure we have today," Mr. McCutcheon said.

Mr. McCutcheon said also that recommendations in the report would make Canada more dependent on foreign capital while inhibiting migration of outside capital to the country.

"At the very time when we would need more foreign investment to maintain our growth, supplies could be cut down. We would get less outside investment and capital, Canada's growth would go down while unemployment would go up and our young people would leave the country to find work elsewhere."

NATO May Not Be Best Defence Plan

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia said Monday he is not sure Canada should continue in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Premier Stanfield, one of 10 contenders for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party, spoke to local delegates and alternates to the leadership convention in Toronto Sept. 7-9.

"I believe there should be a review of the country's defence policies in relation to NATO," he said. "There may be other ways to deal with defence and peace-keeping arrangements."

The Nova Scotia premier said he thinks the government has gone too far too quickly on armed forces unification.

Roblin

Secure World Peace Canada's Top Goal

TORONTO (CP)—The first and most important goal of Canadian public policy is to secure world peace, Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba said Monday at the Canadian National Exhibition.

He told the daily CNE directors' luncheon that unless Canada puts forward a greater effort in securing world peace nothing else in Canada will be as meaningful.

Mr. Roblin, a candidate for leadership of the national Progressive Conservative party, said the second important goal of the public policy concerns national unity, which is a problem that has been with Canada since Confederation.

"I'm not afraid that the 6,000,000 French-Canadians will separate from the 14,000,000 English-Canadians. They count as much as anyone else in Confederation," he said.

Time to Stop Talk And Start Action

QUEBEC (CP)—Conservative Donald Fleming said Monday night the time has come to stop debating fiscal and constitutional problems and start making decisions.

Mr. Fleming urged the calling of two federal - provincial conferences, a fiscal conference to discuss tax-sharing between the federal government and the provinces and another conference to deal with constitutional change.

Mr. Fleming would not say outright whether he personally favors a net transfer of fiscal resources from the federal treasury to the provinces.

Nor would he say whether he favored a similar transfer of constitutional powers from the federal government to the provinces.

On fiscal affairs he said the provinces and municipalities have greater access to tax sources, but he would not say which method of revenue-sharing he favors.

"I am not afraid of changes in the constitution," he said. "I am prepared to go as far as the consensus would reach."

Mr. Martin, Meet Mr. Pelletier

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Martin, meet Mr. Pelletier.

Gerard Pelletier, parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Martin, said in a speech at Banff., Alta., Friday:

"Canada is not so sure it wants to be an international peacekeeping is spite of the undoubted difficulties . . . When new peacekeeping forces are required I am sure that Canadians will wish the government to be ready to respond."

Mr. Pelletier said the average Canadian believes Canada should have a foreign policy of its own and that its present role in world affairs is unexciting, boring and even humiliating.

Mr. Martin said: "Canada's policy is balanced, responsible and based on reality. But it is no less imaginative for being balanced, no less independent for being based on reality, no less far-sighted for being responsible."

Douglas Says Housing Cut Will Push Up Living Costs

VANCOUVER (CP)—National New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas said Monday a Liberal government decision to cut back on money for housing will increase the cost-of-living spiral.

Mr. Douglas, visiting his Burnaby constituency, was commenting on an Ottawa announcement that the government will reduce funds available for low-cost housing as part of its move to cut spending and reduce borrowing for the next fiscal year.

He said the move puts the onus on some 50,000 would-be home builders to finance house construction themselves.

"I don't see how 50,000 people going to the market for housing loans will have a less serious effect than if the government were to do it," Mr. Douglas said.

"In fact, all the indications are that the opposite is true. The federal government could borrow at a lower rate and lend it out at less interest.

"The government is just letting things drift," he added. "It's the old policy of letting the market decide man's destiny."

Syria Trapped Israeli Spy By Engineered Power Failure

PARIS (Reuters)—A deliberately engineered power failure in Damascus, Syria, led to the arrest and execution of Elie Cohen, Israeli master spy, in 1965, says a book due to be published here next week.

It tells of the spy's exploits in sending out "military intelligence which contributed to his country's victory over Israel later in the lightning six-day June war" between Israel and the Arab states.

The book, called The Spy Who came from Israel, is published by Arthens Payard. It was written by two Israeli journalists, Uri Dan and Yessayahu Ben Porat.

Elie Cohen, who lived in the Syrian capital for more than three years under the name Kamil Amin Thabt, operated a tiny secret radio from his apartment opposite Syrian army headquarters.

The authors say he pinpointed Syrian border defences with information he passed on to Israel "one of the greatest secret agents of our century."

The book says Cohen made one big mistake. He did not realize that Syrian intelligence ordered a power cut in Damascus Abbu Rumana to track down his secret radio.

They got wise to him because of certain days of unusual atmospherics his secret apparatus interfered with Syrian embassies' radio transmissions and reception.

Syrian secret agents combed the area in several unsuccessful attempts to locate the trouble and then turned to Soviet experts for advice, the authors say.

One morning, a Syrian army colonel, using a powerful Soviet radio detection car, closed in on the secret station during the pre-arranged power blackout.

Young Family Now Decides Growth of National Economy

QUEBEC (CP)—Dr. Max Wingen, director of the West German department of family and youth, said today that the economic development of nations now is gradually being influenced more and more by the family home.

Dr. Wingen was addressing the 18th world convention of the International Union of Family Organizations on "the young family as a factor in the national economy of a people."

He said that in most national economies the greatest part of the national product is destined for personal needs and that it is in the home that the decision is taken how much is to be spent on consumption and how much is to go into savings.

Today's consumer held the key to the economy as a whole.

But the woman of the home must be able to recognize value and understand changing market data if she is to keep the economies without which the family might suffer.

"Any of the economic difficulties of families would be avoided if the use of income was considered over the long term," he said. "The method of buying on credit is basically not profitable."

Dr. Wingen said he believes a policy of protection for consumers could have the effect of reducing many of the difficulties encountered by young families.

He suggested the setting up of consultative services which would give young families objective information.

Many students, he said, are sold in an atmosphere of exploitation and misinformation about value, quality and quantity through the brilliant publicity of the producers.

Rock Swapping

BOLTON, Ont. (CP)—More than 500 mineral collectors from Canada and the United States swapped rocks during the weekend at the Cold Creek conservation area near here. The collectors travelled 100 miles of the Niagara escarpment by car, studying the effects of glaciers on central Ontario. They finished the field tour at Georgetown, Ont., where they collected specimens in a quarry. Bolton is 20 miles north of Toronto.

New for Shippers and Receivers simplified price structure for non-carload traffic

HERE'S HOW THE NEW "300-30" NON-CARLOAD TARIFF WILL WORK

Effective from September 5, 1967. Applicable to traffic carried within Canada by members of the Express Traffic Association. Designed to be easy to use. Accommodates varying shipper requirements. Competitive. Commodity and class rates virtually eliminated.

Q What Traffic Will The New "300-30" Tariff Apply?

A With few exceptions it will apply to all traffic formerly eligible for movement under Express or L.C.L. rail tariffs.

Q Why Are The New Rates Called "300-30"?

A Because shipments will be divided into one of two categories — above and below 300 pounds or 30 cubic feet.

Q What Is The Basic Difference Between The Old And The New?

A The basic difference is in the method of pricing — which formerly was related to the commodity being carried. In the new structure, prices are based on shipment characteristics such as the number of pieces or the cube occupied. Of course, weight and distance considerations will still apply, and pick-up and delivery are generally included in the rate. (For a limited period of time there will be occasions when traffic may move under remaining L.C.L. Class Rates only, at higher minimums and without pick-up and delivery.)

Q How Will The New "300-30" Rates Affect Shippers' Costs?

A Some shippers' costs may go up. Others may come down. Still others may not change. Prices will be competitive with other carriers.

Q How Will The Tariff Affect Shipments Under 300 pounds or Under 30 cubic feet?

A Under 300 pounds or 30 cubic feet the charges will be related to the number of pieces in a shipment. There will be an additional charge for each piece more than one. There will also be a charge for extra large pieces (where the length plus girth exceeds a stated maximum).

Q How Can These Additional Charges Be Avoided?

A By combining several small pieces into one piece of acceptable size, for instance. Or by reducing the dimensions of an oversize piece.

Q What About Shipments Over 300 pounds or Over 30 cubic feet?

A Shipments in this category will be billed at a minimum density of 10 pounds per cubic foot accepted. Shipments weighing more than 10 pounds per cubic foot will be charged at their actual weight. Rates will be tabulated for various weight minimums to 10,000 pounds and will decrease incentively as shipment weight increases.

Q Can You Save By Increasing The Density Of Your Shipments?

A Yes. This simply means reducing the size of your shipment cube, or packing more into that cube (in line with acceptable packaging practices). Many shippers will realize economies by examining the way in which their product is packed or assembled for shipment.

Q Are There Incentives For Shippers To Change Their Shipping Practices?

A Yes. There are a number of ways in which shippers may reduce their costs. This was rarely possible under the old rates. The new structure is "incentive pricing" in that it gives shippers the option of planning the distribution pattern which is most economical.

Artist Sketches Way Across Canada As Centennial Project for B of M

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

"I start before breakfast," says R. D. Wilson who has been sketching his way across Canada since 1965. Mr. Wilson has been commissioned by the Bank of Montreal to sketch our country as it is during it's 100th year as a nation.

Just back from the Yukon, he has finished 311 sketchings, as of this morning. The gigantic task should be completed by October. Already Mr. Wilson has travelled over 30,000 miles.

He took a course at one of the art colleges in Montreal and then went overseas during the war. He continued his sketches there. Some of the scenes in Canada remind him of Europe. Some scenes here in Belleville are faintly reminiscent.

Mr. Wilson sketches anything which he feels is Canadian, streets, buildings, factories and industrial buildings, and country scenes.

He stays away from "postcard scenes" such as Niagara Falls and Peggy's Cove. Instead he sketches scenes like the horse stalls in Regina, the car line - up at General Motors in Oshawa, and plants and mines in places like Elliot Lake and Chalk River.

Mr. Wilson likes to sketch obsolete articles such as Voodoos and Frigates in Halifax.

After he finished some scenes in Belleville he will move on towards Kingston and to Trenton to work on the air base. He has yet to do some parts of Quebec as well.

Part of his activities besides the actual sketching is speaking to students during school assemblies.

Mr. Wilson finds each area is visits different. He says that the footbridge here in Belleville is "unique". "They have small alleys in Montreal but not like the one here with shops along it. There's nothing like it in Canada."

A humorous man of 47, Mr. Wilson enjoys the people he meets during his travels. "When I'm sketching a scene along a road, some guys stop and I wish they'd drop dead. But most of them are good people."

"People tell me I don't look like an artist. It don't have a beard or long hair." He adds emphatically. "I'm no hippie."

During his trips across Canada Mr. Wilson has travelled by air, train, truck, and dog sled. "I can't drive a car. That really racked General Motors."

Mr. Wilson hopes to have applied India ink to about 600 pictures before the trips are over.

Still No Challenger For "Mr. Ontario"

Mr. Ontario comes to Belleville tomorrow.

The title has only ever belonged to one man and, even though he doesn't work at it anymore, no one has successfully challenged it.

It belongs, apparently for all time, to Leslie Frost, former Premier of Ontario.

Now in official retirement six years, Mr. Frost still is not averse to the occasional political foray in support of the party which he made supreme and — to date — indestructible in Canadian provincial affairs.

It is such a venture that brings him to Belleville.

He comes here as guest-of-honor of Dr. Richard Potter, Progressive-Conservative candidate in Quinte riding, in that capacity he will attend a garden tea at the candidate's residence on the Massassaga Road.

But it is not as a prime party booster that he will attract attention.

Rather, for those attending it will be an adventure in personal magnetism, the blend of individual qualities that personified, an unprecedented era in Ontario history.

The combination of the man and the background of his times are the reasons why he has held the title of Mr. Ontario, likely never to part with it.

For Leslie Frost was Premier of Ontario during a period of unparalleled prosperity, when the province was unchallenged as the leading political and economic factor of Confederation.

But the title didn't come by chance — it was the culmination of years of public service.

Leslie Frost's first venture in that arena came early in life, in World War 1 when he went overseas with the Canadian army.

He served in England and on the Western Front in France, where he was wounded and eventually returned home — with the rank of major.

In civilian life, he took up the study of law and was called to the bar in 1921. He was made King's Counsel in 1933.

In 1937, the successful lindsay lawyer blossomed as a politician and ran for the Ontario Legislature.

In 1943, with the arrival of seats, the Conservatives in power, he entered the Cabinet as mines minister.

His mounting influence in the party's top echelon culminated in 1949 when its leader George Drew entered the national arena and went to Ottawa to head the Conservative official Opposition.

Leslie Frost was sworn in as Premier of Ontario.

The times were ripe for progress and Ontario was reaping the whirlwind of unparalleled expansion.

Investment in its resources were booming, creating hydro power, attracting massive immigrant populations.

Public services, in highways, education, power and social welfare were pushed forward to meet the demands of a population growing in numbers and riches, setting growth patterns for the rest of Canada.

Canada itself, its unity undoubted a flare and advice. Times one could see Premier Quebec's highway patrol in the persons of Gilles Lamelope and Herve Judonville were on the scene, lights flashing. They listened, with expressions and gestures of sympathy. They encouraged. They joked. They unloaded luggage into their car and reshipmoned for a tow. Then they piled us in and beat the tow to the automobile agency in the nearest town, St. Hyacinthe.

St. Hyacinthe advertises itself as the most French town in Canada. It also has an interesting custom: All the mechanics in town take their vacation the same week. This was the week. This was a time to resurrect childhood and Second World War French.

The agency was manned only by a salesman, Fernand Lamre. Mr. Lamre listened to the tale of the debonair offending car and commented in deeply-moved English, "Some people are dirty."

If only a mechanic could be found, he would undertake to unlock the parts department and try to find the parts. Mr. Jubinville recalled a friend who was a mechanic, who did not work for this agency and who had started his vacation. But perhaps the friend would —the friend would.

But then disaster. The part in stock was for the wrong model. Nothing to do but spend the night in St. Hyacinthe and try to do something in the morning. Perhaps Mrs. E. S. Sawyer— a French-speaking Canadian despite the name — would have rooms. She did, and she cut the Expo-filled maximum price deep.

Next morning before breakfast Mr. Lamre was on the phone locating the parts in Montreal. He drove the 30 miles and back in his own car, returned in triumph with the parts and announced "I will be the mechanic."

An hour later, his white shirt dappled with grease, he delivered the station wagon, still battered outside but whole within. He presented his bill, which seemed astonishingly modest to a Washington-hardened eye, hoping it would not seem too high.

He was "happy to have been of service to you." He promised to call if he ever came to Washington.

Ends in Montreal by noon, I telephoned the local office of the insurance company. A sweet-voiced Quebecoise took the information with many little sounds of regret and sympathy. At last she exclaimed, "Oh, a best-endrue. You are not going to like Quebec."

But we do, we do.

Quebec's 'Hospitality Spoken Here' Gives Visitor Insight on Province

Edmond LeBreton is an Associated Press reporter in Washington who heartily endorses the Quebec tourist slogan "Hospitality spoken here." LeBreton, whose own French antecedents came to Louisiana in the 17th-17th, tells why in this story of how French Canadians stopped him when his car was involved in an accident.

By EDMOND LeBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Besides glimpses of the Soviet Union, Moscow, Uganda and other exotic places, Expo 67 offers a chance to get acquainted with the French Canadians.

There are various ways of doing this. Mine was to have an automobile accident. I can't recommend it, but I can report that it does have its rewards.

It happened on a wide and peaceful road on the way back to Montreal from a side trip to Quebec City. The car ahead signalled for a right turn into an exit, instead cut left as we were passing, then right again after all. The driving daughter succeeded in not hitting him, but our car slewed, spun off the road and wound up neatly impaled on one of La Belle Province's highway guard posts. The other car slowed to a crawl then, apparently satisfied there were no fatalities, roared away. No time to get a number, only a fleeting glimpse of a Quebec license plate.

A black mark for Quebec in four visitors' books. But then:

A private car and a truck stopped within seconds, questioned, had taken on new stature in the world, and Ontario seemed to be the measure of it, with an image of opportunity and prosperity.

And at the helm of the Ontario ship of state was a man who seemed to personify the traits of the provincial character, restrained, folksy but supremely confident.

Added to this was a personal charm, which made Leslie Frost a crowd magnet.

And it was during this time that he began to be called Mr. Ontario.

That charm is as alive as ever, supplemented as always by the personality of his wife, who nearly always accompanied him on public occasions.

The last time the public saw Mr. Frost in action was also a political occasion — but like all Frost appearances an inimitable personal event.

That was in 1963 when he came to Belleville and Trenton to chat with the voters in a federal election campaign.

By that time he had been in political retirement since 1961, when he handed over custody of provincial affairs to John Roberts.

Now Leslie Frost, and his wife, are returning briefly to touch public affairs in the Quinte district once more.

Nothing is involved in public life, but there are two public possessions still intact in Ontario — the Frost charm and the Frost title.

For a couple of hours tomorrow, starting at 2:30, the public once more can rub shoulders with the personality that explains why Mr. Ontario has never had a challenger — in or out of office.

Sea Cadets Bandsmen Returned to Quinte As Polished Musicians

TRENTON — Area martial music lovers may have a treat in store for them in upcoming months.

Fifteen bandsmen - sea cadets from Belleville's Quinte Corps arrived at CFB Trenton yesterday after a two-month stint replacing the regular naval band at CFB Cornwallis.

The Belleville sea cadets, along with 20 other bandsmen from Ottawa, Toronto, and Sault Ste. Marie corps, were at Cornwallis on course, but acted as stand-ins for the regular base band which went on tour with the Centennial Tattoo this summer.

Course instructor and director of music for the eight-week Cornwallis course was Lieut. Barry Bevzan, commanding officer of the Quinte Corps.

Corps spokesmen are hopeful that naval ceremonial drill may be forthcoming locally, since about half the band on course in Nova Scotia are from this area.

According to reports "only an expert" could distinguish between the music of a regular naval band and the cadet group.

Howard Returns To New York . . . And Beats The Yankees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elston Howard spent all afternoon figuring out how to beat New York Yankees. He spent all evening doing it.

Howard, recently traded to Roger Maris more than 12 years with the Yankees, made his return to New York an auspicious one, singling in a run in Boston's 3-0 victory, oozing rookie Al Lyle through four innings of great relief and even throwing out Mickey Mantle.

"I spent all day at home figuring how to get this guy out and how to get that guy out," the Red Sox catcher said after the game. "I was a little nervous, thinking about playing against a team I'd never played against before."

When Lyle got two strikes on Steve Whitaker in the one-out, bases-loaded situation into which he had been thrust in the sixth inning, the benefits of Howard's pre-game thinking became apparent.

Howard went out to Lyle on the mound where "I told him he was going to throw a breaking ball and he did. And he got out."

In other American League games Wednesday night Baltimore beat Detroit 4-2, Cleveland outlasted Kansas City 8-7 in 11 innings.

When Mantle attempted to steal in the fourth inning, Howard was a bit surprised, but not enough to keep from throwing out the Yankee slugger. Mick left the game with a hamstring pull.

"I hope he didn't hurt his leg bad," said Howard. "That's the last guy I would want to get hurt."

The Twins got the chance to stay ahead of the Red Sox when Pete Richert, the Orioles' pitcher, threw a possible double play ball into centerfield in the seventh inning, allowing Rich Rollins to score the go-ahead run.

The White Sox moved to a fourth place, two games off the pace, on Ken McMullen's two-run homer in the Senators.

Mickey Lolich stopped the Angels on five hits for his third shutout of the year for the Tigers. Leony Green knocked in four runs, Bill Freehan drove three across and Norm Cash had three hits for Detroit.

Cleveland got a two-run homer in the 11th from Max Alvis to send the Athletics down to defeat.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

A six-day spree has swept Philadelphia's Phillies to the head of the pack in the National League's runner-up derby.

Monday night the Phillies edged Cincinnati 3-2 for their eighth straight victory . . . and deepened the first symptoms of pennant fever.

The Phils' winning streak has vaulted them from sixth to second place in less than 2 days. They lead the Reds and Chicago Cubs by one percentage point.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching—Gaylord Perry, Giants, fired a three-hitter and struck out nine in a 7-0 victory over Los Angeles.

Batting—Curtis Clements, Pirates hit his second homer of the game in the 10th inning for a 4-3 victory over Cincinnati.

Relief, but frail league-leading St. Louis Cardinals by 11 mugths.

St. Louis divided a double-header with New York Mets taking the second game 6-0 behind ex-Met Jack Lamabe after the Islanders had won the twilight game 4-2 to break an eight-game losing string.

San Francisco pulled it Los Angeles 7-0, Pittsburgh nipped Atlanta 4-3 in 10 innings and the Cubs shaded Houston 8-5 in other games.

John Callison's 13th homer snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth inning at Cincinnati and the Phils added another run on a bases-loaded balk by Gerry Arrigo on the way to their 31st triumph in 39 starts.

But they needed four innings of scoreless relief from veteran Dick Farrell to keep the streak alive after the Reds closed the gap in the bottom of the sixth on Pete Rose's single, Lee Maye's double and a ground out.

The save was Farrell's seventh in 44 relief efforts this season.

The Philadelphia pitching staff has allowed only 10 runs during the eight-game skein, with Rick Wise, Jerry Johnson and Dick Ellsworth, Monday night's starters, picking up two victories and Jim Bunning and Chris Short dividing the other two.

Cleon Jones' two-run single was the big blow in a four-run fifth inning flurry that carried the Mets past the Cards in their opener. Pitcher Jack Fisher blasted his second run eighth, but needed help from Ron Taylor, a native of Oakville, Ont., in the ninth.

A two-run homer by Tim McCarver and two-run singles by Orlando Cepeda and Dal Maxvill backed Lamabe's five-hit hurling as St. Louis bounced back in the second game.

Roberto Clemente hit his 19th and 20th homers, the second one breaking a 3-3 tie in the 10th to end a four-game losing streak for the Pirates.

Gaylord Perry stymied Los Angeles on three hits and fanned nine, lasting the Giants to their 17th victory in 19 games against the Dodgers this year. Willie Mays knocked in two runs with a third inning single and scored from second base on a wild pitch in the Giants' three-run sixth.

Adolfo Phillips doubled in the sixth inning, took third on a bunt and scored on Dave Giusti's wild pitch, giving the Cubs their one-run margin over the Astros. Giusti and rookie Doug Rader homered for Houston.

Brant's Close Gap But Still Lose 8-2

Brant's Mountain View knocked 22 runs off their opponents' bats - Tuesday night in Commercial softball League consolation playoffs at Alemille Park last night.

Stewart Warner took a two-run lead in the best-of-seven set, however, with an 8-2 victory. The Warnermen won the opener 20-0.

The third game will be played at Ameliasburg Thursday, at 8, with a Wednesday game postponed to another engagement at the Alemite.

Stewart Warner got its second four - hit pitching effort from Doug Ellis while building an 8-0 lead in six innings. Brant's ruined his shutout with a pair in the seventh.

Ellis struck out nine and walked a pair. Joe Maracle allowed 14 hits in defeat, fanning three and walking four.

Cliff Hinsman slammed a double and two singles and Gary Gow hit three singles to spark the winners. Moe Hawkins hit a triple and single, Chuck Rowbotham singled twice, Rick Denard, Lyle Wannamaker, Ellis and Jim Sopha once each.

The singles drives from Wayne Bunnett, George Daniels, Al Colden and Dave Boomhower.

Pinch Hitting

Last winter a Belleville power hockey team, Smith Foods, captured the city's first OMHL crown.

Now in baseball season the players who made Smith Foods fly so high are helping another peewee team wing toward provincial honors.

Belleville Holy Rosary is the name of the game, and on the weekend at Parkdale they showed why they're everyman's favorites. Matched against a strong team hailing from North Toronto, they came up with a 4-4 win.

The game was the first in a best-of-three OBA quarter-final series, with the winner advancing to the provincial semi-finals.

The local mites have no enviable list of achievements to their credit this year. They romped to the EORA pennant and then captured the league championship in a series with Peterborough. In the Niagara Falls tournament of July, Holy Rosary edged Sarnia, Leaside, Hamilton and Kingsville to win it ahead of some of the strongest peewee teams in the province.

John Mulvihill, star defenceman of the hockey champs, is the club's ace pitcher and a dangerous man with the stick. He was shotted the hockey team on a pair of singles, in one of his now-routine strong performances. In the Niagara Falls tournament he hurled a no-hitter and three-hitter, and in EOBA play throughout the summer he has done as well.

Dan Lupenciz, the scoring wizard in hockey, forms the other half of the battery, and is the clubs' most consistent hitter. On Sunday he demonstrated his prowess with the lumber, slamming two triples in three times at bat. He also showed that as a catcher he can throw, cutting down two Toronto players attempting to steal second base.

The club has two pitchers backing up Mulvihill, both of whom can be depended on for a steady effort. Dave Smith, shortstop when not on the mound, "throws a lot of junk, most of it quite effective", according to his coaches, Brian Coulson, a surprisingly good baseman and good hitter, is the third part of the pitching staff.

In all, Holy Rosary carries a 13 man team, with six of them former members of Smith Foods.

Wayne Andrews, leftfielder, carries a potent bat for the Rosary. He cracked a double and triple on Sunday, and according to the coaches, "He hits heavy or not at all."

Bill Coughlin is an excellent centre-fielder, Stephen Burke handles third base, Mike Burley plays first base and Allan Wood is the club's rightfielder. Dan Coulson is a strong hitter and plays rightfield, Ron McVarnish one of the younger players on the team, can handle both the catching or third base. Jim Richardson backs up Cousins at second base, and Andy Ricketts can play infield or outfield.

The boys' age ranges from 11 to 13, and coaches Earl Cousins and Tom Miller point out that the key to the team's success is hard work. "The kids practice three to four hours a day on Wednesdays and Fridays, and you can be sure they're tired out after the workout."

Miller, like some of the Rosary players, will be gunning for a second consecutive Ontario title. He coached the Smith Foods team last winter.

Ron Lupenciz, president of Belleville's minor baseball association, credits the team's success to "hard work and great coaching."

But win or lose, both coaches agree that "they're a good bunch of kids."

Three Canadians In Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Art Day in the Hult, driver and trainer of temperamental Speed Model, knows how it feels to have all four wheels of an automobile lock at high speed.

He says he gets the feeling while driving the speedy filly, a favorite in the field of 12 trotters scheduled to run Wednesday in the $122,650 Hambletonian Stake.

"If things don't set just right, Speedy Model puts on a bucking act," says Hult, who at 26 could become the youngest driver ever to win the Kentucky Derby of harness racing.

Prime opposition is expected from Dazzling Speed, Speedy Streak and Keystone Pride, but three Canadian-owned horses also have a shot at the winner's share of the purse.

The Canadian entries are Armbro Harold, owned by Lynn Hill Farm of Brantford, Ont.; Murray Mir, owned by Adrien and Girard Myron of St. Augustin, Que., and Halifax Hanover, owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton, Ont.

Murray Mir, driven by Marcel Dostie, will start from ninth post position at odds of 6-to-1. Halifax Hanover, pulling post position.

Armbro Harold, starting from the first position, will be driven by Bob Silliphant at odds of 10-to-1.

Speed Model has won five of 15 starts this year. Several times she has tried to kick Hult out of the sulky.

Baun Claims Brewer To Return With Seals

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Defencemen Bobby Baun of San Francisco Seals, acquired from Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League's expansion draft last June, and Rodolph Defencemen Carl Brewer will "play for us" if he decides to return to the NHL.

Baun said in an interview an official announcement concerning Brewer will be made in about a week.

Brewer walked out of the Leafs' 1963 training camp, citing a desire for a better offer amount of their six season as a free agent, joined the Canadian national team in 1966-67.

Interviewed in Toronto, Brewer said "four of five clubs", not all of them expansion teams, have made indirect approaches about employment for him.

When Baun's remarks were relayed to him he said: "Seriously, I know nothing about this."

Brewer said he was still hoping to play for Canada in the winter Olympics but because of his professional background has so far been ruled ineligible.

Sikes Leads After Record 62

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Crusty Dan Sikes, who pulled out of the tournament twice after the third chance because of rain, blazed a course record 10-under-par 72 Monday and tied Tennessee's Mason Rudolph and New Zealand's Bob Charles for the second round lead in the rain-plagued Westchester Golf Classic.

The three pace-setters had a 36-hole score of 134, 10 under par for two trips around the 6,373-yard Westchester course, and a one-stroke edge over Frank Beard, who exploded four birdies in a row and finished birdie, birdie for a 67 and 135.

Both Saturday and Sunday rounds were washed out by the fists afternoon storms and although both times ready to pack up and go home—Sikes decided to hang around and try again. Friday's round was canceled by rain before anybody finished.

The cut-off point for the low 70 shooters and ties was 145.

The second round, after three delays, finally was completed in this richest of all gold tournaments—the $250,000 bonanza with a first prize of $50,000. The low shoot most of the day, but the course was still wet from three days of almost steady rain. There was a brisk wind.

Water Skiers' Success Depends on Driver

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Bert Weale has probably attended more water ski championships than any other Canadian, but he never gets to see the competitors.

Weale belongs to the unsung hero group who drive the boats. This week the 43-year-old native of Port Credit, Ont., will be towing a lot of potential champions during the 10th world water ski championship.

Weale, recently appointed official driver of the world event by the World Federation of Water Skiing, is one of three drivers who will be responsible for the success and safety of competitors for the world tournament.

The tournament has three divisions of competition—slalom, jumping and trick or figure skiing.

In slalom skiing the competitor is taken through a course of buoys at a set speed with the speed increasing by two miles an hour as the skier makes a successful run.

The boat driver has to make the run at an exact speed with an allowance of two-tenths of a second over the total distance.

Every skier has a different weight, and depending on his strength puts a different strain on the boat. The driver must sort out these differences and come out with an average—or the skier is disqualified.

Lisbon Leading Ground Gainer

TORONTO (CP)—Don Lisbon, playing his second year with Montreal Alouettes, is the leading rusher in the Eastern Football Conference.

The 5-foot-10 halfback has carried 40 times for 306 yards, according to league statistics released here Monday.

The Alouettes are trailing the other three RFC clubs with a loss whipper in three games for a total of 33 points.

Coffey also leads the conference in field goals with four in six attempts for an average of 66.3 yards.

Toronto's Bobby Taylor is the leading pass receiver. The former Calgary Stampeders' flanker has caught 26 passes for 358 yards and has scored one touchdown.

Russ Jackson, Ottawa's great quarterback, tops the passers. He has completed 34, and completed 69, including seven for touchdowns, for a total of 527 yards.

Toronto's Dave Mann leads the punting department with a 42.2-yard average followed by Zager with an average of 40 yards.

Scoring leaders: H-Hamilton; T-Toronto; O-Ottawa; M-Montreal.

Argos Out

Williams Goes To Alouettes

TORONTO (CP)—The last chapter in the Toronto Argonaut - Toronto Rifle tug-of-war for halfback Joe Williams was written Monday night when Rifles announced Williams had been sold to Montreal Alouettes of the Continental Football League.

Williams had been working out with the Eastern Football Conference Argonauts, but was still on the Continental Football League Rifles' roster.

Last Thursday Argonaut coach Leo Cahill said Argonauts would not pay the price Rifles were asking for Williams.

Rifles manager Bill Stockwell said Monday night that Beavers paid the same amount for Williams as Rifles had been asking from Argonauts.

Williams led the Continental Football League for two years as a rusher, gaining more than 1,000 yards each season.

Ticats Release Two Veterans

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference released two veterans Monday to make room for two cuts from National and American Football League teams.

Linebacker Herb Peters and defensive tackle Roger Lalonde were released when Jack O'Billiovich arrived from Turner from Buffalo Bills.

Peters, a three year Ti-Cat veteran, missed two games this year with a torn cartilage. Lalonde was Montreal Alouettes lineman of the year last season.

O'Billovich, 23, is the younger brother of Ottawa Rough Riders' Bob O'Billovich, an All-American at Oregon State in his junior and senior years, he was 11th draft choice of the Detroit Lions. He is six-foot-one and 225 pounds.

Turner, 31, is 6-3 and 235 pounds. He played for Ohio University before joining Bills and will take a crack at the offensive tackle spot.

If he makes it, Angelo Mosca will return to his defensive tackle spot. Mosca has been filling in at offensive tackle, where the club needs help.

Assault Charge Facing Namath

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Namath, quarterback of New York Jets, apparently has not heard the last of his unauthorized Aug. 3 trip to New York.

Namath left the Jets' camp at Peekskill, N.Y., without permission because of what he said was a personal matter and when he returned to the team, owner Sonny Werblin said he would be fined. Later, coach Weeb Ewbank said "action has been taken."

Now, Charles Parmlier, sports editor of Time magazine, has filed papers in Supreme Court alleging that Namath and two other men assaulted him in a bar at 3 a.m. on the morning of Aug. 4.

In a supporting affidavit, Parmlier says the incident occurred after he recognized Namath at the bar, greeted him and offered to shake hands.

"Without any warning or provocation," the affidavit continues, Namath grabbed Parmlier by the lapels, slammed his head back over the top of a cigarette machine and held him there "approximately the next 10 or 12 minutes."

Parmlier's affidavit adds that another man, who Namath called Mickey, struck him during this period and that a third man prevented others from intervening.

The complaint claimed Namath was intoxicated and that the attack was caused by Namath's disgust for the press.

Greek nationals continued to demonstrate for or against the ruling but RCMP and city police, on land and in boats, kept them away from the racing area.

Favorites Trailing in Dragon Races

TORONTO (CP)—A failing breeze and a heavy swell hampered day handicapped the faporites on the first day of the second world Dragon-class sailing championships.

The combination left expected leaders trailing after the first of seven races over the six-mile Olympic course in Lake Ontario as Michel Briand of La Rochelle, France, set the pace.

Briand slipped over the finish line ahead of last-closing Ole Bernteen of Hellerup, Denmark.

Bernteen, the defending champion, made a remarkable recovery from seventh place on the final leg after estimate-conquering North American champion Bud Friedericks of New Orleans.

In third place came unheralded Roy Tromdle Sr. of New Orleans.

Friedericks, who captured his third successive North American title over the same course last week, was sixth behind Paul Phelan of Toronto and Robin Judah of London.

In the following two positions were Rene Sance of La Rochelle and King Constantine of Greece.

In the concurrent Dulles Trophy race for boats not qualified for the world championship, Maurice Rattray of Seattle, Wash., paced a 36-boat fleet of Canadian entry, earned fourth place.

Behind Rattray, in order, came Charles Kober of Long Beach, Calif., and D. Jordan of San Francisco. Peter Pangman of Toronto, leading a 18-boat fleet from countries to the finish line.

Minor Baseball

DeMilla stayed off elimination from the tyke city championship series with Little Oven last night, as it scored a single run in the final inning to gain a 10-10 tie.

Little Oven won the first game 8-6.

Rick Reilin and Glen Schwager gave up nine hits, walked three and struck out 11 for Little Oven. Tim Whelan and Pat McKeeney allowed 11 hits, walked three and struck out 11 for DeMilla.

Robert McKay led the Oven at the plate with a triple, two doubles, and a single. Alan Stiler blasted a double and single, and Sellia, Schwager, Robert Woodcock, David Matthews and Peter Rissi had base hits.

Mike Kirby clouted a pair of home runs and a single for DeMille. Mark Boyd, Pat McKeeney, Tim Whelan, Glen Bradshaw, Glen Watson and Robert Armitage had singles.

Welter Title Bout Oct. 2

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Contracts for a world title fight here Oct. 2 between welterweight champion Curtis Cokes of Houston, Tex., and the California - recognized king, Charley Shipes of Hayward, Calif., were signed Monday.

Cokes' manager, Douglas A. Lord, signed for a guarantee of $42,500 plus 20 per cent additional of the net over $140,000.

Dick Sadler, Shipes' manager, signed for $13,000 plus 25% and share of $80,000.

Cokes is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association.

California is not a member of the WBA and recognizes Shipes as champion.

Outfielder On Mound Defeats Richmond

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings gained third place while standing still Monday in the International League.

The idle Wings benefited as Toledo Mud Hens slapped Richmond Braves 3-2 to reduce Richmond's lead to one game. The third-place Mud Hens moved to 4½ games out of first place.

Buffalo Bisons, sparked by Duke Carmel's pitching debut, posted identical 4-3 victories over Syracuse Chiefs in a doubleheader and Columbus Jets trounced Jacksonville Jets 7-2.

Dick Patterson needed only ninth-inning relief help from Tom Timmerman and Jack DiLauro for the Toledo victory. A double by Wayne Comer, a stolen base, an error and single by Ron Tepper and Bill Heath provided Toledo's runs in the sixth inning.

Carmel hurled a six-hitter in the opening game for Buffalo and Hal McRae's 10th-inning single scored the winning run in the nightcap.

Tommie Reed played in both the American and National leagues as an outfielder and first baseman.

Jake Wood, another former major-leaguer scored on McRae's single and ruined a Syracuse comeback. Two ninth-inning runs forced extra innings. Steve Chilcott's single forced his sixth defeat.

Ed Hobaugh was promoted from the bullpen and gained credit for the Columbus victory although he was relieved by Ass Small in the sixth. A home run, a single and a stolen base by Gary Kolb sparked the Jets. Kolb was honored before the game as the Jets' most valuable player of 1967.

Schnieder Wins Gross

Stan Schnieder carded a low gross score of 82 to capture the Gerry O'Connor Trophy when he won the second annual "Trainmen's Trek" golf tournament was held at the new Belleville Golf Course yesterday.

Bill Tracey won low net honors, and a prize, with a 77.

Other winners were: Ernie Ormshaw for best ball with an eagle on the 18th; Keith McNeil's golden ball; John Kingsman for hidden score; Doug Fournie for the "furthest drive"; and Ted Shinkcombe, the booby prize.

POLLUTION WARNING

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Boy, will have no place to go if he continues polluting the air, water and plant and animal life, scientists warned Monday. They called for new kinds of co-operative research to study and halt the decay of the human environment and to improve or preserve the quality. Green Gaels Win Series

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Oshawa Green Gaels defeated Toronto Township 12-2 Monday night, to take their best-of-seven Intermediate Lacrosse Association Jr. A final series 4-1.

Oshawa will now meet either New Westminster Salmonbellies or Nanaimo Timbermen in best-of-seven final series starting next Monday in Oshawa.

Green Gaels enter the finals for the third consecutive year. They have won the Canadian championship the last four years.

They wind up the season with a 35-2 record, including 22 consecutive wins.

Gaylord Powless scored five times for Oshawa and Jim Higgs twice. John Clayton, Phil Clayton, Charlie Marlowe, Larry Lloyd and Don Stimson added singles.

Toronto goals were scored by Brian Wilson and Bob Gardner.

Joe Durelle Wins Easily

BLACK'S HARBOUR, N.B. (CP)—Canadian welterweight champion Joey Durelle of Trois-Rivieres, Que., scored an easy three-round knockout over Ron Stein of Granby, Que., in a scheduled 10-round non-title bout Monday.

Durelle, 152, floored Privin, 153, with a left-right combination at 1:28 of the third before a small crowd of 500.

Canadians Win Tyke Division

Canadians edged Tigers 7-6 last night to win the fifth game of a best-of-three series for the city championship in the tyke division.

Jets whipped AC Travelers 14-9 in bantam to take a 1-0 lead in their series. Next game is slated for Thursday, at Queen Victoria.

The second game of the peewee division title series will be played at King George tonight. The third and deciding game of the squirt finals takes place at Queen Victoria tonight.

FIND STOLEN CASH, ARMS

QUEBEC (CP)—Provincial police said Monday they seized more than $10,000 believed to be part of an avowed robbery involving $21,000 taken Wednesday from a suburban Sillery branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. Police also found four revolvers and ammunition when they broke into a Lower Town home.

Playoffs Set

Electric Motors Oust Police

Electric Motors bowed up third spot last night and will go the stage for the beginning of the Departmental Softball League playoffs.

The Motormen clipped the Police Department 6-4, eliminating the losers from post-schedule play, and moved into third place.

There are five semi-final playoff series will commence Wednesday with Electric Motors visiting the second-visiting Firemen. On Thursday, the Intelligencer tackles the Combines.

All playoff games start at 6 p.m., one half hour earlier than during the schedule, at Prince Charles School.

Teddy Waite pitched the victory and Scotty Reid the defeat last night. Each allowed five hits.

The Police, who had to win to keep playoff hopes alive, overcame a 2-0 deficit with a grand-slam home run by Chuck Yates in the top of the fifth.

The 4-3 lead was short-lived as the Motormen got four back in their half and punctured the two-run margin to win.

Electric Motors' hits went to Don Bateman with a triple, Rick Rosebush, Al Trest, Jerry Mann and Terry Lomas, each with a single.

Police got Peters' four-run blast, a pair of singles by Mitchell and Gardiner by Harold Reid and Morgan.

Another postponed game, Combines and Police, will not be played since it can have no bearing on the final standing.

Following is the final standing and opening playoff dates:

Dixie Lee Evens Series

Dixie Lee whipped, City Hotel 17-7 last night to even the three-of-five Belleville Women's Softball League finals at one game each.

The clubs go back at it tonight, at 6.15, at the Chese Producer's Field.

Sandra Claus pitched last night's key win. Donna Barberstock was the losing pitcher.

The victors' attack was well balanced and led by Sharon Drummond's three-run homer.

Verna Hill hit a two-run homer for City Hotel.

Computer Operator Is Blind

SAULT STE. MARIE (Can. Press) — Douglas Leavens, one of the few computer operators in the Algoma Steel Corp., has never seen a computer because he is blind.

"I sometimes get his job about a year ago after John Channell, employment officer for the Canadian National Institute for the blind, persuaded the company to accept a blind man as a programmer.

Leavens proves the problem to be solved through a tape recorder, then types the appropriate program on a thick paper with a Braille typewriter. A final draft of the finished program is later punched on an ordinary typewriter.

Mr. Leavens said in a recent interview, "I have always had very good memory and proper training, "I can see no reason why a blind computer person should feel sorry for himself."

He himself was prepared for his job by learning to be a skilled typist and an expert in Braille. They fitted with his talent for technical things and mathematics.

"I feel sorrier for those who do not use their abilities to make some contribution to society," he said.

To Your Good Health

Don't Fret About Drug Side Effects

Dear Dr. Molner: I went to my doctor last week because of an unusual thickening of the nails on my left foot. He said it was ringworm under the nails and prescribed . . .

Before I take the tablets, would you advise if there is an external remedy for this condition as I am uncertain as to what side effects might occur with the tablets. — H. D.

There has been too much loose talk about side effects, and the above letter is an example.

Oh, I totally agree that every medication, new or old, should be watched to see what, if any, unwanted effects may occur from it, and under what conditions.

With most medications, properly used, there aren't any harmful side effects. That's why doctors (not to mention pharmaceutical firms) devote so much attention to establishing proper dosage. We want to know how much to give to achieve the desired results without harmful effects.

However, all the publicity on "side effects" has led many people (I've had other letters like the one above) to think they have to be aware of every medicine lest it have harmful effects.

The sensible course is to accept the fact that your doctor knows what he is doing, and knows whether, with continued use of a drug, it may become necessary to watch for undesired effects.

The writer of the above letter wants an "external remedy" — as though external medications didn't have side effects, too!

The tablets she mentions have been in use for 15 years or more with great success. The proper dosage is well-established. Fretting about side effects is looking for trouble that isn't there.

Quite aside from that, trying to find a medication that can be applied externally and still get at ringworm under the nails is asking too much.

The doctor knew what he was doing when he prescribed internal medication to treat this case of fungus.

Dear Dr. Molner: After a sugar tolerance test, I learn that I am a borderline diabetic. Does this mean I will always be a diabetic, or can I overcome this disease in due time by strict dieting? — Mrs. C. R.

There is no way to cure or "get over" diabetes, by strict diet or any other method.

However, the annoying symptoms of the disease and the greater amount of serious conthat isn't there. sequences can be prevented or alleviated by proper diet and, when needed, by medication.

It is easier to bring diabetes under control if diet (and other measures if needed) are begun while the disease is still in a mild state. Start at least moderate diet control now — how strict it should be is up to your doctor to indicate. If you are overweight, by all means reduce.

Then return to your doctor periodically for checkups. I am sure it will help you to read "Diabetes, the Family Disease," which is one of my booklets. Send 25 cents in coin and a self - addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Tribune Syndicate, P. O. Box 128, Dundee Hl., for a copy.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have heard that grapefruit juice is good for the liver. Is that true? We drink it every day. — H.M.

No, it's not bad for arthritis, so keep on drinking it if you like it. It's a good source of Vitamin C.

Note to W.H.S.: Medication to control a lazy thyroid is of modest cost. There are no vitamins or patent medicines that will do the job.

Log Riders Provide Show Shooting Rapids at Expo

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Rafael Pazzio and his wife were on deck for Finland's national day at Expo 67 today — along with a couple of log-riders.

The Finnish prime minister had star billing in flag-raising ceremonies at Place des Nations, ceremonial heart of Expo, but the log-riders were primed for a more exciting show later.

The two champions, Pasi Ylisirks and Lasri Leinonen, were brought over to display their unusual talent, shooting the rapids of LaHoyne channel between Notre Dame Island and St. Helen's Island on which Expo is built.

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet tonight opens a five-day engagement of Ross Lafalippe, the first full-length ballet premiered on a Canadian theme, in Montreal's downtown Place des Arts auditorium.

The story of Rose, adapted from an 18th century French-Canadian legend, bears a striking resemblance to that of Gisella although the first written version of it existed in Quebec four years before the latter was first shown in Paris.

Rose, with the entertainment department, is Quintette a vent de Quebec—the Quebec Woodwind Quintet—which will give four concerts in the Canadian pavilion in Expo.

International pouring rain at Expo Monday could not dampen the exuberance of 112 small boys fresh from an exciting Little League world series held in Pennsylvania. They were given Expo's main gates hair an hour before opening time and from then on the boys were on go-go.

Dr. Karan Singh, who is a maharaja and also minister of tourism and civil aviation in the Indian government, left for New Delhi via New York and London after satisfying his country's tourist potential.

He said that Canada, which has only 2,000 tourists from India last year, is one of the countries from which he expects to see the greatest increase.

Dabbling in Politics May Hurt Robert Vaughn's Film Career

Hollywood (AP)—Napoleon Solo, the indestructible Man from U.N.C.L.E., is on the top of the evil Thrush's assassination list. And Robert Vaughn, who plays the character in the NBC series, thinks he's the most made the most-unwanted list in the political party of his choice.

The dark-haired actor, 32, is one of the new breed that not only takes politics seriously but is taken seriously by politicians. A dedicated Democrat and party worker, Vaughn is an outspoken critic of U.S. policy in Vietnam, and this, he says, has made him persona non grata.

In late June, Vaughn's name appeared as chairman of a group calling themselves Democrats in a three-page advertisement in a Los Angeles newspaper on a day when President Johnson was visiting the city.

The ad, which bore the names of some 3,000 others, proclaimed the undersigned plan to vote for LBJ in 1968 unless he changed the course of the war.

"The Democratic party in California supports the president's position," said Vaughn. "It was not happy about the advertisement. I don't think the party cares much about me now."

His activity has resulted in an invitation to appear on a mid-September program on NBC's Meet the Press, a newsinterview show rarely graced by actors unless they are either candidates for public office or already elected.

Relaxing in his dressing room after the U.N.C.L.E. scene set in a subterranean garden of poisonous mushrooms, Vaughn said he does not think his involvement in partisan politics and his public position on a controversial subject has hurt his professional career.

"I got a lot of mail about it," he said. "And a lot of it is angry in tone.

But I would estimate that for every letter against my position 100 are for it. So far I have no evidence my activity has hurt me, but maybe I'll feel something when we get back on the air with new shows."

Tora! Tora! Tora! Will Be Name of Pearl Harbor Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Tora! Tora! Tora!" shouted exultant Japanese pilots as they flew away from the fiery wreckage of Pearl Harbor.

They were using a code word meaning "war to signal their superiors that the Dec. 7, 1941, mission had been successful. Now Tora, Tora, Tora! will be the title of a unique film co-production involving the two countries that became mortal enemies on that historic day.

Filming is scheduled to begin next January on the Japanese portion of the Pearl Harbor attack. Director Kurosawa—Rashomon, Seven Samurai—will direct the make that part with his own film company.

Next summer, 20th Century-Fox will film the American side of the—ttcounter in Hawaii. Directing will be Richard Fleischer, an expert in the big, complicated production—20,000 Leagues Under the Sea, Fantastic Voyage, Dr. Doolittle.

Fleischer recently returned from a meeting with Kurosawa in Japan, and he reported on progress of the production:

"We are in the process of trying to get the thing down to workable size. Right now it runs 396 pages, and we must cut down at least 150. Our writer, Darryl Forester, does the script here, and then it is sent to Japan, where Kurosawa and his people change it into the Japanese idiom."

The project originated with producer Elmo Williams, who persuaded 20th Century-Fox to buy The Broken Seal, a book about the burning of the Japanese diplomatic code. Then Williams found a greater treasure trove concerning the original plans of the Pacific war: Tora, Tora, Tora! by Dr. Gordon Prang, history professor at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Prang had been appointed a special historian by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and he produced an immensely detailed account of the events on both sides, before, during and after the Pearl Harbor attack. The volumes was published in Japan and excerpts of in Reader's Digest; it is scheduled for release as a book in the United States next year.

Attitude of Non-nuclear Lands To Decide Fate of Atom Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has renounced manufacture of nuclear weapons and is prepared to sign a nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

But will India sign? Or Israel, Egypt, Indonesia, Switzerland or Sweden, to name some of the major non-aligned and all present non-nuclear nations?

Informants say this will be the real test of a non-proliferation treaty which, hopefully, will be ready for signing next spring or summer.

The United States and Russia have tabled a joint draft treaty before the 17-nation disarmament committee in Geneva but that it lacks is one important clause concerning safeguards to peaceful uses of nuclear power.

External Affairs Minister Martin said in a statement Thursday:

"Some non-nuclear countries have expressed concern that the draft treaty has a 'discriminatory' aspect. Some element of discrimination is, of course, unavoidable by virtue of the very nature of the treaty which seeks to prevent additional military to a clear power from developing.

"I nevertheless hope that the nuclear powers will be able to compensate non-nuclear signatories for their voluntary renunciation of nuclear weapons by offering them reasonable assurances in respect of both their national security and the prospects of controlling and reducing existing stocks of nuclear weapon."

Without guarantees, there is little prospect that any major non-aligned nation would sign the treaty informants say.

Canada favors President Johnson's proposal that the U.S., Russia and Britain—China and France have denounced the draft treaty—guarantee any country against nuclear blackmail through a United Nations resolution.

Canada of course is already guaranteed against nuclear blackmail by its membership in NATO. But India, Israel and other non-aligned nations are not.

Informants say Canada hopes that, as one means of persuading non-nuclear powers to sign the treaty, the U.S. and Russia will agree not to proceed with construction of costly counter-missile systems.

But the key question is whether India, for instance, will place its nuclear defence against China in the hands of Russia and the U.S.

Similarly, will Israel trust its nuclear defence to other countries? Only in May, the U.S. declined to keep its promise to Israel to keep open the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping.

Little Optimism Shown For Strike Settlement

MONTREAL (CP) — The strike of 3,400 inland Canadian seamen entered its 13th day today with little optimism on either side for an early resumption of talks.

John McGiffin, president of the Canadian Lake Carriers Association, representing 22 companies against which the Seafarers International Union of Canada struck Aug. 17, said Monday he doesn't think a point has yet been reached at which mediation could help.

"Mediation can only help when the union is ready to sit down and talk in a sensible manner," he said. "I don't think we've reached that point yet."

Mr. Giffin made his remarks after Leonard McLaughlin, president of the SIUC, made public package deal presented to the employers by the union Saturday, the strike's 12th day. Mr. McGiffin described the previously unannounced package as "unacceptable."

No talks have been held between the union and the lake carriers' association since the strike got under way.

Main issues involved in the dispute as it now stands appears to be the manning of ships, which the union says is of "paramount" importance.

Mr. McGiffin said Tuesday manning is a sensitive area of management.

"Our ships are manned properly and we are not going to put additional men on just to satisfy the union."

McLaughlin told a news conference that the union's package deal would cost the companies 34¢ per cent more for labor over a three-year period.

That would be made up mainly of fringe benefits, including a 40-hour week, and would actually put only 4.7 per cent more in actual cash into the pockets of the seamen.

The manning demands—including the provision of two watchmen on the decks of all ships and one in the engine rooms of diesel vessels— would not put more money into the sailor's pockets. They would make it a little easier for him to sleep at night.

Anglican Clergymen Are Happy Despite Their Low Salaries

OTTAWA (CP)—Happy workers are good workers, as psychologists claim, the majority of the Anglican Church of Canada must be doing a super job. A church survey of city parish clergy in nine of the church's 28 dioceses shows that about 84 per cent find over-all satisfaction with their work.

And 68 out of the 494 would be ordained if they had a chance to make, the choice again.

"In spite of this high level of satisfaction," says the survey published in Taken for Granted, a 235-page book dedicated to Canada's Anglican clergy, "it should not be taken for granted that parish ministers generally are without hardship and disgruntlement."

One dissatisfied young parish minister wrote that "the church is talking modernity on issues that are inconsequential and financial peanuts, while the real issues are explosive and worth billions."

The prevalent source of frustration for clergy, the survey shows, is administration and organization problems.

Given as discouraging to clergy also were: Conservatism, apathy, indifference, irresponsibility, bad attendance at worship, immaturity, quarrelsomeness, selfishness, pride, bad response and lack of active participation in the parishioners.

Slightly fewer than half the clergy said they are not lonely in their work. Another 44 per cent said they are lonely and four per cent admitted to some loneliness.

As reasons for loneliness some of the clergy wrote:

"I think isolation has to be the lot of any leader to some degree. . . ."

"By the nature of his work, a priest cannot become close friends with anyone in his parish and community. To do so leads to criticism and charges of favoritism, etc. This must be overcome."

Most of the clergy said they were satisfied with their salaries. In 1965 when the survey was taken most were earning between $3,000 to $4,000 a year.

"On the surface," says the survey, "it would appear that the parish minister who feels he is not earning enough reacts negatively toward the work and vocation which provides inadequate financial rewards."

Platitudes Often Hide Effort to Be Friendly

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My favorite newspaper has a "Here's Mystery" in which readers are invited to air their gripes. A few weeks ago, during a heat wave, one reader wrote in: "My pet peeve is people who ask is it warm enough for you?"

Now, taken on the face of it, this is a silly question on a broiling day. But many conversational statements should not be taken at their face value — they mean something more, or something different, than what they seem to be saying.

I remember reading, about a dozen years ago, Dr. Karl Menninger's excellent book, "Love Against Hate." He mentions the case of a man driving along the road and suddenly getting a flat tire.

The motorist pulls off the road and makes preparation to change the tire. At that moment a farmer strolls up and asks the apparently foolish question, "Gotta flat?"

Now, according to Dr. Menninger, the psychological meaning of such a question is an awkward but conventionalized way of saying something like this to the motorist:

"Hello — I see you're in trouble. I'm a stranger to you but I might be your friend now that I have a chance to be, if I had any assurance that my friendship would be welcomed. Are you approachable? Are you a decent fellow? Would you appreciate it if I helped you? I'd like to do so but I don't want to be rebuffed. This is what my voice sounds like. What does your voice sound like?"

Of course, Dr. Menninger points out, this could be done in a more direct and honest like way; the farmer could say, "I'd be glad to help you, stranger." But people often are too timid and mutually distrustful to be so direct; they want to hear one another's voices and they need reassurance that others are just like themselves.

Now perhaps not as much context goes into the trite question "How's tricks?" or "How're you fixed?" but much the same mechanism is at work.

It is a safe way of establishing contact, of extending sympathy for a common plight of advancing across the barrier of personality and setting up a beachhead of mutual good will.

The person who hears only the surface question, who accepts only the obvious context, will be perpetually annoyed by platitudes, and will accuse people of being dumb or asinine. Growing up implies learning to understand what people really mean when they say silly things.

Winter Works Scheme Cut to Five Months

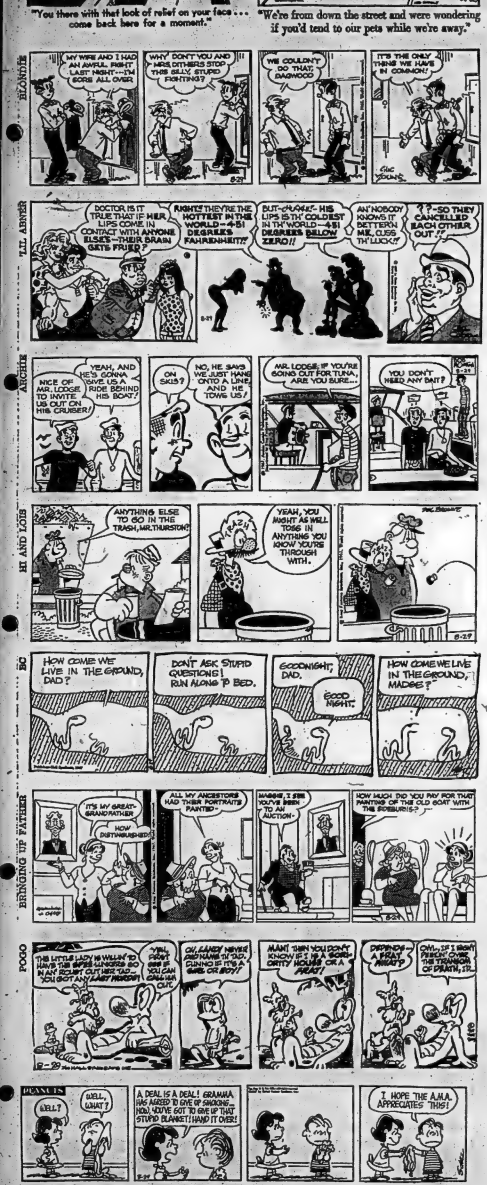
OTTAWA (CP)—The Federal government will clamp down on projects involving little or no capital spending by the municipalities.

Throughout its nine-year history winter works payments have gone largely to municipal projects only, but many bordering on make-work schemes have crept in.

Quebec municipalities have often been criticized for slugs of the program by stretching out jobs that call for a high degree of labor content.

Ottawa would like to discuss problems of this nature with the provinces, and to urge the provinces to make more generous contributions themselves.

Over-all value of projects reached a high of more than $300,000,000 in 1964-65 and 1965-66. Last year about two-thirds of all spending was on roads, sidewalks, water and sewer installations.



In a second change the government will clamp down on projects involving little or no capital spending by the municipalities.

Banks Arrested, Perjury Charged

HAL C. BANKS

JOHN PRINGLE

City Lawyer Handles Case

NEW YORK (CP) — Bail of $25,000 was set today for Hal C. Banks — with qualifications — pending a hearing Sept. 7 on a Canadian application to extradite him to face charges of perjury.

His release was to be delayed until 3 p.m. EDT today to permit a check on Banks' statement that he did not hold a valid U.S. passport.

U.S. Commissioner S. T. Ahruzzo said that if it were discovered Banks does have a valid passport, bail would be doubled to $50,000.

Richard Kuh, a New York lawyer representing the Province of Ontario, argued vigorously that bail should not be allowed. He told the court that Banks had earlier jumped bail of $25,000 in Canada.

Kuh said if Banks should disappear, it would put the United States government in an embarrassing position since it would not be able to fulfill its obligations under the U.S.-Canada treaty covering extradition.

When Kuh mentioned Banks' previous bail-jumping, the commissioner said: "The fact that this man has already jumped bail does not put him into a favorable position."

Banks, 52, fled Canada three years ago after being sentenced to five years in jail for conspiracy in a vicious beating while he was head of the Seafarers International Union of Canada. He was arrested Tuesday evening on a Brooklyn street.

The Ontario government expected a tough fight to obtain his return to Canada to face perjury charges.

A key figure in the team of prosecutors who obtained Banks' arrest was reported to be Hastings County-Crown Attorney John A. Pringle.

His secret assignment involved weeks of careful investigation and preparation away from his Belleville offices.

It was climaxed at a day-long secret hearing in Ottawa's Carleton County courthouse yesterday as Mr. Pringle sought to establish the basis for a perjury charge supporting Banks' extradition.

In New York today Gerald E. Paley, representing Banks, argued that Banks had been a resident of Brooklyn for three years, that he worked there and supported his family, and that there was no reason to believe the former union chief now would flee the United States.

Nasser Foils Coup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Reports circulated in Arab capitals today that Egypt's President Nasser had foiled a planned coup against his government by arresting Marshal Abdel Abdul Hakim Amer, his former trusted lieutenant, and a large number of senior army officers.

The reports did not appear in print in most Arab capitals where the press is controlled, but a Kuwait newspaper carried an account and diplomatic sources said they had picked up various versions of it in Algiers, Khartoum, Tunis and other Arab points.

"We have no direct information," one Western diplomatic source in the Middle East said. "All our reports are second-hand. But they have spread so wide and so fast that we are inclined to believe something is going on in Cairo."

Diplomacy, Chinese Style

China Holds Envoys

HONG KONG (CP)—China today cancelled exit visas of British diplomats stationed in Peking, ordered their movements confined to 400-yard trips between home and office and threatened further retaliation for clashes between London police and Chinese mission personnel who fought them with axes and bats.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Peking that anti-British demonstrations flared up in the Chinese capital today.

More than 1,000 Red Guards marched in front of the diplomatic bloc of houses where an apartment of one of the British diplomats is being used as the seat of the diplomatic mission.

About 100 soldiers prevented the Red Guards from entering the building, Tanjug said.

Later, five or six British diplomats were brought out to face the crowd. They were encircled by soldiers for protection, while representatives of the Red Guards lodged their protest over the incidents in London.

Peking radio, charging that the British government "instigated ruffians to beat up" Chinese diplomats in London in a wild melee Tuesday, said in a broadcast that no British personnel would be allowed to leave their legation compound without obtaining apologies 48 hours in advance.

About 50 police officers, with riot guns in reserve, remained on duty near the Chinese mission building on the fringe of London's fashionable Mayfair district. The police broke up a crowd of more than 100 last before midnight Tuesday night, and Scotland Yard banned demonstrations and gave guards to eight streets around the legation.

Clashes jarred the area Tuesday when 25 to 30 members of the Chinese legation, some brandishing axes, and the Red book of the Thoughts of Mao Tse-tung, charged eight-year-old Paul Hewett, gathering outside the building since the burning of Britain's office building in Peking last week.

British police reported eight Chinese and three policemen went to hospitals with injuries. Peking radio claimed three of its envoys were "seriously" wounded from brutal beatings and more than 20 others have been injured."

Viet Cong Frees 997 From Jail

SAIGON (AP)—Viet Cong guerrillas freed 997 prisoners from the Quang Ngai jail today under cover of a heavy mortar barrage. And at Tam Ky, 45 miles north of the coast, the Viet Cong killed 70 South Vietnamese and wounded 104 with mortars, grenades and small arms fire.

In eight mortar attacks Tuesday and early today throughout the country, guerrillas also killed three Americans, wounded 54 more and damaged 13 helicopters.

In the air war, U.S. fighter-bombers blew up an ammunition convoy heading south from Hanoi Tuesday, with pilots reporting 50 explosions and fires. Air Force and navy fliers also struck a surface-to-air missile site 15 miles southwest of Hanoi, blasted rail facilities north of the North Vietnamese capital again and heavily damaged the Kep army barracks.

The Viet Cong fired 300 mortar rounds on a Brooklyn street.

Nessrea Army post and district headquarters in the county seat at Tam Ky, then followed up with a ground assault. Of the South Vietnamese dead, 39 were military men and 21 were civilians. Fourteen Viet Cong were reported killed.

At the barbed-wire compound of the Quang Ngai jail, South Vietnamese troops recaptured 400 of the freed prisoners, many of whom were hard-core guerrillas, a spokesman said.

Mortar shells also hit a U.S. advisory compound, killing one American and wounding 12, and the Viet Cong poured into the Quang Ngai, but a spokesman said guerrillas who tried to storm the jail were repulsed by government troops.

Thieu Says He May Ask Long Truce

SAIGON (AP)—Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, the military candidate for president in Sunday's elections, said today that if elected he may try to halt the bombing of North Vietnam for more than the one week he has been proposing.

A longer pause would depend on a favorable response from Hanoi and an agreement from the United States, Thieu told reporters after a campaign speech to more than 10,000 South Vietnamese troops.

Artillery rossring in the background and jets from nearby Tan Son Nhut air base sometimes drowned out Thieu and civilian candidates as they spoke to the soldiers in the biggest political rally so far.

Thieu told the troops: "We are ready to negotiate. The problem is whether North Vietnam will accept. It is up to them."

He told reporters later that if elected, "I will talk to North Vietnam first. If I get a favorable response, then I will talk to the Americans and may ask for more than one week."

Observers in Saigon, however, think it unlikely that the United States would go along with even a one-week pause in air strikes before formal indications it would reciprocate.

Negro Group's Office Burned

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Negro open-housing demonstrators saved by a barrage of police tear gas from surging walls of screaming, rock-throwing whites, returned to their headquarters Tuesday night and watched it ravaged by flames.

Five officials said the fire that destroyed the headquarters of the Milwaukee youth council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was caused by an arsonist.

The blaze erupted less than an hour after council members, led by their adviser, Rev. James H. Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest, escaped from a white throng police estimated at 13,000.

Hanoi Evacuation Reported Underway

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Hanoi's population today was slowly observing an order from the authorities to evacuate the city, a Soviet correspondent in the capital reported.

The correspondent, A. Vasilev of the Communist party newspaper Pravda, said bicycles had almost disappeared from the suburbs.

He quoted the evacuation order, issued by the city council, as saying:

"It is not excluded that the enemy will try again to bomb inner regions of the city. The army and the population must immediately prepare for the struggle to punish the enemy and deal him an even heavier blow."

The Soviet correspondent said workshops, offices and institutions near expected targets of future bombing were being moved out in their entirety.

He did not say where they were being evacuated to.

Almost half of Hanoi's estimated 1,300,000 population was evacuated after June last year when the North Vietnamese government ordered all non-essential personnel to quit the city.

But many are believed to have slipped back — wives returning to husbands, children to their parents.

Jury Finds Dead Child Was Abused

OTTAWA (CP) — The death of an eight-month-old Manotick area child March 6 was caused by parental abuse, a coroner's jury found Tuesday.

An autopsy revealed that Charles Edward Burleigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Burleigh, RR 3, Manotick, died from internal bleeding resulting from a fractured skull.

The baby was severely bruised about the head and upper body.

It recommended that two of Mr. and The coroner's jury recommended that two of Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh's three remaining children be made wards of the Children's Aid Society. The third, less than three months old, has been made a permanent ward of the society.

Under Jet Attack Threat, Biafra Talks About Peace

LAGOS (AP)—Talk of peace has broken out in Nigeria's eight-week-long civil war—but most of it is coming from secessionist Biafra, now threatened by jet attack.

Nigeria's new war cabinet pondered a lengthy Biafran white paper today that combined the strongest bid to end the fighting since the war between the federal government and the breakaway state erupted July 6.

Although the proposal stops short of bringing Biafra back into the Nigerian federation, it included a federal services authority to establish co-operation in eight areas from transportation to currency.

There was no immediate response from the federal government after the proposal's disclosure in a broadcast from Benin, in the Midwest Region.

The government is in a strengthened position since its recent purchase of jet fighters from the Soviet Union. Travellers from Biafra have reported a corresponding dip in morale there.

Citizens Complain

Mayor Halts Asphalt Work on Sidewalks

Mayor Jack Ellis said this morning that work on the asphalt topping of sidewalks in Belleville, which has been progressing favorably over the past three weeks, will be stopped.

"We've been receiving too many complaints from citizens in two areas of the city where work on the walks had been in progress."

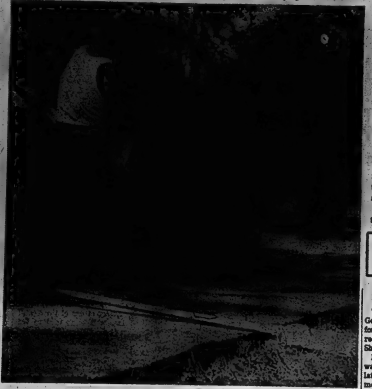
The city had planned to provide a temporary finish on the walks until they could be re-surfaced in concrete within the next few years.

According to complaining citizens the asphalt surface is "not very appealing" and in some cases driveways are now a few inches below the level of the sidewalk.

One of the angry dissenters on Bleecker Ave., Mrs. Shirley Woodcox has even threatened the city with a lawsuit if the work continues. "Unless the situation is resolved immediately I will file suit against the city," she said yesterday.

Mayor Ellis said that the sidewalk was in bad need of repair and the city was trying to make the walk more usable for the time.

"The men will smooth out the job already done, adding the finishing touches but will not proceed any further. "It will be a very neat job," said Mayor Ellis.



The difference in levels between the sidewalk and the driveways will also be repaired.

The roadway is also being graded and dust and dirt used in this operation is another source of complaints from numerous residents.

Mayor Ellis said today that "Although the asphalt is not as attractive as concrete the interim repair job was made only to provide better service to the public as the sidewalks are now in use."

The mayor also stated that complaints have been coming in since the work began three weeks ago.

"I will be talking with residents in the area involved to see if we can clear up the situation," he continued.

Dust Draws Dissenters

An employee from the Department of Public Works walks to begin spreading earth along Bleecker Avenue to grade the road. Dust from this is one source of complaint from residents on the avenue. The picture also shows the difference in level between the sidewalk and property which residents say will cause flooding.

Residents Up in Arms

A group of Bleecker Avenue residents who might take action against the city because of the asphalt covering placed on the sidewalk in front of their homes discuss the situation. Mrs. Stanley Woodcox (arm in air) has threatened to sue the city.

May Improve Drainage Of 8,800 Acres in Thurlow

Barring any owner objections and if the necessary municipal bylaw can be passed in time "operation big ditch" to improve the drainage on approximately 8,800 acres of Thurlow township land could get underway this fall.

The proposal is to extend a drainage ditch along an existing waterway east of Corbyville to improve drainage in the area.

Cost of the drainage ditch has been estimated at $31,000 which would be paid one-third by the province, one-third by the federal government through its ARDA program, and the remaining third by the owners of the properties involved.

Farmers in turn could apply for an ARDA grant of one third of their direct cost — providing they have not already used up their ARDA allotment.

Thurlow clerk treasurer Earl Dafoe said that just over 100 owners reside in the township area which would benefit by the drainage ditch.

Plans for the drainage ditch were initiated through a petition of a number of owners in the area.

The project is now being processed through the drainage act, the provisional bylaw has been given two readings by council with owners having received a copy of the bylaw noting the assessment on which they would be expected to pay the local share of the cost.

Objecting owners are entitled to appeal against the project.

Wilson Concrete Workers Expected to Strike Thursday Night

Approximately 300 members of Local 494, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union, AFL-CIO-CLC at Wilson Concrete Products Ltd. in Belleville will take strike action at midnight Thursday if demands for higher wages and a shorter work week are not met.

The decision of workers to walk off their jobs follows Union member rejection of wage hikes recommended by government appointment mediator.

Negotiations between the Union and the company announced in May but when a settlement was not reached the Union requested the government appointed mediator and talks were resumed in June.

After a further series of meetings recommendations for settlement were presented to both parties by the mediator. These were accepted by the company but have been turned down by the union.

At noon today there was still no settlement in sight for the dispute and it was expected the strike would be called as scheduled.

"While the company is well aware of the effect of a strike on both current contracts and future business, it feels that going beyond the terms of the mediator's recommendation would impose an even more severe burden on the company's future operations, a company spokesman said.

The company statement issued today said the recommendations rejected by the Union called for wage increases comparable to the "inter" provincial settlement with the Canada Cement Company as it relates to Point Anne, which provides for increases of 8¢ per hour over two years."

This proposal, agreed to by the company, represents an increase per employee of approximately $350 in the first year and $710 in the second year.

The company statement said that, although certain features in the mediator's recommendations were more generous than the company had expected. In the interest of sustaining a normal level of employment, they were accepted by the company.

A spokesman for the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union said Wilson workers were basically seeking a shorter work week and higher wages.

Negotiations began with the company in May and continued in June with an Ontario government - appointed mediator.

The mediator's report handed down recently was "unanimously rejected" at a meeting of the union local on Monday night, said Donald Burshaw, the union's district representative.

He said the base labor rate at Wilson's was $1.64 an hour and the top rate for skilled workers $2.14.

Production workers and working supervisors work a 45 - hour week while other workers are on a 48 - hour week.

The mediator recommended wage hikes to $1.85 for base labor rates and a top rate of $2.55 for skilled workers in the first year of the two - year new contract.

There would be a 13-cent across -the-board increase in the second year.

"The union is definitely opposed to the rates that have been offered," said Mr. Burshaw.

He said the union was seeking a base labor rate of "at least" $2 an hour and a top rate of $2.85 the first year and a 20 - 25 - cent across - the board hike in the second year.

The workers also want a 40-hour week, but are willing to have the reduction spread over two years.

He said the company claimed it could not financially afford to meet the union's wage demands.

"I think it's only common sense with the high cost of living," he added.

Mr. Burshaw said workers at Wilsons were working overtime each week to "try and make a living."

"With the type of wages and settlements across the country we cannot — and they should not — expect our people to work for less."

He claimed that concrete block plants in Toronto were paying a base labor rate of $2.05 hourly, while the city of Belleville pays 22 an hour in the same bracket.

Mr. Burshaw claimed company officials said they were willing "to let the strike go eight or 12 weeks.

"If they can afford to let it go that long they can afford our demands," he added.

Banks Arrested

public knowledge, not a secret, all these years."

Banks spent the night in the federal bouth of detention in Manhattan after being fingerprinted at the U.S. marshall's office in Brooklyn.

Bill Gallinger, one of the three deputy U.S. marshals who made the arrest, said Banks had $1,400 on his person and a miniature badge of the Hudson County, N.J., police force. Banks said he was an honorary member of the force.

The arrest of the former union boss, expected living in luxury in Brooklyn while politicians fretted about him, in Ottawa, was the culmination of weeks of secret planning.

Arthur Wishart, Ontario attorney-general, said in an interview at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., that his department had been working on plans to extradite Banks for weeks.

when the arrest was made.

Proceedings to extradite Banks on the perjury charge was started in secret in Ottawa Monday and news of them did not leak out until Tuesday, only hours before his arrest.

Wishart said he expects Banks to "put up quite a fight" against extradition. He also said if Banks is returned to Ontario and then is acquitted on the perjury charge he cannot be forced to remain in Canada.

The perjury charge relates to testimony Banks gave in 1963 before a royal commission inquiry into violence on the Great Lakes.

In the report of that inquiry the commissioner, Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of Vancouver, said the Seafarers was to blame for labor violence on the lakes and described Banks as a "cruel, dishonest, greedy, power-hungry" bully, a virtual dictator of the waterfront.

Banks was convicted in 1964 of conspiracy in the beating of Capt. Frank Walsh and sentenced to five years. He fled on appeal but fled to the U.S. before it was heard. His bail of $25,000 was later seized.

The Canada-U.S. extradition treaty does not cover conspiracy so there was nothing the Canadian government, under heavy pressure from the Opposition could do to bring him back to face his prison term.

But Wishart said the warrant charging Banks with perjury was based on material produced by the RCMP at the direction of the justice department following the royal commission inquiry.

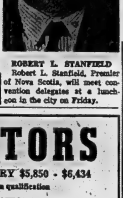
COLLECTION DAY, THURSDAY



Premier Stanfield Will Meet Convention Delegates at Supper

Premier Robert Stanfield, Nova Scotia's entrant in the red hot Progressive Conservative leadership race, will visit Belleville on September 7 to meet party convention delegates from the Quinte area.

Premier Stanfield and Mrs. Stanfield will attend a buffet supper at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel Friday, where they will meet delegates and alternates from the ridings of Hastings, Prince Edward — Hastings, Frontenac — Lennox and Addington and Northumberland-Durham.

Earlier in the day Premier Stanfield will visit Cornwall and Kingston to meet convention delegates from the ridings of Eastern Ontario.

Known by his party followers as "the man with the winning ways," Premier Stanfield entered politics nearly 30 years ago as the president of the Nova Scotia Progressive Conservative Association and in the general election of 1949 entered the Legislature as leader of the opposition.

ROBERT L. STANFIELD

Robert L. Stanfield, Premier of Nova Scotia, will meet convention delegates at a luncheon in the city on Friday.

Re-elected in 1953 he became premier in 1956 when the PC party secured a majority of seats. In addition to his role as premier, Mr. Stanfield has served as provincial treasurer and minister of education and still holds the latter portfolio.

Born at Truro in 1914, the Nova Scotia premier is the son of a political family, his father Frank Stanfield having been four times a member of the legislature and later lieutenant-governor of the province. He is a graduate of Dalhousie University and of Harvard Law School.

After service with the Wartime Prices and Trades Board during World War II he entered law practice in 1945. He practised law until 1956 when he became premier of the province.

Trenton Liquor Plebiscite Scheduled for October 31

TRENTON — A special session of town council has passed a bylaw authorizing an Oct. 30 liquor plebiscite.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry said a previous proposal to have a liquor vote coincide with the Dec. 4 municipal elections was rejected, at the request of the Trenton School Board.

Town schools are usually major polling sites in civic elections.

Mr. Larry told councillors earlier this summer separate votes would mean an additional cost to the town of several thousand dollars because different polling stations would have to be set up and a separate voters' list prepared.

Only owners and tenants vote in Trenton municipal elections, while everyone over 21 is eligible to vote in the liquor plebiscite.

A Petition requesting a plebiscite and signed by about 30 downtown businessmen was submitted to council recently.

At present, four Trenton hotels are licensed beer outlets. The Oct. 30 plebiscite will ask if voters favor dining and cocktail liquor facilities.

Three premises within town limits, however, are now licensed liquor outlets. They lie in areas annexed by the town after they had held liquor votes.

Ironically, one west Trenton inn licensed for liquor dining and lounge facilities lies less than an olive's throw from an unlicensed hotel.

Expo's Continuing Magic

When Expo concludes at the end of October, Canada will never be the same again. The exhibition has succeeded marvellously in instilling a fresh pride in Canadians and in their country.

If only the magic spell can be maintained. But six months may be enough, because you can have too much of a good thing.

In this regard, spare a thought for the staffs of the pavilions — particularly, the hostesses who spend long hours on their feet, ever ready to answer questions, but for the most part with little to do but stamp passports — and not infrequently, pose for photographers. Expo is a photographers' paradise, but for the hostesses who are there day after day it can be an ordeal.

Like the little Kimono-clad Japanese girl who seemed to be feeling the heat on a recent warm weekend. As the people filed past, some taking her picture, she suddenly moved away, but returned quickly — with a fan.

But they talk readily when someone shows an interest beyond merely having a passport stamped. Like one of the young women serving refreshments in the Venezuelan pavilion. And here was this Irishman and she was serving him with Canadian beer. She was from Spain. "And you?" Ah yes, the Irish — they are like us, are they not — temperament, looks, everything? And she had heard the one about the Irish being Spaniards who went north and got lost. That was Salvador da Madariaga's theory and she recalled the Armada legend: "The British beat our ships, didn't they, and some of the sailors stayed there?"

And in the Yugoslav pavilion the same visitor was intrigued by a picture of what looked like Roman remains, some resembling the early Celtic stones of Ireland — but here too a pavilion hostess knew her history. No they were 13th and 14th century religious significance, and much later than the Celtic era.

And who says French isn't a useful language, for in the Cuban pavilion there was a young hostess who spoke French (and of course Spanish), but no English, so that our Irish friend did not make much progress there.

Yes Expo remains a superb attraction. Forty-five million are expected to view it by the end of October. There is something new to be learned from it every day — like the value of exercise. A 40-year-old American mathematics teacher went at 400 miles from Watkins Glen, N.Y. to Expo. And he proudly confided he had taken up swimming to counter high blood pressure and varicose veins. "I feel great now," he said. And who wouldn't, on such a training schedule?

Litter Problem

For all the new equipment available to it — giant vacuum cleaner and all — Belleville still has a litter problem.

Recently we drew attention to litter on the streets and sidewalks and in the alley leading to the Loobridge. Well, last Monday morning walk reveals virtually the same crop of candy wrapping and other assortment of wastepaper lying around.

It says little for the careless people, children for the most part, who throw paper to the ground instead of putting it in the receptacles provided along the street.

However, if the children give so little thought to the matter it is because their parents have not got it into their offsprings' heads that by discarding paper on the street they are engaging in a messy habit.

At the same time it may be asked if the city is taking the new machines sufficient exercise? Certainly a glance at the main street and sidewalks and alleyways suggest there is plenty of scope for its use.

The Voyageurs

Canada's northland is a region one associates not only with rugged terrain but with husky characters who can paddle a mean canoe, chop down trees and build a log cabin in no time flat.

Well, the image and the reality appear to be two different things. For instance, sometime ago we recall reading the results of a practice run by the centennial voyageurs. The representatives of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon finished far down the rapids and well behind Manitoba, in first place.

Now that the real thing is under way with the canoeists enroute to Expo, the lineup remains much the same. The Manitobs crew docked at Deep River at the weekend, ahead of all the other provinces and with the Territories and the Yukon and Nova Scotia, in that order, occupying the last three places.

Well maybe it is just a question of manpower — numbers, that is. The bigger provinces have more men to choose from.

Arab Unity Still Suspect As Leaders Meet in Khartoum

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Arab summit meeting in Khartoum is hailed as an achievement in itself for the cause of Arab unity.

But there are few signs that the conference will produce any brave new initiative for "unified Arab action" against Israel and its Western backers.

Any public display of solidarity by top men or their delegates from 13 Arab countries is likely to prove a paper-thin veneer over deep disarray and uncertainty about the future.

Despite strenuous efforts to develop policies in unison following their defeat by Israel last June, the Arabs have been unable to disguise sharply differences arising from opposing political ideals and rival economic interests.

The summit itself was in doubt until last week and some leaders are not attending e.g. Houari Boumedienne of Algeria and Nureddin Atassi of Syria, leaders of radical Arab militancy, were reported reluctant to attend on the ground that they would be outvoted by moderates and conservatives.

Differences among the Arabs on how best to "eliminate the consequences of Israeli aggression" emerged at two meetings of foreign ministers this month and a conference of oil, finance and economics ministers in Baghdad two weeks ago.

Peasants by Algeria, Syria and Iraq for extending an Arab boycott of the U.S. and Britain has been resisted by countries with the most to lose—notably Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya.

Impact figures published in Britain Monday show the British are receiving adequate oil supplies despite the Arab boycott. Arab producers stand to lose markets permanently to rival suppliers—including Russia, whose shipments of oil to Britain more than doubled in the first half of this year.

As for proposals that the Arab countries forward withdrawal their funds from British and American banks, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya are the only Arab countries with reserves big enough to bolster much. Since most of their combined $2,500,000,000 reserves are invested in securities, sudden withdrawal of funds would involve technical problems and financial loss.

With so much at issue financially and ingrained political differences besides, perhaps the most the Arab world can expect from Khartoum is formal reconfirmation of the moribund Arab Solidarity Agreement which was the main achievement of the last Arab summit in Casablanca two years ago.

Students Default On Loans

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

One-tenth of the loans made to Canadian university students by the federal government under the Canada Student Loans Plan are reported by government officials to be in default.

There are a number of possible reasons for this. One which the government seems to feel is the most important is that the terms of the loan are difficult to understand, and many students thus do not know their responsibilities under the loan. Consequently, a new student loan brochure with clearer language is to be issued.

The period following graduation from university is often one of unsettled confusion. Marriage and the responsibilities of raising a new family loom on the horizon; many students use this period to travel; the difficulties of searching for and finding the right job are manifest.

The Canada Student Loans Plan gives a period of grace of just six months, then the loan has to be paid back at something approximately six per cent interest.

We think the government should look with interest at an American plan gaining popularity. Under it a student pays back one per cent of his income over 40 years, no matter how high or low his income might be. There are two obvious advantages to this: repayment is geared to ability to pay, and more needed should be available for further loans.

Spending Hits New Ceiling

Financial Post

Those who look for signs of a second-half resurgence in business can scratch this year's public and private capital spending as a source of exciting new push.

Outlays on new facilities in the current calendar year, the federal government now says, will top $15,520 million. This represents a 3.8 per cent upward change from wintertime estimates and it adds up to a 4.4 per cent rise over 1966 outlays. By contrast, in the past three years the economy was powered along by annual spending increases that averaged a remarkable (and inflationary) 17 per cent.

The Human Element
School Integration Questioned

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Senator Robert Kennedy astutely observed a fundamental cause of the recent rioting in Detroit. Although referring to the ghetto residents, the context of what he said could be equally applicable to Ontario's efforts to consolidate schools into ever larger units.

Let us beware of the danger of causing people to lose their community identity. Don't let economic expediency override the need for individual expression.

It may be true that through school consolidation comes more adequate facilities and better teaching (although I feel teachers themselves don't know how to tell which teachers are 'better') but let us not forget the inherent danger that cold impersonality, inculcated in a school can be carried over into society. Then the anonymity of increasing big city life could nurture an every-man-for-himself attitude, which, in the long run, can only spell chaos.

Larger school administrations may be inevitable, but, in the name of reason, let's not forget to build into our plans safeguards against such evils. Many U.S. universities have decentralized into colleges, each of which possesses a unique identity. The "House" system is still used extensively in large British schools to foster individual-group allegiances. Let's not allow our local politicians and school boards to carry through plans for consolidation on the basis of economic expediency alone.

Have educational psychologists or sociologists been called upon to give their views?

The Christian educational statutes still say that schooling shall be conducted according to the Christian philosophy. Has the local ministerial council been invited to give their opinion on the important Bay of Quinte consolidation scheme?

If so, I haven't heard of it.

Please understand, I want the best for our kids, but I also want social peace both for myself and my children.

They Know The Meaning Of Poverty

Watertown Times

Can you imagine Washington bureaucrats, accustomed to the better things in life in suburban Maryland or Virginia, living in poverty?" A few of them did — for two days.

Some officials from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, whose chief interest with the program is to help to administer has been through program supervisors, decided to see what it is like to live at a poverty level, and what happens to federal projects at the street basis. They spent two days in a depressed section of west Baltimore.

The experience included sleeping on cots at the social work training center; talking to workers and clients in the various health, education and welfare centres; and making their way around the city by bus — no cars allowed.

An unforgettable experience was one lunch when each bureaucrat was given 23 cents, the city's welfare allocation per meal, and told to "make do."

Some had to chip in a couple of cents out of their own pocket just to get a hamburger and soft drink.

The experience opened the eyes of these visitors. As one said: "I can stay here and know that in two days I'll be home. You see something and what it's like, but you are not trapped. They are."

That comments was made by HEW's chief of plans, projects and grants for vocational rehabilitation. So it seems safe to say that any future problems or requests for assistance brought to his desk will receive a much more attentive and understanding ear.

Medical Men's Incomes

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Just a brief comment on the article Richard Jackson in your issue of August 24.

He points out that in E. J. Benson's "Taxation Statistics" the medical profession, leads all the rest in the matter of income, quoting an average income of $25,000 a year.

I recall a remark by an elderly physician, now gone to his reward: "I am afraid that the almighty dollar has too great a hold on the medical profession."

In the United States and in Canada, the record is the same, the medical profession leads all the rest in income.

One wonders what the Great Physician would think, and does think, of this state of affairs. A decent living for the profession by all means; lading all the profession in income, certainly not. It is a reversal of the magnificent ideals that historically have been characteristic of medicine. The healing profession needs very badly a very large dose of the Christian religion.

Why? — Market Square Re-surfaced

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

What is happening to our municipal administration? Sometimes I think they must be going around with their rose coloured beads in the clouds, and are not able to see what is under their feet!

Just recently, the Market Square was re-paved. Why!

The area that needed re-paving urgently was ignored—West Bridge Street hill.

Does our city have a roads policy?

Perhaps it is time for the citizens of our city to take a more active role in the affairs of our municipal administration—and raise their voices when civic actions, like this one, are taken.

"UPSET"

Gun Lobby in the U.S.

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Regarding the editorial from The Christian Science Monitor in the August 25 issue of the Intelligencer, under the heading "Gun Lobby Problem in the U.S."

I wonder if the people who write such columns realize that there are thousands of sportsmen in the United States and Canada, who handle guns with great respect and responsibility. The fact is that automobiles placed in the hands of irresponsible people cause many more deaths, than does the occasional gun in the wrong hands.

I would think a tighter control of the sale of automobiles would save many more lives than the control of guns.

Killing—In Dollars And Cents

Saint John Telegraph - Journal

It cost, according to a statistician, about 75 cents to kill a soldier's mess in Julius Caesar's time. With perhaps a little more accuracy, it has been estimated that the cost had risen to $50,000 in the Second World War.

These are two methods of comparisons, as though the price of war were understandable only in terms of finance and not in suffering and the destruction of human values.

In the 1914-18 war 2,000 rifle bullets or 10 artillery shells were necessary to kill an enemy soldier sheltered in a trench. In the Second World War one and one-half tons of bombs were needed to destroy a human life.

Mankind has made 99 most frightening advances in the science of death and destruction during our lifetime. The bombing plans that flew at less than 1,000 miles an hour in 1939 has been superseded by the intercontinental missile with a nuclear warhead, travelling at supersonic speed.

To grasp the significance of this advance in fire power, we compare it with the past. At a range of 300 yards, the longbow used by Henry's archers was the vital weapon from the Battle of Crecy in 1356 until the outbreak of the American Revolutionary War in 1776. Nor did artillery make astonishing death-dealing strides in those five centuries.

Now in just 30 years man has evolved the ultimate in terror weapons. We can say we hope that by making survival nearly impossible, he has also made a modern war almost impossible.

Big Business Hunters Advised to Go After Elephants in Arctic

OTTAWA (CP) — If you go hunting in Canada's northern Arctic, you'd better go after elephants.

That's the advice given during the last week to 45 big-business tourists taken on an 8,000-mile trip through the Arctic by the Department of Indian affairs and northern development to try to foster more knowledge of and enthusiasm for the north.

Five of the visitors represented such United States giants as U.S. Steel, Chase Manhattan Bank and Union Carbide.

The recommendation is not as silly as it sounds. It's the department's colorful way of telling companies searching for mineral riches in the Arctic that they have to go for the big find.

Northern Development Minister Arthur Laing, who accompanied the tour through some north-west territories, repeatedly emphasized that major mineral or petroleum discoveries are the only ones that will be economically feasible.

Because of problems of lack of transportation, climate, small and scattered population and need for power, finds that would be developed profitably further south won't make money in the north—at least not for many years.

There are a few exceptions, such as New Imperial's 2,500-ton-a-day copper operation, but it is located only a few miles from the railway at Whitehorse.

To lead weight to the department's argument, it points to the success of Pine Point's lead-zinc mine on the south shore of Great Slave Lake and its forthcoming base-metal mine of Anvil Mining Corp., 125 miles north of Whitehorse.

Value of mineral production in the Northwest Territories will rise to more than $100,000,000 this year from $20,000,000, thanks to the output of Pine Point.

Anvil announced, while the visitors were in Whitehorse, that it will be in production by 1969, with sales contracts arranged with Japanese interests for $250,000,000 during the following eight years.

Cost of bringing Anvil into operation will be $80,000,000, with the government putting about $26,000,000 into northern needs such as roads and power plants.

By comparison, the total output of the Yukon's fabled gold fields has been about $200,000,000. Total annual mineral production last year of $13,000,000 is expected to reach at least $70,000,000 by 1970.

Recognition of the impact of these discoveries has sparked a concentrated exploration drive throughout much of the territories, Mr. Laing said.

In the Yukon, 2,000 to 2,500 claims were staked annually up to 1964 when the first rumors of Anvil started. About 15,000 claims are expected to be filed this year, the department says.

More than 10,000 claims have been filed in the Coppermine area south of Arctic ocean, following some promising copper finds made by geologist Murray Watts.

Not all the elephants of the north have proved economic, however.

Mr. Watts has outlined 1,300,000 tons of the world's richest known iron ore, averaging about 67 per cent content—but still is trying to convince backers it can be shipped to market.

These young men must also be "informed, emotionally balanced, intellectual, analytical, decisive, courageous, personable and hard working."

Government Statistics Indicate Manufacturers in Strong Position

OTTAWA (CP)—Latest federal government statistics indicate the Canadian manufacturing industry has completed a period of inventory adjustment which puts it in a strong position for future economic advance.

Sales in January and February, the ratio of inventories to manufacture shipments was at the high rate of 2.33 and 2.34, higher than it had been at any time in the previous 5½ years.

In June, the ratio was cut to 2.02, its lowest point since last fall, before the recent pause in the economic upsurge was first reflected in the statistics.

The Canadian figures in this case parallel experience in the United States, where Gardner Ackley, President Johnson's economic adviser, has said that business now is poised for sustained spirits.

The ratio of inventories held by manufacturing industries to the shipments or sales those industries are making to distributors and ultimately to the retail market is a sensitive indicator of the health of business.

Businessmen keep sufficient inventories on hand to provide a smooth flow of goods in process through their plants, backed, however, by circumstances such as strikes in supplying industries.

But when sales or shipments fall off, they inevitably pile up excess inventories until they have a chance to adjust. Holding inventories in excess of real current need is an expense to the businessman, and a depressing influence on the supplying industries.

Manufacturers have been gradually letting their raw material inventories run down, from a high point of $2,745,500,000 in January to $2,649,300,000 in April. By June they had come up again to $2,682,800,000.

During this period, goods in process have grown moderately in value. They were valued at $1,817,900,000 in January and $1,823,800,000 in May, though they were cut to $1,803,300,000 in June.

Manufacturers' stocks of finished products grew steadily during this period to $2,487,300,000 in June from $2,277,800,000 in January.

Department Store Sales Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Department store sales rose to $181,173,000 in June, bringing the total for the first half of 1967 to $1,008,085,000, an 8.3-per-cent increase over the first half of last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

Increases for the half-year were general across the country, except for a 6.7-per-cent decline in Newfoundland, and affected all departments except furs, millinery and housedresses and uniforms.

The biggest gains were made in photographic equipment and supplies, 24.3 per cent, though half-year sales amounted to only $7,340,000.

DBS also reported Tuesday that farm implement and equipment sales in the first half of 1967 were valued at $191,363,000, a 6.6-per-cent increase over last year. The figures included a 3.9-per-cent increase in the sale of farm implement repair parts.

Sales of paints, varnishes and lacquers in June totalled $25,554,000, bringing the January-June sales to $102,080,000, an increase of 4.2 per cent.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Fresh Plum Sauce Excellent on Ice Cream

By MARY MOORE

You remember how good prune bread is. Fresh plums in a quick bread are even better for their color is so bright. Skinny did the tasting. Both were pronounced a success. Furthermore I from one loaf. When it was sliced I buttered it lightly and served it with fruited jello for dessert. Pretty and good.

FRESH PLUM BREAD
(Two Loaves — one to freeze)

3 cups sifted all - purpose flour
4 tbps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 cup sugar
1 cup nuts (almonds, walnuts, or pecans, chopped or whole)
2½ cups coarsely cut pitted but not peeled red plums — about 6
1 egg
¾ cup milk
1-3 cup orange juice (may be fresh or fresh frozen reconstituted)
1 tbsp. grated orange rind (from one large orange)
3 tbsps. cooking oil or soft or melted butter

Into a large mixing bowl sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add nuts and plums and carefully mix. In a smaller bowl beat egg then add milk, orange juice and rind, and oil (or butter). Mix. Add to sifted dry ingredients, stirring only until blended. Turn into two buttered medium-sized loaf pans, making a slight depression at centre. Cover with foil and let stand on counter 20 min. Bake covered with foil, bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 20 min. then remove foil and bake 30 min. longer. Cool on racks. Slice one for current meal. Freezerwrap second loaf and freeze.

You can use fresh red plums in a quick bread. Mary moore gives you the recipe for two loaves—one of which you can freezerwrap and freeze for future emergencies.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Calves' Liver and Bacon; Creamed Broccoli; Corn-on-the-Cob; Relish Tray; Chantina, Chutney, Celery Hearts; Baked Rice and Raisin Pudding; Tea.

FRESH PLUM SAUCE
(An excellent ice cream or pudding topping)

1 lb. fresh red plums, weighed before pitting (I had weight 1¼" diam.)
¼ cup water
¼ cup sugar
1½ tsps. cornstarch
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. cinnamon (optional)
1½ tsps. butter

Wash and pit unpeeled plums and cut into eighths or twelfths. Reserve half cup in small bowl. Put remainder in saucepan with the water and sugar and cook covered 10 min. or until plums are tender. Into reserved plums stir the cornstarch, salt and cinnamon and stir into cooked plums until thick and clear—about 2 min. Add butter constantly. Remove from heat, add butter and cool.

Store in refrigerator in covered jar until needed as topping for ice cream, or custard or blanc mange or cottage pudding.

Picks Color

MONTREAL (CP) — George R. Schafer, chairman of La Belle Canadienne wig house, says his color for this season is green. "I find that a submerged green is just right not only for the latest and most expensive green mink coats but for the color richness of this year's dresses and eye shadows."

Successful Living

Single Woman Feels Life Wasted

Dear Doris: I am 33, single and terribly lonely. Eating supper alone each evening is becoming unbearable. There is not much opportunity to meet eligible men at my work.

I have thought of moving to a small town where it might be easier to get to know people. I have thought of registering with an introduction agency but I don't think I could go along with it. I have thought of going to a cocktail lounge some evening.

I feel I am wasting my life when I could be sharing it with a mate. Am I doomed to this never ever land of the single older woman? — Public Health Nurse.

Dear P. H. N: I have a friend who declares that if a man isn't married by the time he is 35, there's something wrong with him. I wouldn't go that far, any more than I would say such a thing about the girls.

But eligible men do seem to do the disappearing act in the 30's. Some girls have gone north to pioneering communities, and there found single men in spare. Others move into employment where there are both sexes around.

The thing is, not everybody clicks with the opposite sex right off the bat. The reserved type — of man or woman — doesn't flirt, or even make new acquaintances, easily. But if it should so happen that two congenial souls work side by side over many months, a spark of lasting love might just take fire.

Resist the cocktail lounge idea; but do keep circulating, socially. Hobby groups, extension studies, are two good ideas. If they don't bring you a man, they could contribute an interesting substitute.

Dear Doris: I'm writing in reply to Vicki who shares Her Majesty's birthday. I'm sure Her Majesty would be quite pleased to hear from her. — Wishing which she can treasure in her heart. — Fran.

Dear Fran: Vicki will be glad of your news. It is fun to share a birthday with our Queen. You were a pet to report about your overtures to royalty. Are you paving the way for a career in the diplomatic service?

To Grandpop: We start building our old age on the day we are born. The classic argument for communication between the Stevens and the Seventies. I am chiefly concerned for the so-called Mods who are so infatuated with the idea that they've got it made, and so enamored of their own omniscience, that they turn off all sage advice. They spoil the insulting epithet "old-fashioned", and the guilty oldster stamped, sad.

Victor Hugo said: "A young man is handsome, but an old man is great." Hold out for your proper status!

Are you in doubt about the proper etiquette to use for your social occasions? Ask Doris, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Ann Landers

Important Persons Usually Courteous

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I reply to the Sacramento reader who described himself as a "busy executive" and resented being asked his name or the names of business by "self-important" secretaries.

As a secretary who has worked in both private industry and government, I can safely say that the bigger the man, the more humble and courteous he is, on the phone, as well as in person. I served as secretary to the late Honorable Adlai E. Stevenson when he was in Washington on United Nations business. Mr. Stevenson never failed to identify himself when he placed a call personally.

President Kennedy did the same. Many an astonished secretary instantly dropped the phone when she heard that famous voice say, "This is Jack Kennedy. Is Mr. Doe in?"

So please tell that joker out in California that if two of the greatest men of our century can identify themselves when they want to speak to someone, he can, too. — FLORIDA.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR FLORIDA: Amen, Sister, Amen.

* * *

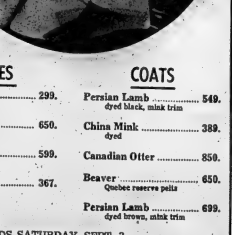
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Usually your advice is sound and solid, but I was badly let down when you told the man who seduced a young, innocent girl that he had no reason to feel guilty. Your words were: "After all, you didn't chloroform her. It's up to the young lady to call the signals and hold that line."

I don't buy your theory that if a guy doesn't use chloroform he needn't have any twinges of conscience. Some girls at 15 are very mature. They know all the answers. Others at 15 are children. They may appear worldly-wise and talk a good game, but they don't have any real information. These girls are pushovers for a smile and they often wind up in trouble.

My father was a wise and wonderful man. He taught his sons that honorable men don't deceive girls to obtain sex satisfaction and that virgins were strictly off limits. — E.U.H. OF DANVILLE.

DEAR E.U.H.: The world could use more fathers like the one you had. But my advice still stands. I, too, feel sorry for the girls who get seduced, but one of my chief missions is to wake up those sleeping beauties. The best approach is to let them know they must watch out for themselves. Most boys didn't have fathers like yours. They will take anything that's offered plus whatever they can talk a girl out of.

* * *



DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I read where a high school girl wanted to know if she should take a picture of her friend in the casket and give it to the bereaved parents. You were somewhat noncommittal, I wish you had told her NO.

My mother died when I was 13. An aunt took pictures of her in the casket — two large photographs on stick paper and several smaller snapshots. Her face looked pained, like a doll's, and the expression on her mouth was cruel — one I had never seen.

That was 46 years ago, Ann, and those pictures still haunt me. I have never forgotten how Mother looked when she was alive, her beautiful, sparkly blue eyes and her warm smile, but the picture in the casket always comes first. After a shudder or two it fades away, but it's always first. It's a terrible mistake to take a picture of a person after death. Please tell your reader not to do it. — A DEVOTED READER.

DEAR READER: I agree: From now on when asked I will no longer be non-committal. I shall remember your letter and say "no."

Sparks – Thompson

Rev. Bruce Small officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in Wallbridge United Church, when Patricia Ellen Ann Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Thompson, Belleville R.R. 3 was united in marriage to William George Albert Sparks, Scarborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sparks of Havelock.

Mrs. William Ironside, cousin of the bride presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist Mr. Kenneth Bronson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Empire styled gown featuring a lace bodice and pearl de soie skirt with the back of dress enhanced with appliqued lace trails extending from the waist. A shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was caught by an organza rose encircled with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Fred Bailey as matron of honour and the bridesmaids Miss Nancy Thompson, sister of the bride and Miss Margaret Sparks, sister of the bridegroom were dressed alike in Empire styled dresses featuring powder blue lace bodices and crepe sheath skirts. They wore matching wedding ring headdresses. All carried nosegays of white and blue tinted mums. The little flower girls were the Misses Roxanne and Maxine McComb, cousins of the bride who were dressed identically to the bridesmaids and, each carried baskets of blue and white baby mums.

Gordon Rigby, cousin of the bridegroom was best man, while the ushers were Allan Thompson, brother of the bride and Clarence Rigby, cousin of the bridegroom. Ring - bearer was Brian McComb, cousin of the bride.

Receiving the guests in Wallbridge Orange Hall, the bride's mother wore a blue lace sheath with matching full length coat, pink feathered hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. For the wedding trip to Expo returning via the southern shore of Lake Ontario the bride chose a light blue sheath crepe dress with matching lace coat, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Sparks will reside at the Danforth Park Apartments, 1340 Danforth Road, Apt. 1305, Scarborough.

MR. AND MRS. W. G. A. SPARKS

The Experts Say

Sleep, Good Diet and Fresh Air Still Best for Healthy Complexion

MONTREAL (CP) — Despite the growing variety of beauty products, the best ingredients for a healthy growing complexion are still sleep, a good diet and fresh air, says cosmetics expert Joan Margosian.

"I've worked in the Elizabeth Arden salon for 15 years and every time a woman comes in me for the first time asking that I turn her into a Gina Lollobrigida, I explain that first she must attain a healthy skin by caring for herself from the inside. Then she will appear beautiful on the outside and makeup will only be the finishing touch."

Miss Margosian, herself a dark-skinned beauty of Armenian descent, approves use of some makeup by every woman, young or old.

"In our Canadian climate the skin has a tendency to become sallow and to lose its vitality due to improper circulation, so first and foremost it is important to revitalize a tired skin."

This can be done through gentle massage of the face and neck, followed by a thorough cleansing of the skin with a deep cleanser which will remove dust and dirt that has accumulated in the pores.

Next apply a beauty mask at least twice a week. Masks now can be bought in bottles. They brighten the skin and give a healthy, glowing appearance that can then be enhanced by the final application of makeup.

"A good astringent to tone the skin and close the pores is a must for conscientious skin care. This should be followed by application of a moisturizer if the woman is inclined to have a dry skin. If her face is a combination of dry and oily patches she should apply the moisturizer to the dry areas only and use a good astringent on oily parts."

The forehead, nose and chin are the oiliest parts of the face, says Miss Margosian, and they should be cleansed frequently. The cheeks and areas around the eyes are drier and an application of cream before bed will result in better skin balance.

As for makeup itself, it should be applied with a light touch.

"Corrective makeup is on the way out and beauty experts recommend that the person concentrate on her best feature, be it a nose, mouth or the eyes, and play these up thus detracting from the less-flattering parts of the face."

In most cases you should choose a foundation that most closely matches your natural skin tone. You should be able to blend the foundation just below the chin area on to the neck without seeing a visible color demarcation line.

"A light touch of powder and a lipstick in co-ordinate with your outfit are final touches."

Eyes are usually the most attractive part of the face so they should get special attention.

"But rather than concentrate all your efforts on dabbing on eye shadow and liner, make sure the brows are properly shaped. This will do more to create a beautiful eye than all the makeup in the world."

Miss Margosian says if you can afford it a monthly trip to a professional beautician will help. But if you can't, see a reliable expert at least once in your life. That way you can learn how to take care of your skin and how to apply makeup that is correct and proper for your particular complexion."

AID RUNS HIGH

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe says a food-stamp program to aid 182,000 low-income Massachusetts families will cost about $14,000,000 a year.

Bank Manager, Tellers Shot in Nevada

OVERTON, Nev. (AP)—The manager of a bank and his two women tellers were herded into a vault late Tuesday and shot to death. A 36-year-old man was later arrested and charged with murder and robbery.

The slayings were discovered by a farmer, Norman T. Sturdiff, who had gone to the bank to talk about a loan.

The bank manager, Larry Staley, 27, and the tellers—Vera Walkington, 32, and Betty Heitmann, 40—were each shot in the head. Normally, two other persons work at the Overton branch of the Bank of Las Vegas, but both were off.

Percy Lynn Conger, a construction worker, was taken into custody at his home in the farming community of Moapa, about 15 miles northeast of Overton. He was booked into Carbon County jail on charges of murder and robbery.

An audit to determine the amount taken will be made today.

A short time before the three were slain, sheriff's officers said, a young man tried to rob a bait shop two blocks away.

A clerk, Adella Maxey, said the man asked for shells for a gun of that kind, then, as she turned, demanded that she give him all the store's money.

She took about $30 from a cash register, Mrs. Maxey told police, but the man said: "If that's all you've got, forget it. It's not worth my life or your life."

Mrs. Maxey said he then said he had been kidding, and talked with her for 10 minutes before buying beer and leaving.

Mrs. Maxey telephoned Deputy Sheriff Cleo Whitney, and Whitney was in the bait store when word came of the bank killings.

Roadblocks were set up, and about an hour later Conger's car was spotted by a pilot, which led to his arrest.

Voting Hopes Wrecked For Mississippi Negroes

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Representative John Bell Williams, firebrand opponent of the Johnson administration, won the Democratic nomination for Mississippi governor in a smashing conservative victory that left Negro voting hopes wrecked today.

The 59-year-old veteran of two decades in Congress, who lost his seniority for supporting the Republican presidential ticket three years ago, rallied hard-core segregationists and middle-of-the-roaders to his cause with a blistering attack on liberalism.

With reports from the last precincts from Tuesday's voting trickling in, Williams' lead over state Treasurer William Winter approached 60,000 votes. Winter, who topped the first primary to pick party candidates three weeks ago, led this time in only 20 of the 82 counties.

The Williams vote carried white candidates to victory in all 22 local runoffs where Negroes opposed white candidates, dashing Negro hopes for winning sheriff's posts for the first time since the 1890s.

Mobbed by several thousand well-wishers at this downtown motel headquarters early today, Williams called on Democrats to close ranks to defeat Republican challenger Buhel Phillips in the Nov. 7 general election. The Republicans have not elected a state official this century.

Returns from 1,361 of the 1,134 precincts gave Williams 343,771 votes and Winter 194,109.

The election hinged on two points from the outset: Whether the Negro vote would solidify behind Winter after splitting in the first primary, and whether Williams could get the 134,000 votes of white supremacist Jimmy Swan, the No. 3 man in the first primary.

Winter, a north Mississippi lawyer, had led in almost every county in the northern half of the state, but Williams, who lost an arm in the Second World War, cut into his strength early in the night, then rolled most of the southern counties.

Charles Evers, state field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, estimated 190,000 of the approximately 185,000 registered Negroes voted.

Los Angeles Brush Fire Out of Control

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A brush fire roared out of control early today in an area of expensive homes in suburban Granada Hills, threatening a wide area.

One home was quickly destroyed by flames whipped by wind gusting up to 60 miles an hour.

A fireman said the occupants escaped without injury.

The flames could be seen in downtown Los Angeles about 25 miles to the southeast.

Thirty-five city fire units were sent to the area, and plans were announced to evacuate residents.

The fire centre on a ridge in the northern San Fernando Valley covered about two square miles by 1 a.m.

There were reports of looting. Police sent a number of cars into the area.

The fire was burning toward a heavily populated area of homes bordering Knollwood Country Club.

Man Is Like A Cancer Eating Up His World

INUVIK, N.W.T. — "What, Admiral Byrd, what do you expect of the North?" Peter quipped as our plane left Edmonton's Industrial Airport bound for Inuvik.

I knew better than to imagine a row of igloos surrounded by miles of snow and ice and polar bears. I expected Inuvik, only 80 miles from the Arctic Ocean to be something more like a row of shacks, temporary base for Eskimo hunters, surrounded by miles of treeless tundra and rock made bare by the howling northern wind.

On arrival, our initial reaction was surprise and dismay. Inuvik, (pronounced "In-oo-vik") turned out to be a booming little town of over 2,000 inhabitants, roughly one quarter each Eskimo, Indian, Navy and Northern Affairs. The government people and other privileged live in bright painted, well-windowed bungalows with water, heat and sewage carried by enclosed pipes. On the other side of town are the Indians and Eskimos who live in run-down little houses and tar - paper shacks to which the pipes do not run. In between are the major buildings which include a 100-bed hospital, a school for 800 students, hostels for 300 of them, the administration building and Hudson's Bay store and in the 75 degree temperature, not even a whimpering north wind could be detected in the trees (small but abundant).

Adding to our disillusionment, we were told that many Eskimos, when not on welfare, work on construction jobs, while those who still trap prefer a skidoo to a dog team.

"Muk-Tuk" (whale meat) and caribou, two native dishes, were not available in Inuvik: "Go to Tuk-tuk (Tuktoyaktuk, 138 miles N.E. on the Arctic Ocean)" we were told, "or eat hamburger."

Eskimo boys we met at Stringer Hall, the student hostel where we stayed, wanted to become businessmen, not trappers. For entertainment, they play baseball, see the latest feature at the theatre (the Battle of the Bulge was playing) or listen to the jukebox in the local cafe.

"We should have left the Eskimo alone," I protested to Tom Butters, editor of the Inuvik Drum. "Before the white man came, the Eskimo had a way of life which was unique and successful. Now they live in squalid shacks, and have a serious drinking problem."

"This is an academic question," Tom replied. "The world population will double by the year 2000 and out there we have untold minerals and cropland. Man is like a cancer eating up his world; you can't tell a cancer to stop. We're all products of broken cultures, the sooner we're salt, chocolate brown, the better," Tom continued. "Young Eskimos like you should s k a an Eskimo how hard it is to run dogs. Find out what it's like to freeze your fingers or rest your dogs. Find out why Eskimo parents want their children to say in school and get a job."

His conclusion, "Yes, the native lives in poverty still; that's because Canada has only begun to meet her obligations in the North in the last 12 years."

Tom convinced me that this radical change which sees the son of an illiterate hunter studying law, is necessary. Respected Eskimo leader, Simon Tipnuk, (not his real name), showed me the hardships of a people being transplanted from one way of life to another in an underdeveloped land.

Our discussion took place in Simon's modest but tidy home in the unserviced area.

"From the ages of 6 to 18, the children attend Central Hostel Schools and see their parents only during summer recess", Simon told me. "I want my children to know their parents and their people better than that. I want them to respect the way I'm making my living. If they realize these things, they can go in either direction."

Simon believes that small day schools should be established in more small settlements, and the northern heritage be made part of the curriculum. We were interrupted by a drunken Eskimo at the door who Simon diplomatically sent home.

"The people need jobs," he said sadly, returning to his chair. "Northern Affairs doesn't do much to get local industry. In Aklavik, for example, the fur garment co-op is shut down because the furs must go to a tannery in Winnipeg, and have been delayed. Northern Affairs started a tannery in Aklavik and ruined many thousands of muskrat pelts. Why couldn't they use a good machine?"

Questions like "Why couldn't they use a good machine?" put to me in a sincere voice showed how out of touch with the outside world are leaders even of Simon's stature.

When I mentioned that CBC CHAK-Inuvik was Government-owned, Simon was amazed. He didn't know.

"The North needs young people who can advise the people what the situation is. The government doesn't respect the natives. We're told what's good for us — not asked. With help, we can build our own tanneries and mink farms, and canneries. We're depending on the younger generation to give us a better break."

What Tom and Simon told me was confirmed by two days I spent living with an Eskimo family in Tuktoyaktuk, a smaller northern settlement in the Arctic. I hope I find room next week to write about my stay there. Suffice to say that I ate both "Muktuk" and caribou.

Thanks to Pacific Western Airlines and Northward Aviation who let us "hitch" their planes into the North for a first hand on Canada's number one challenge.

Ky, Thieu Will Win Rural Vote

SAIGON (AP)—Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the military candidates for president and vice-president in South Vietnam's election Sunday, appear certain to carry the rural areas where 80 per cent of the voters live.

The leading civilian candidate, former premier Tran Van Huong, is making inroads against the military slate in the urban areas of the eight major cities. He is expected to get more votes than his nine civilian rivals, but not nearly enough to overtake the powerful military bloc.

These are the conclusions of Associated Press correspondents from interviews with more than 300 voters scattered from South Vietnam's northernmost provinces down into the Mekong Delta.

The interviews indicated that only about one per cent of the 5,850,000 registered voters have any idea of the campaign issues.

The Saigon intellectuals, the only people reading discussing the election with any depth, are generally opposed to the military and support one of the four leading civilian tickets.

One civilian slate headed by the Dai Viet party leader, Ha Thuc Ky, appears to have a major following in the northern provinces around Da Nang and Quang Tri. The Dai Viet political machine has been active there for years.

More than half of those interviewed said they were either undecided or did not wish to discuss their vote. Among the undecided were the rice farmers, drivers of bicycle cabs, vendors in the market places and soldiers in the countryside.

This bloc comprises roughly 40 per cent of the voters and will be decisive. But the military slate will probably capture most of this vote because the government structure that Thieu and Ky control spreads its roots so deep into the population that the civilian candidates cannot hope to match its influence.

In the rural areas, where the government has a tight rein on the villages and hamlets under its control, registration for the election has gone in the cities it has declined since the last election.

In Saigon only 176,000 voters have registered out of 600,000 eligible. Although 60 per cent of the population of Vietnam is regarded as rural, 80 per cent of the registered voters are from the countryside.

The low city registration will reduce the vote for the civilian candidates.

Voters say the overriding election issue is peace, an end to the war that has split Vietnam asunder and grown into greater intensity with each day.

"A civilian would be better to bring peace," said an auto mechanic in Nha Trang. "We have suffered for many years, the fighting must be stopped. All costs are going up. I am becoming poorer every day."

Establishment of Peace and Order Is Junta's Main Boast

ATHENS (Reuters) — The army-backed government imposed on Greece in an April military takeover points to the establishment of peace and order as one of the major achievements of its first four months in power.

Constitutional guarantees have been suspended, leftist leaders arrested, parliament disbanded, public meetings restricted and press placed under strict censorship. Hence, say observers, there are few spontaneous signs of opposition to the regime.

Those observers believe it is too soon to assess programs in economic recovery or the social reforms and administrative clean-up promised by the new leaders.

Sources say that only 3,500 political prisoners remain out of about 6,500 alleged Communists originally seized and held in Second World War camps on the barren Aegean island of Yaros.

The remaining prisoners, the sources say, would be automatically released if they agreed to sign statements pledging to abstain from all political activity.

The source say less than 20 members of Parliament are still jailed or under house arrest.

Others arrested include popular composer Mikis Theodorakis, who gained international fame with the music for the movie Zorba the Greek. He was one of the most active members of parliament of the now-disbanded United Democratic Left, and chief of the 70,000-member pro-Communist Lambrakis Youth.

Police say the youth organization was organized and trained for "sidewalk guerilla warfare."

The Greek press remains under strict preventive censorship, despite repeated promises to newspaper men by military strongman Col. George Papadopoulos, whose official post is minister to the prime minister's office, and the recently appointed undersecretary for the press, Athens journalist Theotykitos Papaconstantinou. Both promised a return to press freedom, but it has not yet materialized.

The only organized resistance uncovered so far has taken the form of leaflets calling for an uprising. Jail terms of up to nine years have been slapped on persons convicted of organizing such activities.

At a rally in a little town in the mountains of central Greece, Interior Minister Brig.-Gen. Stylianos Patakos was asked how long the present regime would stay in power.

"We must apply our program," he answered. "How long will it take? "Five, 10, 20 years. We are not going to give up before completing our task."

Observers note that King Constantine assured the people that as soon as the constitution is revised, a plebiscite will be held and elections would follow.

Premier Constantine Kollias appointed a committee of 30 jurists to formulate constitutional changes. A recent announcement said most of them had turned in their recommendations to their chairman. But no one here can forecast whether or when the military junta will accept the recommendations.

British Minister of Labor to Visit Canada

LONDON (CP)—Ray Gunter, Britain's minister of labor, is to visit Canada next month and plans to meet Canadian officials concerned with labor problems.

Gunter, 58 today, also will meet union leaders during his Canadian visit, which will include stays in Ottawa and Montreal.

A power in the governing Labor party, he was party chairman in 1965 and is said to wield much influence still in top circles of the organization.

Gunter met with Labor Minister John Nicholson of Canada Tuesday.

They discussed the "success or otherwise of the wage-price freeze in Britain," Nicholson said later.

The Canadian minister, considered in such maritime disputes.

Gunter has had plenty of experience in such matters, including last year's strike by British seamen.

Nicholson, who is in London Friday, is scheduled to spend today visiting a housing project in Harlow, 20 miles north of London, where Canadian ideas and building materials are being used.

The ideas came from the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., for which Nicholson is the minister responsible.

The building material takes the form of wood from Canada, which Canadian officials hope will find more frequent use in Britain. Brick is a predominant building product which Canadian wood sales, built to make good here.

Nicholson told a London news conference that as of Tuesday the pressures generated by the Great Lakes strike were not sufficient to force "special action" on the part of the federal government.

But such pressures were bound to grow and Nicholson spoke of possible appointment by the government of a mediator.

The strike by members of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada began Aug. 17.

War Veteran Dies

TORONTO (CP) — William Henry Marsden, 85, last surviving Commonwealth holder of a Distinguished Conduct Medal won in the Boer War, died at his home here Monday. Mr. Marsden, who became an Ottawa alderman after his retirement from the army as a captain in 1929 and lived in the capital until 1946, also was awarded the Military Cross at Vimy Ridge and the Meritorious Service Medal for saving life at sea while on a troopship in 1916. Funeral services will be held Thursday.

Bolivia Allows Father To Visit Alleged Rebel

CAMIRI (Reuters) — Bolivian military authorities have granted Parisian lawyer Georges Debray permission to have daily three-hour visits with his imprisoned son, left-wing journalist Regis Debray, charged in connection with guerrilla activity.

Georges Debray said Tuesday the authorization would enable him to help his son with his defence.

The military tribunal trying Regis Debray appointed Lt.-Col. Raul Novillo to defend him but after the Frenchman dismissed Bolivian lawyer Walter Flores Toroico and announced he would handle his own defence.

Only members of the Bolivian bar are recognized as legal counsel.

Military sources said Debray, who faces charges of rebellion and murder for allegedly aiding and abetting guerrilla activity in southeast Bolivia, was spending his time studying military and civil law.

The public trial of Debray, Argentine painter Ciro Roberto Bustos and four Bolivians facing similar charges, is scheduled to open in the southeast Bolivian city next week.

London Magistrate Won't Try Strikers

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Magistrate Donald B. Menzies Tuesday stood aside in the case against five strikers charged following egg-and rock-throwing disturbances at the strike-bound Fanco Ltd. plant in London last week.

The magistrate had come under criticism for comments in court that anyone convicted of violence at the strife-torn plant would "not be dealt with leniently."

The five strikers were remanded until Thursday to appear before another magistrate on charges of wilful damage, obstructing and assaulting policeman. They are free on personal bonds.

A date for resumption of talks between officials of Emco Ltd. and striking members of Local 2099, United Steelworkers, is expected to be set soon. Talks will resume with one major issue apparently partly resolved.

R. W. Read, personnel manager for Emco, said Tuesday there would be no mass exodus of non-union employees when a new contract is signed and the strikers return.

Swimming Bars Sign Of Failure

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal party leader, said Monday "no swimming" signs on Ontario beaches advertise ineffective government programs to fight water pollution.

Mr. Nixon told a party gathering there is not a single provincial lakefront park between Toronto and Niagara on the Lake, Ont., and many beaches in the area are polluted.

"To control pollution," he said, "we need tough effective laws and a program of low-cost, long-term loans to industry to help to install pollution control equipment.

"Years ago the Conservatives promised to spend $20,000,000 acquiring lakefront property," Mr. Nixon said.

"So far, less than $3,000,000 has been spent for this purpose. The text of Mr. Nixon's speech was released in advance.

Only 25 Elderly Folk Ask Tax Aid

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of municipal affairs said Tuesday it had received only 25 individual applications for loans to elderly homeowners to help finish pay their property taxes.

The loans, up to $150, are made available through Bill 105, which was passed by the Ontario legislature this spring. Under the act, the government will make an interest-free loan to homeowners over 65 to help them pay their property taxes. The loan becomes a lien against their homes.

Each municipality in the province must pass a bylaw to enable elderly homeowners to qualify for the loan.

A department of municipal affairs spokesman said Tuesday 45 of the province's 900 municipalities have informed the department they have passed the bylaw. The spokesman said many more are expected to pass the bylaw.

College Tuition Increases

OTTAWA (CP)—About one-third of Canadian degree-granting universities and colleges have increased tuition fees for the new school year, mainly in the arts and sciences and generally by small amounts, a report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Tuesday.

The report said tuition fees have remained relatively stable since last year. But accommodation costs have risen by approximately two-thirds of the universities and colleges, with increases ranging from $10 to $140 and averaging about $55.

The bureau said its accommodation costs survey applied to university - operated residences and not to off-campus private quarters.

The report does not cover costs of transportation, books, clothing, or recreation which might add several hundred dollars to the education bill for a typical student.

Canadian Soldier Accidentally Kills Cyprus Youngster

NICOSIA (AP)—A Canadian soldier in the United Nations peacekeeping force in Cyprus accidentally shot and killed a 16-year-old Greek-Cypriot boy Tuesday near the farm village of Karmi, in northern Cyprus, a UN source said.

The boy died while a UN helicopter was en route to the scene to evacuate him to hospital.

The source said the soldier's rifle fired accidentally while village children gathered around a Canadian UN patrol which was escorting a party of villagers out harvesting near a Turkish-controlled area.

In Ottawa a spokesman at Canadian Forces Headquarters identified the soldier involved as Rifleman, J. M. G. Doucet, 20, of Summerside, P.E.I. The spokesman confirmed the details as reported by the UN source.

Afraid of Ridicule Canadian Seaman To Join U.S. Navy

BURLINGTON (CP)—A Canadian Navy seaman afraid of being ridiculed in the new tri service uniform has applied to join the American Navy.

Able Seaman Philip Murphy, 21, of Burlington, said after three years in the navy the new Canadian flag which replaced the naval ensign was hard enough to swallow.

The new green colored tri-service uniform to be worn by all in the armed forces was the breaking point, explained Murphy.

"It really hurt. I couldn't go that far. If I went into a foreign port in that green uniform and said I was in the navy, they'd laugh at me."

Murphy, who served aboard the HMCS Assiniboine, said he accepted unification of the armed forces with appreciation thinking seriously of quitting.

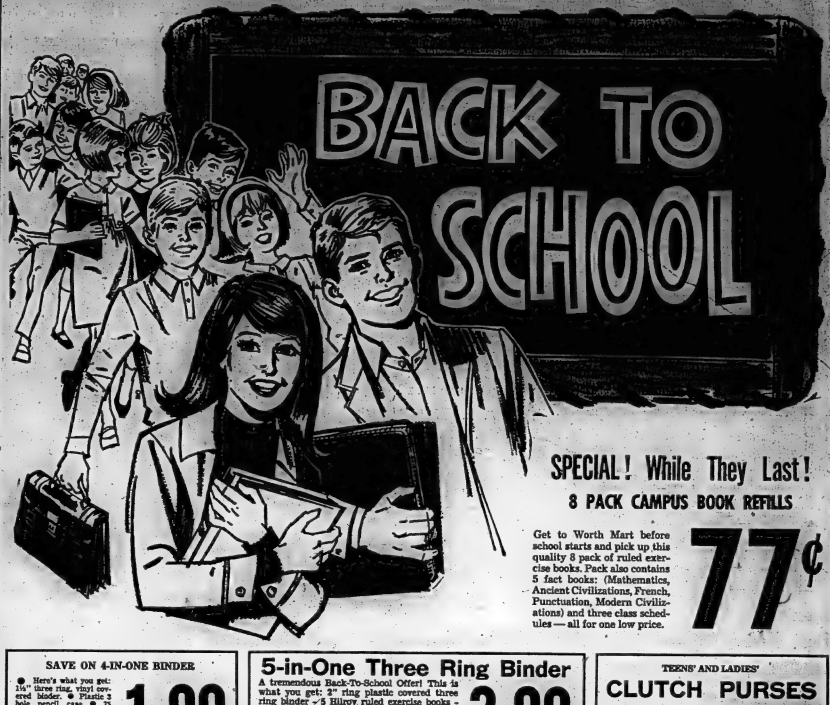
He said he tolerated the new Canadian flag replacing the naval ensign at a ceremony on board where "the chief who lowered the ensign had tears running down his cheeks."

But then the new uniform.

"That," said Murphy, "tore it."

"Take away the uniform and you take away the tradition," he added.

Greeks Claim Phone Threats Over Protest



TORONTO (CP)—An organizer of last Sunday's mass protest against Greek King Constantine's support of his country's new military regime says many members of Toronto's 45,000 - member Greek community received threatening phone calls not to take part in the demonstration.

Philip Taenaas, chairman of the Committee for the Restoration of Democracy in Greece, said in an interview Tuesday many Greek citizens were told on the telephone action would be taken against their relatives in Greece if they took part in the demonstration.

Mr. Taegaas could not say who had made these threats.

This week, the king takes part in the dragon-class world sailing championships here.

Cannifton Homestead Is One of Oldest in the Quinte Area

By ROY PEACOCK
(Staff Reporter)

In these days of Centennial fever, everyone — or nearly everyone — is foraging on the history bandwagon.

And Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boyce of Cannifton are no exception.

But the Boyce family have something going for them which few township residents can hope to match.

That is they live in one of the oldest houses in the district — a picturesque stone structure atop the hill behind the Cannifton general store and post office and once used as a stagecoach stopover.

The rambling Boyce home had possibly one of the first bathrooms in the Belleville area; it has a pair of unique Dutch doors at its rear entrance, and in the basement or cellar a tremendous limestone slab table, once used as a built-in refrigerator.

With all this ready made background it is no wonder that Mr. and Mrs. Boyce have a keen interest in things historical.

The years the Boyces have collected a whole houseful of old time furniture, utensils and early farming equipment. You name it, the Boyce's have it.

There has been little physical change in the old Boyce house over the years. With most of the rooms remaining much the same as they were prior to the turn of the century.

That five-inch thick slab or limestone in the basement measures more than 13 feet long and four feet in width.

Even in summer the big slab of stone remains always cool and in the old days was used as sort of a built in refrigerator to keep milk and cream cool.

The big question of course is how the big slab of limestone was put into the basement in the first place.

"They must have put the slab in the basement before the house was built," says Mr. Boyce.

But there is one change of which the Boyces are proud.

A few years ago the original bathroom equipment gave what amounted to 4 final gasp and the old house was allocated sufficiently to provide room for a new one. The bathroom is finished with red cedar cut from the Boyce homestead.

But the Boyce's don't intend to keep their house full of antiques indefinitely.

Last summer Mr. Boyce purchased an old log house from a Tyendinaga farm and hopes to move it to Cannifton for use as a private museum.

"I've got the spot all picked out," the Cannifton farmer said, pointing to a vacant area just across the family driveway.

"That old house will look just fine there overlooking the village and the Moira River," he says.

Built-in Stone Refrigerator

Unique feature of the old Cannifton homestead at Cannifton is this five inch thick slab of limestone once used as refrigeration table to preserve milk. Temperature of the stone slab is kept cool as result of "sweeping".

Early House Retains Charm

This rambling stone house at Cannifton, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boyce is one of the oldest in the district and was built by Joseph Cannift in the 1830's. House was once used as a stagecoach stop.

Original Doors

Little Lynn Boyce can barely peek over lower half of the old Dutch doors at the rear of her parents' Cannifton home.

School Board Chairman Pushes Board of Education Proposal For Quinte Area in Speech to Belleville Kiwanis Club

The amalgamation of the secondary and public school boards to form an all - inclusive board of education for the Quinte area has been proposed by several groups in recent months. The chairman of the Belleville public school board, Malcolm Smith pointed out the benefits of such a board in a speech to Kiwanis Club members yesterday. The following is Mr. Smith's speech.

I appreciate having this opportunity to speak to you about a subject that I feel is very timely and important. It is my hope that I can acquaint you with some of the trends and developments in education and to promote the idea of a larger integrated area of administration in education for Belleville and the Quinte District. At a recent conference in Belleville on education, commerce and industry this statement was made:

"There should be no channels of communication between education and industry allowed to terminate through ignorance. An educated public and work force is basic to the success of an alert and enterprising industry and yet we find that employers in general, including those in industry, do not devote much attention to identifying their labor force needs and to the steps which they could take to meet them, that businessmen do not take sufficient interest in educational matters, and that educators too often are out of touch with the needs and interest of the industrial and business communities."

Information must be made available, not only to those who are involved in the educative process, but to those who are involved in the utilization of human resources.

We must recognize the increasing importance of education to virtually every aspect of society.

We must also recognize that the prosperity of our nation and our citizens rest firmly on our educational system.

It therefore, follows that we must ask ourselves — Is our educational system adequate to meet the needs of today's society?

If we examine the present organization of school districts in Ontario we find that the basis of this organization was established over 100 years ago, geared to a relatively static economy and designed to meet the needs of a simpler and slower society.

With the world changing around us so quickly, education cannot possibly afford to remain static. Yet we find, that in spite of the fact, that most jurisdictions in the western world have reorganized their school district and that many of the counties in our own province have replaced small school units by larger more efficient administrations, we in the Quinte area are struggling to provide a program, particularly in the field of secondary education on an organization that was basic to towns or small cities a century ago.

The Ontario minister of education in a memorandum last year to County Councils consultative committees, stated that the formation of large units of administration in which public and secondary schools are under boards of education is the objective of the department. It also stated in the same memorandum that it is the policy of the department to encourage the formation of county, or district school areas. It is my understanding that this policy is endorsed by all the major political parties.

For the past year or two, great responsibility rests with school boards, county and municipal councils. The initiative, as yet, remains a local asset. Local councils and boards know their own circumstances best, and by acting now, can have a hand in determining the developments that will surely take place.

I wish to assure you that we have not been inactive on this subject. Last year the Belleville public school board passed a resolution to form a special committee to work with council and other boards to investigate and promote a method of unification between elementary and secondary education, and to assist all bodies wherever possible in the advancement of education in this community.

A year ago this month an educational conference was held for South Hastings, Amelisburg and Belleville to give thought to the developments in educational organization and administration and to determine what planning may be suitable for co-operative action in the Quinte area.

The meeting was initiated by the Hastings County consultative committee and sponsored by the Belleville public school board. There was representation from the consultative committees, from the department of education, and from all the school boards and municipal councils in the Quinte area.

Those present studied in detail many of the aspects of integration and amalgamation of educational organization.

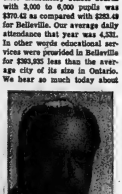
The meeting approved without opposition the principle of the formation of a larger integrated administrative area.

The Bay of Quinte High School Board has hosted this year two conferences of councillors and trustees to investigate amalgamation for this area.

Representatives from the public school board have, during the past two years, participated in regional and provincial seminars and conferences on this subject.

Joint meetings of our own city council, the Bay of Quinte district high school board, and the public school board have been held.

As you know Belleville City Council has approved in principle the integration of the elementary and secondary schools and has invited other Municipal Councils in the surrounding area to meet with them to again study this question.



What does this mean?

- School systems are going to be administered by Boards of Education.
- Areas of Administration are going to be enlarged.
- This will probably happen within two years.

One of our first concerns must be — what will this cost?

First the provincial government has made grants available that will offset any increased cost to municipalities as a result of amalgamation.

Second we have facts to prove that an area of the anticipated size of the Quinte board of education is the most economical to be found in the province.

MALCOLM SMITH

And third the Belleville public school board has developed practices and procedures that have made the cost of education for the Belleville taxpayer well below the cost of communities of a similar size. For example in 1965 the average cost per pupil of daily attendance for Ontario elementary school boards with 3,000 to 6,000 pupils was $370.42 as compared with $293.49 for Belleville. Our average daily attendance that year was 4,331. In other words educational services were provided in Belleville for $383,925 less than the average city of its size in Ontario. We bear so much today about the high cost of education but it is a fact that elementary school taxes in Belleville have not increased. The residential tax levy for 1967 is 6.3 mills. This is the lowest that it has been in the last 12 years with the exception of 1964 when it was 6.1 mills.

To answer your obvious question, I honestly believe that these economies were effected without reducing the level of education in our system. In the last three years we have hired only three new teachers who did not have an A or B rating. Our salaries exceed those of the surrounding municipalities. We are as progressive and our system is as advanced as any community of a similar size. Indeed, we compare favorably with larger communities.

The reason you enjoy lower taxes for the support of elementary schools can be summed up in one word - efficiency.

The sharing of materials, supervision and special services, the economies of a single administration and the advantages of bulk purchasing and distribution will ensure that the taxpayer, within the proposed enlarged area, will get far greater value for his dollar.

The secondary schools and boards of education act provides for elected representation from all municipalities - this will ensure local representation, autonomy, and control. The trustees will establish policy and will hire skilled and capable executives who can provide co - ordination and continuity. These senior officials will provide a good instructional and administrative program that will remain from year to year. Education should not depend on elected representatives whose skills may be outstanding, but who are not geared to guide and control the educative process.

While costs are important and must be considered, the reason for any changes must be justified by what it can do for the children. Education in Ontario was originally intended to prepare students to live in an economic structure based primarily on agriculture and in a society which was relatively simple. Our economic and social conditions have now been drastically changed. Improvement in commerce and industry, the rapid pace of invention and discovery, and the great expansion of knowledge in recent years have made life more complex. The importance of the schools' role in preparing students to live in this new environment cannot be overemphasized. Education is the best prepared for known social conditioning; our children are facing the unknown.

I would like to point out to you the academic advantages that can be provided in larger integrated education units.

A co-ordinated educational program for pupils will make a senior secondary school with identical educational backgrounds now come to our secondary schools from six individual systems. A single employing board of education would ensure that equality of training and background would be available to all children in the Quinte area.

The provision of a more enriched educational program under single direction and coordinated supervision — this direction and supervision would enhance the development of the child from kindergarten to the completion of his secondary education and thus ensure that education for our children will be a continuous process. It will bridge the definite break in the adolescent years which now exists between grades eight and nine.

The provision for more specialist services for the exceptional child, for example, the partially deaf, the physically handicapped, the gifted child, the slow learner, and the mentally handicapped — each municipality has children who are average, brilliant or dull, healthy or deformed, good or indifferent. Belleville is too small to economically meet the needs of every individual child who requires special services. It therefore, follows that the smaller municipality can provide even less. The Quinte area collectively could provide all these services for all our children who need them, and could do it economically.

Specialists which we now have in Belleville would immediately become available to assist teachers in the entire Quinte area. I refer to consultants in guidance, physical education, library, music, audio-visual aids, and primary methods. Other services, now economically impractical in Belleville but which would become feasible in a larger area are art, psychology, psychiatry, languages, and music room.

The sharing and replacement of equipment and supplies — this cost is too prohibitive for all municipalities to provide stand-by equipment for each of their schools. Teaching aids must be available when needed. A few spares in a central location would serve the needs of all schools in this area at comparatively little cost to the taxpayer.

The provision of an educational resource centre — Belleville has over $80,000 worth of films which will become immediately available to all schools. References and resource materials could be increased and made available to all teachers. An education centre will provide a central location for costly equipment such as education and television, recording and reproduction equipment, computer services, sophisticated copying machines and the provision for immediate servicing and repair of equipment under board control. All this becomes feasible when the cost is shared by a larger system.

Upgrading of staff — there will be more incentive for members of the teaching profession to specialize, to conduct research, and to improve their qualifications. A larger system makes it possible for teachers of individual grades, of specialist classes, and of special interests to come together to expand and share their knowledge with each other. Teaching methods and teaching aids are rapidly changing. Specialists in various fields can instruct and assist teachers to get the maximum benefit from new and modified equipment.

Flexibility — There still is a shortage of good teachers. Larger systems have a far greater opportunity to balance its staff in each school, and to place teachers in positions where they can make their maximum contribution.

Let me review in brief:

- not be misinterpreted. The
- What is proposed should proposal is a single educational authority for the total Quinte area and from kindergarten to the completion of high school.
- Necessary developments and improvements must await integration and enlargement of the administration unit. They cannot be provided otherwise.
- People need not fear disturbance and relocation of children. The township central schools in most instances are already built and are in operation.
- The small unit can provide neither breadth nor depth of program. A moderate sized unit will provide competence in all areas; services, personnel, materials and programs.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander
Staff Sportswriter

Charges have been made here by one or two district team managers that Kingston-area clubs in Ontario Amateur Softball Association playoffs are picking up players from other teams in their leagues, with the blessings of executive member Harold Longabaer, of Kingston.

Picton's Jim Guernsey says Reddendale (Int. "B"), Rathmore (Int. "C") and Parham (Junior "C") have followed this practice, which according to the OASA rules, is strictly illegal.

Clifford Belch Jr., Belleville's OASA executive, has hotfoted the matter up with Longabaer and a letter has also been forwarded to OASA secretary L. G. Pickard, in St. Catharines.

Batterses contest Point Anne and Meadow Administrative Parham while, Picton and Reddendale are now engaged in their series. Picton won the opener 5-0 and plays in Kingston tonight.

Union direct protests have been filed to the OASA naming the illegal players, we doubt if much will be done about this matter this year.

But the OASA will do well to keep an eye on such habits another year.

Here in this district, Belch rules by the book and that's the way it should be — for all some across the province.

BEER AND THERE

Jack Benn, well known because of his activity with minor hockey in Trenton a few years back, has been named manager of the Trenton Community Gardens, following the resignation of former manager Ken Thornton. Benn was selected from among three applicants for the job.

Toronto Maple Leafs (hockey edition) will hold their annual press reception, to meet management and players, in Peterborough's Empress Hotel, September 7. Somehow, I just won't be there this year without "Clear the Track Shack" and his witty tid-bits — but that's not the opinion of one George "Punch" Imlach.

The appearance of Bobby and Dennis Hull in the Bunny of the Belleville and District Umpires' Association should assure a good crowd for tonight's softball doubleheader at Alemite Park. The umps take on Bills' all-stars while the Knights of Columbus go on Belleville Shriners 4th at 7.30. It's a good cause with all money going to crippled and retarded children.

Reed and Shannonville are staging a red-hot South Hastings Baseball League final and the latest word has mid-week games being moved to the Belleville Fairgrounds, under lights. Reed has quite a following because of the club's fair climb from last to second and because of some late-innings rallies but they face a tough crew in Shannonville, the loop's pennant-winners.

IN SYMPATHY

The Intelligencer Sports Department joins with the city and district sports world in offering deepest sympathy to the family of the late Hugh Petrie. Hugh was well-known and respected by team mates and opponents alike in baseball and hockey circles, and was the district's all-around "nice guys." His untimely death was a shock to all.

Stinson's, City Hotel Stick To Script

Commercial softball fans must think they are watching re-runs in the League Semi-Final playoffs.

For the third consecutive doubleheader, Stinson's edged Black Diamond 2-1 while City Hotel outlasted Lightfoots 11-8 at Alemite Park last night.

The games left the Chessmen and Lightfoots tottering on the brink of elimination. Fourth games in both series will be played at the Alemite Monday night, starting at seven o'clock.

Stinson's scored their two runs in the fourth and Black Diamond's came in the seventh during another pitching duel.

Bobby Boyle tossed three-hit ball over the route for the winners, displaying good clutch hurling to earn the decision. He struck out four and did not walk a batter. Shortstop Ken Greenaway helped with three sparkling fielding plays.

Don Holoway started and lost before brother Sonny took over for the Chessmen in the fourth. They allowed five hits, only one by Sonny Holoway, striking out eight and passing two.

One of the walks got Don in trouble in the fourth when Boyle stretched to open the inning. An error, singles by Thompson and Whiting and a ground out later it was 2-0.

Kellar slammed a leadoff triple and scored as Jack Gill ly grounded out for the only run off Boyle.

Lyle Thompson had two Stinson singles with Boyle, Jack "Deacon" Whiting and Don Forsythe splitting the others. "Fuz" Kellar's triple, Jack "Deacon" Whiting and a base hit by Don Holoway accounted for the losers' lot.

Lightfoots jumped into a 3-0 lead in the top of the first but gave City five back in their half to set the pace in the slugfest. It was 5-5 before four in the third put the Hotelmen ahead to stay.

Dave Feeney and Gerry Greenaway gave up a dozen hits, struck out four and passed four on the winners' billtop. John French started but left in favor of Don Smith after suffering a leg injury in the fourth, for Lightfoots. They gave up 11 hits and fanned four. Five errors and as many walks, four off French, proved costly.

Bob Brooks packed the City attack with a three - run double in the first, a single in the third and another two - bagger in the sixth. Bob Lloyd added two singles, Doug Hill, Gerry Greenaway Murray, Brian Smith, Feeney and Jack Garner one each.

Terry Johnston had a double and two singles, Terry Cannoliana and Rusty Garvin two hits each, for Lightfoots. Don Wood doubled with singles for Fred Gouldthrop, Bob Smith and Doug Rose.

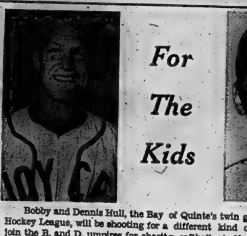
Teams Tune For World Ski Meet

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— The third day of official training was to get under way today as 17 teams tune up for Thursday's start of competition in the 10th world winter ski championships.

Teams from Mexico, Australia, Colombia, France, The Netherlands, Belgium, Austria, Sweden, Norway, Spain, Italy, Argentina, the West Indies, New Zealand, South Africa, Great Britain and Venezuela were expected to take to the course today.



Twelve teams went through brisk workouts Tuesday over the course at Lac des Nations in Jacques Cartier Park, site for the world event.

Jean-Michel Jamin of France fractured his ankle in Tuesday's workout during a slalom run and is not expected back in time to compete in the eliminations.

Karl-Heinz Benzinger of West Germany bruised his ribs during a jumping trial Monday. It is not known if he will return to compete in the eliminations.

Franco Cervero of Milan, Italy, was chosen president of the World Water Ski Union Tuesday.

Mr. Carraro will succeed Andre Costaz of Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 31.

Bobby and Dennis Hull, the Bay of Quinte's twin gifts to the National Hockey League, will be shooting for a different kind of goal when they join the B. and D. umpires for charity softball at Alemite Park tonight. The Flying Hulls tackle Ellis Seniors while Knights of Columbus play the Belleville-Shriners. All proceeds will go to crippled and retarded children.

Read Snatches Finals Lead

Read upset Shannonville 4-2 last night to take a 2-1 lead in the South Hastings baseball finals.

The winners have now captured two close decisions after dropping the first game of the best-of-three series. One game ended in a scoreless tie.

Shannonville grabbed a two-run lead in the third but Read replied last inning with a four-run outburst to tuck the victory away.

Bill Barbercheck slammed a bases-empty home run off Read's starting pitcher Carm Milligan in Shannonville's inning. Later in the frame, with the bases loaded, an infield single pushed across the second run for the losers.

Read's rally came on the strength of four singles.

Carm Milligan gave way to relief pitcher Harold Pascoe in the fourth. May Shannonville had started scoring. Together they struck out four, walked four, and gave up six hits.

Bill Barbercheck went the route for Shannonville, allowing six hits and striking out seven.

Harold Pascoe slammed a double and single and Pete Enright two singles for the winners. Ted Abrams and Gerry Brennan added base hits.

Barbercheck had a single and homer, Jack Hughes a double, and Bud Hill, Doug Dafoe, and Jerry St. Denis singles for Shannonville.

Next game is slated for the fairgrounds in Belleville, Thursday, at 8 p.m.

Shannonville	002 00 0	2-5-0
Read	000 4x 0	4-5-1

Batteries: B. Barbercheck and B. Hill; C. Milligan, H. Pascoe (4), and Gerald Brenan.

'Golden Bear' Blasts Hot 65

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus' seven-under-par 65 Tuesday in the $250,000 Westchester Classic golf tournament moved Palmer a step closer to the biggest prize in professional golf.

The 19-year-old Nicklaus, playing in a threesome with Arnold Palmer and Doug Sanders, has taken command of the tournament with a 54-hole total of 201—15 under par—and his stirring round Tuesday has left Palmer shaking his head in disbelief.

Nicklaus had a three-stroke lead over the trio of South African Gary Player, who had a third-round 68; Dow Sikes, 70, and British open champion Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, 68, Thursday's final 200.

Palmer, the game's all-time leading moneywinner, shot a third-round 67 and was tied at 205, four strokes off the pace with Frank Beard and lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand.

Sanders is alone at 206 after a 69. Mason Rudolph, who led the first two rounds and had two sub-par rounds wiped out by rain, blew to a 75 and 208.

Toronto's Al Balding shot a 71 for 216.

Bob Shave Scores Well In Practice

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Shave scored a 69 over the par-71 Toronto Board of Trade Course during practice round Tuesday.

It was considered a good score over the 7,034-yard course that has grooves as big as football fields.

The course will be the scene of the $200,000 world golf championship, which begins Friday and winds up Monday.

A total of 150 golfers from 16 countries will participate, with the field being cut to 75 and then after the first 36 holes. The tournament money is $200,000 with the winner carving $25,000.

The greens are exceptionally large. Most are built in hills with slopes that appear to tilt three ways at the same time.

The World-Series winds up today and most of the top money golfers are expected here tonight.

Impact Tough Referee

GLASGOW (AP) — Tom Wharton, one of Scotland's toughest soccer referees, got an urgent summons to Toronto Tuesday to take over a dynamite - charged game between Inter-Milan and Olympiakos of Greece.

The game is scheduled for Thursday night. Officials feared a repetition of the scenes in last Sunday's clash between Inter and Santos of Brazil, when three players were sent off.

Wharton, 39, a former miner, has to referee a Scottish League Cup game between Glasgow Rangers and Celtic—a notorious annual clash which is always liable to explode.

He plans to see that one of his pals gets a place early Thursday and reach Toronto five hours before kickoff time there.

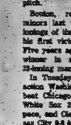
Clark's Single In 20th Earns Yankees Split With Red Sox



By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston Red Sox were quietly staying trying to hit Jim Bouton. Then Darrell Brandon hit Bouton without trying to... and Horace Clarke sent everybody home to bed.

Clarke's run-scoring single in the 20th inning gave New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over Bouton Tuesday night after the Red Sox had seized the American League lead by winning the doubleheader opener 3-2.

The split left the Sox a half game ahead of both Minnesota Twins, who lost to Baltimore 4-3, and Detroit Tigers, who swept a twin bill at California 4-3 and 3-1.

20th knocked in John Kennedy, who had singled and moved into scoring position when Boston reliever Brandon hit Yanks reliever Bouton with a pitch.

Boston, recalled from the minors last week, pitched five innings of relief to nail down his first victory of the season. Five years ago, Boston was the winner in the seven-hour, 22-inning marathon at Detroit.

In Tuesday night's other American League games, Senators beat Chicago 3-0, dropping the White Sox 9½ games off the pace, and Cleveland edged Kansas City 9-8 in 10 innings.

Steve Whitaker's homer run in the 11th after the Red Sox had grabbed a 2-2 lead in the top of the inning, and a spectacular throw by centre fielder Bill Robinson kept the Yankees alive in the extra-inning struggle.

Robinson grabbed Reggie Smith's one-out drive in the 11th and doubled Mike Andrews at the plate with an on-the-fly strike. Boston outfielders Carl

The Red Sox took the first game behind right-hander Jim Lonborg, who fired a three-hitter for his 18th victory and drove in the deciding run with a seventh inning single off loser Mel Stottlemyre. Lonborg also fanned 11 Yankees to take the league lead with 195 strikeouts.

Brooks Robinson's three-run double with two out in the sixth led Baltimore past the Twins. Robinson cleared the bases after Twins walks got Boswell in trouble.

Lonborg checked the Angels on eight hits in the nightcap as the surging Tigers ran their current string to 10 victories in 13 starts.

Dick McAuliffe drove in two first game runs with a homer and single for the Tigers. Bill Freehan broke up Dicky Clark's no-hit bid with a seventh inning homer in the second game and Detroit added a run in the ninth on singles by Norm Cash and Ed Mathews plus an infield out.

Dick Bosman, up from Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League, pitched Chicago on five hits and handed the White Sox their sixth setback in eight games. Run-scoring singles by Frank Howard, Cap Peterson and Ed Brinkman in the fourth gave Bosman all the support he needed.

Muskegon Player-Coach

Brewer Inks Five-Figure 'Amateur' Contract

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—Carl Brewer, three times a National Hockey League all-star defenceman who quit Toronto Maple Leafs after the 1964-65 season, has been signed to play with Muskegon Mohawks of the International Hockey League.

CARL BREWER

Mohawks owner Jerry Dellos said Tuesday Brewer had been signed to a contract calling for a salary "high in the five-figure" bracket.

There was no indication whether Brewer was taking a step back toward professional hockey. He was reinstated as an amateur in December, 1966, and cannot be involved in professional status until December, 1968.

Brewer, living in Winnipeg, could not be reached for comment.

The IHL is an amateur organization and the contract with Muskegon does not conflict with Brewer's amateur status, Dellos said.

The 28-year-old Brewer, who completed seven seasons with the Maple Leafs, bowed out to seek a degree in education at McMaster University.

He played last year with the Canadian national amateur team that competed in the world ice hockey championship tournament at Prague, Czechoslovakia, losing out to the Soviet team.

Brewer was named the outstanding defenceman in the tournament.

The 5-foot 11-inch Brewer, a native of Toronto, was named to the NHL all-star team in the 1961-62, 1962-63 and 1964-65 seasons.

During his career with the NHL teams have offered up to $200,000 in efforts to get Brewer's services.

In Montreal, publicity Director Ron Andrews of the National Hockey League said Brewer is within his rights in signing with Muskegon since the NHL considers the International Hockey League an amateur organization.

It was understood that Brewer signed as a player-coach.

Brewer will become a professional again Dec. 15, 1968, as the property of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Titles Won By Cosy Grill, Shopping Plaza

Dixie Lee defeated City Hotel 19-10 in the women's softball league finale last night.

The win put Dixie out in front two games to one in the series.

Debbie Semmix had the winners' only home run, a grand-slam blast.

Sharon Francis, Evelyna Maracle and Verna Hill had home runs for the losers.

Three Canadians

Dozen Eye Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—A field of 12 three-year-old trotters, including three Canadian horses, go after one of harness racing's biggest plums today—victory in the $122,850 Hambletonian.

Clearing skies are forecast for the first mile heat, scheduled for 3 p.m. EDT.

At least five trotters are given strong backing and three heats may be needed to determine who will collect top prize of $60,086.

Dazzling Speed, driven by 40-year-old Stanley Dancer who is after his first victory in the premier stake after seven failures, comes nearest to being the main contender. The strawberry roan has nine firsts in 16 starts this year.

Dazzling Speed has drawn the No. 1 post in the field of nine colts and three fillies.

The other favorites are Keystone Pride, Speedy Model, Speedy Streak and Pump. Keystone Pride, a four-time winner in 11 outings this season, is listed a 4-to-1 choice.

Halifax Hanover, one of the Canadian entries, is looked upon as a serious challenger. The horse, owned by Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont., will be driven by Joe Dries, formerly of Alberton, P.E.I.

Halifax Hanover is listed at odds of 12 to 1 and has drawn the No. 11 post position.

The other Canadian horses, Arnaben Harold and Nursery Mir, are rated to 30 to 1. Armbro Harold, to be driven by Bob Silliphant, is owned by Arnaben Hill Farms of Brantford, Ont., and will start from the No. 2 position. Nursery Mir, owned by Adrien and Girard Myron of St. Augustine, Que., will go from the No. 9 post with Marcel Destie at the reins.

Clete Boyer Finds Redemption

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clete Boyer wasn't having one of his better nights. But with the kind of season Atlanta's rearmost third baseman is having, even his errors turn out well.

Boyer made one of his rare errors in the eighth inning Tuesday night as Pittsburgh took a 3-2 lead against the Braves.

Then in the bottom half of the inning with Atlanta trying to their bench for pinch hitters, Boyer clamaxed a rally with his 20th career grand slam homer run.

That gave the Braves a 7-3 victory and made a hero out of the pot-bellied guard.

"I was looking for redemption instead of glory," said Boyer. He got it with his 23rd homer.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Cincinnati shut out Philadelphia 1-0, New York blanked St. Louis 3-0, San Francisco pounded Los Angeles 11-1 and Houston topped Chicago 5-3.

Boyer's grand slam was his second this season for the Braves. He has 81 runs batted in, only eight less than Hank Aaron, and 15 more than Joe Torre, the Braves' top slugger.

The Pirates argued long and loud on the call at home plate when Torre scored on Francona's hit with the tying run. Al Luplow, Andre Rodgers and Gene Alley also protested a sharp five-hitter and Ron Swoboda hammered his 10th home run of the year on the Mets blanked the Cardinals.

Hal Lanier drove in five runs for the Giants with a triple, two singles and a grounder against the Dodgers as Joe Gibbon breezed on a three-hitter.

Jim Wynn capped a five-run eighth inning rally with his 32nd home run—a three-run shot that gave Houston its victory over Chicago.

Wings Aid Leaf Decline

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings withstood five Toronto Maple Leafs pitchers Tuesday night to drop the Leafs 7-5 and keep alive their pennant hopes in the International League race.

But the loss dropped the Leafs three games behind Columbus Jets in the battle for the fourth and last playoff spot. The Jets defeated Jacksonville Suns 6-3 and strengthened their hold on fourth place, 1½ games ahead of Jacksonville.

In other games, Richmond Braves hung on to first place with a 5-3 victory over Atlanta. Mud Hens and Buffalo Bisons edged Syracuse Chiefs 4-3.

The Leafs scored a run in the first then went behind on Curt Motton's two-run homer in the second. The Leafs went ahead again in the third with two runs but the Wings matched those runs in the bottom of the inning and pulled away with single runs in the fourth and fifth.

Roughie Stars on Limp Against Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP)—The best could be on the 1967 Grey Cup champion Saskatchewan Roughriders tonight.

Coach Neill Armstrong of Edmonton Eskimos said Tuesday night Jim Thomas definitely will start at right half.

But the Roughies weren't sure of quarterback Bob Lancaster.

Both Thomas and Lancaster are nursing injured feet but Thomas says all right in a light drill Tuesday.

Lancaster was given a 60-40 chance of starting. Whether he'll not be starts, he'll be dressed for the game that goes on the CTV western network at 8 p.m. MST.

Lancaster was spotting a cast when he arrived from Regina. But after the cast was removed, doctors were heartened by what they saw. He strained a tendon last Friday in the game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers. But the Roughies still won, 36-16.

Long-fleeting Thomas, an expert broken-field runner who also is fast on the straightaway, hurt his foot in the game last Wednesday against Calgary Stampeders. The Stamps won that one 18-5.

Just in case Lancaster doesn't play, coach Eagle Keyes will have Jesse Kaye waiting on the sidelines.

Lancaster, confined to the bench would help Armstrong feel better. The Eaks have a 2-3 won-lost record compared with Saskatchewan's 3-1, and Armstrong—like other coaches—hasn't figured out how to stop the Lancaster-to-Hugh Campbell pass combination.

"Maybe when and if I figure it out, I'll write a book," Armstrong said.

Should it happen that Lancaster doesn't play and Thomas packs up part way through the game could turn into a defensive battle. The Eaks, with a good defence against a crucial game and an improving defence against Aerial attack, probably would have the advantage. If Thomas leaves the game, Trent Walters will fill in.

Jim Carpbie, who suffered an eye injury 12 days ago, will return to the Saskatchewan lineup and, for the first time this season, the Roughies will put up the same defensive lineup that went against Ottawa Rough Riders in last year's cup game. Carpbie will share tight end with Gerhart Ehrlen.

Substituting at right half for Gene Wlasiuk, who has been bothered by a shoulder complaint this season, will be Dale West.

Victory would move Edmonton into a second-place tie with the Roughriders. Defeat would leave them two games back of Saskatchewan and first-place Calgary, each of which would have a game in hand.

Thomas Tops Rushers, Scorers

TORONTO (CP)—Jim Thomas, slippery Edmonton Eskimos halfback, leads the Western Football Conference in rushing by more than 100 yards over defending champion George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Statistics released today show Thomas with 472 yards in 98 carries, compared with Reed's production of 354 yards in 82 carries. Edmonton has played five games and Saskatchewan four.

Third place in the rushing race is held by Bill Munsey of British Columbia Lions with 362 yards in 54 carries. Rounding out the top five are teammates Lavell Coleman and Ben Woodson of Calgary Stampeders.

Thomas also leads in scoring with seven touchdowns for 42 points and a 12-point edge over flanker Ken Nielsen of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Nielsen leads the conference in pass receptions with 23, four more than Coleman and Terry Evanshen of Calgary. Evanshen leads in average-gain on receptions with 19.3 yards.

Peter Liske of the Stampeders leads in passes attempted and completed and his 11 touchdown tosses are at least six more than anybody else in the league.

Jim Furlong of Calgary leads punters with an average of 45.2 yards on six kicks. Randy Kerbow of Edmonton owns a 72-yard boast, the longest individual boot of the season.

Trent Walters of Edmonton leads in punt and kickoff returns. He has totalled 185 yards on 27 punt returns for an average of 6.9 yards. He has returned nine kickoffs for 211 yards.

Scoring leaders: E—Edmonton; W—Winnipeg; S—Saskatchewan; B.C.—British Columbia; C—Calgary.

World Records Tumble

TOKYO (AP)—Chester Hickcox of the United States swam the finals of the 200-metre backstroke Tuesday night as the U.S. swimming and diving team crashed three more listed world records and won six finals for a two-day sweep of all 13 aquatic titles in the World University Games.

Hickcox won the 200 backstroke in 2:04.4 one night after he had shattered the world standard for 100-metre backstroke with a 58.3 clocking. The 200 time erased the mark of 2:10.3 set by Jed Graef of the U.S. in the Tokyo Olympics.

The other U.S. record-breakers were Doug Russell in the 100-metre butterfly, 56.5; and Linda Gustevson in the women's 400-metre freestyle, 4:37.8.

Canada was blanked in all events, and its volleyball team, from University of British Columbia, lost its second straight contest. It bowed to the powerful Japanese team in straight sets, 15-4, 15-3, 15-2.

In basketball, the heavily favored American quintet trounced Thailand 120-46 and have a 3-0 win-loss record along with Brazil, Japan, and South Korea.

Japan continued its sweep in Judo, winning the fifth and sixth gold medals. They went to lightweight Yoshio Sonoda and to Masatoshi Shinozaki in the open class. South Korea has won all six silvers in judo.

Sweden's Miralee Palm won the women's fencing and foil gold medal.

The 1970 winter World University Games will be held in Finland.

Farley's 72 Wins Senior Golf Crown

ANCASTER, Ont. (CP)—Phil Farley of Toronto shot a par 72 Tuesday at the Brantford Golf and Country Club to capture the Canadian seniors golf association championship.

Farley, a two-time winner of the Ontario Open, combined his 72 with an opening round 73 Monday in Ancaster, Ont., for a 36-hole total of 147. George Hevenor of Toronto shot a 76 Tuesday at Brantford for a 153 total and second place.

Selected as a team to represent Canada against the United States and Great Britain in a tournament in October were:

D. N. Anderson, St. Thomas; N. A. Barnaby, Montreal; Hevenor; Fred Lyon, Toronto; Ben Mervin, Toronto; Noah; Sandy Sommerville, London, Ont.; J. B. Taylor, Montreal; W. D. Taylor, Montreal; Ed Thompson, Toronto; Les Cleeg, Whitlock, Ont., and Trudeau.

Farley was named to the team, but declined because of other commitments.

Junior Tennis

Top Seeded Win Easily

OTTAWA (CP)—Most top-seeded players had little trouble winning Tuesday as more than 175 matches were played in the Canadian junior closed tennis championships.

The reason for the heavy schedule was the cancellation of all play Monday after a heavy rainfall.

Matches took place at the Rideau and Ottawa tennis clubs under mainly sunny skies in temperature of about 72 degrees.

Six boys in the under-18 singles advanced into the fourth round.

Bill Shakespeare of Halifax, third seed, earned a hard-fought 8-7, 10-8 victory over Richard D'Amont of Laval, Que. Fifth-ranked Claude Auger of Quebec City trounced John Brinkman of London 6-1, 6-1.

The other four competitors who won third round matches in the under-18 boys' were Randy Purvis, Edmonton; Pierre Verrier, Drummondville, Que., Murray Whittaker, Pointe Claire, Que., John Davis, Montreal.

All seeded players in the under-18 boys' won their matches.

Top-ranked Dale Power of Toronto easily disposed of Dany Alma of Montreal in a second-round match 6-1, 6-2. Second seed Mike Bolton of Vancouver trounced Bill Byrick of London 6-0, 6-1.

Third seed Bill MacDonell of Toronto eliminated David Speer of Vancouver, 6-3, 6-1 and fourth-ranked Doug Tough knocked off Bill Hart of Regina 6-1, 6-3.

In a match that featured the longest set of the tournament, Don Hall of London outlasted Paul Pellot of Vancouver 13-15, 6-1, 6-2.

Janice Tindle of Vancouver, top-seed in the under-18 girls, won a first round mate hover Dianne Brodie of Hamilton 6-0, 6-3, and Jane O'Hara of Brockville, second seed, advanced to the third round with a convincing 6-1, 6-1 victory over Marian Munro of London.

Susan Eagar of Vancouver, the short, but powerful third seed quickly disposed of Cathy Fournier of Cornwall, Ont., 6-0, 6-0 and fourth-ranked Madeleine Thivierge of Montreal defeated Judy Hart, also of Cornwall, 6-7, 6-0, 6-1.

In under-14 boys' singles, top-ranked Murray Flock of Southampton, Ont., won a second round match over Paul Thompson of London 6-3, 6-3 and second seed Pat Gamey of Toronto defeated Tom Heywood of Pointe Claire, 6-1, 6-2.

Unseeded Paul Holland of Islington, Ont., won a marathon match over John Primeau of Halifax 6-3, 11-9, and third-ranked Murray Whittaker defeated Brian Conway of St. John's, Nfld., 6-0, 6-1.

Newcombe, Roche Win US Doubles

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Top-seeded John Newcombe and Tony Roche of Australia won the 87th U.S. National Doubles Tennis Championships by conquering countrymen Bill Bowrey and Owen Davidson 8-6, 9-7, 6-3, 6-3, Tuesday at Longwood.

Wimbledon champions Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals captured the women's title with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis and Donna Floyd Fales of New York.

Newcombe, 23, and Roche, 22, captured the one title that had eluded them the last two years. They won at Wimbledon in 1965 and are the current Australian and French champions.

'Last Angry Woman,' Mary Sawka, Seeks PC Leadership

TORONTO (CP)—She has never waged a political campaign, never held a political post—but she has yet to join the Progressive Conservative party, but Mary Sawka is not to take command of the PCs.

"I'm the last angry woman," she said Tuesday prior to picking up nomination papers for the party leadership.

"If there was anyone else who could fit this party together, I wouldn't run."

Sitting in the living room of a home she rents in Toronto's Cabbagetown, Mrs. Sawka chewed gum, smoked a cigarette and waved her arms as she fired a list of reasons why she thinks she is the one to lead the Conservatives back to power.

She must beat out nine men Sept. 4 to get the job and in pre-convention ratings has by far the longest road to cover if she is to succeed.

Switching subjects quickly and not opposed to any points in detail, she said that one worry she has about the campaign is the required signature of 25 voting delegates on her nomination papers.

She is not at all certain she can get the signatures.

The 51-year-old grandmother said in an interview that a key reason she is in the race is that the party needs someone "who can carry the young people."

"The oldies—and I include myself—have to hold the fort. We have to instill confidence into young people instead of . . . telling them they're jackasses."

Two years are ready to vote at 18, she said, but added that she did not want the voting age lowered.

"I believe in what they stand for. We need people who don't hold their heads in the sand. I feel bolded up about it."

Turning to agriculture, she said:

"Farmers are the first citizens of the land. They've got to take their place in the new technological age."

Mrs. Sawka feels that the number of jobs she has held put her in touch with what makes Canada tick.

After she left third-year high school in the 1930s to get married, Mary Sawka worked at everything.

She baked 75 dozen pies a day during the depression and later was a waitress, said real estate and even drove a Toronto streetcar during the war.

She now runs a film company with her second husband Fred, an employee of the Pacific Great Eastern railway in Prince George, B.C.

"The last thing these people want around is candidates," she snorted at convention headquarters. "It messes up their machinations."

Roblin Appeals to Canadians 'Carry on Noble Experiment'

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin said Tuesday it is more desirable to build on Canada's present constitution than to do away with it.

"I don't want to throw the old constitution away," he told Elgin County delegates to next month's Progressive Conservative party leadership convention in Toronto at which he is one of nine.

On the subject of Canadian unity, Mr. Roblin said the one basic characteristic of Canada was that two European cultures had decided to live as one nation.

"If we carry on this noble experiment we can give an example to the whole world how people can live in harmony."

Turning to fiscal matters, Mr. Roblin said that inflation can be controlled, in part at least, by increased efforts in manpower development, by the adoption of guidelines for wage settlements and by the federal government refraining from dealing in the money market.

At a brief meeting later in Toronto, Mr. Roblin told a group of leadership convention delegates that French President Charles de Gaulle's visit to Quebec last month has set the stage for serious thinking about national unity.

On the Vietnam war, Mr. Roblin said he believed the United States had worthy motives in "holding the dyke" against outside forces so the democracies could develop without interference.

However, he criticized Canada's continuing reliance on foreign and defence policies formulated in the 1850s.

McCutcheon Backs Manning On Political Polarization

EDMONTON (CP)—Senator Wallace McCutcheon, Progressive Conservative leadership candidate, said Tuesday he agrees with Alberta Premier E. C. Manning's view that there must be a polarization of political views in Canada.

He said at a news conference that Canadians "haven't had a meaningful choice between the two major parties for years."

"The Liberals have been trying to outflank the NDP. The Conservatives have been trying to outflank the Liberals. I don't want to be mistaken for a Liberal."

Mr. Manning's suggestion was made in a recent book.

Mr. McCutcheon said that if the Conservative party "occupies the part of the political spectrum I believe it should occupy, we'll attract many small-C conservatives, some of them who now are members of the Social Credit party."

On other subjects, Mr. McCutcheon said:

1. The Carter report on taxation should be scrapped and tax laws revised and simplified without restoring to its recommendations.

2. Canada needs a "Canadian-made" constitution, one written in this country, but retaining the royal traditions.

3. The Senate could be improved by using committees to do much of the work now performed by royal commissions.

Smallwood's Life Threatened

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood Tuesday denied any knowledge of threats against his life, but RCMP here said they are investigating the matter.

Earlier Tuesday, radio station VOCM said a threat had been made on the life of the premier. It quoted sources close to Mr. Smallwood, who declined to be named publicly, as saying a letter was received recently by either a government official or the police department conveying the threat.

Diefenbaker May Attempt To Block Vote

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says in an Ottawa dispatch that John Diefenbaker will fight for the Progressive Conservative leadership at the party's convention here Sept. 8-9 and may keep his post by a procedural fight to block voting on the leadership.

The dispatch, by reporter Ron Collister, is described in an editor's note as "the story of a great political conspiracy" which "may or may not be correct in all its details." It says some of the article is based on conjecture.

Mr. Collister writes that Mr. Diefenbaker's plan would require "loyalists" in the party "to abandon the pretence of supporting other candidates and fall back in line with the slogan: "We've tried the others, but only the chief can win."

The key to success of the manoeuvre would be surprise, the dispatch adds, noting that Mr. Diefenbaker has until 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 8—the day before the voting—to announce whether he is in or out of the race.

It says the men closest in Mr. Diefenbaker are experts on procedural rules and filibustering. If the convention rules were challenged at the outset, resulting in a filibuster, "delegates might have to pack their bags and go home without voting." This would leave Mr. Diefenbaker as leader.

The dispatch says that if Mr. Diefenbaker had made up his mind to withdraw, the hint would be out by now and more has been forthcoming.

Fleming Surprised

MONTREAL (CP)—Donald Fleming, a candidate for leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, said Tuesday he was surprised when it was reported that participants at the recent Montmorency, Que., PC "thinkers conference" could be appointed delegates to the leadership convention in Toronto in September.

"Why, some of the people there were not even Conservatives," he said a news conference.

"Some of the resolutions passed were not particularly Conservative."

Improvised Policies Opposed

SUDBURY (CP)—Nova Scotia Premier Robert Stanfield Tuesday called on the progressive Conservative party to take a more systematic approach to policy development.

In an interview during his campaign for the party's national leadership, he said:

"I don't think improvised policies are good enough now, no matter how good they may have been in the past."

Mr. Stanfield said that as well as economic development, the party should keep in mind "human values, housing, attractive cities, good roads, clean air and clean rivers."

One of the important roles of a national political party, is to help knit the country together, he said. For this reason, the Conservative party has to regain the confidence of the people of Quebec.

Expansionist Nationalism Is Advocated by Hamilton

MONCTON (CP)—Conservative leadership candidate Alvin Hamilton Tuesday called for "expansionist nationalism" in Canada.

The member for Qu'Appelle said such internal economic growth could mean Canada's becoming the richest country per capita in the world within 25 years.

He said in an interview the country is faced with three economic policies:

1. The Liberals' approach of commercial union with the U.S. and Mexico.

2. Former finance minister Walter Gordon's belief in building a wall around his country.

3. His own hope to create a growth base for industrial base in Canada.

When the agriculture minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet, he said, he was appalled at "waste" in wheat farming.

"Rather than handing out subsidies," he said, "I told the farmers to grow all the wheat they could—I would find the markets."

He declined comment on the outcome of the leadership vote, but said Mr. Diefenbaker's entry would disrupt the Conservatives.

Samsonite breaks the cost barrier in lightweight luggage

Example: This handsome 21" case weighs only 5¼ pounds, costs only $25.95

Samsonite announces Debonair, a low priced luggage with a whole new range of high-price features!

An incredibly tough moulded shell is combined with the famous Samsonite magnesium frame to make this new luggage the lightest and most durable in its class.

Smartly styled Debonair comes in seven cases and six colours. The colours cannot crack or peel because they are fused to the case. Samsonite Debonair is beautifully lined—in colours that match or complement the exterior. A magnesium frame provides a tongue-and-groove seal to help keep out damp and dust. And Debonair's recessed locks keep these cases tightly closed—so luggage straps and even other locks may click open accidentally.

So happy! So lightly! With new Samsonite Debonair—luxury luggage at economy prices!

Triple Slaying at Capreol Held Double Murder and Suicide

CAPREOL, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police say they are working on the theory that a triple slaying here Monday night in which a man and the parents of four young children were shot was a double murder and suicide.

The bodies of Roland Ross, 37, of Hanmer, Ont., his wife Claudette, 34, and Alec Maher, 53, an employee of the isolated lumber mill where the shooting occurred, were discovered Monday night.

Earlier reports said the bodies were found Tuesday but it was later learned the shooting was reported to police Monday night.

Superintendent Sam White of the OPP said Tuesday that a 303-calibre rifle was found under Ross' body. All three bodies were within five feet of each other and had been shot in the head at close range.

The mill is about five miles north of here.

Kenneth Frye, a truck driver at the Gauthier Lumber Mill told police he and Maher were loading a truck Monday night when Mrs. Ross came and spoke to Maher.

Mrs. Ross and Maher walked away together, Mr. Frye said. He heard a shot and saw Mrs. Ross fall to the ground. There was a second shot and Maher also fell.

Mr. Frye jumped into the truck and drove to Capreol to summon police.

Superintendent White said he and several men drove to the mill "prepared to do battle". but found the scene silent and the three bodies.

The four Ross children, all under five, are being cared for by Mr. Ross' brother Fernand Ross at his home in Hanmer, about 10 miles north of Sudbury.

Fifth of Soviet City's Residents Say They Are Religious

MOSCOW (AP) — Twenty-one per cent of the people questioned in a survey made in a large Soviet city said they are religious, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The survey was the first of its kind observers could remember being published in this officially atheistic country, where a thoroughgoing campaign has been waged during the last 50 years to stamp out religion.

The survey was made in Kazan, a city of 800,000 located 450 miles east of Moscow. It took two years to complete.

Nauka I Religie—Science and Religion—the official magazine of Soviet atheism, published a report on the survey. The magazine did not say why it did this but the purpose was apparently to warn that religion still has a hold on a large part of the public.

More than over 400 students and others at Kazan's university and the city's medical institute conducted the survey. They questioned 4,718 persons, about one per cent of the total adult population. Of these, 989 said they believe in some religion.

The survey determined that only three per cent of those who admitted to being religious are 30 years old or younger—in line with the widely accepted opinion that atheism has been most successful with young people who have known only a Soviet education.

Another expectable result was that 81 per cent of the believers are women.

Expo Honors 'Papa Doc's' Haitian Empire

MONTREAL (CP) — The French-speaking Caribbean country of Haiti will be honored today at he world's fair amidst colorful ceremonies.

President Francois Duvalier will be represented at the Haitian festivities by Dr. Lebert Jean-Pierre, minister of commerce and industry, during a day which will see performances by the National Folkloric Troupe of Haiti and La Jazz des Jeunes orchestra.

It was Finland's national day at Expo Tuesday and the star attraction brought from that country—a couple of champions, lumberjack log-riders—was a complete flop at least so far as the dignitaries were concerned.

Premier Rafael Paasio of Finland and his wife, who headed that country's delegation at the flag-raising ceremony at Place des Nations, walked away apparently disappointed that the tricky lumberjack show was out of their view as well as that of the other officials on a special stand.

The Finns blamed Expo officials for the flop, saying they should have provided a boat to get the log-riders to the middle of LaSalle Channel where they ignites St. Helen's and Notre Dame Islands.

The current of the St. Lawrence, estimated at more then 10 miles an hour in the area of the performances, kept the loggers from getting away from the embankment and the show could only be seen by those near the edge.

Junior Expo officials explained that high-level negotiations forbid the use of motor boats in the channel and that the lumberjacks would have to leave from the river bank and make it on their own downstream.

Olle Herold, commissioner-general for Finland's participation at Expo, did not speak much of the negotiations and said that spectators lining the bank are liable to push others in front down the steep embankment and into the river as they attempted to get a better view of the show.

The lumberjacks, Pavel Vilaska and Lauri Loimonen, said the rapids-infested St. Lawrence was more than most of the rivers they've mastered in Finland and the water was warm—"we don't get such warm water anywhere in Finland."

Royal Winnipeg Ballet Receives Tumultuous Welcome in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Nearly 1,000 people gave the Royal Winnipeg Ballet Company a tumultuous opening night ovation Tuesday as the final curtain dropped on act three of Ross Latulippe.

In the intimacy of the Maisonneuve theatre of the theatrical centre of Place des Arts, the legend of Ross Latulippe unfolded in three acts, depicting family devotion versus the headstrong impulse of youth, with respect for the seigneurial aristocratic class, coupled with a fear of corruption by it.

Ross was danced by Annette de Wiederkehr-Paul who first danced the title role in the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's full-length production at Stratford, Ont., last season.

Throughout the three acts the audience responded warmly with applause and finally broke out in cheers and "bravos" for the 23-year old dancer who, at the age of 17, was chosen by Polish choreographer Yuri Grigorovitch to dance the leading role in his Stone Flower.

Equally cheered was Ottawa-born David Moroni who portrayed the dashing stranger, a courrier from Quebec, out to capture the heart of Rose.

The role of the widowed Mrs. Latulippe was portrayed by Gwynne Ashton while Richard Rutherford, who has had 50 leading roles created for him, danced the part of Rose's fiance, Anselme.

In the opening act the audience sees Rose as a sweet, humble and religious girl who lives with her mother in an old Quebec homestead.

The third act depicts the consequences of an intoxicated Rose who has forsaken her religion and the effects her actions have on all those surrounding her.

The legend of Ross Latulippe was first published in Canada in L'influence d'un Livre by Philippe Aubert de Gaspe and was printed in Quebec City in 1837.

With The Trotters

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—Molly Champ, a pacer owned by W. W. Thompson of Weyburn, Sask., and driven by Merrill Kirkness, Tuesday set new win and show payoff marks for the season at Batavia Downs.

The pacer was a 30 to 1 shot in the fourth race but came in for his second victory in 27 season starts to return $66.30 to win and $16.00 to show. In between, he paid $26.80 to place, not a record.

Lochman Hanover, winner of the first, combined with Brenda I, first home in the second, for a $51.80 daily double.

Attendance was 4,546 and the handle $218,042.

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Guy LaRush Tuesday registered his first win at Mohawk Raceway behind pacer Johnny Bing.

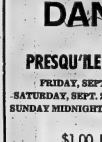
LaRush, a native of Wolfe Island, Ont., drove the five-year-old horse to win by a neck in the eighth race.

Honest Isabel, owned by Gladys and Jiggs McFadden of Dresden, Ont., returned $4.70 to win in the first and combined with Josie Mac, winner of the second, for a $13.20 daily double.

Fairway was a late scratch from the second race and a consolation daily double of $4.40 was paid on the Honest Isabel, Fairway combination.

Honey Dares romped to her seventh season victory in the sixth race, 2¼ lengths ahead of Invasion, and the combination returned a $14.50 exactor.

Sport Miniatures



DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Nevele Pride set a world record for two-year-old trotting colts in winning the $23,500 Continental Farm stake at the Du Quoin state fair grounds. Owned by Nevele Acres of Ellenville, N.Y., and driven by Stanley Dancer, Nevele Pride won the five mile heat in 2:01 and the second in a blistering 1:58.5. The former record of 2:00 was set by Scott Frost in 1964 and matched by Noble Victory in 1964, both of Lexington, Ky.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Centre Gary Dornhoefer of Philadelphia Flyers shot a two-on-par 74 for the first-round lead Tuesday in the second annual National Hockey League Golf Tournament at Transit Valley Country Club. Goalie Georges Gardner of Detroit Red Wings had a 76 while Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens, Kent Douglas of California Seals and Bill Masterson of St. Louis Blues all tied for third place with 78s.

Ballet on the Hill

Members of the Ballet Imperial of Canada rehearse for the Parliament Hill performance tonight as part of the carillonners' congress. Madame Nesta Toumine created the three ballets that will be danced to the music of the Peace Tower carillon with Robert Donnell, dominion carillonneur at the console.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran (concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose fatty fat and help regain slender, graceful curves; if rediculle pounds and inches of ugly fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, thighs and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried the plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly you appear more slender and better on your feet. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford - Seymour Public School board announced this week that the new Hilcrest Public School will not open as hoped on September 5th and may not be ready for occupancy until perhaps early October.

This delay will mean that public school children in the town will have to attend classes where premises can be made as was done after the old school was destroyed by fire in March 1964, and that then newer students made of the high school at home will not interfere with high school teaching.

St. Seymour Public School children will begin the term in the rural schools which they have attended up to this time.

Fortunately no disposition was made of the rural schools so they are still available.

When completed the new school will have 18 classrooms, with gymnasium, auditorium, library and offices, the latter facilities will be the last to be completed along with landscaping.

It is also possible that when the building is completed the town council may have to install temporary sewer and water, as Council has learned the school board that if necessary this will be done.

The last part of the west side of the town will not be affected by the delayed opening of Hilcrest School.

Tweed

TWEED — John Cournoyea, the eight-year-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cournoyea, 1 Bell St. North, Victoria St., Tweed, spent almost two months at the Tweed home of his grandparents, and left recently by plane from Malton, for his home in the Territories where his parents live.

Previous to the wedding of Mrs. Ken Mair (Tweed, the late Marilyn Cassidy) she was honored at a shower by friends and former classmates at the Nurse's Hospital, Toronto, and also at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. R. Cassidy, and Mrs. Bernard Horn as co-hostess in Tweed.

Right Reverend P. S. Kinlin of Regina, Saskatchewan, is renewing acquaintances of both friends and relatives in Tweed and Stoco.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baker and grandson Gary; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sharpe, their daughter Mrs. Lloyd Sharpe and son Lloyd, all of Silver Springs, Maryland, have been spend visitors at the Tweed home of the former's mother, Mrs. Albert Baker senior.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack O'Neill, and family of Bel Aire, Maryland have been visiting her mother, Mrs. John Cooke of Tweed, and his mother, Mrs. T. O'Neill of Gedde St., Belleville, and his father, Mr. J. V. O'Neill, who is a patient at the Belleville General Hospital. They also visited Mrs. O'Neill's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Spencer, Tweed.

Principle-of-union Document Draws Criticism of Anglicans

OTTAWA (CP)—Storm signals were raised Tuesday as the general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada spent much of the day debating problems of ecumenism, particularly union with the United Church of Canada.

D. R. C. Bedson of Winnipeg, a delegate from the diocese of Rupert's Land, was critical of the principle-of-union document already agreed to by the Anglican and United churches.

"Members of synod must be aware that there are Canadian Anglicans who do not take the [illegible] document as a reflected statement of the faith of our church," Mr. Bedson said.

"We are therefore not prepared to enter a new church based on the documents."

He said a body called the Council for the Defence of the Church was formed to help examine the "principles" and to determine a course of action if the synod decides to proceed to union with the United Church "on that unacceptable basis."

Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, Archbishop of Rupert's Land and primate, said some Anglicans are heavy of heart about the possibility of union with the United Church "but God is leading us."

The primate said the Anglican church wants "a union which will be seen by the overwhelming majority of both communions as the will of God."

Mr. Bedson said the council believes that Christ's followers should be united in the truth of the Gospel and specifically in the visible unity of all orthodox Christians.

He said the council also opposes the "principles" document is deficient because it fails to recognize the binding nature of the Apostles and Nicene creeds, the obligatory nature of baptism and Holy Communion, and unsatisfactorily describes the apostolic ministry.

Rt. Rev. W. C. Lockhart, Moderator of the United Church of Canada, addressed the synod earlier Tuesday and said "if this unity is to come because He wills it, it will come because we are prepared to make the sacrifice necessary to find a common meeting place in Him."

At a news conference later with Archbishop Clark, the moderator said that care must be taken in proceeding to union because if it came about hastily "we could end up with three churches."

"I haven't had any articulate expression of dissent," Dr. Lockhart said. "That doesn't mean to say it isn't there."

The primate said that so far he hasn't seen any "groundshizm of the Apostles' and swell" for union in the Anglican became Anglicans perhaps haven't yet "got the vibes of what a new expression of unity can do in the world."

Sixty Centennial Voyageurs Greeted by 7,000 at Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The centennial voyageurs splashed ashore at the capital Tuesday.

A crowd of more than 7,000 cheered the 69 paddlers as they headed their 40-pound canoes onto the beach 97 days and more than 3,000 miles from Rocky Mountain House, Alta., where their journey began May 24.

Today they are to be received by Governor-General Michener and later are scheduled to head on to Hull, Que., for a welcome by Prime Minister Pearson.

At dawn Tuesday arrival they were greeted by a flotilla of rowboats, powerboats, sailboats, a canoe-rigged bateau and Agriculture Minister Greene, who said to the voyageurs:

"After seeing so many of those flabby fellows around Parliament Hill, it's good to see there are still some rugged Canadians around."

When they finally arrive at Expo 67 they will have covered 3,283 miles of Canada's waterways, portaged 60 miles, paddled more than 40 days in the rain and endured about 100 nights of parties.

The Manitoba crew leads the race in elapsed time and won the 76-mile sprint after their arrival here. It was marked at 31 seconds—10 seconds later than second-place Saskatchewan.

Col. Wilbur Hutchinson of Gabriola Island, B.C., is chief voyageur of the pageant and, at 34, the oldest paddler. The youngest is 17-year-old Geoff Perreault of Athlone, Ont.

Col. Hutchinson said the journey has been "a gruelling ordeal all along."

Pride in their province or territory and pride in Canada is what has kept the crews at it, he said. "Money couldn't have dragged them through some of those places."

Each of the 208 paddlers receives $1,000 for their efforts, while members of the first, second and third places crews will receive an additional $1,500, $1,000 and $500 each.

Greg Cowan, a 20-year-old engineering student from Chatham, Ont., said it was satisfying to know "you're one of the 100 who crossed Canada."

Cowan added that "in 30 some days of paddling, I've had 30 some pills—that's hospitality to me."

Our Glorification of Youth Leads to Contempt for Old

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The talk at the dinner table turned to the state of old people in our society — the pitiful provisions that are made for those who are not financially independent in their declining years, the lack of adequate homes for the aged, and the generally neglected condition in which elderly people find themselves.

Theodore Haecker, the German philosopher, warned of this trend in the Western world, when he wrote, some years ago: "The glorification of physical health and strength leads, first of all, inevitably to contempt of old age, and then to contempt of wisdom."

It is scarcely strange that American society, which has made worshippers the first article in its creed, should show the most contempt, both for age and for wisdom.

All our popular symbols concentrate on health and strength. Our ideal is the radiant young couple seated in the super-powered convertible, or bursting with vitamins, clear of eye, strong of arm, and dedicated to the fatuous proposition that retaining one's youth is the most important task in the world.

After movies, television, our popular songs, our advertisements, even our comic strips — they all proclaim: puttyy young love, young married life, or young children. Past 40, everybody is fat and foolish; a stock character on the sidelines in this palpitating drama of youth.

We are impatient with ill health. We apply cosmetics and inspect more vitamins, pretending that if we look fit, and fall ourselves we are fit, then the signs of decay will disappear, and death will be barred at the door by a large sign reading: "No Vacancy — Premises Occupied by Young People Only."

It is good to want to feel young. But it is vain to deny reality, to pretend that 50 is as vigorous as 20, or to make animal vitality the standard of our social order.

When we try to do this, then the old, the ill, and the inconscious become embarrassing drags, and we can only look them in the closet and hope they die without a fuss.

Behind the desperate efforts to maintain the illusion of youth as long as possible lies the equally desperate fear of being rejected by a society which has provided no dignified or decent place for its old people. And behind the frantic scramble for money lies not so much greed or rapacity as the sad knowledge that if age does not bring honor, it can win a grudging recognition only by its power the purse-strings.

Astrological Forecasts

Rockwell Unburied as U.S. Army Bars Swastika From Cemetery

CULPEPER, Va. (AP)—It was just the kind of near-frenzied George Lincoln Rockwell might have wanted.

His small, fanatic band of American Nazis gained centre stage in full glare of the world spotlight Tuesday—confronted by the U.S. Army, surrounded by television cameras.

Rockwell had cherished publicity—and did many things to get it.

As a corpse he attained his ultimate publicity.

But at the end of a day at times so weird it was like a bad movie, the body of the slain "Fuehrer" remained unburied and the Nazis refused to reveal where his body was or what they planned to do with it.

Rockwell's followers refused to don their Nazi insignia and leave their swastika flag behind to defile the peaceful little Culpeper National Cemetery and bury their assassinated chief.

But those were the ground rules laid down by the army. And when it came time for the government gravediggers to go home the army rescinded its permission for Rockwell, former commander in the U.S. Navy, to be interred in Culpeper—or any other U.S. military cemetery.

Maj-Gen. Carl C. Turner, provost marshal, announced the army's decision after the hearse bearing Rockwell spent five hours at the gate of the shaded, usually serene, burial ground.

A chorus of booing from the funeral party and "Heil Hitler!" greeted the announcement by Gen. Turner.

The hearse was surrounded by five uniformed Nazis and perhaps two dozen persons in civilian attire.

But the Nazis, returned to their headquarters in Arlington, Va., to ponder what to do with their leader, who was killed by a sniper outside a coin laundry last Friday.

There were many bizarre events during the day in the old town in Virginia's rolling countryside.

A uniformed "storm trooper" leaped to the roof of the hearse, much to the chagrin of its driver, Arlington undertaker Mac Morris. The Nazi shouted "forward or death," bounded across the hood on heavy boots and charged sledgehanded into a wailing cluster of MPs. The soldiers grabbed him and two other Nazis and said they would be charged loosely with disturbing the peace.

An army private first class, George Dewitt, was wearing a black arm band of mourning and had come to pay his respects "to my real commander-in-chief."

Soon the MPs arrested Dewitt for allegedly being AWOL from Fort Gordon, Ga.

A Nazi who kept shouting "but I'm a security guard" threatened an Associated Press reporter who was pushing in front of him to hear Gen. Turner address a Nazi leader.

"I break your back," the "guard" screamed many times.

Gen. Turner's quiet but firm words didn't work. But Koehl was just eight feet away anyway, and Gen. Turner told him in his unamplified voice that the Nazis had 12 minutes to bury Rockwell without bringing their Nazi paraphernalia into the cemetery.

Koehl refused "to allow the body to be buried against the express wishes of Commander Rockwell."

He said: "I will remain in charge of the body."

Gen. Turner replied, "That's your problem."

'Don't Try Socialism' Warning Given Ontario by Thatcher

TORONTO (CP)—Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher Tuesday warned Ontario voters not to try socialism in the upcoming provincial elections.

The former CCF supporter who turned Liberal said at a luncheon of directors of the Canadian National Exhibition:

"I wish that Canadians in Eastern Canada who think that socialism is the answer would come to Saskatchewan and study what happened in our province."

Twenty years of socialism had given Saskatchewan industrial stagnation, retarded development, oppressive taxation and major de-population, he said.

"Let me tell you, there is nothing wrong with socialism except it doesn't work."

Mr. Thatcher also attacked recommendations of the Carter royal commission on capital gains taxation and on removal of incentives to the oil and mining industry.

If Ottawa proceeded with the recommendations, "we shall see a good deal of capital now available for investment in Canada, diverted in more lucrative foreign fields."

Bootleg Dentures 'Just as Good' As Dentist's Work Is Claim

TORONTO (CP)—A dental technician says dentures made illegally without a prescription by a dentist are just as good but cost as little as one-quarter of the dentist's price.

The statement was made in a letter published in the current issue of the Journal of the Ontario Dental Association. The letter was signed R.D.T.

The bootleg dentures provincial law requires prescription by a registered dentist, "look good, fit well and don't include the dentist's mark-up of 200 to 300 per cent," the letter said.

Dr. K. F. Powrell, registrar of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons and secretary of the dental association, said in an interview Tuesday that a denture "must be the one ultimately responsible—we are not selling a product but a service."

He said the letter was not representative of all technicians.

Claims Against Czechs Must Be Made by Jan. 1

OTTAWA (CP)—The deadline for filing claims against Czechoslovakia for nationalization of Canadian property has been extended to next Jan. 1, External Affairs Minister Martin announced Tuesday in a statement. The deadline was originally Sept. 1.

Canada and Czechoslovakia agreed early this year to undertake negotiations for the settlement of Canadian claims arising out of property nationalized or otherwise taken by the Czech government.

Mr. Martin said the deadline was extended to give more time to Canadian citizens to prepare their claims with proper documents. The claims must be filed in accordance with instructions and questionnaires available from the external affairs department.

Savage Fighting Rages in Chinese Industrial City of Wuhan

HONG KONG (AP)—Savage fighting was reported today in Wuhan, central China's industrial centre, where the forces of party Chairman Mao Tse-tung recently claimed victory in the country's power struggle.

Other reports told of people fleeing cities of Szechwan province in western China to avoid battle between Mao's supporters and opponents. Travellers from Canton said a blood bath was expected in that southern metropolis.

It was impossible to evaluate all these reports, but they indicated that he struggle between Mao and supporters of his chief opponent, President Liu Shao-chi, may be rising in violence.

The report of renewed fighting in Wuhan, the Yangtze River complex of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang in Hupeh province, came from the Maoist controlled radio Peking.

While the broadcast gave no details of the fighting, it demanded that Maoist leaders take effective action to halt the struggle. Peking claimed Aug. 13 that leaders loyal to Mao had been put in power in Wuhan.

Chinese Nationalist intelligence sources in Formosa said land, river and air transportation in Szechwan province had been paralyzed by the fighting between Mao's backers and opponents.

The sources said increasing numbers of people were fleeing from Chungking, China's wartime capital, Chengtu, Szechwan provincial capital, and other cities to escape the fighting. Like citizens in Canton, they were reported returning to their villages in the countryside.

Report Urges Ontario Ease Property Taxes

TORONTO (CP)—Widespread tax changes aimed at easing the position of the property taxpayer were proposed today in the report of the Ontario committee on taxation.

At the same time, the five-man committee warned that Ontario has to get more elbow room from Ottawa to raise revenue, or people may be facing higher income and sales taxes.

Already needed is a much broader base for the province's share of the sales tax, the committee said. It proposed extending the tax to include many services now exempt.

The committee, under Toronto accountant Lancelot J. Smith, called for a complete reorganization of the province's present system of county and district governments.

They should be replaced by 29 regional governments to promote greater efficiency in handling revenues and providing services, it said.

It proposed changes in municipal property taxes that would, by its figuring, save the taxpayer an average of one-third of his bill, based on 1966 assessments.

To help recompense municipalities for this loss, the province should substantially increase its unconditional grants and at the same time open its properties to taxation by the municipalities.

Churches should pay one-half the normal property tax instead costs involved for municipalities.

The committee warned, however, that tax reforms under the province's "completely outdated and inequitable" assessments would mean little. A complete reassessment of property to reflect current values was a must.

Britain Makes Despairing Bid To Avoid Break with China

LONDON (AP)—Britain, hoping to keep its flickering post in Peking and its hold on Hong Kong, sought today to avoid a total break with China by offering to discuss normalization relations following violent incidents in Peking and London.

There was no detectable sign, however, that the British expected the Chinese to agree to a message suggesting talks.

The offer Wednesday, cabled by British Foreign Secretary George Brown to Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi, was seen primarily as an effort to prevent a further deterioration in relations if not, when British officials feel a change in China's leadership may be near and wait observers on the scene.

No one would say so officially, but British officials are known to feel that Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's campaign to purge his enemies is heading toward a climax in which his authority may diminish.

British officials declined to say whether Brown proposed a personal meeting with Chen or discussions through normal diplomatic channels.

The foreign office said Shen Ping, China's charge d'affaires in London, also was handed a copy of the message but refused to accept it.

The Peking-London feud has been over Hong Kong, the British colony of 4,000,000 on China's southern coast. Local Communists, with encouragement from Peking, have been trying to gain the upper hand there.

After Britain ignored China's ultimatum to free Communist newspaper men held on sedition charges, a mob burned out the British mission in Peking Aug. 22.

Egypt and Saudi Arabia Will Get Out of Yemen

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Egypt and Saudi Arabia agreed Wednesday night on a formula to get themselves out of Yemen's civil war amid the first talk at the Arab summit meeting of a "political solution" with Israel.

President Nasser of Egypt signed his both developing promising withdrawal of his forces in Yemen and taking what conference sources said was a less belligerent stand toward Israel in a speech at a closed session.

In return for the Egyptian troop withdrawal, Saudi military assistance is to be halted in the five-year-long Yemen civil war that has pitted Egypt, the backer of the republican government, against royalist rebels supported by Saudi King Feisal.

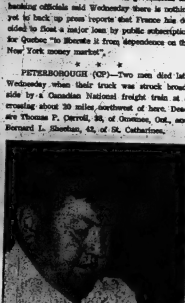
Nasser and Faisal approved a plan calling for the formation of a three-power committee to supervise the pleasing out of hostilities. Sudan, Iraq and Morocco were named to the committee and planned to begin work immediately after the wrapup of the summit meeting Friday.

No date was set for the beginning of the withdrawal of Egyptian troops, who numbered about 40,000 in Yemen until a large contingent was moved out following the Middle East war in June.

Premier Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub of the Sudan, who served as mediator, said the summit had been settled "in the interests of pushing the Arab atmosphere of political differences." Wednesday Nasser had turned his back on Faisal at the conference's opening session, but the two were smiling and shaking hands when their agreement was announced today.

A royalist spokesman at the United Nations in New York said the accord was acceptable to his side.

Sources at the summit conference said Nasser's speech to the nation called to unity policy to "eliminate Israeli aggression" was moderate in tone. He told the Arabs they could either surrender or go forward united to seek "military, economic and political solutions."



It was the first time Nasser was reported to have raised the possibility of a political solution.

Negroes Are at War Says Brown

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Militant Negro leader H. Rap Brown brought his black power philosophy to this industrial New Jersey city Wednesday night.

To the apparent glee of a cheering crowd of 1,000 to 2,000, Brown ordered Camden Convention Hall cleared of reporters and photographers, then said: "We built this country up and we'll burn it down."

At another point, the leader of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee said:

"We're at war, so accept the fact and fight the booby."

Booby is the term SNCC has coined for whites.

A reporter and a photographer who did not heed Brown's orders were chased from the hall. The reporter, who was seen taking notes, was hit in the back by a fist as he ran out.

Banks Stays in Jail Until Sept. 7 Hearing

NEW YORK (CP)—Hal C. Banks, bail-jumping former Canadian seamen's boss, will be held in custody until it is decided whether the province of Ontario can extradite him on charges of perjury.

Banks, 53, was arrested Tuesday and for a while Wednesday it appeared he would be freed on $25,000 bail pending extradition hearings scheduled to start Sept. 7.

U.S. Commissioner S. T. Abruzzo set the bail for the former head of the Canadian Seafarers International Union, then reversed himself in an extraordinary second hearing of Banks' arraignment in Brooklyn federal court.

Abruzzo made his reversal after a private session with lawyers for Banks and Ontario, a study of legal precedent and after hearing Banks' past record.

Banks is charged with perjuring himself in testimony before a 1963 royal commission into waterfront violence on the Great Lakes.

If Ontario is successful in extraditing him, he faces a maximum sentence of 14 years if found guilty at a trial in Ontario.

Banks already is under sentence of five years for conspiracy in the sewage beating of a rival union official in 1957. He has appealed his conviction in Montreal in 1966 but skipped to the U.S. before the appeal could be heard. His $25,000 bail was later seized.

This is because the Canada-U.S. extradition agreement allows for extradition for perjury but not for conspiracy. If Banks chooses to remain in Canada or return to Canada rather than having back to the U.S., he can be arrested again.

Five in Car Struck by CPR Work Train

TRENTON — A 15-year-old Trenton area girl was in critical condition in hospital this morning after her father's car was struck by a CPR work train in front of their home.

Rhonda James was one of five occupants in a car driven by her father, 37-year-old Everett James.

The James' home, about one mile west of Trenton, lies south of a CPR line running parallel to Highway 33.

The car was crossing the tracks toward the highway when struck by a five-car work train bound for Picton. The impact occurred around nine o'clock this morning.

Admitted to Trenton Memorial Hospital were Mrs. Della James, with lacerations and possible head injuries, 11-year-old Reggie James, with chest injuries, and a nephew, Paul Hare, 9, with a fractured pelvis.

Mr. James was given outpatient treatment for arm injuries and released from hospital.

"We were doing about 20 miles per hour at the time," said CPR engineer J. B. Gray of Belleville. "We were sounding the whistle just before the accident."

The engineer was critical of a hedge-row parallel to the tracks, which he said obstructed the view from the train of cars crossing the tracks from a number of private driveways.

Signs at the roadways warn motorists using this crossing do so at their own risk."

Three Brighton provincial police officers investigated the crash, and were joined by two CPR investigators at the scene.

Resurfacing of Bridge Delayed

Last night's rain and sudden downward change in temperature has delayed plans of the city public works department to resurface the Upper Bridge with new asphalt.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said preparations were all completed for closing of the bridge today to allow application of a tack coat and then laying of the asphalt.

But fine warm weather was needed to speed the work and the overnight rain put a stopper on resurfacing plans.

Now beginning of the bridge has been re-scheduled for September 13-15.

The reason for the delay is that sanitary sewer repairs are due to commence soon on Centre Road, south of College Street, and this will have to be completed to allow re-routing of traffic during the period when the Upper Bridge is closed.

The arched concrete Upper Bridge was built during the early 1930's. The original concrete deck had never been resurfaced and is now in need of repair.

The interment was made in Mount Nebo Cemetery, Springbrook.

Magistrate Refuses to Reduce Bail

PICTON (Staff) — A Toronto man, James Wesley Herbert, age 23, appeared in Magistrate's Court here yesterday charged with manslaughter. The case was remanded by Magistrate T. Y. Wills for one week to Mr. Herbert had not as yet obtained legal counsel.

Bail for Herbert was set at $5,000 personal or cash and on request by the accused for a lesser amount was refused by the magistrate.

Herbert was arrested in his Toronto home Saturday afternoon as a result of investigations by OPP into the death of his 40-year-old wife Gladys Herbert. Mrs. Herbert died as a result of a blow to the head. The incident occurred at a cottage on Green Point in Prince Edward County, and have six children the youngest of which was at the cottage when the incident occurred. The case is expected to go to a higher court.

Park Committee Discusses Plans

DESERONTO — The regular bi-weekly meeting of the Deseronto Centennial Park committee was held at the Town Hall Tuesday night. There was a good attendance and none had lost their original enthusiasm, even though the official park opening is now over a year in the past.

Although the Park is officially open now, there are still many things to be finished. The first job is to dig up the grave area near the Memorial Cairn where a spring has been keeping that area a little dampier than necessary. The spot will be tiled, filled and seeded with grass to start next week. Work is also not quite completed in the dressing rooms, washrooms and painting chores.

Some consideration is being given to refurnishing the flower gardens. They were set level with the grass and badly trampled at the opening, so it was felt that they should be raised to save any further destruction and afford guests a better view.

It is hoped to build a dock this fall but first approval must be given by the Department of Transport. More planning is needed on this since it is to be a permanent structure.

The committee learned, from letters sent and favorable comments passed on to their members, that the Opening Day was indeed a success from all aspects, a profit even being made with the sale of a special centennial newspaper and the proceeds from the refreshment booth.

The "Endees," who provided the music for dancing that evening, gave a donation of $25 to the Park. The women of the White elephant store reported a further $200 profit in addition to the original $100. They are still in need of used furniture at their store, which will be kept open again into the fall.

Varied Events Slated for Stirling Fair

A colorful Centennial parade with horses, floats and open convertibles carrying the Stirling Centennial Queen and her two princesses, will be the kick-off for the annual Stirling Fair on Saturday.

The big parade will move off from the fairgrounds at 2.30 and after a tour through the village will return to the exhibition park.

A western games program will feature the afternoon fair events. There will be the usual fine horse show and cattle exhibits, while the Stirling 4-H Calf Club and the Hastings 4-H Corn Club will stage achievement days.

Waiting for the Family

"Rin", owned by the Everett James family of RR 4, Trenton sits in the family car which was struck by a CPR train this morning. Mr. James, his wife, two children, and a nephew were taken to hospital following the crash. Brighton provincial police Sgt. J. C. McKendry was one of the investigating officers.

Construction of New Picton School Not Yet Completed

PICTON (Staff) — Construction work on the largest of the county's new public schools, the Hallowell Central school at Bloomfield is progressing rapidly but it was announced this week that at least a portion of the school will be delayed for a couple of weeks after the school opens. The new $900,000 school will however open on time and nearly five classrooms will not be in use. There will be accommodation for these pupils temporarily in the Warring's Corners school and possibly one other until the new rooms are ready.

At the same time the new addition to the Wellington Consolidated School is nearly completed and will be in use for the new school year. The Wellington school serves the Wellington - Hillier School area. The new wing will accommodate many more pupils as a result of the newly - enlarged school area. No official opening date has yet been set for the new Hallowell school.

DREDGING CONTRACT

Inland Waterways Dredging Ltd. of Orillia has been awarded a $24,850 contract for dredging at Port Rowan, Ont., the works department announced Wednesday. The job calls for removal of loose material at the entrance of the harbor on Lake Erie to maintain a minimum depth of five feet for commerical fishing and pleasure craft.

Two Injured, Car Hits Pole

PICTON — A one-car accident near two people to Prince Edward County hospital with injuries early this morning.

Driver of the car was Perry Reddick, 27, of R.R. 2, Picton. He was accompanied by his wife, Trudy, 27, who sustained shoulder and neck injuries when the car left the road and struck a hydro pole.

Damage to the 1961 Ford was estimated at $600.

Arena Manager Bid Farewell

TRENTON — Only a few of Ron Thornton's friends said goodbye to him last night. It wouldn't have been possible to seat them all at last night's informal gathering held in honor of the departing arena manager.

During his nine - year Trenton stay as Community Gardens manager, Mr. Thornton was in daily contact with literally thousands of area residents.

Civic officials and friends paid tribute to him at the Country Club last evening and Mr. Thornton's name was frequently linked with the success of the town arena as a centre of community activity.

The new arena was built a year before he took over the position of manager.

Acting Mayor Duncan McDonald (town council's recreation committee chairman), Community Gardens Board Chairman George Ellsworth, Chamber of Commerce manager Jack Wilson, and new arena manager Jack Bonn thanked the guest of honor on behalf of the people of Trenton for his community - minded efforts.

Mr. Thornton leaves Trenton this weekend for Oakville, where he is accepting another arena managerial position.

New Key-keeper

Leaving Trenton after nine years as manager of the Community Gardens, Ron Thornton passes his keys of office to his replacement, Jack Bonn.

Appliances Taken From Warehouse

Police investigations are continuing into the ransacking of the Canadian General Electric wholesale warehouse on Dundas street of appliances valued at $1,700.

Thieves made off with electric blankets, fry pans, clock, radios and knives after forcing a rear window on the premises Monday.

At first, it was believed about $2,000 in goods were missing but the estimate was revised downwards today.

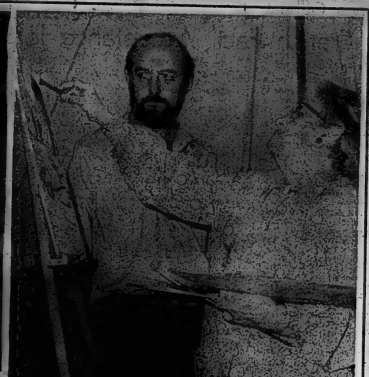
Belleville waterfront springs to life on canvas as an artist captures the inspiration. The harbor makes an ideal, varied location for all painters — yesterday's group came from around East-Central Ontario.

Quiet, Artist at Work

Belleville's waterfront received a first-class paint job yesterday — an artist's canvas, that is.



The harbor area, in all its honest shabbiness, always has been a rendezvous of inspiration for aspiring artists.

Yesterday, it was a meeting place for nearly a dozen, when the class of Cobourg artist Peter Kollenyk descended on the spot.

Mr. Kollenyk has students from around East-Central Ontario, including Peterborough, Bellevile, Campbellford and Trenton.

One day per week, he explains, the group chooses a different outdoors location in the region for subjects.

Yesterday, it was Belleville's turn with its harbor providing a multitude of subjects, from sailing ships to ancient buildings.

The Master's Eye!

Cobourg artist, Peter Kollenyk, carefully gives an expert eye to painting of student Mrs. Nina Read, of Wooler, as the group visited Belleville harbor yesterday.

Wilson Changes Economic Policy

LONDON (CP)—Two days after Prime Minister Wilson took personal command of the economy, the British government Wednesday lashed out a modest helping of economic sugar plums to the electorate.

It took the form of passing restraints on time-payment terms on a variety of articles and was calculated to add to the consumer's happiness as well as giving a gentle boost to some industries whose sales lines have become clogged through the credit restrictions.

The government hoped, too, that it might have some effect on helping stave off an alarming spectre of winter unemployment. Recent figures have been pointing to a post-war high of 1,000,000 unemployed this winter unless something is done to halt the trend.

As a political byproduct, the announcement from the government's board of trade afforded the British voter a spectacle of a dynamic Harold Wilson getting things on the upbeat personally, a couple of days after bouncing trade chief Douglas Jay out of the cabinet.

In fact, the series of interlocked measures had been drafted under Jay's tenure but were ready for announcing before Wilson staged a major shuffle of his cabinet Monday night.

But the fact that they came out of a new desk should delude Wilson no harm at September and October meetings of the powerful Trade Union Congress and the Labor party, both chafing at curbs on what the earner may do with his pay packet.

The new measures will make it moderately easier for the British to use the traditional "never-never" payment system for such articles as automobiles, radio and TV sets, washing machines, refrigerator and furniture.

The board of trade did not predict any major economic effects from the measures. It looked for a "modest increase in demand."

It also would, the announcement said, "help to relieve unemployment in industries and areas which have been disproportionately affected by the restraints which the government found it necessary to apply last year to improve the balance of payments."

Police Recover Paintings

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said Wednesday they have recovered 2,000 of 1,200 paintings thought to have been bought fraudulently in Europe.

Earlier this month, detectives of the city fraud squad said they believed they had broken an international ring of art swindlers. A series of police raids resulted in 448 paintings being seized.

Two men were reported held for questioning at that time. But police said Wednesday the two had been released, after admitting dealings in Italy, Holland and Germany, because police were faced with a lack of legal complaints.

The paintings, of mediocre quality, are being held not because they are forgeries but because they were bought in Europe for $30,000 in worthless cheques and were to have been sold across Canada for 19 times their original value.

Meanwhile the paintings are being held in a downtown police cell.

Intelligencer to Sponsor Toronto Symphony Orchestra

The Quinte district culminates its calendar of Centennial Year artistic events just a month from now.

Highlight of the season will be the arrival Oct. 3 of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under the baton of its internationally celebrated conductor Seiji Ozawa.

The presentation, at the big No. 2 Hangar Drive recreation hall, Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, is being sponsored by The Intelligencer.

For its program, the orchestra will present a wide-range of classical music.

To be heard are the William Tell overture, by Rossini; Beethoven's Symphony No. 4; two sketches for strings on French Canadian airs by MacMillan; Saint-Saens Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso in A minor; and Rimsky-Korsakov's Capriccio Espagnol.

SEIJI OZAWA

One of the pioneers of public music presentations in Canada, the TSO is now on the threshold of entering its 60th anniversary.

Initiated in 1906 when a few musicians from the Toronto Conservatory Orchestra banded together, the organization today is one of the significant of the continent.

It was reorganized in the early 1920s and its ranks joined by many Ontario musicians.

With the decline of live-sound theatre music caused by talking movies, many musicians were released on the Toronto scene.

Added to their availability of professional players was the fact the orchestra came under the direction of one of Canada's most renowned musicians — Ernest MacMillan, later knighted for his services to Canadian music.

From that time on, the TSO blossomed as an important contributor to the cultural scene.

Under Seiji Ozawa the orchestra has expanded into wider spheres of recognition.

Born in 1935 and a graduate of Tokyo's Toho School of Music, his first international recognition came in 1959 when he won a competition for young orchestra conductors in France.

Since then his conducting has met mounting acclaim across the western world.

His appearance with the TSO in Trenton will mark his third season with the orchestra.

Mail order bookings for the Trenton concert open Sept. 11 at Box 303 Belleville while the box office opens at Thomas Cigar Store, Front Street, Sept. 20.

Cardboard Boxes Used

New Kind of Prayer Tried by Sister

NEW YORK (AP)—Cardboard boxes piled high. Hundreds of them, row on row, painted and plastered with poems and nonsense. Is it a warehouse? A trap?

No, it's a kind of "house of prayer," says the nun in charge, Sister Lenore Navarro. It's also a mess, a web of clutter, blanketed with the sights, memories and hopes of the times.

The strange meditation room was set up here at an international congress on religion, architecture and the visual arts, giving a hint of the changing attitudes on what makes an appropriate devotional atmosphere today—a "new" church.

"Come alive," are words splashed in red letters across a barricade of boxes.

"In so far as the pictures and words are about our world, it's an environment for prayer and reflection," said Sister Lenore, of the Roman Catholic Immaculate Heart College, Los Angeles.

"It's a good place for worship to take place."

The cardboard chapel, arranged in two suites of the New York Hilton Hotel, was fashioned by Sister Mary Corita Kent, professor of art at Immaculate Heart College, with the help of her students.

A total of 1,500 boxes, stacked into curving walls, passages, blockades, sharp corners, isolated heaps and turns, make up the mess-like layout.

Their surfaces flare with montages of Mc—of war, poverty, injustice, and of struggle, joy and mobility. Often, the words, headlines and pictures are sliced, upsidedown, broken or jumbled.

Diplomatic Incident

The clash between members of the Chinese diplomatic mission and police in London may well have further repercussions in Hong Kong where communist agitators have been harassing authorities in the British crown colony.

The Chinese in London have been under virtual house arrest in retaliation for the sacking of the British mission in Peking, and Tuesday's eruption probably resulted as much from a sense of frustration as from any political motivation linked with events in either Hong Kong or Peking.

The trouble started when a young man called at the Chinese mission in London's aristocratic Portland Place, seeking a copy of the celebrated Thoughts of Mao Tse-tung. As he left, through a crowd of several hundred Britons apparently upset by the burning of their mission building in Peking, a man knocked the book from his hand.

There followed an extraordinary sequence of events probably unprecedented in the routine conduct of diplomacy, but in the light of what has been happening in China of late may not be all that surprising. A group of Chinese — police said between 19 and 25 of them — rushed out of the side entrance of the office and fought with police and bystanders. The Chinese wielded iron bars, axes, one carried a pistol and still others brandished baseball bats (an imperialist weapon which chairman Mao might not countenance).

These are members of Communist China's so-called diplomatic set — but they seem no different from the wild young men who make up the Red Guard movement in Communist-land. In normal circumstances Britain would likely send them home, but since the families of members of the British mission in Peking have not yet received permission to leave China the Chinese in London are being held as security for their safety.

Meanwhile, three pro-communist newspaper executives in Hong Kong have been given three-year prison terms for sedition. What effect this has on the Peking regime will have a strong bearing on future relations between China and Britain.

Hong Kong is the catalyst that could spark even more serious trouble. The colony is important to both countries, providing the only real link between China and the outside world. China conducts much of its trade with the west here, so it is as important to the communists as it is to the Western world.

At the same time events in China currently are so unstable, and the government there so unpredictable that the slightest incident may provoke Peking into a course of action that could gravely impair Hong Kong's position.

If China wants to keep its trade ties with the west, as well as its listening post to the outside world, it would do well to call off its campaign of intimidation and violence in Hong Kong. If it does not we can look forward to more trouble in that part of the world.

Beatles' Manager

The death at the age of 32 of Beatles' manager Brian Epstein brings to a close one of the most remarkable showbusiness careers of modern times.

The cause of Epstein's death has not been stated as yet, but it is believed he had not been well of late. Certainly he had no money worries, having amassed a huge fortune through his discovery of the Beatles and his managership of a number of other successful young pop groups.

But the facts of his career had been achieved. The Beatles had come and gone, and so had the others. Possibly there were no more fields to conquer. From this there emerges a picture of a lonely young man.

The Beatles for Epstein's part seem to be evolving from a cheerful, happy-go-lucky group of young musicians, and moving into the heady spheres of the occult. They have been on LSD but say they are through with that. At the time of Epstein's death they were in Wales, studying the art of meditation under a Himalayan mystic called Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

I Said Beatle Paul McCartney: "We don't need it (LSD) any more. We think we're finding other ways of getting there . . . to complete spiritual fulfillment."

Mysticism at least is a more intelligent form of spiritual advancement than is to be found through narcotics. And the Beatles, while their heyday is past, seem able to find new spheres of interest and activity.

Evolution is a constant process of renewal. When one door closes men must find other realms if they are to find spiritual fulfillment. The Beatles seem to be succeeding in this undertaking where others have failed.

'French Fact' Acceptance Is Key to Quebec Tory Win

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — What leverage are Quebec delegates going to have next week in the choice of the Conservative leader?

More, far more, obviously, than ever before.

Quebec has some 480 votes, just about one-fifth of the roughly 2,300 total.

Competition for them is keen — sometimes just a bit hidden cross — among five of the nine candidates.

These are the five: former Diefenbaker Cabinet Ministers George Hees, Davie Fulton and Donald Fleming, and the two provincial premiers, Manitoba's Duff Roblin and Nova Scotia's Robert Stanfield, who invoke strong empathy with Quebec, have been stumping in Radio Free-ese in French of varying fluency.

Their linguistic skills range from the still not-quite - easy conversational French of Roblin to Stanfield's labored reading of speech texts on French.

The trick each has been striving to pull off — and it is not easy — is to convince Quebec of his acceptance of the "French Fact," with degrees of qualification, without antagonizing the West.

All appear to have given up on the Orange Lodge, possibly in the belief or hope that Prime Minister Pearson's acts of Quebec packs more Conservative contention clout than King Billy in certain sections of Ontario.

For the Conservatives this is quite a switch. Never have they taken Quebec so seriously as have the Liberals.

In most of their policies, the Liberals in many have been acutely conscious of Quebec, quite openly counting on it to hold power.

The Conservatives instead have usually tended to be far less concerned about the province and seemed to calculate gaining power by "getting by" rather than winning in Quebec.

Election results have told the story with monotonous repetition.

Conservative leaders have never done well in Quebec.

Richard Bennett back in 1935 won only five Quebec seats.

Robert Manion got not a single one in '40.

John Bracken, in '45, took one. George Drew, in '49, got two and in '53, none.

In '57, with old Tory warhorse Gordon Churchill planning campaign strategy on the basis that they could win power without Quebec — it is still mathematically possible but politically improbable — John Diefenbaker got eight Quebec seats.

The win-without-Quebec gamble paid, and the Conservatives won minority power.

Then in '58, in that astounding 208-seat national landslide, Quebec, with an instinct for the bandwagon, gave the Conservatives an astonishing 50 seats.

But even so, Quebec exerted little influence in the Conservative Cabinet, just possibly because two years earlier, at the 1956 leadership convention, French Canada's delegates, with unconcealed hostility, had rejected John Diefenbaker, voting overwhelmingly for Donald Fleming.

A key Quebec Conservative, Leon Balcer — who later was to become a Diefenbaker Cabinet Minister, and a "rebel" with powers of persuasion only slightly less damaging than a Dalton Camp's — led a large section of French - Canadian delegates from the floor at that convention when the leader-to-be rose to speak.

Never very cozy, relations between the Federal Conservatives and Quebec became even more uncomfortable, and the Tories have been cut to a bottom of the barrel eight French-Canadian MPs by the victorious Liberals in the last two elections.

This time, while not the leader in name if in actual operational fact, an intelligent and articulate, fluently bilingual Quebec MP, Rober Regimbal, perhaps will have more influence than almost anyone else — save for one — in the disposition of Quebec's 480-odd convention votes.

Covering all bets, the word is that he will be trying to spread those votes around, giving all concerned a Fulton, Balcer, Hees, Stanfield and Roblin — a piece of the Quebec action.

That way, the French-Canadian delegates will have some money down on every one of the five candidates who, in the event of paying the province some linguistic pro-convention attention. One of the Five is also certain to emerge the winner, obligated to redeem his "French Fact" pledges to Quebec, flying the province the most influential votes it ever has had in Conservative councils.

Only one man could spoil the play — Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson whose National Union Party claims to be French Canada's champion of separatism. Johnson can say nothing publicly — it conceivably could break up the Union Nationale of his choice — but the talk is that Premier Robbie is his man.

In Rural Wales

Postal-passenger Service

BBC London Letter

For the first time the post office in Britain is not going to collect and deliver mail, but do the same for people. In the BBC World Service Program,"Wales Today", Fred Hall reports on a new post office mini-bus service in mid-Wales.

"This mail bus is going to operate for a trial period in a county with the sombre history of public transport — Montgomeryshire," he said. "Montgomeryshire has already become the graveyard for two railway branch services, and the problem is still far from being solved. And so to the van which travels along the country roads every day.

The Ministry of Transport and the post office got together and produced a bright red minibus with seats for six passengers and a separate compartment for mail. It will operate between the market town of Llandiloes and the village of Llangurig five miles to the west. It will deliver and collect letters and offer a passenger service along a road which has never had a bus each week. Yet ironically some of the heaviest holiday traffic in Wales moves along this route in the summer.

The passengers are likely to be a mixture of men in the engineering works and the leather mills and the country housewives, who enjoy shopping in the market town after bringing in big baskets full of eggs and butter and very often live chickens and ducks for sale in the market. Professional agriculture rubs shoulders with modern sea-glancing works in this old Welsh countryside.

Britain's Minister of Transport, Mrs. Barbara Castle, has seen that there must be more flexible thinking in relation to public transport problems, and the mail bus experiment would seem to have the economic flexibility lacking in conventional country buses, subsidized or not. So the success or failure of this experiment is likely to influence future public transport policy in the rural areas of Britain."

Scots School For Retarded

BBC London Letter

The Hazzel village, described by one newspaper as the most interesting experiment in social welfare in Scotland in recent years, was set up at Symington, in Ayrshire, five years ago to look after mentally handicapped children; 76 of them are living there at present.

The village was a gift from Mrs. Isabel Murdoch (Hazzel is the old Scots word for gift) who recently became the "Scotswoman of the Year". Chairman of the Hot Barclay spoke to her in the BBC World Service program, "Scotland Today" about the village.

Mrs. Murdoch said: "I have a child of my own, and I felt that these children could be trained. They've actually excelled themselves in my eyes. They make knitwear, wrought iron, flint rubber mats and stools and all sorts of craftwork. Then we have contracts in the knitwear line; also we have a contract from ICI winding detonator cables". The trainees, she said, are from 18 to 62.

The Japanese fleet bombarded Port Arthur, China's largest naval base, 73 years to today — in 1894 — and captured it a few months later, after the conquest of Korea. When peace was made the following year, Europeans insisted the port be returned to China, but Russia quickly obtained it as use as the only ice-free base for her Pacific fleet. Meanwhile, Japan began to menace Korea, which, being nominally neutral, asked for Russian protection setting the stage for the Russo-Japanese War of 1904.

Cape Breton Seeks Rebels

Cape Breton Post

At eighteen we will never never be "fat and forty." We stride through the world defiantly symbolizing our rejection of all that is gross. Every generation has its symbols, however. Call them what you will: Jeunesse d'ore, beatniks, twenty-boppers, hippies or hippets. Whether they danced the Charleston on the top of a taxi or the Mashed Potato it is a telephone booth that's matter. They rebelled.

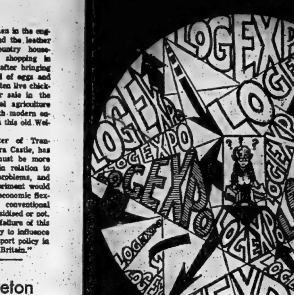
Good for them. Their hairstyles may be shaggy, their fringe groups idiotic, their conversation inane. But they seek something better.

Where are they in Cape Breton? A few wear their hair long in gawkish imitation but where are the angry young men and women of yesterday? Where are the ivy, morality and the future over endless cups of coffee? Do we have them? We need them. Not because of the ideas they produce but for the seed of anger that festers within ourselves. We will remain with them after they, yea even they, reach thirty.

Cape Breton has problems. We have a few men and women facing them, a few old women who were probably rebels in their own time. All our problems are surmountable if we fight for success ourselves. If we are mothers and fathers of the future? If eighteen is complacent heaven help us when eighteen reaches thirty or forty.

Marital Problems In Russia

Owen Sound Sun-Times



Russia has divorce problems. There was a time in the revolutionary history of that country when marriage meant so little that divorce was not a problem. It was termed marriages was merely a casual arrangement. Now Moscow officials are quite frankly worried about the lack of stability in many of the country's marital contracts. The Russians are not thought of as romantic people. Russian girls are inclined to be quite critical of the lack of such a quality in their menfolk. But it appears there is a great deal of impetuousness in Russian youth. And that fact is revealed in that a great many of their young people marry within six months of their meeting . . . and a large percentage end up in the divorce courts.

The only ring a modern young Russian buys his bride-to-be is the one he gives her at their wedding. A Russian couple now have a two-week wait from the time they visit the registry office to report their intention to wed until the final official registration of their marriage.

Tobacco—Is That All?

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 31, 1947

More than 7,000 people bereft out to hear the Belleville Municipal Band at Macdonald Park at Kingston, on Sunday night. Every member of the audience remained until the last bar of the national anthem and then stayed longer to applaud the musicians and their director, L. F. Addison.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Dandeno returned home recently from visiting Dr. and Mrs. Don. B. Messenger at their summer home in Algonquin Park.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Leavens of Cleveland, have been spending a few days with Rev. and Mrs. E. Farnsworth, Bleecker Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Deline and Glenn, Victoria Ave. have arrived home after a motor trip to Los Angeles.

30 YEARS AGO

August 31, 1937

Miss Gwenda Bagnat of this city is spending her vacation in Campbellford with her aunt, Miss Ina Stewart, and her uncle Thomas Stewart.

Kelly McVeigh has returned to his home in Renfrew, after spending his vacation here with his brother, Jack McVeigh and Mrs. McVeigh.

Adelaide and Helen Graham of Buffalo, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bottum, John St.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson and children of Rochester, are visiting his parents at their home on Queen St.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Anderson of Brantford, formerly of this city, are visiting relatives here.

40 YEARS AGO

August 31, 1927

The members of the Grills family held their annual reunion at Oak Lake on August 18. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William of Cornwall, Mrs. Garnet Grills of Hamilton, Bernards, and many others from Belleville, Trenton and Tweed.

Walter Patterson of this city has been awarded the contract to construct the new gas holder at the gas plant and will commence the job at once.

Mrs. A. E. Connor of Madoc is a visitor in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCourt have left for their home in Chicago after visiting relatives here.

The Belleville Fair is now in full swing; it is a good fair and the attendance is large.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry White of New York City are visiting friends here. Mr. White is connected with the New York Sun.

Miss Ellen Price of Chesterville, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Price in this city.

Fred Davey Diamond will leave this week for Winnipeg, where he will attend the annual meeting of the Masonic Sovereign Grand Priory of Canada.

Parole System

Windsor Star

According to the National Parole Board, it costs about $22,000 a cell to build a modern, medium security prison. And this is just the original outlay: to keep a prisoner in that cell, thirty years from now, will cost a year. The parole board has been a good economic argument for expansion of the parole system.

CBC Spent $2 Million On Games

Edmonton Journal

Because the CBC management is opposed to telling the taxpayers exactly how it spends their money — $184,000,000 of it in the current fiscal year — we have to be sure that many cases of wild extravagance never come to light.

But some do, and one of the widest on record is the story of how the CBC covered the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg.

The CBC's budget for covering the games originally was set at the shockingly high figure of $1,100,000. But, almost incredibly, it climbed to around $2,000,000.

Some other grisly details: The CBC assembled a staff of 450 persons — that's right, 450 — to do the job. The rival network, the CTV, managed with seven. The CBC rented an entire hotel to accommodate extra employees. It made conditions more pleasant for its staff. It spent $30,000 to air-condition an acreage of the Winter Club it was using it — the Games, after all, lasted a mere two weeks. Winnipeg is a prairie railroad headquarters for the CBC. It has a large and well-paid staff. If the staff is worth what it is being paid, why could it not have covered the Pan-Am games at comparatively little expense additional to what it actually cost?

Automated Banking

Globe and Mail

Competition between banks these days has been growing well narrowed down to the matter of eye appeal. Hence the proliferation of banks for patrons of awesome size and splendor, with lofty vaulted ceilings elegant marble columns, and elegant-diarble tellers. Who could resist giving his money such a good home?

But has all this customer-wooing gone far enough? Robert E. Wilmouth, senior vice-president of the First National Bank, suggests that remote control banking by telephone or television may lie in the future, thereby reducing or even eliminating the need for personal attendance by the customer.

If our teller of the future is to consist of a battery of multi-colored wires and chattering relays all housed in a steel case, what obviously little is to be gained by paying her (or it) a visit. How then are the banks to compete?

Simple. They can keep all their automated systems plugged in after 3 p.m. ...

Middle Class Tax Burden

Toronto Telegram

By the late 1960s, most of the population of this country has become middle class and their incomes are the major source of revenue for all governments; federal, provincial and municipal. How much more of the burden it can take should be of vital concern right now, and how to translate once rash political promises into even large government expenditures.

Index Up 1.5 Points

Industrial Production Higher--No Economic Upturn Expected

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's index of industrial production moved higher in June, but not enough to signal an upturn in general economic activity.

The index, which covers the bell-wether industrial sectors of mining, manufacturing and utilities, advanced 1.5 points during the month to 201.1, after adjustment to eliminate seasonal influences.

Expressed in percentage terms, the gain was just three-tenths of one per cent higher over May. For the second quarter—the months of April, May and June—the index was only one per cent higher than the first quarter.

The department's economist said the performance of these key industries may well indicate little change between quarters in the gross national product, the value of all goods and services in the economy.

Labor income in May, reported last week at $2,535,000,000, was almost unchanged from April, another important indication of a steady economy.

The first-quarter GNP was running at an annual rate of $90,125,000,000. The economist said the second quarter may show a slight increase in real terms, followed by an over-all steady improvement in the third quarter.

The index of industrial production, based on the 1961 level equalling 100, is prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. A DBS analysis Wednesday showed mining production up 1.8 per cent from May, manufacturing up three-tenths of one per cent, and electric power and gas utilities down 1.5 per cent.

Production of non-durable goods within the manufacturing sector was about nine-tenths of one per cent, production of durables down four-tenths of one per cent.

In the former category, rubber producers reported a nine-per-cent gain over May, and fibres were other gains of five per cent for printing, publishing and allied industries; nine per cent for rubber products; four per cent for petroleum and coal products and one per cent for foods and beverages.

Sharing minor drops in durables production were non-metallic products and electrical apparatus and supplies.

Strikes at Mannesmann Tube Co. Ltd.; Westinghouse and Northern Electric Co. Ltd. were major influences preventing a bigger gain for manufacturing.

A six-per-cent improvement in petroleum production sparked the mining increase, but declines in lead, iron ore and zinc took metal production down.

Although utilities slipped slightly in June, their performance was the first eight months of 1967 was a strong 10.8 per cent ahead of the same period of 1966.

Frost Displays Political Talent All Over Again

By HARRY MULHALL

Leslie Frost, by his own admission, is out of politics.

However, as a political booster, they still seek admission to his appearances.

He can't even be refused out — as yesterday's gloomy weather proved when the former premier of Ontario packed them in at the home of Dr. Richard Potter, Conservative candidate in Quinte riding.

Foul weather foiled the ambitions of Dr. Potter's organization to hold a garden tea party at which Mr. Frost was to be the personal centrepiece.

Rain drizzled across the spacious lawns of the candidate's Massassaga home less than an hour before the event was slated to begin.

Nonetheless, the tea went as scheduled with the attendants starting lawn chairs, tables and sun umbrellas soaking outside to throng indoors. There, they ventilated the candidate's home to glimpse or chat with the man who became a legend of political indestructibility even before his defeat in 1961.

And chat with them Leslie Frost did, moving among the gathering with his wife, once again demonstrating the easy, folksy charm that is a keynote Conservative currency from many an election success.

He refused to break the charm by dipping into more serious political conversation.

"My dear boy, I no longer sit in the seats of the mighty," he told one reporter, brushing away queried predictions about the next provincial election date. That date has been fixed by the premier of Ontario . . . that's a matter which is beyond my ken."

The closest he arrived at betraying feelings in the political arena were he reigned supreme as Ontario premier for 12 years, came when he touched on the upcoming national leadership of the Conservative party.

Recalling his campaign days, the former premier stressed that people were what mattered.

"After all, I was only the instrument of the progress of this province," he said.

Then he added: "I hope that the Conservative party will stress that sort of thing, particularly in the light of things that are coming up . . . I hope they will look to people. I think that this is undeniably the strength of any political party — and, of course, it's undeniably the strength of our country and our province."

However, he refused to be drawn any further.

Asked if he had any preferences on a national leadership candidate, Mr. Frost retorted: "No, no. Not at all. I'm not on anyone's bandwagon."

Then, he told the reporter, with a grin: "But it was a nice try."

'Heavy Rain--But No Washout!

Quinte riding PC candidate Dr. Richard Potter leads Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Frost to his front door through deserted lawns that should have been crowded for garden party. Rain fell and the party thronged indoors to meet former Ontario premier.

Redistribution Will Make Little Difference Says Former Chief

By HARRY MULHALL

Redistribution will make little difference to Conservative government representation in Ontario, the dean of provincial politicians believes.

Former Ontario premier, Leslie Frost, says that as his considered opinion as he put in a public appearance in the provincial Conservative stronghold of the Quinte district yesterday.

Mr. Frost was guest of honor at a tea party at the home of Dr. Richard Potter, Progressive-Conservative candidate in the new Quinte riding.

The constituency will partially replace the seat of Hastings West in the next provincial election. It substitutes what once was a mix urban-rural vote with a predominantly urban franchise.

"Redistribution," said the former premier, "had created more seats with industrial-area votes."

He identified Quinte riding as "largely now an industrial seat."

However, he was not worried about any affect on the Conservative vote, traditionally associated with a strong rural base.

"It doesn't necessarily mean a difference in party affiliation and support," he claimed.

"The Progressive - Conservatives always strongly represented urban and rural areas — so I don't think it will mean a great deal of difference."

Mr. Frost, who, among other community interests since his retirement as premier in 1961, is a director of University of Toronto and a governor of the Peterborough - Quinte region community college, also looked to greater provincial aid in education.

However, this would not come at the expense of local autonomy, he insisted.

Advances in education could be measured by budgets, he indicated.

"In my first budget (as provincial treasurer) in 1943 I had to find $13 million for education," he recalled. "Today that bill is in excess of $500 million."

As a community college governor like Frost has a hand in the affairs of the Quinte-area Loyalist Campus.

He believed such colleges will be "an enormous" asset to education, providing an alternative to students not desirous of a university education.

By the 1970s, he predicted, community college enrolments will overtake university registrations.

"This is an enormous field. Young people today are looking for a different type of education that's going to fit them for the 70's," said Mr. Frost.

Previous to the Potter garden party, Leslie M. and Mrs. Frost were entertained to luncheon at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Morton, Trent Road.

Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Myles Morton, Elmer Sandercock, MPP West Hastings, and Mrs. Sandercock, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. (Ted) Parker, of Trenton, were guests.

Part of Water Show Cancelled by Rain

Despite temperatures that hung in the low fifties, the kimono pool was the scene Wednesday night of the annual water show. The rain held off for a little over an hour and then poured down in sheets, officials to cancel the rest of the performance.

After brief speeches by Mayor Jack Ellis and officials from the Kiwanis Club of Belleville the actual swimming got underway.

Members of the Peterborough swimming team performed figures and dancing routines in the water.

Next came the local divers. It was then that the rain started to pour down. After a few dives everyone headed for the locker rooms for presentations to some of the swimmers.

One of the main awards was the management award to Mrs. Jack Ralph of Belleville for the most improved swimmer over the year. This award is presented annually to a deserving swimmer on a ballot basis from the pool staff.

A small trophy and a season's pass make up this award. The swimmer show climaxed the season for the pool and the awards, the achievements of the swimmers this year.

A total of 800 swimming awards were presented this year the entire summer add the pool traffic this summer was in excess of 20,000.

The pool will be the scene of life-saving examinations on Tuesday.

Faint Heart Ne'er Won Fair Lady

Dear Doris: In your reply to "What's Your Opinion?" you advise her not to pretend to feel any more strongly than she actually does. It seems to me that my date is just the opposite, pretending to feel much less strongly than she does.

Her letters, on the other hand, indicate a more normal temperament and therefore I suspect she may be suppressing her real affection. We have gone out for some six months; she is friendly and pleasant to spend a sociable evening with, but she is inaccessible. She seemed somewhat embarrassed to get a kiss on her cheek, and lately when being asked to come and sit close together she refused, thinking that it was too intimate and premature unless we were in love.

Wouldn't the distance prevent us falling in love? We are both past 40 and married before, but are again free to marry. — Fair and Chilly.

Dear Chilly: "Faint heart ne'er etc." If you want the lady, bide your time.

She may be naturally undemonstrative. She may be getting over an unhappy marriage and hesitant to trust a man again. Or she may still be grieving over a lost, loving husband.

Some folk write more comfortably than they talk. Try striking up a correspondence with her, between dates. This could be fun.

(No—the distance from one chair to another won't prevent a spark of love from jumping across.)

Dear Doris: Re skunk trouble, there is a much better way than sloshing plenty of tomato juice over a dog, and have it shake itself, spraying tomato far and wide.

Just use vinegar. No mess, no odor (or as little as the other). And easier to keep a gallon on hand. I have used it many times, and am horrified at the tomato treatment. — Just a Hint.

P.S. I hope you can print this, with the skunk season nearing.

Dear Just a: Sounds much better, as long as it does the trick. Thank you.

Confidential to Who Is Right?: If the cap fits, wear it. The actual letter was written by a neighbor to someone in another province.

There are times when we can be helped to see ourselves more clearly — unless we put too high a fence up. Could it be that your children, too, need more love and encouragement?

Confidential to Why Not Ready: Take off those rosy glasses and read what is staring you in the face: He is not ready to go steady. Didn't he go with you on the 31st when he was supposedly another girl's steady? You need other dates, too, or you'll never recognize your Big Moment when he does come along.

Longer, fuller replies sent privately to these correspondents who enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Points for Parents

By MARY ARYSON

Mother: "If you come late for dinner once more, you'll lose your allowance for the week. You must learn to be on time."

Son: "Jim's mother forgot to remind her about the time."

Make the penalty fit the fault. The allowance has nothing to do with Tommy's tardiness, but his visits to a friend's house do.

Mother: "Tommy, check your watch and start home at 5:30. If you're late for dinner again, you cannot go to Jimmy's house the next afternoon."

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Pork Chops for Labor Day

By MARY MOORE

At a backyard barbecue supper for seven my barbecued pork chops scored such success that three guests asked for the recipe.

These are ideal for a Labor Day cook-out. Or if you decide to eat at the dining room table they may be baked in your oven or under your broiler.

BARBECUED PORK CHOPS
(Serves 6 or 7)

3 lbs. ¾" thick pork chops about 12
¼ cup water
¼ cup spirit (or cider) vinegar
½ teaspoon garlic salt
1½ tablespoon light brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
To make the Barbecue-Marinade Sauce, in a small bowl, mix together the water, vinegar, garlic salt, brown sugar, Worcestershire sauce, mustard and salt.

Spread the chops, overlapping in a large shallow dish or deep platter and pour barbecue sauce over evenly. Let stand at room temperature about 4 hours, turning the chops over 3 or 4 times during this period.

When supper-time arrives, drain chops, discard sauce, and place chops on barbecue grill and cook over glowing (not flaming) coals. Broil underside is rich gold. Turn over and brown other side. When your chops were well done, we served them with new cabbage salad, sliced tomatoes and cucumbers and hot refrigerator rolls. (See Tuesday) direct from the oven. Dessert was Hungarian Apple Pudding with spiced Hard Sauce (see Monday).

Ann Landers

Worker in Collection Office Learns Plenty

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the woman who was mad at the jewelry store because of the letter they wrote reminding her that they had "carried her longer than her mother" prompts me to write my first letter to a newspaper.

I work in a collection office and am one of those "terrible" people who writes those "ugly" letters and make those "insulting" phone calls. We are willing to make allowances for illness and accidents and unexpected trips out of the city. We even expect people to have a lapse of memory occasionally. We operate on the theory that most people are honest and decent.

Since I have been in this line of work, however, I have learned plenty. I have had people swear at me over the phone, tell me unprintable names and hang up on me because I called to remind them that they haven't paid a bill.

When we send people out to the house they sometimes hide and refuse to come to the door. They act as if we are trying to persecute them or take something away from them.

Please, Ann Landers, print my letter and let some of America's deadbeat see how they look in the eyes of others. — DISGUSTED.

* * *

DEAR GUS: I second the motion. And now may I add a comment? Life would be a lot less complicated if people would stop buying things they don't need at prices they can't afford to impress people who don't give a darn.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your column has hit me between the eyes on more than one occasion, but never quite so hard as last week. You told the wife who complained because her husband was a TV sports Nut that everybody is nutty in one way or another. You even said your own husband was a "work nut". Then you counseled the woman to consider herself lucky she wasn't married to a "girlie nut".

Well, Ann, I have news for you, my husband is not a "girlie nut," but I wish he were. I could fight that. He's a "buddy nut." How does a wife deal with a man who loves to be with the boys? He can be a card game, pool, bowling, fishing, hunting, soccer, handball — anything where men get together. If there's no buddy activity he can go to, he'll just sit in a bar and talk to the bartender. If you can come up with a solution to this you are a genius. Thank you — BESTED BY THE BOYS.

DEAR BESTED: Offhand I can think of a few things a wife can do for her husband that "the boys" can't. She can give him a feeling of pride and importance in a way that the boys never can. If more wives would listen to themselves talk to their husbands when they walk in at night they might get a clue as to why the guy would rather be elsewhere.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO HADDITUPTOHERE: Kvitcherberyssnih!. Your parents are the ones who should be complaining, not you. They are not "sticking their noses into your business" when they insist on knowing where and with whom you are, and ask that you phone to let them know when you will be later than was agreed upon.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS J. WHITE

White – Wright

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville was the setting for the marriage recently of Constance Margueite Wright, daughter of Mrs. Murney E. Wright, Belleville and the late Mr. M. E. Wright to Douglas James White, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. White, Belleville.

Rev. Al L. Sutherland performed the ceremony and providing wedding music at the organ was Mr. R. Porter.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Steven Wright, the bride wore a French Chantilly lace sheath style gown with the bodice featuring a square neckline and long lily-point sleeves. The dress was enhanced with a matching sleeveless lace coat highlighted with side panels of plain nylon organza bordered with matching lace. Her headdress was a large nylon organza rose accented with crystal stems from which flowed a full length nylon illusion veil .She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, glad florets and stephanotis.

Miss Sylvia Tracey as maid of honor and the other attendants, Mrs. Jan Simpson, Mrs. Sharon Reynolds, sister of the bridegroom and the Junior bridesmaid, Miss Beverley Phillips, cousin of the bride were dressed alike in floor length gowns of petal pink chiffon over taffeta in Empire styles and accented with appliques of pink roses and green leaves. Cape effects of matching chiffon were caught at the collars and extended down the sides of the dresses. They wore matching headdresses centred with seed pearls and shoulder length veils of nylon illusion, and each carried a crescent bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Sandra English, cousin of the bride was flower girl wearing a floor-length chiffon over taffeta dress in petal pink with a headdress of white feathered carnations and carried a tiny basket of white carnations.

Mr. John Smith was groomsman, while the ushers were Mr. Jack MacDonald, cousin of the bridegroom, Mr. Ralph E. Reynolds, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Mr. David Roper, cousin of the bride. Ring - bearer was Master Dennie Phillips, cousin of the bride.

A reception was held at the Quinte Hotel, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing an aquamarine silk dress with rosepoint lace bodice, matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother dressed in a pink guipure lace dress with matching jacket, ostrich plume hat and bone accessories with a corsage of white roses.

For the honeymoon trip to Atlantic City and Washington, the bride chose a mint green silk dress white and black patent accessories and a corsage of white roses.

On return Mr. and Mrs. White will reside at the Centennial Apartments in Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. M. LYNN MASON

Mason – Heath

Grace Chapel, Stirling was the scene of the wedding recently when Carol Estella Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heath, R.R. 2 Campbellford, became the bride of Malcolm Lynn Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Mason, Springbrook.

Mr. Simon Brosnan, Bancroft, officiated at the doubling ceremony.

Mrs. Simon Brosnan, Bancroft, played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Mary Draeup, Wellman's.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie empire styled with imported French lace bodice and lily point sleeves, highlighted with a wedding coat of imported French lace extending to form a train. A headdress tiara of crystals and seed pearls held in place a four-tier silk illusion veil. She carried a white Bible crested with talisman roses and ivy.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Bill Moreton, Belleville, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Don Heath, Rosamore, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Donna Stewart, Campbellford, and Miss Judy Heath ,Stirling, cousin of the bride were identically attired in orange-ice, floor-length sleeveless gowns of peau-de-soie featuring empire waistlines and A-line skirts with flowing trains and trimmed with white rose point appliqued lace .Their headdresses were orange rosebuds fashioned of peau de soie. They wore matching shoot and carried nosegays of white 'mums and coral carnations.

Miss Bradshaw, Agincourt, niece of the bridegroom was flower girl and wore a full length sleeveless gown of orange-ice peau de soie fashioned with an empire waistline and trimmed with white rose point appliqued lace, and carried a basket of white 'mums and coral carnations.

Kevin Bradshaw, Agincourt nephew of the bridegroom was the ring bearer and carried a white satin heart shaped cushion trimmed with lace and satin streamers and bearing the wedding rings.

Bill Moreton, Belleville, attended the bridegroom. The ushers were Don Heath, Rosamore, brother of the bride, Mr. George Reid, Campbellford, cousin of the bride and Ross Bradshaw, Agincourt, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

At the reception held in the I.O.O.F. hall Stirling the bride's mother greeted the guest wearing a dress and matching jacket of mocha French chantilly lace over beige crepe featuring an empire waistline, with beige and mocha accessories, and a corsage of orange carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a turquoise dress and coat ensemble of French Calais lace with white and turquoise accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

For the honeymoon trip through western Ontario the bride donned a turquoise peau de soie sheath dress with a matching lace coat, turquoise and white accessories and a corsage of pink delight roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason will reside at 2227 Birchmount Rd., Agincourt, Ontario.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD W. OKE

Oke – Cooper

The Salvation Army Citadel, Belleville was the setting on Saturday August 26, 1967, when Enid Evelyn Ruth Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald P. Cooper was united in marriage to Gerald Willis Oke, son of Mrs. E. Connor, Toronto.

Major J. Tuckaberry of the Salvation Army officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Doris Ogborne who also accompanied the soloist Miss Marilyn Cooper.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride wore a semi fitted A - line gown of peau de soie featuring A lace yoke and three-quarter length bell shaped sleeves of lace. The back of dress was highlighted with a lace train extending from the yoke at back. A shoulder length veil was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of camelias interspersed with fern.

The maid of honor Miss Maureen Cooper and the bridesmaids Miss Norma Cooper and Miss Joanne Brooker were dressed alike in floor - length gowns of turquoise peau de soie featuring scooped necklines and short lace sleeves with lace tie belts. Their headdresses were lace trimmed pillboxes with shoulder length veils and each carried a crescent shaped bouquet of Shasta 'mums. Miss Debora Smith as flower girl wore a floor - length white satin gown highlighted with a blue velvet sash. She wore a spray of Shasta daisies in her hair and a wristlet bouquet of white and blue pom poms.

Douglas Oke was groomsman and the ushers were Martyn Cooper, Simpson Cherry and Bryan Cooper.

A reception was held in St. Thomas Parish Hall where the bride's mother welcomed the guests wearing a cornflower blue dress with matching lace coat with white accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses and carnations. The mother of the bridegroom wore a centennial rose crepe dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Northern Ontario, the bride wore a multi - color dress pleated from the yoke, with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Upon return Mr. and Mrs. Oke will reside at 63 Gordon Street, Belleville.

Couple Marks 15th and 25th Anniversaries

There is only a ten-year difference between the time Earle Allin married the former Irene Douglas and the year he initiated Tip - Top cleaners and Aug. 30 is the anniversary of both.

Mr. Allin of 230 Bridge St., is the son of Alderman and Mrs. Jack Allin. He and his wife have been married 25 years and have five sons.

He began Tip - Top cleaners 15 years ago after working with his father who was then in the cleaning business. They now have two branches in Belleville, Picton and Trenton. Two of his sons will be following in the business also.

A double celebration will be held at the Quinte Hotel on Aug. 30 attended by the immediate families for the one anniversary and the staff to celebrate the other. Silver for one and crystal for the other.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Previous to the marriage last Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Dixon (nee Mary beth Joan Rattan) were honored at a miscellaneous shower given by the congregation of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church. Following a short program the couple received a large number of gifts.

Tea Party Held at Home Of PC Provincial Candidate

Despite inclement weather the Progressive Conservative Women's Association of Belleville went ahead with prearranged plans, and moved a scheduled garden party indoors to the home of the Quinte Riding Provincial candidate Dr. R. T. Potter.

Well over 300 crowded into the spacious rooms to welcome former Ontario Premier Leslie Frost and Mrs. Frost. The event, one of the many PC Women's Association projects for Centennial year was to have been held on the vast lawns overlooking the Bay of Quinte, where numerous huge and colorful umbrellas highlighted the decor. Mrs. Harry Yorke was the convener.

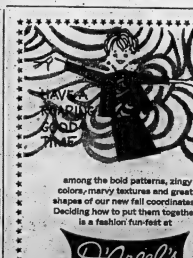
The many guests were received by the host Dr. Potter and Mrs. Potter and Hon. Leslie Frost and Mrs. Frost, and welcomed by hospitality conveners Mrs. M. Tugnett and Mrs. H. Rollin.

The serving table was most attractive and centred with a beautiful centennial centrepiece in blue and white with stately gladioli and colorful carnations predominating and flanked with centennial flags.

The tea table conveners were Mrs. S. Mulholland, Mrs. C. Kendell assisted by Mrs. R. Gunsolus, Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. J. Matthews.

At various times during the afternoon those pouring tea were Mesdames E. Sanderock, L. Grills, Parker, J. N. Vanover, J. R. - Ellis, J. Stock, H. Ketcheson, G. Kelly, C. L. Hyde and F. Wilson.

The many servers and hostesses were members of the Association and were kept busy throughout the afternoon. A number of other members so necessary for event such as this also assisted.



Tea was made by Mrs. M. McKenzie and Mrs. Haggarty and Mrs. J. Joyce kept things running smoothly in the kitchen.

During the afternoon a gold centennial coin was donated by Lee Grills M.P. was drawn for by the hostess Mrs. Potter and won by Mr. Ray Gunsolus.

Co-eds Like Coats, Suits

Never was there such a banner year for back-to-school swings for young swingers . . . chain belts, turtle necks, pants suits, multiple pockets, miniskirts.

According to Louis Dubov, executive director of the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry, "young people find coats and suits right for high school and college . . . and on the right wave length for fun-times, too."

Shapes show off young waists—and new lines are riding high. More than a few coats and suits feature backset or tie-belts . . . martingale or side cinches.

Industrial zippers — big and bold — are more fun than a barrel of buttons — speedy, too. A tribute to the machine age, they look young and zippy — new and hip-py on fronts and pockets of coats and suits. No regimentation, say 1967 back - to - schoolers, but that doesn't include the exciting regimental look of British guardsman and red-red military coats that take a shine to brass buttons, pockets and epaulets. French coats with exaggerated styling do their best spying on campus.

"Go west, young co-ed", is the theme—and the new Paris inspired fashion is worn with Edwardian suit. A stiff-necked shirt and flowing tie complete the fun look. Turtle neck sweaters to match pant suits and high-lo necklines on coats keep students snug as a bug. Shirt styles and modified tent shapes with high fit are go-getters. Coats often feature slotted low belts and striped linings with solid skirts are where the action is. Add flipped pleats and low-placed flares and you have the message.

Fabrics go into high speed. From smooth and deeper-ridged gabardines to wild-printed wools. Rhythmic, primitive or geometric, they whirl, swirl, explode. Corduroys and camels are always in . . . stripes, nearly in every type and color combo-ngmental, swing, Roman. Plaids and checks have more dimensional effect. Melions, billiard types and velours are smooth ones. Twills, ottomans and crepes are glamorous on dates. Leather is a true friend . . . for trim or coat.

Color goes into a tizzy. Bright oranges and citrusy yellow. Citrus lemons, reds, vibrant greens, high turquoise, African brown, rainbow tones . . . color, color color . . . the more the merrier.

School's in — and so are the wonderful, new back-to-school coats and suits.

Vaseline Useful Toilet Aid

There's a new sense among junior high students across the country. They picked it up from older teens, then trimmed it to suit their own imaginations. It's a look as smooth as calcitas and Sam Brown belts, as individual as the Motown sound.

Dozens of different ideas and tricks go to make up this slick new look. But one product on which everybody — guy or gal — agrees is familiar petroleum jelly.

Here are some stick-up suggestions made by junior high girls who know about grooming:

1. To tame the eyebrows and add just a bit of sheen to them, use a touch of petroleum jelly. Since it's colorless, it provides definition for the brows, yet leaves them with the new light look of the young sophisticate.

2. For pale, glossy lips — the fashion model kind, petroleum jelly is perfect. Its built-in bonus: it protects the lips against chapping and cracking at football games and wherever the weather is blustery.

3. When a cold settles in, petroleum jelly soothes a nose that takes on a Rudolph-red tinge. It is unscented, too, so a girl doesn't have to smell medicated while she's fighting the sniffles.

4. Vinyl, especially in boots and belts, is brightening the accessory scene. To shine it up, there's nothing like a buffing with a soft cloth and a dab of petroleum jelly.

Sizing Can Be Put Back In Clothes

Back to school means back to the clothing store.

Shopping for children's school clothes is part of the fall ritual — fun for the kids, but hard on mother's feet and her pocketbook, too. And what has been even more discouraging until recently was the knowledge that those new dresses, jumpers and shirts which were so crisp when first purchased might lose their body and become limp and lifeless after washing.

Many have lost their shine — which is put in the garment by the manufacturer, but which often does not last past the first washing. Now there's an easy remedy.

Sizing can be put back in fabrics right at home while you iron. Spray sizing, which is used instead of starch, gives life and newness to fabrics without a stiffness. What's more, many of the special properties, it saves ironing time, a boon to mothers during school days, when ironing loads multiply.

Cotton College Suits

Cotton suits will make a fashionable entrance to college this fall in the newest glowing autumn colors. Left: a two-piece design in green quilted cotton printed with orange fleur de lys. Right: Man-tailored yet distinctly feminine this three-piece Persian blue costume in wide-wale cotton corduroy sports the latest vest idea.

New Product Helps Curb Widespread Habit of Nail-biting

Did you know that one-third of all American families have at least one nailbiting member? Did you know that among nailbiters, two-thirds are female?

These were the findings in a survey conducted by a leading pharmaceutical company which has launched a new product for teenage nailbiters.

The product is believed to be the first nailbiting and cuticle-nibbling deterrent ever developed especially for teenagers and young adults.

The new product consists of a bottle holding an odorless liquid which is applied like nail-polish. The liquid contains but completely harmless chemicals that make the nailbiter withdraw his or her finger from the mouth almost instantly.

Eventually, a conditioned reflex is established, which helps to break the nailbiting habit by making the nailbiter automatically recall his or her hand as it is lifted toward the mouth. In simple terms, the habit becomes so unpleasant that the user eventually is forced to stop.

An unusual feature of the new product is that it is packaged together with a booklet, "A Guide to Beautiful Fingernails", which provides a complete course in proper grooming of nails, fingers and hands as nails grow back during the treatment.

There are two versions — fluorescent pink, a color most favored by teenagers; and in a transparent clear for females who want no color on their nails and for males.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

The price of new housing has risen every month in the past 20 years. Builders usually get the blame for this. Actually, the real culprit is rising land prices.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: For 10 years I've been waiting for the price of houses to come down, so I could buy. At last my saving has accomplished is that the new house I could have bought for $10,000 ten years ago is priced at over $18,000 now.

The way house prices continue to rise, I'm afraid my builders must be making a fortune. As one who has always been for the underdog, I think it's about time that you took up the battle against profiteering builders.— Mr. E. I.

ANSWER: It may surprise you that profit margins of builders have been going down. I admit the price of new houses has been going up rather rapidly, but the primary cause has not been the cost of labor and material, but land costs. In other words, property owners possessing land is the path of development have benefited most, not the builders.

According to best available information, the price of an improved building lot in the past 15 years on the average has risen on about 130 per cent, whereas the price per square foot of a delivered house has only gone up about 18 per cent. In short, land prices have risen about 12 times faster than the price of the new structure put on the land.

Builders have been managed to minimize the price rise of a delivered house, in spite of rising material and labor costs, by increased efficiency, better design, and use of new materials and methods.

Therefore, if a finger could be pointed at profiteers, it's the hundreds of thousands (and even millions) of Americans who had the foresight to buy land and are benefiting by the urban explosion.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I think I found out how to become a millionaire fast. When I went shopping for cemetery lots, the cheapest lot I could buy was priced at $150. I also discovered that there are about 1,000 lots, as a minimum, per acre.

The way I figure it that's at the rate of $150,000 per acre in American money. If I make my 20-acre farm into a cemetery, that's $9,000,000.

Is there anything wrong with my newly discovered road to wealth? — Mr. R. G.

ANSWER: Theoretically, your scheme has a potential of producing several million dollars — practically, it won't get off the ground. To start your cemetery you'll need proper zoning, subdivision plans, extensive capital investment, and an active sales, promotion, and advertising program.

As a practical matter, if a cemetery sells, say, 300 lots on the average per year, it is considered successful. When the necessary expenses are subtracted, you can readily see that becoming a millionaire selling cemetery lots is pretty difficult.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: A lot I bought 20 to 30 years ago is apparently worth a lot of money today. A national company thinks the site for a hamburger stand. They have made me two propositions:

A) Either they lease the land for a long term and they will erect the improvement or:

B) I erect the improvement to their specifications and they will pay a fair rent.

I'm a school teacher. I know nothing about building or real estate. Can you guide me? — Mr. L.

ANSWER: Based upon the cases of many persons who have had to make similar decisions, I strongly recommend that the owner make the ground and let the tenant erect his own improvement. It is true that the investment return will be greater if the owner builds and everything works out all right.

In most cases, everything does not work out all right and the owner soon regrets the choice made to build to someone else's specifications and supervision. I would recommend otherwise, if I were even a professional in real estate.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am supposed to be one of several hundred heirs to a property worth $1,000,000,000 given to a general in George Washington's army. The attorney who wrote the letter says that if the other heirs and I are willing to risk $1,000 apiece, he will fight our claim. The potential for winning millions on a thousand - dollar chance appears attractive to me. What would you do? — Mr. F. M.

ANSWER: Save your thousand dollars. This is about the 30th time around on the scheme. Your ancestor general must have been very prolific because dozens of people in town to whom I have spoken have received similar letters.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My neighbor bangs out washing almost every day. It's unsightly. I'd like to screen it. I was planning to install a 6-foot high, basket weave redwood fence. I'll need 100 feet and have $200 to do the job. Can it be done? — Mrs. J.B.

ANSWER: No, it cannot. The current contract price for installing a 6-foot high redwood fence including labor, material and incidentals is about $4 per lineal foot.

Not 'Men Looking for Work' But 'Work Looking for Men'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will reach next month beyond its count of men looking for work to establish a count of work looking for men.

The job, costly project of the manpower department and Dominion Bureau of Statistics will be the first nationwide survey of job vacancies undertaken by any industrial country.

DBS officials said Wednesday the information will fill a vital need for governments, industry and individuals at all levels of the work force.

The study will pinpoint unfilled jobs, predict and comprehensively.

It will supplement and largely replace existing information provided by manpower centres, formerly known as the national employment services.

The service has always been limited to fragmentary information, related almost entirely to blue-collar jobs.

The new mail survey will poll 5,000 large firms every month and sample 20,000 smaller firms—about 15 per cent—every quarter on a rotating basis.

Results will be published every month, relating to job vacancies over a preceding three-month period. More current information, based on a smaller sampling, will be made available to the manpower service. This will be done prior to publication of the main survey, and may not be released publicly.

A DBS statement Wednesday said the survey will be highly significant for updating information on where labor shortages occur and what kinds of skills various areas need.

TROOPS COUNTED

Australia has some 76,000 men under arms, 39,000 in the army, 15,700 in the air force and 20,000 in the navy.

Joey's Life Was Threatened

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — John Raymond Graves, 24, of Kansas City, Mo., was charged Wednesday with threatening the life of Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood and was remanded for a 30-day mental examination.

Graves entered no plea.

His arrest in a city motel followed reports Tuesday of a letter received by either police or the government in which there was a threat against the life of the 87-year-old premier.

Graves was charged with sending a letter to the RCMP which contained "a threat to cause the death of Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland."

Producer Sues CBC

BRANTFORD (CP)—The CBC is being sued for damages by frustrated film producer Arthur J. Kelly for use of footage from his film This Most Gallant Affair.

Kelly charges that the CBC used footage from his film on a recent CBC-TV special marking the 25th anniversary of the 1942 Canadian assault on Dieppe during the Second World War.

Kelly said without his film the CBC would not have had a show.

He said they had no right to use it, and damaged the full potential of the original film.

The film's premier was held at Dieppe in October, 1966.

Advertising on Back English Pound Note?

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson's rearrangement of government ministers has prompted the inevitable aftermath jokes, including a gag list of candidates for the next shuffle—headed by Tom Thumbs, a Beatle and a hippie queen.

The Guardian's gossip column carries a tongue-in-cheek list of names for Wilson's "true administration of all the talents".

To run the economy as chancellor of the exchequer, The Guardian suggests Lord Thomson, Canadian - born publishing magnate whose latest British venture includes two newspapers to be printed north of London by the new week-offset process.

"Under Chancellor Thomson, it is vehemently argued, both treasury and Bank of England could be exported to Canada, solving balance-of-payments problems.

"The new pound—in full color and renamed the Pixel Buck for promotional purposes—would be watch-faced printed in Kennel Hammond with specs on the reverse side for advertising."

As proposed trade minister, the list names Barry Cream-cheese — the first the mother as last real name — who is known as queen of the London hippies. She could invoke Soviet power to placate foreign business concerned about Britain's debts.

Among other candidates are Beada Paul McCartney as home secretary, responsible for law enforcement.

Rockwell's Body Cremated; May Be Buried in Arlington

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—The body of George Lincoln Rockwell, slain American Nazi party leader, was cremated Wednesday and the ashes returned secretly to the party's headquarters pending court action seeking the right to inter them in a military cemetery.

Matthias Koehl, now official leader of the small but boisterous movement, said Rockwell, who was cremated early Wednesday morning. His ashes were returned in an urn to the wooded suburban tract where, on the lawn outside the remodelled party headquarters, the private memorial services were held in the afternoon.

Later, Koehl issued a statement saying the American Civil Liberties Union is seeking an injunction in the party's behalf for the right to deposit Rockwell's remains in a military cemetery. Rockwell was a U.S. Navy veteran.

The U.S. Army withdrew permission Tuesday to bury Rockwell in the Culpepper, Va., national cemetery after party members refused to remove the Nazi insignia and leave behind their swastika flag.

Hippies Invade Mayor's Office Present Brief on Yorkville

TORONTO (CP)—A group of about 30 hippies went en masse before board of control at city hall Wednesday after they invaded the board's committee room and took over the mayor's and controllers' chairs.

The board refused to hear the hippies' brief because it was not presented by a recognized spokesman. David DePoe, during a recess in the meeting, was chosen to present the brief.

However, during a lunch break, DePoe wrote out a six-page brief in longhand and returned with the group of hippies to occupy the committee room before the board members returned.

The board finally agreed to hear DePoe's brief if the hippies gave back the chairs they occupied. But later when the board found DePoe had no more copies of his brief to distribute to all board members, they again balked at giving him an audience.

After arguments among board members it was again agreed DePoe would be allowed to speak and copies of his brief were reproduced by a secretary while the board members and hippies waited.

DePoe, 23, a worker for the Company of Young Canadians, asked in his brief that the city consider closing some other street in the midtown Yorkville coffeehouse area since so many politicians were against closing Yorkville Avenue.

The hippies have staged several demonstrations in support of their wish to have Yorkville Avenue closed to motor traffic to provide a pedestrian mall.

DePoe also asked that the city investigate alleged police brutality during the recent Yorkville demonstrations; asked the hippies be finding a house for use as a social centre; provide the hippies with workshop facilities; and discuss means for establishing medical and dental clinics in the Yorkville area.

Izvestia Portrays Hippies As Rebels Against Machines

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia took its first good measure of U.S. hippies Wednesday—and had kind words for them.

Izvestia portrayed hippies as rebels against a machine-like and emotionless American way of life.

"The ideas of businessmen are rejected by their children," it told the Soviet readers.

But while the government newspaper took a sympathetic view of the hippie movement it did not endorse something of the kind for the Soviet Union.

The rebellion of the hippies was treated as if it could happen only in America.

Yevgeny Krasnikov, Izvestia correspondent in New York, said hippies told him American society and "caring is super" mean into machines.

"But let the machines do their own jobs (drudgery)," he quoted them as saying.

Woodland on Pacific Coast Plagued by Many Forest Fires

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Every man and machine the U.S. forest service can find has been thrown at the walls of flame in the Pacific Northwest forests.

Already there have been more than 2,000 fires this summer, compared with 995 in a similar period last year.

Sweating men still hack out fire lines, but fire fighters have called in bombers to help the foresters gain control.

"If we hadn't had aerial weapons this year, we'd be in worse shape by now," said Bill Wood, fire control equipment officer for the Pacific Northwest region of the forest service.

The region includes 26,000,000 acres in Oregon and Washington.

The bombers drop retardants on forest fires, checking their spread. Helicopters skim the trees with loads of men and equipment for the ground war.

Smokejumpers, carrying packs on their backs, leap into the smoke. Planes fly over the trees, looking for signs of fire.

Other planes, equipped with infra-red devices can detect hot spots and can map terrain hidden by thick smoke or the dark of night.

Modern packaging makes it possible to drop ground equipment from planes, including field offices, tools, water and dried and frozen food.

Men carry protective shelters on their backs which offer refuge when 750-degree fires surround them.

Not all the weapons are new. Observers, in towers rising from the highest peaks, still watch for fires and relay radio messages to remote spots.

Thousands of men still work with picks and shovels in the face of the spreading inferno.

When the weather gets so dry and hot that any little spark will start a blaze, the foresters begin to rely on old-fashioned hope.

Society Lady Beaten to Death In Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—A 74-year-old Delaware society matron, sister of the legendary "miming silk king of Thailand," was found savagely beaten to death Wednesday in her home, police said.

Katherine Thompson Wood, prominent in the Delaware and Philadelphia society, was beaten about the head with a blunt instrument as her gaze watchdog, a boxer, lay in her secluded home in nearby Centerville, police said.

Her brother, James Thompson, partayed a love of Thailand and a mere $700 investment into a $1,000,000 silk empire in Bangkok. But he disappeared mysteriously one day last March on a walk through the jungle.

Authorities have launched a massive investigation of Mrs. Wood's killing which they described as a "horrible homicide." The police were not immediately able to give a motive for the slaying. They said they were unable to turn up the instrument used.

PAPER BLAMES CHINA

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia holds China responsible for the increasing American military buildup in Southeast Asia. Each new American, initiative in Asia was at least facilitated and often directly caused by Chinese actions, such as the development of atomic and hydrogen bombs, commentator Viktoriy Maltsyev says.

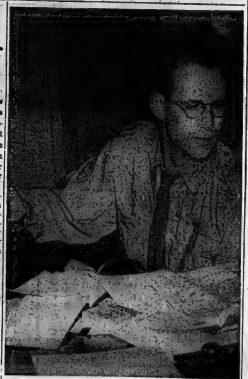
New Technical Wrinkles

The head men in the traffic and technical staff of The Canadian Press, General Traffic Chief M. W. Bradbury (left) and Traffic Supervisor Ian Munro, look over a computer established at CP's Toronto head office to facilitate transmission of copy on the news co-operative's wires. The computer automatically converts tape perforated for automatic type-setting into newspaper column-width. It is the latest advance in modernization as CP, 50 years old Sept. 1, keeps step with the times. (CP Photo).

Seaweed Atomic War Safeguard



KINGSTON, R.I. (AP)—New evidence was reported by a Canadian Tuesday of the potential value of a seaweed extract for helping protect people against radioactive fallout in the event of nuclear war or major accidents in nuclear power plants.

It would be designed to provide significant protection against radioactive strontium-90, one of the most feared components of fallout from nuclear explosions or from any major accidental release of fission products generated in nuclear power plants.

The seaweed chemical is designed to absorb much of the strontium, in a sponge-like action, while it is still in the intestinal tract and before it can enter the blood stream and reach vital areas.

Dr. D. Waldron-Edward, a scientist of McGill University in Montreal told about latest developments in a report to the closing session of a Drugs From the Sea symposium being held at the University of Rhode Island.

Dr. Waldron-Edward told a reporter she figures that about two ounces of seaweed stuff a day would be more than adequate to afford significant protection to the average person.

FARM CENSUS

The total number of poultry on farms at June 1 was estimated at 89,362,200 birds of all kinds, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday. The figure covered all Canada except Newfoundland. The June 1 poultry population this year, with year-ago figures, was: hens and chickens 80,120,000, 75,223,600; turkeys, 8,757,500-8,987,800; geese, 336,900-338,700; and ducks, 396,500-399,200.

MAPLE SYRUP DECLINES

Maple syrup production amounted to 2,504,000 gallons this year, a 23-per-cent decline from 1966 production, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced Tuesday. The figure was below the 1960-64 five-year average of 2,518,000 gallons.

Canadian Press, News-gathering Co-op, Marks Its Fiftieth Birthday September 1

TORONTO (CP)—Seven coal miners are found alive after being buried nine days in the rubble of No. 2 Cumberland colliery at Springhill, N.S.

Drug peddler Lucien Rivard is recaptured in a cottage at Lake St. Louis 40 months after escaping from Montreal's Bordeaux jail.

Thirty hard-rock miners are buried in an avalanche of snow and ice at a mining camp in Grandeur, B.C.

Prime Minister Pearson steps forward to deliver a rebuke to President de Gaulle for his "Quebec libre" remarks.

Within minutes the news is delivered to newspapers and radio and television stations in Canada and abroad. The Canadian Press has gone to work gathering the details of another story.

For half a century Canada's national news-gathering co-operative has been on the job, reporting everything from prize fights to wars, royal births to traffic deaths.

Sept. 1 is CP's 50th birthday. A special commemorative five-cent postage stamp—the western hemisphere emblazoned by a streak of lightning to portray the speed of news communications—is being issued to mark the anniversary.

During its five decades, the agency's operations have moved with the times from the clickety-click of the old telegraph Morse code to the hum of computer, but its basic job is the same.

It still has to collect and distribute regional, provincial, national and international news for Canadian newspaper readers, now estimated to number more than 13,000,000.

Almost 70 per cent of its 103 member dailies depend exclusively on CP reports for news from outside their own areas.

CP is a non-profit co-operative, owned by the newspapers. Every paper, regardless of size, has an equal say in its operation.

The co-operative setup plays a key role in CP's news collecting in Canada. Each member provides CP with the news from its own area as soon as it becomes known. CP editors select, edit and rewrite the stories for transmission to other interested member papers on a country-wide teletype network.

Thus a big news story reported by Cape Breton Post in Sydney, N.S., can be available for printing by The News at Prince Rupert, B.C., in minutes.

Most international news is provided by CP through affiliation with three worldwide agencies.

But many major stories, domestic and foreign, are reported by CP's own staff.

To its biggest newspapers in Central Canada, CP delivers well over 1,000,000 words a week—equivalent to a dozen good-sized novels. It leases 40,000 miles of teletype wires, enough to cross the country eight times. About $1,600,000 worth of CP teleprinters are in members' newsrooms to receive the agency's stories.

Reflecting CP's growth, the annual operating budget has increased tenfold in 50 years to more than $5,000,000annually. Size of its editorial staff also has grown tenfold. Total staff, including teletype operators and accounting and secretarial personnel, exceeds 400.

Hub of the news - distributing operation is on the second floor of the modest head-office building on University Avenue in Toronto. Regional bureaus are in Halifax, Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver. Staff correspondents are posted in St. John's, Nfld., Saint John, N.B., London and Windsor, Ont., Regina, Calgary and Victoria.

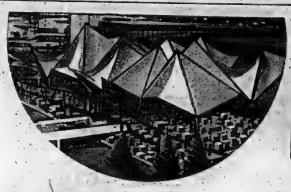
Focal points in handling the hourly flood of foreign news are New York, London and Montreal. At New York, nine Canadian-trained editors trim the mass of AP and Reuters copy to the capacity of their own teletype circuit to Canada. At London, a staff of five report on Canadian-interest stories from Britain and the Continent. At Montreal, French-language editors have Agence France-Presse to round out the international news report with items of special interest to French Canada.

Staff correspondents work in Washington and Moscow and, as required, at the United Nations in New York. Part-time correspondents report for CP in major Commonwealth countries, Africa and South America.

When CP was formed in 1917, its news was transmitted by slow dot-dash telegraph, with Morse men at the papers to type out each story, letter by letter.

Then came teletype, CP's transmission being copied automatically at each newspaper, in capital letters only. Each news desk had to mark the copy for proper capitalization before sending it to the composing room for manual setting into type.

Some regional news still is delivered by teletype, but most CP wires have been converted to teleprompter operation. Perforated tape made from CP transmissions is used to operate typesetting machines automatically at the newspapers.



The news is sent out in capital and small letters. For most players, CP's computer "justifies" the lines—that is, provides the hyphening and spacing so transmission is in column-width lines. On some main circuits in Central Canada, the transmission is at page-width lines but CP's tape is coded so the copy can be justified in any desired typeface or column width by any newspaper's own computer.

CP's Service in French, started in 1951, is still the world's only French-language news service in that language.

In 1948, CP started distributing news photos as well as news in words. At first CP Picture Service was a mail exchange of member newspapers' own illustrations. Now CP transmits both domestic and international illustrations by wire to 54 members, combining mail service in another 21.

Using sophisticated wire-photo equipment, CP can start sending a photo to members within 10 minutes of the time undeveloped film reaches the darkroom. Portable equipment was used at the 1966 Grey Cup game and the first action picture was on its way 13 minutes after kickoff.

Since 1967, CP's news report has been available for broadcasting. At first the service was offered only to CBC but soon was opened to private broadcasters. A CP subsidiary, Broadcast News Ltd., now serves 236 private radio and television stations across the country.

Anglican Synod Urges End to Bombing

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates to the general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada Wednesday urged the United States to end its bombing of North Vietnam.

At the same time they rejected a motion that Canada try to end by stages its sale of war material to the U.S.

The synod also approved a resolution that in effect condemns the rebel Rhodesian government of Premier Ian Smith.

The "no bombing recommendation", was contained in a statement from the World Council of Churches incorporated by the synod in one of its Vietnam resolutions.

Another called on Canada to supply medical supplies for Vietnam civilians of both sides injured in the Southeast Asia conflict.

SPARKED debate

The resolution on Rhodesia sparked lively debate and seemed in danger until defeat by the upper house — the bishops — of a motion to table which would have meant no decision at this synod.

Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, Archbishop of Rupert's Land and primate, said the desire for independence is "felt passionately in Africa" and that this should be recognized even though it might mean difficulties for white settlers.

During the evening session of the 10-day synod that ends today, it was received that the federal government be asked to working out Middle East difficulties, to seek guarantees to assure free access to the holy places in Jerusalem for the members of the Jewish, Muslim and Christian religions.

The synod approved a recommendation from the diocese of Ottawa that the government be asked to increase Canada's foreign aid to one per cent of the gross national product and raise taxes, if necessary, to do so.

Canada's foreign aid now amounts to about $360,000,000 a year. Gross national product now exceeds $80,000,000,000 which would mean a doubling of foreign aid.

Smog Covers Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A brown pall of smog—tinged with a hot blue haze from thousands of acres of brush fires—covered Los Angeles Wednesday for the third straight day as this mountain-ringed basin sweltered in the worst smog siege in a decade.

Officials said there was no relief in sight from conditions which have caused first-stage smog alerts the last two days and fanned flames across more than 10,000 acres of tinder-dry brush in outlying districts.

One hundred-degree heat—a key factor in production of eye-and-nose irritating ozone—was forecast for suburban areas through today, along with dry winds from inland deserts.

Louis Fuller, air pollution control chief, appealed to motorists to curtail unnecessary driving.

"It's about all we can do," he said. "We have no authority to order anyone not to use his car but we can ask for voluntary co-operation."

Bolivia Tries Rebel

Pope and de Gaulle Unlikely To Save Parisian From Jail

CAMIRI, Bolivia (AP)—Jules Regis Debray, 26-year-old philosopher-journalist and son of a prominent Paris family, goes on trial next week, charged as a mastermind behind the growing Castro-type guerrilla movement in the mountains of Bolivia.

Debray, charged specifically with murder, arson, armed insurrection, conspiracy against the state and illegal entry into Bolivia, has said he is sure he will get the maximum sentence — 30 years—despite international pleas by a wide circle of influential friends and intellectuals.

Reports are that President de Gaulle of France and Pope Paul have put pressure on Bolivian authorities, although the burden of their intervention, if true, has never been announced.

Debray and two others were arrested April 20 in a community at the foot of the Bolivian Andes.

They agreed they were on their way down from a guerrilla camp big-Debray, who had spent several weeks with the guerrillas, insisted he was on an assignment for a Mexican magazine.

British photographer George Lewe Roth was released. The two Argentine painters Ciro Roberto Bustos, a Communist who entered the country on a forged passport, but said he had barged into the guerrilla camp by mistake, was also held for trial.

Gen. Alfredo Ovando, commander-in-chief of Bolivia's armed forces, has called Debray an "advance agent" for the guerrillas, who operate between Camiri, 500 miles southeast of the capital of La Paz, and Santa Cruz, an important sugar and oil producing centre. So far, they have not been considered a threat to the government.

Portly, 5 ft Debray's Gaullist background that has helped draw such wide attention to the trial, the public portion of which is expected to continue Sept. 7.

The sandy-haired Debray, whose father is a wealthy lawyer and whose mother is a member of the Paris city council, won top academic honors throughout his schooling. Regarded as a leading intellectual of the left in France, he became interested in politics during the Algerian war for independence from France and later went to Cuba where he developed a special interest in Latin America.

He taught at the University of Havana, became close to Castro and recently produced Revolution in the Revolution—necessarily a textbook for Latin American revolutionaries.

In it, Debray argues that the classic Marxian theories of revolution must be changed and updated for Latin America and contends guerrilla movements such as Castro's will bring change to Latin America, Africa and Asia in the next 15 years.

One of Debray's heroes is the mysterious Ernesto (Che) Guevara, Castro's lieutenant who dropped out of sight more than two years ago, but whom Debray says he came to Bolivia to interview.

Debray says Guevara organized the Bolivian guerrilla movement but, at the time of Debray's arrest, was no longer in the country.

Announcement of Debray's arrest brought protests from the French ambassador, demands from some French newspapers that guerrilla correspondents should be granted the same status as war correspondents, and decisions from the French, Italian and Belgian human rights commissions to send observers to the trial.

Cuts in Military Personnel Likely

OTTAWA (CP)—Reductions in military personnel strength —and consequently in defence commitments—are being freely predicted by defence department sources as a result of the government's clamp-down on increased expenditures in all departments.

The cabinet has rejected the defence department's request for a moderate increase in its budget for 1968-69. The current defence budget is $1,685,000,000.

Informants said Wednesday that a ceiling on expenditures while costs are still rising will eventually have to mean defence cuts somewhere.

One of Defence Minister Hellyer's main objectives has been to increase the proportion of the defence budget allotted to capital expenditures—that is, weapons and equipment.

There is every indication Mr. Hellyer plans to stick to this policy.

The inevitable result, sources say, will be a cut in the manpower strength of the armed forces and in operations and maintenance costs. This in turn will mean a reduction in defence commitments.

Mr. Hellyer is said to feel that any stretch-out of capital programs such as new destroyers and CF-5 fighter-bombers would in the long run result not only in delay but in higher costs as well.

Informants speculate that manpower policy will have to be reversed—for the second time—and armed forces strength cut do some 90,000 from the present 106,000.

Reductions may be made in both the overseas and home forces.

Defence department authorities say it is too early to determine exactly where the axe will fall.

Strictly Personal

Language Needs Cropping

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Language is like a lawn. Unless it is carefully tended, regularly cropped, and vigilantly weeded, it turns into a jungle or a wasteland.

Take a word like discrimination. A decency and, if used to be a "good" word — and still is, in the sense of "Discriminating smokers prefer..." But, for the most part, it has become a "bad" word.

Yet, the ability to discriminate is among the highest of human faculties.

There are, of course, wrong and unfair kinds of distinctions and divisions to make — divisions made out of bigotry or hate or fear. But no really discriminating person would commit these moral and intellectual blunders.

"Dogma" is another classic instance of a word that has run to seed. It comes from the Greek dokein, meaning "to think," and it implies a definite, consistent doctrine or code of beliefs. Nobody can live effectively without such a code; and almost everybody possesses a dogma, either openly or privately.

But the word itself has become a nasty one — meaning any opinion, or set of opinions, held with fanatical tenacity in the face of reason. To call a person "dogmatic" is almost always unfair; but actually it is the person without a carefully thought-out dogma who is invalved in contradictions, conflicts and spiritual upheavals.

An opposite instance is the word "sentimental," which has come to mean "warm-hearted" or "full of love for people." It really means "having an excess of sentiment" or being "mawkishly emotional."

Sentimentality is not allied to love; it is generally the opposite of love. A sentimental person feeds his 12 canaries and throws rocks at the neighbor's children; or carries his wife's picture in his wallet while making passes at some tramp at a bar.

"Cynic," too, is customarily misused and misunderstood. It comes from a school of philosophers who taught that virtue is the only good, and that its essence lies in self-control and independence. It has come to mean anyone who rails or complains or exposes the realism beneath hypocrisy. Incidentally, the sentimentalist's favorite name for a realist is "cynic."

Language requires a gardener. Sometimes I also think it requires a policeman to prevent us from illegally parking our words in spaces reserved for their proper occupants.

Mennonites Forced to Pay Triple for Canada Pension Plan

KITCHENER (CP) — A business man said Wednesday some federal government is taking money owed by Old Order Mennonite and Amish farmers, who refuse to contribute to the Canada Pension Plan, three times over.

Harry Edenborough, manager of the Elmira branch of Silverwood Dairies Ltd., said in some cases the full amounts owed over are seized at his office, then at a butchery where the farmers sell their eggs and then at a creamery.

"We sit send cheques for the full amount to the government. Eventually the farmer will receive a cheque for overpayment, but meanwhile he isn't receiving anything."

The government has put third-order demands on cheques wherever the farmers market their produce. The 3,000 area members in the Kitchener area do not believe in any type of insurance and reject subsidies on milk and cream and other government payments.

Mr. Edenborough said the accounts claimed by the government at his office range from $38 to $154. The order to collect for Ottawa came two weeks ago. "We are obeying it very reluctantly."

Two previous appeals to the government for exemption from the plan have been rejected.

NEWSLETTER BANNED

WASHINGTON (AP)—A newsletter published in China preaching Negro hate of whites and urging big city violence has been banned from the U.S. mails. Postmaster-General Lawrence O'Brien announced the ban on Crusader Newsletter, believed published in China by Robert F. Williams, a fugitive American Negro.

New Car Prices Will Increase

CHICAGO (AP) — Lynn Townsend, chairman and chief executive of Chrysler Corp., said Wednesday that 1968-model automobile prices will be higher regardless of the outcome of negotiations and the United Auto Workers.

Townsend spoke to reporters at the press preview of Chrysler products for the 1968 season. He said the rise in costs of materials, labor and added equipment for safety left manufacturers with no choice other than to increase prices.

Auto Workers to Strike One of Three Companies

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union will pick one of the Big Three auto makers as a target company for a new labor contract or a strike.

The union's 36-member executive board meets today to decide which firm will be the focal point for a settlement designed to become a pattern for all 450,000 UAW workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Walter P. Reuther, the union president, planned late afternoon news conference to announce the target.

Union negotiators Wednesday unanimously recommended that the UAW reject the companies' offers.

Union councils representing the three plants across the country meet to ratify that action and to pass their decision on to the executive board, which then will pick the target.

Current three-year contracts expire at midnight next Wednesday, in rejecting the newly liberalized proposals made Tuesday by the Big Three, the union called them "entirely inadequate and unacceptable when measured against the economic profitability of the automotive industry."

Military College Claims Former English Lecturer Lacked Qualifications

MONTREAL (CP)—The director of studies at College Militaire Royal of St. Johns, Que., said Wednesday that four months after praising lecturer David Price, he and the English faculty chairman decided to release him at the end of his contract.

Dr. Marcel Benoit told a public inquiry under Commissioner Maxwell Cohen, dean of the McGill University law faculty, that he signed an assessment dated June 4, 1966, which stated that Mr. Price had done well in his first year at CMR.

On Oct. 7, Dr. Benoit said, he and Dr. Agop Hacikyan, chairman of the English faculty, decided Mr. Price would have to go at the end of his contract because he did not have a doctorate.

Dr. Benoit said other reasons for the decision were that Mr. Price did not have adequate qualifications to teach English as a second language, and was not fit to head a new prestige linguistics laboratory.

The inquiry was set up after Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and T. C. Douglas, leader of the NDP, put forward Mr. Price's case in the Commons.

The lecturer maintains he was dismissed not for lack of qualifications but because he had been called a homosexual and subversive by a fellow lecturer.

Mr. Price taught English to French-language students.

The term contracts of some other lecturers who did not have doctorates were renewed, Dr. Benoit said, and Mr. Price was let go because of a "specific need" by CMR. There were no other reasons for his dismissal.

The Civil Liberties Union indicated Wednesday it plans to make representations to the inquiry commission about the dismissal procedures.

QUESTION: We hope to go to the Canadian National Exhibition over Labor Day weekend. Could you tell us how to approach it coming from Belleville on 401?

What exit would I take to avoid the city and stop lights?

ANSWER: Get off 401 at exit 56 and take the Don Valley Parkway south to the Gardiner Expressway and take this west to Dundas Ramp to Lake Shore Blvd.

The CNE is the world's largest annual exhibition. It has 320 acres of exhibition grounds strung along the waters of Lake Ontario.

It is a world of contrasts: the noisy mile - and - a - half midway, the beautiful gardens, the spectacular exhibits of modern products and scientific development, the agricultural fair in its 85th year, the big names of show business, the pageantry of a great military Tattoo, where else can you see so much in one place at any time for so little?

QUESTION: We are going to Europe on a motoring holiday next month and some friends have told us about an Alpine motoring booklet and contest. We were wondering if you have any information about this.

ANSWER: Motorists travelling through the Alps in their own or rented cars have the opportunity of winning valuable prizes including a foreign sport car, in the Alpine motoring contest.

To enter the contest simply write to the Alpine Tourist Commission, P. O. Box 91, New York, N.Y. 10019, and request a free Alpine motoring contest control booklet which serves as an entry form.

Participants have the free choice of many routes through the most beautiful regions of the Alps, in the countries of Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Monaco, Switzerland and Yugoslavia.

Motorists are awarded a handsome golden metal car plaque bearing colored flags of all seven Alpine countries if their booklet is stamped at a control post in each of three countries. A silver plaque is given if the booklet is stamped at one control post in each of two countries or at two control posts in one country. There are 46 control and information posts throughout the Alps.

All plaque winners are automatically eligible for valuable prizes in a 22-word commentary competition which will take place at the end of the contest period, in October, 1967.

BOMB THREAT HOAX

LONDON (CP)—Scotland Yard said Wednesday night an anonymous telephone call was received at Canada House warning a bomb was planted on the premises. But the threat turned out to be a hoax. Police went to the Canadian centre situated off downtown Trafalgar Square, searched the building but found no bomb. Canadian government officials declined comment on the call.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1967

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander
Staff Sportswriter

As August draws to a close, the wheels of the Senior "A" Hockey Mo-Hawks are picking up speed.

General Manager Bob Temple talked of the 1967-68 plans during an informal chat this week.

"We hope to open camp here on September 21 and eight days later we'll play our first exhibition game.

"Springfield, Los Angeles Kings' American League club, are slated to meet the Mo-Hawks on Friday, September 29 and a week later, on October 6, we play either Jacksonville or Tulsa.

"And Belleville fans should enjoy Springfield's visit. The parent Kings have promised that Larry Hawely and Howie Menard will be with Springfield for the game here," Temple continued.

Hawely is a Belleville boy who hopes to catch a spot on the L.A. roster and Menard is the younger brother of Mo-Hawk winger Minnie Menard. Howie was one of the bright lights on the Springfield club last year.

"But as for our own club, we can't say too much right now about a lineup except that it will be quite a bit stronger than last year," said Temple.

"Yes, Floyd Crawford is returning as player-coach and we feel this is a big step in the right direction. Floyd was one of the most highly rated coaches in the league last year and he was very near the top in all-star coach voting," the G.M. offered.

"He is a natural leader, both on and off the ice. All the club directors and myself were very pleased with his efforts last year.

"I know Floyd wanted to do more of the coaching from the bench than he did last year but whether he does or not this season will depend on the talent we have on defence," he added.

Temple agreed that Crawford was one of the club's outstanding defencemen during the rough playoff series against Collingwood, after playing most of last season with two heaped up knees.

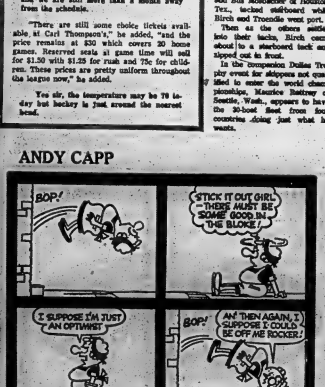
"If he plays that well, there would be no way of him not playing full time, would there?" he mused.

Everyone from last year's Mo-Hawk club will be invited back to the fast-approaching camp, along with many others. "We hope to have between 45 and 50 attend and we want to get the invitations in the mail this week," offered Temple.

Club officials have been in personal contact with some players and will talk to a good many others during the next few weeks. Temple mentioned the names of Steve Rexe, Gary Greenhalf, Bob McAlpine, Wayne McConnell and Greg Marchand who have been invited to pro camps. "But I am hopeful of seeing all or most of them back with us."

Steve Rexe, the young goalie who, is the big question mark, of course. Temple says that Ludger Doucet, member of the club's last goal last year, will be back in camp and, "We are going to take a long look at young Sedon from here in the city who played very well in that Quinte league last year." That would be Casey Sedon who was first-string goalie with the University of Toronto squad while attending that college. Joe Kane, who handles Toronto's Senior "A" Marlies, was Sedon's coach there.

Temple also said he has been in contact with a couple of American Hockey League veterans "Who I am hopeful of seeing in Mo-Hawk uniforms."



Crawford and Temple have been invited to scout the Los Angeles camp in Guelph early in September and Bob anticipates finding some good talent available there.

Turning to the business end of the operation, Temple says that "already our season ticket sales is almost double that of last year and we are still more than a month away from the schedule.

"There are still some choice tickets available at Carl Thompson's," he added, "and the price remains at $30 which covers 20 home games. Reserved seat game line will sell for $1.50 with $1.25 for rush and 75c for children. Three prices are pretty uniform throughout the league now," he added.

Yes sir, the temperature may be 70 today but hockey is just around the nearest bend.

Roughies Mop Stadium With Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders played the part of misery older brothers to Edmonton Eskimos Wednesday, giving up a little early, withholding a lot late, and eventually mopping the stadium with them.

The Roughies trounced the Esks 21-10 in the Western Football Conference encounter, but the game was much more one-sided than the score indicated.

The Roughies trailed 10-3 after one quarter as 22,197 fans howled approval. But they bounced back for a 17-10 lead at the half, and led 21-10 after three quarters.

Although they scored just four points in the final 20 minutes, they dominated the game.

They allowed the Eskimos just two first downs in the second half, gave them 49 yards passing and one yard rushing.

They allowed Eskimo quarterback Frank Cosentino to complete seven of eight short passes for 87 yards, but they were never in danger from any of them.

The Roughies took an early first-quarter lead on a 13-yard return of an interception by Garry Lefebvre. The Esks added a field goal later in the period, but pretty well ended the game for them.

Cosentino completed 11 of 19 passes for 102 yards.

With Ron Lancaster pulling the strings, Ed Buchanan a sprawg loops for 132 yards on 15 carries and George Reed pounded out 86 yards on 22 carries for Saskatchewan.

In between, Lancaster was throwing to Hugh Campbell four times for 79 yards, and a couple of times to Gordon Berwell for 22 yards.

Lancaster clicked on only eight of 17 pass attempts for 135 yards.

Game statistics showed the Roughriders with 19 first downs and 411 yards in total offence. The Esks had just eight first downs and 156 yards in total offence, 109 of them in the first half.

George Reed and Ed Buchanan scored touchdowns for the Roughriders. Jack Abendschein, who picked up a single on a field goal attempt in the fourth quarter, also had two converts and two field goals.

Garry Lefebvre scored a touchdown for the Esks and Peter Kempf had a field goal and a convert.

The win pulled the Roughriders into a first-place tie with Calgary Stampeders. Both clubs have four wins in five starts. The Eskimos now settled in second place with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, each with four points.

Winnipeg tweeks the hapless British Columbia Lions in Winnipeg tonight.

The Lions are winless in five starts and have averaged only 13 points a game.

Their biggest advantage might be the absence of quarterback Kenny Ploen from the Winnipeg lineup.

Ploen was injured in the team's 26-13 loss to Saskatchewan, and his place will be taken by Bill Van Burkleo.

The Lions are still being evaluated by new coach Jim Champion, who sums up the Lions' woes this way:

"We've got to get some new folks out there"

Rains Fail To Halt Hull

A well - muscled local farmer captured much of the applause and all of the autograph seekers at the Alemite park last night. Who else but Bobby Hull.

The NHL superstar was the main attraction in a pair of exhibition softball games designed to raise funds in support of the crippled and retarded children of Belleville.

The weather was just too damp and dismal for many of the expected fans, and as a result little more than half of the bleachers were filled. In the fourth inning of the second encounter a deluge of rain brought a speedy end to the proceedings.

Knights of Columbus and Belleville Shriners clowned themselves to a 4-4 deadlock in the first contest.

In the second game, a group of local umpires, aided by a strong - armed hurler named Hull, edged their way to a 2-1.

The umps plated two runs off veteran hurler Bob Green in the first inning, and the losers were only able to score one in return, before the rains came down.

Playing for the umpires were the likes of Al Kelleher, "Widge" Adams, Claude Carr, "Wiener" Brown, and Ray Lucas.

Several clowns, from Don Foster's well - known bike brigade, added humor to the game, pitching a grapefruit to Bobby Hull and a boomerang ball to umpire Al Kelleher. Other pranks were undertaken by the diamond jesters.

Both those watching and participating enjoyed the chilly humor, then headed home to the fire.

Dane Gives Leaders Lesson

TORONTO (CP)—A smooth move by a determined Dane has given leaders of the world Dragon-class sailing championships cause for concern.

Defending champion Ole Secretsen slipped to fifth from third Wednesday in stacking among 35 boats from 17 countries as Aage Birch of Copenhagen jumped to third from sixth by winning the fourth section of the seven-race series.

Bud Friedericks Jr. and Roy Tremeles Sr., both of the New Orleans, retained the one-two placings they held at the end of the third race, but learned a lesson in tactics from Birch in finishing fifth and sixth respectively Wednesday.

As the fleet rounded the marker leading to the fourth, windward, leg of the six-mile Olympic course, Friedericks and Rex Mosbacher of Houston, Tex., tacked starboard while Birch and Tremelle went port.

Then as the others settled into their tacks, Birch came about to a starboard tack and slipped out in front.

In the companion Dallas Trophy event for skippers not qualified to enter the world championships, Maurice Rattray of Seattle, Wash., appears to have the 30-boat fleet from four countries doing just what he wants.

Rattray won his second of the four races so far and is moving farther into the lead he took with his opening-race victory. He also won Wednesday's race.

One of the surprises of the world competition is the poor showing of King Constantine of Greece. Olympic gold medal winner in the class at the 1960 Games in Rome and rated one of the top Dragon skippers in the world, he is having difficulty and is 17th in the standing.

Despite leaden skies that drizzled a chilling rain through out the race, most skippers felt the 15-mile-an-hour winds were ideal for the fleet 29-foot, three-man Dragons.

Most Games Postponed By Rain

Rain washed out most of the local sport program last night.

The Ontario Softball League round-robin playoff game scheduled for Trenton, between Point Anne and Trenton Cleaners, was postponed. Carm's go to Madoc on Saturday. Picton and Reddendale, in OASA play at Kingston, was also washed out.

The rain caused a further delay in the starting of the Departmental Softball League playoffs. The Fire Department and Electric Motors were scheduled to open one semi-final last night. Tonight, the Intelligencer and Combines clash at 6, at Prince Charles School, in the other series.

Also on tap tonight: Picton Kinsmen vs Ellis Seniors in Quinte-KASA play at the Armite, at 8.30; Shannonville and Read in South Hastings baseball finals, at the Belleville Fairgrounds, at 8; Stewart Warner vs Brant-Montclair Vics, at Amelisburg, in Commercial Softball consolation play.

DIES IN COLLISION

BALTIMORE, Ont. (CP)—Arthur A. Covert, 37, of Rose reach, about 12 miles northeast of here, died Wednesday when his van slammed into a truck on Highway 45, about 25 miles east of Oshawa. A passenger in the van, 58-year-old Smith Ellis of Baltimore, was in fair condition in Cobourg hospital.

Bosox Stretch Lead As Robinsons Rock Twins; Chicago Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Robinson Rock—the two-part method that golden Baltimore to the world champ- ionship last year—is on the American League upset route though the Orioles are nowhere near the top this season.

Frank and Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's partners in punch, left Minnesota reeling with two straight losses that dropped the second place Twins 1½ games off Boston's league leading pace.

Brooks lined a three-run double that keyed the Orioles' 4-3 victory over Minnesota Tuesday night and Frank hammered a two-run 10th inning homer giving Baltimore a 4-3 decision against Dean Chance Wednesday.

Elsewhere in the pennant race, Boston got an 11th inning home run from Carl Yastrzemski and nipped New York Yankees 3-2. It was the Red Sox' 14th victory in the last 18.

Yastrzemski, who had been hitless in 12 at bats in the Yankee series, reclaimed himself with his 25th home run and beat Al Downing.

Downing struck out 12 batters but Yastrzemski, who entered the game in the eighth inning, snapped the tie in the 10th. The homer gave him the major league lead by one over Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew.

Chicago, which opens a crucial four-game series in Boston tonight, salvaged the final game of a three-game set in Washington, thanks mainly to Agee and Don Buford.

Agee singled and led came second on Buford's hit and two infield outs in the first inning. Buford's single in the third and then doubled a run home in the seventh.

Detroit's Earl Wilson, running for his 12th victory, was leading 2-1 and cruising along on a three-hitter against the Angels when he walked Jimmie Hall on four pitches with one out in the ninth.

Bubba Morton, a former Tiger, followed with a double, scoring Hall with the tying run. When Al Kaline fumbled the ball, Morton raced to third. Then Bill Skowron bounced to second base for Dyer and Morton beat the throw to the plate to score the winning run.

The defeat kept the Tigers in third place, one percentage point back of Minnesota and 1½ games behind Boston.

Chiefs Win 8-1

Leafs Continue Plunge

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs continue to skid toward the bottom of the International League cellar. Boston Red Sox, their parent club, strengthen their bid for the American League pennant with help from the Leafs.

Four pitchers—Dave Morehead, Sparky Lyle, Gerry Stephenson and Gary Waslewski—have been summoned this season to help in Boston's pennant bid. Only Waslewski has been returned.

Waslewski looked anything but a major leaguer Wednesday as he was manhandled by Syracuse Chiefs in an 8-1 defeat. Toronto holds sixth place by one percentage point over Buffalo Bisons. Waslewski gave up a three-run homer to Frank Fernandez in the first inning and five runs in the fourth before he fingered with his sixth defeat against five wins.

In other games, Richmond Braves downed Columbus Jets 3-2 and Toledo Mud Hens rode Wayne Comer's three-run homer to a 4-3 triumph over Jacksonville Suns.

Red Wings were rained out.

With The Trotters

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—Warrior Hanover won the featured consolation pace for $1,300 at Batavia Downs Wednesday and returned $12.20.

Gwen B. Adios, owned by A. J. Bridgette and J. R. Reid of Allen Craig, Ont., won the 3200 conditioned pace, that went at the third race and paid $13.80.

Adios Tom and Wilbington Bale produced a $54.80 daily double.

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Lovely Mir, driven by Allan Whitfield, Welland, won the $8,208 Canadian standardbred Futurity Stakes at Mohawk Raceway.

Lovely Mir, owned by Adrien and Gerard Miron of St. Augustin, Que., paid a bid-length victory over Black Jane.

Phoebe Sue and Fanny Symbol combined for a $90.70 daily double.

Armbro Gambol and Lyndee Abner produced a $90.20 exacta.

Stiff Opposition

Top Ranked Win Tough Ones

OTTAWA (CP)—The two top-ranked players in the under-16 boys' singles encountered stiff opposition in their matches Wednesday before advancing to the fourth round at the Canadian junior closed tennis championships.

Second seed Philip Ersep of Montreal defeated Louis Desmarteaux of London, Ont., 8-6, 6-4 in a well-played match. The tall, left-hander used a powerful overhead smash to score many points while his opponent scored well with a driving forehand placement shot.

Jim Boyes of Toronto, first seed, eliminated Luc Michaud of Drummondville, Que., in a hard-fought contest 10-8, 6-3.

In another third-round match in the under-16 boys', seventh ranked Dave Johnston of Vancouver trounced David Sauvay of Montreal 6-1, 6-1.

A persistent rain limited the number of completed matches to 12.

With good weather conditions, tournament officials hoped to be able to play finals in all events Friday. The tournament had been scheduled to end today.

In fourth-round play today in the under-16 event, Ersep is scheduled to meet the winner of the match between Alan Lawey of Vancouver and John Stewart of Halifax. Boyce meets Pierre Vernier of Drummondville.

Batting—Danny Cater, Kansas City, lashed five hits including the game-winner in the 12th inning as the Athletics edged Cleveland 6-5.

Pitching — Larry Jaster, St. Louis, pitched 8 1-3 innings of shutout ball and won his eighth game with help from Ron Willis in the ninth as the Cardinals blanked New York Mets 2-0.

Abendschan Moves Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jack Abendschan kicked nine points for Saskatchewan Roughriders Wednesday night to move into second place in the Western Football Conference individual scoring race.

Abendschan booted four field goals, two converts and a single as Roughriders beat Edmonton Eskimos 21-10. He now has 30 points, 21 fewer than Edmonton halfback Jim Thomas.

Fullback George Reed scored one Saskatchewan touchdown to capture a share of third place with flanker Ken Nielsen of Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Both have 20 points.

Peter Kempf kicked a field goal and a convert for Eskimos to consolidate his hold on fifth place with 25 points.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

They're touting Orlando Cepeda for the National League's Most Valuable Player award, but Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente isn't making it easy for the St. Louis Cards' star to win his first National League batting championship.

Clemente is a three-time winner of the batting crown. Cepeda never has led it, but he's driving toward the top just as the Cards are moving swiftly toward the pennant.

Cepeda collected three hits as St. Louis downed New York Mets 2-0 Wednesday night. Clemente had two safeties, including a two-run double, that helped Pittsburgh down Atlanta 11-9. In other games, Cincinnati downed Philadelphia 3-1, Los Angeles trounced San Francisco 9-3 and Chicago defeated Houston 4-3.

Clemente's hits enabled him to increase his league-leading batting average one point to .348. Cepeda's three safeties, though, increased his mark three points to a runner-up .345.

Tim McCarver also starred for St. Louis. He drove in both runs with his 12th homer and a sacrifice fly. Larry Jaster and Ron Willis combined to limit the Mets to four hits.

The triumph enabled the Cards to maintain their 10-game lead over second-place Cincinnati.

Matty Alou, the defending 12th homer.

batting titleholder, and Willie Horne runs by Felipe Alou. Sargent also helped the Pirates down the Braves. Alou collected four hits in five tries lifting his Pittsburgh game back by the average to .328. Sargent was fourth and regained the lead on loped a two-run double and his Clemente's two-bagger.

Dornhoefer Wins NHL Golf Crown

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP)—Center Gary Dornhoefer of Philadelphia Flyers won the second annual National Hockey League golf tournament with a 37-hole score of 159 Wednesday at the Transit Valley Country Club.

The tournament was original by scheduled for 36-holes but rain halted proceedings after 27-holes.

Dornhoefer was awarded the Clarence Campbell Bowl for his victory in which 76 players competed and four-man teams representing each of the 12 NHL cities.

Bobby Rousseau of the Montreal Canadiens captured second place with a score of 112, while George Gardiner of Detroit Red Wings and Bill Masterton of the St. Louis Blues tied for third place with 116.

The Canadiens won the team title with a four-man score of 484. New York Rangers finished second in the team cup competition with a 493.

The 35-year-old Dornhoefer is an assistant golf professional in Kitchener in the summer.

Big Jack Pockets $50,000

Arnie's Army Fails To Stop Nicklaus

RYE, N.Y. (CP)—Jack Nicklaus, possibly recognized the world's greatest golfer, has conquered almost every obstacle but his still has not won his battle with Arnie's Army.

After pocketing the $50,000 first prize Wednesday in the $250,000 Westchester Classic, he said he doesn't let the army bug him any more, but he still betrays wondering.

"I'm getting used it it," he said. "It's really quite comical.

"I'm out there to play golf. I try to concentrate and ignore them."

The army was out in force for the final round of the world's richest event, which presented Nicklaus, Palmer and Don Sikes in the final and featured threesomes back.

Nicklaus stood off a late rush by Sikes, 36-year-old Jacksonville, Fla., golf gambler, to win his fourth tournament of the year.

Jack had a 72-hole score of 273, 15 under par, while Sikes, who twice putted out and started bogey but came back when rain washed out the rounds Saturday and Sunday, was runner-up at 275.

Rallying from three shots back, Sikes caught Nicklaus with successive birdies at the 11th and 12th but fell back after landing in a trap at the 13th and failed to tie it with a hold 15-foot putt that hit the cut and stayed out of the final hole. He collected $90,000.

The rest of the leaders looked like a Who's Who of golf with Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, the British Open king, third at 274; Gary Player of South Africa, fourth at 275, and Palmer, with a birdie at the final hole, fifth at 276.

At Holiday of Toronto was $179.16 for finishing at 286—even par.

Palmer's fabled army—a stampeding, roiling pack cut from the cloth of the boisterous New York Mets baseball fans—tramped behind their hero and cheered every swing. They groaned in agony when Nicklaus and Sikes picked up strokes.

"I don't appreciate this sort of stuff either," Palmer said afterward. "It's all right when they cheer for somebody. But when they start cheering against players, it's bad."

Nicklaus' victory boosted his official earnings for the year to $136,762—his fifth straight season over the $100,000 mark—and sent him ahead of Palmer in the money list. Palmer's $10,750 for fifth place put him at $126,926.

Cowan Defending Title, Weather Delays Start

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Stymied by rain, wind and flashes of snow, Wednesday competitors tried again today to play the first round of the 57th U.S. Amateur championship.

U.S. Golf Association officials called off the first round Wednesday just as the top score with defending champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., stopped to the first tee.

Thirteen threesomes among the 150 players had started through 13-hole rounds before the postponement. The best score was a 71 by Bill Harris of Brownsboro, N.C.

The best three-hole card, 6 was shot by Fred Seymour Jr., of Lansing, Mich., on the flats side of the 6,946-yard par 35-35 — 70 layout.

Tournament officials said if weather conditions permit playing 18-hole rounds today and Friday, the tournament will wind up Saturday with 36-holer, rather than 18. Medal Gold is the after the first two rounds to the low 50 and ties.

Speedy Streak Hambletonian Winner

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Driver Del Cameron says Hambletonian winner Speedy Streak became within inches of being knocked out of the race Wednesday by a Canadian-owned horse.

Cameron won his third Hambletonian—the premier stake for three-year-old trotters. The victory gave Ill dumore cause a successive 2:00 and 2:01 heats before 25,000 fans in the bel.. race.

In the first mile heat, Speedy Streak beat Keystone Pride by four lengths, one of the biggest winning margins in the 10 years the race has been in Du Quoin.

"In the back stretch of that heat," Cameron disclosed, "Armbro Harold missed by an inch. He's a rebel with me. There was a lot going on behind me all the time and if we had locked . we would have been knocked out of the race. It gave me a scare."

Speedy Streak won the second heat by one length over the gray, Speed Model.

Victory was worth $60,000 and boosted Speedy Streak's total earnings to $94,779.

Keystone Pride took second money of $30,000 with a second and third finish. Speed Model, 3-2, was third for $14,625 and Habitat Hanover, 3-4, fourth for $9,815.

Habitat Hanover, one of two other Canadian entries, is owned by Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont.

Murray Mar, owned by Adrien and Gérard Mimm of St. Augustin, Que., finished sixth in the first heat and 12th in the second. Trainer-driver Marcel Dodie said Murray Mar broke stride in the second heat.

Armbro Harold, owned by Max Webster of Stamford, Ont., finished eighth and sixth in succession.

Carmichael Smashes Own World Records

TOKYO (AP)—Mike Burton of Carmichael, Calif., smashed both the 800-metre and 1,500-metre freestyle world records in winning the 1,500-metre finals in 16:34.6 at the World University Games today.

The 1,500-metre time bettered his own world record of 16:61.6, set in 1966, and his pending mark of 16:34.1 set last month in the United States.

Pushed by another American, Andrew Hrvat of Fullerton, Calif., who won the Silver medal, Burton clocked 9:45.3 for the 800-metre—bettering the existing record of 9:47.4 set in 1966.

Strenk of the University of California, finished the 1,500 metres in 16:43.4 about 15 metres behind Burton, a student at UCLA.

Ahead Of The Pack

Speedy Streak (left), with driver A. Cameron, crosses finish line ahead of the field to win the one-mile Hambletonian Wednesday at the Du Quoin, Ill. Second is Speedy Model (8), centre), and third in this second heat event is Keystone Pride (right).

Computer Assists Aussies

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—The Australians have at least one secret weapon to use against the American defender Intrepid in races for the America's Cup next month.

Emil Christenson, head of the Dame Pattie syndicate, confirmed Wednesday a report that his crew have a computer-like device to aid helmsman Jack Sturock.

The device is designed to take the guesswork out of sailing the 65-foot cup challenger by providing a constant check of the relationship between the trim of the sails and the speed of the boat.

Such factors a wind speed, wind direction and boat speed are fed electronically. The instrument is allegedly more reliable than the types of wind indicators now on the yacht market.

World Golf Field Cut

Prime Minister Latest Withdrawal

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson joined the list of withdrawals Wednesday as rain destroyed pre-tournament activity for the $200,000 world golf championship.

The prime minister was scheduled to participate today at the official opening of the world's richest annual golf tournament, but withdrew and will be replaced by Registrar-General John Turner.

Two touring professionals withdrew Wednesday, bringing to 11 the number who have cancelled plans to challenge for the top prize money of $30,000 over the 7,056-yard, par 36-35—71 Board of Trade layout.

Al Mospert of St. Louis, Mich., withdrew because of a wrist injury and Jim Ferree of Savanah, Ga., moved to the sidelines when illness of an assistant forced him to return to his home club.

Among earlier dropouts was Jack Nicklaus, winner Wednesday of the $250,000 Westchester Classic at Rye, N.Y.

More than half the field of 123 have arrived for the world championship. The remainder are expected by mid-day. The late-comers will get only a quick look at the lush, wet course.

The early arrivals have had a hit-and-miss week of practice rounds and rain severely reduced anticipated fan turnout.

The weather office said Wednesday the outlook for the next few days is for dry, cool weather with temperatures in the low 60s, about 10 degrees below normal.

Most players who have toured the course rate it a severe test, especially if it remains wet.

Among the late arrivals, and a favorite to win the fourth world championship, is Arnold Palmer. The Latrobe, Pa., star who won the first of his 50 tournament wins when he captured the $15,000 Canadian Open at Weston, Ont. in 1955, has twice finished second in this event, in 1964 and 1965.

He did compete last year at Southport, England, where Bruce Devlin of Australia captured top prize.

Expo Deficit Will Be $300 Million

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Daniel Johnson says Expo 67 will have an over-all deficit of $300,000,000 of which the province will pay $100,000,000.

However, visitors to Expo from outside the province were expected to contribute about $61,000,0000 to provincial coffers through sales, alcohol, gasoline and other taxes, he told a press conference Tuesday night.

"Only two per cent of the visitors understand Quebec's direct participation in Expo," Mr. Johnson added. "Expo is presented as a federal project

Trinidad and Tobago to Be Honored

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Eric Williams heads the Trinidad and Tobago delegation today as Expo 67 marks the national day of the two Caribbean islands at the Montreal world's fair.

The prime minister arrived in Montreal from Ottawa Wednesday night and shortly after wards attended a reception and dinner given in his honor by Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal.

The Trinidad and Tobago enclosed steel band will entertain visitors to Expo prior to the formal flag-raising ceremony at Place des Nations and an address of welcome by Pierre Dupuy, commissioner-general of the fair.

Multi-lingual Malaysia Drops English as Official Language

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters) —Malaysians today celebrated the 10th anniversary of their independence and prepared for a major test of it when Malay becomes the country's sole official language Friday.

Observers feared that instead of Malay serving as a unifying force the language will sharpen differences between the Malays —who form 50 per cent of the population—and the country's large Indian and Chinese minority groups.

The 1957 constitution stipulated that by the end of 10 years, English, which stood alongside Malay as an official language, should be dropped.

Some Malays felt the legislation did not go far enough, while other groups felt their own status was threatened.

A major complication has been the multi-language education system with Malays and English government schools and communal Chinese and Indian-language schools. At university level, English has been and will be for some time the main language.

Language legislation still leaves the government with the right to decide to use English, or any other vernacular tongue if it thinks necessary.

It also guarantees English as an official language in the east Malaysia states of Sabah and Sarawak for another 10 years.

Some Chinese also feel that use of Malay will be a hindrance to them.

To add to the problem, there are packets of left-wing activists who may take advantage of such feelings to stir up trouble for their own ends.

Yet most of the leaders in the large Malay and Chinese communities, and Indian-Ceylonese groups recognize that the adoption of Malay as sole official language might well be the way to foster unity in the country.

Schools have been teaching Malay as a compulsory subject since independence.

In the law courts, with a tradition now firmly based on a heritage of English law and English training, the transition will be more difficult than in commerce and it is anticipated that English will continue to dominate for some considerable time.

Quebec Radiologists Talk with Health Dept.

QUEBEC (CP)—Some progress was reported Wednesday by negotiators representing the provincial health department and Quebec radiologists in talks advised at ending their dispute which has resulted in the resignations of about 180 of the province's 206 radiologists.

Representatives of both sides said progress was made on general principles but that discussion of concrete issues has not yet begun.

The radiologists continued to oppose government demands that they accept a set of regulations which would give the health department power to set standards for all aspects of their practice in private clinics. The regulations establish standards for administrative practices and provide for punishment of offenders.

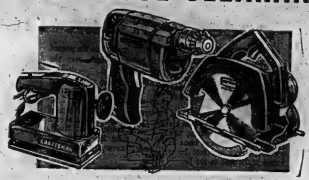
The radiologists are seeking expansion of a system of payments in the Quebec hospital insurance bill which covers x-ray services when made in public hospitals to include the administration of such services in doctors' offices and private clinics.

In addition, the radiologists, supported by cardiologists and laboratory physicians, are demanding fee-for-service payments instead of straight salaries and pay for treatment of patients receiving welfare.

Dr. Hubert Gregoire, secretary of the Association of Radiologists of the Province of Quebec, said in an interview the situation is grim."

He said regular x-ray service has broken down, emergency service is failing and the problem is worsening.

Emergency radiology services were being maintained by a pool of six doctors on 24-hour-a-day call in the Montreal area and a similar system in the Quebec City region.



Dr. Gregoire said radiologists have resigned because they believed the Quebec government was trying to remove their "freedom to practise."

NEED JUNGLE LICENCES

Ontario Taxation Report Recommendations

TORONTO (CP) — Highlights of recommendations of the Ontario committee on taxation released today:

Widespread changes in property taxes, resulting in some taxpayers average of one-third.

Greatly broadened sales tax base, including many services.

More tax room needed from Ottawa or increased income and sales tax and gift tax may be required.

Province-wide reassessment of property needed to reflect current values.

New system of regional governments needed to replace existing counties and districts.

Repeal of sales tax exemption now granted schools, universities, hospitals and municipalities.

Substantially increased unconditional grants to municipalities.

Substantially increased grants to school boards over a three-year period.

Municipalities freed of costs of administering justice.

Province should pay municipal and school tax on first $2,000 of assessed value on all self-contained residential property.

Government properties should pay full municipal and school taxes.

Hospitals and universities should pay full municipal and school taxes with special compensation from province.

Complete overhaul on system of road grants to reflect true costs.

One uniform rate of succession duties, with province to seek full rights in that field.

Gifts of more than $2,000 annually should be taxed.

Changes needed in taxes on mines and forestry industry.

Abolish hospital taxes on amusements and entertainment, taxing them as services.

Lotteries not a good way of raising revenues.

Adding capital gains tax to present system of little value.

Places of worship should be taxed at one-half normal property tax.

Flat fee of $25 for all passenger vehicles.

Report Stresses Need of Revision In Tax-sharing Agreement with Ottawa

the Carter royal commission on taxation, which made public its proposals for reforming the federal tax system last February.

The committee explained it was charged with studying Ontario's existing revenue structure and incorporating any detailed study of the Carter report would have unduly delayed publication of its findings.

Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton quickly announced that Ontario will adopt two of the recommendations starting with the 1968 tax year.

These will see the government take over the costs of administering justice from municipalities, and provide a new basic shelter exemption grant.

Under this grant, the province will pay the municipal and school taxes levied against the first $2,000 of assessed value of every self-contained residential property, whether owned or rented.

The grant will be based on existing assessment, he said.

The committee painted a bleak picture of Ontario's fiscal future if existing federal-provincial tax relations continue unchanged.

It said its proposed relief for municipal taxpayers would have cost $377,000,000 in 1966 if they had been implemented fully then.

The proposed wider sales tax base would have helped bridge this gap, but to finance the recommended changes fully would have meant a six-per-cent sales tax instead of five, an extra one-cent tax on gasoline and an additional tax on personal income equal to eight per cent of the federal basic tax.

By 1973, assuming no new expenditure programs and no new provincial revenues, Ontario's deficit would be $1,000,000,000. Total debt that year would be $6,600,000,000—equal to 22 per cent of the value of all goods and services produced in the province that year.

That debt level would be unacceptable, the committee said.

Faced with provincial and municipal spending rising faster than revenues, Ontario has to negotiate a greater share of joint federal-provincial tax fields, the report said.

If Ottawa did not concede this, the province would have to lack up taxes.

By 1974, unless federal relief comes, the committee estimated that personal income taxes will be 12 percentage points higher, the sales tax will be up to seven per cent, gasoline taxes will be three cents higher and another seven per cent will be added to liquor prices.

Corporation taxes would be increased three per cent and higher taxes would be imposed on insurance premiums, tobacco, estates and mining profits.

Changes in the application of the province's five-per-cent sales tax are seen by the committee as one quick revenue source.

It recommended repealing the sales-tax exemption now granted schools, universities, hospitals and municipalities, and extending the tax to include services ranging from auto repairs to dry cleaning.

Services provided by real estate and security brokers would pay a sales tax, as would places of amusement and entertainment. The existing hospital tax on entertainment and amusements would be lifted, however.

The committee estimated that at the existing rate its broader sales-tax base would have netted an extra $138,000,000 in 1966.

Key sections of the report, however, deal with trying to help the property taxpayer without crippling municipalities.

"If local authority and fiscal responsibility are to be maintained, the property tax must remain the major local tax," it said.

"While some relief can and should be provided through increased provincial grants, the property tax must continue to carry a heavy load."

Recommending that the property tax be made as fair as possible, the committee said hospitals and universities should pay full taxes, as well as provincial properties. Hospitals and universities should be recompensed by the province, however.

Ottawa should be asked to pay grants instead of taxes on all federal crown properties.

To help ease the strain on local school boards, the province should substantially step up its grants, the report said.

During a three-year period, these should increase to 60 per cent of educational costs compared with less than 45 per cent at present.

In recommending a complete reassessment of all property, the committee admitted the job will be costly and time-consuming.

But it was essential to remove discrimination now existing.

While proposing that all property be assessed at 100 per cent of current value, the report suggested a variable percentage of tax for different classes of property.

Working farms would be taxed at 70 per cent of the tax on current value and all residential properties at 70 per cent.

Tax on business properties would be based on 100 per cent of current value, with the levy split equally between owner and occupant. Transportation and communication properties would be exempt.

The report said the proposed business property tax would abolish existing inequities where, for example, a restaurant pays an extra 25-per-cent levy on its assessed value, a department store 50 per cent and a distillery 150 per cent.

The committee strongly urged retaining inheritance taxes, although it exempts them, and introducing a gift tax.

It said that because the inheritance tax is not paid until death, it can help achieve revenue aims "with a minimum deterrent to working and saving during a man's earnings and productive life."

Calling on Ontario to ask Ottawa to vacate the field, the committee recommended that the inheritance tax be based on rates determined by the size of the estate and applied after allowing certain beneficiary exemptions.

A similar schedule of rates would apply to the proposed gift tax.

All gifts totalling $2,000 in one year would be exempt, however, although gifts of over $1,000 to any one person in a year would be liable to tax.

The committee proposed a wholesale tax on mine profits. One would be aimed at covering the cost of payments made by the province to municipalities in lieu of local government taxes on mining and processing properties.

The report estimated the cost of this in 1966 would have been three per cent.

The second would be a straight profits tax, but including allowances for emergency gold-related costs, the first-stage tax, exploration allowances and investment deductions.

Recommending changes in charges on Crown timber lands, the committee said its proposals are designed to encourage operators to do so according with good forest management and to discourage their holding excessive limits which would be available to other operators.

It said the present system of charging ground rent and fire protection levies should be changed to fixed rates based on cubic feet of allowable cut.

The report rejected two frequently mentioned methods of raising revenue—lotteries and capital gains.

It said lotteries are not an appropriate means of raising government money, while a capital gains levy grafted on to the existing tax system would make no significant contribution to equity.

The committee was appointed Nov. 21, 1962. Other members are Eric Hardy, Toronto, a consultant on government; R. Craig McIvor, Hamilton, economics professor; Carl A. Pollock, Kitchener industrialist, and R. Breden Stapells, Toronto lawyer.

During its public hearings it received more than 250 briefs and heard more than 60 submissions.

Republic Steel Increases Price

CLEVELAND (AP)—Republic Steel Corp., the third-largest American steel producer, said Wednesday it has increased base prices on hot rolled and cold finished carbon and alloy bars 1.8 per cent, effective Sept. 7.

Republic listed the amount of the increase, per 100 pounds, as: Carbon and alloy hot rolled bars, including semi-finished, 15 cents; Carbon and alloy cold finished bars, 20 cents.

TSE Rates Increase 11 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange's new commission rates, which will raise average commissions by 11 per cent, go into effect Sept. 1.

The Montreal and Vancouver exchanges also will increase rates by a similar amount Sept. 1.

The Toronto exchange announced its proposed increase in May and it was later approved by the Ontario Securities Commission.

The rates will be lower at some price levels, higher at others.

In issues selling below $1, commissions will be based on the range of prices, but the number of price groups will be increased to 10 from six, making a wider commission base available.

Under the present system, 100 shares traded at $1 to $1.38 a share carries a commission charge of $2.80.

The change would set the commission on the same number of shares of $1 each at $1.75, increasing to $4.47 for a $1.99 stock.

Similar varying ranges will apply to more expensive stocks.

Brokers say they do not expect to lose any business because of the increase.

Child Escapes Serious Injury, Struck by Car

TWEED (Special) — Robert Thurston, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thurston, Isaac St., suffered facial lacerations Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a car on Victoria Street. The lad was taken to Belleville General Hospital for X-ray examination and then released.

The mishap was investigated by Ontario Provincial Police. The driver of the car involved was Wesley Mills of Stoco.

Lotteries Not Good Source Of Provincial Revenue, Claim

TORONTO (CP)—Lotteries as a source of provincial revenue cannot be recommended, the Ontario committee on taxation said today in its report.

While conceding that a lottery "would be a fruitful revenue source through which many citizens and visitors to Ontario would cheerfully contribute the public purse," the committee under accountant Lancelot J. Smith concluded that "little else about a lottery commends itself to us."

"Quite aside from any moral or sociological considerations, the dominant factor in our view is that this type of revenue source lacks any of the grounds of equity which we think should form the basis of a good tax system."

The report noted that in any case lotteries are still illegal under the Criminal Code, and are "notably absent from the Canadian heritage." And proponents of this form of revenue raising "overlook the fact that while the purchase of the ticket is indeed a voluntary act, the government's 'take' of the proceeds is a compulsory levy similar to any tax."

The committee also came out against any "piecemeal grafting of any form of capital gains tax onto our present tax structure" as another alternative means of raising revenue.

Ontario Will Assume All Costs of Justice

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government will assume all the costs of administering justice, and give home owners and tenants a basic shelter exemption grant next year, Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said today.

He told a news conference those two proposals of the Ontario committee on taxation will be adopted in the 1968 tax year without increasing sales or personal income taxes.

To announce a set of decisions for government policy based on the other recommendations of the report would be premature, he said.

"We cannot subscribe to the rather forbidding series of tax changes proposed at the provincial level without time for adequate evaluation."

The government's immediate concern was to ease the burden of municipal taxpayers.

Mr. MacNaughton said the committee's proposal for a basic shelter exemption grant is the most effective way of doing this, since it incorporates a direct reduction of property tax.

Through this grant the province would pay the municipal and school taxes levied against the first $2,000 of provincially equalized current assessed value of every self-contained residential property in Ontario, whether owned or rented.

The recommendation is valued at $377,000,000 in 1966. The maximum amount of taxes borne by any single owner or occupant would be relieved by the grant.

The recommendation is welcomed by municipalities as it provides a form of assistance which the government has been considering for some time," Mr. MacNaughton said.

Jesuits Find Canoe Travel Adventure in Human Relations

OTTAWA (CP)—A Jesuit group retracing the route of 17th century missionaries from Montreal to Georgian Bay has found that travelling by canoe is "an adventure in human relations" as well as hard work.

"When you have six men in a canoe, most of them wet, you need patience and restraint to live together," says Pierre Bolec, a 25-year-old seminary student from Montreal.

"It's a real adventure in human relations and emotions." The group of ordained priests and seminary students from Toronto and Montreal left the Canadian Martyr's Shrine at Midland, Ont., on Aug. 13 for the 550-mile voyage to Expo. They stopped in Ottawa Tuesday night and left Wednesday afternoon after towing their four canoes through the Deschenes rapids here and attending mass at Hull, Que.

"We had hoped in shoot the rapids but there isn't enough water," Mr. Bolec said in an interview.

Mr. Bolec, a Montreal native who has lived in the city all his life, did not join the group until it reached North Bay. As the 24th man, he was supposed to be a spare "but I've been paddling every day since I started."

"One of the regulars ran into trouble with poison ivy during one of the portages."

Their present schedule calls for an arrival at Expo in front of the Christian pavilion Sunday afternoon.

While all the paddlers are Roman Catholic, their trip has acquired an ecumenical air. Along their route they have been getting clergymen of all denominations to sign a scroll bearing the words of a 1637 letter by St. Jean de Brebeuf giving advice to prospective mis-sionaries for New France.

The English translation of the scroll, which will be left at the Christian pavilion at Expo, reads in part:

"The future and brethren whom God shall call to the holy mission of the Hurons ought to exercise carefully forethought in regard to all their hardships, annoyances and perils that must be encountered in making their route. They have the deepest holiness for all ceremonies that may arise."

The present journey has been free of serious perils, except for the poison ivy encounter.

Voyageurs at Government House

Governor-General Michener welcomes the Centennial Voyageurs to the national capital with a reception at Government House. The 10 canoes, representing eight provinces, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon, arrived in Ottawa Tuesday on the last leg of their 3,500-mile trip to Expo. (CP Photo)

Charlotte Whitton in Race? 'They Can Come and Get Me'

OTTAWA (CP)—Charlotte Whitton, the stormy petrel of capital politics, may be a late nominee for the Progressive Conservative leadership.

"Some are talking this way and if they want to get busy and work and nominate me, I've got my credentials and I'll be there," said the former Ottawa mayor and current alderman.

"If some of them want me, they can come and get me," she added.

Miss Whitton, a life-long Conservative, has been accredited as an Ontario delegate-at-large for the leadership convention in Toronto Sept. 5-8.

She figures she has one good qualification for the job:

"I'm six months younger than Dief and about a year older than Mike, and I'm in better shape."

Mr. Diefenbaker will be 72 Sept. 18 and Prime Minister Pearson is 70.

In her usual rapid-fire speaking habit, she says:

"All this youth thing gets me. Consider the 30-34 age group who'll be voting in the next election, because Mike won't wait too long. There are about 1,300,000 of them.

"Now in the 25-29 age range there are about 8,000,000 — and half of these are women. Don't forget that.

"Now then, there are the over 65s. Two million, three hundred thousand of them, nearly double the youth group. And they've had lots of political experience and experience with elections."

As for the Conservative party:

"What we need is a straight right Conservative party . . . We can't go on having middle parties and getting ground to death."

Manning Says PCs Best Able to Change

TORONTO (CP)—E. C. Manning, Social Credit premier of Alberta, said Wednesday at the Canadian National Exhibition that the Progressive Conservative party is in the best position now to formulate a basic and fundamental change in political ideology that could give Canada a brighter future.

Guest of honor for Alberta Day, Mr. Manning told the daily director's luncheon that unless the Conservatives do something now, the ball will pass into the hands of one of the smaller parties or an entirely new political party will be formed.

Increased Productivity Key To Economic Stability--Hees

NORTH BAY (CP)—George Hees said Wednesday that increased productivity and a drive for foreign business must be pushed if Canada's economic stability is to be regained.

Mr. Hees is a former trade minister and one of the nine declared candidates for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party. The leadership convention will be held in Toronto Sept. 5-8.

He told delegates and party supporters that high production costs must be combatted through keeping the costs of government down and thereby lowering taxes which in turn brings about lower costs.

He said the government has adopted a blind, do-nothing attitude while employing tens of thousands of civil servants who have made government costs rise astronomically.

He said he would urge a system of tax incentives to increase production, "making it so attractive that manufacturers couldn't afford not to do it."

He admitted there would be a lost tax benefit in the first year, but the result would be more employment, and "more of everything."

He asked for a greatly intensified trade crusade, not only for industry, but for agricultural products.

Mr. Hees urged a "brand-new look" at the division of taxes to help arrange adequate tax sources for municipalities.

PC Director Invited To Air Any Complaints

TORONTO (CP)—James Johnston, national director of the Progressive Conservative party, has been invited to air any complaints he has about the selection of delegates for the Sept. 5-8 national leadership convention at a meeting here Sunday.

Gene Rheaume, executive secretary to the convention committee, said the invitation to appear before the committee was included in a letter from co-chairman Edwin Goodman, a Toronto lawyer, and Roger Regimbal, a Quebec member of Parliament.

Mr. Johnston had complained that 94 persons who participated in the party's Montmorency, Que., thinkers' conference earlier this month had been added to the list of delegates.

He said no more than 20 from the conference should be accredited.

Mr. Rheaume said about 50 of those who attended the conference would be accredited delegates. The other 44 qualified as ex officio delegates because they had helped organize the convention.

Mr. Rheaume said no official complaint had been received from Laura Mann of Ottawa, a director of the National PC Association who charged Mr. Goodman was packing the list of 80 Ontario delegates-at-large.

Miss Mann resigned in protest from the four-member committee appointed to make Ontario selections.

Committee members have denied the charges and plan no action unless a formal complaint is made.

Quebec Problem Most Immediate

KITCHENER (CP)—Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia said Wednesday that the most immediate problem facing the federal government is working out a relationship between Quebec and English-speaking Canada.

"People in Quebec feel they need adequate powers of government to insure the safety of their way of life," Mr. Stanfield said. "We have to recognize, I think, that they don't feel they have those adequate powers today."

Young Canadians Unpromising Experiment

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba had cutting words Wednesday for the real-estate-racket Company of Young Canadians.

"It has been a rather unpromising experiment," he said in an interview while on a tour of the Maritimes to seek support as leadership candidate for the Progressive Conservatives.

"I think there are better ways of attracting the youth of Canada to participate in national affairs."

Oriental Contemplation

Beatles Will Go to India--to Meditate

LONDON (CP)—The Beatles plan to press ahead with "the meditation thing" by going India to study Hindu mysticism, John Lennon is quoted as saying Wednesday.

After "a couple of months" investigating the methods of Indian think-power, Lennon adds, the pop group hopes to open a thought-academy in London to promote the idea.

Lennon is quoted in an interview published by Disc Magazine.

The Beatles, who with other long-haired pop stars have aroused controversy in the past by declared themselves for hallucinatory LSD, have recently declared themselves to Oriental contemplation instead.

The interest was aroused when Beatle George Harrison went to India last year to study the sitar, a stringed instrument featured on the latest Beatle records. Last weekend, the Beatles and their wives were prominent among disciples who turned out at London's Hilton Hotel and later travelled to Bangor, Wales, to hear Hindu sage Maharesh Yogi.

Movie Column

New Type of Movie Violence Causing Concern in Cities

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In the Dirty Dozen, American servicemen convicts pour gasoline into an underground shelter to incinerate a hundred Nazi officers and their women.

In A Fistful of Dollars, Clint Eastwood picks a quarrel with four town toughs, then plugs each of them off a fence, like targets in a shooting gallery.

In Beach Red, a marine sergeant and a Japanese captain engage in a jungle duel in which the arm of one is broken by a rifle and the stomach of the other is sliced with a knife.

Such scenes typify the new style of film violence that has caused concern in some circles.

In seeking causes for recent U.S. racial riots, a New York Times survey of psychiatrists and psychologists cited among the factors adding to the mood of unrest:

"The accumulation of violence by television, films, newspapers and magazines, and particularly the impression this makes on children."

Dr. Lewis Austad, executive clinical director of the California Educational Centre for the Emotionally Disturbed, says: "There can be no doubt that violence in movies and on television can be very disturbing to the youthful mind, especially of the non-average type.

"Impressions of violence can lead to imitative behavior, just as the popularity of Superman contributed to an increase of accidental suicides of children who thought they could fly like him."

Influential Martin Quigley Jr. editorialized in Motion Picture Herald: "Today, on TV and in too many films, killings are piled on killings, new and extraordinary means are found to kill and maim. An appeal is made to sadism and perversity. Morality and respect for human dignity hardly count."

How did movies get this way? The cause may well be stimulated to James Bond, who caught the public fancy with a new kind of cool killer. A flood of imitators followed, with even more variations of torture and violence.

Depiction of violence in films once was governed by stringent principles in the industry's self-censorship code. But the advent of Jack Valenti as president of the Motion Pictures Association swept away the old code except for a few generalities.

The new provision reads: "Detailed and protracted acts of brutality, cruelty, physical violence, torture and abuse shall not be presented."

The man who applies this yardstick is Geoffrey Shurlock, code administrator. Shurlock doubts the theory that violence on the screen inspires viewers to actual violence. He believes violence as a release for frustrated energies.

"I have violence myself. But as long as the public accepts it, I will have to approve it in films."

Invades Man's World

Erika Winkelman is one of three women who have invaded the man's world of horse racing. She trains a horse for the Jack Warner stable and also acts as a pony girl.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Ron Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Shaw have purchased the Calrae Shoe Store. The new family then be in charge for the past 20 years.

Mr. G. A. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson of Portland, Ont. have been holidaying at his brother Mr. Volney Richardson, Mrs. Richardson and other relatives in this area.

Mrs. Earl Emery and Mrs. Edwin Warren have produced special souvenir booklets of Stirling and the front cover has an old familiar landmark of the famous elm tree.

Mr. Jamie Morrow, organist at St. John's Anglican Church attended a camp choir school at Lyndhurst, Ontario.

Rayne Don Rodgers and Mrs. Rodgers recently observed their silver anniversary with an "at home" party.

The Stirling News - Argus is marking its 88th anniversary with special celebrations this week. The paper was established in 1879 by the late John H. Thompson and throughout the years has served the community well. The present editor is R. L. Hollis.

The annual Rotary Fair and dance was a success under the leadership of the president Dr. Jan Jagczak and chairman of the street fair, Scott Cooke. During the evening 60 children received their swimming awards.

Douglas Patterson, past president of the DMEA spent a few days in Toronto and while there attended a meeting in connection with Expo.

Peter Usman is attending a hockey school in Kingston.

The merchants in the village have provided many bargains for customers during fair week. A centennial parade on Saturday morning and a dance at the Fair Ground in the evening should provide interest for all.

GO IT TOGETHER

NEW HAVEN, Conn (AP)—The Democratic political club of Yale University for men and Vassar College for women are to merge two universities recently announced they were thinking of moving Vassar from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., to New Haven and associating it with Yale.

Brian Epstein Inquest Adjourned to Sept. 8

LONDON (AP)—Clive Evstein has taken over as chairman of the world - million - dollar Beatle company, NEMS Enterprises Ltd., the company announced Wednesday night.

The announcement came shortly after his brother, Brian Epstein, 32, was found dead of an apparent drug overdose. He was buried in Liverpool.

The funeral was a quiet private affair, restricted almost entirely to relatives and a few close friends. In order to ensure maximum privacy, the Beatles did not attend. Epstein, 32, was found dead in bed Sunday afternoon.

An inquest into the death formally opened Wednesday morning but was adjourned until Sept. 8.

Clive Epstein, 30, was unanimously elected chairman of NEMS at a board meeting in London.

To Your Good Health

Do Not Tell Anyone About Epilepsy

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Our son, 4, is under daily medication for control of mild petit mal seizures. Our doctors told us not to divulge his condition to his school or any social organizations as immediately he would be branded an epileptic and perhaps not accepted.

My question is whether he could take swimming lessons. What if a seizure occurred? Could he drown? Also, aren't these seizures chronic, and can only be controlled? Can a child outgrow them as we have been led to believe? — Mrs. T.A.

We have had checked with experts from one of the epilepsy associations and there is one bit of information needed to answer your questions. How is his petit mal controlled? Are the little boy's petit mal attacks now?

It is preferable, they tell me to do as your doctors said: make no mention of his condition at school or other organizations.

If the boy is still having attacks, that is a different matter. The situation will be obvious to people at school and you won't have to tell them nor can you keep it secret.

But assuming that the medication is preventing further attacks, there is nothing to be gained by telling them, and the word "epilepsy" still carries an undeserved reputation that can be harmful.

In fact, experts advise that a child not be told the word epilepsy. It is better to refer to his "dizzy spells" or "fainting spells," as the case may be, or even "convulsions" or "attacks" or epilepsy and the different varieties of it.

As to swimming, there is no reason why he should not learn. Sun and outdoor exercise tend to be helpful instead of the reverse. Let the swimming instructor know, confidentially, of his condition. If there is any possible chance of an attack while in the water, he will know what to do. Please discuss this specific question with your doctors. They know the child's condition.

In talking to the swimming instructor, I dare say it would be better to say that the youngster has had convulsive seizures in the past, and therefore should be watched in case one occurs.

It is not always possible to predict whether a child will "out-grow" petit mal or "small seizures." Sometimes it happens. More often he does not out-grow them, but if medication is now keeping them under complete control, there is every reason to expect that it will continue to do so.

Dear Dr. Molner: I need help. We have six children. When one gets a cold, the rest do. An elderly lady told my wife to cook onions, let the children drink the juice and then use the onions as a plaster on the chest. I say it's a lot of hunk — and you should read the house. Please answer. — Sign me PHEW

And double phew! It won't prevent any colds — except in case you're allergic to onions

Young Families Are Advised To Forget About Buying Home

QUEBEC (CP)—Forget about home ownership, young families were urged Wednesday at an international conference on the family.

Home ownership was described as a trap, luring young couples to a specific spot with mortgages when job promotion demands great mobility.

The suggestion emerged from a workshop discussion at the week-long world convention of the International Union of Family Organizations, where about 600 delegates from more than 30 countries are discussing new families.

The delegates took today off for sightseeing. Sessions resume Friday.

Among ideas tossed around in a workshop on North American housing problems was a suggestion that governments establish free housing just as they have free education.

Stewart Sutton, secretary-general of Canada's Vanier Institute of the Family, asked whether home ownership as a means of investment for the young isn't just a myth.

"The one thing a young family has to be today is mobile," he said. "A lot of us know a lot of people who have become enslaved by their mortgages, by their debts."

A few delegates predicted free housing would come along in the future, with people paying for it through taxation.

Also attacking home ownership for young people was Helen Wastie, a high school teacher from Kirkland Lake, Ont., who called it a big mistake.

"I have seen several young teachers just desperate because they cannot sell their house when they want to move. I know of one who ended up with three mortgages."

She said buying a home also helps create family problems because "often young wives don't want to move because they have a nice new house."

Roland Gaston of the Montreal Institute of the Family urged reduction in mortgage payments during the first 10 years of a mortgage, with payments scaled higher later.

He suggested that mortgage payments be between $45 and $50 a month for the first 10 years when the husband's earning capacity is still developing.

At a news conference Wednesday, conference organizers were asked to comment on criticism that this family conference is unrealistic because of the lack of youth in the delegate ranks.

Lucien Guibourgeau of France president of the International Union of Family Organizations, said critics are "perfectly right" when they say youth is lacking.

But almost all 373 association members from 31 countries who make up the organization kept in close contact with youth in a dialogue at the local level.
